Pampa EDC awards $350k to mall developer

City Commission set to vote on award at its meeting Tuesday.
 By SASHA HELLER

Around 15 members of the public attended Thursday's hearing with many of them sharing their support and criticism of the loan.

"I don't know if this gift, or this loan, is absolutely necessary."
 — Buzz Tarpley, resident

Gray County Commissioner Neil Fulton inquired about potential job growth associated with redevelopment of the mall.

"We know the EDC was designed to bring jobs to the area," Fulton said. Fulton then asked Bagwell how many businesses have committed to moving into the mall. Bagwell replied that five businesses have begun negotiations. However, Bagwell could not release the identities of the businesses that have already committed, other than U-Top-It, which recently publicized their plan to open a new store in the mall.

Buzz Tarpley shared concern about Bagwell requesting financial aid from the EDC.

"It seems like we're getting into an era that we're spending taxpayers' money on things we shouldn't have," Tarpley said. Tarpley then

Owls find home at city hall

By TIMOTHY P. HOWSARE

A family of great horned owls has taken up residence on an outdoor ledge at Pampa City Hall.

There are two babies, still fluffy with down, and a pair of adults. The babies can't fly yet and stay near the windows on the third-floor ledge on the south side of the building, where they have been observed and photographed by a few office workers.

Great horned owls are one of the most common owls in North America, easily recognizable because of the feather tufts on their heads. These "plumicorns" resemble horns.

On Friday morning, the babies were roosting at opposite ends of a third-floor window sill while an adult bird was keeping close watch atop the flagpole on the south side of the building.

The Pampa News emailed photos of the birds to Clifford Sackelford, an ornithologist with Texas Parks and Wildlife, who

City commission meets Tuesday

By SASHA HELLER

The Pampa City Commission will meet at 4 p.m., Tuesday, to consider approving, on first reading, a $350,000 forgivable loan to J&M Bagwell Properties for renovations at the Pampa Mall.

The Pampa EDC, which awarded the loan to developer Jason Bagwell, held a public hearing Thursday to receive input from citizens.

Bagwell has previously stated that the funding would be used for roof repairs and renovations to the flooring in the mall's central corridor.

The Commission will consider approval of $20,000 grant the EDC has awarded the City of Pampa to be used for demolition of blighted commercial properties around town. The EDC also held a public hearing Thursday in regards to the commercial demolition grant.

Also set for Tuesday's meeting is a discussion

Boys and Girls Club to offer summer fun

By TIMOTHY P. HOWSARE
 thowsare@thepampanews.com

The one or two summer-like days earlier this week may have gotten children thinking about what they want to do for summer vacation.

Likewise, a lot of parents may be pondering how to get the kids out of the house for some good, clean fun during the sweltering Panhandle summer.

The Boys and Girls Club of America (BGCA) in Pampa has a plan.

Bring your kids to their site at 701 S. Cuyler St. and their staff and volunteers will find plenty for them to do.

"We will be having summer day camp weekdays from June 10 to Aug. 9," said Frankco Higdon, who is co-captain of the Salvation Army with his wife, Martha.

In Pampa, the BGCA shares the same facility as Salvation Army and is operated by the Higdons and the Salvation Army staff.

Fire to snake, which sets fire to home

TEXARKANA (AP) — Authorities say a northeast Texas woman recently learned a hard lesson: Don't try to kill a snake by setting it on fire.

The woman was cleaning the yard outside a home near Texarkana Wednesday night when she spotted a snake. Bowie County Sheriff's Capt. David Grable says she poured gasoline on the snake to try to kill it. Her son then dropped a lit match on the snake.

The engulfed snake slithered into some brush nearby the home. Grable says the brush ignited and started a fire that destroyed the home and damaged one next door.

Both homes were vacant, and no one was injured.

Texas shootout may tie to Colo. prison chief death

DECATUR, Texas (AP) — A former Colorado inmate and white supremacist at the center of a two-state mystery is dead after a high-speed chase and shootout with Texas deputies. Now investigators are trying to piece together whether he killed the chief of Colorado prisons and a pizza delivery man, and where he was headed when Texas police tried to pull him over.

Evan Spencer Ebel, 28, is a Colorado parolee with a long record of convictions since 2003 for various crimes including assaulting a prison guard in 2008. Denver police Friday said they were "confident" he was involved in the death of Nathan Leon, 27, the pizza man whose body was found Sunday.

Authorities also are trying to determine whether the black Cadillac Ebel drove was the same seen outside the home of Tom Clements, the prison official, who was shot and killed when he answered the door Tuesday evening. Texas authorities spotted the car Thursday and gave chase after Ebel shot and wounded a deputy. They fatally shot him after he crashed into a semi and opened fire on his pursuers.

Texas authorities officially confirmed his identity Friday morning.

Ebel was a member of a white supremacist prison gang called the 211s, a federal law enforcement official told The Associated Press. The official was not authorized to speak publicly about the case and spoke to the AP on condition of anonymity.

Ebel is not on the radar of the Southern Poverty Law Center, which tracks extremist groups, but the center rates the gang as one of the most vicious white supremacist groups operating in the nation's prisons, comparable to the Aryan Brotherhood of Texas. Founded in 1995 to protect white prisoners from attacks, it operates only in Colorado and has anywhere from between a couple hundred to 1,000 members, senior fellow Mark Potok said Friday.

The gang has grown into a sophisticated criminal enterprise where members are assigned military titles like "general" and extort money from fellow prisoners, regardless of race. Released members are expected to make money to support those still in prison, Potok said. He said members have to attack someone to get in and can only get out by dying.

"It's blood in and blood out," he said.

In 2005, 32 members were indicted for racketeering and the gang's founder, Benjamin Davis, was sentenced to over 100 years in prison.

The killing of Clements, 58, shocked his quiet neighborhood in Monument, a town of rolling hills north of Colorado Springs, for its brutality: He answered the door of his home Tuesday evening and was gunned down. Authorities wouldn't say if they thought the attack was related to his job, and all Clements' recent public activities and cases were scrutinized.

The Texas car chase started when a sheriff's deputy in Montague County, James Boyd, tried to pull over the Cadillac around 11 a.m. Thursday, authorities there said. They wouldn't say exactly why he was stopped, but called it routine.

The driver opened fire on Boyd, wounding him, Wise County Sheriff David Walker said at an afternoon news conference in Decatur. He then fled south before crashing into a semi as he tried to elude his pursuers.

After the crash, he got out of the vehicle, shooting at deputies and troopers who had joined the chase. He shot at Decatur Police Chief Rex Hoskins four times as the chief tried to set up a roadblock.

"He wasn't planning on being taken alive," Hoskins said.

Boyd, the deputy who was shot, was wearing a bulletproof vest and was at a Fort Worth hospital, authorities said. Officials had said he wasn't seriously injured but later said his condition was unknown.

Legal records show Ebel was convicted of several crimes in Colorado dating back to 2003, including assaulting a prison guard in 2008. He apparently was paroled, but Colorado Department of Corrections spokeswoman Alison Morgan said she could not release information on prisoners because of the ongoing investigation into Clements' death.

Scott Robinson, a criminal defense attorney and media legal analyst, represented Ebel in 2003 and 2004. He said Ebel had been sentenced to a halfway house for a robbery charge in 2003 before he was accused in two additional robbery cases the following year that garnered prison sentences of three and eight years.

"I thought he was a young man who was redeemable, otherwise I wouldn't have taken the case," Robinson said, saying he didn't recall the details of the case.

Robinson said he knew Ebel before he got in trouble. He said Ebel was raised by a single father and had a younger sister who died in a car accident years ago.

Vicky Bankey said Ebel was in his teens when she lived across from him in suburban Denver until his father moved a couple of years ago. She remembers seeing Ebel once jump off the roof of his house. "He was a handful. I'd see him do some pretty crazy things," she said.

"He had a hair-trigger temper as a kid. But his dad was so nice," Bankey said.

Ebel's father didn't return an after-hours phone message left at his business.

Clements came to Colorado in 2011 after working three decades in the Missouri prison system. Missouri Department of Corrections spokeswoman Mandi Steele said Thursday the department was ready to help in the probe if asked.

The last public official killed in Colorado in the past 10 years was Sean May, a prosecutor in suburban Denver. An assailant killed May as he arrived home from work. Investigators examined May's court cases, but the case remains unsolved.

Another Air Force sex scandal

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Another Air Force basic training instructor in South Texas has been sentenced to prison in a sex scandal and will be booted out of the military.

A military judge at Joint Base San Antonio-Lackland on Thursday sentenced Master Sgt. Jamey Crawford to seven months of confinement for improper relationships with two female trainees.

Crawford was accused of having sex with both women during 2011.

Crawford, who was also convicted of making false statements to investigators, must perform two months of hard labor and will have a bad-conduct discharge. He's been in the Air Force for 14 years and sought to remain in the military.

Crawford is the 10th Lackland instructor to be convicted or plead guilty in the continuing investigation.

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston man accused of repeatedly raping an 11-year-old neighbor who became pregnant and gave birth this week. Deandrea Devon Davis-Williams, 21, was arrested late Tuesday night and charged with continuous sexual abuse of a child. A judge Thursday tripled Davis-Williams' original $50,000 bond and set arraignment for April 23. Court documents show the attacks occurred almost daily over more than seven months beginning about last June 1. The girl delivered a healthy child Thursday, Harris County District Attorney's spokeswoman Sara Marie Kinney said Friday.

Bouncin' Around Find adventure in a book

My love affair with reading began many years ago when I was a toddler. My parents were helping my older brother with his reading, and they used a Scrabble game. As a result, I could read before I started kindergarten. By the time I was eight, I had discovered the school library, and I'm sure I drove more than a few librarians buggy asking them for new books nearly every day. It was about this time that someone suggested The Odyssey by Homer, and that book planted the seeds of my imagination. I read all the usual kids' books: The Bobbsey Twins, Black Beauty, Little Women and Little Men, just about anything I could get my hands on. One summer, I found a large cardboard box. I cut a "skylight" on one side, laid the box on its other side, and put an old rug inside. Add an old pillow and a jar of ice water, and my books and I spent most of the summer inside that box, under the shade of a walnut tree in our backyard. That box became my "Nautilus" (Captain Nemo's ship,) my hot air balloon, my "Titanic," my vehicle for traveling the world. Fast forward about thirty years, and our daughter, Catherine followed in my footsteps, learning to read before she started preschool.

JUDITH SMITH

She has been a serious reader all her life and we used to joke that if the ceiling fell in while she was reading, she'd just brush the plaster off her book and keep reading. She has ten-year-old triplets and a 12-year-old who are excellent readers, and we are more than happy to provide them with books. The one thing that all three generations have in common is that we were all read to as small children, and we were encouraged to explore all the wonders that are available in books. Being a good reader allows a person to see sights and meet people, to learn from the arts and sciences, to study religion and philosophy and become a more interesting person. We are fortunate to have a beautiful and well-stocked library here in Pampa.

I have found new authors and new interests in the past year since we moved here, and if you haven't visited the Lovett Memorial Library in a while, you are missing out on some wonderful adventures! Someone asked recently if I prefer paper books, e-readers, or audio books. I can honestly say it doesn't matter to me, as long as I can disappear inside the pages of a book.

An interview with AFL-CIO President Richard Trumka

Richard Trumka, president of the AFL-CIO, recently spoke with The National Memo about the sequester's automatic budget cuts, the danger of cuts to Social Security, the Keystone XL pipeline, immigration reform, President Obama and how to defend labor in an era of attacks on the right to organize. The 64 year-old Trumka worked his way through college and law school in Pennsylvania's coalfields. Fourteen years later, he became the youngest elected president in United Mine Workers history — and went on to election as secretary-treasurer and then, in 2009, as president of America's largest labor federation. Tough, outspoken and progressive, he didn't hesitate to criticize President Obama — or the labor movement itself. And he offered surprising remarks about climate change, the possibility of a carbon tax and his hope for dramatic changes in the house of labor.

On the federal budget sequester, which is harming millions of union workers in and out of government, Trumka said that unions will continue "to educate people that the Republicans are trying to hold the economy hostage. They manufacture crisis after crisis after crisis ... Disarming the hostage takers — and I'll call them that — means repealing and not replacing sequestration."

Moreover, he bluntly rejects any budgetary "Grand Bargain — or at least the Washington version of such a deal.

"If the Grand Bargain includes cuts to Social Security, Medicare and Medicaid, then we would be very, very worried about that — not just worried, we will oppose that. Let me just give you one example — the Chained CPI (consumer price index, used to calculate increases in Social Security). That's another example of how Washington creates fancy sounding phrases to mask stupid policies that only work for the rich."

Instead, the union leader — who led two successful strikes against major coal companies — prefers to see the federal government use its enormous bargaining power to reduce the cost of health care, which is the biggest driver of federal deficits.

"Every other country in the world does that ... I met with the head of a pharmaceutical company, and do you know what he told me? He said the reason Americans pay too much for drugs is because the rest of the world pays too little. (Other nations) negotiate down to a fair price, and we don't do that. We gave that away in the debate — the president did — and got nothing in return for it."

He also notes that the effective corporate tax is so low that some firms pay no taxes at all. He urges a surtax on millionaires, a "tiny tax on Wall Street speculation" and closing "loopholes" that favor Wall Street hedge fund managers and derivative traders.

Yet even as he slaps corporate America for evading its "fair share," Trumka is negotiating with the U.S. Chamber of Commerce over immigration reform — specifically, how to treat "guest workers." Optimistic about a "reasonable path to citizenship" for all 11.5 million undocumented workers, Trumka wants to be sure that any new program won't allow renewed exploitation of Latino immigrants. New guest workers must be treated fairly — and allowed to bring their families along.

For Trumka, this debate is deeply personal: His grandfather emigrated from Poland; his mother, from Italy.

Why you and I would be arrested in Iran

The Telegraph, a newspaper in the United Kingdom, noted how Catholicism has spread its wings by appointing Pope Francis as its first non-European pope since A.D. 741. Yet countries such as Iran are still clamping down on religion by incarcerating Christians and putting them on trial for their faith.

CHUCK NORRIS

According to Fox News, "five men were among seven arrested in October when security forces raided an underground house church in the city of Shiraz during a prayer session." And Christian Solidarity Worldwide, a religious persecution watchdog organization, elaborated that they are being tried in Islamic Revolutionary Court on charges of "disturbing public order, evangelizing, action against national security and ... (Internet) activity against the system." Tiffany Barrans, international legal director at the American Center for Law and Justice, explained to Fox, "House churches are growing because the converts have nowhere else to go."

Barrans and the ACLJ are also the legal defenders for Pastor Saeed Abedini, who has been held in Iran's inhumane Evin prison since September, when he was arrested for helping to build a state-run secular orphanage. He is serving an eight-year prison term, which is why the ACLJ is gathering more than a half-million signatures in an online petition seeking his release. Abedini's wife and two young children fear for his life while they anxiously await his return to their Idaho home.

In similar news, 3,000 Muslims armed with sticks, clubs and stones burned at least 150 houses of Christians, a church and shops in Pakistan over allegations that a single Christian had made critical comments about the Prophet Muhammad.

The News International reported: "The history of persecution of Christians in Pakistan is not very old. Just 15 years ago, a Christian Ayub Masih was the first to be convicted of blasphemy and sentenced to death."

Fox News further explained: "Under Shariah, or Islamic law, a Muslim who converts to Christianity is on a par with someone waging war against Islam. Death sentences for such individuals are prescribed by fatwas, or legal decrees, and reinforced by Iran's Constitution, which allows judges to rely on fatwas for determining charges and sentencing on crimes not addressed in the Iranian penal code."

Contrast those laws with Americans' First Amendment rights: "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press, or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances."

The First Amendment was intended to not only secure the fundamental rights and freedoms of religion and free speech for every American but also make a statement to the whole world about the model everyone should follow. James Madison, the principal drafter and so-called father of the Bill of Rights, explained the original intent of the First Amendment to Edward Livingston: "We are teaching the world the great truth that Govts. do better without Kings & Nobles than with them. The merit will be doubled by the other lesson that Religion flourishes in greater purity, without than with the aid of Govt."

It's no coincidence that in 1789, after being urged by Congress on the same day it finished drafting the First Amendment, President George Washington echoed a similar universal and obligatory sentiment in his Thanksgiving proclamation: "It is the duty of all nations to acknowledge the providence of Almighty God, to obey his will, to be grateful for his benefits, and humbly to implore his protection and favor." America still serves as a beacon of light for the world regarding its unique freedoms. That is why we shouldn't fear diversity or differences; rather, we should be proud of them. We must not hinder others' opinion or be intimidated by the sharing of our own. We must question everything with boldness yet be willing to agree to disagree agreeably even on the most controversial subjects.

That is why I state categorically that I agree with Benjamin Rush — a signer of the Declaration of Independence and a member of the presidential administrations of John Adams, Thomas Jefferson and Madison — who wrote: "I had rather see the opinions of Confucius or (Muhammad) inculcated upon our youth than see them grow up wholly devoid of a system of religious principles. But the religion I mean to recommend in this place is that of the New Testament."

criticized the EDC for, essentially, gifting the $350,000 to Bagwell. "I didn't realize when we started this thing that the EDC would become a large owner," Tarpley said. "I'm not for it at all. I'm sorry. I know you've done a lot of work on it." Eastham then thanked the Board for providing transparency during this process.

Board President Gary Sutherland explained how the EDC ultimately decided to award Bagwell the $350,000. "We had an absentee owner that had that thing for 15 years. People complained about it," Sutherland said. "Jason is trying to do something with the mall." He added the previous mall went under due to poor management. Sutherland also commented on how redevelopment of Pampa Mall will contribute to the town's growing economy.

"I would like to think we are on an upswing," he said. Sutherland then noted that development of the Pampa Energy Center is also expected to bring more jobs to the area. Tarpley was also concerned about Bagwell potentially poaching businesses currently in operation in other parts of the city like downtown or the Coronado Center. "I have not and I will not...there will not be any going after or transference of tenants," Bagwell said. Bagwell then explained his motivation for this project. Bagwell said he's wanted to redevelop Pampa Mall since he and his wife, Meredith, moved to town. Bagwell also explained why he feels J&M Bagwell Properties is deserving of the award. "I don't consider it a gift," he said, adding that he will work diligently to make sure the award pays off for the community. Tarpley continued his line of criticism. "I don't know if this gift, or this loan, is absolutely necessary."

The BGCA summer programs are scheduled from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Children are fed lunch and two snacks. The cost is $30 per week and activities include music, arts, crafts, games, outdoor sports and day trips to historical sites in Pampa and Amarillo. On Fridays, kids get to cool off at the city's water park. Higdon said there are sliding scales and scholarships available for kids who can't afford $30 per week. But it's not all just for fun. There will be weekly devotionals and character-building activities as components of the program, Higdon said. "We will have some different speakers coming to the kids," he said. Last summer, about 25 children participated and Higdon is hoping to have between 45 to 50 this summer. Martha said they are looking for individuals with special talents and interests to help volunteer. "It could be somebody who's a music teacher who want to come over for an hour to teach music, it could be somebody what wants to teach crafts or somebody to come in and do story time," she said. "It depends on the interest of the volunteer." To volunteer or for more information, call 665-7233.

Owls

confirmed they are great horned owls. Sackelford said it's not that out of the ordinary the owls would find a building like city hall to call home sweet home. "There's not a lot of nesting places for them in the Plains because it's so flat," he said. "That's what's limiting. There's not a lot of rocky ledges on mountain sides or canyons." Out in the wild, the owls like rocky ledges for their vantage points to search for prey and protection from predators, like raccoons, who are seeking their eggs for food. "A raccoon can't scale up and eat the eggs," he said. And the same would go for the outside walls at city hall — no raccoons climbing up there. Asked why the birds were wide awake during broad daylight when owls are known to be nocturnal, Sackelford quipped, "Could you sleep with all that traffic going in and out at city hall and all those horns honking?" For food, Sackelford said the owls are partial to mid-sized mammals, such as rats. Because of their rather large size — adults have wing spans ranging from 3.3 to 4.8 feet — they usually don't feast on mice as smaller birds of prey will do. "That would be like you or me trying to live off of Doritos scattered on the ground," he said. Sackelford said it's hard to tell adult males from the females, but the bird on the flagpole was likely the mom keeping tabs on the youngsters while dad was out "grocery shopping." He wasn't sure from the picture how old the babies are, but said they are probably three-quarters grown. It won't be long until the babies will fledge, or fly away from the nest, he added. "Once fully grown they can fend for themselves," he said. Asked what would happen if somebody opened one of the windows and tried to grab a baby, Sackelford replied, "You wouldn't even want to go there. Great horned owls have the strongest grip of any raptor. Their talons would be like Freddy Kruger blades going through your arm." But that's all part of good parenting, he added. "It would be just like if someone tried to snatch your kid at the mall," he said. Is it likely another family of great horned owls could move into the neighborhood? Probably not, Sackelford said. "They are very territorial and would not want any other birds to nest close. There wouldn't be enough food for everybody."

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Monday, March 25, 2013:

This year you greet change in a positive manner. Your daily life takes on a more upbeat tone. Your ability to attract others' interest soars, especially when having one-on-one discussions. If you are single, you will have to decide whether you want to stay that way, as many people find you intriguing. If you are attached, take up a new hobby or project together. VIRGO can be fussy and critical. Remember that when dealing with this sign.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
★★★ You might feel overburdened as you deal with others' plights. Shaking yourself free takes talent and detachment. Though you might want to do more, you have limits. Changes are brewing around authority. Do not fight the inevitable. Tonight: Let it all hang out.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
★★★★ You continue to see life in a different, more grounded way. You might wonder what is going on around you, as others seem to act oddly. Detach more. Tonight: Find a person who knows more about the topic at hand, and/or surf the web to get more information.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
★★★ You might be a bit more grounded than you'd like. Information that is forthcoming could challenge your knowledge of a specific relationship or financial agreement. Keep digging as you seek new information and understanding. Tonight: Let go of a vision of how things "should" be.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
★★★★ Ask more questions. You might realize that someone close to you is changing, and he or she could be quite controlling at this point in time. Opportunities come from your imagination and your willingness to look at hard facts. Tonight: Have a long-overdue discussion.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
★★★ Be aware of the cost of proceeding in a certain direction. You might want to rethink a decision involving your daily life and finances. Brainstorm with a friend who knows you. Your decision might change with some insight. Tonight: Do some shopping on the way home.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

★★★ You could be full of energy and feel the need to move through a problem. Your ability to change how situations look is quite unique. Knowing what you need to do is important. Answer someone about an issue that keeps resurfacing. Tonight: Lighten up, and enjoy yourself. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

★★★ You might feel weighed down by a changing situation in your life. Home and family no longer carry the same significance. Realize what is happening behind the scenes. You could be fearful of the implications of a decision. Be honest with yourself. Tonight: Soul searching. SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

★★★★ You might want to rethink a decision that has been weighing heavily on your mind. If there is a misunderstanding or a lack of communication, perhaps it is time to clear the air. What might be bothering you could be irrelevant to the other party. Tonight: Say "yes" to an invitation. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

★★★★ You'll open up to new ideas and a better way of living. Optimism follows you everywhere, and it presents you with many opportunities. Be the captain of your ship. You could be overtired by everything you need to get done. Others will follow your lead. Tonight: To the wee hours. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

★★★★ Defer to someone who might be more detached and slightly less emotional than you. You could discover many paths to take. You know where you want to head and why -- just not how. Don't minimize a situation involving a friend. Tonight: Follow your imagination. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

★★★★ Deal with a partner directly. Your creativity invites many opportunities, and it also helps you identify them. You might be forced to face the fact that a preconceived notion is not valid. Don't fight this realization so hard. Go with it, and you'll be better off. Tonight: Be spontaneous. PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

★★★★ Others demand your attention, yet your imagination wanders. Recognize that your self-discipline needs to kick in. Give some thought about a change in your day-to-day life that has captured your interest. A meeting changes direction. Tonight: Where the action is.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Tuesday, March 26, 2013:

This year you will be more concerned about your relationships. At times, you might question your boundaries, as well as those of the other parties involved. Know that everyone is different. You might wonder which approach would be best to take -- to do what you feel or do what you think. Experiment, and see the results of each. If you are single, you could have difficulty deciding whom to date. If you are attached, the two of you have a hard time juggling your different needs. Kissing and making up will be a frequent habit. LIBRA can be challenging.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

★★★★ Your drive helps you stay charged throughout the day. Nevertheless, you could be overwhelmed by all the inquiries you encounter. By late afternoon, you'll be looking for ways out of conversations and situations. Trust your imagination. Tonight: Say "yes" to living.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

★★★ Carry a notebook with you in order to jot down your many ideas. You'll want to test them out on others before deciding which one works best for you. You could be looking at different options to make more money, or perhaps you just want to travel. Tonight: Play it low-key.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

★★★★ You might feel unusually knowledgeable, which could cause you to question the reasons for doing things in a certain way. Your creativity emerges, and you'll find the right path. Success greets you. A friend also could have some feedback for you. Tonight: Let the good times roll.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

★★ Give a presentation in the morning, and speak your mind. You will see a situation in a different light because you're able to make a change that you have desired for a while. Follow your instincts. A partner can be testy, so give this person some space. Tonight: At home.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

★★★★ Take care of your business and financial concerns. News coming from a distance proves to be quite distracting. You have reason to smile, but you might doubt yourself or what you are hearing. Know that there are some details being left out. Tonight: Catch up with a friend.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

★★★★ Others note your self-confidence. Whatever you decide to put on your plate tends to work because of your upbeat attitude. Open up to a possibility of travel or consider taking on more responsibilities. A new friend expresses the intensity of his or her feelings. Tonight: Run errands.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

★★★ Though you feel be out of sync in the morning, you'll feel far more together come dinnertime. You can see the difference in your energy through others' reactions. You might be taken aback by someone's behavior. Say little, and watch what happens. Tonight: Do your thing.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

★★★★ Your ability to read between the lines will come through for you. Others might not totally understand where they are heading in a key matter, but your insightful nature lets you know. Step back, and watch how the situation develops. Tonight: Take some much-needed personal time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

★★★★ You know what to do, and you'll do it. Understand that you might need to have a difficult discussion with a loved one. You have gone long enough without saying anything, but know your limits. A meeting points to a fun adventure. Tonight: Whatever sets your imagination afire.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

★★★★ News from a distance could evoke a discussion. The topic involves real estate and your domestic life. Know that someone is passionate about his or her perception, but this could change. You will be centered and direct in your dealings. Tonight: Burn the midnight oil.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

★★★★ A partner has a lot to say, and he or she will say it. You can't escape this inevitable discussion, so step up to the plate and have it. Reach out to someone at a distance who cares about you; the discussion could be quite animated. Tonight: Learn a new hobby.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

★★★★ Others seek you out, and you will be forced to juggle many different concerns. Do be aware of the cost of pursuing several situations at once, as you could become distracted. A partner wants to talk money. Be available for this conversation. Tonight: Chat over dinner.

Newtown parents describe meeting with killer's dad

NEWTOWN, Conn. (AP) — When Alissa and Robbie Parker met face-to-face recently with the father of the young man who killed their daughter and 19 other first-graders at Sandy Hook Elementary School, they weren't angry with him and didn't blame him for the massacre.

Instead, the Parkers said they and Peter Lanza shared their condolences for one another and talked about his son, Adam Lanza, during the emotional meeting, which lasted more than an hour. "I don't feel like he should be held responsible for what happened that day," Allisa Parker told "CBS This Morning," during the second part of an interview that aired Friday. "That was not ultimately his decision to do that, so how can I hold him responsible? Were there missteps in the raising of his son? Possibly."

Adam Lanza, 20, fatally shot 20 children and six educators with a military-style rifle on Dec. 14, then killed himself as police arrived. Authorities say he also killed his mother at their Newtown home before he went to the school. The Parkers lost their 6-year-old daughter, Emilee, in the rampage. Allisa Parker said she told Peter Lanza that there was an opportunity to learn from the killings and his cooperation was vital.

The Parkers wouldn't reveal what Peter Lanza said about his son. Connecticut state police haven't released any information about a motive, but people close to the investigation have told The Associated Press that Adam Lanza showed interest in other mass killings and had literature on other mass shootings at his home. The people spoke on conditional of anonymity because the investigation is continuing.

Peter Lanza, who was divorced from Nancy Lanza, has declined to comment about the meeting with the Parkers, who said they came away from it with a better understanding of Adam Lanza. Robbie Parker, who was among the first of the victims' parents to publicly discuss the shooting, said he and his wife wanted to meet with Peter Lanza because he was the only person who could answer their questions.

"Adam's gone and his mother's gone, and those are the two people that could give us the most information to the questions that all of us have," he said.

The Parkers, who have two other daughters ages 3 and 5, said they're not angry because they know they can't undo what happened at the school that day. Asked whether she forgives Adam Lanza, Allisa Parker said it's not her burden to bear.

Sunday horoscope

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Sunday, March 24, 2013:

This year you will be inspired to try something new. You also will have a yearning to go off on some far-out tangent. Use good sense, and you will be OK. If you are single, you might desire a close, personal tie, and you'll see that potential in several people. Take your time getting to know each person. If you are attached, you often have misunderstandings with your sweetie. Be smart, and don't make them into big deals. VIRGO might be great to work with, but he or she can be very fussy. The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

★★★★ Confusion surrounds you. Make time to look at the humorous moments that result from this haze. Do clarify and confirm meeting times and spots. A get-together will attract many people. Tonight: Don't worry about tomorrow.

This Week: You have much to complete. By midweek, you start networking.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

★★★★ You and a dear friend normally see eye to eye. Right now, it might be difficult to get on the same page with this person. Let go. A spontaneous get-together could turn into a memorable and fun time. Tonight: Live in the here and now.

This Week: You have a great time until Wednesday ... when reality hits.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

★★★★ Cancel plans if you so desire. You need some downtime at home with family -- or, even better, enjoy some alone time. Misunderstandings seem to come from out of nowhere, so don't hang on to others' words; otherwise, you could misconstrue the situation. Tonight: Early to bed.

This Week: Honor who you are, which means following your life priorities.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

★★★★ Listen to a friend's news. Communication could be difficult right now, especially as one person might not want to come clean. The right word or expression could have many different meanings. Understand that you may have to redo a conversation. Tonight: Talk up a storm.

This Week: Tell it like it is.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

★★★ Adding to the quality of your life might seem like you need to make a major purchase. Avoid buying anything today. Even if you're only doing a price comparison, the figures could be off -- and by no fault of your own. Tonight: Visit with a loved one over dinner.

This Week: Finances and diplomacy play big roles in your plans.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

★★★★ Adjust your plans if need be. A partner could be confusing. Feel free to go your own way in order to give this person some room. Sometimes a little space encourages both parties to pull in closer together later. Indulge in a favorite pastime. Tonight: Say "yes" to living.

This Week: Use Monday and Tuesday well while the planets root you on.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

★★ Know when to withdraw from a conversation, as every word you utter seems to get you in trouble. If you want the other party to think before speaking, just take your leave. Deal with what is bothering you. Reconciliation will be possible at a later date. Tonight: Your treat.

This Week: Wednesday, the world calls.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

★★★★ Get together with friends. If you are single, someone quite enticing could walk into your life. If you are attached, the two of you will discover the sparks of yonder days. Make the most of the moment. Tonight: Add some naughtiness to the mix.

This Week: Teamwork brings unexpected results.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

★★★★ Visit with an older family member who is fussy. Your interaction with this person might prevent some future prissiness. If it is important to keep friends within your immediate circle, you need to let them know what you are up to. Tonight: To the wee hours.

This Week: Pressure to perform builds. The end result will make you smile.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

★★★★ You might want to detach from a bad situation. In a while, you might want to take another look at the issue. You will be able to revise the problem and ease some of the tension surrounding it. Tonight: Your imagination assumes the lead, and your body follows.

This Week: Tap into your imagination to find answers, then take action.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

★★★★ Spend time with a special person. One-on-one relating adds to the magic of the day. You might not want to be so concerned about details and plans for meeting up with others. You don't need everyone else to make you happy. Tonight: Opt for a "togetherness" theme.

This Week: A close conversation defines the next few days.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

★★★★ You might not intend to cause confusion, yet it seems inevitable. Honor what is happening with a friend. Go along with this person's desires, and he or she will be very appreciative. Adjust to a change of pace -- it is only temporary. Tonight: Go with someone's suggestion.

This Week: Let others lead. It will work out well for you.

Statewide gas price average up three cents from one week ago

SUBMITTED BY AAA TEXAS

Irving, Texas — The statewide average for a gallon of regular unleaded in the Lone Star State is now $3.57, according to the AAA Texas Weekend Gas Watch. That price is three cents more than last week and 12 cents less than the current national average of $3.69. Drivers in Fort Worth are paying the most on average at $3.68, and drivers in Beaumont are paying the least at $3.44.

While the recent price movement has varied by state, the year-over-year savings have been nearly universal. Drivers in every state, with the exception of North Dakota, pay less than the same day last year. In Texas, drivers are paying an average of 18 cents less per gallon than this same day last year. After declining during the second half of February, crude oil prices have posted slight gains in recent weeks as a result of positive economic news.

“As we see gas prices fluctuate up and down, we encourage people to continue to maximize their vehicle fuel efficiency,” said AAA Texas/New Mexico Representative Doug Shupe. “Spring weather has arrived and many will hit the roads for weekend trips, so we remind them to maintain vehicles according to manufacture recommendations, pack belongings in their car not on the car, and drive the speed limit ‘not aggressively.’”

To help consumers identify quality auto repair shops that can assist in the maintenance and repair of their vehicles, AAA offers the Approved Auto Repair program as a free public service. AAA-approved repair facilities meet and maintain high professional standards for training, equipment, cleanliness and customer service. Motorists can look for the Approved Auto Repair sign at local auto repair facilities, or search for a nearby AAA-approved shop online at AAA.com/Repair. AAA Texas can be visited on the Internet at www.AAA.com. Follow AAA Texas on Twitter: @AAATexas and Facebook: www.facebook.com/AAA-Texas.

The workshop will begin with registration at 2:30 p.m. and will end at 5 p.m. Cost of the workshop will be $15, payable at the door, and preregistration is recommended, Boughen said.

Panhandle tree care topic of April 19 class in Amarillo

SUBMITTED

AMARILLO — The Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service in Potter County will offer a “Tree Care for the Panhandle” class on April 19 at the office located at 3301 S.E. 10th Ave., Amarillo.

“Almost everyone in the Panhandle, and certainly Amarillo, has a tree,” said Brandon Boughen, AgriLife Extension agriculture and natural resources agent in Potter County. “Most of the time we don’t pay a great deal of attention to those trees until we see signs of decline, then we panic.”

“Trees are a costly part of the landscape to replace so we want to maintain our trees to the best of our ability,” he said. “Many tree owners pay someone to maintain their trees for them, which is fine, but they also need to have an idea of what is involved in tree care and maintenance. This class will make tree owners more informed, savvy tree owners.”

The class will begin with registration at 9:30 a.m. and the program will run from 10 a.m. to noon.

Boughen said he will cover a wide range of topics, including desirable, undesirable and questionable trees in the Panhandle, as well as pruning, general care, insect and disease control. He will end with a pruning demonstration.

The cost of the class will be $15 per person, payable at the door, and includes all materials and refreshments. Those planning to attend should contact Boughen at 806-373-0713 to reserve a spot by April 18 or for more information.

Xcel Energy, Amarillo Crime Stoppers target copper theft

Partnership seeks assistance solving Amarillo-area cases.

SUBMITTED

AMARILLO — Xcel Energy has joined forces with Amarillo Crime Stoppers to stop the crime of copper theft, a growing problem that threatens public safety and can drive up the cost of electricity.

Criminals have become more brazen in their attempts to remove copper from power lines and power substations as the price of copper has risen. When these thefts involve ground wires, Xcel Energy personnel and members of the public can be seriously injured by stray current. And the damage from these thefts can lead to service interruptions and expensive damage to critical electrical facilities, which can increase electricity costs for area customers.

“We have seen an increase in copper theft across our Texas and New Mexico service area, and particularly in Hutchinson County northeast of Amarillo,” said Chris Shelton, protection services consultant for Xcel Energy in Amarillo. “One of the best ways to counter this crime is to seek information from area residents in apprehending these criminals and preventing further crimes.”

Xcel Energy is partnering with Amarillo Crime Stoppers to help fund a coordinated effort to obtain information leading to arrests and convictions of copper thieves, not only in Amarillo but in surrounding counties. This is made possible by a supplemental reward contract between Xcel Energy and Amarillo Crime Stoppers, Inc. Cpl. Sean Slover of the Amarillo Police Department and coordinator of the Amarillo Crime Stoppers program, said solving and preventing copper thefts not only protects the public from electrical accidents, but also helps remove criminals from the streets who tend to be involved in other criminal activity.

“In many cases, proceeds from stolen copper are supporting other criminal activities such as the illegal drug trade,” Slover said. “Amarillo Crime Stoppers is glad to lend our resources to this fight if our efforts also will help solve and prevent other serious crimes.”

Amarillo Crime Stoppers provides rewards for tips that lead to the identification and arrest of criminals, and is extending these rewards specifically to citizens of the Texas Panhandle who help solve crimes involving stolen copper from electrical facilities. Rewards through the Xcel Energy-Amarillo Crime Stoppers partnership have been increased to a combined amount of up to $5,500 for Xcel Energy-specific crime locations. Area residents with information on copper theft incidents at Xcel Energy facilities can contact Amarillo Crime Stoppers at 806-374-4400 or submit anonymous tips online at Amapolice.org.

Complaint: Rampant abuse by border patrol agents

BY JOHN MICHAELSON
Texas News Service

AUSTIN — The U.S. Customs and Border Patrol agency (CPB) is facing a handful of lawsuits and potential lawsuits over claims of rampant misconduct against both immigrants and U.S. citizens. An alliance of advocacy groups recently filed actions against the CBP outlining 10 such cases. Six of the plaintiffs are from Texas.

Adriana Pinon, a senior staff attorney with ACLU of Texas, described one such incident.

“Our client is a United States citizen who was forcibly thrown to the ground, injured and arrested by a CBP agent while she was going about her routine day, and the CBP agent took these actions without any justification,” Pinon said. “As a result, she was physically and emotionally injured.”

Pinon added that the woman did not interfere with police, nothing was found in a search of her car or belongings, and no charges were brought.

Customs and Border Patrol does not comment specifically on pending litigation, spokesman Bill Brooks said, but he added that “we don’t tolerate misconduct or abuse within our ranks, and we fully cooperate with all investigations of alleged unlawful conduct by any of our employees and contractors.”

Pinon said these kinds of abuses are all too common in border communities, and that has to change.

“For the agents that we have on the border, we do need more training, and we need accountability and some transparency, so we can precisely figure out when these incidents happen and how to find solutions that will stop them from happening in the future.”

The filings come amid a national discussion on immigration reform. Several proposed plans include a path to citizenship, but some want that coupled with thousands more agents patrolling the border. Pinon said CPB is already the country’s largest law enforcement agency, and expanding that without accountability could make a bad situation worse.

“It’s important right now to call attention to these types of abuses because a lot of people are calling for more border patrol agents as a precondition to getting any sort of comprehensive immigration reform passed,” she said, “but the solution isn’t just putting more boots on the ground.”

The complaints and lawsuits claim that Border Patrol agents routinely make racially-motivated arrests, employ coercive interrogation tactics and imprison those arrested under inhumane conditions.

Neighbors told to stop threatening each other

ASSOCIATED PRESS

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — A judge has ordered some Santa Fe neighbors to stop threatening each other over barking dogs, loud music and access to a subdivision road.

State District Judge Frank Mathew told the feuding neighbors Thursday in the Mission Viejo subdivision not to harass or call one another after a series of bizarre complaints.

Keith Bujold has been in a long fight with neighbor Ernest Kavanaugh Sr. over access to a disputed road that has resulted in threats with pistols. Bujold says the Kavanaughs began harassing him and his wife four years ago.

Maguire named Lake Meredith superintendent

SUBMITTED

Robert Maguire, a 29-year veteran of the National Park Service (NPS), has been named superintendent of Lake Meredith National Recreation Area in Texas. Maguire is currently the chief ranger in the Midwest Regional Office in Omaha, Neb. He reports for duty at Lake Meredith on April 7, replacing Cindy Ott-Jones, who recently was named superintendent of Big Bend National Park in Texas. In his new post, Maguire also will oversee Alibates Flint Quarries National Monument.

Robert Maguire

“Robert is an outstanding and dedicated NPS manager with more than 29 years’ experience and an enormous record of accomplishments,” said John Wessels, Intermountain Regional Director for the NPS.

“His broad experience in law enforcement and park administration will be invaluable as he sets out to collaborate with Lake Meredith park neighbors and partners on matters of mutual interest for the recreation area and surrounding communities.”

Maguire’s career has included stints in regional NPS administration and at seven national parks from New England to the Southwest. Since 2011, he has served as chief ranger in the Midwest Regional Office, where he advised the regional director and NPS staff in 58 park sites on law enforcement and visitor and resource protection issues, including emergency medical services, structural fire, search and rescue, park fees and special park uses.

Before joining the NPS, Maguire served as deputy sheriff in the Garfield County Sheriff’s Department in Greenwood Springs, Colo. and worked as a forestry technician for the U.S. Forest Service in Idaho Springs and Colorado Springs, Colo.

“I am honored and humbled to have been selected superintendent at Lake Meredith and Alibates Flint Quarries,” Maguire said. “I am excited about working with the dedicated staff of both parks and I look forward to meeting and collaborating with the local communities, partners, and state and federal representatives as Lake Meredith develops its General Management Plan and Off-Road Vehicle Management Plan.”

Maguire is a 1979 graduate of Colorado State University in Fort Collins, where he earned a Bachelor of Science degree in park and recreation administration, with a minor in forestry.

Maguire’s wife, Julie, is an educational consultant. They have three grown daughters: Jill, Kelsey, and Mary-Kate. They also have two grandsons — Jude and Liam.

Man finds knife in back 3 years after he was stabbed

YELLOWKNIFE, NORTHWEST TERRITORIES (AP) — A Canadian man was just scratching what he thought was an old itch this week when it turned out to be a knife blade that had been buried in his back for almost three years.

Billy McNeely said this week it all goes back to an April, 2010, birthday party in McNeely’s home town of Fort Good Hope, Northwest Territories. McNeely got into a fight over an arm-wrestling contest and was stabbed five times. A doctor stitched him up back then and never took X-Rays.

Ever since, McNeely would set off metal detector and he’s had a lump in his back where the knife went in. It never stopped nagging him and grew more painful this week. Doctors dug out a blade measuring about 2.7 inches (7 centimeters).

GO PAMPA HARVESTERS!

Upset of the tournament thus far: Harvard ousts New Mexico

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Some people may have heard of the school that's suddenly generating a bit of March Madness buzz. Harvard.

Yep, Harvard — the school known for producing U.S. presidents, Supreme Court justices and Nobel Prize winners earned its first NCAA tournament victory Thursday night with a 68-62 upset of No. 3 seed New Mexico.

Wesley Saunders scored 18 points and Laurent Rivard made five 3-pointers to give 14th-seeded Harvard (20-9) its first tournament victory in only three measly trips.

"It's unbelievable," guard Christian Webster said. "We're still in disbelief. This is as good as it gets for us right now."

He had no doubt the scene at Harvard Square was as crazy as the one inside the Crimson locker room, where noise from Harvard's postgame celebration carried down through the concourse.

The Crimson put the clamps on New Mexico's Tony Snell, holding him to nine points on 4-of-12 shooting after he dominated in the Mountain West Conference tournament. They banged inside with Lobos big men Cameron Bairstow and Alex Kirk, whose 22 points provided New Mexico's only consistent offense.

Mostly, they showed none of the jitters that marked their trip to the tournament last year, a 79-70 loss to Vanderbilt in the Crimson's first NCAA appearance since 1946.

Rivard went 6 of 7 from 3-point range in that one — played on New Mexico's home court in The Pit — and was clearly pumped for an encore against the Lobos themselves. He was 5 of 9 this time, with three coming in the first half, while Harvard was holding a small lead and, more importantly, answering every surge the Lobos (29-6) could muster. Rivard finished with 17 points.

Next up for Harvard: a meeting with sixth-seeded Arizona.

In the other part of the West Region bracket, top-seeded Gonzaga got a scare from Southern before pulling out a 64-58 victory. The Zags will play No. 9 Wichita State, 73-55 winners over Pitt.

Gonzaga barely escaped to keep No. 1 seeds undefeated against No. 16s since the NCAA tournament field expanded to 64 teams in 1985.

That doesn't mean it was easy for the Zags, who ran into a No. 16 seed that wasn't playing like one.

Kelly Olynyk scored 17 of his 21 points in the second half to help the Zags (32-2) advance. Gonzaga iced the game with a pair of 3-pointers — one by Gary Bell Jr., the next by Kevin Pangos — that gave the Bulldogs their small cushion after Southern tied things at 56 with 3:45 left.

Gonzaga coach Mark Few was almost ready to jump on the Southern bandwagon.

"Everyone was so moved by their effort, their resilience, their confidence," Few said. "If I wasn't coaching on the other sideline, they'd be a tough team not to root for."

Derick Beltran made life particularly difficult on the West Coast Conference champions. He scored 21 points and blocked eight shots, while Southern made 10 3-pointers on the night.

Gonzaga's next opponent slowly pulled away from Pitt, ending the Panthers' season at 24-9.

Wichita State's Tekele Cotton did such a good job shutting down Pitt's leading scorer, Tray Woodall, that Woodall was in tears after the game. He managed only two points while the Shockers guard came up with five steals and a key 3-point basket.

At the news conference after the game, Woodall broke down and had to be comforted by teammate Dante Taylor, who wrapped an arm around his teammate's shoulder.

"It's a bitter taste in my mouth to end my career with one of the worst games I've ever played," said Woodall, who came into the game averaging 11.8 points. "I'm sorry. I let my team down."

Cotton, a 6-2 sophomore, hit his 3-pointer to start as 12-4 run and added a fast-break dunk to put the Shockers ahead 45-35 with 10:31 remaining. Woodall finished just 1 of 12 from the field, and 0 of 5 from 3-point range.

The game was a physical one, with players receiving an occasional elbow in the mouth or to the head.

Malcolm Armstead led Wichita State (27-8) with 22 points. Cleanthony Early added 21 and Carl Hall had 11. Freshman Steven Adams led Pitt with 13 points and 11 rebounds.

Harvard's next opponent, Arizona, beat 11th-seeded Belmont 81-64.

Arizona (26-7) had been knocked out of the Pac-12 Conference tournament by one Bruins team — UCLA — and these Bruins, from Nashville, Tenn., were a trendy pick to upset Sean Miller's sixth-seeded Wildcats in the NCAAs.

Instead, the Wildcats made a believer out of Belmont coach Rick Byrd. Mark Lyons scored 23 points and Arizona used its size to dominate from start to finish.

"I was more impressed with the team I saw tonight than I was scouting them," Byrd acknowledged afterward. "I thought they were more engaged and focused and I think if they play that way, they can beat a lot of people."

The thought was almost enough to wipe the smile from Crimson coach Tommy Amaker after Harvard's big win.

"Off the top of my head, I can't imagine any team being more talented than they are," Amaker said of Arizona. "I'm not sure they have any weaknesses based on size, the bodies they can play up front, the guards, and their quickness, making plays off the dribble."

The Wildcats held a 44-18 edge on the boards, outscored Belmont 36-18 in the paint, blocked five shots and outshot the Bruins from 3-point range. Arizona made nine of 17 3-pointers and shot 57 percent overall.

Solomon Hill ended up making as many 3s as Ian Clark, who entered the game shooting better than 46 percent for Belmont but was 3 of 8 from beyond the arc.

Golf thought of the week

Don't hide from hybrids.

Are you in hiding? Perhaps just a state of apprehension at the thought of giving up your longer (or even mid) irons for some hybrids? I sense a fair bit of this hybrid hesitation among golfers. I don't think it's necessary.

I do understand some wariness about new types of equipment. Remember when Woods became Metalwoods? That didn't end well for the old technology. But it ushered in a new era for the long game. Hybrids have been just as impactful — probably more so for your average golfer who struggles to hit the less lofted irons.

I think lots of club golfers persist with long Irons because they feel hybrids are a "soft option." That's fair enough, of course. If you can get results and enjoy the game with your long Irons, go for it. But if you struggle to get these clubs to launch the ball with any consistency — for whatever reason, and there are many — then why not give yourself a better chance with a hybrid? They'll get the ball airborne, they feel good and they offer new options from various locations on the course.

That said, some of you might well be at the stage where you could benefit from moving the other way - from hybrids to irons.

Either way, feel free to visit the Golf Shop to see what options we have for you. I'm happy to advise on what suits you and I'm available for lessons to get you hitting your clubs right.

'LADIES, SIGH NO MORE'

SUBMITTED

Boomtown Community Theatre is at it again.

It's newest production, "Ladies, Sigh No More" written by Thomas Hischak, is premiering Friday, March 29 and Saturday, March 30.

Imagine that several of Shakespeare's heroines have, after their tragic demises, wound up in an afterlife loony bin.

Here, with the help of the famous Dr. Wells, they get a second chance to correct the mistakes they chose in life which led to their deaths.

Lady Macbeth plays Monopoly with Juliet and shrewish Kate battles Cordelia at Trivial Pursuit. Ophelia cuts out paper flowers, and Desdemona sews handkerchiefs.

Who is the mysterious man who seems to be so interested in the fate of these ladies? Is this an Elizabethan ladies club, or a literary loony bin?

Only Dr. Wells seems to know for sure as she tries to help some of Shakespeare's heroines figure out their personal problems and bring closure to their theatrical lives.

When Juliet is asked to reenact her tragic story, matters get out of hand and all of the ladies are caught up in the act! The play is produced by special arrangement with Brooklyn Publishers, LLC.

Come and see some old faces and some new faces in this compelling comedy at BCT.

BCT is a dinner theater. Tickets for all shows are $18 per person. Ticket includes dinner and a live performance.

Doors open at 6 p.m., dinner is served at 6:30 p.m. and the show follows the dinner.

Call 806-273-2656 to make reservations at least one day early to assist the caterers.

Boomtown Community Theater is located at 407 N. Main St. in downtown Borger.
