Nine straight 'Superior' FIRST ratings for PISD

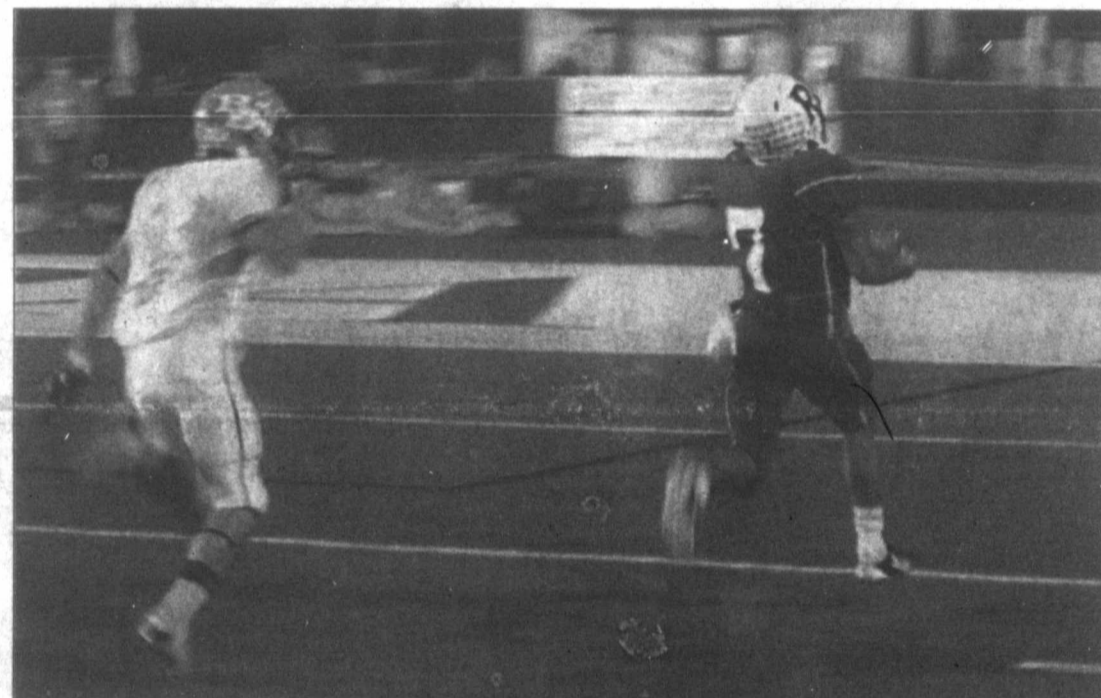

MOLLIE BRYANT
 mbryant@thepampanews.com
 The Pampa Independent School District (PISD) Board of Trustees held a public hearing on their First Integrity Rating System of Texas (FIRST) Report at their monthly meeting Thursday evening.

During their meeting, the board visited three topics that arose from changing state and federal laws. Recent state legislation created a tax exemption for goods-in-transit unless taxing entities decide to retain their authority to tax them, and the board went the way of Pampa and Gray County by not taking action that would maintain this authority. The PISD therefore will not tax goods-in-transit unless board decides to revisit the issue later. Laws regarding a government entity's ability to enact eminent domain have also changed so that they must declare their authority to exercise it or otherwise lose that right. The school board voted to retain their right to exercise eminent domain. Finally, Senate Bill 100 has changed how elections are held.

Unfortunately, Smith's touchdown would be Pampa's only score of the game, as they fell to the rival Bulldogs 31-6. Kane given 40 years for drugs

 mbryant@thepampanews.com
 After hearing closing arguments Tuesday morning, a jury found Leonard Kane guilty of possession of a controlled substance, methamphetamine. Kane was sentenced to 40 years in prison.

Kane had previously admitted to possession of meth in the amount of 1.3 grams after Narcotics Officer Chad Johnson conducted a search in his residence.

Johnson discovered the drug, as well as materials that suggested Kane had been manufacturing methamphetamine in his home.

Kane had three prior felonies, including possession of a controlled substance, possession of chemicals with intent to manufacture and burglary of a building. He also has cases pending with the Gray County District Attorney's Office of charges of evading arrest, possession of a controlled substance and possession with intent to deliver.

"Drugs are a big concern for people in Pampa," said Jeromie Oney, the Assistant District Attorney who tried the case. "A lot of people see that problem, so we're always glad to be able to get not only someone who possesses (drugs), but (when) there's evidence he's manufacturing it and selling it. Our police department always does a good job with cases like that."

Altrusa, PAWS unite for Make a Difference Day

MOLLIE BRYANT

 For this year's Make a Difference Day, Altrusa and Astra will hold a drive for the Pampa Animal Welfare Society (PAWS). Today, volunteers with the groups will have tables at United, Fiesta Foods and Walmart, where they will accept donations of money and goods for the animal shelter.

Walmart from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and at Fiesta Foods from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Volunteers will provide handouts of what items they are accepting for people to keep an eye out for while they're shopping. "PAWS has been a wonderful asset to the community. They help in collection for food and all needs of pets. They work so hard, and our animal control is in such bad shape, but more pets

Mexican truck first in NAFTA program

NUEVO LAREDO, Mexico (AP) — For the first time under the North American Free Trade Agreement, a Mexican tractor-trailer crossed into the U.S. on Friday on a trip to the country's interior, beginning a trucking program that has been stalled for years by concerns that it would put highway safety and American jobs at risk.

The truck hauling a large steel drilling structure on a flat-bed trailer crossed the border at Laredo nearly two decades after passage of NAFTA, which was supposed to improve cargo transportation between the two countries.

At a ceremony in the border city of Nuevo Laredo before the truck set off for a Dallas suburb, the owner of the Transportes Olympic trucking company told dignitaries of both countries that he considers his fleet's access to the U.S. interior like being invited to a friend's house.

"We have to be extra orderly and very respectful," Fernando Paez told about 300 people. "We will demonstrate that we can operate safely and efficiently."

The driver of the Freightliner truck was Josue Cruz, who waved from the cab, flashed a thumbs-up and thundered toward the bridge over the Rio Grande.

The truck was expected to unload in Garland on Saturday or possibly Monday if the business couldn't receive the cargo immediately.

Paez's company was first approved to operate in the U.S. interior under a 2007 pilot program that allowed a limited number of trucks before President Barack Obama's administration canceled it in 2009. Mexico retaliated by placing tariffs on a wide range of American goods.

Hours before Friday's ceremony, Mexico announced it was suspending the tariffs. But the Mexican government warned that they could be reinstated if the accord is not respected by the United States.

The $2 billion worth of tariffs were imposed on 99 U.S. products, including Christmas trees, onions, oranges, apples, juice concentrates, toothpaste, deodorant, sunglasses, among others. Mexico reduced the tariffs after signing the trucking agreement with the U.S. in July and then removed them completely Friday.

"With this program, we're initiating a new stage of competition, of prosperity, of regional integration," said Bruno Ferrari, Mexican secretary of the economy.

NAFTA, signed in 1994, had called for Mexican trucks to have unrestricted access to highways in border states by 1995 and full access to all U.S. highways by January 2000. Canadian trucks have no limits on where they can go.

Cops' Corner

The Pampa Police Department wants to make you aware of a scam some of our citizens have been affected by. The scam goes like this: Someone calls and states they are from an insurance provider and they were calling to notify the person they will be receiving a new insurance Medicare card, but in order to get the card, the person needs to confirm their account number.

In this case, the victim gave the caller the information. Thankfully, no monetary loss had accrued due to the victim not feeling comfortable with giving the information out and making quick phone calls to determine if it was a scam. When the investigator called the number back, it showed the number had been disconnected. Unfortunately, in these days, technology has come so far in advance; due to this, it allows callers to disguise their telephone numbers so that it may show any number they wish.

Again, we want to encourage citizens to not give any personal information over the phone, even if the caller threatens you. If you still are unsure if the call is legitimate, then get the company they work for, their telephone number and name and tell them you will call them back. Then, do some checking for yourself. In this case, you could call the Medicare office and speak with them to see if indeed they are sending out new cards.

If you would like more information on this please contact Officer McCullar at the Pampa Police Department at 806-669-5700.

Thank you,

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: I am a woman in my early 20s. I have an uncle in his late 30s who keeps asking me invasive questions about my relationship status. Every time I see "Uncle Roger" at family gatherings he asks if I have a boyfriend yet, why

I'm not seeing anyone or what I'm doing single. He assumes it's because I don't want to put up with the boyfriend drama.

Uncle Roger makes me feel bad about not being interested in a relationship or dating at the moment. I have told him to back off, without success. He just laughs it off and then the questions continue. Yet, this man has never been in any stable relationship himself.

Is there something wrong with me because I haven't met the right person? Am I supposed to force relationships to happen? What can I say to Uncle Roger to make him stop? — BEYOND ANNOYED IN OAKLAND, CALIF.

DEAR BEYOND ANNOYED: Uncle Roger may think he's being funny by relentlessly asking why you're not involved with anyone. Because you have asked him to stop and he presses on, you have two choices: Avoid and ignore him, or turn the tables.

When he asks you about your love life, instead of becoming defensive, answer his question with a question: "Why aren't YOU involved with anyone, Uncle Roger? Why are you still single at your age? Can't you find anyone who'll say yes?" And be sure to laugh right back at him. As long as you let him know he's getting to you, he will continue. Sometimes the best defense is a strong offense. DEAR ABBY: My dad died recently. He and Mom were married 60 years. Apparently, Mom hid her anger at him well, because she now says she couldn't stand him.

None of us kids can bring up any stories or memories about Dad because Mom will say things like, "He was a narcissist," or "He was no fun," etc. We remember him as a great provider and a decent, beloved person.

Do you have any suggestions on how we can approach the subject with my mother? It's so hurtful that we can't talk about our father anymore now that she feels "free" and happy. — MISSING OUR DAD

DEAR MISSING: Yes. Tell your mother that you and your siblings prefer to remember your father as the decent, beloved, great provider he was to all of you. Tell her that you're glad she's "free" and "happy," but the comments she's making are unwelcome. And if she continues to make them, walk away or share your loving memories of your father when she's not present.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 27-year-old single woman. I have been hanging out with a guy ("Connor") for a few months. I enjoy his company, but I don't have more than platonic feelings for him.

I'm reading a book that says women my age are too picky and need to compromise. My question is, how long should I wait until I feel something more or that compromising just won't work with this one?

Am I too picky or do I need to realize I won't be feeling anything more? — SINGLE AND CONFUSED IN MINNESOTA

DEAR CONFUSED: If you have nothing more than platonic feelings for Connor after seeing him for a few months, those feelings are not likely to change because the chemistry just isn't there. What you need to do is be more selective about the authors whose books you choose, because someone who would advise women sight unseen that they're "too picky" is speaking in dangerous generalities. Caveat emptor.

Troops out of Iraq by year's end

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Barack Obama on Friday declared an end to the Iraq war, one of the longest and most divisive conflicts in U.S. history, announcing that all U.S. troops would be withdrawn from the country by year's end.

Obama's statement put an end to months of wrangling over whether the U.S. would maintain a force in Iraq beyond 2011.

"After nearly nine years," the president, "America's war in Iraq will be over."

He spoke at the White House after a private video conference with Iraqi Prime Minister Nouri al-Maliki, and he offered assurances that the two leaders agreed on the decision.

The American withdrawal by the end of 2011 was sealed in a deal between the two countries when George W. Bush was president. Obama declared the end of the combat mission earlier this year.

Wealthy farm may lose subsidies

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate has voted to end direct payments to farmers whose annual incomes exceed $1 million.

The 84-15 vote approving the provision by Oklahoma Republican Sen. Tom Coburn came as the Senate worked into the early morning hours Friday on a vast spending bill.

Coburn argued that the government shouldn't be subsidizing the highest earning farmers at a time of deep budget deficits. The leaders of the Senate Agriculture Committee, who opposed Coburn, are working on legislation that could eliminate the entire $5 billion-a-year direct payment program for farmers.

Direct payments go to farmers regardless of crop prices or yields.

NM wants expanded travel zone

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) - New Mexico's senators want to expand to 75 miles the zone in which Mexican nationals can travel into the state to shop, do business and visit family.

Currently, Mexican nationals holding Border Crossing Cards, or Laser Visas, can travel within 25 miles of the border for up to 30 days. That has created an economic boost for some border towns, but excludes the state's three largest border cities -- Las Cruces, Lordsburg and Deming.

In 1999 Arizona, was allowed to extend the zone to 75 miles to include the city of Tucson.

New Mexico Sens. Jeff Bingaman and Tom Udall are seeking the same exemption through proposed legislation or new rules from the Department of Homeland Security.

Red tide kills 3M coastal fish

SOUTH PADRE ISLAND (AP) - Experts say the algae bloom known as red tide has killed about 3 million fish along the Texas coast since early September.

A Texas Parks and Wildlife Department marine biologist on Friday said the number of fish that died is average for a red tide outbreak. Meredith Byrd also told The Associated Press that the last red tide for Texas, from October 2009 through mid-February 2010, killed about 5.5 million fish.

Officials say that Texas drought conditions, limiting how much fresh water flows into bays, are fueling the latest red tide outbreak. The algae thrive in warm, salty water.

Ex-Texas teacher gets 62 years

McKINNEY (AP) - A former Dallas-area kindergarten teacher has been sentenced to 62 years in prison for sexual misconduct with students that included an apparent diaper fetish.

A judge in McKinney on Thursday sentenced 29-year-old Joseph Peter Garbarini. A jury in August convicted the former Plano Independent School District educator of continuous sex abuse of a child and sexual performance by a child.

Investigators say Garbarini was teaching at Hunt Elementary School in Murphy when allegations surfaced that he pretended to put diapers on girls in class and gave them pacifiers. Two girls had alleged sexual-related misconduct by Garbarini, who resigned last year amid the investigation.

Texas jobless rate at 8.5 percent

AUSTIN (AP) - The Texas unemployment rate held steady at 8.5 percent in September as the state bounced back from a month of job losses by adding more than 15,000 positions.

The Texas Workforce Commission said Friday the increase in jobs came after the state dramatically revised the number of nonfarm job losses in August to 21,600 from the initially reported figure of 1,300. It was the first month of job losses this year, according to commission figures.

The U.S. jobless rate also held steady in September at 9.1 percent. Commission Chairman Tom Pauken said he was "encouraged" by the state adding 26,500 private sector jobs in September.

Professional and business services added 18,400 jobs in September, while government lost another 11,100 positions and has dropped 33,700 jobs over the past year.

BP step closer to gulf drilling

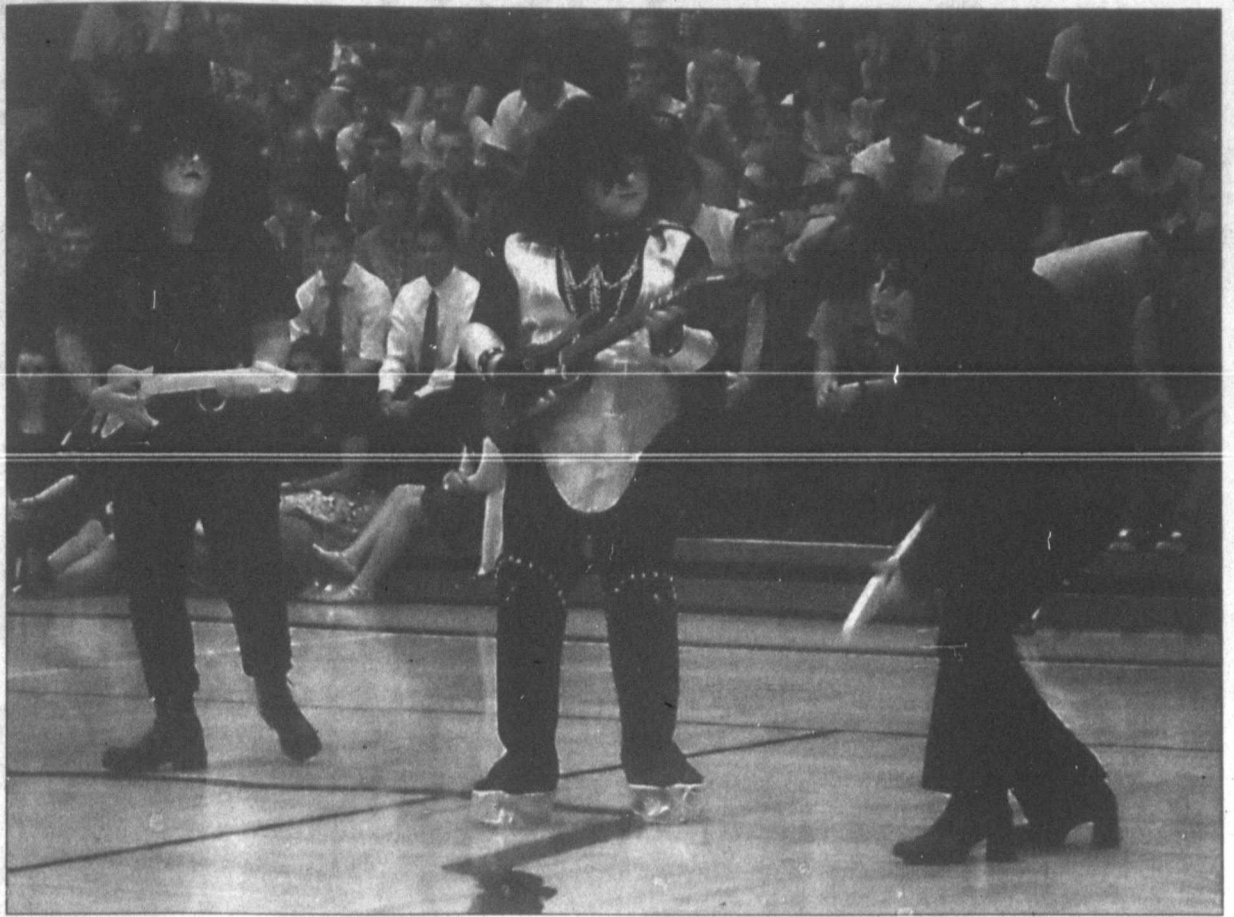

BP is a step closer to being allowed to drill new deepwater wells in the Gulf of Mexico.

The agency that regulates offshore drilling said Friday it has approved a supplemental exploration plan submitted by BP. The British firm still must obtain permits to be able to start drilling.

BP is seeking to drill up to four wells in the Gulf's Keathley Canyon in water that is more than 6,000 feet deep and is located 192 miles from the Louisiana shore.

This project would be the first new one drilled by BP since last year's Deepwater Horizon explosion that killed 11 workers and led to the worst offshore oil spill in U.S. history. The company has a 46 percent stake in a well already approved for drilling by Noble Energy.

Perry's flat tax plan a political gamble

WASHINGTON (AP) - Texas Gov. Rick Perry's call for a flat income tax rate will tie his Republican presidential campaign to a contentious issue that excites many conservatives but has repeatedly failed to win the embrace of mainstream America.

Perry, struggling to get his campaign back on track, will unveil "a blockbuster" plan designed to simplify the federal tax code and lower the rate that many people pay on income and investments, said Steve Forbes, a longtime flat-tax advocate who is advising the campaign.

"People's mouths will water" when they see the details, said Forbes, a wealthy businessman who sought the GOP presidential nomination in 1996 and 2000.

Liberal groups quickly criticized Perry's idea, saying it would raise taxes on lower- and mid-income Americans while giving breaks to the wealthiest.

Perry campaign aides offered no details of the plan Thursday. They acknowledged, however, that Forbes is a key adviser for the plan, which Perry will unfold next week.

Difference

are being adopted and less are being euthanized," said Melodie Dosch of Altrusa. "People are taking in smaller animals so they can be adopted and so they have a chance at life. Having more volunteers do necessary things made a big difference, and we thought (the drive) would be a wonderful thing for us to do for

Make a Difference Day."

The organization will accept donations of paper towels, bleach, dry dog, cat, puppy and kitten food, towels, inexpensive cat litter, leashes and collars. They will also accept monetary donations that will go towards shots and medicine for animals at the shelter.

In the next few weeks, Altrusa also plans to do programs at the elementary schools that will provide kids with tips on how to care for their pets, like how to make sure your pet's collar fits correctly.

"We want to support our community and support our pets in the community," said Dosch.

so that the board now had to choose between holding their elections with the county or with the city elections. Trustees decided to extend their terms to four years and to hold elections in odd years with the city in May, with their next election scheduled in May of 2013.

The board also looked at two bids for property at Pampa Junior High. Trustees accepted a bid of $5,001 from Crall Products for the Pampa Junior High Weight Room. They rejected a bid on Patriot Hall, and reduced the minimum bid for this property to $5,000.

In other business, the board approved Campus Improvement Plans, accepted the resignation and renominated Mike the Gray County Appraisal Board of Directors.

On Oct. 22, 1811, composer and piano virtuoso Franz Liszt was born in the Hungarian town of Raiding in present-day Austria.

On this date:

In 1746, Princeton University was first chartered as the College of New Jersey.

In 1797, French balloonist Andre-Jacques Garnerin made the first parachute descent, landing safely from a height of about 3,000 feet over Paris.

In 1836, Sam Houston was inaugurated as the first constitutionally elected president of the Republic of Texas.

In 1883, the original Metropolitan Opera House in New York held its grand opening with a performance of Gounod's "Faust."

In 1928, Republican presidential nominee Herbert Hoover spoke of the "American system of rugged individualism" in a speech at New York's Madison Square Garden.

In 1934, bank robber Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd was shot to death by federal agents at a farm in East Liverpool, Ohio.

In 1962, President John F. Kennedy announced a quarantine of all offensive military equipment shipped to Cuba, following the discovery of Soviet-built missile bases on the island.

In 1979, the U.S. government allowed the deposed Shah of Iran to travel to New York for medical treatment - a decision that precipitated the Iran hostage crisis. French conductor and music teacher Nadia Boulanger died in Paris.

In 1981, the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization was decertified by the federal government for its strike the previous August.

In 1986, President Ronald Reagan signed into law sweeping tax-overhaul legislation.

Ten years ago: A second Washington, D.C., postal worker, Joseph P. Cursean, died of inhalation anthrax.

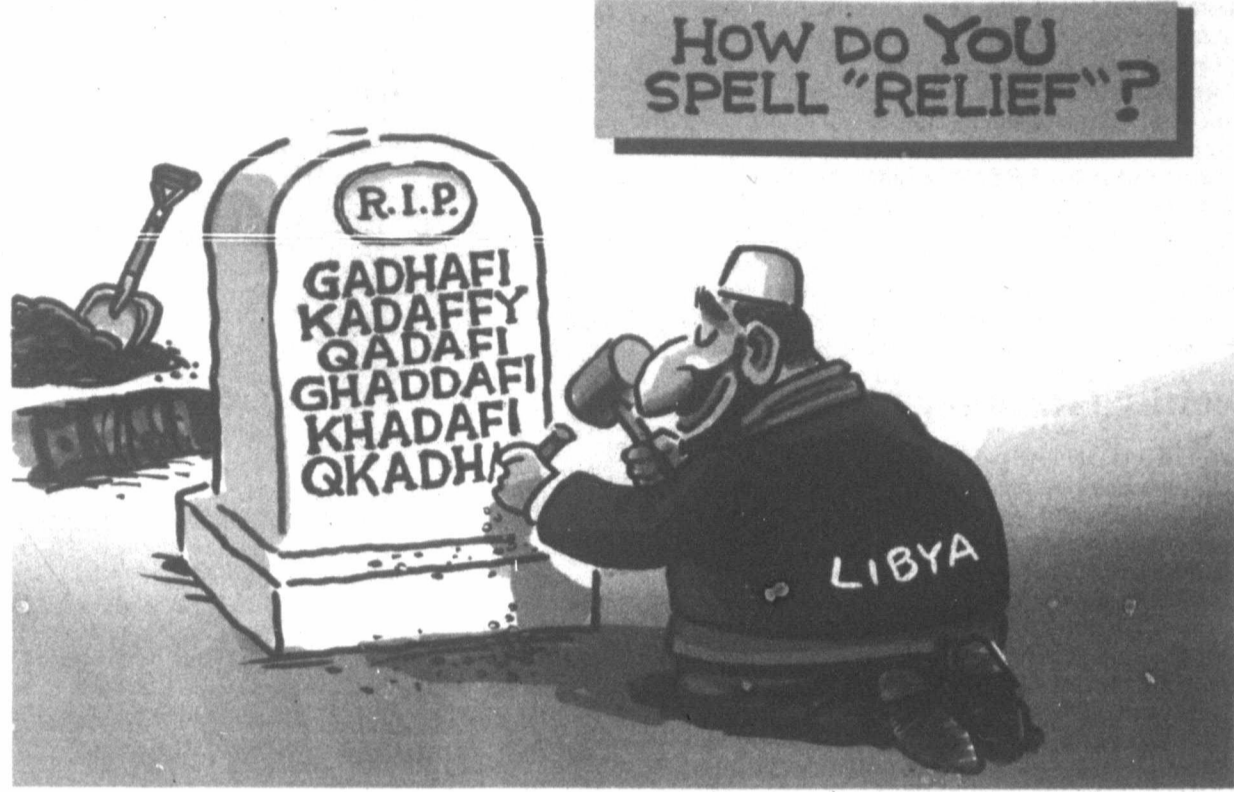

Five years ago: Senior U.S. diplomat Alberto Fernandez apologized for saying in an al-Jazeera TV interview that U.S. policy in Iraq had displayed "arrogance" and "stupidity."

One year ago: WikiLeaks released 391,831 purported Iraq war logs that suggested more than 100,000 Iraqi civilians had died in the conflict.

Dancing (way) past my bedtime

Bye Bye Baby Bye Bye

Another Country Fair is history. So many people had told me they were going to be out of town, I was afraid it would be poorly attended, so I was pleasantly surprised when the room began to fill.

The food was good, the drinks were good, the band was good, and the dancing was good. (ReDonn, if the picture Arnie took looks like I'm not having fun, I can assure you that was NOT the case!)

A couple of housekeeping items left over from Country Fair: We used a plush cow as a promotion for Mootilda, our giant inflatable, and didn't get back with it.

It was a personal item of one of the Chamber staff, and we'd like to get it back. Also, we are missing one easel. We borrow those for display purposes only, and need it returned as well.

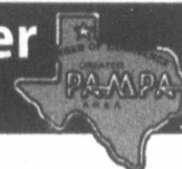

Remember when...

...you were a kid and counted it a great victory to get to stay up past midnight? Then in high school, it was pretty routine. In college, if you went to bed before 1 a.m., you were a party pooper.

Nowadays, a night that lasts past midnight just wipes me out. It was probably about 1:30 when I crawled in the sack after Country Fair.

Later in the week Blossom Matthews chided me for missing church. I told her I was going to sleep somewhere that morning and I figured I just as well be comfortable. (I didn't get to feeling somewhat "normal" until late Tuesday.)

On the Road

Again...

As you read this I am doing something I have wanted to do for a long time—attend the Texas Book Festival in Austin.

I was a librarian when Laura Bush initiated the festival during her tenure as First Lady of Texas, and I wanted to go then, but just couldn't swing it. A few weeks ago, a friend who now lives there invited us and a couple from Dumas to go with them.

My wife can't make it—I hope I can talk my daughter into being my "date" for the festival, so if you hear of me running around the city with a 20-something girl, believe it—but realize it's OK!

...in Style!

Did you know that Roberta's Flowers has a stretch limo? It's available for parties, tours, girls night out, etc. Joe calls it "a truck with a dance floor". I think that about sums it up!

Ole!

El Ranchito (Price Rd and 152) has completed their move across the street into their new digs...and what digs they are! We were there for the grand pre-opening on Wednesday and by the time you read this, they will be in full operation.

In addition to their signature Mexican and Tex-Mex dishes, they have a private club license and serve mojitos with real rum and margaritas with real tequila.

What's in a Name?

I'm not sure. I read recently that Anita Perry's maiden name (before she married Rick) was Thigpen. That name is not as uncommon as you might think (Alan Jackson referred to it in his song "Drive") but what struck me about it is that we may be related—my Grandma Weaver was born a Thigpen, so I believe it's quite possible. (Though truth be told, I'd rather related to Aian Jackson!)

Sunday in History Perry

Tomorrow is Sunday, Oct. 23, the 296th day of 2011. There are 69 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On Oct. 23, 1983, 241 U.S. service members, most of them Marines, were killed in a suicide truck-bombing at Beirut International Airport in Lebanon; a near-simultaneous attack on French forces killed 58 paratroopers.

On this date:

In 1864, forces led by Union Gen. Samuel R. Curtis repelled Confederate Gen. Sterling Price's army in the Civil War Battle of Westport in Missouri.

In 1910, Blanche S. Scott became the first woman to make a public solo airplane flight, reaching an altitude of 12 feet at a park in Fort Wayne, Ind.

In 1915, tens of thousands of women marched in New York City, demanding the right to vote.

In 1941, the Walt Disney animated feature "Dumbo" premiered in New York.

In 1956, a student-sparked revolt against Hungary's Communist rule began; as the revolution spread, Soviet forces started entering the country, and the uprising was put down within weeks.

In 1973, President Richard Nixon agreed to turn over White House tape recordings subpoenaed by the Watergate special prosecutor to Judge John J. Sirica.

In 1980, the resignation of Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin was announced.

In 1987, the U.S. Senate rejected, 58-42, the Supreme Court nomination of Robert H. Bork.

In 1991, Cambodia's warring factions and representatives of 18 other nations signed a peace treaty in Paris.

In 1995, a jury in Houston convicted Yolanda Saldívar of murdering Tejano singing star Selena. (Saldívar is serving a life prison sentence.)

Ten years ago: The nation's anthrax scare hit the White House with the discovery of a small concentration of spores at an offsite mail processing center. President George W. Bush announced he had authorized money for improved post office security following the deaths of two postal workers from inhalation anthrax. The Irish Republican Army announced that it had begun to disarm for the first time. A relieved NASA team celebrated as the 2001 Mars Odyssey slipped into orbit around the Red Planet, two years after back-to-back failures by Mars missions. Apple Computer Inc. unveiled its iPod.

Five years ago: Former Enron CEO Jeffrey Skilling was sentenced by a federal judge in Houston to 24 years, four months for his role in the company's collapse. Police in Budapest clashed with protesters in anti-government demonstrations coinciding with Hungary's commemoration of the 50th anniversary of its uprising against Soviet rule.

One year ago: The world's leading advanced and emerging countries vowed during a meeting in Gyeongju, South Korea, to avoid potentially debilitating currency devaluations, aiming to quell trade tensions that could threaten the global recovery. San Francisco's Juan Uribe hit a tiebreaking homer off Ryan Madson with two outs in the eighth inning and the Giants held off Philadelphia 3-2 to win the NL pennant in six games.

Today's Birthdays: Baseball Hall of Famer and former U.S. Sen. Jim Bunning, R-Ky., is 80. Movie director Philip Kaufman is 75. Soccer great Pele is 71. Rhythm-and-blues singer Barbara Ann Hawkins (The Dixie Cups) is 68. Actor Michael Rupert is 60. Movie director Ang Lee is 57. Jazz singer Dianne Reeves is 55. Country singer Dwight Yoakam is 55. Community activist Martin Luther King III is 54. Movie director Sam Raimi is 52. Parodist "Weird Al" Yankovic is 52. Rock musician Robert Trujillo (Metallica) is 47. Christian/jazz singer David Thomas (Take 6) is 45. Rock musician Brian Nevin (Big Head Todd and the Monsters) is 45. Country singer-musician Junior Bryant is 43. Actor Jon Huertas is 42. CNN medical reporter Dr. Sanjay Gupta is 42. Country singer Jimmy Wayne is 39. Rock musician Eric Bass (Shinedown) is 37. Actor Ryan Reynolds is 35. Actress Masiela Lusha is 26. Actress Briana Evigan is 25. Actress Jessica Stroup is 25.

Thought for Today: "A learned fool is more a fool than an ignorant fool." - Moliere, French playwright (1622-1673).

The flat tax has an uneasy history in U.S. politics. Numerous Republicans and some Democrats hail its simplicity. But they have never managed to win enough support to enact it.

While many variations exist, the main idea is to replace the current stair-step range of income tax rates with one rate, paid by everyone. Advocates typically call for eliminating some or all of the existing tax deductions, such as those allowed for mortgage interest payments, gifts to charity and some medical costs.

Forbes said in a phone interview Thursday that he expects Perry to propose "a clean sweep" of such deductions.

"I think the public receptivity has grown enormously," Forbes said of the flat tax. The current tax code "has gotten even junkier, and the economy is obviously not doing well, so people are in the mood for something drastic," he said.

Forbes said Perry's plan will differ from Herman Cain's so-called 9-9-9 plan because it will not call for a national sales tax. Cain, whose presidential bid has prospered lately, wants a 9 percent flat tax on personal and corporate income, as well as a 9 percent national sales tax.

Perry said this week his plan will be "flatter and fairer" than Cain's.

Criticisms of a flat tax focus on its full or partial elimination of the progressive nature of the current tax code. In a progressive system, higher earners pay higher tax rates on their income.

Under a pure flat tax, with no exemptions or deductions, someone who earns $200,000 a year would pay exactly 10 times the amount of tax paid by someone who earns $20,000 a year. All income would be subject to one flat rate.

Under a progressive system, even if there were no exemptions or deductions to help poorer people, the $200,000 earner would pay more than 10 times the amount of tax paid by the $20,000 earner. That's because he pays higher rates on the upper portions of his income.

Supporters of progressive income tax systems say the feature is important to social fairness because other taxes tend to be regressive. For instance, a 5 percent state sales tax hits lower-income people proportionately harder than high earners because they must spend a larger portion of their income on necessities. That leaves them less able to save, invest or otherwise protect their income from the sales tax.

Payroll taxes, gasoline levies and other taxes also tend to be regressive because they essentially are flat.

A flat income tax "is inherently a shift of taxes off the wealthy and onto the middle class," said Michael Ettlinger of the Democratic-leaning Center for American Progress. When prominent politicians propose a flat tax, "there's often an initial episode of popularity," he said. "But then people understand the shift from the wealthy to the middle class," and support wanes, he said.

Forbes proposed a 17 percent flat rate in his presidential campaigns, which gained modest traction. He finished fourth in the 1996 Iowa caucus and a New Hampshire primary.

In 2000 he finished second in Iowa, 11 percentage points behind George W. Bush. He finished a distant third in New Hampshire.

It's not clear what tax rate Perry will propose. Forbes said Thursday that some amount of lower income will be exempt for everyone, and some breaks will be given to parents of young children. Such features will make Perry's plan less regressive than a pure flat tax system. But the impact probably will be slight, said Chuck Marr, federal tax policy director for the liberal Center on Budget and Policy Priorities.

"If it's revenue-neutral, a flat tax imposes a large increase on middle-class people, and a tax decrease for wealthy people," Marr said.

Perry touts his record of cutting taxes, and Republican strategists expect his proposal to be revenue-neutral, or better, in the sense that the tax burden on Americans would stay level or fall if all other conditions remained unchanged. Forbes said Perry's plan would generate greater revenue only because it would spur economic growth and investment, a frequent claim of tax-cut advocates.

Perry's tax gambit may force a more definitive response from former Massachusetts Gov. Mitt Romney, his chief rival for the GOP nomination. Romney has given mixed signals over the years about a flat tax system, sometimes praising it in concept but criticizing details offered by politicians.

In 1996, Romney bought a $50,000 newspaper ad in Boston saying Forbes' flat tax would primarily benefit the rich. He called it "a bad idea for the Republican Party."

Campaigning Thursday in Iowa, Romney said a flat income tax has "positive features" but it should not be allowed to "raise taxes on middle-income Americans."

sunday horoscope

A baby born today, Oct. 23, 2011, before 11:30 a.m. (PST) has a Sun in Libra, whereas a baby born afterward has a Sun in Scorpio. The Moon is in Virgo all day long.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Sunday, Oct. 23, 2011:

This year your friends play a big role in at least one facet of your life. If you are single, a friend could be instrumental in the beginning of a relationship, or a friendship could turn into something more. If you are attached, work on the friendship between you. Use care with your words, as they come off more sarcastic than you intended. VIRGO is a pal.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

★★★ You want to complete a project, yet your very social friends keep interfering. There are several solutions; consider reprioritizing. A close family member or friend supports you in this venture. Tonight: Visit over dinner.

This Week: Let others take the lead. They need to understand how you feel.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

★★★ Handle an errand early, as you will want to free yourself up. Meet friends for a late lunch or any type of gathering that interests you. Surround yourself with a chorus of people. Remain neutral with others' criticism. Tonight: First decide who you would like to be with.

This Week: Push hard Monday and Tuesday. You'll achieve much more than you thought possible.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

★★★ Tension builds, and there is little you can do to minimize it. Don't overthink an emotional problem; rather, open up to new possibilities. Allow yourself to be more innovative and forthright. Reduce stress with some outdoor exercise. Tonight: Order in or stay close to home.

This Week: You are full of energy and ideas. How can anyone say no to you?

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

★★★ Stay centered. A child could be out of whack. Ask yourself why. A new friend might feel insecure.

Perhaps this is normal. Can you handle this person's needs? Tonight: Lose some self-discipline; act like a teenager again.

This Week: Take your time moving into a new project. You might prefer to have more fun.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

★★★★ If you need to say something, do it in the morning. Later, you might not be as conscious, as you toss yourself into the activity of the moment. Note a tendency on your part to go overboard. Be careful with anything involving money. Tonight: Fun doesn't have to break the bank.

This Week: Speak your mind with the expectation of being heard. Work from home or play it low-key from Wednesday on.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

★★★★★ You attract many people. Rest assured this situation won't last forever. Determine your limits and boundaries. Make plans for the afternoon involving good company and visiting with a few chosen friends. Someone appreciates how you demonstrate your caring. Tonight: Hang out.

This Week: You simply cannot hold yourself back. Try anyway. Expect to be out there!

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

★★★ Sometimes you need to vanish, and today is one of those times. You have a lot to mull over on a personal level. Getting a financial matter on target could be more important than you realize in reaching a personal goal. You can do it. Tonight: Treat yourself well.

This Week: Beam into the workweek knowing you have the power to turn a situation around in your favor.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

★★★★ Please note a major energy change. You might be happy to be a hermit in the a.m., but by the afternoon you decide "no way!" Put your best foot forward, realizing you might be imposing limits on yourself. Be willing to break through. Tonight: Where the fun is.

This Week: Don't push Monday and Tuesday. From Wednesday on, take a stand. Demonstrate your knowledge on a particular subject.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

★★★ Your leadership is well-established, but on some level you have had enough and would like to free up more time just for you. Decide to make that happen today. No ifs, ands or buts. Listen to your sixth sense with an older relative. Tonight: A personal night.

This Week: Zero in on a goal Monday and Tuesday. Be less available from Wednesday on.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

★★★★ Invite a friend or loved one to hop in the car to see the fall foliage, or just go for a drive, exploring new areas. Together you get a new sense of freedom and relaxation. Yes, you can leave stress at home. A friendship or encounter today could become a delightful relationship. Tonight: Only what you want.

This Week: Others notice you, but they also count on you to carry the weight of what they might have slipped up on. Decide what you want to do. Let others know your limits.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

★★★★ A partner dominates your plans. You cannot really say that you mind. In fact, dote on this person. You don't always get time like this together. Let the good feelings flow. Gut the judgments, and just accept this person for who he or she is. Tonight: You cannot help but smile.

This Week: Take an overview. You'll see a situation in a new light. Act on this information.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

★★★★ Your popularity continues to soar, making nearly anything possible. If you decide to throw a party, everyone will pitch in. If you want to spend some special time with a new friend, you will get a yes. Tonight: Say hello to the good times.

This Week: Work closely with others. They appreciate your input. Let your imagination figure into a decision.

Chidester named Xcel Energy Community Service Manager

PERRYTON — Dru Chidester, lineman journeyman serviceman for Xcel Energy in Canadian, has accepted the position of community service manager based in Perryton. Chidester succeeds Ernest Ramirez, who retired this summer.

In his new position, Chidester is responsible for relationships with 14 cities in the northeastern Texas Panhandle region, including Pampa, Perryton and Canadian.

Chidester has more than 11 years of experience with Xcel Energy and Southwestern Public Service Company. In December 2000, he started his career as an apprentice lineman in the transmission line department.

In March 2002, he transferred to Pampa as a second-year apprentice lineman. He was classified as a journeyman lineman in December 2004. He became the serviceman for the Wheeler area in September 2007. In January 2008, he became serviceman in the Miami-Canadian area.

Prior to working at Xcel Energy, Chidester was an officer with the Wichita Falls Police Department. Chidester also served as a military policeman in the U.S. Army, where he achieved the rank of sergeant and served during the Gulf War of 1990-1991.

"Dru will be a valuable asset to the community service and economic development team, said Wallace Hill, regional manager for community and economic development in Amarillo. "During his service in Canadian, he helped us work through many community issues, and regularly went beyond the call of his daily duties. We're excited to put his skills to work in the communities of the northeastern Texas Panhandle."

Chidester is a graduate of River Road High School in Amarillo, and attended Amarillo College. During his military service, he attended the University of Maryland and Central Texas College. He and his wife, Amber, have three children. He has coached youth football and basketball, and serves on the

Dru Chidester

Canadian High School Booster Club.

Chidester's home office will be in Perryton, but he and his family will continue to reside in Canadian.

CLUB NOTES

Heritage Art Club plans fundraiser

Heritage Art Club met at 9:45 p.m. Monday, Oct. 3 at the Pampa Senior Citizens building.

Among the discussion was the choice of a floral theme for the club's 2012 annual fundraiser.

Thanks to Barbara Stubblefield, the club's painting class was a success. The quilt for this year's fundraiser has been completed. Tickets for the Dec. 3 quilt drawing are available from any club member or at the center. All of the proceeds will go to the Pampa Senior Citizen's organization.

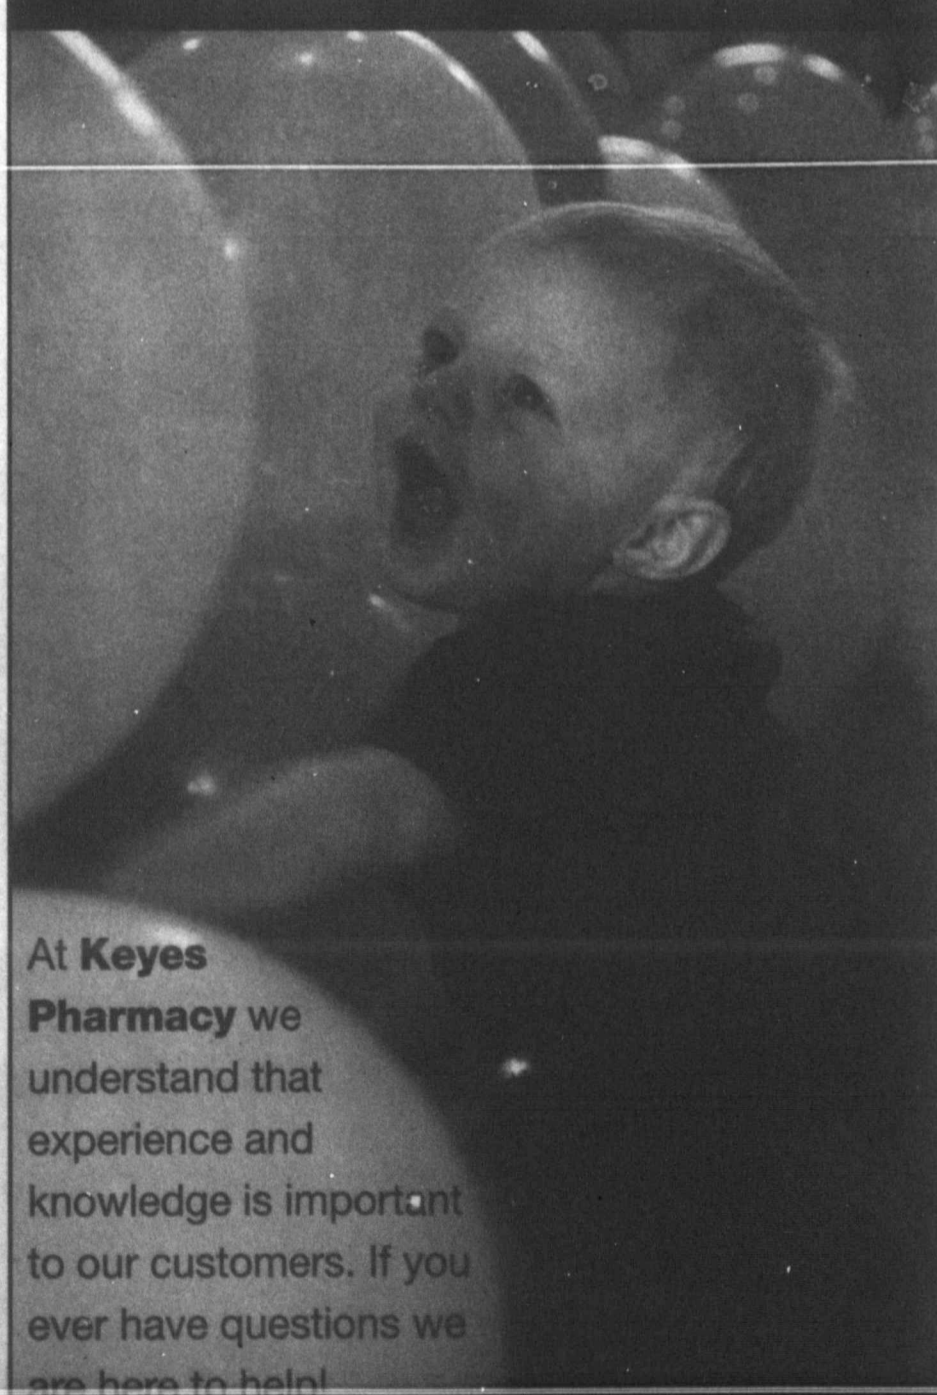

The hostess for this meeting was Theresa Maness.

The next meeting will be at 9:30 a.m. Monday, Nov. 7 at the Pampa Senior Citizens building. The club will be making ribbon Christmas cards taught by Madeline Gawthrop.

Catrina Howell displays a quilt to be awarded as part of a fundraiser for the Pampa Senior Citizens Center.

CLUB NOTES

20th Century Club meets at Louise Bailey home

The Twentieth Century Club met in the home of Louise Bailey on Oct. 11, 2011 at 1:30 p.m.

President Louise Bailey called the meeting to order, and Nancy Coffee led members in the Club Collect, the Pledge of Allegiance and the Pledge to the Texas Flag.

Roll was taken with members present: Louise Bailey, Nancy Coffee, Edna Hickman, Mary McDaniel, Myrna Orr, Ruth Riehart, Dot Stowers, Pat Terry and Barbara Vanderpool.

Minutes of the September 27 meeting were read by Myrna Orr and the treasurer's report was given. Committee reports were given on local events, cultural arts and literature, education, science and technology.

Members were urged to study Texas Amendments for the upcoming election.

Barbara Vanderpool presented the program on a book "The General and Mrs. Washington."

Barbara told how General George Washington and Martha met and their early life together, the hardships they endured during the Revolutionary War and Washington's trip to New York for his inauguration as our first President. She told of their love for their home, Mt. Vernon.

Refreshments were served to members following the program. The next meeting will be held on Oct. 25 at the home of Mary McDaniel with Pat Terry presenting the program.

Art Club discusses workshops

The Pampa Art Club met at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday, Oct. 18 in the Nona Payne Room at the Pampa Chamber of Commerce building.

Among the club's plans is a demonstration of a water abstract by Madeline Gawthrop. She will present this at the club meeting on Dec. 6.

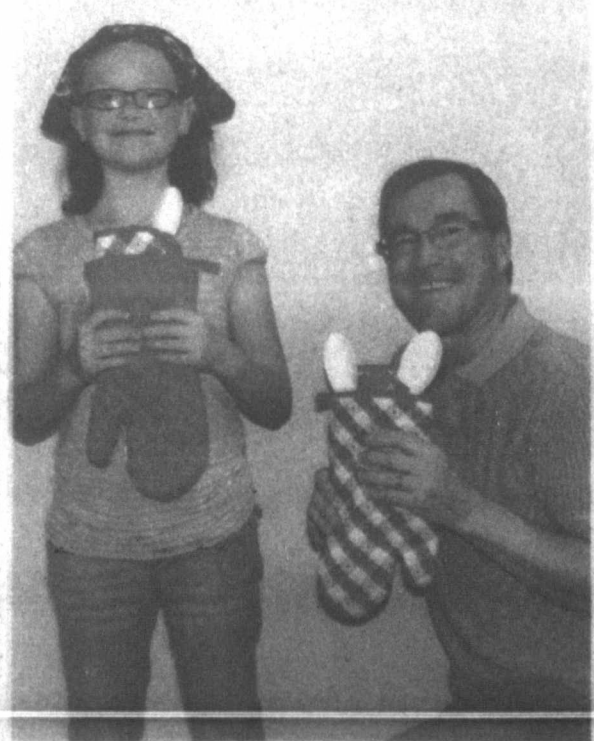

A workshop with watercolorist Sam Sidders was also discussed. Sam is a talented artist from Gage, Okla. His workshop will be discussed further at the next club meeting.

The club also planned ways to help with the "Artist of the Year" reception for Karin Sutherland.

The hostesses for the meeting were Sara Crim and Madeline Gawthrop. Visitors attending included Nelda Savage and Connie Hall.

Borger's Brown runs loose, Harvesters fall to rival

ANDREW GLOVER
aglover@thepampanews.com

The Pampa Harvesters were hoping to give their fans a game to remember against the Borger Bulldogs Friday. It instead ended up one to forget.

Borger romped to a 31-6 victory at Harvester Field.

"We planned on playing better," head coach Heath Parker said. "I apologize for the fact that we did not, as the head coach."

This is the third season in a row that Borger has emerged victorious. Senior offensive lineman Trevor Smith said Borger was more intense.

"We didn't execute as well as we wanted to," Smith said. "Borger is a good team. We just didn't match their intensity on both sides of the ball."

Senior quarterback Reid Miller said they just got beat.

"They were the better team tonight," Miller said. "We didn't get anything going offensively. It took us a while and we had a couple of dumb turnovers."

Miller gained 12 yards on the first play from scrimmage. After that, the Harvesters' offense was limited, gaining only 13 yards on the next 19 plays. Pampa only picked up three first downs in the first half.

Miller struggled throwing the ball, completing three of 12 passes for 5 yards. Most of Pampa's lack of production was due to pressure from the Bulldogs who forced several quick throws.

The Bulldogs (4-4, 1-0) were led offensively by their running back, Ty Brown. Brown burst through the Harvesters' line and bounced off of tackles for 67 yards in the first quarter. Pampa's defense tightened up inside the red zone and held Borger to a field goal, which Alexis Aguilar made from 25 yards. Borger led 3-0 after the first.

Miller said the team couldn't get anything going.

"They weren't letting us get a pass game," Miller said. "They were bringing the heat and stopping the run. We just got to get one of the two going and it will open up the other."

In the second quarter, Brown continued where he left off piling up 89 yards and breaking runs of 15, 15 and 19 yards. Brown also scored two touchdowns. Junior quarterback Jacob Rendon hurt Pampa's defense with his arm, completing a 38-yard pass to Tyler Ortega.

Borger had three players outgain the Harvesters' 25 total yards of offense. Ortega caught two passes for 43 yards. Brown gained 156 yards, Rendon threw for 43 yards. The Bulldogs led 17-0 at halftime.

In the second half, it looked like the Harvesters were starting to gain momentum as the defense forced a three-and-out. On the punt, senior Latigo Collins muffed the punt, though, and Borger recovered at the Harvesters' 44.

The Bulldogs took advantage as Brown rushed for 38 yards including an eight-yard touchdown that gave Borger a commanding 24-0 lead about halfway through the third.

The Harvesters (3-5, 0-1) were finally able to move the ball offensively in the fourth. Miller picked up two first downs on the ground and one throwing. Junior running back Samuel Smith's rushes

PHS boys, girls swimming fall vs. Lubbock in dual

aglover@thepampanews.com

The Pampa High School boys and girls swim teams lost to Lubbock High in a dual meet Thursday at the Pete Ragus Aquatic Center.

The boys lost 75-74 and the girls lost 108-57. Head coach Edward Garvin said despite losing, he is pleased with the results.

"The kids were excited about the meet," Garvin said. "Most of our swimmers swam significantly faster than their seed time. The very important thing is the kids believe that we are going to get better."

The boys won the 200-yard medley relay with a time of 2:04.56. Spencer Estes, J.T. Brown, Dalton Hudson and Chris Garvin were on the team. Karl Pfitzner finished second in the 200-yard freestyle with a time of 2:12.64. Nate Towry finished second in the boys 200-yard individual medley with a time of 2:29.08. Estes won the 50-yard freestyle with a time of 24.34. Ramon Portillo finished second with a time of 25.85. Portillo won the 100-yard butterfly with a time of 1:10.05. Hudson finished second with a time of 1:10.26. Brown finished second in the 100-yard freestyle with a time of 1:04.11. Pfitzner finished third in the 500-yard freestyle with a time of 6:28.41.

The boys A team won the 200-yard freestyle relay (1:46.72) with Portillo, Towry, Pfitzner and Brown. Estes won the 100-yard backstroke with a time of 1:03.79. Towry finished second with a time of 1:10.28. The Pampa A team won the 400-yard freestyle relay with a time of 3:51.80.

Garvin said he has several strong male swimmers.

"Estes was strong in the 50-free and the 100-back," Garvin said. "He is shooting for the school record, which is 23.21. I'm hoping by the end of the year he will be close. Ramon Portillo dropped a lot of time off in the 100-yard butterfly."

The girls 200-yard medley A team finished second in the 200-yard medley relay with a time of 2:22.69. Kendle Ramey, Morgan Graef, Samantha VanHouten and Samantha Wilson were the swimmers. Graef won the 200 yard individual medley with a time of 2:49.59. Ramey finished second in the 500-yard freestyle with a time of 6:25.06. The girls 200-yard freestyle relay team finished third with a time of 2:19.66. VanHouten, MacKenzie Parks, Cecilia Alonzo, and Katlynn Hulse were the swimmers. Ramey won the 100-yard backstroke with a time of 1:14.49. Graef finished second in the 100-yard breaststroke with a time of 1:20.59. Pampa finished third in the 400-yard freestyle relay with a time of 4:51.52. Graef, Tyler Lambright, Wilson and Ramey were the swimmers.

The Harvesters and Lady Harvesters also compete in the Abilene Invitational today. Pampa faced Odessa Permian, Amarillo High, Amarillo Tascosa, San Angelo. Garvin said he likes putting his teams against bigger schools.

"I want them to get a feel for what their times are and strive for those times," Garvin said.

Harvesters

helped set up short yardage situations as he gained 25 yards on five carries. The drive stalled when senior Colten Adams missed a 37-yard field goal to the right.

After Borger scored another touchdown, Smith scored Pampa's only points on an 81-yard touchdown. Adams' extra point was blocked.

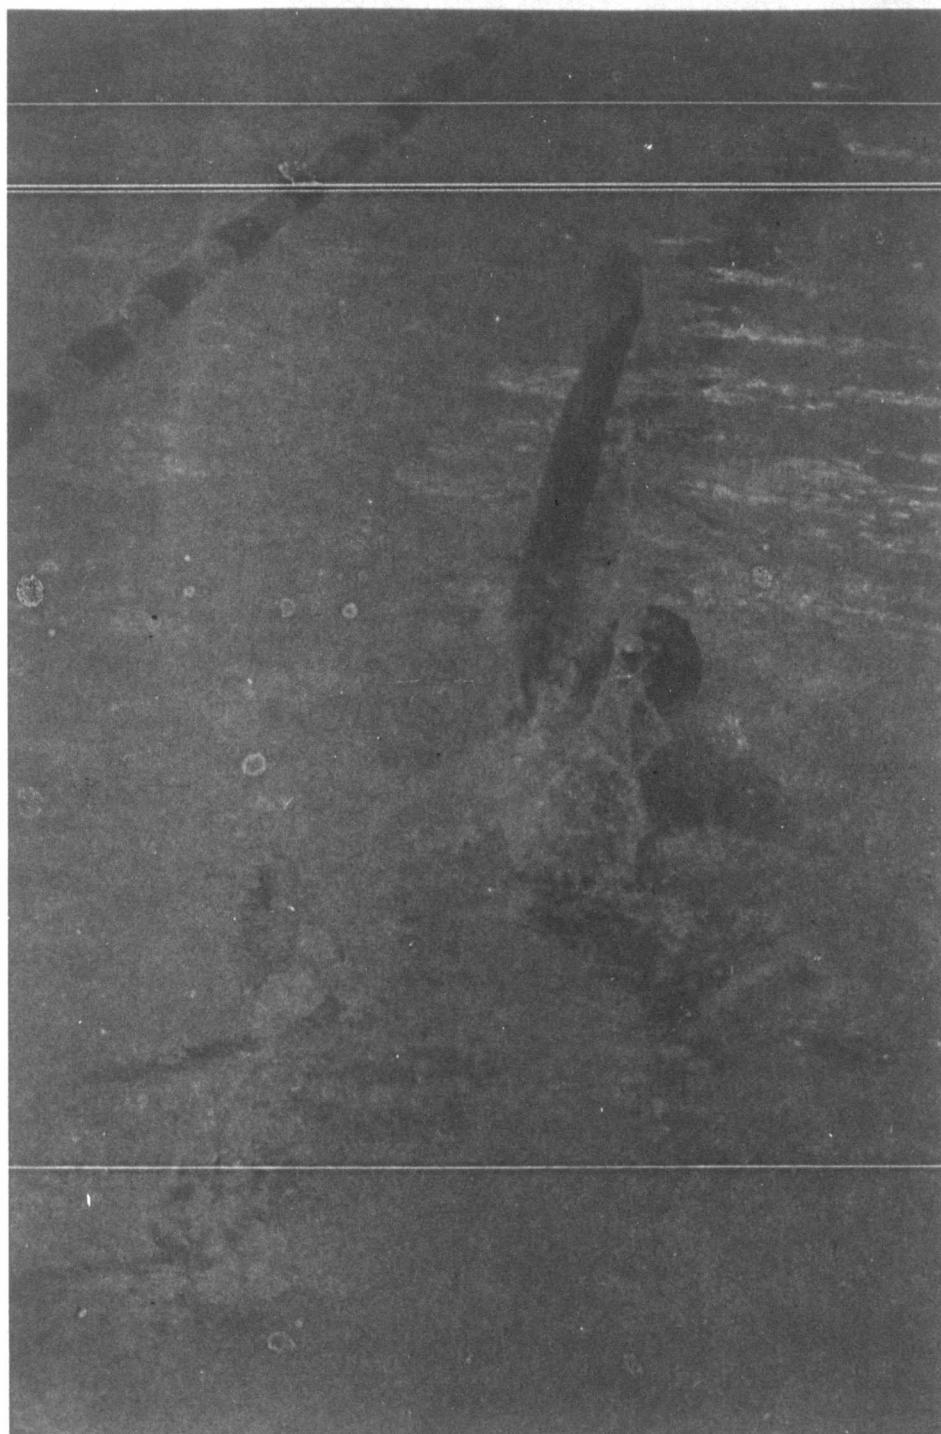

Parker said he was proud of the players that played.

"If you have never been in their shoes, it's a very difficult thing to do, to keep playing hard all night long, especially with all things going on at the bottom of the piles," Parker said. "I was pleased with the fact that they kept fighting and kept scratching."

Pampa visits the Perryton Rangers (3-5, 0-1) Friday. Perryton lost to Dalhart 36-10. The winner of next week's game will more than likely clinch a playoff spot. Trevor said Pampa needs to treat next week like a playoff game.

"This week we have to get together and practice as hard as we ever have," Trevor said. "This determines who goes to playoffs. We have to outplay Perryton."

Pitt, 'Moneyball' knock one out of the ballpark

Yeah, so I know I'm a little late to the party on this one, but just in case anybody hasn't heard yet, "Moneyball" is one heck of a great film.

It's a good time for a baseball movie around these parts, what with the Rangers right in the thick of a second straight World Series run. And it's certainly no shock that "Moneyball's" script is well-written and intelligent, especially when you consider what the film is based on: 2003's book of the same name by Michael Lewis, which was critically acclaimed and had such an impact on the game that its title has entered the baseball lexicon.

Perhaps, though, it's a different aspect of the source material that makes "Moneyball" even more impressive. "Moneyball" the book is about the behind-the-scenes, analytical, statistical side of baseball. There are no epic "The Natural" swings, no plucky "Major League" laughers, no juicy "Eight Men Out" scandals; it's about number crunching and salary figures and the sabermetric revolution. That the filmmakers of "Moneyball" the movie were able to compile it into such a captivating film is downright extraordinary.

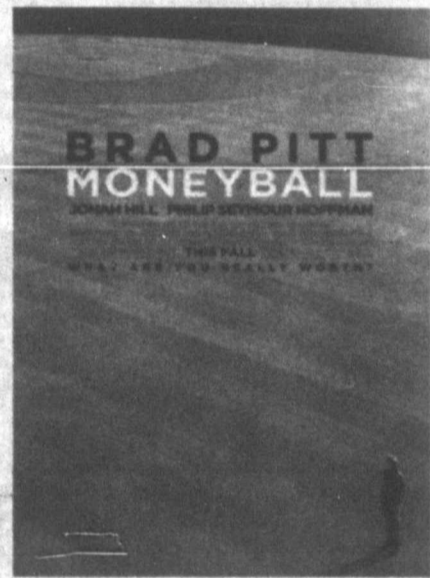

Of course, it helps when you have Brad Pitt in the lineup. Pitt, who's made a nice transition from slick 90s leading man to the stately, sophisticated middle-aged roles he finds himself in more often these days, does an Oscar-worthy turn as Billy Beane, the pragmatic Oakland Athletics general manager tasked to rebuild his team after a particularly disheartening playoff exit against the cash cow juggernaut New York Yankees. With the small market A's in perpetual money-saving mode, Beane turns to Peter Brand (Jonah Hill), an Ivy League grad who prefers a modern, statistical approach to evaluating players instead of more traditional scouting techniques.

Despite criticism and tension from all directions, including from A's manager Art Howe (Philip Seymour Hoffman), Beane and Brand begin to turn Oakland into a winner. It's a process, but it's a sure one, and it's the same approach the film takes as the baseball season unfolds. There's no direct path to glory here, rather a slow build interspersed with flashback vignette's of Beane's back story.

And Pitt's not the only gem on the roster here, either. The heart of the lineup is strong, with Hill eschewing his usual "I'm a fat, smart-mouthed doofus" routine and flashing some real acting lumber while he does. Hoffman is likewise great, never flashy but always surefire. The bench is sound, with Chris Pratt, Robin Wright and Kathryn Morris good in supporting roles (and for nostalgic 90s baseball fans, check out ex-MLB All-Star shortstop Royce Clayton as, uh, ex-MLB All-Star shortstop Miguel Tejada).

Smart, thought-provoking basis? Check. Excellent cast? Check. Nicely crafted adaptation by screenwriters Steven Zaillian and Aaron Sorkin and slick direction by Bennett Miller? Check and check. It's a great equation on paper, and just like the tenets of "Moneyball" predict, it all adds up to a well-oiled, well-playing, well-made product that will make you a fan and keep you cheering until the final out.

'Paranormal Activity 3' a good addition to series

Two years ago, the world was introduced to "Paranormal Activity," one of the most effective horror films of the past decade. Made for only $15,000, it went on to take America by storm and ended up making almost $200 million. The premise was simple: A couple experiencing supernatural phenomena in their home set up a video camera to record the action. Simple, yet scary enough to keep some people — this reviewer included — awake for several nights after watching it. From its success, a new horror series was born, one which quickly took over the Halloween release from the floundering "Saw" series.

The first film focused on Katie and her boyfriend Micah. Katie knew that something had followed her from home to home ever since she was a little girl. "Paranormal Activity 2," out in 2010, introduced audiences to Katie's sister Kristi and her family and used security cam footage to show their encounters with the same demonic entity from the first film, while also revealing more of the girls' history with the entity.

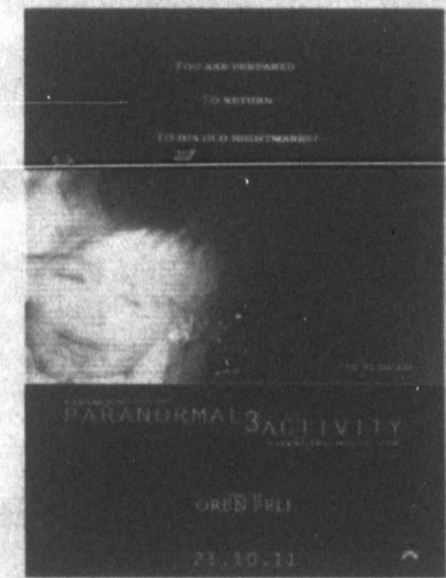

This year's release introduces us to Katie and Kristi as little girls via some old VHS tapes. The girls live with their mother, Julie, and her boyfriend, Dennis. Dennis owns a wedding video business and when he inadvertently catches something unexplainable in the house during an earthquake, he begins to film day and night hoping to capture more. Soon, Dennis' footage reveals Kristi waking up in the middle of the night and having a conversation with someone off camera. When asked who she was talking to, Kristi tells him it is her friend, Toby. As the nights progress, it becomes clear that Toby is not just an imaginary friend, but something much more dangerous.

As with each of the previous films the tension is slowly cranked up as each passing night brings slightly more disturbing occurrences. The first two-thirds of the film is mostly set up for the big payoff that comes in the final third. And pay off it does; the last half hour is almost non-stop scares and features some great twists that set it apart from the previous two films.

Directors Henry Joost and Ariel Schulman, who directed the brilliant (and controversial) documentary "Catfish," do a great job of making the film fit seamlessly into the series so that it feels like they were all made by the same people. It should also be pointed out that either they, or writer Christopher Landon (writer of "Disturbia" and son of Michael Landon), have come up with one of the most effective camera angles of the series. In order to capture the entire downstairs living room and kitchen area Dennis mounts a camera onto the body of an oscillating fan, which slowly pans across the room. This is used very effectively as several times we see something starting to happen just as the camera moves away from the action, which creates some incredibly tense moments.

For fans of the first two films this movie will definitely entertain and scare, while revealing even more of Katie and Kristi's back story. For those who weren't fans of those films, there's little new to be found here that will bring you around to these movies, as it truly is more of the same. But, sometimes more of the same is just fine, because when a formula works as well as the Paranormal Activity films, why fix it?

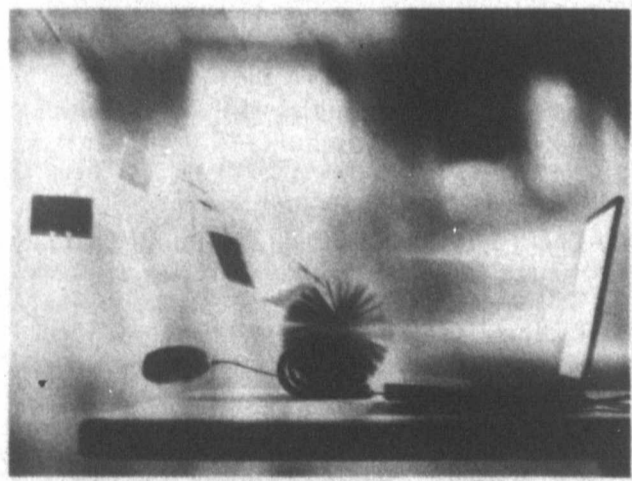

Local attorney Travis Tidmore reviews movies for The Pampa News as well as on his blog, www.thecinemaniac.com.

Paranormal Activity 3 ★★★★★
Rated R for some violence, language, brief sexuality and drug use.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: HARMONY WITH LAND IS LIKE HARMONY WITH A FRIEND; YOU CANNOT CHERISH HIS RIGHT HAND AND CHOP OFF HIS LEFT. — ALDO LEOPOLD

RE/MAX Hometown

"I think in 20 years or even 10 years..."

Above the Crowd!

...we're going to hear the collective sound of people kicking themselves because they did not buy a home this year. As their teenage sons and daughters graduate and enter the future job market and begin searching for their first home, they'll turn to their parents and say, "Seriously? You're telling me when I was in middle school, you could get a 30-year fixed for under 5%?"

Too many remain terrified by the last great storm in the housing market. They stand now on the shores of incredible opportunity, but can't shake the vision of all those values sinking into oblivion.

If I could speak directly to buyers, I would urge them to at least explore their local market with a real estate agent. Get out from under the "storm cloud" of a "national" housing report. Who buys a home in a "national" market? No one, of course. Real estate lives and dies on local conditions, local knowledge, and real data which reflects neighborhood trends and health.

Yes, some people face shaky job prospects. Yes, the banking industry is wary of regulation and has tightened its ties. But right now there are people who are financially stable and looking for good investments. I would turn to them and say, "This is the calmest water you're ever going to see. Set sail now and buy a home."

Rain helps, but exceptional drought still the rule

ROBERT BURNS
Texas AgriLife Extension Service

COLLEGE STATION – Nearly all of the state received rain during the last two weeks, but even where the rains were substantial, the drought was far from over, according to Texas AgriLife Extension Service reports.

Since early October, the Rolling Plains, Central and North regions received the most rain, with accumulations of 6 inches and more, with 2 to 3 inches common, according to the National Weather Service's daily precipitation analysis. San Antonio and surrounding counties received 2 inches or more. With a few exceptions, the rest of the state received from a trace to about 2 inches.

Where the rains were substantial, the agricultural benefits were great, replenishing livestock water tanks and ponds, and encouraging farmers to plant winter forages and prepare fields for fall planting.

However, the general consensus from AgriLife Extension county agents was that much more rain is needed to sustain winter crops.

"Rainfall received this week was from 0.5 inch to more than 1 inch across the county," said Greg Jones, AgriLife Extension agent in Garza County, southeast of Lubbock. "The rainfall will help for a short period of time, but additional rainfall will be needed. Small-grain crops will emerge with current moisture but will not be sustained."

"Most of the county received 1 inch to 2 inches of rain this week," said Steven Sparkman, AgriLife Extension agent in Hardeman County, northwest of Wichita Falls. "This is the first rain in a year, measuring over an inch at one time for most of the county. Wheat producers will wait several days for volunteer wheat and weeds to come up then spray to kill it and plant the 2012 wheat crop. ... This rain was nice, but leaves us about 18 inches below normal."

"After a good rain this past weekend, farmers are firing up tractors and grain drills to get wheat planting under way," said Justin Gilliam, AgriLife Extension agent in Archer County, south of Wichita Falls. "While some farmers are having to replant, most are just now putting seed in the ground. Tanks and streams are all at least half full, while some are overflowing."

"We got rain last weekend. Most areas received 1 inch to 5 inches," said Scott Anderson, AgriLife Extension agent in Brown County, southwest of Fort Worth. "Most stock tanks caught some water; some filled up. There was increased field activity: plowing and planting small-grain fields. Most pastures will not be able to grow much grass or forage due to cooler nighttime temps."

"The county receive from 3 to 7 inches of rainfall over the weekend, but there was no runoff water, and stock water is still a grave concern," said David Winkler, AgriLife Extension agent in Bosque County, between Dallas and Waco.

More information on the current Texas drought and wildfire alerts can be found on the AgriLife Extension Agricultural Drought Task Force website at <http://agrilife.tamu.edu/drought/>.

AgriLife Extension district reporters compiled the following summaries:

PANHANDLE: Some areas received from a trace to 3 inches of rain. Soil moisture was very short to adequate, with most counties reporting very short to short. The corn harvest was ongoing. The cotton harvest was under way with the crop reported to be in fair to poor condition. Producers continued planting wheat. Most rangeland and pastures were in very poor condition, with livestock producers continuing to provide supplemental feed.

ROLLING PLAINS: Timely rains encouraged wheat growers to plant. Hardeman County reported 1 inch of rain, its first substantial rain since last September. Encouraged by the rain, producers prepared to plant fall forages. Stock tank levels increased significantly in some counties. The rains also greened up pastures a little. Livestock remained in poor to fair condition, but ranchers now had an optimistic outlook with the greened-up pastures and winter wheat crops looking good. The cotton harvest was halted on defoliated fields after the rains. One county reported that what little cotton was left was disastere-out for insurance last week. Producers were turning cattle in on the disastere-out cotton as it was about the only feed left. Livestock producers were buying hay from out of state.

SOUTH PLAINS: Several counties received significant rains, from 0.5 inch to 3 inches. There was enough rain to bring up winter wheat, but more will be needed to sustain the crop. Cotton growers were applying harvest aids or were already harvesting. Most cotton that was harvested had yields lower than expected.

A worker at the Texas AgriLife Research and Extension Center at Overton disks a field in preparation for planting winter forages. Rains encouraged farmers to prepare for planting in many parts of the state, but more rain will be needed to sustain growth.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Saturday, Oct. 22, 2011:
This year you will tend to take the time you need. "Activity" could be your middle name. Develop a stress-busting hobby, like yoga. If you are single, you might meet someone who isn't the person you perceive him or her to be. Avoid putting anyone on a pedestal, because the only way off is down. If you are attached, the two of you benefit from more weekends away as a couple. VIRGO makes a good healer.
The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult
ARIES (March 21-April 19)
★★★★ Make it OK to have a little confusion in your morning. You might decide to change your plans as a result. Letting go of some structure delights a child and/or loved one. Move through a new door. Don't overthink things. Tonight: Fun and games. Be a flirt.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
★★★ Shorten your must-do list. You finally have time for yourself. A neighbor has lots of news. You shouldn't listen to the gossip; just nurture yourself by politely excusing yourself from the situation. Tonight: Order in.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
★★★★ A family member requests your time and attention. There is no way around what is going on. Whether it is pitching in on a project or nurturing a kid, your importance is most felt on the home front. Don't push a special friend or partner. This person could do quite a reversal. Tonight: Invite a couple of friends over.
CANCER (June 21-July 22)
★★★ A misunderstanding could mark your plans. Choose your words with care. Nothing can replace courtesy and optimism. Ask viable questions that help point out your way. Let go of having to be right. Tonight: Movie and munchies.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
★★★ Be aware of the costs of making perpetual adjustments. You could be giving away too much of yourself. Your reputation for being generous could cause a problem. Learn to say "no" more often. Tonight: Decide to do absolutely what you want.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

★★★★★ You hit your peak days of the month and might have difficulty slowing down. Your energy could be very appealing to many people. Someone close to you might feel threatened. This person isn't used to you being so dominant, creative and perhaps demanding. Tonight: As you like it.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
★★★★ You generally are quite upbeat and positive. Right now, you might need a timeout from everything that is going on. Revamp your schedule if you feel uncomfortable in any way. Even if you must reschedule a meeting, make the next 24 hours about you. Tonight: Not to be found.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
★★★ You don't always have the luxury of zeroing in on what you want and receiving it. What you wish for at first might not seem like what you want, but later you discover it is. Join friends for a fun happening. You actually might be doing the party circuit. Tonight: Where the fun is.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
★★★★ Handle a responsibility involving an older relative or friend. Once you're in the swing of things, you might decide to restructure your day. Remain aware of how much you are spending. Tonight: A force to be reckoned with.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
★★★★ You might want to detach. You will see a situation quite differently if you do. Whether you are aware or not, you are transforming your views and style. Follow your earthy sense of direction. Make time for a child or loved one. Tonight: Let the fun and games begin.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
★★★★ Deal directly with a partner or loved one who can and often does create a lot of flak. Your imagination points in a new direction. You don't need to embody every role that others project on you. It does appear you are breaking restraints right now. Tonight: Togetherness feels right.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
★★★★ Others seek you out, and you respond in kind. Only, at some point it becomes evident you need to decide which invitation or suggestion you would like to accept. Some if you who are more energetic might choose to squeeze in more than one happening. Tonight: Go with the flow.
