Tickets still available for PHS choir's 'Evening on Broadway'

ARNIE AURELLANO editor@thepampanews.com

Reservations are still available for two performances of the Pampa High School choral department's "Evening of Broadway," with the curtains set to rise at 7 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday in the Heritage Room of the M.K. Brown Civic Center.

Two hundred seats are available for each show, and parent organizer Dana Terry said on Monday that tickets are still available as long as reservations (priced at $25) are made in advance of show times.

"We really don't want reservations at the door," Terry said, "but we want people to come, definitely. The reason is the food. Reservations come with a full sit-down dinner, and we want to make sure there's enough for everyone."

Meals are homemade by students' parents and include steak, pork tenderloin, Italian green beans, mashed garlic potatoes, dinner rolls and dessert. The real highlight of the show, though, will be the entertainment, Terry said. Students from all four grades will serenade the diners with songs from Broadway shows, including "The Lion King," Wicked," "Les Miserables," "Phantom of the Opera," "Annie," "Hairspray," "Aida," "Shrek," "Cinderella," "Shrek, "Legally Blonde," "Jekyll & Hyde," and others.

"It will be an evening well worth the $25," Terry said. "You get a good meal and some great entertainment from the local high school kids. It's going to be a lot of fun for everyone."

Terry also touted the event for the values it helps instill in the students, as the kids are involved in more than just the night's musical performances.

"I think everyone will be surprised at the professionalism (the kids) show," Terry said. "The students wait the tables. They're the waiters, so there's a lot of experience to be gained from it. ... It makes you very proud to see what the kids can accomplish with hard work and practice." BROADWAY cont. on page 3A

Texas primary could be delayed

AUSTIN (AP) - U.S. Sen. John Comyn says he doesn't expect the Texas primary to be held on April 3 and calls the potential delay "not desirable."

The Texas Republican said Monday he believed a later primary date was likely considering that the U.S. Supreme Court had yet to rule on a dispute over the state's redrawn voting maps

Minority groups say redistricting maps drawn by the Republican-dominated Texas Legislature last year diluted their voting power, and the Justice Department hasn't given required federal approval. The Supreme Court is considering the state's challenge to federally drawn interim maps.

Cornyn says the high court should respect the Legislature-drawn maps.

Once redistricting is settled, officials need 45 days to mail absentee ballots. The primary is supposed to be held before state party conventions in June.

Boll weevil's final stand

BROWNSVILLE (AP) - Cotton's long-time enemy the boll weevil is quickly running out of U.S. territory and is now confined to the southernmost part of Texas along the border with Mexico.

And even there, near where the boll weevil first entered the country in the 1890s, farmers aren't finding the destructive bugs in nearly the numbers of years past. Texas is the country's largest cotton producer and the last state with boll weevils. The southernmost Lower Rio Grande Valley Zone is the last infected area in Texas. An eradication campaign coordinated by the U.S. Department of Agriculture is responsible for the dwindling numbers.

Brad Cowan, a Texas AgriLife Extension Service agent, tells the Brownsville Herald that many Texas growers haven't seen a boll weevil in several seasons.

Ingleside deal dropped

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) - A deal to redevelop former Naval Station Ingleside has been canceled because the $19 million down payment was never made.

Port of Corpus Christi commissioners held a special meeting Monday to rescind the contract with Canyon Supply and Logistics.

A formal letter of default will be sent to Canyon. The Port of Corpus Christi will keep Canyon's initial $1 million nonrefundable payment and attempt to find other buyers Commissioners in November approved selling 187 acres for a complex to be called Canyon Port, similar to one at Port Fourchon, La.

Canyon missed two deadlines, including the latest Jan. 9, for the down payment toward the proposed $66 million offshore drilling service facility.

Canyon CEO Larry Ramming blamed delays on international banks and said Monday he hopes to still do the deal.

Licenses for illegals under fire

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) - Immigrant advocates and their allies are preparing for another round of rallies in their quest to protect a state law that allows some illegal immigrants to obtain a state driver's license.

The preparation comes as lawmakers ready to begin a new legislative session Tuesday over budget matters and after activists have held community meetings around the state.

Tackle your holiday debt now

TERRY SAVAGE Creator's Syndicate

Here they come - the postholiday credit card bills. They're a potent reminder of the cost of the holiday season. In just the one week before Christmas, it's estimated that Americans spent $44 billion. Much of that last-minute shopping was done in a frenzy of emotion, without thinking about the cost of the gift — or the finance charges that will accrue until the bills are paid.

\How will you deal with those bills that start arriving in your mailbox this week? Well, don't just set them aside and let them pile up, hoping to keep the holiday glow alive. Late fees are very costly, and will result in even more interest charges. Open the bills, take a close look - and add up what you owe.

Here are three Terry's Tips for dealing with your credit card bills promptly - even if you can't pay the full balance.

Beware of that comforting little number — the minimum monthly payment. Yes, it keeps your credit in good standing if you pay only that amount, but it leaves such a huge balance that soon you're paying interest not only on your purchases, but on the finance card issuer wants to deal with es. Homestead Act to be celebrated

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) - The National Park Service is looking for New Mexicans who homesteaded land or whose ancestors did to help celebrate the 150th Anniversary of the federal Homestead Act.

Homestead National Monument of America in Nebraska is recruiting volunteers from the 30 states covered by the Act to carry their state's flag at events in May and June.

A May 20 national commemoration event and a Homestead Day parade on June 16 are planned at the southeast Nebraska monument. The volunteer must carry the flag for a mile and a half. A different volunteer may be chosen for each event.

More than 87,312 successful homestead claims were filed in New Mexico covering 25 percent of the state's land.

For information on participating in the events, visit the national monument's website at www.nps.gov/home.

Summer schedule to save money

AUSTIN (AP) - Leaders of a Central Texas school district have decided to change the summer schedule to save money on utilities.

Austin Independent School District offices will be closed on Fridays the last week of June and all of July. The district offices will also close for a week this summer.

The Austin American-Statesman reported Sunday that workers were notified of the change when they returned from the winter break. Employees who normally are scheduled for work must take vacation time to cover the week when Austin ISD offices are closed.

The district last summer saved more than $334,000 with similar cutbacks. Officials estimated the savings will be higher this year because of rising utility costs and the lingering drought.

Today in History

Today is Tuesday, Jan. 17, the 17th day of 2012. There are 349 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On Jan. 17, 1962, ten former winners of rigged TV quiz shows, including Charles Van Doren, pleaded guilty in New York to perjury, admitting they'd lied under oath when they denied being given answers in advance. (All received suspended sentences.)

On this date:

In 1893, Hawaii's monarchy was overthrown as a group of businessmen and sugar planters forced Queen Lili'uokalani to abdicate.

In 1917, the United States paid Denmark $25 million for the Virgin Islands.

In 1945, Soviet and Polish forces liberated Warsaw during World War II.

In 1950, the Great Brink's Robbery took place as seven masked men held up a Brink's garage in Boston, stealing $1.2 million in cash and $1.5 million in checks and money orders. (Although the entire gang was caught, only part of the loot was recovered.)

In 1961, President Dwight D. Eisenhower delivered his farewell address in which he warned against "the acquisition of unwarranted influence, whether sought or unsought, by the military-industrial complex.'

In 1977, convicted murderer Gary Gilmore, 36, was shot by a firing squad at Utah State Prison in the first U.S. execution in a decade.

In 1989, five children were shot to death at the Cleveland Elementary School in Stockton, Calif., by a drifter, Patrick Purdy, who then killed himself.

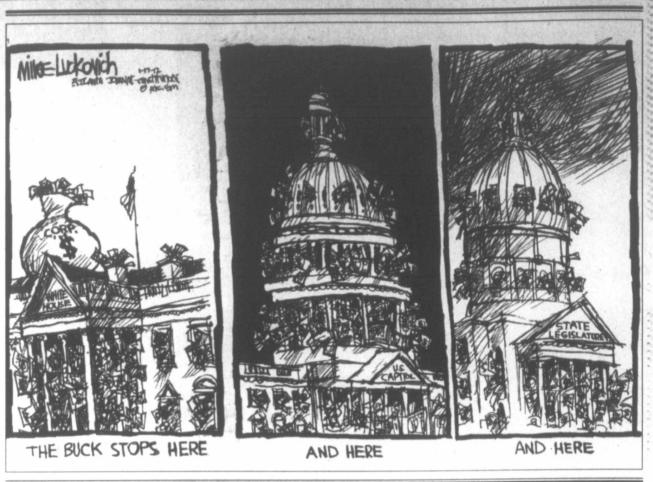

In 1995, more than 6,000 people were killed when an earthquake with a magnitude of 7.2 devastated the city of Kobe, Japan.

Ten years ago: Enron fired accounting firm Arthur Andersen, citing its destruction of thousands of documents and its accounting advice; for its part, Andersen said its relationship with Enron ended in early December 2001 when the company slid into bankruptcy

Five years ago: A year after disclosure of a domestic spying program that President George W. Bush maintained was within his authority to operate, Attorney General Alberto Gonzales announced the administration had shifted its position and would seek the approval of an independent panel of federal judges.

One year ago: Apple Inc. announced that its CEO, Steve Jobs, was taking his second medical leave of absence in two years. (Jobs died in October 2011.)

Today's Birthdays: Actress Betty White is 90. Hairdresser Vidal Sassoon is 84. Actor James Earl Jones is 81. Talk show host Maury Povich is 73. International Boxing Hall of Famer Muhammad Ali is 70. Pop singer Chris Montez is 70. Rhythmand-blues singer William Hart (The Delfonics) is 67. Rock musician Mick Taylor is 64. Singer Steve Earle is 57. Singer Paul Young is 56. Texas Senate candidates race to the right

CHRIS TOMLINSON Associated Press Analysis

AUSTIN (AP) - The Republican candidates battling to replace retiring Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison appear to be on a race to see who can strike the right conservative tone: not too moderate, not too Libertarian, but someplace uniquely Texan between the two.

The candidates are trying to claim the mantel of being the "true conservative." Whoever can convince voters they deserve the title will win the nomination, and in Republicandominated Texas, that means they will likely move to Washington at the end of 2012.

The fiercest competitor is Ted Cruz, the fiery former state solicitor general, who is doing his best to paint the front-runner, Lt. Gov. David Dewhurst, as a timid moderate. Dewhurst has presided over the Senate since 2003 and has hammered out many compromises over the years, and Cruz seems intent on exposing every perceived lapse Dewhurst's conservatism. 'There is a reason why voters are fed up with a candidate who says anything to get elected," said Cruz, using his best litigator's style at a debate in Austin on Thursday night. "We need to send someone who knows what he believes in, has firm principles, has a lifetime standing and fighting for the Constitution and who has a record as a fighter.' Attorney General Greg Abbott appointed Cruz to represent Texas before the U.S. Supreme Court between 2003 and 2008, but Cruz has never held elected office or sat in a legislative conference room hammering out new law.

from former U.S. Rep. Dick Armey and other tea party activists who don't trust Dewhurst. He has the support of Armey's FreedomWorks, a conservative advocacy group that can help Cruz overcome Dewhurst's fundraising advantages and give Cruz a chance to be a serious challenger.

Dewhurst has so far done his best to brush off Cruz and focus his attacks on President Barack Obama. Former Arkansas Gov. Mike Huckabee has formally endorsed Dewhurst and Gov. Rick Perry has informally said he hopes Dewhurst wins. And the lieutenant governor is trying to use his record as a lawmaker to his advantage.

"Over the last three years, President Obama has been trampling on (our) rights, and as a life-long businessman, as someone who loves our country ... that's unacceptable," Dewhurst said. "That's why I am running for the U.S. Senate, to take my unique background and proven conservative experience - having balanced budgets and cut spending to Washington to take our country back.' Former Dallas Mayor Tom Leppert also emphasizes actions over words, warning voters to only believe some or none of the soaring rhetoric coming from the other candidates. He also tries to walk the same narrow path Dewhurst must take, balancing his experience as a successful businessman with his time in elected office. In Leppert's case, he brags about serving as the mayor of Dallas and restructuring the Police Department's budget while bringing down the crime rate, among other things.

We have overspent, we have overtaxed and we have over-regulated and we have a government that has gone far, far out of control," Leppert said. "For too long we have had professional politicians who love to make speeches, but won't deal with real solutions or won't make tough choices.'

Leppert has promised to make those tough choices, regardless of whether they could end his political career.

On the populist, tea party-infused margins of the debate stage on Thursday stood former ESPN football analyst Craig James and Glenn Addison, a funeral home owner and school board member from Magnolia. They share a constitutional fundamentalism that would wipe out most of what the federal government does today and give responsibility for environmental protection, public education and labor law exclusively back to the states.

Neither man has experience in statewide or national politics, but

They used lively metaphors and self-deprecating jokes that won over the conservative debate crowd and will do well in town hall meetings. But both men must overcome the novelty of their campaigns to convince the electorate to take them seriously.

The key question, though, remains how far right do Texas Republicans want their next U.S. senator to stand. As the state waits to hear when the primary election will take place, voters will have a full conservative spectrum to consider.

Under May, boys soccer looks to simplify the game

ANDREW GLOVER aglover@thepampanews.com

The Pampa Harvesters enter 2012 with a new coach but a familiar face, as Byron May returns, replacing John True.

Before taking over, May was an assistant the last five years. May previously was head coach from 2004 to 2006. True left for an assistant coaching job' at Wylie East.

In 2012, May and his team will look to simplify its game in hope for more victories. May said he is excited about the group he gets to coach adding his seniors have made the transition easier.

"They drive each other to work hard," May said. "I don't have to do that. When you as a coach can focus on drill work, technique and fundamentals instead of effort, you know you are going to have good experiences throughout the season."

Flavio Senior Gonzalez said it's been easy adjusting to May.

"There really hasn't been a transition," Gonzalez said. "(May) has helped us a lot. I kind of see him as a role model since he's been with us the last few years.'

Senior Isaac Arizu said nothing has changed since True left.

"We are one big family," Arizu said. The Harvesters are looking to improve from a 1-15-2 season, including a 0-11-1 record in district 5-4A. Three of those losses were by a goal.

May said that the team is going to break down each half of play into the first five minutes, the middle 30 and the last five minutes.

"Statistically the first five minutes and the last five minutes of each half are when the most goals are scored in high school soccer," May said. "If we are more aware of that, those first minute goals or last minute goals won't happen or, if anything, be in our favor.'

May said he inherits an experienced team, with the strongest part being his defenders.

"We lost three main seniors from last year's team in Salvador Lopez, Ryan Stoffle and Enrique Mier," May said. "Those three we were subbing regularly to give them a rest. ... Our starting 11 and next two off the bench are just as experienced as anyone around.'

The Harvesters will play practically the same schedule as last season. This season, Pampa is competing in the Amarillo Tournament.

Gonzalez said the team is going to hope for the best.

"We don't know what that is," Gonzalez said. "We are going to try to make playoffs."

Arizu said the team's main goal is to have fun.

"We aren't going to get down if we lose," Arizu said. "If we do, we won't win other games.'

May said the team will take steps towards improvement.

"Our goal is to out-hustle and surprise other teams with our speed," May said. "Ultimately at the end of the season, our goal is that every player is glad they were a part of it and feel like they are a better man for being a part of the soccer program."

Pampa opens the season at 7 p.m. today against Amarillo Tascosa at Harvester Field.

Estes, Graef reach finals in Lubbock

ANDREW GLOVER aglover@thepampanews.com

Two Pampa High School swimmers found themselves in the top 16 of their respective events as senior Spencer Estes reached the final in the 50-yard freestyle and sophomore Morgan Graef qualified in the 100-yard breastroke Saturday at the Lubbock Invitational.

Estes finished eighth with a time of 23.63. Graef finished 16th with a time of 1:19. Head coach Edward Garvin said both swimmers swam well

"(Graef) was excited because she finally went a 1:19," Garvin said. "They swam hard and made some important improvements.'

Swimmers had to qualify for the meet. Pampa sent 10 swimmers. The top 16 in each event advanced to the finals. Garvin said it was a good meet.

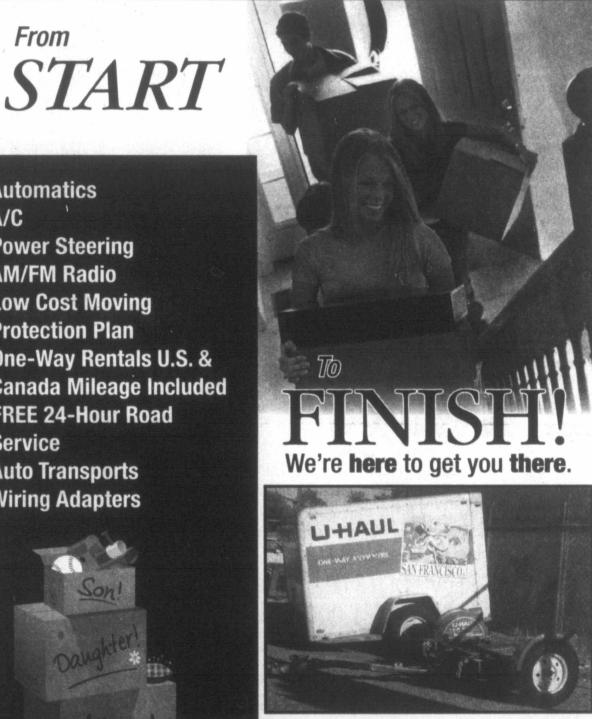

"Besides Caprock's one swimmer Estes ,we were the only team there that was not 5A," Garvin said. This is a very fast meet."

Though Estes and Graef were the only swimmers that reached the finals, Pampa had other strong performances.

"Our girls 200 medley relay placed 17th (dropped 6 seconds)," Garvin said. "The guys would have placed 16th but was disqualified."

The Harvesters and Lady Harvesters' next meet is district at Lubbock Pete Ragus Aquatic Center January 27 and 28. Both teams are aiming for their 13th straight district title.

Pampa girls soccer shut out in Frenship

ANDREW GLOVER aglover@thepampanews.com

The Pampa Lady Harvesters were hoping to start the season strong but left the Frenship Tournament being shut out in its first three games.

The tournament was played Friday and Saturday. Pampa lost to El Paso Americas 1-0 and Lubbock Coronado 2-0. The Lady Harvesters played to a scoreless tie against El Paso Riverside.

Head coach Libby Garza said the team has things to improve.

"We could have played a lot better," Garza said. "We are learning how to work with each other and get mentally tougher."

Pampa has been shut out in its last 15 games. Garza said she feels alright about her team's performance and hopes it improves.

"The good thing is that its early and we have some time to fix what needs to be fixed," Garza said. "Offense is our weakness right now. We just need to know what to do with the ball in the offensive third."

The Lady Harvesters (0-2-1) host Amarillo Tascosa, 5 p.m. at Harvester Field.

Lady Harvesters seek victories against Dalhart, Borger

ANDREW GLOVER aglover@thepampanews.com

Last season, the Pampa Lady Harvesters were swept by the Dalhart Lady Wolves, with the final loss eliminating Pampa from the postseason. This year, the Lady Harvesters hope to show Dalhart they are a better team when they met 6:00 p.m. Tuesday at McNeely Fieldhouse.

"I'm looking forward to Dalhart," senior guard Kirsten Kuhn said. "We kind of struggled against them last year. There's no doubt we can beat them, hopefully by 10 or more." Pampa (11 - 11),1-1) enters the game coming off its first district loss to defending champion Perryton Friday. The Rangerettes had three runs that outscored the Lady Harvesters 23-0.

Dalhart (14-8,1-1) is coming off a 56-24 victory over Borger. The Lady Wolves' key player is their senior post, Jeana Sbyesma. Last Valentine year, Sbyesma scored in double digits and grabbed at least 10 rebounds against Pampa. Senior post Kailyn Troxell said she will have to play strong against Sbyesma.

"If we keep playing defense like we have Troxell been and make some shots we should be fine," Troxell said. Head coach Gene Valentine said it will be a challenge defending Sbyesma but is confident in his team's help defense.

"When (Perryton's) Lacey Herbert was getting the ball, we had people tipping balls," Valentine said. "Hopefully we can push the ball up court. You can't set an offense if you are chasing people."

Valentine said he's pleased with his team's intensity and hopes it continues Tuesday

"If we can keep our intensity, we should be fine," Valentine said.

Pampa will also be looking to extend its home winning-streak to five games.

On Friday, the Lady Harvesters rematch with Borger. The teams met in the district opener January 10 with Pampa winning 73-25. Last season, the Lady Harvesters won both games in Borger.

New year, new outlook Turn of calendar is perfect timing for focus on fitness

As the calendar turns to a new year, the focus of men and women often shifts as well. After the hectic holiday season has come and gone, many people re-dedicate themselves to their personal health and well-being. That renewed dedication might be thanks to all those big holiday meals or it might just be a result of the new calendar year being symbolic of a fresh start.

Regardless of the reasons behind this renewed vigor, the opportunities to make the next 12 months a healthier 12 months abound. While losing weight might the most popular resolution, there are a host of other health-related resolutions individuals can make to improve their lives over the next 365 days.

Resolve to reduce stress Stress is a major part of most adults' lives, and that's especially so after the hectic holiday season when men and women are pulled in so many different directions. Work is a common cause of stress, but family and personal finances, especially nowadays, are big sources of resolve to reduce stress in all aspects of life. At the office, analyze ways in which you can manage time more effectively, including how to best prioritize work projects so you don't always feel as if you're up against a wall. Outside the office, recognize the importance of maintaining a personal life and its relation to reducing stress. Spending time with friends and family can relax you and provide a welcome respite from the stress of the office. Resolve to eat better stress as well. This year, Losing weight and adopting a healthier diet are not necessarily the same thing. While a healthier diet might help you lose weight, the goal of adopting a healthier diet is to improve overall health. A healthy diet can strengthen the body's immune system, making it easier to fight cold, flu and other ailments. A healthy diet can also help in the battle against any preexisting conditions. For example, replacing salt with healthier and flavorful herbs can help FITNESS cont. on page 4B

Now hear this... Understanding ear infections

Ear infection, also known as otitis, is a common illness that strikes kids everywhere.

An estimated 75 percent of children under age 3 will experience at least one ear infection - and half of these children will have three or more ear infections before reaching 3 years old.

Many people wonder why children suffer more ear infections than adults. The Eustachian tubes in children's ears are straighter and smaller than those of an adult and make it easier for bacteria to enter the middle ear through the nose and throat.

Dr. Justin Smith, a pediatrician with Professional Association for Pediatrics in Abilene, said symptoms of ear infection include fever, pulling at the ears and redness of the eardrum. According to Smith, environmental issues such as exposure to smoke can also be a risk factor for ear infections.

"Exposure to cold and wet is not as much of a factor as some people think," he said.

Treatment can include oral antibiotics, which can be liquid or pills. Injections are a last resort and most cases of ear infection in children are cleared up with only one visit to the doctor's office and one round of medication. Chronic ear infections are a different story and may require more than one visit and even placement of tubes in the ears to resolve the issue. Referral to an ear, nose and throat doctor is done in those extreme cases.

Dr. Joe Hubbard at Comanche County Medical Center said there are three types of ear infections:Ear canal infection, middle ear infection and inner ear infection.

Hubbard says the ear canal can appear red and irritated. That is normally caused by swimming or bathing or external manipulation, such as with Q-tips. Treatment is usually ear drops. Middle ear infections are hard to detect, but can be diagnosed with an otoscope, an instrument which allows the physician to inspect the eardrum for redness and fluid. It is treated with medication. The last type of ear infection is inner ear. It is diagnosed with symptoms rather than visual signs. The patient may complain of dizziness and vertigo - or loss of balance. These symptoms usually occur after the patient has recovered from a virus. The scillia — or fine hair in the inner ear — are damaged and causes problems. This condition has to work itself out over time, according to Hubbard. Inner ear infections must be diagnosed carefully though, Hubbard said, as these symptoms also mimic symptoms of a stroke, so begin careful while diagnosing is crucial.

Prevention methods are to avoid exposing your child to smoke, immunize them, along with providing them with a good diet and hygiene practices, so they can stay healthy.

weight loss. While that's a positive side effect of daily exercise, the goal should not be to lose weight. Instead, the goal of daily exercise is to get healthier. According to the American College of Sports Medicine, exercise helps lower the risk of heart disease and hypertension by 40 percent while lowering the risk of depression by 30 percent. In addition, men and women with a family history of diabetes should know that regular exercise lowers their risk of type 2 diabetes by nearly 60 percent. So while exercise is a great means to losing weight, it's even better at helping reduce the risk for serious disease.

Thinking about all-natural remedies? A little primer on what Mother Nature keeps in her medicine cabinet

As prevalent as prescription medications are, all-natural remedies for common illnesses and conditions are still a viable alternative to prescription medications for many people. But are these all-natural options safe?

In 2011, Apple founder Steve Jobs lost his battle with pancreatic cancer. Reports indicate that Jobs, a devout Buddhist, delayed surgery and other traditional treatments for almost a year while he participated in holistic treatments for the cancer. Some of these included juice fasts, bowel cleansings, acupuncture, herbal supplements, and even a vegan diet. Eventually, Jobs had surgery, but some experts feel he waited too long.

Although conventional care is often an effective means to treating illnesses and other conditions, there are many doctors who agree that implementing natural remedies at times can be safe and effective. Furthermore, not all natural remedies are without merit, and some traditional medicines are actually derived from natural, plantbased ingredients themselves.

According to surgeon and author, Dr. Walter C. Thompson, "Herbal medicine is safe because it's natural. After researching the literature, one can truly say that, at the very least, herbal medicine is safer than conventional drugs."

Those thinking about incorporating natural remedies into their health regimen can consider the following options.

Nervousness and anxiety: Try lettuce, chamomile, valerian, and rose petals.

Pain relief: Use omega-3 fatty acids, green tea, ginger root, and turmeric.

Itchiness: Witch hazel, jewelweed and aloe vera are effective.

Feminine issues: Parsley, basil and goldenseal can alleviate symptoms associated with menstruation.

Antibiotics: Oregano and garlic are purported to have antibiotic qualities and can fend off harmful bacteria.

Infections: Honey has long been used to heal and as an antibacterial and antifungal remedy.

Many natural foods are effective in preventing and fighting cancer as well.

Although natural remedies can be effective, it's important for pregnant women to avoid any herbs and plant supplements until discussing the risks/ benefits with their doctors. Also, some natural remedies can interact with prescription drugs or increase their potency, so it's important to talk to a doctor about any plans.

Vitamin D might combat depression symptoms

People experiencing the blues, feelings of depression and other mood disorders might be able to use vitamin D to alleviate symptoms of depression. New studies point to low blood levels of vitamin D as a culprit in depression. Simply increasing these levels offers marked improvement.

A study conducted by VU University Medical Center in Amsterdam found that low levels of vitamin D may be linked to depression and other psychiatric illnesses. The Amsterdam research, which tracked over 1,200 people aged 65 to 95, showed that blood vitamin D levels were 14 percent lower in individuals with major and minor depression compared with non-depressed participants.

A study in the United States indicated that vitamin D deficiency occurred more often in certain people, including African-Americans, city dwellers, the obese, and those suffering from depression. People with vitamin D levels below 20 ng/mL had an 85 percent increased risk of depression compared to those with vitamin D levels greater than 30 ng/mL.

Vitamin D has long been recognized as a nutrient essential to the development and maintenance of strong bones. It has also recently been discovered to be of crucial importance to several aspects of overall health. Being deficient in vitamin D has been linked to a number of disorders, including cancer, autoimmune disease, diabetes, and now depression.

Vitamin D, also known as the "sunshine vitamin," is one of the few vitamins the body can produce. The body can get all the vitamin D it needs simply by being out in the sun with ample skin showing to absorb the rays. However, increased awareness about skin cancer, the importance of sunblock and wearing clothes that protect skin from harmful UV rays has decreased many people's production of vitamin D considerably. In the United States, the National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey found that nearly three-quarters of Americans are deficient in vitamin D.

Although there are some food sources of vitamin D (salmon, tuna, mackerel and vitamin D-fortified dairy products, such as milk), the best way to get the vitamin is through moderate sun exposure. According to an article in U.S News and World Report, it's impossible to produce vitamin D from the sun during the winter if you live north of Atlanta because the sun

During the winter and for an extra boost, you will need to take an oral supplement. A doctor can help determine how much you need based on a simple blood test.

With anxiety, depression, risk for heart attacks and a number of other health problems associated with low levels of vitamin D, it may be in your best interest to supplement with the vitamin.

When incorporating exercise into a daily routine, start slowly and gradually work your way up to more vigorous exercise regimens. Going full speed from the outset is a great way to increase risk of injury, which could actually restrict your ability to exercise for some time.

Resolve to quit smoking

To nonsmokers, keep up the good work.

· The Canadian Cancer Society estimated that 20,000 Canadians would lose their lives to lung cancer in 2011.

• More than 6 percent of all deaths in the United Kingdom in 2011 were related to lung cancer, according to Cancer Research UK.

If those statistics aren't enough to get men and women serious about quitting smoking, consider the negative effect secondhand smoke has on your loved ones. The American Cancer Society notes that roughly 3,000 nonsmoking adults experience lung cancer caused by secondhand smoke in the U.S. each year. When making a resolution this year, smokers' top priority should be to quit smoking.

When making resolutions at the start of a new year, men and women often focus on healthy resolutions. But healthy resolutions go beyond losing a few extra pounds, and many involve dedication throughout the year to improve overall health this year and for years to come.
