DPS submits 2nd round of Skinner DNA tests

STAFF REPORT

Follow-up DNA tests in the Hank Skinner triple-murder case have been submitted by the Texas Department of Public Safety, but a final court decision on the results of those tests is pending, a spokesman for the Texas

Attorney General's Office said Thursday.

Tom Kelley, an AG spokesman in Austin, declined to comment further on the case.

Skinner was sentenced to death in 1995 for murdering Twila Busby and her sons, Randy and Elwin "Scooter" Caler, on New Year's Eve

Skinner

Prior to his capital murder trial in 1995, Skinner and his attorneys elected not to seek DNA testing of all the evidence collected at the crime scene.

For nearly 20 years Skinner has maintained his innocence, claiming he was unconscious from drugs and alcohol at the time of the grisly murders and that the victims were killed by an uncle who was abusive to Busby.

However, last year Skinner and his defense agreed to the testing, believing it would prove his innocence.

The DPS Crime Lab in Lubbock performed DNA tests on evidence and submitted its findings to the AG's office in October, which issued an advisory that stated the test results consistently proved Skinner was the killer.

However, the courts have been awaiting the results in a second round of tests.

The heat. The fuzz, 5-0, Po-po. Johnny Law. There's a lot of different names for police officers but, in Lefors, there's only one name people need to know — Marshal Kerry Hodge.

Hodge serves as a one-man force, working to maintain the peace on Lefors' quiet city streets.

"Basically, I am the P.D. here,"

Hodge said. Hodge has served with various police departments, off and on, for nearly 50 years. He started in law enforcement in 1966 with the Amarillo Police Department.

"I was working in a grocery store and wasn't happy with the job," he said. "So I picked up a paper and saw the Amarillo P.D. was hiring. That was the first time in my life where I felt like I could do that."

Throughout his career, Hodge also worked with the police departments in Perryton, Stratford and Sunray.

Weather Awareness Week day 4: flash flood awareness day

STAFF REPORT

Severe Weather Awareness Week continues today with a look at flash flood safety. Flash floods occur every year in the Panhandle. Flash floods occur suddenly, usually occurring within hours of excessive localized rainfall. These flash floods can become raging torrents which rip through river beds, urban streets or valleys sweeping everything before them.

When a flash flood warning is issued for your county, or the moment you realize that a flash flood is imminent, act quickly to save yourself. You may only have seconds.

A flash flood watch means it is possible that heavy rains will cause flooding in the specified area. Stay alert to the weather and think about what you would do if water begins to rise or if you receive a warning.

Here are some flash flood safety rules:

• Get out of areas subject to flooding. This includes dips, low spots, valleys, stream banks and flood plains.

 Avoid already flooded and high velocity flow areas. Do not attempt to cross a flowing stream on foot where water is above your ankles.

• If driving — know the depth of water in a dip before crossing. The road bed may not be intact under the water. Do not drive into a pool of water or where water is flowing. Water up to the bumper will likely stall a car.

• If the vehicle stalls abandon it immediately and seek higher ground. Rapidly rising water may engulf the vehicle and its occupants and sweep them away.

• Be especially cautious at night when it is harder to recognize flood dangers. Heavy rain events frequently occur

2012 Texas top 10 most stolen vehicles

SUBMITTED BY DPS

Pickups are not only popular among Texas drivers, they are also top targets for Texas vehicle thieves! The Texas Department of Public Safety (DPS) has released its final MVT19 report on the top vehicles reported stolen in Texas during 2012. The MVT19 report is compiled monthly by DPS and represents vehicle theft data entered into the Texas Crime Information Center (TCIC) by all Texas law enforcement agencies.

An error margin of plus or minus five percent is assumed for incorrect entries by agencies. Based on the reports, as has been the case for many years, pickup trucks top the list of thieves' most common targets for the year. Coming in at No. 1 was the Ford Pickup followed closely by the Chevrolet Pickup at No. 2. In the No. 3 position, the Dodge Pickup also remains a popular target for Texas thieves. The Honda Civic and the Chevrolet Tahoe round out the top five stolen vehicles. The complete top 10 list of 2012 most stolen passenger vehicles in Texas includes:

Vehicles are stolen for a variety of reasons, and contrary to popular belief, the most stolen vehicles are several years old. Some are stolen and stripped for parts.

Others are stolen and resold by thieves to unsuspecting buyers. Many vehicles are stolen for joyriding, for use in committing other crimes, to perpetrate insurance fraud, to burglarize personal items and documentation, or for any number of other illegitimate purposes. And vehicle theft directly costs Texans more than any other single crime more than $621 million in 2011. Personnel from the Texas Auto Burglary and Theft

Prevention Authority (ABTPA) and the agency's associated vehicle crime task forces remind Texas drivers that vehicle thieves are always looking for opportunities to steal. Vehicle owners should be aware that thieves can be lurking anywhere, and drivers should practice prevention techniques such as hiding contents that may be desirable to a thief, locking vehicle doors, and taking keys.

The Texas ABTPA, an office of the Texas Department of Motor Vehicles, has funded law enforcement programs specializing in vehicle crime investigation, recovery, prevention and prosecution since 1991.

Since then, Texas has seen a 61 percent reduction in the vehicle theft total. Currently, ABTPA funds 29 task force grant programs statewide, allowing 150-plus law enforcement officers throughout Texas to focus exclusively on the resolution of vehicle crime cases.

To locate and contact the ABTPA task force in your area, to arrange an interview, to acquire PSAs, or for more information on vehicle crime statistics and prevention, contact Michelle Lanham with ABTPA's RATT program at 214-671-3738, 800-CAR-WATCH or via e-mail at michelle.lanham@unt.edu.

Hodge said he just wouldn't feel right sitting on a couch all day collecting Social Security checks. He likes to stay involved and has always held an appreciation for law enforcement, which is why he serves as marshal in a town he affectionately calls "home."

Hodge explained that a marshal will typically work alone, as opposed to traditional police departments where officers often work with partners.

"A marshal really works more by himself," Hodge said, adding that the solitary job detail suits his personality well.

People, pooches team up to fight flab at Ill. gym

CHICAGO (AP) — Can't get rid of that paunch? A Chicago-area gym suggests working out with your pooch. K9 Fit Club offers bow wow boot camps and other classes for people and their puppies to exercise together in Chicago and nearby Hinsdale, Ill. The fitness center opened last year after founder Tricia Montgomery exercised with her dog and lost 130 pounds. Montgomery says her late basset hound, named

Louie, lost 22 percent of his body weight. Fans of the gym say classes are beneficial to both man and man's best friend. Montgomery says dogs struggle with the same weight issues that people face, including heart problems and diabetes. People who work out at K9 Fit Club say exercising with their dogs keeps them motivated. Classes cost about $20.

The Pampa JV softball team played Plainview on Tuesday night. After three innings, the game was called due to darkness as the field does not have lights.

"We started off a little slow and gave up three runs. We bounced back with some great pitching and some great defensive plays," said coach Matt Embry. "Cameron Schaub had two great hits and two stolen bases that sparked a rally that fell just short as we were down 3-2 when the game was called due to darkness.

Day 21 - Friday

Scripture: Mt 27:3-10; Acts 1:18-19 When Judas, who had betrayed him, saw that Jesus was condemned, he was seized with remorse and returned the thirty silver coins to the chief priests and the elders. "I have sinned," he said, "for I have betrayed innocent

"What is that to us?"

they replied. "That's your responsibility.' Sublett So Judas threw the money into the temple and left.

The chief priests picked up the coins and said, "It is against the law to put this into the treasury, since it is blood money." So they decided to use the money to buy the potter's field as a burial place for foreigners. That is why it has been called the Field of Blood to this day. Then what was spoken by Jeremiah the prophet was fulfilled: "They took the thirty silver coins, the price set on him by the people of Israel, and they used them to buy the potter's field, as the Lord commanded

Thus, with the reward he got for his wickedness, Judas bought a field. Then he went away and hanged himself. There he fell headlong, his body burst open and all his intestines spilled out. Everyone in Jerusalem heard about this, so they called that field in their language Akeldama, that is, Field of Blood.(The Gospels Interwoven,)

Devotional:

It wasn't every tree that could be a hanging tree. But Judas found one. Conviction affects different people in different ways depending on their heart. If the heart is good, then conviction eventually leads to remorse, which leads to repentance, which leads to salvation and forgiveness. If the heart is bad, then conviction ultimately results in death. Judas' heart was wicked-the most wicked ever. Why say that about his heart? Because the most evil deed ever done in human history was the sellout of the only begotten Son of God by Judas. Scripture puts it accurately, "the reward he got for his

When conviction comes my way, how do I react; which way do I turn? Over my lifetime the Holy Spirit has always been faithful to convict me often of my sin. I wish I could say that I always responded immediately with the fruit of a good heart, but that would be a lie. However, I can say that each time, via the Spirit's persistence, God eventually led me to remorse and repentance. When I delay in following the initial conviction from the Spirit, it is a true sign that my flesh is still

I need to be closer friends with conviction, best friends. It won't ever be a comfortable friendship, but it will be a lifecritical one. Without a heart sensitive to the Holy Spirit's conviction, I could end up right where Judas did.

So conviction, I want to be better friends. I want you to spend more time in my house/heart. I want to hear you when you whisper so that you don't ever have to yell to get my attention. Conviction, please be my new best friend and help keep my heart tender.

Prayer: Oh Holy One, I see in the Gospels that even during the Last Supper You were still trying to reach Judas. But he refused. His heart found remorse, but it never found repentance. Lord, the noose was the end result of his failure to come to repentance. I don't just want to know remorse regarding my sin, I always want to find repentance and forgiveness. So, please help me, Lord. Help me. Amen.

every day and find hope

I have been struck with some not-so-good news while here. On a recent visit with my parents I learned my mother, who suffers from a variety of health problems, can no longer work. My father, who must work to cover the cost of her medical care, has been diagnosed with liver cancer.

This is very difficult for me. My father is my absostrong for my mother. I want to scream and cry and sometimes lash out, but my inner adult (I'm 26) tells me that would be immature.

I don't feel like I have come to terms with my father's illness. Although I know what is eventually to come, I have yet to feel any emotion, good or bad. I'm not sure if I'm blocking it or if I'm being the strongwilled adult I was raised to be by my father and best friend. I was never raised "be strong for your mother" concept. Fifteen years have passed, and I raised all of them as my own. Because the stress of such a large family has taken its toll at times, I have said I couldn't wait until everyone was 18 and out of the house.

Three of the children are on their own now and three remain. The youngest is 14. I recently took my 18-year-old son to the Air Force recruiter with the "men don't cry" or to take his entrance test and as I watched him walk into the building, I started to cry. emotions? HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Saturday, on and on. March 9, 2013:

This year ideas keep popping up from vanish or close down from excess communication. You might wonder how you are able to implement so many great suggestions. If you are single, you could meet someone very special to your life history. You might find that you often don't agree with this person, but you do find each other exciting. If you are attached, you know that there is another solution just around the corner. Learn to work as a team, and understand that both of you can be right with different solutions. Take time to recharge your batter-

stands you well. ARIES (March 21-April 19)

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

★★★★ Whether you are the host of an event or simply a guest who is responsible for someone, others will count on you to do what is needed. You will move from experiencing high tension to being relaxed. Return calls and answer others requests. Tonight: A force to be dealt with.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

work together. You might enjoy getting out of town or going to a flea market or two. You will have a better time if you socialize at the same time. Honor a need for change and more spontaneity. Tonight: Catch up on a friend's or loved one's news.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

★★★★ You naturally draw others in as you create mischief. Reveal more of yourself to a new friend or partner. Understand what is happening with this seemingly demanding person. He or she only wants more time with you. Let it happen. Tonight: Paint the town red. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

* Others notice the twinkle in your eye, and they know you are up for a fun time. Whether an event is preplanned makes no difference, as you will add a touch of excitement. If you are single, stop and take another look at a new person. Tonight: The good times could go Tonight: Vanish while you can.
