Chamber excited for Summer Celebration

ARNIE AURELLANO
 editor@thepampanews.com

With only days remaining until Monday's Chamber of Commerce sponsored Summer Celebration, Chamber Director Joe Weaver is confident that the city will put its best foot forward in front of a regional audience.

The celebration, which begins at 4 p.m. at the new Pampa H2O Aquatic Center, will be televised on KFDA NewsChannel 10. Weaver said that he is looking forward to seeing the Chamber's preparations come to fruition.

"The planning, from my perspective, has gone really well," Weaver said. "The response has been great. We're going to have all sorts of different food and games... We're going to have a lot of entertainment. I think people will have a great time."

"It really has gone great," added

Chamber administrative assistant Lori Gyurmek, who has taken point for much of the event's organization. "We're looking at close to 40 booths that will be there, and it's a variety of booths... Our response has been good across the board in terms of our variety."

Entertainment and activities at the celebration will include a homemade ice cream making contest, live performances from Pampa's Dance Academy and Suicide Doorz, and karaoke.

Also, Weaver said, Nate Towrey of the Pampa High School swim team will face KFDA Sports Director Jacob Albracht in a to-be-determined aquatic challenge.

Weaver added that having the event televised presents an added opportunity for Pampa to showcase itself to the surrounding area.

Project Red continues for PTTR

 editor@thepampanews.com

After a successful inaugural Project Red event in Pampa, Ryan Frazier and the core team at the Paint This Town Red outreach ministry can't wait for Round Two.

"We're super excited," said Frazier, the ministry's executive pastor. "We had a really good start to things, and now we're ready to keep it going."

PTTR's first outreach event saw over 50 people come together to help clean and renovate the home of Jacob and Patti Griffin, with volunteers clearing away overgrown weeds, repairing malfunctioning plumbing and fixing the patio roof.

PTTR now hopes to continue that momentum with Project Red #2, set to take place on Saturday, July 23, at 1012 S. Christie, the home of Kathy Irving and her son Liberty. PTTR was connected to the Irvings through their neighbor, a volunteer at the last Project Red event.

"It's another family that just needs a little bit of help, and we're looking forward to providing it," PTTR cont. on page 3

County mulls prison prescription change

MOLLIE BRYANT
 mbryant@thepampanews.com

At the Gray County Commissioners Meeting on Friday, July 15, commissioners considered a contract that would allow Maxor Pharmaceutical Company to replace B & B Pharmacy as the prescription provider for Gray County Jail inmates.

Representatives of Maxor believe the company can reduce cost and liability for the county, while adding technology to simplify the administering of drugs by non-medical personnel. They claim that Maxor could cut drug costs by as much as 50 percent.

County Commissioner Gary Willoughby remained unconvinced.

"I, for one, am not for canceling local service," he said. "I've got to see some numbers before cutting out local business."

Maxor representatives will return with a full proposal at the next commissioners meeting on August 1. COUNTY cont. on page 2

AFTERNOONRUSH Okla. towns eye ConocoPhillips split

Pair sentenced for kidnapping

EL PASO (AP) — Two men have been sentenced to life in prison for kidnapping a West Texas man who was later found shot with his hands chopped off in Juarez, Mexico.

Prosecutors say a Mexican drug cartel hired Cesar Obregon-Reyes and Rafael Vega to kidnap someone from his El Paso County home in September over a botched drug deal.

Obregon-Reyes was sentenced Friday in El Paso federal court to two life sentences on several counts of kidnapping and other charges. Vega got four life sentences a day before.

Prosecutors say the men took Sergio Saucedo while he was with his family and brought him to Juarez, where he was found dead days later on an unpaved road with his severed hands sitting on his chest.

Lightning starts nine N.M. fires

SILVER CITY, N.M. (AP) — The U.S. Forest Service says a series of forest fires in western New Mexico's Gila Wilderness were started by lightning.

Nine fires ranging in size from less than an acre to as large as 400 acres have recently broken out. Four small fires have been put out but five are still burning and putting off smoke columns.

Heavy monsoon rains have not yet begun falling in the Gila National Forest but higher humidity is keeping fire activity low.

Firefighters are cutting lines well away from the fire, using aircraft to drop water and retardant and allowing the fires to burn up to natural barriers like bluffs.

The fires are in the northwest portion of the wilderness about 15 miles from the Gila Cliff Dwellings National Monument.

Cop fired after punch

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston's police chief says a policewoman seen in television footage punching a handcuffed robbery suspect in the face has been relieved of duty pending the outcome of an internal affairs investigation.

A KTRK television crew was filming Thursday from a helicopter when police tracked a suspect in a convenience store robbery to an area near railroad tracks. The film shows two officers with the handcuffed suspect when a third officer walks up and hits the suspect.

Chief Charles McClelland says even before he saw the video, supervisors had initiated an internal affairs investigation.

Police say the officer is 36-year-old Angela Horton. A phone number for her was not found.

Gary Blankinship, president of the Houston Police Officer's Union, notes that the video was shot from "a long distance away."

Perry: Texas protects environment

DENTON (AP) — Gov. Rick Perry says Texas continues to be the nation's oil and gas leader while protecting the environment.

Starting next summer, drillers must publicly disclose the chemicals they use when extracting oil and gas from dense rock formations.

Texas was the first state to pass such a law when Perry signed the bill last month.

On Friday he did a ceremonial signing of that bill and two others at Peterbilt Motors Co. in Denton, 40 miles northwest of Dallas.

One bill provides grants for companies to switch their heavy vehicles from diesel fuel to natural gas.

Another bill provides funding for additional air monitoring in the Barnett Shale. It's a 5,000-square-mile underground rock formation packed with natural gas spanning about two dozen North Texas counties.

46-year-old elephant dies

TYLER, Texas (AP) — Chico, a 46-year-old elephant at Tyler's Caldwell Zoo, has died.

Hayes Caldwell, executive director of the zoo, said Thursday that Chico, who died Saturday at the zoo, will be missed. Caldwell says the elephant had the respect of those who worked with him.

Dr. Steve Wilson of the Glenwood Animal Hospital in Tyler tells the Tyler Morning Telegraph that Chico weighed more than 14,000 pounds. Wilson cared for Chico while he was at the Tyler zoo — from 2003 until his death.

Chico came to Tyler from the San Diego Zoo. Caldwell says Chico died suddenly and there were no signs of illness.

A necropsy has been performed but Caldwell says the cause of death is still undetermined, pending further test results.

Ft. Hood arraignment next week

FORT HOOD (AP) — The Army psychiatrist charged in the worst mass shooting on a U.S. military installation will be arraigned in a military court next week.

It will be Maj. Nidal Hasan's first court appearance since Fort Hood's commander decided he would face the death penalty.

Defense attorney John Galligan declined to say whether Hasan will enter a plea when he's arraigned Wednesday in a Fort Hood courtroom. Military law says suspects charged in death-penalty cases are not allowed to plead guilty.

Hasan is charged with 13 counts of premeditated murder and 32 counts of attempted premeditated murder in the November 2009 rampage.

Galligan told The Associated Press Friday that the military judge also will set Hasan's trial date, possibly as early as March.

Jurors will be brought in from Fort Sill, Okla.

Rig count up by 18

HOUSTON (AP) — The number of rigs actively exploring for oil and natural gas in the U.S. rose by 18 this week to 1,905.

Houston-based drilling product provider Baker Hughes Inc. reported Friday that 1,013 rigs were exploring for oil and 885 for natural gas. Seven were listed as miscellaneous. A year ago, the rig count stood at 1,571.

Of the major oil- and gas-producing states, Texas gained 11 rigs, Louisiana four, Alaska and California two each, and Arkansas, New Mexico, North Dakota and Wyoming one apiece.

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Business leaders in the northern Oklahoma towns of Bartlesville and Ponca City, where ConocoPhillips has deep roots, were hopeful that their communities would benefit after the energy company announced Thursday that it would split into two companies.

ConocoPhillips spokesman John Roper said he anticipates "most people will keep their jobs" through the split into a company that produces oil and another that refines it into gasoline and other fuels, although he couldn't address specifics.

He said there will "have to be a wall" between the new companies, but that "they will co-exist."

"Oklahoma is part of our history and it's key to ConocoPhillips," Roper said.

Houston-based ConocoPhillips, created by a 2002 merger, now has about 3,500 employees in Bartlesville and about 840 in Ponca City out of a total work force of about 29,600.

The company's "shared services" employees, such as those in accounting, tax and excise services, human resources, general marketing, procurement and financial management groups, are located in Bartlesville, company spokeswoman Summer Austin said. ConocoPhillips has a refinery operation in Ponca City.

"Our community has experienced many changes of the company through the years," said Sherri Wilt, the president of the Bartlesville Regional Chamber of Commerce.

"We've been successful in the past living with those changes and we will continue to do so. The company has been committed to Bartlesville and I'm optimistic that commitment is going to continue."

Conoco was created in Ponca City in 1929 through the merger of Marland Oil Co. — started by Ponca City icon and former Gov. E.W. Marland — and Continental Oil and Transportation Co., which was founded in 1875. Conoco later moved its headquarters to Houston.

Brothers Frank and L.E. Phillips started Phillips Petroleum Co. in Bartlesville in 1917. But since Phillips' headquarters left Bartlesville following the merger with Conoco, the company has increased its presence in the town of about 35,000, Wilt said.

"It didn't hurt us like everybody thought it would," she said. "We weathered that and we've come out of it stronger. ... This split will make the company stronger and that will only benefit our community."

Ponca City took a hit from ConocoPhillips in February 2009, when the company said it planned to move 750 non-refinery jobs out of the city of about 26,000 to Bartlesville and Houston. But the refinery has remained a key part of ConocoPhillips' operations, Roper said.

Rich Cantillon, president and CEO of the Ponca City Chamber of Commerce, said ConocoPhillips upgraded the refinery last year and is performing another upgrade this year.

No new oil refineries have been built in the U.S. since 1976, which is another positive sign for the Ponca City facility's future.

"It's not going anywhere," Cantillon said. "We are good to go. Ponca City is a happy, good community. ... It's fascinating to see how (the split) will all play out, but we'll always have the refinery. There won't be any more job loss for Ponca City when it comes to (ConocoPhillips). There could be job growth."

Fadel Gheit, an analyst for Oppenheimer & Co., said the split will likely create the largest independent refiner in the world.

Conoco's refineries produced 2.3 million barrels per day of gasoline, diesel and other petroleum products in the first quarter

The success of a similar split by Marathon Oil in January likely led to ConocoPhillips' decision to spin off its refining operations, Gheit said. ConocoPhillips CEO and Chairman Jim Mulva called the decision "the right thing for our company to do."

The split is expected to be completed during the first half of next year. No new names for the companies have been announced.

PTTR

Frazier said. "That's what we're all about. We want to show people God's love through these things that we're doing, and hopefully we're making people's lives better in the process."

Frazier said that he's excited about other churches and religious organizations offering their help during PTTR's outreach projects. A youth group from Lighthouse Covenant Fellowship joined the PTTR cause during the first Project Red weekend, and this time around, they will be assisted by a youth ministry from the Mor Church in Amarillo.

"Any youth group — or anybody, actually — that would be willing to come is totally welcome," Frazier said. "We'd love it, actually. The more people we have to help, the better."

"We're already going to have a little more people this time than last time," Frazier continued. "What's really neat, too, is that if we have enough people, we're actually going to help the neighbor who told us about the (Irving). We're going to do a little trim work for them. If we have a whole lot of people, there's actually a third house on that street that's asked for help, so we may be able to knock out three houses possibly depending on how many people are there."

Frazier added that a few people in town have offered the use of their trucks and trailers to help with transporting garbage and foliage. Also, the Irving's roof has already been replaced by Crawford roofing (which contributed free labor while PTTR paid for supplies), and Nicholas Construction is donating its services to repair the Irving's gutters and do other contracting work.

"So many people have pitched in to help," Frazier said. "A lot of people in town, a lot of good businesses in town have come together and have been giving back to the community. I think as much fun as it is to work on the houses, I think it's great to see the community come together."

"I don't know where the bigger blessing is. Is it to see the people's houses getting fixed, or is it to see the community working together? It's just all good. That's what's fun about it."

PTTR has enjoyed success branching out in the community through social media, using online outlets such as Facebook, Twitter and Vimeo to reach out to potential volunteers and people in need.

"The great thing about social media is it's free," Frazier said. "What we've been doing is putting all of our videos, all of our testimonials, all of our needs online, and it's all free... We don't have to use a lot of our resources on getting the word out, and we've been able to focus (our finances) on the projects themselves. That's been huge."

Frazier said that PTTR is still accepting financial contributions for Project Red #2, so anyone who would like to donate to help defray costs can reach the group at www.paintthistownred.org.

Today in History

Today is Saturday, July 16, the 197th day of 2011. There are 168 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On July 16, 1911, actress-dancer Ginger Rogers was born Virginia Katherine McMath in Independence, Mo.

On this date:

In 1790, a site along the Potomac River was designated the permanent seat of the United States government; the area became Washington, D.C.

In 1862, David G. Farragut became the first rear admiral in the United States Navy.

In 1945, the United States exploded its first experimental atomic bomb in the desert of Alamogordo, N.M.

In 1951, the novel "The Catcher in the Rye" by J.D. Salinger was first published by Little, Brown and Co.

In 1969, Apollo 11 blasted off from Cape Kennedy on the first manned mission to the surface of the moon.

In 1973, during the Senate Watergate hearings, former White House aide Alexander P. Butterfield publicly revealed the existence of President Richard Nixon's secret taping system.

In 1981, singer Harry Chapin was killed when his car was struck by a tractor-trailer on New York's Long Island Expressway.

In 1999, John F. Kennedy Jr., his wife, Carolyn, and her sister, Lauren Bessette, died when their single-engine plane, piloted by Kennedy, plunged into the Atlantic Ocean near Martha's Vineyard, Mass.

Ten years ago: South Asian nuclear rivals India and Pakistan failed to reach an accord on their half-century dispute over Kashmir, ending a landmark three-day summit on a solemn note.

Five years ago: President George W. Bush and other Group of Eight world leaders meeting in St. Petersburg, Russia, urged Israel to show "utmost restraint" and blamed Hezbollah and Hamas for escalating violence in the Middle East.

One year ago: Retired intelligence analyst Kendall Myers, the 73-year-old great grandson of Alexander Graham Bell, was sentenced to life in prison without parole for quietly spying for Cuba for nearly a third of a century from inside the State Department.

Today's Birthdays: Former Attorney General Dick Thornburgh is 79. Soul singer Denise LaSalle is 77. Soul singer William Bell is 72. International Tennis Hall of Famer Margaret Court is 69. Violinist Pinchas Zukerman is 63. Actor-singer Ruben Blades is 63. Rock composer-musician Stewart Copeland is 59. Playwright Tony Kushner is 55. Dancer Michael Flatley is 53. Actress Phoebe Cates is 48. Actor Daryl "Chill" Mitchell is 46. Actor-comedian Will Ferrell is 44. Actor Jonathan Adams is 44. Actress Rain Pryor is 42. Actor Corey Feldman is 40. Rock musician Ed Kowalczyk (Live) is 40. Rock singer Ryan McCombs (Drowning Pool) is 37. Actress AnnaLynne McCord is 24. Actor-singer James Maslow is 21. Actor Mark Indelicato ("Ugly Betty") is 17.

Thought for Today: "When two people love each other, they don't look at each other, they look in the same direction." — Ginger Rogers (1911-1995).

This week: taken, outfoxed and cut up

Outfoxed by a Presbyterian

No, that's not right. It should be "a fox out by the Presbyterian". I was riding my bike one morning this week and was surprised to see a gray fox in the street by the Presbyterian Church. I don't recall ever seeing a fox in town before—especially so far from a creek or park. I got a good look at him as he paused to watch me, obviously wary, but not particularly afraid until I turned around to get a better look at him. I thought for a minute it might be a Presbyterian, but it was grayer than Kenny Rigoulot, smarter than Duane Harp, faster than Randy Pribble and better looking than Benny Horton. (Though it's tail somewhat resembled Mike Ruff's mustache.)

Speaking of Wildlife

Summer Intern James Coffee and I dropped in to visit Jeff Bonner, wildlife biologist with Texas Parks and Wildlife. When most people hear about TPW, they probably think of game wardens or state parks, but Jeff works with landowners to preserve wildlife habitat and is responsible for a huge area of the Panhandle and South Plains. And while I thought maybe there was some friction there, he assured me that is not the case, as the mission of the TPWD is "to manage and conserve the natural and cultural resources of Texas and to provide hunting, fishing and outdoor recreation opportunities for the use and enjoyment of present and future generations." (Maybe Jeff needs to check out those Presbyterian foxes!)

What'll Ya Take For...

I attended the annual state conference for chamber director recently and in the exhibit hall struck up a conversation with a guy representing a company called Vantage

JOE WEAVER

Barter—a sort of "clearing house" for tradesmen, retailers, professionals—anyone who might benefit from bartering their unsold goods and services. I was intrigued and told the man that I liked what I heard, but when I tried to explain it I wouldn't make any sense. He said, "Then let me come and tell them." So, on Tuesday, Brad Versteegh will be speaking at the Chamber luncheon about how a business or individual can benefit from barter. Chamber luncheons are open to everyone—you don't have to be a Chamber member (but you do have to make a reservation by Monday at 10:00a.m. and bring ten bucks to pay for your meal.)

Brad will also be speaking at the Chamber that evening at 6:00 in a little more detail. There is no charge for the later meeting—but then we won't feed you, either! (Not substantially, anyway!)

Get the Word Out...All Year Long

I realize that many readers of this column are not in business, so I try to keep comments of a general interest. However, it bears mentioning that the Chamber and The Pampa News are preparing the annual issue of the "Destination Pampa" Visitor's Guide—a magazine that we use to great advantage. A copy goes into every newcomer's and visitor's packet we hand out, every envelope we mail in response to information requested and with virtually every newcomer or visitor who walks in the door. A presence in that publication gets you seen all year long.

"Parting" Comments...

I don't like getting my hair cut—never have—but I have always enjoyed barber shops: the leatherette chairs, the old reading material, the friendly banter. In the 70s, haircuts went out in favor of "styles" and barbers opened "salons", but I stuck by the old faithfuls, getting my hair cut in the same way since about the 6th grade (when it probably cost "a buck two bits").

I have never liked beauty shops—the smell of the perms, the noisy dryers, the chatter. (Men banter, women chatter!) I have used them from time to time, but only because I had to. All that to say that when Jim and Candace the Barber (or is it Candace and Jim the Barber?) moved from their "shop" (i.e., chairs, magazines, and banter) to a "salon", I was certain I'd have to find another barber. Tired of pushing the hair off my ears this week, I buckled down and went into Tammy's Cut-Ups where Jim and Candace now operate.

I was pleasantly surprised. They occupy a space at the front of the building, totally separated from the salon. They had great praise for Tammy, their customers, and the location, which is marked by a colorful "swoop" flag at the intersection of Hobart and West. There was no waiting, so I didn't get a chance to check out the reading material. Candace pointed out that they had placed a couple of the old chairs in the shop—but I'll bet I can get used to the plush sofa in Tammy's lobby!

Joe Weaver is the executive director of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce.

'Winnie the Pooh' a cute throwback to bygone days

A few weeks ago, I wrote about "Cars 2," which was certainly a blast for the kiddie crowd but didn't offer much for the adults in the audience.

If you're like me and had a childhood inundated with Winnie the Pooh, then the aptly named "Winnie the Pooh" certainly didn't have that problem.

Disney's "bear of little brain," adapted to the silver screen from the stories of A.A. Milne (Fun Fact of the Day: The "A.A." stands for Alan Alexander), returned to theaters without much fanfare, but Pooh's eponymous new movie packs much of the cute, lovable and philosophical charm that made the original so endearing.

Made with the short attention span in mind — it's just a bit over an hour long — "Winnie the Pooh" rounds up all the familiar denizens of the Hundred Acre Wood to solve a new, perplexing mystery: Eeyore has lost his tail. Pooh, Piglet, Rabbit, Tigger, Owl, Kanga and Roo all come to the rescue, though through an unfortunate misunderstanding, end up on the trail of a scary monster that has abducted Christopher Robin.

Every member of the woodland ensemble gets a moment in the movie, and I'm especially a sucker for any Eeyore-centric Pooh story. The camaraderie between the animals is especially touching, and the hand-drawn animation adds to the feeling of nostalgia in seeing Pooh and his friends back in the cinema. The film's warm, hushed watercolor style is a particular contrast to today's Pantone-splashed CGI kid flicks, making "Winnie the Pooh" feel that much more like a throwback to a cinematic era gone by.

Perhaps my favorite thing about "Winnie the Pooh," though, is in the writing. Unlike so many of today's kids' movies which fly through formulaic plot points to reach whatever moral of the month we're trying to teach, "Pooh" is airy, meandering, almost aimless, but in a very good way. There isn't much that actually "happens," but it's not slow or sluggish. The plot instead drifts forward through silly misunderstandings and leaps of the imagination. It all feels very organically childlike, like watching a little kid making everything up as he plays with his toys.

It's simple, but it shows a deep understanding of Milne's work, and it hearkens back to the same carefree feel of the original Pooh animated classics. If you and your little one have shared a smile through Pooh before, this is a definite don't-miss, and if you haven't, well, it's the perfect way to start.

'Deathly Hallows 2' a fitting finale to Harry Potter series

J.K. Rowling's epic Harry Potter series first hit shelves in 1997. In the years since, there have only been two years (2006 and 2008) that either a book or a movie in the series hasn't been released. This weekend that epic series comes to a close with the release of the eighth film, "Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows 2."

An entire generation has grown up with the adventures of Harry Potter. Kids that were 11 at the beginning of the series are now 25. The world has gotten a chance to watch the actors who played the main roles in the film grow up before their eyes. For many of the world's youth this film marks a sad day. While the series will continue to be there for all to reread and re-watch, it is the last time any of our generation will get the chance to experience a new entry into the most successful book and film series of all time.

The film picks up at the exact moment that "Deathly Hallows 1" left off, with vile wizard Voldemort claiming the Elder Wand as his own. We quickly return to our heroes, Harry, Ron and Hermione, as they make a plan to find the remaining horcruxes. And after those few contemplative scenes the movie is off like a rocket with the most action we've seen in any of the series films to date. After an amazing scene inside the wizarding bank involving a dragon, the trio finally heads back to Hogwarts, which hasn't been seen since the sixth film. It's at this point that the movie truly explodes with some of the most epic action sequences this summer, all of which lead up to the final confrontation between Harry and Voldemort.

While the film is filled with action it also has some of the best character development and emotional scenes thus far. Unfortunately to go into any of these scenes would be to wade into spoiler territory. Suffice to say that Daniel Radcliffe, Rupert Grint, and Emma Watson give their finest performances of the series, as does Alan Rickman, whose Severus Snape finally gets his story told.

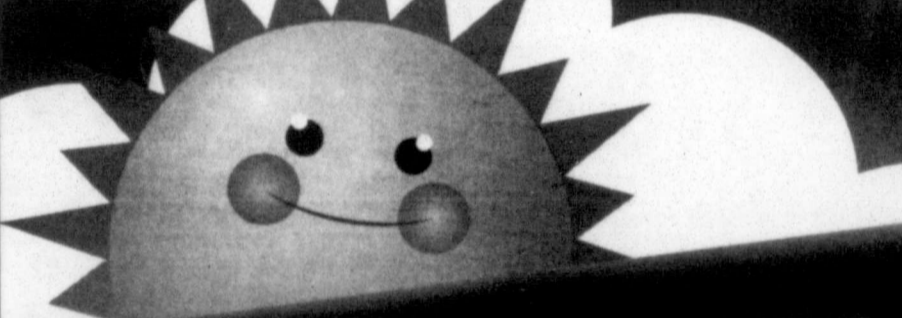

When taken as a whole, "Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows" is the best film of the series. Yes, it's a bit unfair since it gets twice as long to develop the story, but since it is the final book it is justified. The film, when viewed as a whole, manages to balance rich character development with epic action to create a fitting finale for this beautiful series.

Whether you are a fan of the book series or just a fan of the films, "Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows 2" will leave you satisfied. Just don't think you can start the series at the end, because you will be utterly lost.

"Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows 2" ★★★★★
Rated PG-13 for some sequence of intense action violence and frightening images

Small-scale niche poultry operations promise rewards

ROBERT BURNS
Texas Agri-Life Extension Service

BRYAN — Want a few fresh-from-the-chicken eggs for your daily breakfast? Or maybe you like the idea of raising a couple of thousand chickens as a profitable business for local niche markets?

For those interested in these scenarios and anything in between, the Texas AgriLife Extension Service will be holding a small-scale poultry production workshop from 9 a.m. — 3:30 p.m. Aug. 13 at the Brazos Center, 3232 Briarcrest Drive in Bryan.

In most cases, backyard or small-scale operators cannot raise chickens and produce meat and eggs as cheaply as big operations, said Dr. Craig Coufal, AgriLife Extension poultry specialist in College Station.

"But it's not about economics; it's about choice," Coufal said. "The last few years, there's been a real change in some people's feelings toward the production of food and food quality. There are a lot of people who are interested in producing their own food, or buying locally grown, free-range and organically produced food."

This is good news for those wanting to start a small or moderately sized agricultural business, he said.

"There are small niche markets out there, particularly in urban areas," Coufal said. "They don't want to buy chicken from the grocery store. They want to buy chicken from a small farmer who's growing them on his own land. They want to know the person whom they're buying from. That's the market these small producers are targeting, and it's a growing market. It's growing all the time."

For those raising chickens for their own food, many do it because they like to control how the chicken is raised and what it eats, he said.

"What the chicken eats will affect the taste, appearance and functionality of the meat and eggs," Coufal said.

The workshop will provide small-scale poultry producers and enthusiasts with the latest information on the production of poultry for meat and eggs, he said.

It's also possible, and in most cases legal, to raise a few chickens in a backyard urban setting, he noted.

Workshop topics will include basic husbandry and management, production systems, nutrition, disease prevention and treatment, biosecurity and marketing rules and regulations.

Topic presenters will include AgriLife Extension specialists and experts from the Texas A&M University departments of poultry science and entomology, and the Texas Veterinary Medical Diagnostic Laboratory.

Registration for the workshop is $75 before Aug. 5 and $100 thereafter. The fee covers educational materials, break refreshments and a catered lunch. Registration will be limited to 100 people.

To register online, visit AgriLife Extension Conference Services at <https://agriliferegister.tamu.edu> and enter "poultry" in the keyword search field. Participants may also register by calling 979-845-2604.

For more information on the workshop, contact Coufal at 979-845-4319 or ccoufal@poultry.tamu.edu.

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: My 12-year-old niece, "Tammy" is very shy. When I recently visited my brother's home, she hid in her parents' bedroom behind a closed door. She wouldn't come out to say hi or even speak to me through the door.

Today I was on the phone with my sister-in-law and I asked if I could say hello to Tammy. I was told Tammy had left the room because she didn't want to talk. My sister-in-law then remarked that she has the shiest kids on Earth.

I think Tammy's parents should MAKE her speak to me (or anyone else) in person or on the phone. Am I wrong? — OUTGOING AUNT IN TEXAS

DEAR OUTGOING AUNT: Tammy's behavior is rude, and her mother is covering for her. If Tammy has such overwhelming social anxiety that she cannot exchange even the briefest social amenities, she needs the help of a therapist to help her overcome it.

DEAR ABBY: I have worked in a medical office for a number of years. We all get along like a family and there are rarely any problems. However, something has been bothering me since one of my co-workers' (unmarried) daughter had a baby.

We all bought gifts for the baby and tolerate the many pictures and recitation of day-to-day events of the baby, but now the first birthday is here. I received an invitation and was told what they would like to receive, plus a wallet photo of the child and a larger photo with a magnet on it.

Many of us have grandchildren, but we have never gone overboard this way. I would never impose an invitation on my co-workers to attend any of my grandchildren's birthday parties. My feeling is that grandchildren parties are for families! What to do? — FRETTING IN OHIO

DEAR FRETTING: Fret no more. Politely decline the invitation and say you have other plans. (You do — you plan not to attend or be milked for a gift.) Stand firm now, because if you don't, you will be invited to every birthday party the kid has until he or she is an adult.

DEAR ABBY: We are progressive parents, but conservative about social issues. We have a problem on which we disagree and we have agreed to abide by your answer.

Our three children are all in high school. Our older daughter has a good friend — a boy who is gay. We like him very much and he has visited our home many times. However, our daughter would like to invite him to a sleepover, as she does with her girlfriends.

Is it appropriate for a teenage girl to have a gay boyfriend on a sleepover? — PUZZLED PARENTS IN THE NORTHWEST
DEAR PUZZLED PARENTS: I see no reason why an "out" gay teenage boy shouldn't attend your daughter's sleepover. Their relationship is the same as the ones she has with her girlfriends.

DEAR ABBY: My husband thinks it's OK to read over someone's shoulder. I have tried explaining that I think it's rude, but he says I'm rude for asking him not to do it. He thinks I have something to hide if I tell him to stop. What say you? — NOTHING TO HIDE IN OHIO

DEAR NOTHING TO HIDE: I say you married a man who is insecure and suspicious, and you have my sympathy.

★ Sunday horoscope

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Sunday, July 17, 2011:

This year, you experience a lack of intellectual flow with key people. Perhaps the words are different, but know that a common thread exists with issues and a concept. If you ask for elaboration, often the communication issues tumble. Single Moon Children might yearn for a relationship that could knock their socks off, wanting one person and one person only. Meeting that person is a strong possibility. If you are attached, you and your sweetie need to agree to disagree. As a result, you will develop closer emotional ties. PISCES encourages more daydreaming.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

★★★★ A sense of irritation could undermine your actions. Go for a walk to discover what is at the root of this feeling. You will enjoy your plans much more as a result. Throw yourself into a happening. Tonight: Make it early.

This Week: Be aware of what others expect and think. Making decisions and taking action could be much easier on Wednesday if you understand the dynamics.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

★★★ You might regret saying yes to an offer or an invitation. You can decide to cancel or follow along with your initial plans. You could be surprised by how much you enjoy yourself. Later, make time just for you. Tonight: Into the wee hours

This Week: Monday and Tuesday spell success for the Bull. Lie back from Wednesday on.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

★★★★ Keep reaching out for a distant friend. Just because you keep missing him or her isn't a reason to stop trying. Break the mold when making plans. An adventure or new experience puts a smile on your face. Tonight: Check in with a parent or older relative.

This Week: Others often look to you to take the lead. Once more, you will do just that.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

★★★★ One-on-one relating could add a confusing message. Keep asking questions to not only clarify but also to help the other party understand what he or she wants to express. Schedule a movie for late today. Tonight: Don't restrain your imagination.

This Week: Detach, and you'll succeed. If you allow yourself to be triggered, you won't get your desired results.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

★★★★ Confirm what you think you heard rather than take offence. Your popularity allows for many options, but it might be best to take care of an issue as it happens. Whether with friends at a ballgame or chatting over dinner, you feel as if life is nearly perfect. Tonight: Add some romance to the mix.

This Week: Deal with others directly. Try to walk in someone's shoes.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

★★★ Make it OK not to have spectacular plans. Relaxing, even if just reading or gardening, needs to happen. You often take on too much. Let go of day-to-day issues. Tonight: Catch up on news via email, chat or the phone.

This Week: Let others run with the ball. You won't have a choice anyway.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

★★★★ Plans could change; a tiff or two could occur. Nevertheless, you seem to enjoy a child or loved one no matter what you do together. Listen to your inner voice with him or her. This person might not be able to verbalize what he or she is thinking. Tonight: Return calls. Sensitivity counts.

This Week: Dive into a project on Monday as if there is no tomorrow. You could have a reason to take off from Wednesday on.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

★★★★ You might need some downtime. Invite a family member or friend over rather than go out. A misunderstanding can be cleared up given time and patience. Even though you are friends, you still might not be on the same page. Tonight: Let your innate caring emerge.

This Week: Your ingenuity comes through. Funnel this creativity into your daily life.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

★★★★ Speak out and say what you think, especially if you're uncomfortable with a situation. A confusing message could be at the base of this problem. Clear the air and enjoy your present company. Tonight: Catch up on another person's news.

This Week: Stay secure and understand what is occurring around you. Unusual solutions appear.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

★★★★ Be careful with a financial discussion and decision. Someone might only hear what he or she wants to hear. Make a talk OK, but make sure there will be another one. Your creativity surges late today. Tonight: Invite a friend or neighbor over for a barbecue.

This Week: Keep communication flowing. Don't stand on ceremony with an unreturned call.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

★★★★ Clarify what you mean, as any vagueness could be misconstrued. Confirm that your audience is listening. Be careful with financial matters, as you could overspend or think an idea is great, only to discover otherwise later. Tonight: Just be yourself.

This Week: Curb spending. Be wise if you must make a major expenditure. Speak your mind on Wednesday. Try to be diplomatic.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

★★★★ You might find that someone you care about could misunderstand your intentions. Try to clear the air. Even if you can't at this moment, don't personalize what has been said. Tonight: Have an easy meal; have that talk.

This Week: You are in prime time Monday and Tuesday. Know that your power and ability to manifest a desire peak.

aglover@thepampanews.com

In 2009, Pampa High School graduate Abigail West's first year at University of Texas Permian Basin, she had to get used to school and swimming.

In her second season, things went more smoothly.

West said she improved both in the pool and classroom.

"I improved my breaststroke and cut down on my time," West said. "One of the semesters, I made it on the Dean's List."

West said her second year was easier because she knew what to expect.

"I knew what the format is," West said. I was used to school and everything was easier."

In the Rocky Mountain Conference finals, West finished 14th in the 200-meter breast stroke. she nearly made the finals in the 100-meter breast stroke. The junior said that college swimming is a different ball game.

"It's tougher competition," West said. "Everyone is faster. I am just focused on scoring points for the team. This year I scored three and I only scored one last year."

Next season, West will be a team captain, something she's excited about.

"It's a great honor," West said. "This is a great team and I hope I can be a great leader."

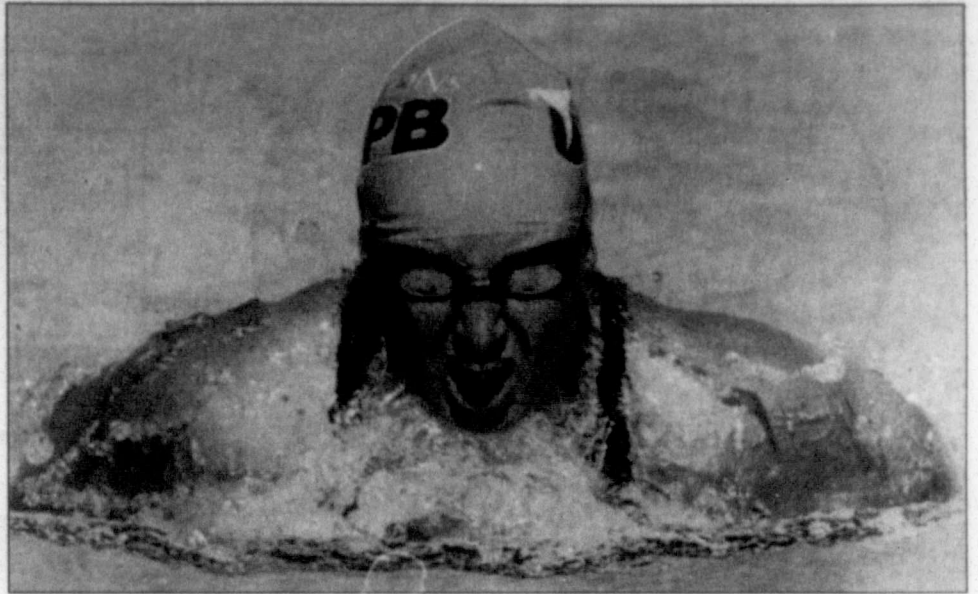

West is spending part of her summer at the Pampa H2O Aquatic Center.

"I'm helping out with the summer swim league," West said. "I'm teaching swim lessons. I'm working out some."

West said she hopes to continue to improve and be a solid leader.

"I'm hoping to be a good team captain," West said. "I'm hoping to drop more on my time. If I drop it to 1.16, I'll make the top ten list at the college."

Permian Basin's season starts October 13 at McMurry University.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Saturday, July 16, 2011:

This year, focus on the quality of your most important relationships and what is really important to you. Don't get caught up in the trivial. Learn to express your less-than-pleasant feelings as well. The possibility of manifesting a long-term goal becomes a distinct reality. Work with a partner or trusted friend who supports you in realizing this goal. If you are single, you will miss being coupled up, though you are likely to meet a very special person. AQUARIUS comes through for you.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

★★★★ Relax with friends, and be a little less uptight about finances. Your way of answering a question or dealing with a problem could be quite challenging. Help an overly serious friend lighten up. Tonight: Where the gang is.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

★★★ While others are into summer fun and folly, you are being perhaps too responsible, if there is such a thing. Opportunities appear right now because of a new attitude that radiates from within. Keep your wallet close to you; count your change. A mistake easily could be made. Tonight: Take the lead role one more time.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

★★★★ Let go of a close loved one's sense of limitation, which in some sense is being projected on you. Plans are subject to change, though you might not care in the least. You have a strong sense that it will make no difference. Tonight: Go with the offbeat idea.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

★★★★ Work with a loved one or dear friend. You might be angrier about a situation than you realize. Be willing to get your feelings under control and work through them. You must, if you care about the situation and about yourself. Tonight: Chat over dinner.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

★★★★ Someone shares a very difficult situation, wondering what to do next. Listen to your instincts with a child or loved one. Honor a situation that might be subtly impacting you behind the scenes.

You know what you want. Tonight: Ask and expect to receive it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

★★★★ Your unique style lets others worry less, be it at work or at a party. Your efficiency is natural but also a gift to others. They know they can trust you with the details. A parent or older friend could be demanding. Tonight: Don't push. You try too hard!

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

★★★★ Your imagination knows no limits, which someone finds delightful as you make plans. You have been overly serious. Why not give it up and add to the fun factor in your life? Hop on an idea, be it only for a few hours. Tonight: Be your naughty and nice self.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

★★★ You are more anchored than you thought possible, and others might try to shake you up a bit. Your fiery side emerges in a discussion with a partner who might be egging you on. Others show their appreciation. Tonight: Happy close to home.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

★★★★ Listen to news, then make plans accordingly. A friend could be overly serious. A loved one could be jealous of the attention you are giving to others. Be careful, and don't make this person jealous. Tonight: Favorite spot, favorite people.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

★★★ Be aware of what you have to offer. Sometimes you look at yourself as less than you are. You are on top of your game. Discuss what is happening in a difficult situation with a proactive friend. Tonight: Your treat.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

★★★★ You seem unusually vivacious. Others pick up on your energy and want to be with you. Reach out for someone at a distance. You might not realize the impact of a conversation, but you know it is there. Tonight: All the fun you can concoct.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

★★★★ Know what is going on behind the scenes before making a decision. A partner trusts you but might be hesitant to let you know how much. A family member or roommate could be tough. Tonight: Shhh... you don't need to tell everything.

ROADSHOW COMES TO PAMPA NEXT WEEK!

By Jason Delong
STAFF WRITER

Got gold? Next week, visitors can cash in on scrap gold, fine jewelry, silver and other precious metals.

Clean out your attics, closets and lock boxes, because the Treasure Hunters Roadshow is coming to Pampa. Roadshow specialists are in town examining gold and silver jewelry, old coins and more.

While the Roadshow will accept anything that's old and valuable, they will be focusing on: gold and silver coins made before 1965, military items, fine art, musical instruments, pocket and wrist watches. Scrap gold is expected to be a popular category this week due to soaring gold prices.

Buyers for the Roadshow have noticed a tremendous increase in the amount of gold coming something is gold, bring it anyway and the Roadshow staff will test it for free. Other gold items of interest include gold coins, gold ounces, gold proof sets and dental gold.

Other types of items Roadshow specialists hope to see include vintage guitars. Ryan Krushas, one of the Roadshow's instrument specialists, spoke about some of the top guitars getting great offers. "Old Gibsons and Fenders are in big demand right now," said Krushas, "vintage amps too. We also buy violins, mandolins, woodwinds — if it plays it pays!" Timepiece specialist Jeff Ford adds, "Watches are hot! We recently paid over $2,500 for an old Hamilton pocket watch. And we are buying all types of high-end wrist watches too. Brands like Rolex, Tiffany and Chopard are very desirable to collectors. And the finest Swiss timepiece in the world, Patek Philippe, just earned a happy seller $42,000."

When specialist Tom Fuller was asked what he enjoyed most about working at the Roadshow, he was quick to answer, "Old coins and paper currency — for as long as I can remember, I have been fascinated with collecting coins. I would go through the change in my parents' grocery store, looking for rare dates and errors. Once, I found a silver quarter that I sold for $300. Not bad for an 8 year old."

Fuller went on to explain that any U.S. coins made before 1965 are the most sought after by collectors. Coins made before 1965 are 90% silver, and valuable because of either the silver content or even more valuable if one happens to to the shows, and for good reason. Record gold prices have Roadshow guests cashing in on broken or outdated jewelry with our fair and honest purchase offers.

The Roadshow encourages anyone planning a visit to take a minute and examine their jewelry box or their lock box at the bank and gather anything that is gold. If a guest is not sure if
