A SPIKE IN SUPPORT

Kate DeVoll shows off her newly purchased playoff volleyball t-shirt from Holmes Sports Center. The shirts, according to Holmes Sports owner Ronnie Holmes, have been a hot commodity.

Pampa rallies around volleyball team

ANDREW GLOVER
 aglover@thepampanews.com
 Texas Rangers fever may have faded off, but the city is starting to rally around a new team. In fact, it's one in their own backyard.
 For the first time since 1999, the No. 12 Pampa Lady Harvesters volleyball team will play in the playoffs, with the area round match against Andrews starting at 3 p.m. Saturday in Plainview. A palpable excitement has spread across the town for the team, evident in everything from the playoff shirts being sold at local retailers to the district championship trophy on display in the high school principal's office.

 Pampa Independent School District Superintendent Barry Haenisch said everyone he has come into contact with is excited about the team.
 "Everyone has a little jump in their step," Haenisch said. "They are appreciative of watching the kids be successful. It's a huge accomplishment."
 Haenisch said the administration is proud of them.
 "We're proud of the pinnacle of their achievement," Haenisch said. "They overcame the disappointments they faced when they had clinched a playoff spot and had district wrapped up and had to forfeit twice. They are setting new standards."

 Pampa High School principal secretary Sandee Stokes said everyone is excited.
 "We had the district championship trophy in Ms. Larkin's office today," Stokes said. "Anyone who came in could see it. I think the girls are excited and a little bit scared. I think they feel like they have what it takes to get it done."
 Stokes said they had several activities today to honor the volleyball team.
 "Some of the boosters decorated the team bus," Stokes said. "At 3:20, the volleyball

Chisum stays on Speaker race stump

DAVID BOWSER

Pampa's state representative is not backing down from his statements.
 State Rep. Warren Chisum, R-Pampa, said he intends to stay in the race for Speaker of the Texas House of Representatives, even though the current Speaker, Joe Straus, R-San Antonio, claims to have the position wrapped up.

Chisum
 After calling a press conference on Wednesday to announce that he isn't conceding the race, Chisum continued to raise awareness for his candidacy on Thursday afternoon by touting his conservative credentials over the more centrist Straus.

"I don't think the people of Texas intend to be led by a moderate Republican," Chisum said.
 In Tuesday's election, Republicans increased their majority in the Texas House of Representatives from 77 to 99.
 He said Straus was elected Speaker of the House in 2009 by a coalition of Republicans and Democrats. Citing the increased number of Republicans elected to the Texas Legislature election day, however, Chisum indicated that he thinks voters made their concerns clear.
 "I think people that elected this many conservatives want a conservative Speaker," Chisum said.
 Chisum's words come in the wake of a pair of Panhandle legislators — John Smithee and Four Price, both Amarillo Republicans — pledging their support for Straus.
 Straus also indicated this week that he has the backing of 49 of 51 Democrats in the House, as well

The Woodrow Wilson Elementary School fourth graders celebrated Veteran's Day early this year with a program to honor Pampa service members.
 Thursday afternoon's program at Wilson Elementary featured fourth graders singing patriotic songs and veterans from Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 1657 posting the U.S. and Texas flags and flags representing the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Air Force, Coast Guard and Prisoners of War.
 The audience was filled with parents, relatives and veterans of the different branches of the service.
 Veteran's Day is Thursday, Nov. 11.

Wilson fourth grader Nancy Tello thanks VFW Post 1657 Commander Danny Martin left, for his service to the nation during the class's patriotic program this week in advance of Veteran's Day, Nov. 11.

Clarence E. Swindle, 76,

Clarence E. Swindle, 76, died November 4, 2010, in Roberts County.

Services are pending with Carmichael-Whitley Funeral Directors.

Mr. Swindle was born December 27, 1933, in Donley County. He had been a resident of the Pampa area since 1970. He married Beulah Faye Teague on June 19, 1955, in Pampa. She preceded him in death in 2005. Clarence was an aircraft mechanic and pilot, and later became a tractor and farm implement mechanic. He was a veteran of the U. S. Army, serving during the Korean Conflict, and was a member of the Pampa V.F.W. Post 1657. He volunteered at the Freedom Museum in Pampa.

Survivors include his two daughters, Valerie Conrad and husband Bill of Amarillo, and Paula Hendrick and companion Heather Kreger of St. Louis, Mo.; a sister, Floy Graham of Killeen, and a grandson, Cyle Hendrick of St. Louis, Mo.

Memorials may be made to Pampa V.F.W. Post 1657, P.O. Box 2684, Pampa, TX 79066-1657.

Frances Maedell Lanehart

Frances Maedell Lanehart, of Lubbock, died November 3, 2010. Maedell, also known as "Gracie" to her family, was born May 16, 1921 in Bosque County, to David and Jamie Alsop, who preceded her in death.

A memorial service will be held Saturday, November 6, 11 a.m., at First Christian Church of Lubbock, and the Reverend Michael Passmore will officiate. Graveside services will be held Monday, November 8, 11 a.m., at Fairview Cemetery in Pampa.

In 1950, Maedell married the love of her life, Charles Lanehart Sr., who preceded her in death in 1986. Her siblings were sister, Ara Christopher, and brothers, Woodrow Alsop, Cecil "Buckle" Alsop, and Jay Alsop, all of whom also preceded her in death. She is survived by her son, Charles (Chuck) Lanehart Jr. and his wife Paula, son David Lanehart and his wife Cindy Martin, granddaughter

Lanehart

Lindsey Craig and her husband Rob, all of Lubbock, and many nieces and nephews. Her favorite cousins, Bill and Nita Archer of San Angelo and Martha Lowe of Ruidoso, N.M., also survive her.

Maedell was lightheartedly called the "the church lady" by her children. For many years, she seemed to own the First Christian Church of Pampa, Texas. She was a deacon and elder, chaired the church education committee, and she was Sunday School Superintendent for more than a decade. She was also a longtime member and President of the Christian Women's Fellowship. She was an active member and President of the Pampa El Progreso Study Club. When she moved to Lubbock in 1999, she became active in the First Christian Church of Lubbock. Maedell was an education advocate everywhere she went. She was elected President of the Pampa PTA, and held statewide posts in the Texas PTA. She never missed a kid's school activity, and screamed through seemingly hundreds of their football games. Maedell loved all family activities. She accompanied her brood on camping expeditions, cleaned and cooked fish and game from hunting expeditions, and braved many treacherous mountain roads on skiing expeditions. When she acquired daughters-in-law and a granddaughter, she delighted in more feminine expeditions. She was a bridge master and an accomplished cook.

Maedell will be remembered for her love of family, and for her Christian faith. Her family and her many close friends will miss her humor, her quick smile, and her tenacity. In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to the South Plains Council of the Boy Scouts of America, Meals on Wheels, or Hospice of Lubbock.

Arrangements are under the direction of Rix Funeral Home, Lubbock.

J. D. Williams, 84

J. D. Williams, 84, died November 4, 2010, in Amarillo.

Services are pending with Carmichael-Whitley Funeral Directors.

Mr. Williams was born December 18, 1925, in Hobart, Okla. He married Eleanor Fennell on March 31, 1950, in Lordsburg, N.M. She preceded him in death on August 23, 2002. J. D. retired from the U. S. Postal Service in Pampa on September 18, 1981, as the Postmaster. He was a veteran of the U. S. Navy, serving during World War II, and was a member of the Pampa Masonic Lodge #966 AF&AM for over 50 years.

Survivors include her son, Jeff Williams of Pampa; granddaughter, Rachel Dorsey and husband Travis of Houston; two great-grandsons, Connor Dorsey and Luke Dorsey, both of Houston. He was preceded in death by a daughter, Joyce Ann Laycock.

Memorials may be made to a favorite charity. Sign the online register at www.carmichael-whitley.com.

Wagner card sells for $262,000

BALTIMORE (AP) — A rare Honus Wagner baseball card that was bequeathed to an order of Roman Catholic nuns has sold at auction for $262,000.

The Baltimore-based School Sisters of Notre Dame put the card up for sale after inheriting it from the brother of a deceased nun. The sale price exceeded the expectations of auctioneers at Dallas-based Heritage Auction Galleries.

The nuns will receive $220,000 from the sale. The total sale price includes a 19.5 percent buyer's premium. Sister Virginia Muller, who was entrusted with the card, says the proceeds will go to the order's ministries in more than 30 countries around the world.

Collector and card shop owner Doug Walton bought the card.

About 60 of the T206 Honus Wagner cards, produced between 1909 and 1911, are known to exist. One in near-perfect condition sold in 2007 for $2.8 million.

Film Commission head quits

AUSTIN (AP) — The head of the Texas Film Commission is quitting and he denies allegations of sexual harassment brought by an employee.

Bob Hudgins was still listed Friday, on the commission's website, as director of the organization. The commission operates under the auspices of Gov. Rick Perry's office.

Hudgins on Thursday confirmed he plans to retire Nov. 30 and cited family reasons. He also says a sexual harassment complaint against him is without merit. Further details on the investigation were not immediately available.

Perry spokeswoman Katherine Cesinger declined comment, citing personnel matters.

Mistrial in trooper steroids case

KERRVILLE (AP) — A mistrial has been declared for a former Texas trooper accused of selling steroids after a juror decided he was guilty before hearing evidence.

Judge Rex Emerson on Thursday declared a mistrial in the case of Jeff Jerman, then set a Feb. 1 date for his next trial in Kerrville. The unidentified juror indicated to Emerson that she believes Jerman is guilty.

Jerman, who's charged with manufacture and delivery of a controlled substance, declined comment.

Prosecutor Amos Barton says no alternates were chosen when the 12-member jury was seated Wednesday because the trial was expected to last only two days.

Jerman is accused of selling steroids to an undercover Kerrville police officer in September 2009. The Department of Public Safety fired him three months later.

Shell selling 6 Gulf oil field stakes

LONDON (AP) — Royal Dutch Shell says it is selling its interest in six oil fields in the Gulf of Mexico for $450 million.

Shell said Friday that it was selling those interests to W&T Energy VI, a subsidiary of W&T Offshore, Inc., of Houston.

Shell says the sale is part of its plan to shed up to $8 billion in assets this year and next to invest in growth opportunities.

Shell says it is continuing to invest in deepwater drilling in the Gulf of Mexico.

Texas to execute two more

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas authorities have set 2011 execution dates for two men who were condemned for killing teenagers.

State District Judge Maria Teresa Herr on Thursday set a July 7, 2011, execution date for a Mexican national condemned in the 1994 rape and killing of 16-year-old Adria Saucedo in San Antonio.

The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals on Feb. 10 refused to reconsider additional DNA testing requested by 37-year-old Humberto Leal of Monterrey, Mexico. Leal had hoped further testing would exonerate him, the San Antonio Express-News reported. The appeals court ruled last year that because of evidence and extensive DNA testing done for Leal's trial, additional testing was not likely to change the outcome.

Saucedo's body was found on a road near a party they both had attended.

Separately, State District Judge Sharen Wilson on Thursday ordered the execution of Michael Wayne Hall on Feb. 15, 2011. Hall was condemned in the torture and killing of Amy Robinson, a 19-year-old mentally impaired woman, who was shot with arrows, a pellet gun and a rifle.

Fort Worth Star-Telegram said the proposed execution date is 13 years to the day since Robinson's death.

Another man convicted in the killing, Robert Neville, was executed in 2006. Both men worked with Robinson at a grocery store.

Halloween holdup arrests made

PANTEGO (AP) — Four teenage suspects have been caught as police in Pantego investigate the robbery of about 30 people at a Halloween eve party.

Police Chief Joel McKinney says three suspects were captured Wednesday night at an apartment complex. Fort Worth police say the fourth teen was caught after authorities found a loaded gun in his car.

The suspects, who are 17 and 18, face multiple counts of aggravated robbery.

Police say four young men, including two with guns, wore costumes when they crashed the party Saturday night. The father of one of the partygoers, who arrived to pick up his child, was beaten by the suspects and required medical attention.

Police have said most of the partygoers attend Arlington High School.

Texas gas prices dip slightly

IRVING (AP) — The average price of gasoline in Texas dipped slightly to $2.63 this week.

The weekly AAA Texas price survey released Thursday shows the Texas price fell an average of 2 cents per gallon, while the national average held steady at $2.81.

Despite crude oil prices rising to the $85-a-barrel range, the auto club says a larger-than-expected supply of gasoline and oil is stabilizing prices.

The cheapest prices in Texas are in Fort Worth and San Antonio at $2.59 per gallon, 3 cents less than last week in Fort Worth and 2 cents less in San Antonio. The costliest gasoline is in Amarillo, where the average price fell a nickel to $2.68.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The economy generated a net gain in jobs for the first time in five months in October, as businesses stepped up their painfully slow pace of hiring.

But the unemployment rate, measured by a separate survey of households, remained stuck at 9.6 percent for the third straight month.

The Labor Department said Friday its survey of employers showed a net gain of 151,000 jobs last month, the first increase since May. Private employers hired 159,000 workers, the best since April.

Economists welcomed the report, which showed much stronger job gains than Wall Street analysts had expected.

"This is not a gangbusters report but it is very important," said Carl Riccadonna, an economist at Deutsche Bank. "It shows us that the momentum in employment is building."

Employers also extended the average work week to 34.3 hours, up by one-tenth. The additional jobs and longer work week should boost Americans' incomes and provide fuel for more consumer spending, which drives about 70 percent of the economy.

The additional income, combined with the Federal Reserve's decision Wednesday to pump more cash into the economy and the potential extension of the Bush tax cuts, could "jump start a virtuous cycle," Riccadonna said. More income may encourage more spending, leading to more hiring by healthier companies, he added.

The department also revised August and September's payroll figures higher. The private sector added 103,000 more jobs in those two months than previously estimated.

So far this year, the economy has added 874,000 jobs and over a million in the private sector. But that comes after the nation lost more than 8 million jobs in 2008 and 2009.

And about 14.8 million people say they were unemployed, a figure that hasn't improved much since the beginning of the year.

The job gains were concentrated in relatively few sectors: retailers added 27,900 positions, likely in preparation for the holiday season. Temporary agencies added 34,900. Restaurants and bars hired 24,400 people.

Government at all levels shed only 8,000 jobs, a much better showing than September's steep drop.

The construction industry added a small number of jobs, while the manufacturing sector shed 7,000 positions. Factory employment has been roughly unchanged since May.

The economy needs to add at least 100,000 net new jobs a month just to keep up with population growth. It will need to generate many more than that to cut into the unemployment rate, which has now topped 9.5 percent for 15 months.

The economy is growing, but at a weak pace. The Commerce Department said last month that gross domestic product, the broadest measure of the nation's output, increased by 2 percent in the July-September period. That isn't fast enough to encourage much hiring.

High unemployment helped stoke voter anger in congressional elections earlier this week. The Republican Party took control of the House and made significant gains in the Senate.

On Wednesday, the Federal Reserve announced a plan to buy $600 billion in Treasury bonds in an effort to accelerate economic growth. Those purchases are intended to lower interest rates on mortgages and other loans and spur more borrowing and spending.

and football teams will parade through the halls in a "Walk of Champions." The students will line up outside their classrooms and hi-five with them."

Holmes Sports Center owner Ronnie Holmes said he can sense the excitement.

"The town is really getting behind these girls," Holmes said. "They came close last year but got the job done this year."

Holmes said the volleyball playoff shirts are a hot item.

"We've sold over 100," Holmes said. "We had pre-orders for 75."

"There are huge crowds at Holmes buying playoff shirts," added Teresa Eubank, mother of senior volleyball player Taryn Eubank. "It seems everyone is jumping on the bandwagon."

Pampa High School teacher Kate Devoll purchased shirts yesterday for her kids and is excited about the team.

"I'm excited to see them go this far and hopefully they go further," Devoll said.

The public is invited to help send the team off to Plainview tomorrow in style. People are encouraged to meet at 11:30 a.m. at McNeeley Fieldhouse to wave to the team as they depart; the team bus leaves at 11:45 a.m.

Today in History

Today is Friday, Nov. 5, the 309th day of 2010. There are 56 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On Nov. 5, 1940, President Franklin D. Roosevelt won an unprecedented third term in office as he defeated Republican challenger Wendell L. Willkie.

On this date:

In 1605, the "Gunpowder Plot" failed as Guy Fawkes was seized before he could blow up the English Parliament.

In 1872, suffragist Susan B. Anthony defied the law by attempting to vote for President Ulysses S. Grant. (Anthony was convicted by a judge and fined $100, but never paid the fine.)

In 1935, Parker Brothers began marketing the board game "Monopoly."

In 1946, Republicans captured control of both the Senate and the House in midterm elections.

In 1960, silent film producer Mack Sennett, best known for his "Keystone Kops" comedies and introducing Charlie Chaplin to the screen, died in Los Angeles at age 80.

In 1968, Richard M. Nixon won the presidency, defeating Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and American Independent candidate George C. Wallace.

In 1974, Ella T. Grasso was elected governor of Connecticut, becoming the first woman to win a gubernatorial office without succeeding her husband.

In 1985, Spencer W. Kimball, president of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, died at age 90; he was succeeded by Ezra Taft Benson.

In 1990, Rabbi Meir Kahane, the Brooklyn-born Israeli extremist, was shot to death at a New York hotel. (Egyptian native El Sayyed Nosair was convicted of the slaying in federal court.)

In 1999, U.S. District Judge Thomas Penfield Jackson declared Microsoft Corp. a monopoly. (Judge Jackson later ordered Microsoft broken up into two companies, but the Justice Department subsequently said it was no longer seeking a breakup.)

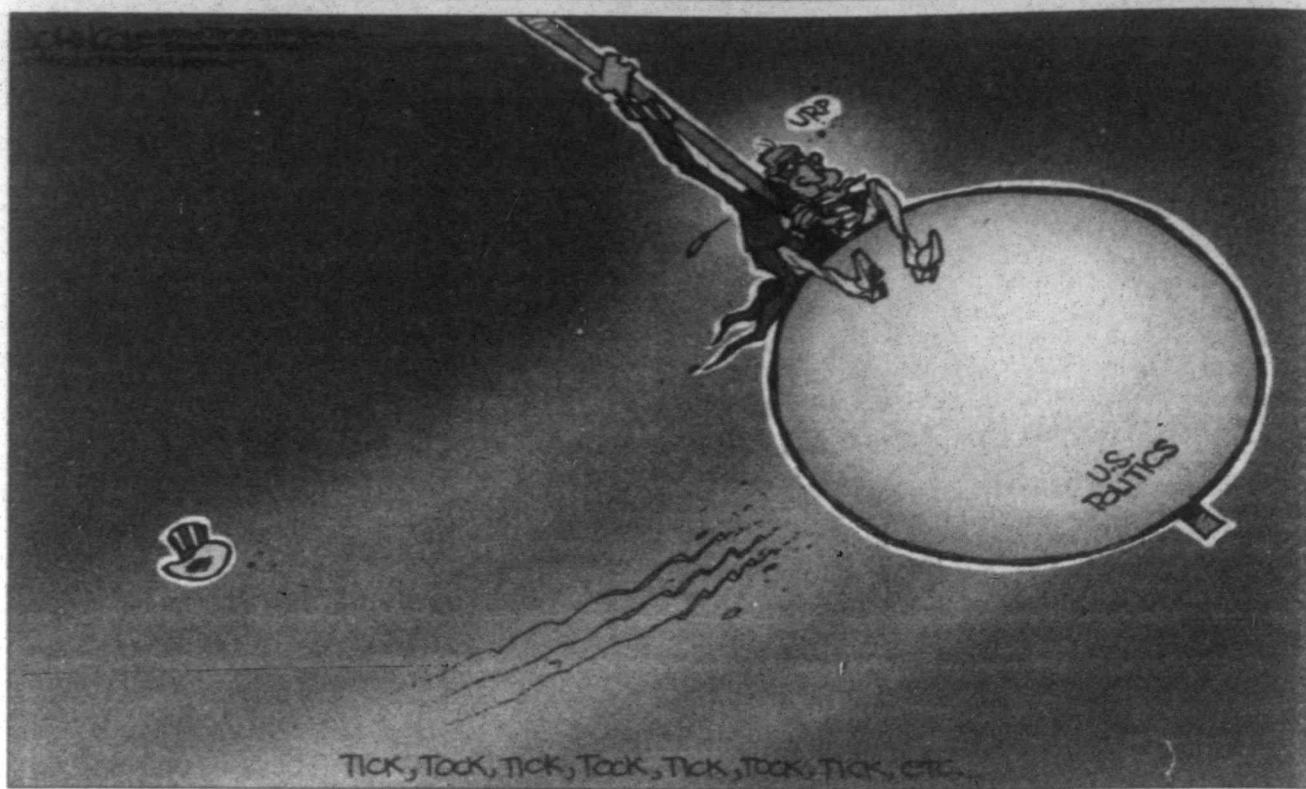

Ten years ago: Abdelkhalid El Mouaziz won the New York City Marathon, finishing in 2:10:09 and becoming the first Moroccan champion. Ludmila Petrova became the first Russian champion, winning the women's division in 2:25:45.

Five years ago: Pirates attacked a cruise ship off the coast of Somalia, but the ship changed course and sped away to escape.

One year ago: A shooting rampage at the Fort Hood Army post in Texas left 13 people dead; Maj. Nidal Hasan, an Army psychiatrist, was charged with premeditated murder and attempted murder for the worst mass killing on a U.S. military base.

Spoofing and phishing real online dangers

The Internet has created so many opportunities for businesses and individuals to communicate more effectively.

As the popularity has grown exponentially, so have the risks of fraudulent criminal activity. As mentioned in a previous article, social networking is where most of the criminal activity takes place.

A social network is a social structure made up of individuals (or organizations) which are connected by interdependencies such as friendship, kinship, or common interests. Most people would not open an e-mail from a stranger, but would not think twice about the e-mail from their sister or coworker. Most people would not install a program given to them from a stranger, but they would click on a pop-up they get while browsing the Internet. Let's take a look at a couple of techniques used to trick the user into giving up sensitive information or installing malicious software. We are going to look at spoofing and phishing.

We get calls frequently from organizations claiming to be supporting the local community only to find out that they are actually call centers that have nothing to do with the community. Have you ever received a letter from a lottery organization claiming to have won and they need your banking information so they can send you the money? We often get calls from clients saying their computer is compromised because people on their contact list are getting spam messages from them.

In reality, they are a victim of spoofing. Spoofing is the practice of masquerading or impersonating as another individual. The more well-known you are, the more likely that you will be spoofed. I get e-mails sometimes that are addressed from me. I know that I didn't send them. So what happened? Let me explain using a more traditional example.

This example involves David, Sally (David's girlfriend), Sally's parents, and Becky (Sally's friend that moved to another town). Suppose that David wanted to send a love letter to his girlfriend Sally. Sally's parents have grounded her because she spends too much time with David and her grades are suffering.

In order to get the letter to Sally,

bits & bytes

DANIEL SILVA

David sends it with the return address of Becky. Both Sally and her parents think the letter is from Becky but in reality it came from David. Sally reads the love letter and wonders why Becky sent it to her. Since David forgot to put his name in the letter, Sally calls Becky and asks her about the letter. Becky tells Sally that she didn't send the letter.

Now, let's take a look at this situation. Only David knows that he sent the letter. Can Becky stop David from sending letters using her return address? No. Sally opens the letter without hesitation because Becky is a good friend.

This happens every day in the Internet world. It is very easy to change the reply address in an e-mail. Spammers use this technique to trick people into opening e-mails because they think it is from a trusted source. Often, the e-mail contains an attachment or a link which can install malware or viruses. The spammers get e-mail addresses from many sources including company directories, websites, social sites such as Myspace and Facebook, or from compromised computers.

Phishing is similar to fishing in that bait is used to try and catch it's victim. Spoofing is often used by criminals as part of their phishing schemes. As you can see in the example above, spoofing is very easy to do and happens every day. The most common phishing attempts involve logging into secure websites.

Phishing is similar to spoofing in that it uses the practice of masquerading or impersonating. Phishing is typically carried out by e-mail and it often directs users to enter details at a fake website whose look and feel are almost identical to the legitimate one. A common phishing attempt is a spoofed e-mail that appears to be sent from a bank. The e-mail often says that there is a problem with the account and immediate action is required. The e-mail asks the user to click on a link to login to their account to fix the problem. In reality, when the user clicks the link, the user is redirected to a fake website that appears to be legitimate.

When the user tries to login using their username and password, their confidential information is collected and the criminal now has access to the real bank website.

These fake websites are usually short-lived, so that it is very difficult to track down the source. Often, these fake websites are set up in compromised web servers and compromised user accounts.

The best way to defend yourself against phishing attempts is to contact the bank directly and ask them about the e-mail. You can also open up a browser and go to the website directly and not use the link provided in the e-mail. Phishing is not limited to banking and is often used for online shopping sites and networking sites such as facebook and myspace.

As you can see, there are many ways that criminals can get personal information from unsuspecting users. If you feel that you have been a victim of spoofing and phishing, change your password to your accounts and notify the banks, etc. Forward the spoofed e-mail to the business so they can be aware that it is happening. Keeping your system up-to-date and having good anti-virus/anti-malware will also help. Ultimately, we have to be cautious of when we enter sensitive information and we must be careful when opening e-mail. If you feel your computer has been compromised, contact a computer professional. You do not want your computer systems traced back to these criminal activities. Some malicious software is very difficult to detect and sometimes it is difficult to remove.

Replacing a kitchen range hood

Dear Pat: My kitchen smells when I cook fish or onions, but the range hood is too noisy to use. I would like to build a decorative wood one myself. Is this a good idea, or is a stock range hood better? — Jes S.

Dear Jes: People often don't realize how important it is to use a range hood when cooking. Odors are the least of the concerns. Without a range hood running, vaporized grease eventually will coat the kitchen walls. During the summer, the heat and moisture from cooking also make your air conditioner run harder.

Although range hoods are fairly simple devices with a fan and a light, their interiors have special details that would be difficult for you to duplicate. The screens and airflow passages inside the range hood are designed to capture and condense grease vapors before they build up in the duct. A grease-filled duct may become a fire hazard.

There are many very decorative designs of stock range hoods available to complement any kitchen decor. Most home center stores carry good-quality, attractive models for between $100 and $200. They are also much quieter than your old one. Some very ornate range hoods can cost as much as $2,000. Some even have built-in automatic fire extinguishers to put out a grease fire.

The first step in replacing an old range hood yourself is to switch off the electric power at the circuit breaker box. Turn the range hood on. You will know you switched the proper circuit breaker when it stops running. Examine the wires with a circuit tester just to double-check the power is off to the range hood.

Remove the old range hood and measure the location of the duct opening, the electrical wiring to it and any other items or cabinet protrusions that need to be avoided. You should have a helper during this step to support the range hood while you loosen the mounting screws. Take a photo of the cabinet area with the range hood removed and take it to the home center with you.

HOME HOW-TO

When selecting your new range hood, look for ones with a height so the bottom surface will be between 24 and 30 inches above the range top. It would be ideal if it extends about 3 inches over the front edge of the range. The new range hood width will be determined by the space between your cabinets. Most range hoods have selectable duct openings at the top and back. Open the required duct and electrical knockout holes.

With your helper supporting the range hood, mark the locations of its keyhole mounting holes on the wall. The mounting screws are usually included with the range hood. Remove the range hood and drive the mounting screws about halfway into the wall. Place the range hood back over the screws to make sure they are properly located.

Push the range hood tightly against the wall and check for any large unattractive gaps between it and the cabinets. You may have to remove it again and nail up some thin trim strips for a good fit. With the range hood loosely mounted, attach the wiring to it and test to make sure it works. Tighten the mounting screws.

Send your questions to Here's How, 6906 Royalgreen Dr., Cincinnati, OH 45244 or visit www.dulley.com.

HOME HOW-TO

Kitchen Odors

Range hood units are a necessity in any kitchen. Installing a vented hood is a project that most homeowners can accomplish over a weekend.

VENTING CAPACITY

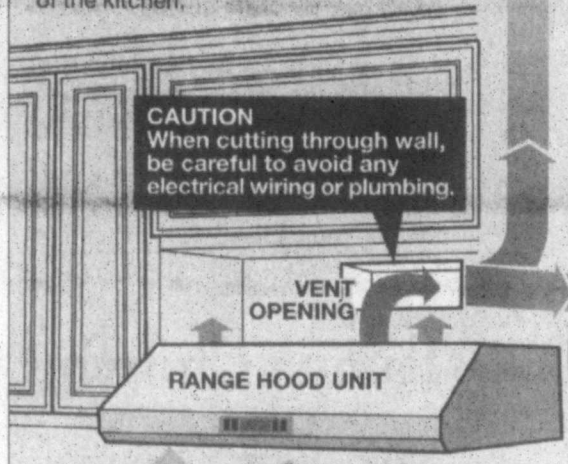

When choosing a range hood, check its CFM rating, which indicates the number of cubic feet of air it pulls per minute. Choose a unit with a CFM rating that is double the square footage of the kitchen.

VENTED HOODS

If the range hood is against an exterior wall, the vent can go directly through the side of the house.

CAUTION
When cutting through wall, be careful to avoid any electrical wiring or plumbing.

A less visible alternative is to run the ductwork between the walls into the attic and through the roof.

SYSTEMS TYPES

Two types of hoods - venting and recirculating.
 ■ Vented units require a connection to an exhaust duct to vent hot air and cooking odors outside.
 ■ Recirculating units pull air through a filter that removes odors and grease and blows the air back into the kitchen. Filters will have to be changed frequently for best results.

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: Approximately every three hours, a home fire death occurs somewhere in the U.S. These fatalities occur because there wasn't a functioning smoke detector in the house.

According to the National Fire Protection Association, 96 percent of American homes have at least one smoke alarm. However, an estimated 19 percent of them do not work, primarily because of missing or dead batteries.

Please join me this year in urging your readers when they set their clocks back to standard time this Sunday to use the extra hour they gain to change and test the batteries in their smoke alarms and carbon monoxide detectors. It only takes a moment, and they offer the best defense a family has against the devastating effects of a home fire.

No one should be hurt or potentially lose a life for want of a working smoke alarm, yet death strikes nearly 3,000 people every year in home fires. A working smoke alarm will provide individuals and families precious extra seconds to get out safely.

Thank you for printing this, Abby. Together, we can make a difference and, hopefully, save a life. — JACK PAROW, PRESIDENT, INTERNATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF FIRE CHIEFS

DEAR MR. PAROW: I hope my readers will take to heart your suggestion. This is a ritual I perform when I set my clocks back every year. And readers, please be aware that smoke alarms should be replaced every 10 years and there should be a mix of both ionization and photoelectric smoke alarms in your home so that you and your loved ones will be alerted to all types of home fires. This was news to me, and I hope you will mention it to your friends and loved ones!

DEAR ABBY: I have been unhappy for more than a year. People tell me my teens should be a happy time in my life, but they aren't. I have a pretty good life with no major problems. But because it's not perfect, I tend to take little things and agonize over them. My emotions are affecting my relationships with other people, my self-esteem and, most of all, my mind.

After doing some research and a lot of thinking, I know I need to see a therapist, but my problem is my parents. At first, I was terrified to tell them. But I finally told my mom. I'm still afraid to tell my dad.

My mother refuses to deal with it. When I ask her to find a therapist, she either won't talk about it, hoping I will forget about it, or she makes an excuse or makes it sound like I don't need one.

Abby, I'm only 15; I have no power. How can I get my parents to understand that I need a therapist and they should help me get some help? — ALWAYS SAD IN ST. PETERSBURG, FLA.

DEAR ALWAYS SAD: You appear to be a bright young lady who is very much in touch with your emotions. When someone is consistently depressed for more than a few weeks, it's a sign that professional help may be needed. There may be many reasons for your mother's reluctance to accept this -- from concern about the cost to fear that seeing a therapist might cause you to be labeled as having emotional problems.

However, because your sadness is persistent, the person who should decide if you need therapy (or medication) should be a licensed mental health professional. Because you can't get your mother to take you seriously, discuss what has been going on with a counselor at school.

Another time to thank our veterans

Wow — Another time of year when we can look out across our land shout a heart-felt THANK YOU to all Veterans who served to protect our nation and keep us a free people. From those who were drafted to those who joined — from those who were stateside with no combat experience to the most highly-decorated soldier on the front line — To all of you, we say "Thank you and God bless you."

A couple of years ago, I was asked to speak at a Memorial Day celebration at the Veteran's Museum. It was an honor to me. I studied and studied. I looked for a military poem that would express in rhyme and verse, just what all our veterans mean to me. I searched high and low for just the right poem to express my feelings. But it was all to no avail. Nothing I found communicated my heart's emotions. Therefore, I decided to try to write my own. This is the result.

"My Hero"

I pass you each day — On the walk and the street,
You are the people unknown I'd most like to meet.

I know not your name — I know not your face,
But deep in my heart you hold a very special place.

I know not your story — I know not your end,
But it would be a great honor to call you my friend.

JOHNNY FUNDERBURG

the good word

All around me you journey, living out your last day,

While hidden in secret is the part you did play.
In time of war or of peace, you answered the Call,

You did it for me — You did it for all.
Though your body may show signs of growing some older,

Still residing inside you is the heart of a soldier.
The thanksgiving I feel — No words will suffice,

For your Bravery and Courage — You all paid a price.
Then on this Special Day — So that we don't forget,

We Remember the Fallen — We Honor each Vet.
Because of your Sacrifices — We stand today Free,

But most of all, please know — You are a Hero to me.

Johnny Funderburg is the pastor at First Baptist Church.

CHURCH SPOTLIGHT

WD Sacred Heart Catholic hosts 72nd sausage dinner

SPECIAL TO THE PAMPA NEWS

Sacred Heart Catholic Church in White Deer host their 72nd annual Polish Sausage Dinner 11 a.m. Sunday at the Sacred Heart Parish Hall.

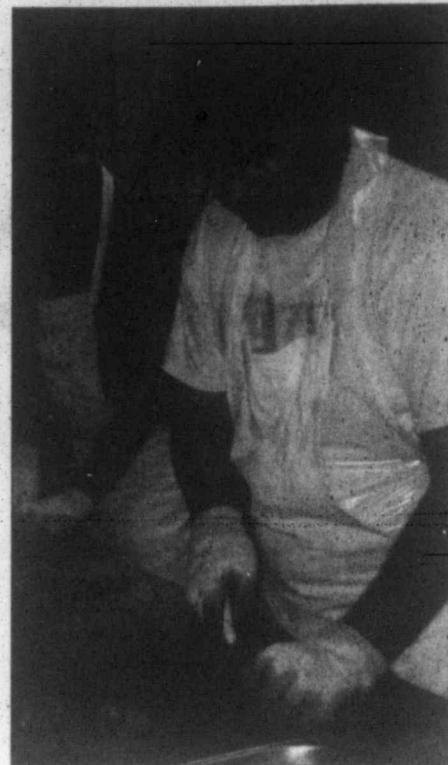

Barbecued and steamed sausage will be served with potato salad, coleslaw and pinto beans. Tickets are available at the dinner: $10 for adults and $6 for children.

4,000 pounds of sausage, 600 pounds of coleslaw and potato salad and 250 pounds of pinto beans are being prepared for the dinner.

The first Polish Sausage Dinner began in 1938, when a Polish priest, Father Zienta, wanted the Polish pioneers to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the church parish.

The dinner is always held in the fall after the crops are harvested and today the festival is held on the first Sunday of November.

Sacred Heart Church is located on the 500 block of North Main Street. The congregation is led by Father Mitch.

daily horoscope

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Saturday, Nov. 6, 2010:

This year, you often project someone very different from the authentic you. This disparity can cause a problem sometimes. Allow a merger of image and personality. Your strong intuition will point you in the right direction. Verbalize your thoughts and feelings more often. If you are single, you could have one stunning love affair or a series of whirlwind relationships — enjoy. If you are attached, there could be a new addition to your family, if you are at the right point in your life. The two of you will enjoy yourselves more and more together. SAGITTARIUS sees financial issues far differently.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

★★★★ You demand greater give-and-take within a relationship. Your ability to understand and integrate your feelings helps you express your needs within a relationship. Listen well, and you could be shocked by what you hear. Tonight: Let plans revolve around your sweetie.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

★★★★ You can be a stubborn Bull. Nevertheless, it is appropriate to back off some and allow others to make the decisions. Friends provide an endless source of fun and happiness. If you are single, a friendship could be developing into more. Tonight: Go along with another's plans.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

★★★★ You might not be able to postpone a project or decision any longer. Just take the big plunge. You might feel a bit overwhelmed. Trust yourself to finish what must be done. Invite a friend or relative over. Tonight: Easy does it.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

★★★★ If you are single, you could find yourself suddenly entangled in a new relationship. Others find a new beginning. Your creativity surges, encouraging solutions with an innate easiness. A child might need extra time. Tonight: A good old-fashioned date.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

★★★ Recognize the importance of staying close to home. You might not feel comfortable with a present situation. Indulging a difficult friend or loved one might not be the answer. Tonight: Dinner at your pad.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

★★★★ Express yourself without too much reserve. Others are more receptive than they have been in a long time. You could be surprised by what a partner or several friends reveal. Resolve to keep communication open. Tonight: Visit with a friend, flirt with a new acquaintance or just chat with a loved one.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

★★★ Be careful — in your effort to make someone feel comfortable and cared about, you could go overboard. The problem lies in the cost of this behavior. Try less-expensive indulgences. Offer a back massage or help this person with a project. Tonight: Stick to your budget.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

★★★★ If you act like you feel, you could be unstoppable. You might be confused by a domestic matter. Don't linger on this issue for too long. Let go, and choose to join a loved one at a movie or do some other favored pastime. Tonight: Just wish upon a star.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

★★★ Make it OK to be by yourself, whether it is by choice or not. You might need to review a recent event or exchange. The unexpected occurs with family or your home. Communication soars. Tonight: Make it easy.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

★★★★ A friendship remains a high priority. Make plans to meet this person today or as soon as you can. You hear news that might surprise you. Adapt and work with it. A positive attitude goes far. Tonight: Use care when handling money.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

★★★ You might have tight plans, but an older relative's or respected friend's or associate's request could toss them in the air. You like structure and sometimes might have difficulty with scenarios like this. Relax. You can do it. Tonight: Out and about.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

★★★★ Take off for a day trip or another form of escape. You need to recharge your batteries, and the more different the setting, the better off you will be. Give up worrying and overthinking. Tonight: Try a new spot with music.

VOLLEYBALL PREVIEW

ANDREWS
Lady Mustangs

No. 12 Lady Harvesters set for Andrews' scrappy D

ANDREW GLOVER
aglover@thepampanews.com

The No. 12 Pampa Lady Harvesters had a bye in the bi-district round of the playoffs, but didn't necessarily take a break.

"We haven't really rested much," junior Ramie Hutto said. "We rested a little but not much. We're practicing for state right now. We're taking game by game."

Garza said the bye week was needed and they are working on their side of the net.

"We have a couple of players injured and not a hundred percent," Garza said. "We spent this week getting to the next level of intensity. We really worked on recovering faster and running a faster offense."

Intensity was Pampa's focus, as they play the Andrews Lady Mustangs in the area round 3 p.m. Saturday at Plainview High School.

Andrews finished second in District 4 and beat Fabens in the bi-district round Tuesday. Junior Delaney Clendening said she is starting to feel the pressure.

"I'm kind of feeling the pressure but in a good way," Clendening said. "I think I'm ready and I think we all are ready."

Junior Ramie Hutto said the practices have been intense.

"We are working really hard and speeding everything up," Hutto said. "We're bringing the intensity up to another level for playoffs."

Head coach Libby Garza said they are working on speeding up their game because of Andrews' defense.

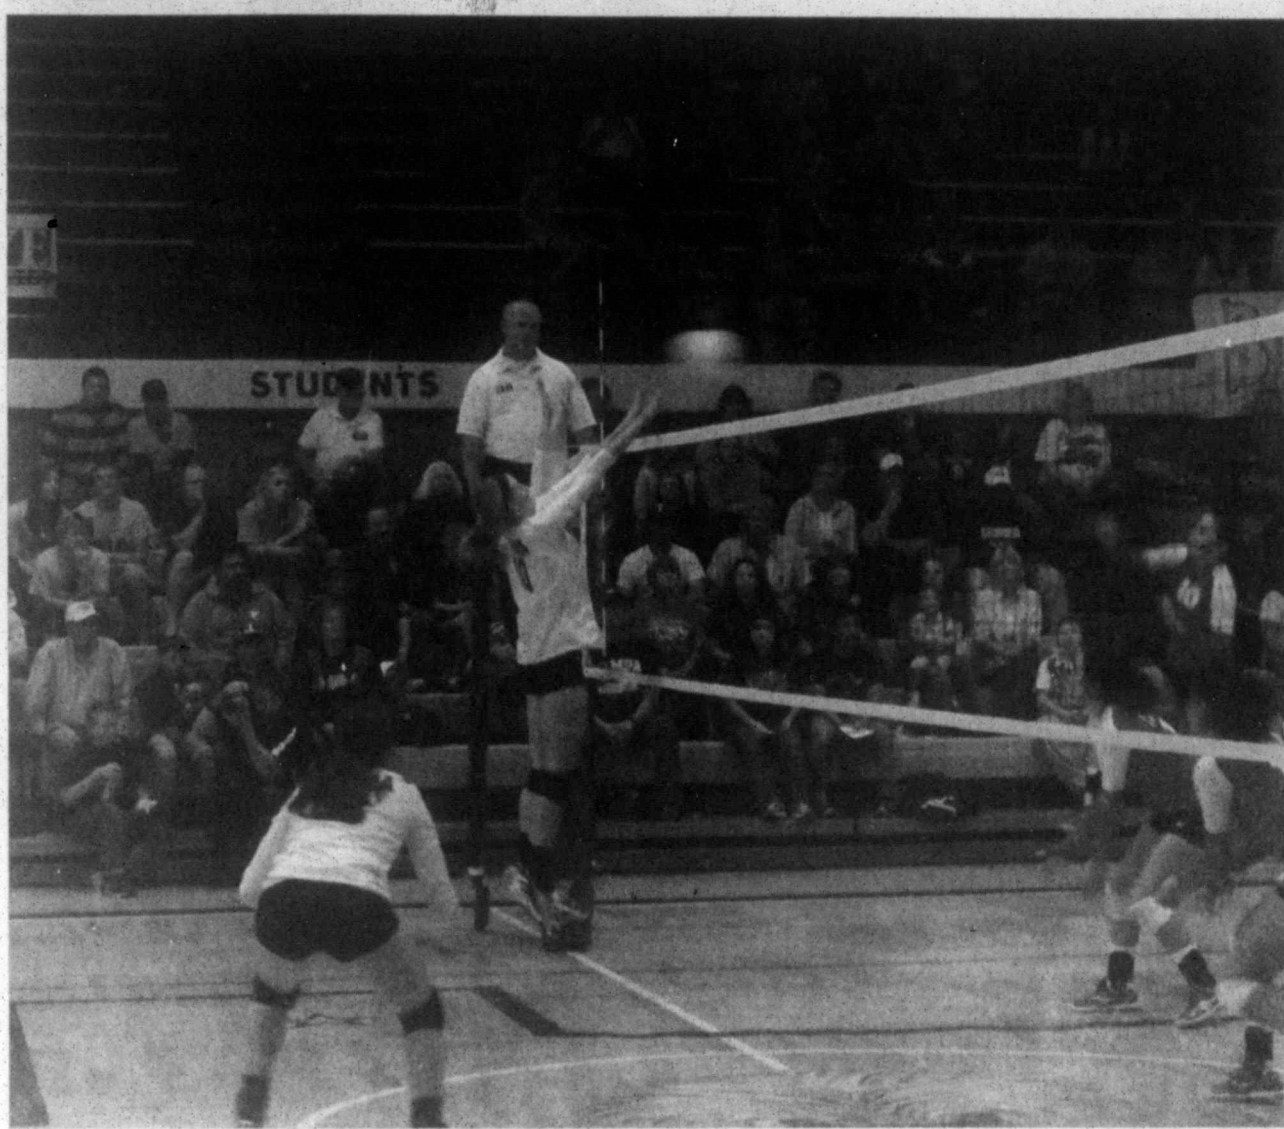

"I know they are scrappy on defense and they're confident," Garza said.

"Hutto said they will have to earn everything on their side."

"We are going to have to win hard to win the match," Hutto said. "They are going to keep the ball from hitting the floor."

Garza said the key to victory will be taking care of their side.

"We need to be confident, pass well and just get past our first time jitters," Garza said.

The Pampa Harvesters football team use their bye week to heal up and start preparations for their playoff game against Lubbock Cooper November 12.

Senior wide receiver Garrett Ericson said this week has been fun because the junior varsity and freshman players are practicing with them.

"I remember when I was a sophomore and got called up," Ericson said. "It's a fun experience and hope they take advantage of that."

Defensive line coach Tad Smith said the week has gone good and has been spirited.

"It's kind of fun to have these extra guys around," Smith said. "The spirit of the playoff always makes a fun experience. It's just a nice time."

Senior defensive lineman Milo Carlson said practice has gone well for the defense.

"It's been pretty good," Carlson said. "I think the defense is going to step up and play the best game they have all year."

Collins said the offense has worked hard this week. "We got some new things we are working on," Collins said. "We're trying to get back in rhythm because Dalhart kind of got us out of rhythm."

Pampa's opponent, Lubbock Cooper had to play last night against Lubbock Estacado. Thompson said he doesn't believe they had any advantage with a week off.

"If we do have an advantage it's because we're pumped up and ready for this game," Thompson said. "We want to win this to get back in the record books."

Ericson said the week off is a nice advantage. "(Cooper) is going to have to face a good running team," Ericson said. "It will be difficult for them. The advantage we have is taking a week off to rejuvenate and prepare for them."

Smith said the bye week gives them an advantage because they can heal up on some injuries.

"We get to heal our nicks and bruises," Smith said. "On the other side, they have to get up and play a tough team every week."

A look at the district champion Pampa Lady Harvesters

Libby Garza, coach
Garza enters her third season at the helm of the Lady Harvesters and has an overall record of 59-48. Garza led the Lady Harvesters to their first district title since the early 1990s and their first playoff appearance since 1999.

#7 Alanna Stephens, Jr.
Stephens led the Lady Harvesters in aces throughout the season. In Pampa's September 28 game at Borger, Stephens had six serve aces and 20 digs. In her second year on varsity, Stephens as emerged as a leader on the team.

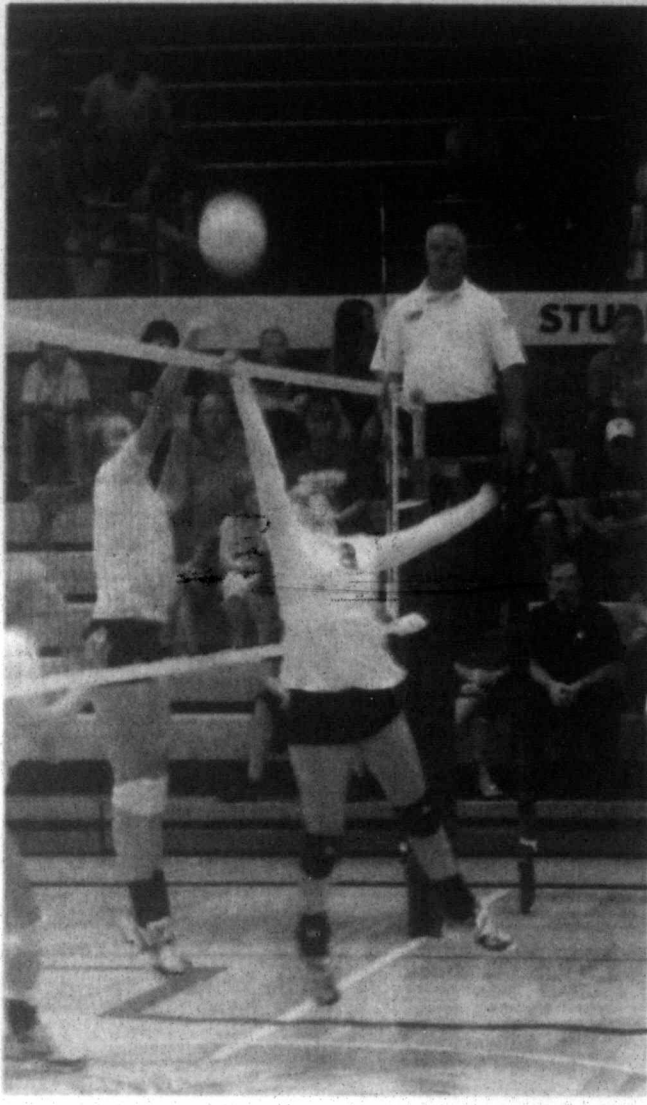

#12 Caitlin Sieck, Jr.
Sieck played her first season on varsity. September 28 at Borger, Sieck recorded the final kill to clinch the game for Pampa. Sieck really stepped up during district play and played a key role in helping Pampa to undefeated district record on the court.

#8 Delaney Clendening, Jr.
Clendening enters her second season on varsity. The junior recorded nine kills and 15 digs in Pampa's district opening victory against Dalhart. Clendening also made an athletic play that put Pampa within one of clinching the game.

#10 Kailyn Troxell, Jr.
Troxell enters her second season on varsity and led the team in kills night in and night out. Defensively, Troxell led the team in blocks and has developed into a solid middle blocker.

#3 Kirsten Kuhn, Jr.
Kuhn led the team in digs all season long and also found herself leading in serve aces in some matches. The junior has gotten better at reading the opponents hitters and is usually the first one to touch the ball on opponents serves.

Senior Taryn Eubank hits a ball over the net in a game against Canyon earlier this season.

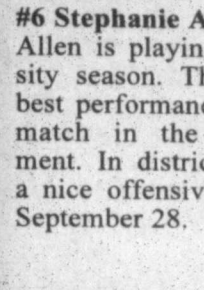

#9 Taryn Eubank, Sr.
Eubank led the team in assists all season. In their game against Perryton October 23, Eubank served the Lady Harvesters to a 13-0 run in the third set that helped Pampa clinch the district title. Eubank has played on varsity all four years and has been a starter at least three.

#4 Kylee Metts, Fr.
Metts worked hard in the off-season and two-a-days to earn a spot on varsity as a freshman. The freshman has received limited action this year, but Garza said she has potential to be a great volleyball player.

#5 Ramie Hutto, Jr.
Hutto is playing in her first varsity season and has led the team in kills. The junior was clutch in Pampa's victories against Perryton Oct. 12 and Borger Oct. 16. Hutto has developed into a solid outside hitter.

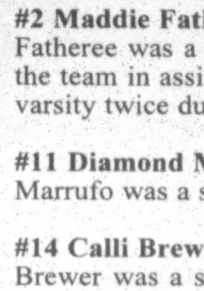

#6 Stephanie Allen, Jr.
Allen is playing in her first varsity season. The junior had her best performance in the Hereford match in the Randall tournament. In district, Allen provided a nice offensive spark at Borger September 28.

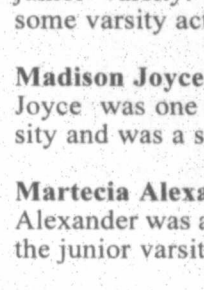

#1 McKinlee Stokes, Jr.
Stokes received ample time on the back row this season. The junior made some good plays in keeping the ball alive throughout the season.

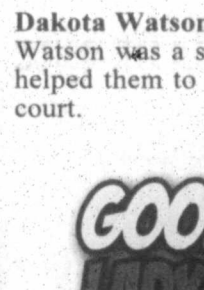

• Recently called up by Coach Garza to travel with the team were:

#2 Maddie Fatheree, So.
Fatheree was a leader on the junior varsity, and led the team in assists. The sophomore was called up to varsity twice during district.

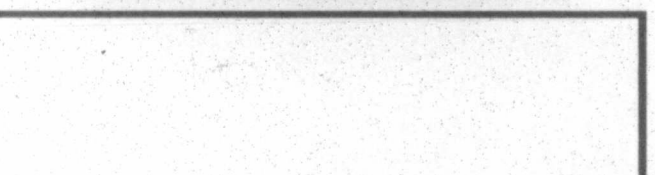

#14 Calli Brewer, So.
Brewer was a strong force on the back row for the junior varsity. The sophomore got to experience some varsity action in district play.

Madison Joyce, So.
Joyce was one of the kill leaders for the junior varsity and was a strong outside hitter.

Martecia Alexander, So.
Alexander was a solid server and back row player for the junior varsity.

Dakota Watson, So.
Watson was a solid hitter for the junior varsity and helped them to an undefeated district season on the court.

Honor designation no small school board feat
ANNE AURELIANO
Ask Superintendent Barry Harnisch about the Pampa Independent School District Board of Trustees and he'll tell you they are the best school board in Texas.
At the annual Texas Association of School Administrators and Texas Association of School Boards convention in Houston this past weekend, the board came within a hair of being named 2010's best (the honor instead went to Los Fresnos ISD in the Rio Grande Valley). Harnisch and School Board President David DeLoach said that it doesn't diminish the board's accomplishments.
"There are 1,024 school districts in Texas, and we were in the top five," said DeLoach. "We had a great interview. I'm very proud of our board and everything we've been able to do, and for us to be in the top five that's a big achievement."
"We're the PISD are all proud of everything they've done," agreed Harnisch. "This doesn't happen very often and it doesn't happen to very many schools."
DeLoach credited the PISD's nomination committee — Dr. Tom Espasola, Maranda Bailey-Glovitt Harris, Tamu Frazier and chair Chris Hart — for joining together a proposal that really emphasized the board's merits.
"I'm very proud of our people who put our nomination together," he said. "The nomination committee put together a packet that was superior. Many people commented on it on a state level."
DeLoach said that the honor board designation is indicative of the passion and dedication the school board has continually shown for PAMPA over the years.

PISD board to discuss sale, traffic
David Bowen
The Pampa Independent School District board of trustees will meet Tuesday evening to discuss the sale of the old Pampa Junior High School and address the traffic problems at the new junior high.
They will open their meeting with a public hearing concerning a report on the traffic building at the high school and consider construction drawings for the Clearwire site at the Pampa High football field.
The board will also consider options for the concrete fence at Pampa High School.
They will consider a dual credit agreement between the school district and Clearwire College.
The board will hear the first BOARD cont. on page 3

Fire department's Tomaschik ready to jump into action
David Bowen
Capt. Jerry Tomaschik, 47, said he's not ready yet for a desk job. Originally from Carverville in the coal region of Northeastern Pennsylvania, Tomaschik leads the A-Team of the Pampa Fire Department. When the fire alarm goes off, he's one of the first to the fire engine.
Following years fighting fires in Pampa, Tomaschik knows the town inside out, but he came to Pampa by a circuitous route.
After serving in Beirut, Lebanon, in the 1980s while he was in the Marine Corps, Tomaschik was stationed in Hawaii. It was there that he met Mike Lane, a Pampa native who was in the U.S. Air Force.
"He was getting ready to get out of Hawaii and I was going to go back to my home in Pampa via Hawaii and the Marine Corps."
Tomaschik said he didn't know the economy in Pennsylvania at the time was bad, so Tomaschik said he felt he couldn't go back to his home.
Jerry Tomaschik found his way to Pampa via Hawaii and the Marine Corps.
