Helping Stop Runstedt Was a Side-Show—

S-Sgt. Joe E. Miller Returns After Completing 35 Missions

"Lady Luck" rode the sky-ways with Staff Sergeant Joe E. Miller and his crew as they flew 35 operational missions over Germany and German-held territory. Not a member of his nine-man crew received a scratch as they flew their Flying Fortress "Topper" over most of Europe.

Sergeant Miller returned Friday after chalking up around 245 combat hours as a turret ball gunner on a B-17. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Miller of Memphis.

He was awarded the Air Medal with five Bronze Oak Leaf Clusters, and has two battle stars representing two major battles. Sergeant Miller entered the Army Dec. 11, 1943, and went through the induction center at Fort Sill, Okla. He received his basic training at Sheppard Field, Wichita Falls, and was sent to Kingman, Ariz., for basic gunnery. At Pyote, Texas, he was given his replacement R. T. U. training, and here his combat team was formed. When he went overseas his crew flew a bomber to England, arriving August 29, 1944.

In England he had two more weeks of gunnery, and flew his first mission Sept. 21, 1945. As a member of the 379th Bomb Group in the 1st Bombardment Div., 8th Air Force, Sergeant Miller flew over Czechoslovakia, Belgium, France, Holland, Denmark, and Germany.

One of the highlights of his battle experiences was helping to stop Von Runstedt's drive into Belgium in December. During one day of this break-through, the 8th Air Force sent 2,034 bombers and fighters into the air. Miller's crew did tactical bombing of communications behind the German army.

One of the impossibles which Sergeant Miller and his crew went through, was riding the "Topper" back from Merseburg, Germany, with two engines shot out.

"We were flying 'Tail-End Charlie' that day—that is, we were at the tail end of the formation," Miller said. "The Germans were filling the sky with flak, and our ship received plenty of it. We received a direct hit, and fell out of formation, dropp-

Lumberman Says He Can't... Birch Says He Can

Already causing comment in the coming Birch, the Master Magician Show, which the Lions Club is sponsoring, is a large packing box and a sign. A local lumber company said they could build a box the magician could not get out of—and the sign says that Birch, The Magician, accepts the challenge.

The public will know the answer when they attend the show at the high school auditorium Wednesday, March 14. Tickets are now on sale, and can be purchased from any member of the sponsoring club. A large per cent of the revenue from this most spectacular show of illusions will remain in the treasury of the Lions Club. It will be placed in their community fund and will be used here on worthwhile activities.

"Make a date now to attend Birch's show," members of the club said. "Remember this show has five tons of elaborate equipment and a decaney. It is a two-hour performance and there won't be a dull moment, and if you do not believe the hand is quicker than the eye just watch carefully and try to explain the whys and wherefores of disappearing objects—yes, even a live pony. It's a great show. Don't miss it. Remember the date—Mar. 14, at 8 o'clock."

AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION

It now seems certain that half a dozen or more constitutional amendments will go to Texas voters at an off-year election, August 25, of this year.
The proposals, it appears, will include exemption of those in armed forces from poll tax payment, possibly permission for the university and A&M College to provide for their postwar building programs in time; increase of legislative pay; raising the limit of old-age assistance from $30 to $40, to take advantage of terms of federal law; increasing the supreme court to nine members, abolition of the office of constable, authorizing a retirement system for all state employees; and possibly an 18-year-old voting provision, along with other resolutions in process of committee review or pending action in this legislature.
Several of the measures definitely have such vote-getting power that they will make the election highly favorable for the passage of any and all amendments that may be on the August ballot.
This fact, together with recognition that any particularly unpopular proposal would cut into the support of others and jeopardize some of them, will prompt the legislature, it is evident, to be cautious in the submission of amendment proposals.
Voter reaction to constitutional amendments usually is unpredictable. At times the cry "agin' them all" has slaughtered good amendments along with indifferent proposals. At other times, the people seem disposed to accept any suggested change that comes along. The outcome of votes on close amendments is affected by the choice of an election date, and whether it is at the general election, or a primary.
In general, the voters do not pay very much attention to constitutional amendments. Usually, they are abstract, and unrelated to personalities, and often involve no sort of issue to arouse attention or interest.
The most far-reaching amendment adopted in recent time, that under which the present legislature is operating for the state's first trial of its terms, is the "pay as you go" proposal that appropriations are not valid unless the comptroller certifies the money is on hand or in sight. This, apparently unpopular when submitted, squeezed through by a narrow margin, while all other constitutional proposals on the ballot with it were rejected.

Amendments usually are such that there is no definite or organized opposition. Frequently enough, there is organized support, such as for instance, that for the increase in old-age assistance now, as in the case of the original proposals for old-age pensions and the other benefits of the social security program.
Support for the pension matters on this year's ballot, plus the increased compensation for legislators and for the nine-member supreme court plan and the service vote without poll tax, likely will swing over all the amendments on the ballot.—Wichita Daily Times.

Sgt. Robert E. Mabry Sends His Wife Letter In Form of Newspaper from His Headquarters in Belgium

One of the most unique letters received by anyone from a soldier in Europe was that of Sgt. Robert E. Mabry to his wife, Mrs. M. Mabry of Memphis. The letter consisted of two pages, 15 1/2 inches, and was in the form of a newspaper. Across the top the first page is a masthead titled "Front Line Edition," underneath this is the date line: "Belgium, Wednesday, January 1945." The masthead was lettered, and Sergeant Mabry worked in an illustration of a man buzz-bomb as well as two "cars" in each corner. One of these boxes he said: "Weather—'Weather—War Will be Over This Year.'" The second of the large pages is the heading: "Second Edition EXTRA!" Sergeant Mabry had the emblem of the Medical Corps at the top. At the bottom of the page is a cartoon depicting an over-worked editor sitting on a box labeled "K Rations," and his desk is another box on which a candle furnished light. The unusual letter was signed by 26 members of the Medical Department and S. Sgt. Robert E. Mabry.

The letter follows:

"Darling, how do you like my newspaper? I hope you like it and answer it with one just like this. Darling, in this newspaper I am going to try to tell you almost all about everything. I began, how is everyone home, fine I hope. Tell them all hello for me and that I would like to see them all.

"Darling, now I will begin to tell you about some of the things that have happened since I have been in combat. To begin with, I landed in France, D Day plus one and went all through France, in other words, all through Normandy. All through Brittany, and it was rough as Hell, if it is any rougher in Hell, I don't want to go there. After we got to Vise we were relieved and from there we went to Brest. I am sure if you have been keeping up with the news you read about Brest. Brest wasn't so bad after we got into town, but getting into town was pretty hard. Once we got into town we had it pretty nice. We lived in houses and had a very good time.

While we were in Brest we took something over 20,000 Germans and God only knows how many were killed.

"Now darling, I am somewhere in Belgium and not doing anything at the present time. Darling I am hoping that this war is over pretty soon and I can come back home to you and stay forever. Darling maybe when the war is over this will be a better world to live in. I hope so anyway. Darling.

"Darling, let all the folks at home see this and then have it published in the home town paper. Darling, I am going to have all the boys in the section sign this before I send it off. Keep this letter until I come home for I want to have it framed when I get there.

World Champion Steer Is On Tour of Nation

Teddy, The Firestone tire and Rubber Company's world champion steer, is touring the nation's agricultural colleges, where he is being shown as an example of a nearly perfect steer. The top picture shows Teddy being admired by Ann Van Horn of Clinton, Iowa, and the champion with the Boy who raised him, 18-year-old Ben Greve of Bryant, Iowa, standing beside the elaborate mobile stable in which the steer travels.

"I am going to send you a pair of wooden shoes with all the boys names on them. I hope you like them and I am sure you will.

"How do you like the buzz-bomb on this letter. Well, I can tell you one thing, if you are ever near one, you want like them so well. I hope, sweet, you are never near one and I don't think you will ever be.

"Darling, they say we are over here fighting for freedom of speech and to make this a better world to live in after the war is over. So I guess I can say just about anything I want to say, can't I? Before the war began I thought I would stay in the army just as long as I could and that would probably be 30 years. But now I have changed my mind. I have seen so much stuff pulled over here, I don't believe I want any part of the army after the war is over. I will say one thing, I am proud I am a part of the army now and will be until the war is over. But there is too much of one man doing something in the army and some one else getting the credit for it.

Well, so much for that honey. I will try to talk about you and me for awhile. Some day I hope that you and I can come back to Paris together. Darling, Paris is somewhat of a place. Darling, in closing this newspaper I will say if you enjoyed reading this I will try to write more of them from now on. Answer real soon honey. All my love. Signed by the Med. Det. of the 9th Inf. Your husband, Robert E. Mabry 1945. The total for January, 1944, was 7,983.

"Under an appropriation made by the last Legislature, and with the cooperation of police chiefs and sheriffs, we are just now beginning to learn what our Texas crime problem amounts to," Garrison said. "The trend is definitely upward, indicating that the anticipated post-war crime wave has already started."

Police authorities in the state handled 2,267 juvenile offenders this January, and 108 persons were reported missing from home.

ODT Will Ask Deferments In Transportation

New occupational deferment procedures for employees of transportation and related industries have been announced by Nettles F. Nelson of Lubbock, district manager of the Office of Defense Transportation.

In the recently approved plan of the Office of War Mobilization for the retention of key workers in essential industries, the ODT was named as claimant agency and certifying authority for deferment of indispensable workers in the transportation and related industries.

As claimant agency for transportation deferments, the ODT is requesting transportation employers to submit lists of key workers in the order of their indispensability, placing those, whose loss would be most serious, first on the list.

The annual investment in advertising of all kinds, in the United States, totaled over $1,500,000,000.

MOOS OF THE MOMENT

BY UNCLE BOB
of the Kraft Dairy Farm Service

This is the time of year when a fellow feels like getting out and kicking up his heels, like your calves and colts do when spring comes around.

Your cows may feel some of the same urge but in a more dignified way. But they need to be restrained from going on pasture until your pastures are ready for them. Otherwise they may undo all the good work that you did last year in building up your permanent pasture.

Grass gets started on a healthy growth as soon as the weather begins to warm up, but if you let your cows graze before grass has gained height and strength, roots may be injured.

The extension experts on pastures say it is best to hold the herd out of the pasture until the grass has had a chance to build up a little.

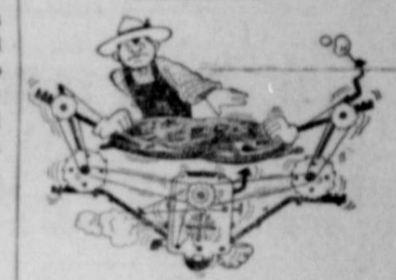

Missouri's extension service points out that spring grass is "washy" and when you do turn your cows onto pasture, they will need a large amount of starch and fat to hold their condition. Continue to feed a small amount of hay and a grain mix for a week or two after they are first turned out and on through the pasture season for your high producers.

with cold or luke warm water. Then scrub with a brush in hot water containing a washing powder—not soap.

Rinse with hot water and turn them upside down on a utensil rack, where they will be protected from dust. Sterilize with a chlorine solution just before milking.

Every state college has bulletins which give these suggestions in more detail. You can get copies at your county agent's office.

Then there's a good reprint from the previous October Kraftman which gives simplified instructions for care of milk on the farm. I'll be glad to send you one without charge if you drop me a card at 500 Peshigo Court, Chicago 90, Ill., and ask for "Care of Milk on the Farm."

There are times when I could use a minute-stretcher to lengthen the day and get more things done.

Such a machine doesn't seem to be on my list of available supplies but back East they have figured out how to stretch seed. Noting that certain seeds are limited this spring, Cornell University offers suggestions on how to make seed go farther, by keeping seeding rates down.

Northern grown alfalfa, alsike and ladino clover are among the seeds which are indicated as likely to be short. But farmers can help themselves and their neighbors by reducing seeding rates, through use of mixtures.

Cornell, in its January Dairy Farm Service Letter, suggests alfalfa-clover-timothy as one mixture to stretch alfalfa. Six pounds of alfalfa per acre in this mixture will give as much hay in the second year as a much heavier rate, if growing conditions are favorable, the letter says. Clover helps the yield in the first year.

Alfalfa-brome has proved of high value in many areas. No doubt there is a mixture recommended for your locality and I suggest you ask your county agent.

ship's crew was in the spotlight for a time. While over Cologne one time Sergeant Miller had his oxygen bottles shot out of his gun turret. He almost passed out before he noticed the lack of oxygen. A call on the interphone system brought the waist gunner, who pulled him out and used an emergency oxygen bottle. Within a few minutes he was himself again. On this bombing run they were flying at 26,000 feet. He has flown up to 34,000 feet, where the thermometer ranged from 31 to 60 degrees below zero. "I have nothing but the highest praise for the electrically-heated flying suits which the crews wear on all missions," Sergeant Miller said. "You don't realize it is as cold as it is until you look at a thermometer. Then you can't hardly believe what you see." In all his flying, his ship was bothered only by ground flak. Not one German fighter ever put her bullets into their bomber, although groups in front, behind, and to the sides were attacked by fighter planes. "You can't imagine the amount of flak the enemy throws up above some of their target areas," he said. "There is so much of it that it looks like a black cloud, and the ship must plow through it to make the bombing run." His ship for about 25 of his 35 missions was the reliable "Topper," and when it didn't fly the ground crew were patching it up. Sergeant Miller said that when he left England this ship had flown about 155 missions, and as far as he knows it is still carrying its loads of bombs to the enemy. At the end of his 21-day furlough, which he is spending here with his wife and two-year-old son, Jimmie, and his parents, Sergeant Miller will report to the Miami Beach, Fla., Redistribution Center for reassignment and a short relaxation period.

Prisoner of War In German Camp Praises Red Cross

Writing from a Prisoner of War camp in Germany, Pfc. J. W. McQueen, Jr., advises his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McQueen, that he is doing fine. He praises the American Red Cross for the supplies they are receiving. He says the clothing which they have received from the American Red Cross has helped keep them warm during recent months. The letter follows: Dearest Mother, Daddy and all: I will try to write you a few lines, although there is never much to write. I hope this finds everyone fine. As for myself I am OK, except I have a pretty bad cold. We have been having some cold weather, but we have plenty of clothes to stand it now. The Red Cross gave us another wool shirt and a big bath towel the other day. We are still on the farm. We are working in the woods now. I haven't got any mail in about a month. Boy, I wish this mess would hurry and get over so I can get home and get to work. Lots of love, Billie

WOMEN WORK

By INEZ BAKER

The Red Cross Roll Call is still underway. The women of the various districts in Memphis are still working and it seems now that we may account for $1,000. But we can't make it unless every woman and child in the residential district gives something. The response has been wonderful. Many have called saying they wanted to give and would the chairman of their district please contact them. That is the spirit. We are trying to see every one but we may miss some. So please call your reporter if you can't get your district chairman, and we will send for your gift. Remember, the roll call is not complete until you have added your name. The Parnell ladies are really starting out the new year in earnest. They have made their quota of kit bags, 55 bags and 60 housewives. Made them in two weeks.

And we must give the flowers to Mrs. Tracy Jones this time, for she made 18 kits and 20 housewives. Good work.

These ladies are keeping books on themselves this year. Some way we seem to get more done if we keep a record. One thing they are doing is well worth noting. They are saving all waste paper and fat and keeping account of the number of pounds turned in. With the money realized from the waste fat they will buy material for hospital garments. That was such a good thought I wanted to pass it on.

We still have some yarn for socks and material for kit bags. Several have called since last week and have taken out yarn and material. Call your reporter during the week and I shall be glad to go with you to the rooms. Mrs. Murray Dodson will be there to assist you on Saturday, and she does appreciate your fine spirit of cooperation.

MILL IRON is Building for COMMERCIAL HERDS... Many years ago— Mill Iron conceived a plan, whereby the commercial cattleman would be enabled to improve and develop his herd to a high point of selling value at low cost to himself. The idea of producing quality Hereford bulls in quantity, to sell at reasonable prices has become an integral part of Mill Iron policy. This fundamental idea is the basis on which, thru the years, we are building an enduring structure which will perpetuate the quality and uniformity of our Hereford line. Q. If a soldier is declared missing in action, will his children receive insurance, overseas pay and social security benefits?

Q. Our son was killed in action and buried overseas. We plan to have his body returned when possible. Is it ethical to have memorial services held for him now? Will the government furnish a flag if we do?

A. It is in keeping to hold the memorial service now. A flag is furnished, however, when the body is present for funeral service and burial.

Q. I was discharged from the Army in January and would like to go to college under the G. I. Bill of Rights. Where can I obtain some information on colleges to attend and courses to take?

A. Write the American Schools and Colleges Association, either at 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York 20, New York, or at 921 Marshall Field Annex, Chicago, Illinois.

Q. My husband is in the Army overseas. I am not listed on his identification tags as the person to be notified in case of emergency. Could he change this?

A. Yes. A soldier may change his emergency addressee at any time by filling out a new form to be filed with The Adjutant General.

Q. I am a widow with three sons in the service. I receive a family allowance for myself from one of them. Can I also receive a family allowance for the support of two minor sons at home?

A. If the boys at home are dependent on their brothers in the service for support, the latter may apply for an additional family allowance which will be sent to you for the care of the minor children.

Q. Is there any provision for giving rotation furloughs to soldiers who are overseas, but not in actual combat?

A. Yes. Non-combat Army Personnel overseas receive rotation

Farmers of Texas To Harvest More Small Grain in '45

Seeded acreage of small grain crops in Texas is considerably higher than a year ago. For that reason the A. & M. College Extension Service already is making plans for most efficient movement of equipment and manpower needed to harvest the crop.

C. Hohn, Extension state farm labor supervisor, says this work again will be handled by the district farm labor office in Plainview under the direction of D. A. Adam, farm labor field assistant.

Already, county agricultural agents, assisted by the Triple-A and other agencies are conducting surveys to determine the acreage of small grains in each county, the approximate maturity dates, and anticipated combine and labor needs. In many counties the acreage can be blocked out for local custom operators, but especially in the Panhandle—a large movement of down-state and out-of-state combines is expected.

Custom operators, truckers and other interested can keep in touch with the situation through the Plainview office. Mr. Adam says when the harvest is begun daily reports on the situation will enable efficient placement of crews and equipment.

Food Preservation More Important Than Ever in 1945

Home preservation of food in 1945 is more necessary than last year, due to a combination of wartime circumstances.

Inventories in home pantries and in stores are considerably less than last year, and in addition there will be considerably more demand for processed foods from the armed services and from lend-lease. Higher point values of many foods this year also may prove an incentive to many families, in the opinion of Mrs. Winifred J. Leverenz, specialist in food preservation for the A. and M. College Extension Service.

With these facts in mind, the average family needs to arrange now for the source of its food, such as Victory garden or a poultry flock. The average family eats half of its food fresh and half preserved. About 125 containers, or 300 pounds of food, should be stored for each person in the family, and these figures should be taken into account in the family planning, Mrs. Leverenz says.

She urges homemakers to include plenty of canned or frozen meat, fruit, and vegetables in the diet, rather than putting up a preponderance of pickles, relishes, preserves and jellies. Last year's reports showed most families are planning more balanced food preservation budgets than before the war, and this is most encouraging she says.

On the whole, the outlook for equipment and supplies in the preservation field is fairly promising. There will be less sugar than last year, but enough to get by on. Tin cans and glass jars are expected to be plentiful and the jar closures available now are superior to those manufactured earlier in the war. Pressure cookers will be offered to the public. Mrs. Leverenz says this means more people will have to can together, share equipment, or take advantage of community food preservation centers.

Iowa is said to have the largest percentage of actually arable land in the United States.

furloughs provided they can be spared from their organizations and provided replacements can be secured to carry on their work.

Q. Can the mother of a deceased soldier have the insurance she now receives transferred at her death to the soldier's stepfather instead of to the soldier's aunt?

A. A person receiving National Service Life Insurance benefits may not designate who is to receive the balance remaining unpaid at his or her death. Such recipient is chosen by the soldier himself with the approval of the Veterans Administration. If none was named by the soldier and approved, the Veterans Administration then pays the most eligible nearest-of-kin. Neither the aunt nor the stepfather may receive the remaining payments unless their relationship to the injured when he entered the service was "in the place of" his natural parent.

Q. Can an ex-serviceman's pension be taxed or attached?

A. No.

Q. Can a man in the service get a divorce without his wife signing any papers? If so, could she get the divorced wife's allowance?

A. When a service man brings suit for divorce, his wife must be given an opportunity to sign certain papers, or must be served with notification papers by a law enforcement officer. If she is out of the state, or her whereabouts are unknown, then publication of a legal statement of the suit in a newspaper is considered due notification to her. If a divorce is granted, she will receive a family allowance not exceeding $42.00 per month only when the decree awards her alimony.

Q. I was discharged from the Army after only 68 days' service. Am I entitled to any benefits under the G. I. Bill of Rights?

A. Veterans discharged from the Army with less than 90 days service are not entitled to benefits under the G. I. Bill of Rights unless their discharge was due to an injury or disability incurred while in the service and in line of duty.

Sentinels of Health
 Don't Neglect Them!
 Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure.

When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backaches, persistent headaches, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages are sometimes further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.

The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic modicum to help the kidneys get rid of excess body wastes.

Juniors Present Chas. N. Lum In Program Mar. 15

"Great Moments in the Classics" is the title of a program sponsored by the Junior class Thursday afternoon, March 15, in which Chas. N. Lum, American's foremost Shakespearean actor, will give a group of impersonations. The program will be at the high school auditorium starting at 1:00 o'clock.

Members Observe Fourth National 4-H Club Week

Members of 4-H Club of Hall County, along with 83,000 other young people of Texas are checking up on the progress of their demonstrations toward the year's gains. The occasion is the fourth wartime National 4-H Club week, from March 3 to 11.

This week members of the 3,889 clubs in Texas will rededicate themselves to the task ahead and reaffirm their intentions to carry their 1945 goals to completion.

"It is because we cannot slacken on the home front that I feel every rural boy and girl between 10 and 18 should become a 4-H member this year," said M. L. Wilson, director of Extension work, USDA, Washington. "Club work helps develop the ideals of head, heart, hands and health which will be needed to win the peace as well as victory in the war."

Texas 4-H members have a proud record of achievement. Although wartime labor shortages have thrown upon them an increasing amount of the work on their home farms, their production of food, feed and fiber crops, and conservation of the home food supply have increased steadily. Inspired by the slogan, "feed a fighter," members of Texas boys' 4-H clubs in 1944 produced beef, pork, lamb, poultry and dairy products, wool and mohair valued at $2,164,579, according to L. L. Johnson, state boys' large Extension Service. The largest item was pork valued at $843,734.84. In the same period, members of girls' 4-H clubs canned 1,915,285 quarts of food, served 392,304 meals, made 99,085 garments and remodeled 36,995 others, to mention only a few of their major demonstrations. A total of 20,001 grew home gardens and 10,067 had poultry flocks, including turkeys. In fact girl demonstrations every field of agriculture production, with 20 producing cereals, 266 feeding beef calves and 464 working with swine. A well-known landscape architect, Frederic Law Olmsted, was the first man to propose public ownership of the falls at Niagara Falls, New York. Originally all visitors had to pay a fee to see the falls.

NEWS

From County Men in the Armed Forces

Jack L. Moore, Coxswain of U. S. Navy, wrote the following letter to his uncle and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gil-ath of Rt. 1, Lakeview, Mariannas Islands, February 9, 1945

Dear Parents:

How are my dear parents today, fine I hope. Well, I am well and in pretty good health and with the best of luck, I will stay that way.

I suppose you have received my wire by this time and no doubt you were glad to hear from me. I am terribly sorry I don't write very often, but you see I stay at sea most of the time. The only time I get to write is when I come in.

I will try to tell all the news if I can. I received all your letters when we pulled in and all those packages that have taken so long to get here. O well, I can't complain as long as I receive them. I also got the watch and band you sent. They were beautiful.

Johnnie, a buddy of mine and I took some pictures, and will send you some as soon as we get them back. I really hope they come out good.

Mother send me a photo of Mickey, he sure is cute, dressed like a soldier. I got a package from grandmother Blum and Aunt Blanch today and everything was so nice. The candy you sent was still good and so were the rest of the things.

I don't know what I would do without my sweet mother and dad.

JACK

Earl Daniel Jones, seaman at class of the U. S. Navy wrote the following letter to parents, Mr. and Mrs. Con- Jones of Los Angeles, Cal.,

No one could be any better than my parents. You will have to excuse the bad writing as I am as shaky as a snow man in summer.

I must tell you about these people here. They are really swell. I have met some very nice people here and they have been very hospitable. In a few days, you will probably get a letter from a girl here that I have been going out with and she is very nice.

I went to some people's house last night and had tea. I stayed until eleven p. m. Then went to a party and didn't get back on ship until this a. m.

I will write one more page as I don't want to tell all the news in one letter, then I can write again tomorrow.

If you have time answer Theda's letter as she said she would love to hear from you. I showed her my album and after she saw it, she called me a wolf, what do you think. Don't answer that, it is the 64 dollar question.

I received a letter from J. L. and he is fine but has finally realized what things are like over here. I tried to tell him while he was in the States, but he just laughed.

Well, it want be long now, I hope. The news was very good the last few days. I got a surprise letter from Wanda the day I came in. I will tell you about it later, as it is about time to sign off for now. So I will tate, until next time. Your loving son,
DANNY

The Memphis Democrat received the following letter from Aubrey E. Sanders, Storekeeper third class of the U. S. Navy, Admiralty Islands

Dear Mr. Wells:

I thought that I would drop you a line to let you know that I am receiving the Memphis paper regular now. Thanks to you. The paper sure helps a fellow when he is away out here. I can be thankful for one thing though and that is that I am not out here by myself. There are two more guys from Memphis that I know. I work with Homer W. Tucker all the time and R. C. Land is also here. We sure do have some long talks of home that we all three enjoy very much.

Mr. Wells, I have a new rating.

You can change it on my address if you have the time. I am now a storekeeper, third class. I just recently made the rate, which I am very proud of. I am in the supply corps of the Navy. I will admit that I don't like it very much.

The wether here is fine with the exception of it being just a little on the hot side. The temperature here today was about the average. It was 55 degrees here today. I guess that sounds a little hot to you, well don't let it fool you any because it is plenty hot. We had a nice shower here today too, that should cool things off just a little. I sure hope that it does.

I want to thank you again for getting my paper here as often as you do. It gets here in about a month. It is still news from home and about home people.

I will close for now. You may print this letter if you wish. Sincerely yours,
Aubrey E. Sanders, SK 3-c

How women and girls may get wanted relief from functional periodic pain

Cardui is a liquid medicine which many women say has brought relief from the cramp-like agony and nervous strain of functional periodic distress. Here's how it may help:

1 It should stimulate appetite, aid digestion, thus help build resistance for the "time" to come.

2 Started 3 days before "your time", it should help relieve pain due to purely functional periodic causes.

Try Cardui. If it helps, you'll be glad you did.
