DAVID BOWSER
dbowser@thepampanews.com

Thornberry

U.S. Congressman Mac Thornberry will be in Pampa Saturday morning to hear from his constituents in Gray County.

Thornberry's returning to the 13th Congressional District this weekend to talk to voters in Dumas and Pampa and petroleum engineers in Amarillo.

He'll be in Amarillo and Dumas on Friday and Pampa on Saturday.

At noon, Friday, Thornberry will address the Society of Petroleum Engineers at the Amarillo Club atop the Chase Bank Building concerning the Gulf oil spill off Louisiana, global warming bills in Congress and U.S. energy policy.

"As you know," Thornberry said, "our country is facing some important challenges. Whether it is about jobs, health care, national security or even Social Security, I can do a better job of representing you in Congress if you let me know what you think and what matters to you."

Thornberry will be in the M.K. Brown

Room of the Greater Pampa Area Chamber of Commerce, 200 North Ballard, from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. Saturday.

Joe Weaver, executive director of the Chamber of Commerce, said that he is looking forward to the representative's visit.

"This is at least the second time he's been back to Pampa since I've been here," said Weaver. "Pampa's probably one of the largest communities in his district, and he does well to make sure he hears the people of the town."

"We're always glad to see Representative Thornberry come to town, and we're always appreciative that he is so attentive to his constituency here."

WORKING FOR THE WEEKEND

Preparations for Mud Bog under way

DAVID BOWSER
dbowser@thepampanews.com

At 10 a.m. on Saturday, a truck will drive south from near the old National Guard Armory at Recreation Park and plow through the water and mud of the seventh annual Mud Bog in Pampa.

Nick Harvill, a member of the High Plains Off Road Club that hosts the Mud Bog, admitted earlier this week that the splashing will likely begin earlier than 10 a.m.

The tech check is scheduled for 7 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. Saturday with the drivers' meeting at 9:30 a.m.

"I start running the children's ATV class before 10 a.m.," Harvill said. "The ATV class is for kids 15 and under."

Then there's the factory pickup class, the 33-inch tire super stock class and then there's a super modified class.

"It's pretty radical," Harvill said of the super modified class.

Then there's the 33-inch tire modified class, nitro class and 37-inch tire super stock class.

Each truck will get two runs.

"At the end of the day is when we'll run the guys with the really, really, really big tires," Harvill said. "They guys with the tractor tires."

Harvill said there is one man who comes every year with his 1,200 horsepower rail racer.

"It's like a drag type deal," he said. "It is bad. It's real bad. It's a black rail with lime green

Library set to begin summer reading drive

ARNIE AURELLANO
arnie@thepampanews.com

With the kickoff of its annual Summer Reading Program on the horizon, the Lovett Library is looking to remind kids that the summer months are a great time to enjoy a good book.

The library is inviting kids of all ages to join them during the beginning of each week, when there will be special activities planned for program participants. The program is divided into two age groups: The Summer Book Club for junior high and high school students will meet Tuesday evenings from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m., and the elementary school program will be every Monday from 9:30 a.m. to noon.

Children's librarian Marsha Rollins said that she was excited about the structure of this year's elementary program in particular, which is set up to introduce kids to a new occupation every week.

"Our theme is 'Where reading can take you,' so we're focusing on a different career field each week," Rollins said. "The first week, we're doing 'News and Broadcasting,' and KFDA News Channel 10 is going to be here and they're going to show (the kids) their equipment and talk about how they find their stories and things like that."

"The second week, we're doing 'Sports,' and we'll have some of the high school coaches out here playing different sports. The third week is 'Music,' and we're going to have some of the high school and middle school band teachers let the kids try out different instruments."

Week 4, Rollins continued, will be devoted to farming and ranching, with rancher Robert Douglas bringing a horse to the library for kids to ride.

Groundwater board OK's target aquifer conditions

DAVID BOWSER
dbowser@thepampanews.com

AMARILLO — Following a public hearing on water in secondary aquifers in the Texas Panhandle, members of Groundwater Management Area No. 1 voted to approve the Desired Future Condition of two aquifers and ignore others.

Groundwater Management Area No. 1 covers the Texas Panhandle and includes all of the White Deer-based Panhandle Groundwater Conservation District, of which Pampa is a part.

It also includes all of the Dumas-based North Plains Groundwater Conservation District, all of the Canadian-based Hemphill County Underground Water Conservation District and the northern portion of the Lubbock-based High Plains Underground Water District.

Meeting here Thursday, representatives of the four groundwater districts voted to set the Desired Future Conditions of the Dockum Aquifer, which covers all or part of nine counties in the Panhandle, and the Blaine Aquifer in Wheeler County.

They set the Desired Future Condition of the Dockum Aquifer so that the average water table will not decline more than 30 feet over the next 50 years.

The Desired Future Condition of the Blaine Aquifer was set at retaining 50 percent of the water now in the aquifer for 50 years.

Based on information provided by the Texas Water Development Board, the Joint Planning Committee of Groundwater Management Area No. 1 decided that other aquifers in the area were small enough not to be relevant to the planning process.

Last year, the planning committee set multiple Desired Future Conditions for the primary aquifer in the region, the Ogallala (also known as the High Plains) Aquifer.

Those conditions are being contested by Dallas businessman and Roberts County rancher T. Boone Pickens and Hemphill County oilman and rancher George Arrington before the Texas Water Development Board.

Reading

After skipping Fourth of July week, the reading program then returns with a week dedicated to the medical field, when Accolade Home Care representatives will speak to the kids about nutrition. The program will then be capped off the following week with a focus on emergency services, highlighting local fire and law enforcement agencies.

In addition to the weekly programs, the library will also keep track of the kids' reading progress over the summer.

"We do a reading log that the kids take home that keeps track of how much they read or how much their parents read to them," explained Rollins. "They'll get a prize every week for bringing that back every week. I'm going to be throwing a pool party for our top readers that read the most at the end of the program. We'll also have prizes that we'll be giving out that were donated from local businesses. We'll be giving those out to our top readers."

Rollins said that the program has seen growth in recent years, due in large part to support from Pampa residents.

"Last year, we had I think 250 sign up, and we're expecting an even bigger turnout this year. It's going to be pretty big. It's sort of adapted and turned into something much bigger within the last three years."

"Almost all of our funding comes from the community, and we've had a really great response from the community in giving us donations," Rollins said. "We've put more effort into improving (the Summer Reading Program) and worked a lot with the schools, so I think it's developing into a really good program."

USDA Recovery Act grants available

Temple - Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack has announced 145 investments in 37 states, funded through the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (Recovery Act), that will create jobs and improve needed infrastructure in rural communities across the nation.

Among them is a Texas day care center funded with a $465,000 USDA Rural Development grant.

"These Recovery Act projects not only provide needed infrastructure in rural communities, they contribute to the Obama administration's continued efforts to turn the economy around and create quality jobs," Vilsack said.

USDA Rural Development is proud to assist rural residents by funding community improvement project; that create or preserve jobs in rural areas throughout Texas," said Paco Valentin, USDA Rural Development Texas State Director.

Rainbow Land Day Care Center of Palacios, Inc. will benefit from the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act through a USDA Rural Development grant of $465,000. The funding will be used to build a new 7,500 square foot childcare facility in Matagorda County.

The $167.8 million in Recovery Act projects being announced June 1 are funded through the USDA Rural Development Community Facilities Program and will be matched with $60 million from other sources. Funding of each loan and grant is contingent upon the recipient meeting the conditions of the agreement.

The USDA Rural Development's Community Facilities program helps finance essential community facilities for public use in rural areas. These facilities include child care centers, hospitals, medical clinics, assisted-living facilities, fire and rescue stations, police stations, community centers, public buildings and transportation. Through this program, USDA ensures that such facilities are available to all rural residents. These funds are available to public bodies, non-profit organizations and federally recognized Indian tribes.

More information about USDA Rural Development can be found at www.rurdev.usda.gov. Funding of individual recipients is contingent upon their meeting the terms of the loan or grant agreement.

Texas Outdoor Family Program celebrates a milestone

AUSTIN — The Texas Outdoor Family experience begun in fall 2008 will soon be sharing an outdoor adventure with their 1000th family. To celebrate the milestone, the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department is releasing a new schedule of dates for the coming cooler season.

The Texas Outdoor Family is continuing to provide family-friendly fun at state parks throughout Texas. The overnight weekend workshops are intended to introduce camping skills and other types of exciting outdoor recreation to participants of all skill levels and backgrounds. An Outdoor Family workshop provides campers with all of the assistance from experienced staff and essential gear they need. Essentials include stoves, lanterns, tents and much more so that you can comfortably enjoy one of Texas' 93 state parks. Suddenly camping has been made easy, even for the beginner.

"What is especially great about the diversity of Texas state parks," says Robert Owen, a ranger with the Outdoor Family program, "is that no two workshops are ever the same. We take advantage of each park's unique resources and explore all sorts of outdoor recreation, such as fishing, kayaking, Dutch oven cooking and geocaching."

"Geocaching is basically a high-tech scavenger hunt that anyone can be a part of," Owen explains. "Something called a cache is hidden in the park, frequently in a scenic area. Then, participants are provided with a set of coordinates and a GPS unit to lead them to the treasure. Both kids and parents alike love the adventure."

The workshops cost $55 per family (up to six people), with the cost covering park entry, campsite rental, quality restrooms, professional park ranger-led programs and instruction, a family friendly environment, a specially designed curriculum tailored to each state park, a state park Junior Ranger certification program, and most importantly, all of the quality camping equipment needed for the night. All that campers need to bring are sleeping bags or bedding, personal items, and food and drinks. To make sure nothing is left at home, a list of suggested items to bring is also provided.

Twenty-seven new fall workshops have just been announced and will continue through November. Sign up quickly to get a reservation at your local state park or discover a different park and make it a new family favorite. For further details visit the TOF website at <http://archive.tpwd.state.tx.us/learning/bof/> or search for the "Texas Outdoor Family" on Facebook to see what other families are saying, and view the pictures from past events.

"We are particularly proud of the diversity of our participants and our excellent state park system," says Chris Holmes, Texas State Park's outdoor education coordinator. "Family" can be a relative word so we encourage groups of all sorts to join us. Extended families, groups of friends, scout groups, adults without children, and more are all welcomed. Everyone is welcome to attend the program and once you take the leap, you'll be hooked forever.

"We need to reconnect people to the outdoors, regardless of who they are," adds Holmes. "Kids especially need to spend some time away from the computer and television. Teens today are spending less than 10 minutes a day enjoying and exploring the outdoors. The perception is that camping is old, boring, or dangerous, and we're here to change that. Give us one night at a state park and we think we'll have you coming back again and again."

One Texas Outdoor

Family graduate said after attending the program at Brazos Bend State Park: "I personally had a fear of camping, but I truly had a great time! My kids also had a great time and didn't want to leave! It was a fantastic family experience and we will definitely camp again."

A new sponsor will support the Texas Outdoor Family program this fall. Texas-based Igloo Corporation has joined forces with Toyota and TPWD to help provide this opportunity to all Texans. Venture out and see what is happening at a park near you.

Families can register by calling (512) 389-8903 between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. and speaking to a Texas Outdoor Family representative or by sending an e-mail to: tofsp@tpwd.state.tx.us. After registration, a confirmation packet with details will be sent.

lettering. It is nice." Harvill said he expects to have some good trucks at the event.

"I've got some pretty gnarly trucks scheduled to come out," Harvill said. "We ought to have some pretty good competition out there and some pretty good entertainment."

Spectators are free. There is a $30 entry fee for vehicles. They accept entries up to 9:30 a.m. Saturday. There are nine classes of vehicles with first, second and third place trophies.

"I think we're really going to have a good turn out," Harvill said.

He admitted that there's some hard work getting ready for the annual event.

"A little bit goes into it than what meets the eye," Harvill said.

The weather promises to be clear and warm Saturday.

Last year, Harvill said, it rained, but there was still a good turn out.

"As far as the racers went," he said, "we had the most race trucks that we've ever had last year."

He expects more this year.

"We just try to top ourselves every year," Harvill said. "We're a tight knit group and that's what makes it work."

The High Plains Off Road Club has done a lot work at Recreation Park.

"We put up a lot of new fence," Harvill said.

The club also removed the old dirt hill near the trench they dug for the mud bog.

"It had pieces of concrete and asphalt hanging out of it," Harvill said. "We went out there and took a dozer hauled all that off and leveled it out. It looks real good without all that junk being there."

He said that Saturday will offer more than trucks splashing in the mud.

"We're going to have the Hoover Volunteer Fire Department," Harvill said. "They're going to be driving around squirting water on people, but we're going to give everybody a warning so Grandma won't get her hair wet."

He said several Pampa businesses will be giving away door prizes. There will be homemade ice cream.

"We'll have the cancer society out there," Harvill said. "They're going to be doing our sound system."

The money from the Mud Bog goes to local charities, he said.

"ERF Wireless is going to do a live feed over the internet," Harvill said, "for the people who aren't able to make it out. You can watch it at home."

The link is www.erf-wireless.net/pampamudbog.

"We'll run 'em until they're done," Harvill said. "If it takes until Monday, we'll stay there and get 'er done."

Pampa finishes 7-on-7 passing tournament 1-1-1

Pampa split three games in a 7-on-7 passing tournament Thursday at Harvester Field.

Dumas and White Deer participated in the tournament. Pampa and Dumas started the evening. Pampa scored first when Reid Miller connected with Latigo Collins from approximately 10 yards out. Pampa converted the one-point pass to lead 7-0. After Dumas failed to score, Pampa's next possession ended with an interception when Dumas' Robert Arzola out-leaped Olin Boyd. Dumas got on the scoreboard when Clayton Baker completed a touchdown pass to Aaron Mendoza. The extra point pass was incomplete and Pampa still led 7-6.

Pampa increased its lead when Miller threw to Garrett Ericson and connected with him again on the extra point making it 14-6. Dumas scored on the first play from scrimmage as Baker connected with Decanian Trejo. The extra point failed and Pampa led 14-12 at halftime.

At the start of the second half, Miller completed a 25-yard pass for a touchdown to Collins. The extra point was intercepted, but Pampa increased its lead to 20-12. Baker completed a four-yard pass to Slayton Hatley for a touchdown and after a failed extra point Pampa only led 20-18.

Pampa scored their final points of the game when Miller threw his fourth touchdown pass to Collins. After a successful two-point pass Pampa led 28-18.

Baker threw touchdowns to Andreas Baskiu and Mason Bray to lead Dumas to a 32-28 victory. Bray caught a three-yard pass as the half expired.

Miller said it was different throwing to the varsity receivers but things are going well.

"It's a lot different than junior varsity," Miller said. "We have good chemistry going at the moment."

Senior wide receiver Garrett Ericson said Miller has stepped right in.

"You think after losing an all-district quarterback like Alex (Clendening) there would be a layoff," Ericson said. "There hasn't been a layoff. He's (Miller) picked up where he's left off."

Pampa's last two contests were against White Deer. Pampa won the first game 14-6. Miller threw a touchdown pass to Ericson and Trent Carter returned an interception for a score. Pampa and White Deer tied the final contest 14-14.

Pampa scored first when Miller completed a six-yard pass to Collins and converted the one-point pass.

White Deer got within one on a touchdown and failed one-point pass. Ericson caught a 25-yard pass and a successful one-point conversion, increased Pampa's lead to 14-6. White Deer scored the last touchdown on a two-yard pass and converted the two-point pass to tie the game.

Ericson said the team has played well so far but they need to hustle more.

"That's why we are playing 7-on-7, to work on our hustling and get prepared for the upcoming season," Ericson said.

Pampa will compete in a state-qualifying tournament in Wellington June 12.

Olin Boyd (10) tries to haul in a first half pass as a White Deer defender tries to knock it away Thursday at Harvester Field. Boyd didn't come down with the ball as the first half ended. Pampa won 14-6 and tied 14-14 in two games.

Obama returns to Gulf Coast sites

WASHINGTON (AP) — Determined to project both command and compassion, President Barack Obama is returning to the Louisiana coast for a fresh look at work to stanch the oil spewing into the Gulf of Mexico and the spiraling effects of the nation's worst environmental disaster. The president underscored the mounting political implications by abruptly canceling plans for a trip to Indonesia and Australia later this month.

Addressing a crisis that threatens to undermine his presidency, Obama spoke for many Thursday in declaring himself furious at a situation that "is imperiling an entire way of life and an entire region for potentially years." Friday's trip will be his second to the Gulf in eight days, answering critics in both parties who suggest he has seemed detached from the crisis.

Polls show the public growing more negative toward the president's handling of the spill.

White House spokesman Robert Gibbs announced late Thursday that Obama was scrapping his foreign trip — which already had been postponed — "to deal with important issues, one of which is the oil spill."

Obama had a sensitive political decision to make: Risk putting off two allies in a strategic part of the world once again, or endure all the inevitable backlash of being on the other side of the world during a crisis at home.

The domestic agenda proved dominant.

Prime Minister Kevin Rudd of Australia and the president of Indonesia, Susilo Bambang Yudhoyono, both said through spokesmen they were disappointed but understood it was necessary for Obama to stay home and deal with the crisis.

While in Louisiana, Obama planned to meet with Coast Guard Adm. Thad Allen, who is overseeing the response effort, and with state and local officials, then visit with residents of the small barrier island community of Grand Isle, where oil is washing up on beaches and lives have been upended by the spill.

The president's trip comes as engineers with British oil company BP worked to settle a funnel-like cap over the deep-sea leak to try to collect some of the crude now fouling four states. The cap started pumping oil and gas to a tanker on the surface overnight, but it wasn't clear how much, and crude continued to spew.

In an interview Thursday with CNN's Larry King, Obama expressed dissatisfaction with the pace of BP's reaction, saying, "What I haven't seen as much as I'd like is the kind of rapid response."

His administration on Thursday handed the company a $69 million bill for recovery costs to date — a figure sure to grow in the weeks and months ahead.

The president visited the Gulf region twice in May, and Friday's visit surely will not be his last, as the president tries to show he's staying on top of the situation, without getting in the way.

"You never want to take resources away from the response and recovery efforts, so we're certainly mindful of that," Gibbs said. "At the same time ... I think he'll go as often as he thinks that is productive in aiding those response efforts."

TAKS test grades improve

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A higher percentage of public high school students passed the test required for graduation this year than last year, the Texas Education Agency announced Thursday.

Passing rates also improved for students in the third through fifth grades and the seventh through 11th grades who took the state's standardized test, and high school juniors also showed improvement, according to a TEA statement.

The agency said nine of 10 seniors who took the Texas Assessment of Knowledge and Skills this year passed, compared with an 86 percent passing rate last year.

However, the agency said the passing rate for those in the sixth and eighth grades fell slightly due to toughened passing standards.

The new standards, called vertical-scale adjustments, allow a grade-to-grade comparison of student's scores to measure the student's academic growth.

"These test results provide proof that students and teachers worked hard this year and that the reforms we have implemented are working," said Education Commissioner Robert Scott.

"If graduation rates improve as the TAKS scores did, we should be on track to see a rise in recognized and exemplary accountability ratings for high schools later this summer," he said.

Among eighth-graders, 91 percent passed the reading test and 80 percent passed the math exam. Eight-graders must pass the tests to advance to high school. The math result was an improvement over last year, but the reading test results were a 2-point drop from last year because of the raised passing standards, according to the TEA.

Sixth-graders had a passing rate of 86 percent on the reading test and 82 percent on the math exam. The math result was a 1-point improvement over 2009, but the TEA said the tougher passing standards resulted in a 5-point drop in the passing rate on the reading test.

Fifth-graders must pass the reading and math tests to advance a grade. The TEA says 85 percent passed the reading test on the first try, while 86 percent passed the math without needing a retake. Among those who took the test in Spanish, 73 passed reading and 44 percent passed math.

The earliest test administered, those for third-graders, showed a 92 percent passing rate for reading and 86 percent for math.

Nuke dump funding vote appealed to TX high court

BETSEY BLANEY
Associated Press Writer

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Two West Texas sisters opposed to a new radioactive dump site are asking the state's highest court to reverse the results of an election that narrowly approved $75 million in bonds for the project.

Peggy and Meloyde Pryor filed their appeal Wednesday to the Texas Supreme Court.

The bond referendum, held in May 2009, allows Andrews County to borrow to build the nuclear waste disposal site for Waste Control Specialists.

The bond issue was approved by a three-vote margin, and a recount verified the 642-639 vote. The Pryors unsuccessfully challenged the balloting, and an El Paso appeals court upheld that outcome last month.

Andrews County attorney John L. Pool said he believes the high court will deny the Pryors' appeal.

"Every step of the process, every judge who has reviewed this case has ruled the same way," he said. "The election was conducted properly and all the votes were legal."

The Pryors contend there were errors or omissions on about 90 voter-registration cards among those who cast ballots.

David Rogers, the Pryors' Austin attorney, said some cards had incomplete signatures, some had left unanswered questions concerning U.S. citizenship and others didn't show the relationship of someone who signed on behalf of the person registering to vote.

"I think it's a very important, and ... it affects the integrity of every election in Texas," he said. "If the ruling from the 8th Court of Appeals stands, illegally registered voters all over the state of Texas will be able to illegally affect elections and no one will be able to do anything about it."

The Pryors' effort is supported by the state chapter of the Sierra Club and other environmentalist groups.

Dallas-based Waste Control Specialists, which was issued a low-level radioactive waste disposal license last year by the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality, already stores the material at the site about 30 miles west of Andrews and 370 miles west of Dallas.

Company spokesman Chuck McDonald said county officials took final steps to issue the bonds last month.

He and Pool questioned the Pryors' motives, saying they believe the appeal was a delay tactic. McDonald called it "comical."

"It just goes on and on," he said. "The facts never change and the outcome never changes."

A commission that oversees a low-level radioactive waste-disposal compact between Texas and Vermont is scheduled to meet June 12 in Andrews and could vote to accept material from three dozen other states.

Tips, programs to save on summer energy bills

AMARILLO — Xcel Energy customers are using more power to cool their homes and businesses as the outside temperatures climb, but it's still possible to hold down costs by adopting some smart energy habits and taking advantage of energy-saving tools offered by the company.

Xcel Energy provides tips and tools on saving energy through its website, xcelenergy.com. And for the second year, the company is offering the Saver's Switch program in Amarillo and Lubbock that offers credits of $50 or more to customers who allow control switches to be placed on central air conditioning and electric water heating units.

By selecting the residential option at xcelenergy.com, customers can access several tools and publications that empower them to maximize energy usage and save money. One tool is the Home Energy Analyzer that helps customers gauge the energy efficiency of their homes and discover how their estimated energy costs compare to homes of a similar size in the area.

The residential page also includes a link to Microsoft Hohm, a free online application to help customers better understand home energy usage and get recommendations to conserve energy while saving money.

A sampling of the tips available are:

- Turning up air conditioner thermostats to 85 degrees when homes and offices are empty.
- Keeping the thermostat setting at 78 degrees or higher when people are at home or at work.
- Turning off air conditioning on cooler days.
- Unplugging appliances and electronics that aren't in use.
- Putting off high-energy chores such as clothes washing and drying, cooking and dishwashing until after 7 p.m.

For customers in Amarillo and Lubbock who want to save more on their electricity bills, the Saver's Switch program offers incentives for allowing the company to cycle air conditioning compressors and water heaters on hot days in an effort to reduce electric demand.

At the request of the customer, an Xcel Energy contractor will install switches on central air conditioning units that receive a signal from the company to cycle the compressor on and off in 15-20-minute intervals. The switches are only operated on hot days when energy supplies are tight, and fans on the controlled units continue to operate even when the compressor is switched off.

Residential customers receive credits of $50 for each central unit enrolled in the program, as well as a $15 credit for allowing a switch to be placed on one electric water heater. Credits appear on October bills. Commercial customers receive credits of $20 per ton on of air conditioning capacity.

The Saver's Switch program is still limited to Amarillo and Lubbock, but the company is hoping to expand into New Mexico later in the year. Saver's Switch is a voluntary program, and some restrictions apply. For more information on Saver's Switch, or to receive energy-saving tips through the mail, contact Xcel Energy at 1-800-895-4999.

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: I am in my 40s and have never lost anyone close to me. Unfortunately, my darling mother-in-law has terminal cancer. I am now preoccupied that people's spirits are near us after they die.

Please don't laugh, but it gives me the creeps. I don't want to think my mother-in-law will watch me making love with my husband, that my father will watch me in the bathroom, or that my mother will be critical of my spending more time with my kids than cleaning the house as she did.

Am I crazy to think I might not have any privacy after my loved ones die? — SPOOKED IN SPOKANE

DEAR SPOOKED: Calm down. The departed sometimes "visit" those with whom their souls were intertwined, but usually it's to offer strength, solace and reassurance during difficult times. If your mother-in-law's spirit visits you while you're intimate with her son, it will be only to wish you and her son many more years of closeness and happiness in your marriage.

As to your parents, when they travel to the hereafter, I am sure they'll have more pleasant things with which to occupy their time than spying on you. So hold a good thought and quit worrying.

DEAR ABBY: I have a question regarding gift giving. If you receive a gift of clothing (with a receipt) from someone and the garment doesn't fit, is it your responsibility to exchange it, or should you return it to the gift-giver, explain that it's the wrong size and ask the person to return it?

I gave my sister an outfit that didn't fit her. She immediately gave the gift back and asked me to return it. — LORI IN FOUNTAIN VALLEY, CALIF.

DEAR LORI: It is the recipient's responsibility to return the item. That way she (or he) can be sure the replacement will be the right size, the right color or the right style. To give you your gift back and expect you to take responsibility for it was presumptuous.

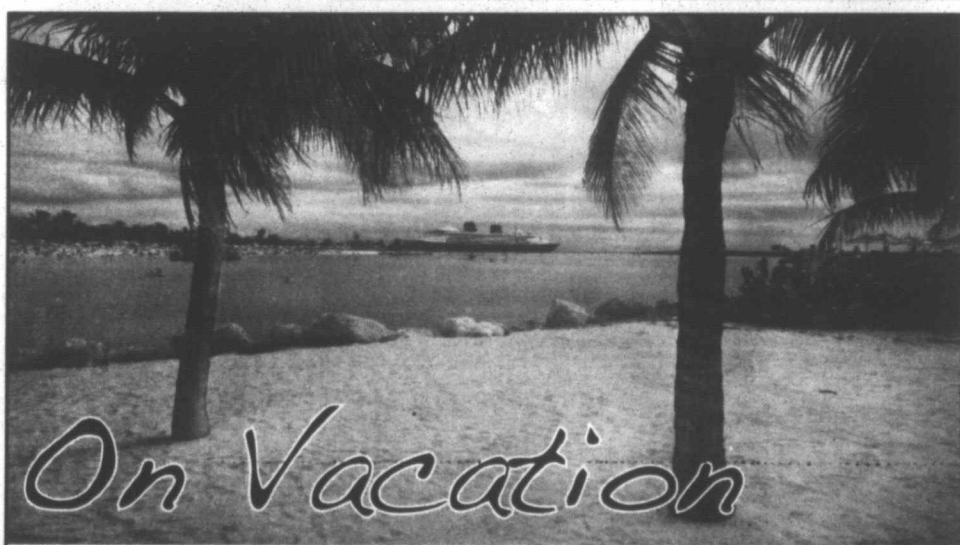

DEAR ABBY: A friend of more than 40 years, "Myra," delivered a letter to my physician outlining her observations of what she claims were "changes" in me. I was called into my doctor's office to respond.

Myra has also told me I should see a psychiatrist. I am disappointed that a friend would say these things about me, and I don't think she should have contacted my doctor without telling me. I have asked others if they have noticed any dramatic changes in me and no one else has.

Myra may have my best interests at heart, but I am upset about this, to say the least. Am I wrong to feel that she has overstepped her boundaries? — PERFECTLY FINE IN OHIO

DEAR PERFECTLY FINE: Your friend must have been extremely concerned about you to have taken the step she did. And I wish you had mentioned in your letter WHY she thinks you should see a psychiatrist. If you have no family nearby with whom she could discuss her concerns, it's possible that she did what she did out of love for you, so please try to forgive her.

P.S. Was what she did out of character for her? If so, consider discussing it with her family — or physician.
