Weekend Issue Saturday and Sunday, September 4-5, 2010 Chisum: Panhandle delegation loss a concern

DAVID BOWSER dbowser@thepampanews.com

With area Texas House of Representatives members retiring, Pampa's Warren Chisum is facing more demands. Chisum said Friday that the loss of senior members in the Panhandle delegation is an issue for the area. Last spring, Carl Isett of Lubbock resigned his position representing Texas House District 84. Rep. Delwin Jones was defeated in last spring's primary. That was followed by David Swinford of Dumas resigning his seat in the Texas House of Representatives this summer. Chisum pointed out that Isett had some 14 years of seniority in the House, Jones had more than 30 years. Swinford had 20 years.

That leaves only Chisum with 22 years of seniority and Amarillo's

John Smithee with 26. The loss of seniority in a legislative body where power is accrued over longevity could prove to be a daunting setback for the panhandle, Chisum acknowledged.

75¢ Dally • Weekend $1.50

Neither Chisum nor Smithee have opponents in this fall's general election.

Walter "Four" Price, who won the Republican primary last spring, is expected to win the general election, but he won't have any semiority. He comes into the Texas Legislature as a fresh face and will have limited power. Price faces a Democrat and Libertarian in the fall election.

The concern is that the next Legislature CHISUM cont. on page 9

BP: Cost of spill at $8 billion

LONDON (AP) - BP says it has so far spent $8 billion responding to the disastrous oil well blowout in the Gulf of Mexico.

The company said Friday that the total included $399 million paid to settle 127,000 claims from businesses and other affected by the oil spill.

Earl sideswipes N.C., heads north

CHATHAM, Mass. (AP) - A weakening but still dangerous Hurricane Earl steamed toward the gray-shingled cottages and fishing villages of Cape Cod on Friday, disrupting people's vacations on the unofficial final weekend of the short New England summer.

Packing winds of just 80 mph, the storm swirled up the Eastern Seaboard after sideswiping North Carolina's Outer Banks, where it caused flooding but no injuries and little damage. For the most part, it was expected to swing wide of New York City and Long Island, and much of the rest of the mid-Atlantic region, but pass close by Cape Cod, Nantucket Island and Martha's Vineyard late Friday night, bringing rain and high winds.

Vacationers pulled their boats from the water and canceled Labor Day weekend reservations on Nantucket, the well-to-do resort island and old-time whaling port expected to get the worst of the storm. Shopkeepers boarded up their windows. Swimmers in New England were warned to stay out of the water - or off the beach altogether - because of the danger of getting swept away by high waves.

Magicians convene in Austin

AUSTIN (AP) - What do you think?

Participants in the Texas Association of Magicians annual conference might know.

This weekend's event in Austin brings together hundreds of mind readers, escape artists, illusionists and other magical arts experts.

Attorney Hull Youngblood is president of the Austin chapter of the Society of American Magicians, which is co-sponsoring the event with the International Brotherhood of Magicians.

Youngblood says he became hooked a few years ago when he was at an airport and showed a woman a card trick he'd just learned. Youngblood says other travelers gathered around to see what he was doing and "it was a great feeling."

The Austin American Statesman reported Friday that the Texas Association of Magicians traces its roots to the '40s.

Feds launch Gulf fire inquest

WASHINGTON (AP) - The agency that oversees offshore drilling will investigate the fire on an oil platform in the Gulf of Mexico.

Thursday's fire came less than five months after the explosion of the Deepwater Horizon oil rig that killed 11 people and spurred the worst offshore oil spill in the nation's history.

This time no one was killed and the Coast Guard said no crude was leaking.

Michael Bromwich, director of the Bureau of Ocean Energy Management, Regulation and Enforcement, says his agency will work with the Coast Guard to investigate the fire. The oil platform is owned by Houston-based Mariner Energy Inc.

Cornerstone Baptist Church. "It allows us to do something nice - just give away free water with no strings attached and show people God's love." Other area churches are taking the idea and running with it, using the big event to spread a message of global awareness as well as local fellowship. Seeing Chautauqua's status as a high profile community event, for example, Reverend Kenny Rigoulot of the First Presbyterian Church is looking to use the festival to help springboard a campaign raising awareness for the plight of coffee growers in Latin America.

"It's a big event for Pampa, for sure," said Rigoulot, who will be at the church's Chautauqua booth giving away free samples of Fair Trade certified coffee beans. "It's a good place for us to let people know that we care and that we can make a difference even if something's happening across the globe."

Fair Trade coffee is coffee purchased directly from the growers. Bought from farmers' co-ops, fair trade coffee growers are guaranteed a minimum price for the coffee, with growers also receiving a per pound premium if market prices exceed that minimum.

This can be in stark contrast to coffee bought from brand name companies, which often mark up prices without sharing the increase in profit with the growers themselves. In many cases, this leaves the growers working for barely less than a daily living wage, a growing problem in coffee producing countries such as Colombia and Peru.

"We want to raise awareness for consumers to let them know that there are ways they can learn more about the products they buy," Rigoulot said. "In today's global economy, we lose sense a lot of the time of where our food and other products come from.

"The distance (between us and the producers) makes us lose track of the work conditions they have to deal with, and we're hoping to help shed some light on that issue.'

Soldiers kill 25 in Monterrey

MONTERREY, Mexico (AP) - Soldiers killed at least 25 suspected cartel members Thursday in a raid and gunbattle in a Mexican state near the U.S. border that has become one of the most dangerous battlegrounds in the country's drug war.

A military aircraft flying over Ciudad Mier in Tamaulipas state spotted several gunmen in front of a building, according to a statement from Mexico's Defense Department.

When ground troops moved in, gunmen opened fire, starting a gunbattle in which 25 suspected cartel members died, according to the military. The statement said two soldiers were wounded.

Authorities rescued three people believed to be kidnap victims in the raid, according to the statement. The military said troops seized 25 rifles, four grenades, 4,200 rounds of ammunition and 23 vehicles.

Earlier, a military spokesman said the gunmen were believed to be on a property controlled by the Zetas, who started out as a gang of drug assassins but have since evolved into a powerful cartel.

Michigan man finds gator in corn

BURR OAK, Mich. - A man gathering sweet corn in southern Michigan is the latest to have an unexpected encounter with an alligator. The animals have been showing up far north of their traditional habitats this summer. Jeff Adamski of Burr Oak said he was picking corn near the Michigan-Indiana border when two women who were a few rows over came running and screaming, saying they had seen an alligator.

Adamski told the Sturgis Journal that the alligator darted toward him and kept coming as he backed away. Adamski moved faster, but then he began to worry about a child being attacked by the nearly 3-foot reptile.

He grabbed a 4-foot bar from his truck and killed it. Alligators also have been seen in recent weeks in the Chicago River, a Boston suburb and New York City.

Drug kingpin gets 27 years

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) - A Mexican man who prosecutors say headed a major drug-smuggling ring that shipped tons of marijuana into the U.S. was sentenced Friday to 27 years in prison and ordered to forfeit $4 million to the American government.

Carlos Molinares Nunez, also known as "Caliche," was arrested in 2006 and charged for his leadership of the Sinaloa drug cartel. Authorities believe he led the ring for the last five years, directing its activities from his home base in Naco in Sonora, Mexico. He was arrested in Tucson while staying with his wife's relatives.

"Caliche was a key figure in the violent drug trade of the Sinaloa cartel," U.S. Attorney Dennis Burke said. "With this sentencing, his individual organization has been dismantled and destroyed."

Molinares, 37, pleaded guilty to two counts of continuing criminal enterprise and conspiracy on June 5, 2009, in a plea agreement that required forfeiture of all his seized assets, including property, vehicles and jewelry.

Rigoulot said that learned about the coffee growers' working conditions after reading a book, and, after consulting with a church committee, decided to try to make a difference with this year's Chautauqua offering. "A lot of churches have really gotten behind Fair Trade and the social justice behind being consumers," Rigoulot said. "You do pay a little bit more (for Fair Trade certified coffee), but you pay equal to or less than Dunkin' Donuts or Starbucks or other specialty coffees. And it tastes, I think if not the same, better.

"Somebody's paying the difference, but the way to look at it that just because you're paying more, it doesn't mean the growers are getting more. My hope is that if we educate people a little more, they'll choose to help their neighbor, even if they live on another continent."

St. Paul United Methodist Church is also using Chautauqua to spread God's love across borders. While the church is aiming a little closer to home, the overarching message is still one of helping out our fellow man, said church layleader Stephane Rheams.

"(Chautauqua) has been a good opportunity for us to do some good," said Rheams, who has coordinated St. Paul's sales of Amish jelly for the last four years. "It not only helps the church, but also some other people that are associated with the jelly itself."

The jelly, Rheams explained, is made by a group of Amish in Missouri and shipped in jars to a workshop in Tulsa, Okla. The workshop, a sheltered workshop for mentally handicapped people, then labels and sells the jelly for distribution.

Half of the proceeds from the Chautauqua sales go towards the church, with the other half going towards both the sheltered workshop in Oklahoma and the Amish in Missouri. "We started doing it

Today in History

Today is Saturday, Sept. 4, the 247th day of 2010. There are 118 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On Sept. 4, 1781, Los Angeles was founded by Spanish settlers under the leadership of Governor Felipe de Neve.

On this date:

In 1886, a group of Apache Indians led by Geronimo surrendered to Gen. Nelson Miles at Skeleton Canyon in Arizona.

In 1888, George Eastman received a patent for his roll-film box camera, and registered his trademark: "Kodak."

In 1893, English author Beatrix Potter first told the story of Peter Rabbit in the form of a "picture letter" to Noel Moore, the son of Potter's former governess.

In 1917, the American Expeditionary Forces in France suffered their first fatalities during World War I when a German plane attacked a British-run base hospital.

In 1948, Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands abdicated after nearly six decades of rule for health reasons.

In 1951, President Harry S. Truman addressed the nation from the Japanese peace treaty conference in San Francisco in the first live, coast-to-coast television broadcast.

In 1957, Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus used Arkansas National Guardsmen to prevent nine black students from entering all-white Central High School in Little Rock. Ford Motor Co. began selling its ill-fated Edsel.

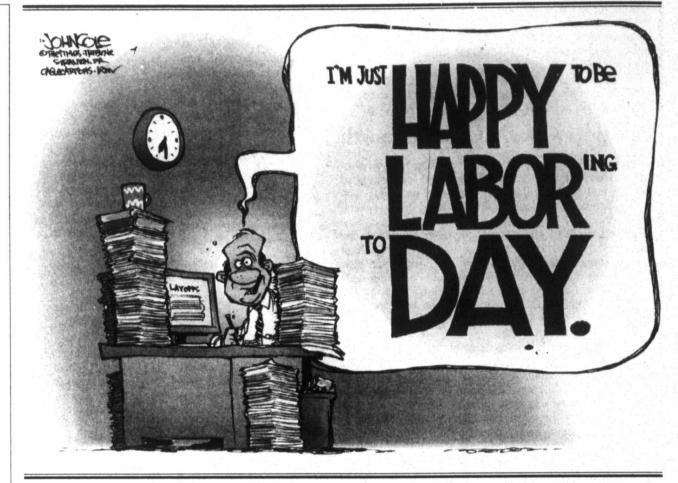

In 1969, the Food and Drug Administration issued a report calling birth control pills "safe," despite a slight risk of fatal blood-clotting disorders linked to the pills.

In 1971, an Alaska Airlines jet crashed near Juneau, killing all 111 people on board.

In 1984, Canada's Progressive Conservatives, led by Brian Mulroney (muhl-ROO'-nee), won a landslide victory in general elections over the Liberal Party of Prime Minister John N. Turner and the New Democrats headed by Ed Broadbent.

Ten years ago: French investigators announced that a stray length of metal which had gashed a tire of a supersonic Concorde, leading to a fuel tank fire and the plane's fatal crash the previous July, probably came from a Continental Airlines plane that had taken off on the same runway four minutes earlier. (Continental has denied any responsibility.)

Five years ago: Six days after Hurricane Katrina left a devastated New Orleans in chaos, police stormed the Danziger Bridge, shooting and killing two people and wounding four others. (Four police officers are facing federal charges in the shooting; five former officers have pleaded guilty to participating in a cover-up of the shootings; a sergeant and a retired sergeant also are accused in the cover-up.) One year ago: A German army colonel called in a U.S. airstrike on a pair of hijacked tanker trucks in northern Afghanistan, resulting in civilian casualties. (German officials said up to 142 people were believed to have died or been injured; Afghan leaders estimated 30 to 40 civilians were killed.) Defense Secretary Robert Gates expressed disappointment at news outlets that had used a picture taken and distributed by The Associated Press depicting a U.S. Marine mortally wounded in combat in Afghanistan.

Where are all those wind turbines?

The Texas Panhandle will be the wind energy capital of the world.

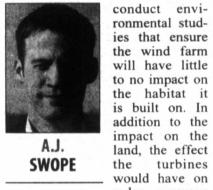

T. Boone Pickens suggested it and, love him or hate him, he was right.

Mr. Pickens may not have been able to complete his massive wind farm in the Eastern Panhandle as he had planned, but there are still dozens of other wind farm developers actively working in our region ready to capitalize on our world class wind resource.

So where, you may ask, are the turbines? Where are these wind farms that people have been talking about for the past couple of years?

The answer is that we're still two to three years away from seeing more spinning blades on our horizon. Rome wasn't built in a day, and neither is a wind farm. It's a detailed process that takes a great deal of planning and cooperation.

A great majority of the work it akes to complete a wind farm happens well before the wind turbine construction phase ever begins. A wind farm developer must start by finding a site that looks like it might have everything needed for a good project. Often times the developer will need to work with multiple landowners to get sufficient land space to lay out the farm. When dealing with landowners, issues like compensation; wind rights; road access; placement of turbines; etc. all have to be discussed in the event a project actually comes to fruition. After the contracts are signed with landowner(s), it's time to test the site. The developer must first test the wind resource by collecting hourly wind speed and direction data for about two years. During this time they will also the habitat it is built on. In addition to the impact on the land, the effect turbines the would have on radar, runways and communications has to be determined.

Economic modeling is a crucial part of the project, as project leaders must look at costs of construction for roads, substations, transmission and turbines. How much will operations and maintenance cost? What will property taxes amount to, and are there any tax credits or incentives that a project qualifies for? All of these questions have to be carefully addressed in order to realize a reasonable return on investment. Further work includes grid interconnection studies, permitting from local, state and federal entities, contract negotiation with the group that will purchase the power and finally the long awaited construction phase. Of course, an article like this can only scratch the surface of all the steps that renewable a energy project may entail, but ReDonn Woods Advertising Manager Fetch your copy of rwoods@thepampanews.com The Pampa News hopefully it has provided a small insight into the fact that building a wind farm isn't simply putting up some turbines in hopes the blades will spin.

For any questions related to the development process of a wind project, log on to class4winds. org where you can take a look at frequently asked questions about renewable energy projects. Class 4 Winds & Renewables will also be hosting an educa-tional event called 'Picking Up Speed – Wind Development in the Texas Panhandle,' this Thursday afternoon to inform people in the region about some of the biggest wind projects planned to be built in the Panhandle over the next three years. The agenda and registration information are also on the site.

Today in History

Tomorrow is Sunday, Sept. 5, the 248th day of 2010. There are 117 days left in the year.

Tomorrow's Highlight in History:

On Sept. 5, 1972, Black September terrorists attacked the Israeli delegation at the Munich Olympic games; 11 Israelis, five guerrillas and a police officer were killed in the siege.

On this date:

In 1774, the first Continental Congress assembled in Philadelphia.

In 1793, the Reign of Terror began during the French Revolution as the National Convention instituted harsh measures to repress counter-revolutionary activities.

In 1836, Sam Houston was elected president of the Republic of Texas.

In 1914, the First Battle of the Marne, resulting in a French-British victory over Germany, began during World War I.

In 1939, four days after war had broken out in Europe, President Franklin D. Roosevelt issued a proclamation declaring U.S. neutrality in the conflict.

In 1945, Japanese-American Iva Toguri D'Aquino, suspected of being wartime broadcaster "Tokyo Rose," was arrested in Yokohama. (D'Aquino was later convicted of treason and served six years in prison; she was pardoned in 1977 by President Gerald R. Ford.)

In 1958, the novel "Doctor Zhivago" by Russian author Boris Pasternak was published in the United States for the first time.

In 1960, at the Rome Olympics, American boxer Cassius Clay (Muhammad Ali) defeated Zbigniew Pietrzykowski of Poland to win the light-heavyweight gold medal; Wilma Rudolph of the United States won the second of her three gold medals with the 200-meter sprint.

weeks ago, I met a group of friends at a local pub. "Charlie" was the designated driver. As the evening progressed, I noticed Charlie was drinking beer. When I mentioned it, he said he'd had only three. Then he insisted he was fine and "it was only beer."

danger of driving while "buzzed" and told him I'd walk home. Charlie then became insulted that I didn't trust him to know his limits. He said I should relax and quit being so uptight.

A few days later, some of my friends told me I had caused "unnecessary drama" that night and that my standards for the designated driver were "unrealistic." They also said that Charlie wasn't drunk and was totally capable of driving. But the fact remains, designated driver our wasn't sober, and I wasn't comfortable getting into a car with him.

I voiced my opinion; now I'm being punished for it. Did I judge Charlie too harshly? - VALUES MY SAFETY, DAVIS, CALIF.

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: A few

I tried to explain the

when he married "Jill." Now Henry has left Jill for Tracey, and I am left with a sick stomach. How do I heal my wounds while supporting Jill, which keeps them painfully open? HEARTSICK IN OHIO

DEAR HEARTSICK: One way would be to remind yourself that as "caring and fun" as Tracey was to be with, she had no reluctance about dating a married man. Another would be to level with Jill, explain that spending time with her is a painful reminder of the way you were dumped, and take a break from it until you have healed.

DEAR ABBY: 1 be came fast friends with one of my husband's co-workers after meeting her at a happy hour. We had fun going out, usually to dance One night when my husband tagged along, I overheard her tell him, "If you weren't married, I could be with you." When I confronted her about it the next night, she apologized, saying she had been feeling no pain and can't believe she said it. My husband chalks it up to her being stupid drunk, but I can't let it go.

Now when I see her at work functions, I am cordial and she acts like nothing ever happened. We could have been great friends if she hadn't said what she did, but each time I think I can bury the hatchet, I get angry and upset all over again.

Should I just get over it? Or am I justified in feeling I can't be friends with someone I can't trust? -DISTRUSTFUL IN ILLI-NOIS

DEAR DISTRUST-FUL: You're justified. And I'm saying it cold sober.

The Pampa News — Weekend Issue, Saturday and Sunday, September 4-5, 2010 — Page 6

In 1975, President Gerald R. Ford escaped an attempt on his life by Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme, a disciple of Charles Manson, in Sacramento, Calif.

In 1997, Britain's Queen Elizabeth II broke the royal reticence over Princess Diana's death, delivering a televised address in which she called her former daughter-in-law "a remarkable person." Mother Teresa died in Calcutta, India, at age 87; conductor Sir Georg Solti died in France at age 84.

Ten years ago: On the eve of congressional hearings into the recall of 6.5 million Firestone tires, Ford Motor Co. released new documents to bolster its contention that it had no reason to doubt the safety of the tires being investigated in 88 deaths.

Five years ago: President George W. Bush nominated John Roberts to succeed the late William Rehnquist as chief justice of the United States. President Bush and Louisiana Gov. Kathleen Blanco, during a Gulf Coast tour, consoled Hurricane Katrina victims and thanked relief workers. An Indonesian jetliner crashed, killing 149 people, including 49 on the ground; 17 passengers survived. Jerry Rice ended an NFL career that included three Super Bowls and records for most career receptions, receiving yards and receiving touchdowns.

One year ago: Top finance officials from rich and developing countries agreed during a meeting in London to curb hefty bankers' bonuses and maintain stimulus measures such as extra government spending and low interest rates to boost the global economy.

Today's Birthdays: Former Federal Reserve Board chairman Paul A. Volcker is 83. Comedianactor Bob Newhart is 81. Actress-singer Carol Lawrence is 78. Actor William Devane is 71. Actor George Lazenby is 71. Actress Raquel Welch is 70. Movie director Werner Herzog is 68. Singer Al Stewart is 65. Actor-director Dennis Dugan is 64. College Football Hall of Famer Jerry LeVias is 64. Singer Loudon Wainwright III is 64. "Cathy" cartoonist Cathy Guisewite (GYZ'-wyt) is 60. Actor Michael Keaton is 59. Country musician Jamie Oldaker (The Tractors) is 59. Actress Debbie Turner-Larson (Film: Marta in "The Sound of Music") is 54. Actress Kristian Alfonso is 47. Rhythm-and-blues singer Terry Ellis is 47. Rock musician Brad Wilk is 42. TV personality Dweezil Zappa is 41. Actress Rose McGowan is 37. Actor Andrew Ducote is 24. Olympic gold medal figure skater Kim Yu-na is 20. Actor Skandar Keynes is 19.

Thought for Today: "Those who foresee the future and recognize it as tragic are often seized by a madness which forces them to commit the very acts which makes it certain that what they dread shall happen." - Dame Rebecca West, Irish author and journalist (1892-1983).

DEAR VALUES YOUR SAFETY: Not in MY book, and not in the one published by the California Department of Motor Vehicles. In its California Drivers Handbook, under the section titled "Designated Driver Program," it lists the requirements for someone to be a designated driver. Among them: "Must abstain from consuming alcoholic beverages for the duration of the outing." That means not drinking anything with alcohol in it. Zilch!

You were right to speak up. In the future, if you decide to socialize with these folks, arrange to meet them. And if the location is not within walking distance, take a cab.

DEAR ABBY: "Tracey" is beautiful, caring and fun to spend time with. I fell hard for her and knew I could love her forever. When she broke up with me to "be on her own," I was very hurt.

My best friend, "Henry," says he started sleeping with Tracey right after our breakup. I was his best man

Goodes named delegates

Glennette and Jimmy Goode of Pampa have been elected delegates to the 127th Annual American Angus Association Convention of Delegates, November 15 in Louisville, Ky

The Goodes, members of the American Angus Association with headquarters in Saint Joseph, MO are two of 354 Angus breeders who have been elected by fellow members in their state to serve as a representative at the annual meeting.

Representing 43 states and Canada, the delegates will participate in the business meeting and elect new officers and five directors to the American Angus Association board.

The annual event is held in conjunction with the annual banquet and the Super Point Roll of Victory Angus show, November 13-16 during the North American International Livestock Exposition.

The American Angus Association has nearly 33,000 active members and is the largest beef breed organization in the world.

Matadors put hurting on already wounded Harvesters

ANDREW GLOVER aglover@thepampanews.com

The Pampa Harvesters entered Friday's game Lubbock against the Estacado Matadors without their starting linebacker, center and quarterback. Pampa definitely missed all three of them, as the visiting team jumped out to a 20-0 lead en route to defeating Pampa 55-13 at Harvester Field.

Head coach Heath Parker said the team was disappointed with how they played in the first half.

"We really didn't show up and play in the first half," Parker said. "That was very disappointing and disheartening. Everyone on the team and myself knew that ... We were shell shocked playing without three people on our roster." Senior Garrett Ericson, playing quarterback instead of his usual wide receiver slot, said they came out flat on both sides of the ball.

"I didn't think we were ready to play, offensively or defensively," Ericson said. "We came out and I don't know what the deal was. Of course we lacked Trent (Carter) and it hurts but it's not going to keep us from playing hard."

Ericson started at quarterback in place of injured junior Reid Miller and completed eight passes out of 17 for 63 yards, one touchdown and one interception. Parker said he was

"It's a funny to say about a three-year starter at the varsity level. He competed as a warrior out there for us tonight and I was proud of him.

Junior Latigo Collins led the Harvesters in rushing with 82 yards on 13 carries. Collins was the leading receiver with three catches for 58 yards and a touchdown.

After allowing a first down on the first play from scrimmage, Pampa forced the Matadors into a third and long. Deverick Stubblefield threw a 14-yard pass to Sam Jennings for a first down. After fumbling, Stubblefield completed a 44-yard pass to Clarence Willard for a touchdown. Estacado missed the extra point but led 6-0 with 8:59 left in the quarter.

The Harvesters weren't able to respond as they only gained four yards. The Matadors only needed four plays to increase their advantage. Stubblefied and Willard connected again for a 36-yard touchdown. Estacado converted the two-point conversion to lead 14-0. with 5:54 left in the quarter.

The Matadors expanded their lead to 20 when Waxie Homer scored from five yards with 2:11 left in the first. Lubbock Estacado led 20-0 after the first quarter. Pampa did get a little burst of momentum in the second

:. In a game that some predicted the McLean Tigers to lose by 30 or 40, McLean pulled an upset, beating last gear's state semifinalist Motley County 8-46 in Matador

Head coach David Jurado said it was a big win for them.

"We played our hearts out," Jurado said. "We came out and scored a 50-yard touchdown on the first play of the game. That gave us the confidence that we can beat those dudes Jurado said he got strong play from his offensive line and senior running back Clay Crockett were key to their win.

"Our whole line blocked well," Jurado E.

said. "The running backs found their holes. Clay Crockett had 300 yards rushing and five touchdowns. The Tigers (1-1) host Hedley (1-1) 7:30

Jacinto Patriots 47-Amarillo The Miami Warriors engaged in a another offensive shootout and came out on top 91-47 against the Amarillo San Jacinto Patriots Friday in Amarillo.

Head coach Jack Graves said the turning point came early in the game.

"We got the ball back and Candido Mejia ran 25-30 yards for a touchdown," Graves said. "We were able to keep a good distance from that point."

Offensively, sophomore Jared Roberts

led the team with over 200 yards rushing, ran for five touchdowns, caught a touchdown and returned an interception for a touchdown. Graves said everyone was key on defense.

"Even though we gave up that many points, we played well as a team," Graves said.

The Warriors (2-0) host last year's state semifinalist Follett (1-1) 7:30 p.m. Friday. White Deer Bucks (2-0) 12 Panhandle

Panthers (0-2) 0-White Deer The White Deer Bucks have another competitive clash with their rival pulling out a 12-0 victory Friday in White Deer. Head coach Wade Wilson said senior Travis Chester made a key interception.

"He (Chester) returned it 35 yards and set us up on Panhandle's end of the field," Wilson said.

Seniors Braden Montgomery, Jesse Slaughter and Roland Newman also came down with interceptions. Wilson said they struggled offensively with the pass but were able to establish a running game.

"We could not get our passing game going on offense," Wilson said. "In the second half we played old school smash mouth football. Our offensive line took the game over for us and controlled their defensive front."

The Bucks (2-0) will travel to Stinnett Friday and play West Texas (2-0) with a 7:30 p.m. kickoff.

Servance said the offensive line helped them generate a running game that gained 247 yards.

"It starts with our offensive line," Servance said. "I think those guys did a great job of executing the gameplan and opening holes.'

The Harvesters (0-2) visit the Randall Raiders September 10. Parker said he is anxious to start preparing for Randall.

"I feel we grew up in the second half," Parker said. "We learned to compete as a unit. We learned that we are a team no matter who's out there for us at any given point... I'm anxious to get going for next week right now.

IRVING (AP) — Patrick Crayton wanted out the minute the Dallas Cowboys drafted Dez Bryant. He finally got his wish Friday, and it might've been worth the wait.

Crayton was dealt to the San Diego Chargers, where he'll be a bigger part of the offense than he would've been in Dallas and still will be playing for a contender. The change in locales isn't bad either, although he's leaving the area where he grew up.

Dallas received only undisclosed considerations, likely a late-round draft pick. The club figured it was better than cutting him and getting nothing, plus it puts him in the other conference.

The Cowboys kept Crayton all summer mainly because there was no incentive to give in to his trade request. Once club officials began narrowing toward the 53-man roster due Saturday, they apparently felt they couldn't justify keeping someone with his high salary ($2 million) in a reduced role (fourth receiver, backup punt returner).

"You have to take everything into consideration - economics, how he fits with the team, the overall body of work — and you make a decision based on that," Cowboys vice president Stephen Jones said. "We really waited to evaluate all our receivers. ... We feel very comfortable with our depth."

They also waited to feel comfortable with Bryant's health.

The former Oklahoma State star missed the entire preseason with a high ankle sprain, but is ready for the opener at Washington a week from Sunday. Bryant is expected to take over the roles Crayton had last season - No. 3 receiver and punt returner. Dallas may ease Bryant into the punt return job; rookie safety Akwasi Owusu-Ansah likely would be used first.

Crayton skipped offseason workouts because he was upset about Bryant's arrival. Once he showed up, there were never any problems. He just couldn't get ahead of Miles Austin, Roy Williams and Bryant on the depth chart.

"You have to let things play out," Jones said. "We really wanted to evaluate the full situation. Now we're at a point where we need to make decisions."

This move also shows faith in Kevin Ogletree being ready to take on a larger role in his second season. He had six catches for 51 yards, both team-bests, in a 27-25 victory over Miami on Thursday night.

"I think he's shown he deserves an opportunity to do more," Jones said.

Dallas also has Sam Hurd, a fifth-year receiver and special teams standout. His roster spot could be in jeopardy, too, because he has a $1.8 million contract.

Crayton was among the team's most sure-handed receivers, catching 196 passes for 2,888 yards and 23 touchdowns in 82 games, including 33 starts. However, fans will never forget that he dropped a likely touchdown pass late in a humiliating playoff loss to the New York Giants in 2007.

He'd been with the team since 2004, part of Bill Parcells' second draft class.

"Patrick's been a very productive player for this organization," Jones said. "He's done nothing but represent the Cowboys in a first-class way. There was never any hard feelings from the organization's standpoint toward Patrick."

abor Day is a United States federal holiday observed on the first Monday in September. The holiday originated in Canada out of labor disputes ("Nine-Hour Movement") first in Hamilton then in Toronto, Ontario in the 1870's, which resulted in a Trade Union Act which legalized and protected union activity in 1872. The parades held in support of the Nine-Hour Movement and the printers' strike led to an annual celebration in Canada. In 1882 American labor leader Peter J. Mcguire witnessed one of these labor festivals in Toronto. Fir baths.

This year, get into your thoughts more often. Some of you might try yoga or therapy, while others will volunteer for a cause. In a sense, you are changing, and you need more downtime. You gain a great deal of insight. A partnership could become far more rewarding. Take up a special hobby, or take a massage class together. If you are single, be very careful, as someone might not be all that he or she projects. LEO reads you cold.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

 Let your enthusiasm out with a child or loved one. You are more than aware of your responsibilities. Don't forget the role of play in your life. Let the kid in you out. Others will join in. A partner becomes less serious. Tonight: Be happy that it is a long weekend.

This Week: Until mid-Tuesday, you are so playful. Business calls from that point on

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

 Remain anchored when dealing with family. Everyone gets triggered sometimes. Learn to detach, and maybe hop in the car for a drive. Choose relaxing activities. Tonight: Flip the burgers. This Week: Again, you are happiest close to home, and this theme lasts until Wednesday. Then the need for adventure takes over

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

* Keep communication flowing. You might not understand why someone in your immediate circle is dour. Make calls, reach out to friends and catch up on news. Get together with friends at a party or friendly get-together. Tonight: Where the action is.

This Week: Schedule personal events Monday and Tuesday. You will be less energetic afterward.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)  Be aware of a need to make yourself feel more secure. Work on yourself rather than play games. Join friends, and lavish attention on your pals. The hostess appreciates your efforts or a thoughtful gift. Tonight: Don't hold back so much. This Week: You could go way overboard and not care until Wednesday. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

* You note a quality you haven't felt in a while. Someone at a distance calls. Go along with his or her plans if you can. Communication proves to be rewarding, as you connect on a deep level. Tonight: Celebrate. Make the most of the moment

This Week: Use Monday and Tuesday to the max, when everyone - and we do mean everyone - seems to love you. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

 Recognize that a partner often needs your attention. Use wisdom with your finances, even if it's just pitching in and getting a few items for a party. You might not want to discuss everything that's on your mind. Tonight: Do whatever you want.

This Week: Play it low-key until Wednesday, when you feel on top of your LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) * Accept an invitation to where many of your friends could be. Even if you drop by a party or two, you like being around friends and people in general. Someone you meet could be quite stiff. Tonight: Where the party is.

This Week: Monday and Tuesday are clearly prime time. From that point on, you are on a downward path. SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

* Assume the lead, whether it is bringing friends together or organizing some other happening. You have more energy than you are aware of; therefore, you could take on too much responsibility. You need time to kick back and enjoy. This is your Sunday, too. Tonight: Beam in what you want.

This Week: You naturally light up others' mood Monday and Tuesday. Events light up the remainder of the week.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)  Take off and join friends, even if it could mean an hour or two of driving.

Just getting out of your local surroundings helps you recharge. Visiting with people you don't see too often adds a new perspective to life. Catch up on others' news. Tonight: Don't worry about tomorrow. Live for the moment. This week: Extend your horizons. You might be more than an armchair traveler as well. Wednesday, others eye you, admiring your style. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) * Someone close would prefer to have you just to him- or herself. Perhaps it's time to let go of a plan or two. This person is very instrumental to your life, as you are to him or her. You don't want to disappoint this person. Tonight: Make it cozy This Week: A partner wants you to listen only to him or her. Wednesday, look to broader horizons.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

* Others make demands, and you meet their requests. You could be taken aback by everything that is going on around you. You witness a rare gettogether, be it of minds or people. Speak your mind but use diplomacy. Tonight: Go along with plans. This Week: Others want to take control.

Let them. PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

 Pitch in with a holiday party or barbecue. Do make it a point to break away and take care of certain priorities. You might want to indulge a close friend or loved one. Togetherness needs nurturing, too. Make time for a favorite person. Tonight: Just know that you don't need to push.

This Week: Relax and rest in between all that must be done.

Daily Horoscope

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Monday, Sept. 6, 2010:

This year, you greet many situations with confidence and greater insight than in the past. You develop a strong inner voice and knowledge. Some of you will opt to do personal work; others will decide to do volunteer work. If you are single, check out new people with care. They might want to portray themselves as something other than who they really are. Make sure you are not wearing rosecolored glasses. If you are attached, your relationship benefits from plenty of downtime away as couple. Curb a tendency to overindulge or spend too much. LEO proves to understand you better than many people.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

 Others try to get a reaction out of you. Do you want to accept this type of manipulation? Don't become confused when, really, a situation with a friend, child or loved one is more than clear. Indulge yourself for a change. Tonight: Forget tomorrow; live today. TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

 Plans might have you circling family and home quite closely. An older friend or relative could make an implicit demand that complicates your plans. Honestly, this one you need to decide for yourself. Tonight: Screen calls and enjoy the one you are with. GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

* Keep communication flourishing, allowing greater flow between you and another person. Your innate creativity adds a lot of fun to any gettogether. You might be surprised by what happens when you let go of tension and perhaps an expectation or two. Tonight: Where the fun is. CANCER (June 21-July 22)

* Curb a tendency to go overboard and take on too much. If you throw a party at your home, you might not need to make it spic and span. Consider bringing key friends together in the late p.m. Tonight: A partner sees an issue differently or simply doesn't understand you. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

* You beam, despite irritation or a mini-squabble. Stay focused around machinery or even just the barbecue. You could be accident-prone. Someone you put on a pedestal might not belong there. Take another look. Are you deceiving yourself? Tonight: You make the call. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

 Sometimes, even if everyone you know thinks you are "out there," you are happiest when you are quiet, doing something that means a lot to you. Don't feel the need to explain your behavior; rather, just enjoy. Tonight: Not to be found

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

 You seem to have excessive energy, which, if undirected, could make you snippy or disagreeable. Be careful, as you could alienate someone you care about deeply. Know when to go off and take a relaxing walk. Tonight: Where your friends are. SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

 You can relax, whether or not you are pivotal to today's events. Others appreciate your efforts. Confusion could surround your family and home. You might even hear something that startles

you. Tonight: A must appearance. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)  Travel might be involved with your plans somehow. Be sure you really want to take off. For some, what might be involved is an intense conversation, which helps break open barriers. Tonight: Follow the music

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)  Sometimes pulling away and not being part of the crowd can be important for a key relationship. One-on-one time enhances the tie between you. Nurture the special bonds in your life more often. Tonight: Enjoy one-on-one company. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

 Understanding evolves between you and others. You might be delighted by those who surround you, yet, at the same time, someone might be a bit out of kilter because he or she doesn't have all of your attention. Tonight: Love the one you are with.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

 Make it a point to pitch in and make someone's day a lot easier. You might find yourself at a uniquely social occasion having a great time. Don't con-fuse yourself about someone very close. You know what you are doing. You understand what is going on. Tonight: Make it easy.

Obama committed to helping middle class

WASHINGTON (AP) healthy economy needs bustling Main Streets and a thriving middle class even more than a healthy stock market, President Barack Obama said as he reaffirmed his commitment to work hard for America's hardworking men and women.

In his weekly radio and Internet address, Obama on Saturday outlined what he's done to help the middle class, a group he says has been squeezed the most during the recession.

He touted efforts to create jobs, make college more affordable, help the middle class build retirement nest eggs, cut taxes on these families and stop health insurance companies from refusing to cover people with pre-existing medical conditions.

Labor Day is about more than grilling food and spending time with family and friends, Obama said.

"It's also a day to honor the American worker --- to reaffirm our commitment to the great American middle class that has, for generations, made our economy the envy of the world," he said.

But Obama said that, for a decade, middle-class families have experienced stagnant incomes and declining economic security while tax breaks were given to companies that shifted jobs overseas and Wall Street firms reaped huge profits.

"So this Labor Day, we should recommit ourselves to our time-honored values and to this fundamental truth: To heal our economy, we need more than a healthy stock market; we need bustling Main Streets and a growing, thriving middle class,' Obama said.

"That's why I will keep working day by day to restore opportunity, economic security and that basic American dream for our families and future generations.

In the weekly Republican message, Rep. Geoff Davis, R-Ky., criticized nearly 200 pending rules and regulations as a threat to job creation.

Davis said many of the mandates would cost smallbusiness owners who don't have the money or time to comply with them.

"The more time small-business owners spend pushing paper, the less time they have to focus on creating jobs," Davis said.

He highlighted legislation he introduced that would require Congress to vote on every major new rule before it can take effect.

"The sooner we rein in the red-tape factory in Washington, D.C., the sooner small businesses can get back to creating jobs and helping more Americans find an honest day's work," he said.

Candidates steer clear 🚄 of Texas downturn talk

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas has been hailed by its officials as a lone bright star in an otherwise dreadful economy, but in a few months state lawmakers will finally come face to face with the state's stark reality and fiscal bloodbath that has spilled over the rest of the nation.

While a massive state budget shortfall will largely define the next governor's term, neither of the major candidates have laid out detailed plans to get the state through the historic financial crisis.

Democrat Bill White and Republican Gov. Rick Perry both vow to veto any proposed increase in the sales tax, the state's largest source of revenue, but they offered sharply different, yet unspecified visions about how to close the funding gap in exclusive interviews with The Associated Press

"It's absolutely the elephant in the room," said University of Texas political scientist Jim Henson."Nobody can realistically declare any kind of initiative because there's no money to do anything with and nobody can realistically talk about doing anything to get any new money.

The state budget shortfall, which some estimates have pegged as high as $18 billion for the next two-year cycle, will be the driving force behind almost every decision the Legislature makes when it convenes in January. From state parks and highways to health care programs for the poor and disabled, state agencies are bracing for the hatchet to fall

Perry, looking for his third term, has touted his economic development initiatives as the engine that has helped Texas weather the recession better than other states. But White says irresponsible policies and spending under Perry have led to the massive shortfall.

Each man gives different explanations for refusing to provide detailed plans before the Nov. 2 election.

Perry says he recognizes the severity of the shortfall but says he wants to see the official estimate of incoming revenues, expected in January, before discussing solutions.

"I'm not Pollyanna. We're not sitting around saying we don't have to worry about this. Sure, we're working on it," Perry said.

Perry did offer one promise to voters focusing on the budget: "I'm going to balance the budget without raising their taxes

White says he can't lay out detailed plans now because he plans on forging a common vision with other legislative leaders. He says he doesn't want to put "preconditions" on those negotiations by staking out hard positions during his campaign.

"I'm not being coy," White said. "If I want to be the leader of this state, I can't come and say that I'm going to deal with the lieutenant governor, speaker of the House ... with all these preconditions. That's not the way I was as mayor (of Houston) and that's not the way I'll be as governor.

"It's going to have to be a team effort."

So far, the budget shortfall hasn't been showing up as a top issue for Texas voters, said Henson, who does public opinion polling.
