HIGH ATTENDANCE EXPECTED FOR RODEO OPENING TONIGHT

Festivities Open With Gala Parade

All the color and excitement of the "Old West" came right down Main Street in Memphis this afternoon as one of the largest parades in the city's history opened the annual Hall County Rodeo.

Spectators packed Main Street and the square to watch a thrilling array of floats and horseback riders uncap the opening of three days of gala rodeo festivities.

The parade was a colorful spectacle—one which gave promise of three days of thrills and excitement for visitors and local rodeo fans.

Featured in the parade were floats and decorated cars and trucks as well as horseback riders garbed in colorful western clothing. The Chamber of Commerce's "Cotton's Home Town" float attracted a great deal of attention as did the Childress Riding Club. The Childress Riding Club is well-known throughout the Panhandle and is headed by Lon Alexander, a former Memphis citizen.

The lengthy caravan of horses, cars and floats began at 3 p. m. at Ninth and Noel Streets, proceeded up Noel Street, circled the square and turned down Main Street before disbanding.

Action at 8 P. M.

Rodeo action will begin in earnest at 8 p. m. tonight when some of the top cowboys from the Southwest begin competition for the $1200 prize money.

Hall County Rodeo Association officials said Cyclone Stadium was ready for the event. Stock pens have been erected and the seating capacity of the stadium has been enlarged to take of the record-breaking crowds that are expected to be on hand for the three nights of western thrills.

Farmers Warned Wheat Must Be Dry Before Storing

Farmers planning to use farm storage for their 1949 wheat crop to take advantage of the government loan should be certain wheat is dry before storage, Hall County ACA administrative officer Glynn McKown warned Tuesday.

McKown advised farmers to be sure their wheat was dry before cutting, if possible. If not, it should be piled on the ground and allowed to dry before being stored, he said.

McKown disclosed that ACA officials will take samples of this wheat approximately 45 days after storage. These samples will be graded and the farmers must guarantee this grade of wheat to be delivered next May.

He said that ACA officials expect a great many farmers in this county to take advantage of the government loan this year. Commercial prices quoted on wheat this week dropped near 40 cents below the government loan rate. A local grain merchant quoted his buying prices this week at from $1.55 to $1.62 per bushel.

McKown said that there were no particular restrictions on acceptable storage places for wheat under government loan except that it not be stored near any inflammable liquids. He also advised against storing wheat in buildings with cement floor surfaces unless the cement is covered with paper or cloth.

When the studio is reopened it will be completely remodeled (Continued On Page 8)

Hall County Has Summer Weather During Past Week

A .51 inch rain fell on Memphis during the past week, all of which came on Saturday afternoon. More intense precipitation was felt in other parts of the county, however, forcing some farmers to replant.

Memphis got a feel of summer weather during the week when the thermometer soared above 90 degrees on four days, according to local weatherman John J. McMicken.

Daily temperature reading for the week are as follows: Friday, May 27, 62 and 88. Saturday, May 28, 60 and 91. Sunday, May 29, 61 and 88. Monday, May 30, 62 and 83. Tuesday, May 31, 68 and 98. Wednesday, June 1, 63 and 96. Thursday, June 2, 66 and 98.

Monday, June 6, Is Third Dollar Day

Citizens of this trade area will again have an opportunity to take advantage of many unusual bargains on Monday, June 6, when the city's third Dollar Day will be held.

Following two very successful Dollar Days, everyone is looking forward to the third as the best to date. There were numerous savings offered the shoppers by Memphis merchants on these special days.

The merchants of Memphis have been very pleased with the results, according to R. C. Lemons, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce retail committee.

A glance at Democrat ads will show that the merchants of Memphis are again offering bargains that make it well worth the shoppers' time to do their shopping in Memphis on June 6. Many offers are less than half the regular price and some articles have been reduced to one-fourth the retail price.

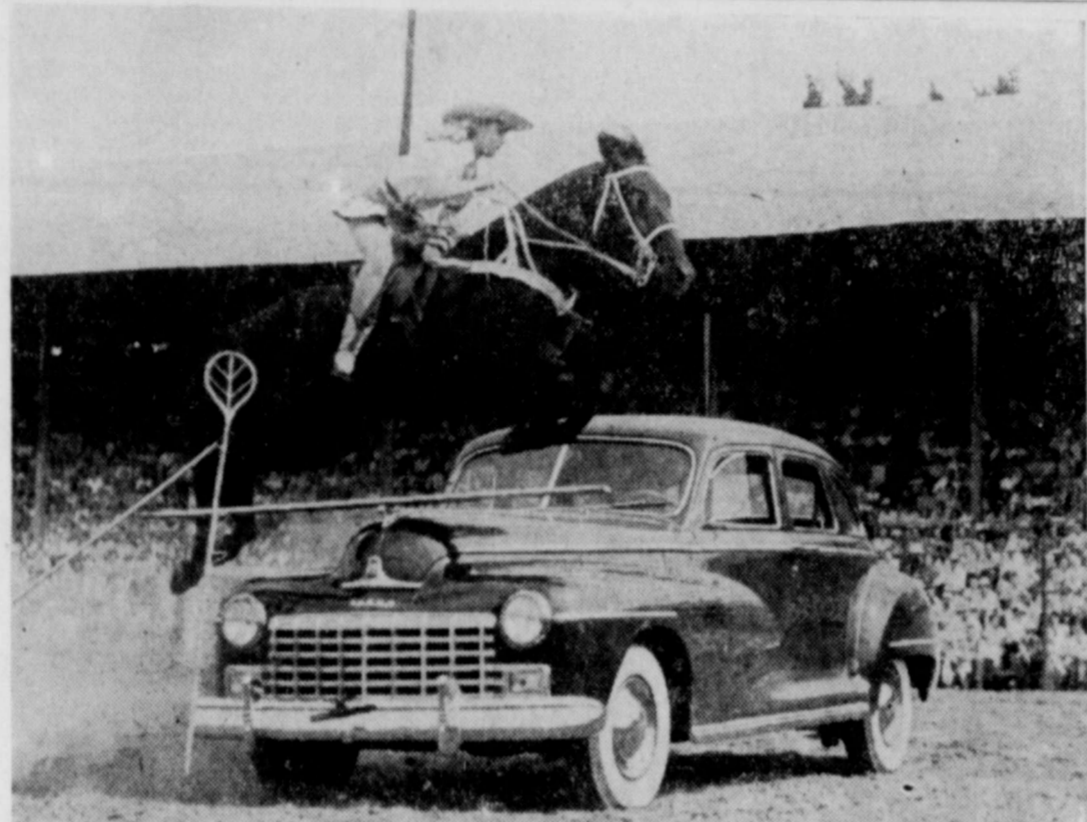

Don't forget the date, Monday, June 6, for the day of real bargains in Memphis.

Buddy Poppy Sale Nets Group $165

The Buddy Poppy sale held last Saturday was very successful according to a report given by Mrs. John McCauley, chairman of the campaign.

Mrs. McCauley said poppy sales for the day totaled $165. She pointed out that this amount covered all expenses and also left the organization enough poppies for next year's sale. Auxiliary members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars sponsored the poppy sale. They were aided by Girl Scouts and children of the members.

Proceeds from the sale will be used to give financial aid to wounded veterans of the wars. Mrs. McCauley expressed the thanks of the auxiliary members for the fine co-operation given the organization in the drive.

"HORSE" POWER STILL TOPS—Charlene Walling takes her horse over a new automobile to prove the four-footed animal is still tops. The Walling Sisters of Henryetta, Okla., will provide many of the thrills for the all-professional Hall County Rodeo which opens here tonight and runs through Friday and Saturday. P.S. The automobile wasn't scratched, car lovers.

Loop Tilts Owl Schedule

The Owls resume the league play today meet a resurgent team on the latter's home field. The Owls upset the dope on a Mobeetic Sunday by 8-0.

Following circuit games the Owls will meet Mobeetic at 7:30 p. m. here Sunday and on a Tuesday they journeyed to Pampa to meet a strong team.

After a packed park last night, the Owls won a wild 16-1 victory over Big Metz LaFollette. The Owls scored on four home runs and only four hits.

Outstanding was a scoreless affair of the third when the Owls cut loose in the eighth runs.

Run was added by the sixth and a wild throw gave them five runs in a great game for the Owls, striking Dumas batters. Wild runs in a hole in the work out of the fashion.

Man Pruitt was the Owl player in the game. He handled the hot bat perfectly and made occasional catches that stands on their feet.

With his efforts, as well as a hard-working Owl LaFollette was able to hit ball.

First Wheat Here Wed.

The first wheat from the 1949 crop in Hall County was sold Wednesday afternoon to the Farmers Union Co-Op Gin Company by Jack Monzingo, according to Art Miller, manager of the gin.

Miller said the wheat tested 60 and took a 14 percent moisture test. He said the load was at from 150 to 200 bushels and would sell in the vicinity of $1.50 per bushel. The Monzingo farm is located several miles southeast of Memphis near highway 287, and is operated by W. H. Monzingo and son, Jack.

Harvesting should be in full swing in Hall County within the next few days, it was predicted by growers. An all-time record crop of wheat for the county is expected by a number of farmers. The past few days of clear weather have been a benefit to the wheat farmers.

Other wheat buyers in Memphis besides the Farmers Union Co-Op Gin Company include the Milam Grain Company and the Hill Feed Company.

The second load of wheat was brought to Memphis by J. R. Mitchell, and arrived about two hours after that from the Monzingo farm.

It's Triplets For Jersey Cow

Roy Dick, Rt. 1, Estelline, is a firm believer in the old adage that good things come in threes. He reports that a Jersey cow on his farm recently gave birth to triplets—one of Mother Nature's rarer gifts to the bovine world.

The three calves are now two weeks old and doing fine, according to Dick. It is believed that this is the first time triplet calves were ever born in Hall County.

The mother Jersey is also reported in good health by Dick. No report was given on the father, a registered Hereford bull, but he is undoubtedly the proudest "four-legged critter" in Hall County.

Co-operation Urged For Clean-Up Week June 6-13

Eying the goal of making Memphis one of the state's cleanest cities, the City Federation of Women's Clubs will sponsor the annual Clean-Up Week next Monday through Saturday, June 6 to 13.

"Memphis' growing reputation for being a clean town must be maintained and it is hoped that everyone will make this the most thorough job of cleaning up in the town's history," Mrs. H. B. Estes, president of the Women's Federated Clubs, stated in announcing the drive.

In co-operation with the drive, city trucks will be available Thursday and Friday to haul away trash free, according to Mayor C. C. Hodges. Mayor Hodges asked that all trash be put in containers and placed in accessible spots in the alleys so it may be easily found by the truck drivers.

Mrs. Estes called on every Memphis family to work to beautify the city's homes, vacant property and highway approaches. She stressed making better sanitation an important part of the clean-up program.

CLAUDE'S COMMENTS

By J. C. W.

The opening gun has been fired. After that small ammunition is being used—22 calibre comments.

Year after year, it has been my extreme pleasure to urge a city-wide clean-up, and year after year, that urging has come to an end without much accomplishment.

Although late in the year, the plan for a general clean-up next week is timely, for a lot of rains and bad weather have prevented any systematic work along that line.

The City Federation of Women's Clubs is sponsoring the clean-up event, and the goal is to make Memphis one of the cleanest towns in Texas—a big order, but one that is not impossible.

One year, in the far and distant past, our home town won that honor. Let's do it again. With the women behind the movement, I have hopes that something more than the ordinary will be accomplished. Their greatest trouble will be to get the men interested sufficiently to wield the proper implements.

One of my neighbors says it really hurts him to see his wife working with hoe and rake in the yard. So he gets his chair and (Continued On Page 8)

Shamrock Sets Date for Bob Wills Appearance

Shamrock will be a big stop on the map of a big band on Thursday, June 23, when Bob Wills and his Texas Cowboys play for a dance at the American Legion Hall of that city.

Wills, who earned a reputation as a seller of War Bonds during the war, assembled his Texas Cowboys together as soon as he received his discharge from the army. Since that time, he has been touring the nation playing before huge crowds.

Legionnaires at Shamrock predicted that they will "sell out" the hall for the Bob Wills show. An invitation was extended to citizens of Memphis and Hall County to attend.

In making this request, local board member, J. J. Boney, pointed out the necessity of having this information properly filed with the board as soon as possible.

Dorothy Hutcherson, student at TWC, Fort Worth, the past year, arrived home this week to spend the summer months.

Submerged State Coastal Lands Claimed By Ranch and Oil Co.

Attorney General Price Daniel this week said the Federal Government is not the only one claiming submerged lands on the Texas coast against the State school fund. In a letter to members of the Texas Senate Daniel revealed that the Kennedy Ranch Company and Humble Oil and Refining Company are claiming 36,928 acres of Laguna Madre adversely to the State.

Daniel described the Laguna area as "a great arm of the sea" lying between Padre Island and the Texas mainland and extending from Corpus Christi to Port Isabel. The disputed area lies wholly within Kennedy County and is traversed by the Interoceanic Canal. His letter urged immediate passage of H.B. 753, or similar legislation, which he described as essential for protection of the interest of the people of Texas in thousands of acres of submerged lands. The bill passed the House without a dissenting vote, but its Senate sponsor, Senator Fred (Red) Harris, has had difficulty in getting enough votes for consideration in the upper chamber.

The bill would confirm the Attorney General's authority to file suits for recovery of submerged lands the same as other public lands, and would provide venue of such suits in either Travis County or the county where the land is located. The present law fixes venue exclusively in the county where the land is located. If it is not amended by H.B. 753 it means the State would have to litigate its claim against Kennedy Ranch Co. and Humble in Kennedy County, which has only 170 qualified jurors, 150 of whom are reported to be employees or connected with the Kennedy Ranch, Daniel said. He said the State should not be forced to try its lawsuits locally under such conditions and that choice of venue was also necessary in tidelands areas of the Gulf of Mexico where County boundaries are unmarked and uncertain.

The bill applies only to submerged lands. Daniel said these lands justify a special statute if "the Senate wishes the State to have a fair trial" in this (Laguna Madre case) and similar cases which may arise in sparsely settled counties. The legislation was recommended by the School Land Board and submitted as an emergency by Governor Jsefer. He distinguished the lands involved from the old "vacancy" cases which caused transfer of venue from Travis County. On this

Businessmen May Receive Booklets On Latest Trends

Six basic services are offered the businessman by the Dallas office of the U. S. Department of Commerce, Ray L. Miller, regional director has announced.

A management aids service tells the methods successful businesses use in selling, pricing, advertising, financing; credit, collections, and selecting locations.

Commodity Trends is the third service telling of the ups and downs of most of the basic commodities on the market. For those interested in technical aids, the Commerce Department provides scientific research reports in such fields as standards of measurements, product standardization guides, and technical advice to business.

Current facts of business life are included in the basic statistics service with reports on retail, wholesale, manufacturers' sales—production statistics, population movements and agricultural statistics.

Finally, for those who do business with other countries, a world trade service is available on the markets for American products, sources of imports, preparing, foreign shipments, and export control regulations.

For a free copy of the leaflet "Facts for Business" describing these six basic services and showing the broad range of printed materials available to help the businessman help himself, write the Dallas office of the U. S. Department of Commerce, 114 Commerce Street, Miller said.

point Daniel said, "Venue was changed from Travis County to the county of location on all State land suits in 1939 in order to save people whose lands had been filed on for 'vacancies' from being pulled to Austin to try lawsuits affecting their farms and homes. 'Submerged land' suits are clearly distinguished. No one lives on these lands, and 'vacancy applications' do not apply to them. If anyone claims them adversely to the State, he knows from the beginning that he can expect a lawsuit which would hardly be classed as a 'racket' such as some of the old vacancy suits were.

Texas Employment Commission Gives Harvest Report

The Texas Employment Commission today released the following information regarding wheat harvest over Texas.

Harvest in the wheat belt of Texas is progressing rapidly today, with clear weather prevailing in all counties. Hot winds are rapidly drying the fields that are still too wet. With the exception of the weather, no problems have developed yet. There is an adequate supply of combines and trucks in all counties, and yet reports indicate that all equipment is being rapidly absorbed. There is a considerable surplus of extra harvest hands. These workers should be discouraged from moving into the harvest area at this time.

Knox, Haskell and Throckmorton Counties—Harvest 20 to 25 per cent complete.

Baylor, Wilbarger and Foard Counties—Harvest 10 to 18 per cent complete. Will finish about June 15.

Brice Farm Hit By Freak Wind Late Saturday

A twister crossed the Brice farm of Mrs. Anna Dickson late Saturday afternoon, causing fresh damage to a barn.

Mrs. Dickson reported that the wind picked up the south end of the barn and carried it about 40 feet. The other end of the barn was unmovable and no damage was done other than taking the building off its foundation.

The Evett Paschal family live on the farm and were in the cellar when the twister hit. Paschal said there was a tremendous amount of noise, similar to that of grinding gears. A neighbor who lives on a hill nearby saw the funnel of the twister as it hit the farm.

There was no further damage evidenced from the wind. A number of large trees nearby were untouched.

Asked if he actually saw the twister pass, Paschal replied that he was too busy getting safely into the cellar.

Sim Goodall, who has been attending Allen Academy, Bryan, arrived home last week to visit with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. O. R. Goodall, during the summer months.

Mrs. Reba Stroehle and daughter Billie Jean left last week for Colorado on a vacation trip.

HEALTH HINTS FOR LIVESTOCK

COCCIDIOSIS CAN KILL CALVES, TOO

Most people think of coccidiosis as a disease of chickens. But this intestinal disorder, caused by a tiny internal parasite, also affects cattle and sheep. Young calves, especially, suffer serious attacks that may cause death within a week.

Strangely enough, each species of live-stock—chickens, cattle, sheep—has its own type of coccidial infection. Usually, there is no interchange from one species to another. Lambs for instance, may graze on pastures where calves are actually sick with coccidiosis and still not pick up the disease.

Veterinarians report that adult cattle can harbor an ordinary number of coccidiosis parasites without becoming ill. But young calves are very susceptible to the disease, and sometimes yearlings are badly affected.

Various factors may lead to an outbreak. Perhaps too many calves are crowded into one pen, or calves are grouped with older infected cattle. Outbreaks may occur among feeder animals congregated in yards. Sanitation may be neglected. In late summer or early autumn, pastured cattle may pick up the parasites in water from stagnant ponds or bayous.

Symptoms of coccidiosis in a calf include straining, reddish scouring, rapid loss of weight, low blood volume and extreme weakness. Prompt treatment, including perhaps a blood transfusion, may be needed to save the animal's life.

The best means of control, of course, is prevention. Careful sanitation, clean quarters, segregation of calves by age groups, keeping calves from eating off the ground, and other husbandry measures suggested by the veterinarian can largely ward off calf losses due to coccidiosis.

NEEDLE REQUIRES EXPERT HANDLING

Properly used, the vaccinating needle can be a good friend of the livestock producer. For many years this instrument has been saving the lives of countless millions of persons and domestic animals.

But improperly used, the vaccine needle or hypodermic syringe can be a vicious enemy to livestock production. In the hands of untrained or careless persons, it may spread dangerous diseases and actually do more harm than good. Anaplasmosis, hog cholera, swine erysipelas, swamp fever, malignant edema—all these dread diseases can be spread among animals by improper use of the vaccinating equipment.

Very often, unskilled persons are not acquainted with contamination risk and livestock may die of infections accidentally transmitted from animal to animal through the medium of contaminated needles.

One serious outbreak of anthrax in a southern state, not long ago, was traced directly to improper vaccination by an untrained person who did not know the necessary precautions.

One danger, is the "carrier" animal—one that carries disease germs, yet appears to be healthy. A needle pushed through the skin of such an animal, and then used on other stock, can pass disease on to all the rest of the herd and cause serious losses.

There are other risks, too. Are the animals in good enough health to be vaccinated without ill effects? Is the vaccine still potent enough or has it deteriorated? What is the proper dosage? Professional answers to these questions, and professional skill in the actual vaccination, are the keys to safe and effective use of vaccine to prevent livestock diseases.

HOW TO PREVENT CHOLERA LOSSES

Hog cholera costs American swine producers at least 20,000,000 dollars a year, according to good authorities. Because the virus can be carried great distances in a great many different ways, it often strikes without warning. And once a hog or herd is infected, there is no cure.

Yet all this loss could be prevented if every hog raiser took advantage of a protective measure developed by veterinary scientists over 30 years ago.

This measure is vaccination by the double immunization method. The pig is inoculated simultaneously with both serum and virus. The resulting immunity from cholera usually lasts for the rest of the pig's life.

Authorities have pointed out a number of reasons why swine owners should have the vaccination done by a veterinarian. It is important that the pigs be examined first, to see if they are in good enough health to receive the vaccination without ill effects. Also, because a deadly virus is used in this treatment, many other special precautions are necessary; therefore these materials should be handled by a person who has the proper scientific skill and knowledge. And for a few weeks after vaccination, further precautions should be observed in the care and feeding of the pigs.

Proper vaccination costs only a small fraction of the cost of a single outbreak of deadly cholera. Ordinarily, the best time for vaccination is around weaning time. Pigs at that age are easy to handle, and require less serum to give them the desired protection.

SERIOUS DANGER IN CALF DIPHTHERIA

If precautions and proper treatment are neglected, calf diphtheria (or dangerous sore-mouth) may cause serious trouble and heavy death losses among young beef and dairy calves.

The disease is seen most often where dampness and lack of sunlight are coupled with poor sanitation. An outbreak may affect only one or two animals, or it may strike as many as 50 per cent of the calves on the farm.

Entirely different from the germ that causes human diphtheria, the cause of this disease in calves is the rot bacillus called Actinomyces necrophorus. This same germ is also responsible for bull-nose in pigs, footrot in sheep and several other livestock diseases.

When the germ gains entrance to the calf's tissues, the first symptoms usually are drooling, slobbering and refusal to eat. Wicked-looking ulcers appear in the calf's mouth, and adherent patches or areas of false membranes on the lips, tongue, or cheek lining. These ulcers may spread to the throat, windpipe or even the lungs and liver. The animal becomes weak and emaciated. Death may occur within a week—or the disease may linger on for several weeks.

The best precaution against calf diphtheria is to provide sunny, well-bedded quarters, regularly cleaned and disinfected.

Any calf that shows symptoms of the disease should be isolated from the rest of the herd. If the veterinarian's diagnosis and help are obtained immediately, it increases the chances of recovery, as calves have a much better chance if treatment is begun during the early stages of the disease.

NATIONWIDE ALERT FOR 'X DISEASE'

Cattle raisers everywhere should be on the alert this year for possible outbreaks of "X disease," the strange new malady that affects cattle of all ages but seems to be especially common among animals under 2 years old.

"X disease" already has caused cattle losses in more than 30 states. In some of the worst outbreaks, as many as 31 per cent of the animals in affected herds have been stricken. Among diseased cattle, the death rate has been as high as 59 per cent.

Just what causes "X disease," and how it is transmitted from one animal to another, no one yet knows. But extensive research investigations are being pointed up by the U. S. Bureau of Animal Industry and veterinary research leaders. In the meantime, veterinarians are isolating identified cases immediately and developing techniques to combat the disease.

Symptoms usually include prolonged scouring, loss of appetite and weight, wart-like lumps on the mouth and on the tongue, and a scurfy hardening of the skin over the back and shoulders.

In diagnosing a suspected case, the veterinarian has to consider the entire pattern or symptoms. Otherwise, the disease may be confused with mange, virus scouring, or other ailments.

A recent survey of several outbreaks indicated that newly-purchased cattle have served as carriers or, in some other way, brought "X disease" into home herds. So authorities are warning farmers to be especially careful in purchasing feeder stock or breeding animals. A veterinary check-up of the newcomers seems to be a wise precaution.

Use of Silo Will Eliminate Famine, Expert Advises

Silos offer the best storage means to eliminate feed famines which face cattlemen each year, according to G. C. Gibson, extension dairy husbandman of Texas A. M. College.

"Green growing crops have plenty of all the nutrients needed in a good ration, especially protein and vitamin A," he said. "Making good hay in the early season presents a problem because spring weather favors grother rather than drying out processes needed for silage."

As a result, lots of good hay is lost, or hay of poor quality is made into silage. With every crop, there's a best time for harvesting to get the highest nutrient value. Good silage can be made from hay and grass crops without the use of preservative by means of the wilting method, says Gibson.

Remember that once you have spoken the words cannot be recalled.

Let's Have A Friendly Talk About Your No. 1 Problem "That 1949 Wheat Crop"

All indications point to a tremendous wheat crop in this area for 1949. Some wheat has been lost, but the over-all picture is good. Some areas of the country are having trouble with storage space, but we think, at this time, that we have overcome this difficulty, and will be able to get freight cars to keep all the wheat moving which we buy. At least, that is how it looks today.

Above All Else,

Don't Cut Your Wheat Before It Is Ready

If your crop looks early, don't rush things. One or two or three days at the start of the season won't make any difference, and the PENALTY ON HIGH MOISTURE CONTENT WILL COST YOU MONEY.

Moisture content is likely to be higher than usual . . . and it will be impossible for any buyer to take "Green Wheat." It is GOOD BUSINESS FOR YOU to be sure your wheat is ready before putting combines in your field.

Also be careful to avoid every possibility of "Dockage Grain." Your cooperation along this line will help us both to better handle the 1949 crop.

Versatile

Thousands of Uses for Coal

What does coal look like and what is it good for? Most people might think that's an easy question—coal is just a black, heavy substance that burns, and gives heat and energy. But that's only the beginning of the story.

According to an article in a national magazine, coal provides thousands of things besides energy—ranging from imitation butter to DDT, dyes, plastics, perfumes and live-saving drugs.

New possibilities are virtually unlimited. Chemical processes, which change coal's molecular architecture, produce such articles as rubber refrigerants and so on down a long list.

Coal is an exceedingly versatile commodity. It has been deposited under the top-soil in nearly inexhaustible quantities—even at the current high rate of consumption known reserves would last for thousands of years. The coal industry is constantly looking for better ways to mine it, and make it more useful and desirable in the eyes of consumers. Men who mine the coal represent one of the highest paid labor forces in industry.

All in all, the lowly black lump

You'll like it, and Dearborn Equipment, too, for the way you can do such jobs as scraping, leveling, loading, ditching, terracing, excavating, digging post holes or sawing wood. It is practical because you base your plans on an Electric Range, Electric Refrigerator, Electric Dishwasher, and plenty of electric outlets for the convenient use of electric mixers, waffle irons, toasters and many, many other electrical appliances. Around these appliances you build "Electric Time-Saving Centers." This equipment does so much of your work for you automatically that you'll have more time for leisure. And it's pretty, because there's practically no limit to what you can do decoration-wise with an All-Electric Kitchen. ## FLOOD CONTROL BOARD HAS MEET

The board of the Upper Red River Flood Control district started proceedings Sunday afternoon leading to securing a dam for Red River by holding a board meeting at the local office of the committee, following passage of the appropriation bill of $10,000 by the Legislature recently.

Officers were re-elected as follows: Dr. Roy E. Barr, Childress, president; O. E. Bevers, Lakeview, vice president; T. J. Dunbar, Memphis, secretary-treasurer, and E. B. Tunnell, general manager. Other members of the board are O. W. Stroup and E. W. Scheid, Briscoe county, J. A. Whaley, Hall county, and C. C. Broughton, Childress county.

The committee laid plans to send a delegation to Tulsa in the near future to confer with U. S. Army Engineers.

This committee has been inactive for a few years, due to the war and lack of funds. Active work may be expected from now until something is accomplished, it was decided.

Mrs. J. V. Shepherd and daughter Susan and Mrs. Bess Crump visited in Lubbock and Littlefield last week. In Lubbock they visited in the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Crump and Fred Clark and in Littlefield with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Crump and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Melton.

Bob Crump of Los Angeles, Calif., visited here Tuesday with his aunt, Mrs. Bess Crump. Mr. Crump was en route to Amarillo.

Comments—

Besides front lawns, a general clean-up will take in back yards, alleys, and neighbors premises, and a lot of work with saws, hammers, nails and paint brushes.

In anticipation of participation, I have already sharpened the hoe, straightened the rake and emptied the trash barrel. Of course, the better half will make use of them.

Anyone who travels to other towns, knows how much it adds to a town's appearance to have well-kept yards, freshly painted homes and premises and absence of eyesores in the business section.

Let's make Memphis "The City Beautiful."

While we are at and about cleaning-up, we might take into consideration something that is right down town. The memorial to World War II veterans on the wall of a business building on Sixth street needs attention. As it now stands, many of the names have become unreadable, and some have fallen off. The large emblem at the top is partly torn off, and the whole thing is in a bad state of repair. The company that erected the memorial contracted to add any and all names that were left off when it was first erected. This Amarillo firm has repeatedly been asked to finish the work, and as repeatedly promised to do the work. So far, they have failed to show up. They were paid to do the work, but have failed to carry out their part of the contract.

Here's my suggestion, and take it for what it is worth: Let's remove the memorial if the contracting sign company will not bring it up to date. Many towns have already removed their memorials. The V.F.W. and American Legion might take the matter up and decide what should be done, since these organizations represent World War II veterans.

Along that line, I would like to see a lasting memorial erected on the courthouse lawn.

Let's have some suggestions.

This is rodeo week. If the weather continues good, planting will be well along toward completion and people will have time to celebrate a little. No effort has been spared by the various committees to make the affair well worth seeing. And, don't forget the parade at 3 p. m. the first two days.

STEAK FILLETS FOR SPRING

With spring meals calling for something "different" to serve, what could be a more attractive flank than these clever flank steak fillets? The narrow strips of flank steak are rolled, skewered, then braised until tender and tasty.

I am looking forward to the official opening of the new V. F. W. hut. It is about completed. Already the organization is holding its meeting there, and all are proud of the building.

Wheat harvest will be in full swing in just a short time. Hall County now has in prospect a bountiful wheat yield that will mean a lot of money to the farmers.

Mrs. J. S. Ballard votes: "I am in favor of having an Old Settlers reunion later in the summer."

High Attendance—

(Continued from Page 1) is evidence enough that rodeo fans will enjoy an action-packed night of excitement. Tonight's show will get underway with the Grand Entry that will feature both rodeo performers and local riders. The Childress Riding Club has remained over from the parade to take part in the Grand Entry.

Following this there will be an introduction of officials and the playing of the National Anthem, according to the tentative program announced by T. B. Rogers, association president. Fun-loving youngsters from eight to 80 can expect a double dose of laughs from the antics of Charlie Shultz and his celebrated "Bucking Ford."

Fierce Competition
Top flight performers will make the competition for the $1200 prize money especially fierce. This R. C. A. approved rodeo should draw plenty of talent. Stock is being provided by R. L. Pointer of Elgin, Oklahoma, his reputation for furnishing the best in rodeo stock is an assurance of a fast show.

The competition opens with the calf roping event, one which always offers an abundance of thrills and excitement. Charlene Walling, widely-known trick and fancy rider, will then take the spotlight for her daring car jump trick. Saddle bronc riding follows Miss Walling's act. Plenty of spills should be in order as the cowboys match brain and brawn with top-flight bucking horses. Charlie Schultz will bring his trained donkey into the arena for the next fun-packed act.

The ninth event on tonight's program will find the contestants racing both calves and time in the popular bull dogging matches. This will be followed by Charlene Walling's thrilling fire jump feat, during which she takes her mount through a blazing ring of fire.

The remainder of the evening's events will be run off in this order: second section of bull dogging, trick riding, first section of bull riding, Clark and Arline Schultz's Whip Act and the second section of bull riding.

Tickets are now on sale at all drug stores. They may also be purchased from members of the rodeo committee or at the gate at Cyclone Stadium. Admission prices are: school children, 50 cents plus tax (60 cents); adults, $1.25 plus tax ($1.50); reserved seats, $1.65 plus tax ($1.98).

Second Parade Friday
T. D. Weatherby, parade chairman, has announced that a second parade will be held Friday evening at 3:00 and will also start at Ninth and Main. An addition to Friday's parade will be the Vernon Riding Club.

It is hoped that all who participated in today's parade will return tomorrow and help make it even bigger and better.

Boosters Spread Publicity
The three-day rodeo should not suffer from lack of publicity. Childress, Vernon and other towns south of Memphis were visited by booster trips last week. Lakeview, Estelline, Turkey, Quitaque and Silvertown were covered by a booster trip last Thursday.

Tuesday the longest, and perhaps most successful, trip of all was staged. A 20-car caravan, carrying some 100 boosters, toured Hedley, Clarendon, Claude, Amarillo, Groom, Shamrock and Wellington. Featured during this publicity tour were the Firemen's square dancers, the high school band and Mac Graham's Red River Ramblers.

The boosters stirred plenty of interest during this tour. Evidence of this was seen in Friday morning's Amarillo Daily News which carried two pictures of the group as they performed in Amarillo.

Tuesday's schooled trip to Hollis, Oklahoma, was called off because of threatening weather but a trip was made to that city Wednesday night to spread the news of the big event.

Friday, Saturday Program
The rodeo performances on Friday and Saturday nights are also scheduled to begin at 8 p. m. Programs will follow along tonight's line. Excitement should mount with each performance right up to Saturday's big final night.

Officials of the Hall County Rodeo association are enthusiastic over pre-rodeo interest and expressed thanks to everyone who has co-operated in making this one of the annual highlights of activity in Memphis and throughout this area.

Wise Studio—

"We are adding some new equipment which will enable us to give our customers better photographs with faster service," he added.

"As yet we are unable to determine the exact opening date, but it will be announced later along with a special event," Mr. Wise concluded.

Funeral Services—

The Newlin Baptist Church, Gray Carter, minister of the Church of Christ, and A. O. Strother.

Pall bearers were: C. L. Mixon, Neal Sweatt, Woods Richards, Ernest Lee, Garvis Davis and Edwin Hutcherson.

Services were under the direction of Murphy-Spicer Funeral Directors. Burial was in Fairview cemetery.

Lockhart is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ada Lockhart, Memphis; four sons, Edd Lockhart of Arlington, Cecil Lockhart and Barney Lockhart, both of Memphis, and one daughter, Mrs. Lela Walton of Ft. Worth.

Other survivors include three brothers, Joe Lockhart of Stephenville, Johnnie Lockhart of Louisiana; and a sister, Mrs. Lyle Steele of Mexia, Texas.

A number of grandchildren and great grandchildren also survive him.

Born Sept. 26, 1868, in Alabama, Lockhart moved to Dallas County, Texas, with his family while still a young boy. He later moved to Erath County.

He married Miss Ada Harris in 1896 and family moved to a farm near Salisbury where they lived until 1941. At this time Lockhart retired and he and Mrs. Lockhart moved into Memphis.

He was a life long member of the Baptist Church.

City Agent W. B. Hooser Tells Story of Soil In Youth Language

THE STORY OF MY LIFE — By A. SOIL

W. B. HOOSER, Agricultural Agent

NAME IS SOIL. "What's yours? Name, what's yours? A few minutes while I tell you about my life. I don't mean for really I'm your... but I do like

... probably think I'm life of any kind. I live with you but to my side of the tell you how much life is in me.

... place I'm as old as here on earth even American Indian. So really a native.

... believe it, but I get the most myster- the whole world. made of. I am made rock. This rock has down and then built Mother Nature.

... How? By the of running water wind. Sometimes in ice sheets helped into smaller bits.

... time all of this going on, the rain- some of the fine- rock "flour." This chemical make-up.

Then as time went on, the ground- up rock "flour" was rebuilt by Mother Nature into something different—both physically and chemically different from the original rock "flour". This part of me is called clay.

Then, can clay be made in a laboratory by grinding up rocks real fine? No; man can make sand grains that look and act like Mother Nature's sand grains—but not so with clay. Man can't make clay. Clay is built up from the broken down parts of rocks only by Mother Nature.

Is this part of me—clay—is it living or dead? Please don't embarrass me. It is really dead, but it is so active, chemically, that you may as well call it alive. Clay is the main storehouse for most of my plant foods. Add lime or fertilizer to me and the clay hangs on to it until the plant wants it—just automatic like.

Now I want to tell you about the part of me that is really alive—the organic matter. Scientists take me apart sometimes. When they do, they tell me that I'm only about 1% organic matter. But this 1% of my make-up gives me lots of life, particularly when the organic matter is fresh. Here's what I mean.

With lots of lime and fertilizers, legumes like sweet clover grow by the ton. Just after your

Dad turned under the sweet clover this spring, things started to happen. Immediately bacteria and fungi started to work, reducing the clover back to the "dust from whence it came."

This rotting made things more favorable for millions and millions of small plant and animal life in the soil. Generation after generation of life gained nourishment from this rotting clover. Now you plant corn or cotton. The tiny root hairs of the plants push closer and closer to the rotting clover. They feed from it. All of the plant foods in the clover released by rotting bacteria and fungi are taken up by the corn and cotton. Also the process of rotting helps make some more plant food available from the clay.

I have told you about myself—how I am built up from broken down rocks and how fresh plants, like clover, supply the food for a more abundant plant life. Now do you believe me when I say I'm alive? It's your turn to tell me about yourself now.

If you and your father don't wear me out and thereby destroy but my ego, I'll tell you in the next part about more intimate things we have in common. We'll call it, "Just You and Me."

Just You and Me

Pre-registration for veterans at West Texas State College showed 161 signing up for the summer session. Almost that many more veterans are expected to register at the opening of the summer

Despite pessimism that veterans enrollment will fall off soon, enrollment was up this summer over pre-registration this time last year.

Soil Building Is Bonus From Feeding Stock

Feeders who use livestock as their most valuable piece of soil conservation "equipment", as well as their best method of marketing feeds, get a bonus value that will be of increasing importance in the future, livestock authorities say.

"The amount of profits made by livestock producers in the years just ahead will have more to do with the success of soil conservation than any other factor," Dr. A. D. Weber of Kansas State College recently predicted.

Records show that when cattle are fed home-grown feeds, a farm loses only one-seventh as much nitrogen, one-fourth as much phosphorus, and one-twentieth as much potash as when the grain is sold off the farm.

When a purchased high-protein concentrate, such as cottonseed meal, is added to the home-grown grain and roughage, there may even be a net gain in soil fertility. Professor F. B. Morrison points out:

"When such protein-rich feeds as cottonseed meal, linseed meal and tankage are purchased and fed to stock and proper care is taken of the manure produced," he comments in 'Feeds and Feeding,' a "double return is secured. The first return comes from the high feeding value of these protein supplements, and the second from the fertility added to the soil."

Because of its higher nitrogen and phosphorus content, a ton of cottonseed meal has approximately $10 more manurial value than a ton of carbohydrate feed, such as corn.

Properly handled, a ton of manure is about equal to 100 pounds of fertilizer of 10-5-10 analysis. Since a steer or dairy cow usually will produce 1,000 pounds of manure, or more, monthly, this means that the animal is contributing $10 to $20 yearly toward improvement of the soil on the farm where it is fed.

In addition to its plant food value, manure provides humus, or organic matter, to increase the water holding capacity of soil, improve soil texture and reduce wind erosion. Acids and bacteria in manure also help to release plant food from insoluble compounds in the soil.

Feeding of a protein concentrate, such as cottonseed cake or pellets, on the range also is an important conservation practice. Supplemental feeding and moving feeding grounds regularly aids better distribution of grazing, and helps to prevent overgrazing.

Manure has a higher value if promptly spread on fields or pastures. If stored, it should not be allowed to become dry, overheated or leached by rains. Adding 100 pounds of superphosphate to each ton of manure increases fertilizing value and helps to prevent loss of nitrogen.

Put Surplus Butter In Home Freezers, Specialist Advises

Farm wives this week were advised by Margaret Jackson, assistant foods and nutrition specialist of Texas A. & M. College, to freeze butter at home and store it in the home freezer.

"Butter will remain of good quality for six months," she said. "This way you will have plenty of butter when the milk production drops off during the later part of the summer."

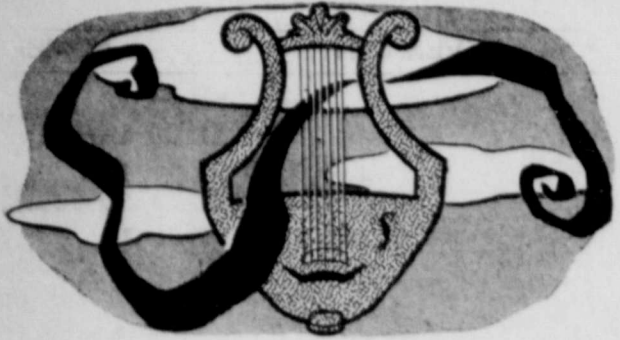

Miss Jackson says it's best not to even dry freeze poorly made butter. It doesn't keep well, even in the freezer.

Before freezing the butter, wash it well to get all the milk out. Mold it and wrap it in parchment paper. Then press all the air out that gets caught between the paper and the butter. Then it's ready to pack in wax cartons.

The regular general purpose paper that's used in the kitchens isn't as good as the wax cartons because it allows air to get to the butter. "And when you've got a pound of butter you can't use,"

Electric Power Consumption Up

April electric power consumption in Texas gained 1 per cent from March and rose 8 per cent from a year earlier, the University of Texas Bureau of Research reported.

With the exception of a 2-per cent reduction from March in residential power, all types of power users showed gains over both the previous month and a year earlier.

Residential consumption rose 13 per cent during the 12-month period; commercial, 10 per cent; and industrial, 2 per cent.

After adjustment for seasonal variation, the Bureau's index of total power consumption increased fractionally to 338 per cent of the 1935-39 level in April. The Bureau's seasonally adjusted index of industrial consumption slid 1 per cent from March to 295 per cent in April 1949.

Assuming duties as officers during the service were Roselyn

Williams, president; Mildred Spieker, vice president; Una Loard, recording secretary; Joyce Hoff, corresponding secretary; treasurer, Lucille Burnett, Mary Foreman, parliamentary and Zady Belle Walker, reporter.

Tables were attractively decorated with seasonal flowers and hand painted place cards marked places for members and four guests.

The menu consisted of fried chicken, green beans, creamed potatoes, asparagus, salad, hot rolls, iced tea and cake topped with whipped cream and strawberries.

Shirley Ann McBee is visiting her cousin, Mary Lee McBee, in Amarillo this week.

I REMEMBER...

By THE OLD-TIMERS

From H. H. V.: "I remember when 'split-the-top' was a popular game. Each kid had a top with a sharp spear point with which he would try to split the other kid's top. Once a kid's top was split, he'd lose interest in spinning tops for a while and turn to hunting carbon rods beneath are lights, catching crabs in the ditches, picking up an old rusty tea kettle and arriving home with almost everything imaginable in the kettle and stuffed into his already bulging pockets."

From Henry H. Voeke: "I remember when blacksmiths used to make rings for us kids out of horseshoe nails. Also when we would buy a ball of twine for five cents and make our own baseballs, using tire tape for the cover."

R. H. S.: "I remember how Mother used to cook all meals over a hot kitchen range and think nothing of the inconvenience compared to now. And how the evening meal was eaten in the dining room with that round art-globe oil lamp on a high stand as the only light. These were the days when Dad would retire to the sitting room and didn't want to be disturbed."

From R. H. S.: "I remember how boys used to snatch a drink from the cooler dome-head of the horse-watering troughs along the streets. And how some teasing girl would come along to pound the boy's head and sometimes knock out a front tooth or two. Those dome-heads were of cast iron."

From Mrs. Leo Ireland of Bainbridge, N. Y.: "I remember when women wore 'rats' in their hair. My mother had a wire frame with a stocking leg pulled over it. I remember the time she was winding her hair around it when she gave out a blood-curdling shriek and fainted. When her head struck the floor a mouse jumped out of the 'rat'."

From A. Judy of Chicago: "I remember when 'dime' novels cost five cents. That was in the Gay 90s. Later they were sold in book form for 15 cents. Some of the titles were 'Jesse James', 'Liberty Boys of '76', 'Frank and Dick Merrilwell', 'Fred Fearnot' and 'Diamond Dick'."

From Mrs. Mary Stewart of Chicago: "I remember when large barrels of fresh sawdust were regularly delivered to shopkeepers. The grocery boy's job was to sweep up the dirty sawdust every night and each morning spread on the fresh sawdust. We loved to write our names, with the pointed toe of our shoe, in the freshly-spread sawdust. It had a distinctively-fresh odor I shall never forget."

From Mrs. Ella Kristenson: "I remember the taffy-pulls and 'sociables' out in Kansas sod houses when we had to bring in the spring seat off the wagon to use for chairs. One evening, as I sat with a rosy-faced boy on Father's spring seat, he slipped an arm around my waist. I can still remember the ecstasy of that moment."

From Mrs. Hary Stewart: "I remember when friends and neighbors gathered to help split and saw up the winter wood. These events were called 'sawing bees.' Each man brought his own ax and two took hands on the long saw. The boys gathered and stacked the wood. Needless to say, a big boiled dinner and lots of jollity eased the labor of the day."

From Paul H. Peterson: "I remember the man who used to come around the neighborhood with a two-wheeled, horse-drawn cart selling kerosene for the family lamps. We kids had a choice of a pin-wheel or a kite with the purchase of each gallon. Those were the good old days."

TRICK AND FANCY RIDING by the Walling Sisters of Henryetta, Okla., will be one of the features at the annual Hall County Rodeo in Memphis tonight, Friday and Saturday nights. The all-professional rodeo is sponsored by the Hall County Rodeo Association.

meadows, and all fields according to the recommendations of the county agricultural agent?

If you do these three things, I'll pay you back 10-fold and more by:

1. Being a good child and not running away from home any more.
  2. Producing more and a better quality of corn and vegetables—and everything—so you can make more money.
  3. Making your farm life more enjoyable and you and your family healthier and happier.
- Can anyone lose in such an agreement?
- Here I've told you how much we depend on each other; also, how we both can enrich our lives. Now that we are practically "engaged," I want you to meet my parents.
- Meet My Parents
- Like every boy and girl, I have both a father and a mother. Of course I love both my parents just like you do, but it's my mother who is better known. Let me tell you about her first. My mother was born when the earth was first formed. You have heard, of course of Mother Earth, well that's my mother. If the whole earth is my mother, then where do I come in? You mean you can't tell me—the Soil from my mother? There is very close resemblance, of course, we do look alike. But I have developed right here in place from the surface of Mother Earth.

Sometimes my mother is limestone bedrock; other places she is sandstone, in other locations my mother is ground-up rock that has been moved by water or wind, and in the earth, sometimes, also by ice.

Then along comes my father—Father Time—acting on Mother Earth. Later a child is born, the soil—the hero of this story.

And if you can spare me a few more minutes of your time, I'd like to make some suggestions to you on how to take care of me.

How to Take Care of Me

Now that you understand that my mother is Mother Earth and my father is Father Time, I want to suggest how you can take care of me a little better.

When my mother has lots of lime, phosphorus, and potash in her, I am strong and easy to get along with. Also, I stay more youthful and productive. When my mother is well supplied with these minerals, the plants that grow there are well supplied with these minerals, and the animals that eat those plants are healthy, and the man who eats those plants and animals is stronger and happier. In most places, however, my mother does not have all of the necessary minerals—and neither do I. In that case, they must be added as lime and fertilizers.

I want to stay young and productive for you, but I need your help. I age rapidly when Mother Nature is sandy and low in the live-giving minerals just mentioned. Particularly is this true under the high rainfall and high temperature conditions found throughout the South.

To keep me young, vigorous, and more useful to you just treat me like a good friend. This means:

1. Feed me lime, phosphorus, potash, and other minerals as needed.
2. Supply me with lots of fresh organic matter like manure or a good crop of vetch plowed under.
3. Make my supply of water more regular my terracing, contour cultivation, deep plowing, and raising deep-rooted crops.

Now after you have done at least one of these things to keep me young, you may read on the next part. It will be Fertilizer and Lime: Sources of Strength.

Fertilizer and Lime: Sources of Strength

When you sell corn and cotton from the farm year after year, where is the phosphorus coming from to put back in the soil? The lime? The potash? The nitrogen? Give up? Then I'll tell you. When Mother Earth, my mother, contains lots of these plant foods, then I, the Soil, will have lots of the plant foods. But the fact that I am well supplied with rich plant foods now, doesn't mean that I will never know poverty—because I will. So the problem of poverty is with us whether I am rich or poor to start with. It is only a matter of time.

Now I am ready to answer the question, "Where are the minerals and nitrogen coming from what we sell from the farm in our crops and livestock?"

The nitrogen may be put back in the soil in two ways. One way is to add nitrogen fertilizer to the soil. The other way is to raise legumes like vetch and sweet clover. On the roots of these legumes are little bumps about the size of buckshot. These bumps house bacteria—millions of them. These bacteria are able to use nitrogen from the air to build up their bodies. When they die, their bodies decay and the nitrogen can be used by the corn or cotton crop which follows the legume. Also, the nitrogen is made available to the legume plant on which it lives.

Now about the minerals—lime, phosphorus, and potash. Take lime—when the lime in me is exhausted, we must add more. Where does it come from? Mainly from ground-up limestone rock. How do you know you need lime? Test your soil. You can do this yourself. Ask your county agricultural agent. Lime is a source of strength. When it's needed it makes food crops richer in calcium, the most common bone-building mineral there is. Also, lime makes grasses richer in calcium. This is what makes for strong bone in cattle that eat this grass.

Potash—what that? It's a salt that comes mostly from the buried lakes of New Mexico and California. It is purified, sacked, and sold as 60% potash. What does it do for you? It makes the plants grow greener, taller, and stronger. Sometimes also I am so low in available potash that plants like white clover and alfalfa can't grow. In this case we add potash so the better plants can get started on your farm.

Phosphorus—now there's a bad boy! There's never very much phosphorus in me anywhere. Then when I'm over acid, what little phosphorus there is in me can't be used by the plants. And when I'm full of lime, the same thing happens. That's why it is so important to test me for acidity. When I'm only slightly acid, the phosphorus is most available to growing plants.

Where does phosphorus come from? From the pebbles of Florida and the phosphate rock of middle Tennessee. It is a fertilizer just as it comes from the ground? No, not a good fertilizer. To make it a good fertilizer, sulfuric acid must be added to it. This mixture is called superphosphate. That is what you buy in a sack of superphosphate fertilizer.

Are these fertilizers always sold and used separately as nitrogen, phosphorus, and potash? No, most of the time they are sold as mixtures of all three materials, like 4-12-8, 4-12-8? What do you mean? In a 100 pound sack of 4-12-8, there are 4 pounds of nitrogen, 12 pounds of phosphate, and 8 pounds of potash. Now you tell me what a 4-12-4 means? and 0-14-7?

I have told you about lime, phosphorus, potash, and nitrogen,—where they came from and what good they do. I showed you what a mixed fertilizer like 4-12-8 really is. Nitrogen, phosphorus, potash, and calcium (lime)—aren't there other elements, to necessary for plant growth? Yes, there a total of 14. But these are the usual ones added. Sometimes we add magnesium along with calcium in our lime. At other times we add to the soil, boron, sulphur, copper, zinc, iron, and manganese. These are called minor elements. In addition to these elements, plants use from the air oxygen, hydrogen, and carbon.

At Your Service

Did you ever wonder what would happen if my surface, 6 inches, were suddenly pushed into the sea? You would starve, wouldn't you?

So you see how important I am in feeding you and supplying your wants. In other words, I am at your service in furnishing you food and feed crops, like potatoes and corn. Also, I am at your service in growing grass for your livestock and forests for building your homes.

Now don't you really think I am at your service? Won't you help to make me of even greater service?

It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that permits poisonous waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smarting and burning is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won countrywide approval than on something less favorably known. Doan's have been tried and tested many years. Are at all drug stores. Get Doan's today.

The Soil—Its Beginning And Care

Elsewhere in this issue is an article on soil. It was written by W. B. Hooser, county agricultural agent, and approaches the subject from a different viewpoint. It should be read by every person who is interested in the prosperity of Memphis and Hall County.

"The Story of My Life" is the title of his article, and it is presented in a manner that can be easily understood by young and old alike. When he says "I am the most familiar, yet the most mysterious stuff in the whole world," you can pause briefly and recognize the complexity of his statement. He takes you back to the beginning of time when soil was being formed, then tells how the welfare of man and the soil are tied together.

Literally millions of words have been written during the past few years on soil conservation. The people of the nation are beginning to realize how important the top six inches of the earth's crust is to mankind. No article has come to our attention dealing with this vital subject which has been presented in a more convincing manner than that written by Mr. Hooser.

We recommend this article to our readers. Mr. Hooser knows the subject about which he writes, not only from theory but from actual experience. His record as county agricultural agent bears out every statement he makes, and the hundreds and hundreds of farm youth whom he has taught and influenced will be producing more and more of the necessities of life due to his teachings.

WILSON'S PHILOSOPHY — Looking across the nation at the trends for more and more federal controls, we can read a warning in a fine Democrat's philosophy, which was offered to the nation a generation ago in the words "The history of liberty is a history of limitations of governmental power, not the increase of it." The famous Democrat and former president of the United States was Woodrow Wilson. —Tulare, (Cal.) Daily News.

U. S. MONOPOLY—Soviet newspapers charge that the Food and Agricultural Organization of the United States is an agency of the United States "monopolists." The United States, one might point out, as compared with Soviet Russia, has had almost a monopoly of sending food to feed the starving peoples of the world. It has had a practical monopoly of generously spending its money for the benefit of other peoples in the hope of improving the living standards of all people and thus creating a stable world economy.—Gass City (Ind.) Journal.

• What this country needs is a good plan where we can keep on spending all the money that we are spending now and at the same time reduce the taxes back to the 1945 level.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kestrag

Practically every city-dwelling American is sure that bears are the most ferocious wild animals ever turned loose, and that a man who hunts them is a veritable giant among men.

The fact is, with certain important exceptions (most of them pertaining to the grizzly), bear hunting is pretty dull sport.

Davy Crockett started the bad bear myth and he has had many eager cooperators since. One trapper told about his terrifying experience of being socked square in the kisser by a 1,500 pound grizzly. But after a quizzing by Writer Charles B. Roth it all came down to this: The grizzly was in a trap, the trapper got too close, and the bear let go a lucky roundhouse right, which you or I would have done in like conditions.

One of our most successful and realistic bear hunters was A. C. Rowell. He killed in all, around 300 bears, and never considered he was in the slightest danger. He had very little regard for grizzly courage. When asked if he were ever charged by one he replied: "Only by a wounded one or by a female trying to defend her young. But a female cottontail rabbit has attacked me under similar circumstances."

An African lion will keep charging to his last breath, no matter how many times you shoot him. But I have never seen a grizzly complete his charge.

There were never more than two kinds of bears in the United States—the black and the grizzly. The so-called brown bears, little cinnamon bears and big cinnamon bears are all variations of mutations of these two classes.

All bears are omnivorous, but the grizzly is more inclined to be carnivorous. Early day cattlemen, coming across the partially devoured carcass of a beef animal, jumped to the conclusion that a grizzly was the culprit. Actually the real killer was usually a mountain lion, and the grizzly came along later in the role of a scavenger.

Anything that can be caught, chewed and swallowed is bear food. But the bear—grizzly and black—is ill-equipped to catch most other animals. Of necessity he is mainly a vegetarian.

The grizzly has been hunted so persistently that he is almost exterminated, and only a comparatively few black bears remain in this country.

• A physician says a man is slightly taller in the morning than in the evening. We never checked on this theory but have noticed a tendency to become "short" before every payday.

Democrat Want Ads P-A-Y!

• In a recent survey taken to find out why people are so extra-vagant, up comes this answer. There are thousands of ways to spend money but only one way to save.

• A safety warning that should make everyone think is the sign in a tombstone maker's window: "We Can Wait—Drive Carefully."

• It's a pretty good sign that the honeymoon is over when the bride starts complaining about the noise hubby makes getting breakfast.

• Married men should be masters in their homes or know the reason why, states a writer. At least most of them know the reason why.

This Week in WASHINGTON

LOBBYING in this 81st congress has reached a new high, or a new low, depending upon your viewpoint... in numbers registered, amount spent and tactics employed to influence legislation.

According to a compilation of expenses or expenditures thus far, lobbyists have spent or have at least reported expenditures of $2,182,329 from 264 groups, according to Congressional Quarterly, a non-partisan and accurate reporting service. This is an all-time record.

As a result, the house has passed a bill calling for a joint committee of congress to probe the lobbyists. The measure is pending in the senate and likely will pass. Objective is twofold, according to observers here—to obtain information on how to strengthen the rather loosely-drawn lobbying law, passed in 1946, and to learn whether or not the lobbyists are violating the law.

Many new gimmicks are being used to call the attention of congress to the pet measures of the lobbyist. For instance, the National Tax Equality association is circulating phony dollar bills called a "tax-free buck" to call attention of congress to the tax exemption features of farm cooperatives. The Property Owners' association used cartoons to fight the rent control law. Merchant Marine veterans seeking draft exemption for seamen sent printed paper bags urging congress not to leave them "holding the bag." Even the American Library association used a Graham Hunter cartoon reprinted from the "Southern Agriculturalist," urging federal funds to buy more bookmobiles.

There was a lobby investigation in 1941 led by Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney of Wyoming, chairman of the temporary national economic committee which drafted recommendations, some of which were incorporated in the anti-lobby law. The last big probe of lobbying was made by Sen. Hugo Black of Alabama, now Supreme Court Justice. In 1935 to 1938, Senator Black's committee was appropriated $62,500 for its probe during consideration of the Public Utility Holding Company act of 1935. The investigation revealed that more than $1,500,000 was spent on a campaign to defeat the act.

Another home added to the distribution lines of United Gas... another extension of service for the perfect fuel. Last year, our distribution lines reached out to serve approximately 100 new residential customers every working day... nearly 30,000 new gas users in the year!

Construction and operation of lines leading to homes and stores in cities and towns of the Gulf South are among the many functions of the United Gas organization... all of which have the ultimate purpose of assuring a continued dependable supply of natural gas to our customers.

Engineers State Price and Demand Equal for Farmers

The old story of "six of one and a half dozen of the other" is working this year in Texas in the outlook for agricultural buildings, farm equipment and supplies, agricultural engineers announced last week.

According to a survey made recently at Texas A. & M. College, building estimates indicate a six per cent increase in dollars worth of construction for 1949, while a six per cent in farm construction is in sight, the six per cent national increase will tend to hold material prices right where they are now, it was pointed out. The price index on lumber has dropped about six percent since last August, but the price jumps in other building products have cancelled this advantage for the prospective builder.

The rubber industry estimates that there are more than twice the number of farm implements—not including tractors—on rubber tires than there were in 1932. One company plans to produce two million more tires this year than last. Farm tires are on the increase, too. Statistics show that 55 per cent more rubber has been used in the farm industry since V-J Day than in any three peak years up to that time.

Gas Corp. Begins Distribution of Common Stock

SHREVEPORT, La.—Distribution began last week of 5,316,682 shares of the United Gas Corporation common stock to former preferred and second preferred stockholders of Electric Power & Light Corporation, it was announced by N. C. McGowan, United Gas President, at general headquarters here.

The distribution of this large block of stock results from action originated nearly 7 years ago when the Securities and Exchange Commission ordered dissolution of Electric Power & Light pursuant to provisions of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935. A plan for compliance through exchange of securities by Electric Power & Light was approved by the SEC and ordered enforced by Federal Court.

United Gas Corporation and its subsidiaries are principally engaged in the production, transmission and distribution of natural gas in the states of Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Southern Alabama and Northwestern Florida. At the end of 1948, United Gas was serving 399 cities and towns and had more than 333,000 customers on its lines. The firm was organized in 1930, with the merger of a number of natural gas companies. Since that date, an integrated pipeline system has been built, composed of more than 6,000 miles of main transmission lines, more than 7,500 miles of distribution and service lines and 1,000 miles field lines.

Commenting on the transfer of stock, McGowan said, "This means that thousands of people living in all parts of the Nation will become the owners of United Gas. United Gas is expanding its facilities in an orderly and healthy manner, and anticipates continued steady growth."

A writer has figured out why some people don't mind their own business—some have no mind, others, no business.

Middle Aged Told To 'Take It Easy' By Health Officer

There is an old slang expression that would make a good slogan for living a longer and more comfortable life, and that is "Be your age." According to the State Health Officer, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, many persons injure their health and endanger their life through indulgence in exercises and vigorous sports unsuited for their age and physical condition.

"Persons of middle age should never participate in activities requiring violent physical exertion, and should confine their physical exercise to such bounds as their doctor prescribes," Cox asserted.

The State Health Officer suggested that all persons of middle age be examined by their physician, before planning their summer vacation activities. A vacation can easily be more exhausting than refreshing, and in such event, more harm than benefit results from the time thus spent. Fishing, boating, hiking in moderation, and many other light recreations can be engaged in by the older people who must avoid heart strain, and it is a wise precaution to have your doctor advise you as to what sort of vacation you should plan.

"A wife has been fined $25 for whipping her husband on the street. She should have known home was the only place for that."

"Don't be too rough with a pessimist. Some of them are that way because they backed an optimist."

"This Isn't Puppy Love—It's PAPPY Love"

Dads To Be Honored on Father's Day, June 19, Which Was Started in 1909

Members of families over the nation will pay tribute to Dad on Sunday, June 19, with warm-hearted greeting cards and gifts of all kinds.

Father's Day was first proposed in 1909 by Mrs. John Bruce Dodd of Spokane, Washington, as a tribute to fathers everywhere.

The Spokane Ministers Association sponsored the first city-wide Father's Day in 1910.

Dad is top man in America—but in some other parts of the world, he could stand a little recognition.

In India, Dad's in even worse shape. If Father goes into debt, Mother can sell him into slavery to pay off the creditors.

Father hasn't always been low man on the tribal totem pole, though. In Biblical times, it was considered a crime punishable by death for a child to disagree with his Father.

ers even selected the wives for their sons—and no back talk allowed.

The champion Father of Ancient Days undoubtedly was King Solomon. He had 700 wives and 300 concubines, but the Bible doesn't mention how many youngsters played hide-and-seek in the royal palace.

Solomon had a little-known modern counterpart, however, Emperor Mulai Ismail of Morocco had 300 wives and 700 concubines, reversing Solomon's proportion out of deference to the Old Testament.

But whatever Dad's social status or the size of his household, he's always enjoyed a warm and respected niche in the family's heart. Father's Day is only 40 years old, but tributes to Dad are an ancient tradition.

Anita Johnson To Be Presented in Recital Tuesday

Mrs. Conley Ward will present Anita Johnson in a piano recital Tuesday evening, June 7. Miss Johnson will be assisted by Gene Gardenhire, violinist.

The program is calendared to begin at 8:00 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Roberts and son Denny are here visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Roberts and her mother, Mrs. Ora Denny.

TO WED SUNDAY—Miss Sue Lynn Guthrie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy L. Guthrie, will become the bride of Tommy Carl Hulse, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Hulse of Sunnyvale, Calif., on Sunday afternoon, June 5, at 4:00 o'clock in the Methodist Church.

CONTEST ENCOURAGES 4-H YOUTHS TO BUILD NATION'S DAIRY HERDS

To encourage 4-H'ers in the building of successful dairy herds, the Kraft Foods company annually donates a number of awards for outstanding records.

Eight $25 U. S. savings bonds will be presented to state winners while all-expense trips to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago will be arranged for 10 sectional champions.

State winners from Texas in 1948 included Billy Fowler of Lakeview, Doyle Davis, Hart, Billy Popham, More.

There are some 27 million dairy cows in the nation. One of the objectives of the National 4-H Dairy Production program, with which Kraft Foods co-operates in giving awards, is the building of a successful dairy herd from an original investment in a 4-H Club calf.

Guided by county agents and local 4-H Club leaders, more than 1,899 boys and girls are participating in this "learn by doing" 1949 project. They require knowledge to grow fine pastures, build healthy herds and produce good clean, wholesome milk. Not content to stop there, these future dairymen pass along their knowledge to the community by demonstrating at clubs and meetings procedures such as "Dairy Problems on the Farm," "Dairy Cattle Management," and "Care and Handling of Milk."

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ellerd and son Joe Edd, of Plainview, visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Winifred Wise Sunday. Jo Edd is staying with the Wises until Sunday.

Mrs. Allen Grundy and Mrs. George Greenhaw attended a wedding in Esteline Sunday.

Carl Lee Ledford, of Wichita Falls spent last week here with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Ledford.

Mrs. Guy Smith and children returned to their home in Tullia after a weeks visit with Mrs. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Neeley.

Mrs. Larry Thompson and daughter, of Oklahoma, are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Thompson.

Jerry Foster, of Canyon, is visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Wright and family this week.
