Northern Star Saddlery celebrates 3 years in Pampa

By LINDSEY TOMASCHIK
 LKTomaschik@thepampanews.com

Northern Star Saddlery has been open in Pampa now for three years this month.

Since opening in 2012, store owner Carlos Gonzalez has provided the Pampa community with such products and services as boot and saddle repair, new boots and saddles, breast collars, reins, saddle pads and blankets and custom-made leather products, including wallets, knife and gun holsters, purses and belts, key chains and more. He also hand-makes all of the leather goods sold in the shop and saddles are 100 percent made in-house as well. He also does consignment sales out of the shop.

He runs the business with the help of his wife, Flor.

“She handles more of the customers while I’m in the back doing repairs,” Gonzalez said.

When asked about what his favorite part of doing business in Pampa is, Gonzalez said he enjoys the fact that he is able to give back to the community in which he was born and raised.

“I want to help keep the downtown business alive,” he said.

Gonzalez not only provides his services to the city of Pampa. He says he has experienced a lot of success by helping out people from surrounding towns who do not want to drive all the way to Amarillo for their repair needs.

“People come here from Canadian, Wheeler, Mobeetie, Miami and Perryton,” he said.

Although his work is his passion, Gonzalez knows first hand that there are challenges a business owner faces.

“The rise and fall of oil prices affects my business, too,” he said. “I do a lot of repairs on work boots for people who work in the oilfields, and if they’re not working, then their boots don’t need to be repaired. It affects me too.”

He also acknowledged that sometimes it is difficult to run a business in a small town, but he enjoys the fact that he saves his customers trips to Amarillo, where they would pay more for the needed repairs as well.

As far as the saddle repairs in the shop go, Gonzalez says Northern Star is a full repair and tack shop, where customers can come for all their repair needs. Based on the success he has experienced since opening the business, Gonzalez has begun looking into expansion.

In the future, Gonzalez would like to run a full-service boot and factory out of the shop, where he could make his own boots, saddles and, as he calls them, “shoots,” which are essentially a combination between a boot and a business shoe. These leather shoots have the boot stitching on the toe, but tie like a business shoe

After Mitt: A GOP message of incentives, sound money and growth

Mitt Romney showed once again that he is truly a class act. In his announcement that he will not be running for president in 2016, he stated, "I believe that one of our next generation of Republican leaders, one who may not be as well known as I am today, one who has not yet taken their message across the country, one who is just getting started, may well emerge as being better able to defeat the Democrat nominee."

LAWRENCE KUDLOW

This was unusual political humility. But let me highlight this specific phrase: "one who has not yet taken their message across the country." Message. If there's anything the GOP needs — besides a winner — it's a confident, incentive-based, pro-growth message. The party didn't have one last year, but it won the midterms thanks to President Obama's ineptness. That won't be enough in 2016. The fourth-quarter GDP report, just out, illustrates the importance of a growth message. GDP came in at a disappointing 2.6 percent, way below expectations. For the year, only 2.5 percent growth. For the 22 quarters of so-called economic recovery, real GDP has increased by a meager 2.3 percent annually. Historically, since World War II, we've grown by nearly 3.5 percent yearly. And according to experts, alarmingly low labor-force participation and sinking productivity has reduced America's potential to grow to well below 2 percent. This must be fixed. All is not lost. The job numbers are better and there's welcome relief from crumbling energy prices and a strong dollar. Consumer confidence has improved. Our resilient free-market economy is trying to plow ahead. But my guess is this: If the economy were unshackled of rising taxes and regulations, and if there was a new long-run commitment to sound money and free trade, we could unleash a new American prosperity. Negativism would turn into optimism, and America's global leadership position would be restored. Unfortunately, while Romney was great at rescuing companies, he ran a poor political campaign. There was no clear growth message. As John Tamny reminds in a recent column, Obamacare was modeled on Romneycare; Romney talked of a trade war with China, throwing off strong signals of a weaker dollar; Romney never made clear how he would limit government spending; and while he had a reasonably good tax-cut plan, he rarely discussed it. Ultimately, Romney's highly flawed message was unpersuasive to voters. Now, the 2016 GOP candidate must have a strong growth message. Somebody on the campaign trail should also talk about money. New York Sun editor Seth Lipsky points out that the GOP platform last time around called for a monetary commission to look at a metallic standard, yet Romney never mentioned sound money. The Fed ran completely amok with its QE program. It ballooned its balance sheet by more than $4 trillion, yet there was no sustainable pickup in real or nominal GDP. Actually, this monetarist failure was a good thing: If the turnover, or velocity, of money had been stable, instead of crashing, today's inflation rate would be 15 percent rather than practically zero.

Tips, Tricks and Advice Valentines Day edition

Valentines Day is just around the corner. Don't get stuck in the rut of expecting flowers and candy or dinner and a movie. It's Valentines Day, so spice it up, make it your own and take the commercialism out of the holiday.

Tips
If you are planning to make your sweetheart a chocolate cake this Valentines. Make it decadent by replacing the water measurement with a strong cup of coffee. The coffee will bring out the cocoa flavor giving it an extra punch! (Be sure to let the coffee cool first. I make mine in the morning and let it stand until the afternoon).

Tricks
Add a little romance in the bedroom by adding a few drops of your favorite scented oil to dryer sheets before you toss in your wet linens.
Advice
Valentines is one of the busiest nights for restaurants and movie theaters. So, unless you have reservations or enjoy long waits, then consider dinner for two at home. Watch a romantic classic, make dinner together, try a new wine or, for the adventurous types, play a game of truth or dare. Singles: Invite all your other single friends out or over for a "Down With Cupid" themed mixer. Encourage everyone to bring a guest. The more the merrier. You never know when Cupid will strike....

Rupert is right

Mitt Romney and his allies are not very pleased with media magnate Rupert Murdoch, who this week said out loud what most political pros have been stewing about for years: Romney was a "terrible candidate." The Wall Street Journal, part of Murdoch's News Corporation, called his campaign a "calamity," which seems to me to be about right, but seemed to Romney's allies both unfair and inaccurate. Ron Kaufman, a long-time Romney ally, went so far as to label Murdoch politically "tone deaf" and compared his statements to outbursts by the far more theatrical Donald Trump, telling The New York Times that "it's like trying to make sense of what Trump does."

Full disclosure: I've been a contributor to Fox News for many years. But it's not because I agree with the political views of Murdoch or Fox News Chief Roger Ailes. Quite the contrary. I once told Roger that he and I probably disagree about everything except our love for our country, our commitment to our children and our belief in loyalty — what matters most. I'm a Democrat. I'm a strong supporter of Hillary Clinton and have been for decades. I would love to see the Republicans nominate Romney again and watch Hillary clean his clock. But really, is Romney the best the Republicans can do?

From all I know, Romney is a fine man, a dedicated husband and father, and an extremely successful businessman. But being a fine man does not make you a fine candidate. Success in politics requires more than that. It requires the ability to communicate effectively with people who don't have friends who own NASCAR teams (one of Romney's famous misstatements). It requires the ability to address complex issues in ways that are not only consistent (Romney was well known for his total flip-flops on abortion and gay rights issues), but also sensible, something Romney's proposed answer to the immigration issue — "self-deportation" — was definitely not.

John Kennedy made a failed attempt to get on the ticket in 1956 before winning the top spot in 1960. Ronald Reagan was defeated by Gerald Ford the first time he sought the nomination of his party, but of course came back to get elected in 1980. George Bush

Among Cold War presidents, from Truman to Bush I, there was an unwritten rule: Do not challenge Moscow in its Central and Eastern Europe sphere of influence. In crises over Berlin in 1948 and 1961, the Hungarian Revolution in 1956 and the Warsaw Pact invasion of Prague in 1968, U.S. forces in Europe stayed in their barracks.

We saw the Elbe as Moscow's red line, and they saw it as ours. While Reagan sent weapons to anti-Communist rebels in Angola, Nicaragua and Afghanistan, to the heroic Poles of Gdansk he sent only mimeograph machines.

That Cold War caution and prudence may be at an end. For President Obama is being goaded by Congress and the liberal interventionists in his party to send lethal weaponry to Kiev in its civil war with pro-Russian rebels in Donetsk and Luhansk.

That war has already cost 5,000 lives — soldiers, rebels, civilians. September's cease-fire in Minsk has broken down. The rebels have lately seized 200 added square miles, and directed artillery fire at Mariupol, a Black Sea port between Donetsk and Luhansk and Crimea. Late last year, Congress sent Obama a bill authorizing lethal aid to Kiev. He signed it. Now the New York Times reports that NATO Commander Gen. Philip Breedlove favors military aid to Ukraine, as does Defense Secretary Chuck Hagel. John Kerry and Gen. Martin Dempsey of the joint chiefs are said to be open to the idea. A panel of eight former national security officials, chaired by Michele Flournoy, a potential Defense Secretary in a Hillary Clinton administration, has called for the U.S. to provide $3 billion in military aid to Ukraine, including anti-tank missiles, reconnaissance drones, Humvees, and radar to locate the sources of artillery and missile fire.

Such an arms package would guarantee an escalation of the war, put the United States squarely in the middle, and force Vladimir Putin's hand. Thus far, despite evidence of Russian advisers in Ukraine and claims of Russian tank presence, Putin denies that he has intervened. But if U.S. cargo planes start arriving in Kiev with Javelin anti-tank missiles, Putin would face several choices. He could back down, abandon the rebels, and be seen as a bully who, despite his bluster, does not stand up for Russians everywhere. More in character, he could take U.S. intervention as a challenge and send in armor and artillery to enable the rebels to consolidate their gains, then warn Kiev that, rather than see the rebels routed, Moscow will intervene militarily. Or Putin could order in the Russian army before U.S. weapons arrive, capture Mariupol, establish a land bridge to Crimea, and then tell Kiev he is ready to negotiate. What would we do then? Send U.S. advisers to fight alongside the Ukrainians, as the war escalates and the casualties mount? Send U.S. warships into the Black Sea? Have we thought this through, as we did not think through what would happen if we brought down Saddam, Gadhafi and Mubarak? America has never had a vital interest in Crimea or the Donbass worth risking a military clash with Russia. And we do not have the military ability to intervene and drive out the Russian army, unless we are prepared for a larger war and the potential devastation of the Ukraine. What would Eisenhower, Kennedy, Nixon or Reagan think of an American president willing to risk military conflict with a nuclear-armed Russia over two provinces in southeastern Ukraine that Moscow had ruled from the time of Catherine the Great? What is happening in Ukraine is a tragedy and a disaster. And we are in part responsible, having egged on the Maidan coup that overthrew the elected pro-Russian government. But a greater disaster looms if we get ourselves embroiled in Ukraine's civil war. We would face, first, the near certainty of defeat for our allies, if not ourselves. Second, we would push Moscow further outside Europe and the West, leaving her with no alternative but to deepen ties to a rising China. Given the economic crisis in Russia and the basket case Ukraine is already, how do we think a larger and wider war would leave both nations? Alarmists say we cannot let Putin's annexation of Crimea stand. We cannot let Luhansk and Donetsk become a pro-Russian enclave in Ukraine, like Abkhazia, South Ossetia or the Transnistria republic. But no one ever thought these enclaves that emerged from the ethnic decomposition of the Soviet Union were worth a conflict with Russia. When did Luhansk and Donetsk become so? Rather than becoming a co-belligerent in this civil war that is not our war, why not have the United States assume the role of the honest broker who brings it to an end. Isn't that how real peace prizes are won?

(the senior) lost to Reagan in the 1980 nominating contest, but came back in 1988 to win one term.

Running for president is a lot harder than it looks, and many candidates have a tough time of it in their first go-round (think Al Gore in 1988).

But Romney hasn't had just one chance. If he runs again, it will be his third effort at the top spot. If the first run is the rehearsal for the big show, and then you fall flat in the big show, what is it that makes you more qualified or more electable the third time around? Write to me and tell me if I'm wrong, but I'm having a hard time thinking of any candidate, at least in modern times, who succeeded on the third go-round.

Where does that leave the race for president? With two candidates who enjoy widespread name recognition — Hillary Clinton and Jeb Bush — and a slew of actual or potential candidates whose biggest problem is not that no one has heard of them, but that when they do, they will be seen as hard-core ideologues (who tend to do well in primaries but not so well in general elections). It was only after losing in 1980, 1984 and 1988 that Democrats, even the old ideologues like me, were willing to nominate a self-described moderate from Arkansas. Maybe the Republicans' problem is that they just haven't lost enough national elections to reexamine their own positions.

So who will be our candidates on Election Day in 2016? Two years is a lifetime in politics. Everything can change. But if I had to guess today, I'd say we may well be faced with a historic run between the wife of one president and the son and brother of another. Clinton v. Bush. Kind of makes me feel young again.

should state a desire for the Fed to return to a market-based discipline using gold, commodities, dollar-exchange value and bond-market indicators. Contrary to conventional wisdom, the King Dollar comeback, along with falling energy prices, has not only delivered a tax-cut effect to consumers, it's reduced all business production costs, making the economy more competitive. GOP candidates should not be afraid to talk sound money. It's pro-growth.

They also must focus laser-like on the importance of incentives to grow the economy. For instance, rather than propose spending roughly $1.6 trillion on child tax credits (according to the Tax Policy Center), Senator Marco Rubio, an otherwise sound thinker, would be better advised to propose a flattening of marginal tax rates to perhaps 15 and 28 percent. This would give everyone in the middle class larger tax savings and stronger incentives to keep more of the extra dollar they earn.

President Obama doesn't understand that taxing capital is a negative for new businesses, jobs, incomes and family spending. But Republicans should make damn sure they have a completely different vision.

And the GOP must recognize it can't outbid the Democrats on lower- or middle-class benefits. Instead, they can talk incentives: If it pays more to work than to collect food stamps, or unemployment insurance, more people will work. The incentive model carries over to education and health care, where choice should be maximized. And Romney is right about this: Marriage is a key answer to poverty.

We're about a year away from the first Republican primaries. The GOP has a solid bench. But the wannabes must get cracking on the central growth message of incentives, freedom of choice and sound money to unleash a new wave of American prosperity.

Pampa Lady Harvester soccer rolls Palo Duro 5-0

STAFF REPORT

Tuesday night Pampa played Palo Duro at home. The JV girls lost 2-0 and Varsity won 5-0. Varsity girls have shown great improvement within the past two weeks. They continue to move to space and shoot every opportunity they get. Lastnight we manage to score three goals within the first 10 minutes of the game. Sophomore Lauren Littlefield scored first off a pass from senior Taylor Bolton. The second goal was from senior Olga Garcia off a free kick from 26 yards out. Sophomore Ariel Cambern scored the third in the first half off a pass from Littlefield. The first half motivated the girls to keep the momentum and score another two goals within the first 10 minutes of the second half. Senior Karoley Villareal scored off a pass from Sr. Taylor Bolton, and the fifth goal was scored by sophomore Littlefield off a pass from senior Taylor Bolton. "Our defense did a tremendous job keeping them scoreless. One thing we have been working since day one is containment and to steal the ball off passes and bad traps," head coach Hugo Aguillon said. "This is now our fourth shutout this season. We will continue to work hard to be ready for District on March 7 and 14."

DAILY Horoscope

A baby born today has a Sun in Aquarius and a Moon in Virgo if born before 10:44 a.m. (PST). Afterward, the Moon will be in Libra.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Saturday, Feb. 7, 2015:

This year you might be unusually lucky with others. You could expand your immediate circle of friends and add to the power of your career by networking. How you handle a needy friend will depend on how much you value this bond. Often, you might make emotional situations much more difficult than they need to be. Other times, you seem to clam up and refuse to discuss anything. Try to open up to a more neutral mindset. If you are single, a commitment is likely because of someone you meet this year. If you are attached, the two of you have a deep friendship as well as a romantic tie. Sometimes you are overly cautious when expressing your feelings. Work on better communication. LIBRA is a sensitive listener.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
★★★★ After recent stress and demands, you'll appreciate a day where conversations are possible without strong reactions. An emotional or financial matter requires further discussion. Up to now, this seems to have been a volatile issue. Clear the air. Tonight: A long-overdue chat.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
★★★ You might be full of energy. You could be focused on finishing a project or on spending a fun afternoon with a child. You need the relaxation of not pushing yourself so hard. Try to make the most of company. Tonight: Just keep it light and easy.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
★★★★ Getting started might be difficult, but by midday there will be so much interest around you that your energy will soar. A loved one delights in your enthusiasm and feedback. Feel free to be distracted. Others will understand; they are, too! Tonight: Act like a teenager again.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
★★★★ Enjoy being home and doing what you want. True to form, you will make a special meal and invite others over. A loved one might need some extra time to accomplish what he or she needs to do. Be willing to help out. Tonight: The only place to be is around you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
★★★★ Return calls in the morning. You might want to catch up with a friend or family member to hear what he or she has to share.

You could be more uptight than you normally are. Make sure to squeeze in some physical exercise at some point this afternoon. Tonight: Keep it intimate.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
★★★★ You could be taken aback by a financial matter. Whether you are doing your taxes or balancing your budget, you might feel a little put off. Don't take out your mood on others, specifically your family. A loved one will try to test your limits. Tonight: Pick up the tab.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
★★★★ You could be taken aback by someone's reaction. You might have believed that you were having an open conversation, but the response you get will let you know otherwise. Be smart, and don't push so hard. Decide to order in or make a fun meal. Tonight: Whatever you want.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
★★★ Use the morning to the max. You will enjoy being around others, whether you are at the gym or out for brunch. By the afternoon, you might want to cocoon and snuggle in bed. Follow through on this need; otherwise, you could be out of sorts. Tonight: Not to be found.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
★★★★ Take care of a responsibility or a need to drop by the office in the morning. By the afternoon, spontaneous plans could bring you and several friends together. The sense of camaraderie will make you smile and relax. Tonight: Where the crowds are.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
★★★ You'll want to use the morning for a personal matter, or just to relax and read. Later in the day, you could be coerced into shouldering someone else's responsibility. You might not be saying what you think, and others will be able to tell. Tonight: Liberate yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
★★★★ You could feel disappointed when you touch base with a friend. Adapt your plans accordingly. Your instincts will guide you through a difficult discussion. Detach, and you will understand a lot more. Let go of a need to be controlling. Tonight: Be entertained.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
★★★★ Adjust your plans with a loved one. You could have a great day going to a game together or sharing a favorite hobby or pastime. A friend could do a reversal that could be upsetting. Let it go. Don't make any assumptions right now. Tonight: Your choice.

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: I am a widower in my mid-80s and have met a lovely widow, "Diane," also in her 80s. What started as a "let's do lunch" friendship has developed into a close, affectionate relationship. Neither of us wants to take this to the next level, but we do want to spend as much time together as we can in the years left to us. We have a very active social life with friends and with Diane's family who live in the same town.

My daughters, who live in another city and rarely visit, profess to like her and say they are happy that I have someone in my life. But they have asked that I be sensitive to their feelings of loss for my late wife, who died four years ago. They don't want me to share what we do and where we go, which is hard when Diane is such a part of my life.

My problem is Diane and I want to spend a weekend in the city in which my children live to attend the theater. We will be sharing a hotel room. Do we tell them our plans and that we would like to see them while there, or not? Diane isn't comfortable going behind their backs, but she also doesn't want to cause a rift in my family. Neither do I. What would you advise? — UNCERTAIN IN MARYLAND

DEAR UNCERTAIN: Your daughters have told you they don't want you to share what you do with your lady friend and where you go, and I am advising you to abide by their wishes. If word should get back to them that you were in town and they ask about it, be honest and don't lie. And please, live every moment of your life to the fullest in the time God allows, and don't permit your family to diminish one minute of it.

DEAR ABBY: My older sister and I are very close to our "Aunt Lil." She has always jokingly told us we are "her children, too" because she never had any of her own and was active in our lives growing up.

Aunt Lil is in her late 60s and in declining health. Now single, she smokes two packs of cigarettes a day, but counts it only as one because they are slims. She also has high blood pressure, high cholesterol, etc.

The other day, while visiting with my mom, Aunt Lil started complaining about getting older and said how thankful she is to have my sister and me to take care of her when she's too old to take care of herself. The two of us gave each other the "Not me ... you!" look.

While we love her dearly, when the time comes, Aunt Lil will be off to a nursing home or have private home health care. Should we approach this with her now or wait and blindside her if/when it becomes an issue? — CAREFUL PLANNING IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR CAREFUL PLANNING: Having been so close to you and your sister since you were children, I can understand why Aunt Lil might have expected some kindness in return. However, because the two of you aren't up to the task, she should be told now. It may provide an incentive for her to take better care of her health. Even if it doesn't, it may spur her to think about her assets and planning for her care or supervision should she need it in the future. Because you don't want the bother, suggest she involve another trusted family member or a social worker to watch out for her if she's no longer competent to manage her affairs.

Talabartería Estrella Del Norte celebra 3 años en Pampa

POR LINDSEY TOMASCHIK
 LKTomaschik@thepampanews.com

Talabartería Estrella Del Norte ha estado abierto en Pampa ahora por tres años este mes.

Desde que abrió en 2012, dueño de la tienda Carlos González ha ofrecido a la comunidad Pampa con dichos productos y servicios como arranque y reparación de sillas de montar y botas, botas montaduras nuevas, riendas, mantillas y mantas y productos de cuero hechos a la medida, incluyendo carteras, bolsas y cintos, llaveros y más. También a mano hace que todos los artículos de cuero que se venden en la tienda y sillas de montar son 100 por ciento hecho en casa también. Él hace ventas de consignación fuera de la tienda.

El dirige el negocio con la ayuda de su esposa, Flor.

“Ella maneja más de los clientes mientras estoy en la parte de atrás haciendo reparaciones,” dijo González.

Cuando se le preguntó acerca de lo que su parte favorita de hacer negocios en Pampa es, González dijo que disfruta el hecho de que él es capaz de devolver a la comunidad en la que nació y se crió.

“Quiero ayudar a mantener el negocio en el centro de Pampa,” dijo.

González no sólo ofrece sus servicios a la ciudad de Pampa. Dice que ha tenido mucho éxito ayudando a la gente de los pueblos de los alrededores que no desean conducir todo el camino a Amarillo para sus necesidades de reparación.

“La gente viene aquí desde Canadian, Wheeler, Mobeetie, Miami y Perryton,” dijo.

Aunque su trabajo es su pasión, González sabe de primera mano que hay desafíos que como propietario hay que enfrentar.

“El ascenso y la caída de los precios del petróleo afecta a mi negocio, también,” dijo. “Hago un montón de reparaciones en botas de trabajo para las personas que trabajan en los campos petroleros, y si no están trabajando, entonces sus botas no necesitan ser reparadas. Me afecta demasiado.”

También reconoció que a veces es difícil de manejar un negocio en un pueblo pequeño, pero disfruta el hecho de que él salva viajes para sus clientes a Amarillo, donde podrían pagar más por las reparaciones necesarias también.

En cuanto a las reparaciones de sillas de montar en la tienda González dice Northern Star es una tienda de reparación y tachuela completa, donde los clientes pueden venir para a todas sus necesidades de reparación. Basado en el éxito que ha tenido desde que abrió el negocio, González ha comenzado a buscar en expansión.

En el futuro, a González le gustaría ejecutar un arranque de servicio completo y la fábrica fuera de la tienda, donde podrá hacer sus propias botas, sillas de montar y, como él los llama, “brotos,” que son esencialmente una combinación entre una bota y un zapato de negocios. Estos brotes de cuero tienen la costura de botas en el dedo del pie, pero empatan como un zapato de negocios y sólo llegan hasta el tobillo.

También eventualmente gustaría contratar un barbero pues ya tiene la silla de arranque brillante. La idea sería que la gente a entrar, para tomar una taza de café y leer el periódico, a continuación, obtener un corte de pelo o afeitarse y tienen sus botas brilló.

Talabartería Estrella Del Norte está ubicada en 107 N. Cuyler y está abierto 09 a.m.-5 p.m. de lunes a viernes y de 9 a.m.-3 p.m. los sábados.

Castaneda, uno de los nuevos bomberos de Pampa

POR LINDSEY TOMASCHIK
 LKTomaschik@thepampanews.com

Martin G. Castaneda, es uno de dos de los nuevos bomberos en el departamento de Pampa.

Originario de Wellington, Castaneda dijo que ha tenido interés en el servicio de bomberos desde que era joven.

“Cuando era pequeño, mi padre se unió a un departamento de voluntarios, y yo realmente disfrute de la camaradería que viene con los bomberos que lo acompañaban,” dijo.

Agregó que en formar parte del departamento, sentía que estaba cumpliendo una vocación. Castaneda, quien ha estado con El Departamento de Bomberos de Pampa desde el 22 de diciembre, siempre ha disfrutado de ayudar a otras personas, por lo que convertirse en un bombero ha sido una buena opción para él, ya que es algo que ahora llega a hacer cada vez que está en turno.

Cuando se le preguntó cuál era su parte favorita de su trabajo ha sido hasta ahora, Castaneda dice que disfrutó de la cálida bienvenida que recibió de todos en el departamento.

Aunque la lucha contra incendios es algo que le ha interesado desde que era un niño, Castaneda se da cuenta de que el trabajo no es todo diversión y juegos.

“El mayor desafío está tratando de no dejar que las tragedias le lleguen a usted,” dijo. “Sólo apaga sus emociones para hacer el trabajo.”

Castaneda, miembro de turno del departamento B, ve a sí mismo trabajando para el departamento durante muchos años por venir y ya disfruta de ser un miembro del ambiente familiar proporcionada por su carrera elegida.

En cuanto a sus planes y metas para el futuro, él dice que sólo quiere seguir mejorando y ser el mejor bombero posible.

“Quiero centrarme en ser el mejor activo que puedo ser”, dijo.

Cuando no está de guardia en la estación de bomberos, Castaneda dice que le gusta tocar la guitarra, salir con su familia y amigos y hacer ejercicio.

Las Noticias de Pampa le da la bienvenida formalmente a Martín a Pampa y le desea suerte en la promoción de su carrera con el Departamento de Bomberos de Pampa.

chasis y todos los deberes de un taller de carrocería típica hace”, dijo Terry Hull, gerente de taller de carrocería. “Nosotros nos encargamos de las preocupaciones de garantía con Ford, GM y Toyota. “En las áreas de no-colisión proporcionamos pin-rayas y detallando de fuera como pulido y abrillantado. Trabajamos en cualquier marca y modelo “.

Todo el mundo es I-Car y BASF certificado que significa que tienen que tomar clases especiales que se ofrecen en las noches y fines de semana por lo que son una posición calificada.

El taller de carrocería emplea a siete personas. Hull dijo que la parte difícil de la industria de la tienda de cuerpo es el tiempo de reparación.

“El tiempo de ciclo y la duración de la reparación y la disponibilidad de piezas hace que sea difícil”, dijo Hull. “Pero todos los trabajos de reparación de colisiones es diferente en su propia manera única.”

Pero Hull y su personal se enorgullece de tener los vehículos en la carretera.

Hull ha estado trabajando en el taller de carrocería desde agosto de 2006, pero ha estado en la industria desde finales de 1980.

Hull dijo que la industria ha cambiado en más lugares que sólo el diseño de los vehículos.

“Se han ido más téc-nico, más computarizado con sensores y módulos”, dijo Hull. “Han empezado a utilizar el aluminio en la estructura del vehículo y el parabrisas es parte del vehículo en estos días.”

Hill dijo que estos cambios hacen para un mejor estado porque se sueldan entre sí con piezas más pequeñas diseñadas para colapsar durante una colisión.

Ahora usted puede sustituir muchas de las piezas más pequeñas en lugar de un extremo frontal entero.

Casco dijo que su vehículo favorito de reparación es el front-end de una camioneta GM porque es la reparación más rápida de flujo.

Pampa EDC tendrá un consultor de negocios chicos semanalmente

jlee@thepampanews.com

Como muchas cosas en la vida, a veces el primer paso para iniciar un nuevo negocio es siempre el más difícil. Hay tantas preguntas que entran en juego. ¿Es mi idea es una buena idea? ¿Cuáles son los efectos a corto plazo? ¿Cuáles son los efectos a largo plazo? ¿Ayudará o hara mas dano económicamente?

La Corporación de Desarrollo Económico de Pampa ahora tiene un contrato con Emprendedor Líder del Grupo de Desarrollo (EDG, pronunciado como “borde”) para un esfuerzo conjunto para hacer crecer a la comunidad empresarial de Pampa a través de consejería uno-a-uno.

“Son reuniones uno-a-uno con los individuos, programadas individualmente”, dijo Spencer McElhannon de Leading EDG. “Nosotros les programamos alrededor del horario del cliente para que pueda reunirse con clientes de después de 5 p.m. si tienen un día de trabajo y están buscando para iniciar un negocio.

McElhannon está en Pampa todos los miércoles para reunirse con clientes y discutir cualquier cosa que puedan necesitar para discutir relacionados con el inicio de un negocio.

Los clientes le dicen a McElhannon su idea de negocio y después de aproximadamente una hora a una hora y media de debate, McElhannon y el cliente se van a plantear con un plan de juego.

“La mayor parte del tiempo estoy ayudando a gente a poner juntos los planes de negocios para la creación de empresas”, dijo McElhannon. “Tengo modelos de computadora que pueda tomar. Las proyecciones de ventas y gastos, y entonces podemos construir un modelo financiero para que puedan decidir si procede o no el negocio hace ya “.

McElhannon ha visto alrededor de 200 personas en Pampa en los últimos cinco años y de 10 a 20 por ciento de ellos han iniciado un negocio. McElhannon todavía tiene una relación con los clientes y está ayudando a llegar al “siguiente nivel” en su negocio.

McElhannon dijo muchas de las veces los clientes no se pueden iniciar un negocio es debido a problemas financieros, pero él les ayudará guiándolos sobre la manera de mejorar su crédito.

“Sólo porque no iniciar no significa que la relación termina.” dijo McElhannon. “Si alguien quiere empezar algo que van a seguir buscando hasta que encuentran algo que funciona, y eso es lo que yo estoy aquí para hacer.”

Ha habido varias empresas de aquí en Pampa que han sido comprados y vendidos. Algunos empezaron de la nada y su ahora un pequeño negocio minorista. Hay un puñado de empresas que estaban luchando con las ventas y conseguir un flujo de caja que han ido creciendo mejor ahora gracias a sus consultas.

El objetivo de las consultas es guiar a los propietarios de pequeñas empresas o propietarios potenciales a través de las primeras etapas de la gestión de una empresa. Los dueños de negocios actuales pueden utilizar sus servicios, así si se encuentran en un momento de calma en que hay negocio.

McElhannon es él mismo un empresario y ha poseído negocios por más de 30 años. Él tiene experiencia real en el funcionamiento de un negocio no sólo académicos. Una de sus empresas incluye la EDG líder que trabaja con pequeñas empresas, así como la A & M de Enterprise Center West Texas, que se hace llamar un “Vivero de Empresas”.

La Pampa EDC anima a aquellos que están interesados en iniciar un negocio para contactar McElhannon para tomar ventaja de sus servicios. No hay ningún costo y los dueños de negocios potenciales le puede ver todo lo que necesitan.

Pampa recordó a las llamadas de la estafa del IRS

INFORME DEL PERSONAL

A medida que los calendarios se vuelven a febrero, la temporada de impuestos está calentando a medida que las esperas en tu aumento preparador de impuestos preferido. Desafortunadamente esto también abre la puerta para que los estafadores para llamar y tratar de engañar a los contribuyentes a pagar más de lo que deberían.

Los residentes locales han recibido llamadas personificando Servicio de Impuestos Internos. Las llamadas telefónicas son en realidad un mensaje generado por ordenador. El mensaje que le dice que usted le debe al IRS, pero no le dice cuánto. Luego piden que llame a 207-291-2911 y pagar el monto adeudado con una tarjeta de crédito.

De acuerdo con un contador local, el IRS se comunicará con usted por correo si usted le debe dinero. Si usted no responde en 30 días a continuación, recibirá una carta certificada. Si después de 30 días adicionales no responde entonces alguien de una oficina del IRS vendrá a su casa. El IRS no hace contacto con alguien por teléfono o exigir el pago inmediato con tarjeta de crédito.

Departamento de Policía de Pampa sólo tiene conocimiento de una llamada IRS recientemente, pero es consciente de múltiples estafas en los últimos meses.

“La primera es una estafa Publishers Clearing House. En éste, la persona que llama dice que están en la ciudad y están dispuestos a entregar su cheque por varios millones de dólares. Incluso te ofrecen una descripción de su casa y los coches, que se cree que se han obtenido de Google Maps, para hacerle creer la historia. A continuación, se le pedirá a la transferencia de alambre alrededor de $ 800 a ellos para cubrir los impuestos y tasas, que se tiene que hacer antes de que se les muestra en su puerta para entregar el cheque. La próxima estafa consiste en una llamada de alguien que dice ser con el IRS, que indica que usted debe dinero en impuestos atrasados. A continuación, te exigen para la transferencia de dinero de forma inmediata o se enfrentan a ser arrestado.

Y la última estafa es un cheque por varios miles de dólares que llega a usted de forma inesperada en el correo. El cheque viene con instrucciones para hacerlo efectivo, mantener una cierta cantidad, y luego enviar la balanza a otra persona a través de transferencia bancaria”, dijo el Departamento de Policía de Pampa en un comunicado de prensa.

“En cada uno de ellos, se verá una cosa en común. ‘Transferencia bancaria’. Cuando se trata de determinar si una llamada o pieza de correo es una estafa o no, que le recomendamos que se mantenga alejado de cualquier cosa que usted necesita para enviar un cable de transferencia a otra. Si bien hay razones legítimas para usar este método de envío de dinero, la falta de poder rastrear la transferencia hace muy propensos a actividades delictivas como estafas. También te recordamos que si algo parece demasiado bueno para ser verdad, entonces lo más probable es algo que usted no quiere ninguna parte. En el caso de la táctica de miedo estafas como la estafa del IRS, o la estafa Xcel Energy desde hace varias semanas, simplemente cuelgue y llame al número de teléfono que aparece la empresa / agencia para preguntar acerca de la materia sí mismo. No se sienta presionado para que les diera dinero o información personal sin primero tomar el tiempo para verificar que son quienes dicen que son, y que tienen un propósito legítimo o una razón para obtener eso de ti”.

Lady Harvesters dominan a Palo Duro en futbol 5-0

INFORME DEL PERSONAL

El Martes por la noche Pampa jugó contra Palo Duro en casa. Las chicas JV perdieron 2-0 y Varsity ganó 5-0.

Muchachas del equipo varsity han mostrado una gran mejoría en las últimas dos semanas. Ellas continúan moviéndose en el espacio y disparar en todas las oportunidades que reciben. El Martes por la noche logramos marcar tres goles en los primeros 10 minutos del partido.

Estudiante de segundo año Lauren Littlefield anotó primero con un pase desde la senior Taylor Bolton. El segundo objetivo era de la senior Olga García en un tiro libre desde 26 yardas de distancia.

Sophomore Ariel Cambern anotó el tercero en la primera mitad con un pase de Littlefield.

La primera mitad motivo a las muchachas a mantener el impulso y marcar otros dos goles en los primeros 10 minutos de la segunda mitad.

Senior Karoley Villarreal anotó un pase desde la senior Taylor Bolton, y el quinto gol fue anotado por estudiante de segundo año Littlefield un pase desde la senior Taylor Bolton.

“Nuestra defensa hizo un trabajo tremendo manteniendolos sin goles. Una cosa en que hemos estado trabajando desde el primer día es la contención y para robar la pelota pases y malas trampas”, dijo el entrenador en jefe Hugo Aguillon. “Esta es ahora nuestra cuarta blanqueada de la temporada. Vamos a seguir trabajando duro para estar listos para el Distrito el 7 y 14 de marzo”
