Grandview-Hopkins ISD to talk taxes

THE PAMPA NEWS

The Grandview-Hopkins Independent School District will hold a public meeting at 7 p.m. on Aug. 24 at the Grandview-Hopkins ISD board room in Groom to discuss the school district's budget that will determine a new tax rate to be adopted.

According to the public meeting notice, the district's new budget will see a 7.1 percent decrease in the amount budgeted for maintenance and operations. The proposed tax rate for maintenance and operations stands at $0.97 per $100, which stands unchanged from the previous year.

Monday meetings for County, City Commission

DAVID BOWSER
dbowser@thepampanews.com

It's going to be a busy Monday in local government.

Both the City Commission and the County Commission are scheduled to meet on Monday, a regular meeting for the County and a special meeting called by the City to review a new proposed budget.

City Manager Richard Morris told The Pampa News on Wednesday that a special meeting this coming week would be likely after the city office reexamined the upcoming year's budget.

The meeting will take place at 4 p.m. in the City Commission Chamber of City Hall.

The meeting's agenda lists a resolution evidencing "the City Commission's intention to adopt a proposed Tax Rate of $0.65 per $100.00 of valuation on taxable property."

A similar resolution was on this past Tuesday's City Commission agenda, as Morris and City Finance Director Robin Bailey had drafted a balanced budget taking a 65-cent tax rate into account.

That resolution, however, was rejected following discussion among the commissioners regarding possible ways to avoid such a tax increase.

The city's current property tax rate stands at 62.693 cents per $100 valuation.

A resolution setting the dates and times of public hearings on the new tax rate is also on the City's agenda.

The City must complete its new budget by the end of September, to coincide with the beginning of the new fiscal year on Oct. 1.

Financial matters are also on the County's radar, as the budget for the 2011 fiscal year also appears on the Gray County Commissioner's Court agenda.

The agenda for Monday's 9 a.m. meeting at the Gray County Courthouse also includes, among others, budget amendments, reports from the treasurer and county clerk, the consideration of voluntary employee benefits through Conesco and an engagement letter from Doshier, Pickens and Francis for an external audit for the fiscal year ending on Sept. 30.

Helen Louise Peirson Graham of Pampa went into the arms of her Lord and Savior Jesus Christ August 9, 2010, in Amarillo, TX. Graveside services will be held Friday, August 13, 2010, at 10:00am in Eastlawn Memorial Park in Early, with Tracy Ebarb, of Union Presbyterian Church, officiating. Arrangements were made through Davis Morris Funeral home in Brownwood.

Mrs. Graham was born September 1, 1917, in Electra, Texas, to Frederick Cleveland and Kate Ralston Peirson. The Peirson family occupied the same home in Brownwood for 75 years and Helen, as well as her siblings, graduated from Brownwood High School. She married Vernon Yule Graham on September 25, 1937 in Brownwood, Texas.

Helen, the wife of a teacher/administrator, worked without pay as a school secretary in Sierra Blanca, Estelline, and Woodson schools. The Grahams then moved to Graham, Texas, where Helen worked at Graham High School from 1957 to 1961. A teaching position for Vernon at Pampa High School brought them to the Texas panhandle. Helen went to work for Bruce and Sons Moving Company, and was President of the local chapter of American Business Women's Association when she received the Woman of the Year award in 1967.

Helen was preceded in death by her parents and husband, as well as three sisters, Mary Jane McClung, Betty Jo Allgood, and Dorothy Jean Brogdon, and two brothers, Jack Leroy Peirson and Fred Laverne Peirson.

CLARIFICATION

The five cent tax rate for the Clarendon College Pampa Center reported in Monday's The Pampa News ("County Commissioners approve Clarendon budget") is the tax rate approved by voters last year. It is not an increase of five cents. The tax rates later in the story are with regard to county taxes, not Clarendon College's tax district.

Richardson opposes chimps' move

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Gov. Bill Richardson is meeting with officials of the National Institutes of Health next week to object to a planned move of chimpanzees from a former medical research lab in southern New Mexico.

The governor wants the NIH to permanently retire the chimps and make the Alamogordo Primate Facility a sanctuary for the animals.

The NIH plans to move the chimps to the Southwest National Primate Research Center in San Antonio, Texas, where they can be used for medical experiments.

More than 200 chimps are at the New Mexico facility, but no longer are subject to medical testing.

A federal contract with a private company to care for the chimps in New Mexico is expiring.

Board refuses clemency petition

HOUSTON (AP) — The Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles has refused a clemency petition from condemned killer Peter Cantu, set to die next week in Huntsville for a notorious 1993 double rape-slaying in Houston.

Maria Ramirez, clemency director for the parole board, said Friday the panel voted 7-0 to reject Cantu's request that his death sentence be commuted to life.

The 35-year-old Cantu was one of five young gang members condemned for killing 14-year-old Jennifer Ertman and 16-year-old Elizabeth Pena. A sixth, 14 at the time, got a 40-year prison term.

Cantu is set to die Tuesday evening. Two from the gang he led already have been executed and two had their death sentences reduced to life when the U.S. Supreme Court banned execution of people under 18.

'Fat Little Girlfriends' recipes gone

LUBBOCK (AP) — Organizers of "Fat Little Girlfriends," a cookbook that stems from a comment by former Texas Tech coach Mike Leach, are looking at pursuing legal remedies after someone deleted more than 200 recipes from the publishing company's Web site on Thursday.

The site was not hacked, however. A username and password were posted on a discussion board on the group's Facebook page.

Proceeds from sales of the cookbook will fund a scholarship at Tech in Leach's name, he said.

Leach, fired late last year amid allegations he mistreated a player with a concussion, chastised his players for listening to their "fat little girlfriends" last season after the Red Raiders lost 52-30 at home to Texas A&M.

Bellevue bills stink even more now

BELLEVUE, Wash. — Paying bills usually stinks, but gas bills from a utility in Washington state will include something truly odorous this month: the stench of rotten eggs.

As part of a safety campaign, Puget Sound Energy is including a scratch-and-sniff pamphlet with its billing statements to remind customers of what leaking gas smells like.

Natural gas is odorless, but providers add a chemical to the gas that has a distinctive, sulfur-like aroma similar to rotten eggs so leaks can be detected.

DALLAS (AP) — A person who sent threatening letters containing suspicious white powder to several U.S. embassies and governors' offices two years ago recently sent 30 more such letters to churches, mosques and aeronautical and technical businesses in Texas, Illinois and Massachusetts, federal officials said Friday.

The most recent batch of envelopes, which were sent from Aug. 5 up to Friday, contained a powder shown to be nontoxic and a single typewritten sentence in English that is unclear in meaning but that mentions al-Qaida, FBI Special Agent Mark White said. He declined to elaborate on the wording.

"Nobody understands what they're trying to say," White said Friday. "The message itself is unclear. But by taking that extra step and putting that white powdery substance in there, yes it's considered a threat."

Twenty-five of the letters were sent to addresses in the Dallas area, and the other five were sent to locations in Austin, Lubbock, Chicago and Waltham, Mass., according to the FBI and U.S. Postal Inspection Service. They were postmarked in northern Texas.

"The letters all have the same postmarks, the same content and similar return addresses that lead us to believe they are coming from the same person or persons," White said. Businesses receiving the letters all seem to be in the aeronautics or tech industries, he told The Associated Press.

FBI investigators believe the same person or group has sent more than 250 such letters since December 2008, including a batch sent in December 2008 to eight U.S. embassies and many governors' offices.

Authorities are offering up to $100,000 for information leading to the arrest and prosecution of those responsible.

Also Friday, an Internal Revenue Service office in Philadelphia was briefly evacuated after a suspicious envelope was found. Police said the envelope contained a vial with a plastic bag over it, but tests showed no harmful materials were inside. The office reopened a few hours later, authorities said.

White said the Philadelphia letter was not related.

Obama signs border security bill into law

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Barack Obama on Friday signed a bill directing $600 million more to securing the U.S.-Mexico border, a modest election-year victory that underscores his failure so far to deliver an overhaul of immigration law.

The new law will pay for the hiring of 1,000 more Border Patrol agents to be deployed at critical areas, as well as more Immigration and Customs Enforcement agents. It provides for new communications equipment and greater use of unmanned surveillance drones. The Justice Department gets more money to help catch drug dealers and human traffickers.

But the bill fell short by the standards Obama has set for dealing with the immigration problem. In a speech last month Obama reiterated his commitment to a comprehensive approach that would secure the border but also address the 11 million illegal immigrants already in the country.

"Our borders are just too vast for us to be able to solve the problem only with fences and border patrols," the president said then. "It won't work."

Obama signed the bill Friday in a low-key Oval Office ceremony alongside Homeland Security Secretary Janet Napolitano. There were cameras present, but no reporters. The action came a day after the Senate convened in special session during its summer recess to pass the bill.

Napolitano said later: "This bill is clearly another step forward on border security, on top of the significant progress that the administration has already made. It is one of the many tools in the toolbox we have constructed along the border."

In a sluggish economic summer, no easy fix ahead

JEANNINE AVERSA
AP Economics Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Reserve has little power left to lift the economy out of its rut. Congress, with an election looming, has no appetite for more stimulus. Shoppers are reluctant to spend, and businesses are slow to hire.

Let's face it: There is no easy or imminent fix for the flagging recovery.

The sluggish economic summer wore on Friday with news that Americans spent less at most retail stores in July. Earlier this month came word that the trade deficit is ballooning and companies are not adding jobs fast enough to bring down unemployment.

Typically, the Fed can lower interest rates to encourage Americans to borrow money and spend it, invigorating the economy. But the benchmark interest rate controlled by the Fed has been almost zero for more than a year now.

The Fed this week took a new step by announcing it would use the proceeds from its huge portfolio of mortgage securities to buy government debt. The idea is to make cheap credit a little cheaper, particularly for things like mortgages.

The problem there: Americans who are worried about their jobs, not to mention volatility in the stock market, don't want to borrow. They saved 6.2 percent of their disposable income this spring. Before the recession, it was more like 1.2 percent.

"You can't force people to take out a loan or spend money that they don't want to spend," says Alice Rivlin, who served as the Fed's No. 2 official in the late 1990s. Sure, the Fed still has options. It could launch another trillion-plus-dollar program to buy government debt or mortgage securities like it did when it was battling the recession and financial crisis.

But the Fed is unlikely to commit that much money unless things get a lot worse. Plus there are risks. Regulators don't want to push interest rates on mortgages so low that they encourage speculative buying, like the kind that inflated the housing bubble.

Or the Fed could cut to zero the rate it pays banks to keep money parked there, a move aimed at getting banks to lend more. But banks are not exactly feeling free with their cash, either.

"It's a pervasive level of uncertainty that people and businesses feel about their economic futures," says Ken Mayland, president of ClearView Economics. "It's frozen them into inactivity."

Congress has the power to regulate the economy by adjusting tax rates and passing stimulus programs — the side of the equation known as fiscal policy, as opposed to the Fed's monetary policy.

But there is little interest on Capitol Hill to undertake a major new stimulus effort. The midterm elections are less than three months away, and Republicans and Democrats alike fear voters are worried about the federal budget's $1.4 trillion — and rising — deficit.

A scholar of the Great Depression, Fed chief Ben Bernanke has warned Washington policymakers not to repeat mistakes made during the Great Depression by pulling in government stimulus too quickly.

Bernanke also suggested recently that extending the Bush tax cuts, at least for a while, would be "one way" to "maintain a reasonable degree of fiscal support — stimulus — for the economy."

But Democrats and Republicans are divided on what to do. Most Republicans want to make permanent the tax cuts enacted under President George W. Bush in 2001 and 2003. That would amount to nearly $3 trillion over the next decade. Democratic leaders want the cuts for the wealthiest Americans to expire.

That leaves the work of jump-starting the economy for the time being to everyday Americans and businesses, who can spend money and accelerate the cycle of growth. But both are in a frugal mood.

Mortgage rates have sunk to record lows: Rates on 15-year mortgages dropped to 3.92 percent this week, 30-year mortgages to 4.44 percent. Still, people aren't scrambling to buy homes or refinance the ones they already have.

Businesses, meanwhile, are sitting on a record $1.84 trillion pile of cash, according to the Fed. They aren't using the money to expand operations or hire new workers because they, too, have doubts about the strength of the economic recovery.

The economy grew at a 2.4 percent pace in the second quarter, about half as fast as it was growing late last year. And it may turn out, as the manufacturing sector is hurt by declining exports, that growth right now is even slower than we think.

And the stock market, which had managed a significant rally in July, is now absorbing the blow of the economic pessimism. The Dow Jones industrial average fell this week from about 10,700 to about 10,300.

The key, says former Fed governor Randall Kroszner, is making people feel more comfortable and confident that their jobs are secure, and that the values of their homes and 401(k) accounts will stabilize.

It's just that no one is sure where that confidence will come from.

"There is certainly no magic bullet to immediately turn things around," he says.

Tomorrow is Sunday, Aug. 15, the 227th day of 2010. There are 138 days left in the year.

Tomorrow's Highlight in History:

On Aug. 15, 1945, Japan's Emperor Hirohito announced in a pre-recorded radio address that his country had accepted terms of surrender for ending World War II.

On August 15 in history:

In 1057, Macbeth, King of Scots, was killed in battle by Malcolm, the eldest son of King Duncan, whom Macbeth had slain.

In 1769, Napoleon Bonaparte was born on the island of Corsica.

In 1914, the Panama Canal opened to traffic.

In 1935, humorist Will Rogers and aviator Wiley Post were killed when their airplane crashed near Point Barrow in the Alaska Territory.

In 1944, during World War II, Allied forces landed in southern France in Operation Dragoon.

In 1947, India became independent after some 200 years of British rule.

In 1960, the Republic of the Congo (Brazzaville) became independent of French rule.

In 1969, the Woodstock Music and Art Fair opened in upstate New York.

In 1971, President Richard Nixon announced a 90-day freeze on wages, prices and rents.

In 1998, 29 people were killed by a car bomb that tore apart the center of Omagh (OH'-mah), Northern Ireland; a splinter group calling itself the Real IRA claimed responsibility.

Ten years ago:

Democrats stirred memories of President John F. Kennedy at their national convention in Los Angeles, with his daughter Caroline beckoning delegates to turn the New Frontier into a "timeless call" that would send Al Gore to the White House. British Airways joined Air France in grounding its Concorde supersonic jets in the wake of the July 25 crash near Paris that claimed 113 lives. A group of 100 separated family members from North Korea arrived in South Korea for temporary reunions with relatives they had not seen for half a century; a group of 100 South Koreans visited the North.

Five years ago: Iraqi leaders failed to meet a key deadline for finishing a new constitution. Gang members rioted in seven Guatemalan prisons, leaving 35 inmates dead. Phil Mickelson claimed a one-shot victory in the PGA Championship in Springfield, N.J. James Dougherty, the retired Los Angeles detective who was the first husband of Marilyn Monroe, died in San Rafael, Calif. at age 84.

John Yettaw, an American imprisoned for swimming to the home of Nobel laureate Aung San Suu Kyi (ahng sahn soo chee). A wedding tent fire in Kuwait claimed the lives of 55 women and children. Virginia Davis, 90, who'd appeared in Walt Disney's pioneering "Alice" films in the 1920s, died in Corona, Calif.

US rig count increases by 35

HOUSTON (AP) — The number of rigs actively exploring for oil and natural gas in the U.S. increased by 35 this week to 1,640.

Houston-based Baker Hughes Inc. said Friday that 992 rigs were exploring for natural gas and 636 for oil. Twelve were listed as miscellaneous. A year ago this week, the rig count stood at 968.

Of the major oil- and gas-producing states, Texas gained 29 rigs, Pennsylvania gained four, and Colorado and Louisiana each gained one. California lost two rigs, and Alaska, North Dakota and Oklahoma each lost one. Arkansas, New Mexico, West Virginia and Wyoming remained unchanged.

The rig tally peaked at 4,530 in 1981, during the height of the oil boom. The industry posted a record low of 488 in 1999.

Pampa High School CxC run varsity teams in 2010

ANDREW GLOVER
aglover@thepampanews.com

The last few seasons the Pampa Cross Country team didn't have enough runners to run as a team in meets. This year both the boys and the girls will be able to run varsity teams.

Head coach Mark Elms said he has 11 boys and 7 girls so far after the first four days of practice.

"I have more girls than last year and the same number of boys I ended last year with," Elms said. "I have five girls that should be ready to run varsity. I have six boys that will run varsity and five that will run junior varsity. They are looking pretty good and working hard."

This year's returning boys include Miguel Tapia, Trent McNear and Flavio

Gonzalez. J'Cee Holmes is the only returning girl. Tapia and Holmes were the leaders on the boys and girls varsity last year finishing with the best times amongst their teammates.

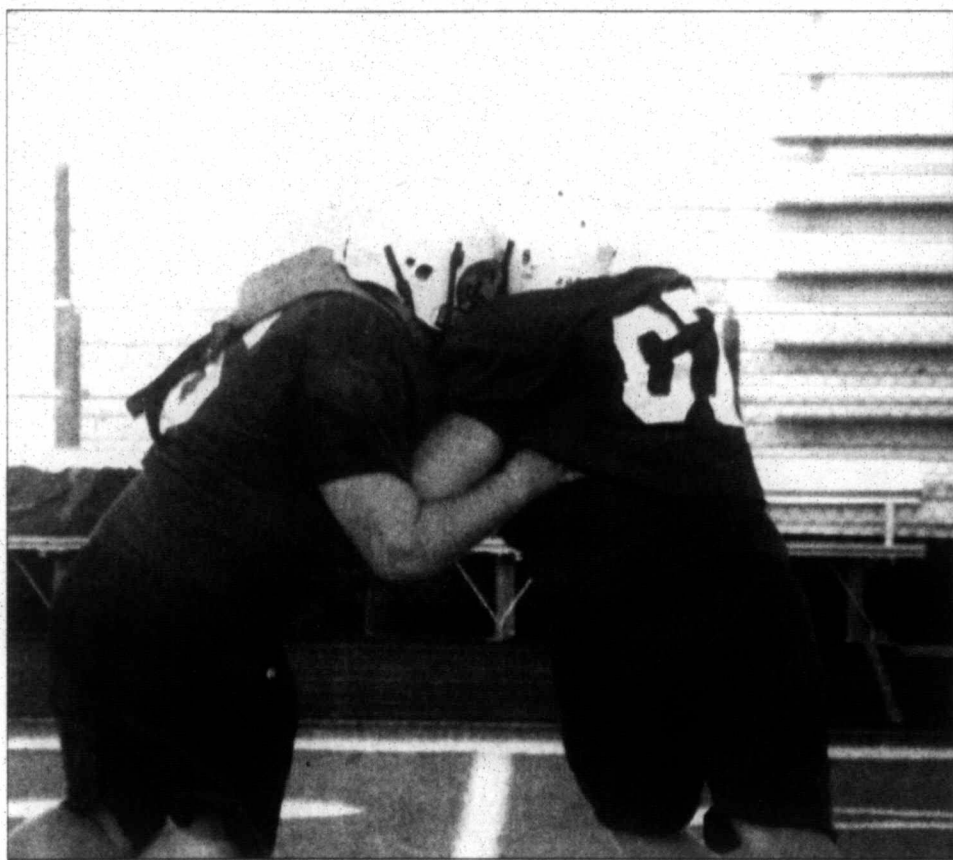

Elms said several of his runners have a good shot at regionals. On the girls side, J'Cee Holmes, Destaney Vasquez, Jessie and Bailey Dixon and Tapia on the boys side. Since Pampa has moved to 3A this year, Elms said they will still have to run hard to make regionals.

"We're not running with Randall, Canyon and Hereford," Elms said. "The three schools we are running with are very competitive and won't let someone just take five spots to regionals."

The Harvesters have their first meet August 27 at Thompson Park.

'Limited press' players have crucial role on team

On Wednesday, Head Football Coach Heath Parker and six seniors spoke at the Rotary luncheon. Three of those seniors are ones you read and probably talk about all the time. The other three, though, are ones, as Parker put it, "that I don't write about," but they are just as important. They make the Pampa Harvesters a complete football team.

ANDREW GLOVER

Most teams have players like Trent Carter that works year around to be a good football player, or the Garrett Ericson that can turn a small play into a big play, or the Reid Bradley that can get out on the perimeter and make a block to spring a play.

The first player that Parker introduced that fell into the category of guys that "I don't write about" is Brandon Voyles. Parker said this player nearly quit last year at this same time but started playing well at the end of the season on JV. In the offseason Parker said Voyles improved tremendously.

"When we tested (Voyles) at the end of the week... Brandon beat Trent Carter in five of ten categories and that's just because of sheer work."

Voyles will be the second linebacker and rotating in at running back filling in when Carter needs a break. Voyles would be the equivalent of the utility player or the pinch hitter in baseball. These players are key to a team because they are able to be used in multiple ways. Giving a starter rest will help later in the game, when the team is trying to close out. Which comes very key for this year's Harvesters since their motto is "Finish Strong."

The next player that was mentioned was defensive end Kyle Keith who also nearly quit in the offseason. Parker said Keith stepped up and will not give up on a play.

"He may get out-athleted," Parker said. "That offensive player better watch out for his ankles, or knees, or something in behind, or a leg whip, or some sort of a bite and scratch deal because he is going to keep fighting to get him down."

Keith's position is like some of the defensemen in hockey on most teams' fourth lines whose job is to hit the other guys. This is key because it can disrupt the other's flow and momentum. If he beats his guy on the edge and gets in the backfield it can create a rushed decision and hopefully a turn over on the opposing offense.

The last guy — but certainly not least — that Parker mentioned was Brenden Rice. Rice is a receiver for Pampa and receivers usually get the ball, but not so fast my friend. Rice's role is to block on the edge and allow that receiver or running back to take a short pass for a big gain to the outside. This position would be similar to the player who sets a pick in basketball and allows his teammate to roll out and score. In football, if a running back or receiver can get to the outside, that means large gains for first downs or possibly touchdowns. If you get more of those you usually win the game.

Now, these three players may not get the press time they deserve, but they play a vital role for a successful team. You know I might sneak in a game recap that Rice laid a nice block on the edge that allowed Garrett Ericson to get to the outside and run for a touchdown, or Kyle Keith outmuscled his man to create pressure that caused the opposing quarterback to throw an interception.

QB still question mark at Tech

LUBBOCK (AP) — Tommy Tuberville has a dilemma familiar to Texas Tech.

The new coach doesn't have a starting quarterback picked for a Red Raiders offense he says will continue to throw the ball all over the Big 12.

Predecessor Mike Leach often waited to pick a starter, though never because of injury.

Tuberville, who stepped in after the university fired Leach late last year amid allegations he mistreated a player with a concussion, will decide between seniors Taylor Potts and Steven Sheffield. Both got injured early in spring workouts.

A starter will be picked about a week before the Red Raiders host SMU to open their season Sept. 5.

Neal Brown, who Tuberville brought in as offensive coordinator from pass-heavy Troy State in Alabama, said Potts has the stronger arm, while Sheffield is the better runner.

"I want both of them to think that they can be a starter," Tuberville said. "What we're looking for is more consistency from both of them. Both will play, but we're not going to have a situation where one plays the first quarter, and one plays the second."

Sheffield and Potts each had surgery in March. Sheffield, who threw for 1,219 yards and 14 touchdowns in six games in last season, needed repair to the same bone in his left foot that he injured in October at Nebraska.

Potts, who threw for 3,440 yards and 22 touchdowns in 11 games last season, needed surgery to fix an injury between his index finger and middle finger he got hitting a helmet while throwing.

Competing for the same job hasn't created friction, the seniors said.

"We're cool. We never walk by each other without saying, 'What's up?'" Sheffield said. "But at the same time, we're not texting each other or playing video games together or anything like that."

Whoever is picked won't have to watch over his shoulder, said Brown, whose Troy State team finished third nationally in total offense (486 yards) and fourth in passing (336 yards) last season.

"It's not a deal where if he throws five incompletions in the first quarter you go to the next guy," Brown said. "I think you got to let him play, and obviously if he doesn't produce over an extended period of time then you make a change."

The offense will pass first but Brown wants to spread the ball around to the team's playmakers, including running backs Baron Batch and Eric Stephens and a receiving corps that returns two strong starters — Detron Lewis and Alex Torres.

"The No. 1 goal is to win and we want to run the ball good enough where if our quarterback doesn't play his 'A' game, let's say he plays his 'C' game, we want to run the ball where we still got a chance to win that game," Brown said. "That's what we're looking at."

Use others' feedback to prevent this from happening.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) ★★★★★ Your inner child emerges, whether you are playing with kids or just kicking back. Make plans to get together with friends and enjoy a favorite pastime. Together you renew and feel revived. Tonight: And the party continues.
This Week: Tap into your imagination for answers, especially if you think that a situation is impossible.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) ★★★★★ Make lounging at home a pastime that is noteworthy. Invite a friend or two to kick back and simply enjoy. Whether getting through a project or watching a movie, all of you seem to relax and enjoy. Tonight: Flip the burgers.
This Week: Slow to get started, you do accelerate well. By Tuesday, you are a force to be dealt with, no matter what you are doing.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) ★★★★★ Your words invigorate a child. Without realizing it, you also might lure a new friend in. Wherever you are, make it a point to get to know those around you better. Swap fun news. Tonight: The party could go till the wee hours.
This Week: Communicate your intentions, then wait. Thursday, news could come in.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) ★★★ Be sensitive to your emotional needs. If you keep sitting on your feelings, they could spin out in an inappropriate manner. Practice expressing uncomfortable feelings with someone near and dear. Tonight: Your treat.
This Week: Self-discipline counts Monday. Activity quickens Tuesday. Wherever you are, count on being busy.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) ★★★★★ Be spontaneous. Others respond accordingly. Make some Sunday calls to those who live far away or who you rarely talk to. Join friends for a late brunch and possibly a game or movie. Tonight: Let the good times roll.
This Week: All smiles, others are relieved to see someone who feels in control. Deal with finances and communication.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) ★★ Kick back, knowing you have had enough. Perhaps catching up on e-mail, doing some reading or just hanging with close family feels right. Remember, you don't need to perform. Lose that thought. Tonight: Make it early.
This Week: Tuesday on, you hit your power days. Zero in on what you want.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) ★★★★★ Invitations come in left and right. You might already have plans but want to cancel them after you hear a certain invitation. Maybe you can squeeze them both in. Tonight: Clearly, where you are, the party is.
This Week: Monday and Thursday, you succeed in whatever you do. In between, do your thing.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) ★★★★★ A responsibility dominates. An older relative or friend appreciates a call, even if you cannot visit. You must deal with what is coming up, even if it means not going with a whimsy. Your instincts serve you well. Tonight: A force to be reckoned with.
This Week: Accept a leadership role. Network and stretch your immediate circle.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) ★★★★★ An invitation to wander through a flea market or perhaps see an art show works. Get out of yourself. In another setting, you'll laugh at how serious you have become. See what some detachment does! Tonight: Let your imagination speak.
This Week: Try to remain detached. Tuesday, accept responsibility. Success follows.

DAILY HOROSCOPE

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Monday, Aug. 16, 2010:
This year, you might feel as if you have a dog nipping at your feet. Someone continues to try to keep you in his or her world, and in the same mental position. Opportunities for growth and dynamic thinking mark the next 12 months. You will let go of what doesn't work. If you are single, you'll meet someone through your family or inner circle. This person could be a foreigner and very exciting. If you are attached, the two of you could become closer through relating and entertaining more. Look at scheduling a long-desired trip. SCORPIO can be demanding.
The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult
ARIES (March 21-April 19)  An idea that might have come from a dream pops up during the day. You wonder why you hadn't thought of it sooner. A meeting could be disorganized and/or confusing. Work on a one-on-one level. Tonight: Follow a partner's or friend's lead.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20)  Defer to others. You might feel that you can go off and handle other matters, but a personal or domestic issue needs handling — the sooner the better. Surprises surround those who are open. Tonight: A friend surprises you!
GEMINI (May 21-June 20)  Clear out as much as you can right now. You might need to screen your calls in order to accomplish today's goals.

Supposed "news" has the opinions of others laced through it. You will need to ask some important questions. Tonight: Someone acts in an unexpected manner.
CANCER (June 21-July 22)  Settling into the workweek takes talent. You could find that your imagination is still in weekend mode. In some way, you feel dragged down just by what you must do. A partner tries to entice you into joining him or her. Tonight: There's still time to be a wild thing.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)  If you want to work from home or just take a day off, why not? You might feel that you want to restructure your life. Though events could point in a certain direction, you need to give this idea a lot of thought. Tonight: Respond to spontaneity.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)  Others appreciate hearing from you. You might feel tense about one specific call or relationship. Money matters could take an unexpected turn, which might not be bad. Be ready to spring into action. Tonight: Catch up on e-mail and calls.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)  Curb a need to have and to control. Look at what you have to offer, then maybe you can trust your desirability and talents. Tonight: Treat a friend to dinner.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)  Your strength usually is an asset. An authority figure could be knowing by this trait. Part of strength is knowing when to bend. Stop being so hard on yourself and on others. Tonight: You are a force to be dealt with.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)  You are able to detach when faced with a problem. Others sense there is an issue. Right now, listen to others' opinions; you will have time to state your case should you decide to try. Tonight: Make have no plans OK.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)  You are able to mobilize a conversation in a meeting — finally, though there still might be a disagreement. A partner adds to the potential by providing a creative idea or two. Tonight: Don't worry. Wherever you want to be.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)  Take a stand, understanding your limits with a key person. News from a distance could be difficult to hear. Resist creating uproar. You might need to let go of what really isn't working. Tonight: A must appearance.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)  Sometimes saying little and listening a lot is the best approach. You will discover that once you detach, you'll get more done and won't get into any petty issues. Someone close becomes amazingly more verbal. Tonight: Follow the music.

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: I am a girl who has had my heart broken for the first time. I know I should get over this boy, but I can't stop thinking about him. My mom loved him. We hung out every weekend for six months.

I thought I might have been pregnant. I'm not -- but I want to be. I know I'm not ready to be a mom, but I want someone to love me and depend on me. I need someone who won't leave me. I know my baby wouldn't.

Should I become a mom? How do I get over my boyfriend? Do I stop talking to him and just be his friend? Abby, tell me the right way. — LOVESICK IN YUCCA VALLEY, CALIF.

DEAR LOVESICK: Becoming a mother is not the way out of your heartache. Any young woman considering having a child must ask herself how she can provide financially and emotionally for that child. Most teenaged girls who become pregnant do not complete their high school education, and it has a negative impact on their ability to provide for themselves and their children. The right way to work through this breakup is to talk to your mother or another trusted adult about your feelings. Stop trying to maintain contact with your former boyfriend. To continue will only prolong your pain. Dedicate yourself to achieving the most you can for yourself in sports and academics. It will give you less time to brood, and the more you achieve the more sought-after you will become.

It won't happen overnight. It will take time, concentration and dedication. If you take my advice you will come out of this disappointment a much happier person. But having a baby is NOT the answer.

DEAR ABBY: Eight months ago I began a weight-loss program the same week as my best friend, "Darby." We both have the same amount to lose, but she is using an expensive "liquid fast" combined with a private personal trainer at a gym. She has already spent a few thousand dollars.

I am working completely on my own, and have lost

30 pounds. Darby has lost 32.

She came over to visit and brought with her a huge stack of her old clothes, saying they no longer fit, but implying they would fit me! I do weigh a bit more than she does, but I am 4 inches taller.

I was offended, but too shocked to say anything. I put the clothes in my coat closet to dispose of later. What should I have said to my "friend"? I am really hurt — INSULTED IN SAN FRANCISCO

DEAR INSULTED: How about this? "Thank you. Perhaps I can have them taken in or lengthened -- or save them for a short, fat friend."

DEAR ABBY: When I am the guest in someone's car, I always offer money for gas -- $20 if it's a day-long trip, for example. If I'm short of cash, I'll tell the driver in advance and contribute once I get the money.

I know someone who seldom contributes money for gas when we travel long-distance together. He's not unemployed or financially strapped, either. Is this rude on his part? — SIGHTSEER IN JERSEY CITY

DEAR SIGHTSEER: It qualifies as insensitive -- and possibly cheap. Before agreeing to another jaunt with this person, be sure you have an agreement in advance about how much he will be ponying up for petrol.

Texas Notes Earn Wall Street's Highest Ratings

(AUSTIN) — Wall Street bond raters have given their highest possible ratings to $7.8 billion in short term notes Texas will sell to fund public schools at the beginning of the new school year.

"I am pleased with the very high ratings Texas has received, a clear reflection of our economic performance compared to other states," said Texas Comptroller Susan Combs. "With the economic challenges we have weathered and the slow recovery under way, bond rating firms remain confident in our credit-worthiness, due to factors like our state's conservative management of taxpayers' dollars and our foresight in building up the state's Rainy Day Fund."

Texas' 2010 Series Tax and Revenue Anticipation Notes (TRANs) are rated

SP-1+ by Standard & Poor's, MIG 1 by Moody's Investors Service and F1+ by Fitch Inc.

In assigning its highest rating, Fitch analysts noted, "The F1+ rating reflects sound legal protections from set-asides, good coverage for each set-aside payment, substantial borrowable resources and a history of conservative economic and revenue assumptions."

Since 1987, Texas has used short-term TRAN notes to fund public schools and meet other cash flow needs between the Sept. 1 start of the fiscal year and the arrival of tax revenues later in the year.

The TRAN sale will take place Tuesday, Aug. 24, from 9-10 a.m. CDT at www.trantexas.com. The notes will be repaid on Aug. 31, 2011.

SCHOOLYARD MEMOIRS

We asked Pampa: What are your fondest memories of being in school?

Stormy McCullar, Pampa Police Dept.

"One teacher stands out in my mind: Miss Gandy. She taught me and my husband (at the junior high), and she taught my daughter at Community Christian. She really cared about the kids. That's what stuck out to me. It just stayed with me and, looking back as an adult, she was really special."

Shane Stokes, Assistant City Manager

"Oh, man. My memories from going to school in Pampa are about having great teachers early on, from kindergarten all the way on through first and second grade. That's something that really influenced me all through my life. I'll never forget that."

Arnie Aurellano, The Pampa News

"I played soccer in high school and my last name was too long for my jersey. The vice principal didn't know how to say it, either, so the back of my jersey said "McQueen," and every time I scored, the coach wrote it down as "Steve McQueen," so the vice principal would read it as "Steve McQueen" during the morning announcements. Everybody just knew it was me."

Joe Weaver, Pampa Chamber of Commerce

"A highlight for me in high school was being on the poultry judging team in FFA. We came in second (in the region). We would've placed first if I hadn't gotten lost. They divided us into groups and you're supposed to stay in your group and they'd tell you when to switch to the next station. I didn't listen and shifted a couple of times without being told, but I still placed seventh and my two teammates were first and second."

Barry Haenisch, PISD

"Probably my best memories were from the different extracurricular activities in high school — winning the big football game, that kind of thing. We had athletics, FFA, the girls had homemaking. We had a band, too. We (Eden H.S.) were just a small school, so we didn't have a lot, but they were all great."

Natalie Parker, PHS Track Class of '10

"In eighth grade, we had a food fight on the second-to-last day (of school) and it was awesome. Then we had to sit in assigned seats the last day of school."

Kenny Rigoulot, First Presbyterian Church

"When I was in early elementary school, we made scarecrows out of torn paper. Apparently, mine was good enough to be hung in the state capitol for a week. It was in Maine though, so it was a much smaller state."

Randy Pribble, The Pampa News

"A group of my high school friends decided to walk to school on the first 'Earth Day,' back in the early '70s. Our high school had just consolidated with another in a neighboring community and we usually either rode the bus or drove, if we had a car. We started out very early and had a great time walking the five or so miles, except that we grossly underestimated the time it would take to walk to school. We arrived late and all of us wound up in the principal's office."

Ray Jaramillo, Clarendon College

"When I was in third grade, we used to do these Thanksgiving-type skits for our music program right before we went on Thanksgiving break. We had this teacher, Ms. Stewart, and she always went out of her way to make sure that that was special for the kids and the parents."

Matt Embry, assistant athletic coach, PHS

"My favorite memory was playing basketball for Randall High School and being a part of four regional finalist teams from 1998-2001."

Terry Barnes, PRMC

"I absolutely looked forward to getting new school supplies every year. I loved that — getting new pencils, new pens, new paper, everything. I couldn't wait until the new school lists came out in the White Deer paper so that so that I could go to the store with my mom and get all my new stuff."

Karen Price,
City Secretary

"You know what? My favorite memory was playing tetherball during recess. You know when you hit that ball and it wrapped around that pole? That was fun!"

Randy Dunham,
Pampa Fire Dept.

"My favorite teacher was Mrs. Cook in fifth grade at Sam Houston Elementary School, but my favorite memory was when I finally got my driver's license in high school. I finally got to drive myself to school instead of being taken by my mom. I used the money from an after-school job to buy a pearl white 1967 Chevrolet Impala Super Sport."

Libby Garza,
PHS volleyball coach

"My favorite memory was two-a-days in high school. We ran a mile at midnight and practiced until about 2 in the morning."

Bob Marx,
Nu-Wave Cleaning

"How about the lasting memories? One of my good friends from school, he moved (from Pampa) after our sophomore year, thereabouts.
He ended up moving back this past June and we're as close as we've ever been. We've kept up over the years. That's the kind of lasting friendship I remember."

Holly Neill, Pampa
Chamber of Commerce

"Just one? There are so many good ones. It would have to be our senior skip day trip that we took to Altus Lake.
We all got in so much trouble for skipping school. We left that morning after second period because that's when they counted you there, and we hauled butt to Altus Lake.
We were there all day. Other than that, the Friday night football games."

Charlene Gardner,
City administrative assistant

"Probably the memories from when I was in the Pampa High School band. Back then, the Pampa High School band was huge. I was in the color guard. Performing, going on trips — those were probably my favorite memories."

Andrew Glover,
The Pampa News

"My favorite high school memory (from
Cinco Ranch High School in Katy)
was going to Rhodes
Stadium and watching
Cinco Ranch play football. The most memorable game was when Cinco beat Taylor 34-28 in overtime 2001."

Jill Schroeder, Top
O' Texas Rodeo Office

"I remember playing Charlie's Angels in fifth grade. I got to be the dark-haired one,
whichever one that is.
Kate Jackson, that was her name. There were three of us. That was what was hot at the time. All the girls played Charlie's Angels, and all the boys played Starsky and Hutch on the playground."

Kathy Cota, PEDC

"Caldwell's Drive-
in used to be uptown
where Verona's is now.
It was a big hangout for teenagers. We'd drive around the drag after school and get a Coke and French fries. When I think of Caldwell's, I can still taste those French fries. They were wonderful."
