

Memphis Boys Defeat Panhandle Team In Contest There Tuesday Night, 43-40

The Memphis High School boys basketball squad defeated Panhandle, 43-40, Tuesday night, to chalk up their fifth conference win against no losses. The contest was played at Panhandle.

In a contest, preceding the boys tilt, the Memphis girls lost to the Panhandle sextet. They now have a conference record of three victories and two defeats.

Nolan Potet, coach of the boys team, said the game was a defensive one all the way, as the score would indicate. He said the Memphis boys played good ball.

Duke Frisbie tallied 13 points for the Cyclone, to take high-scoring honors. Jimmy Davis made 11 points, and Kenneth Cheek accumulated 11.

Sherwood, of the Panhandle squad, ran up 12 points, Russell 9, and Bentley 8.

The Memphis boys are scheduled to meet McLean here Friday night. If the Cyclones win, it will give them the conference championship, and put them in a good position to win the district crown.

If they are undefeated when they start play at the district tournament in Clarendon next week, they are certain to come out of the tourney in a tie with the winner of the Clarendon meet. This will automatically put Memphis into a playoff with the tournament victor, to determine the district champion.

If the Memphis boys should also take the district tournament, they would clinch the district title.

If they should lose the McLean contest Friday night, they will conclude their conference activities in a tie with Panhandle and McLean.

The tournament will commence Feb. 11 and close Feb. 13. The boys contest with McLean will get underway in the local high school gymnasium immediately following conclusion of the girls game. The girls contest will start at 7 o'clock.

Fans are urged to turn out and give the local teams all the backing they can.

Potet said the local boys were in good shape Wednesday.

In games, played here Friday night, the Memphis teams lost to Samnorwood. Both of the visiting teams played good ball, as fans who attended the recent Caprock Tournament here know. Samnorwood won in both the boys and girls divisions at that time.

Friday night, Samnorwood defeated the Memphis boys 44-34 in a rough game.

Carroll Gardenhire made 9 points for Memphis, and Ronald Cawfield and Cheek scored 7 points each.

Oldham led the Samnorwood squad, with 13 points, and Martindale ran up 9.

The district girls tournament will be held here, Feb. 18-20.

He recalled in later years that when he started here, water for developing was drawn from a cistern, lamps were used in dark rooms, and all developing and setting was done by sunlight. Exposure time was so long that a head rest was used to hold subjects still, he related.

Mr. Orr held many state offices and won first place in the state in towns the place in Memphis for his work.

He served as Texas representative to the National Association of Photographers, of which he was a life member, and held an honorary life membership in the Southwestern Professional Photographers Association, a four-state organization, an honor which very few persons reportedly ever received.

He was listed in the Who's Who of Photography, also an honor which few were said to attain.

His skill won him renown as one of the best photographers in Texas.

Mr. Orr operated his business in a frame building for many years. In 1918, he added a gift shop. In 1926, he had a brick building constructed on the same spot and added a drug store.

He continued his photographic work almost to the end, although in his last years, recurrent attacks forced him to curtail his activities.

Mr. Orr was born in Giles County, Tenn., Aug. 22, 1884. His parents came to Hall County when he was about 7 years old. The family settled in the Lodge community, where they engaged in farming.

Mr. Orr was married to Miss Mattie Fletcher Miller in Memphis April 13, 1911.

He was a member of the Church of Christ and of the Masonic Lodge.

Survivors include: his wife; two granddaughters, Mattie Lou and Dorothy Jo Copeland, both of Memphis; a son-in-law, George Copeland, Wichita Falls; two brothers, Dr. W. P. Orr, Wellington, and M. N. Orr, Plaska; and a sister, Mrs. Arthur Gidden, Plaska. A daughter, Mrs. Virginia Copeland, preceded him in death about three years ago.

Pallbearers were Garvis Davis, Gene Hughs, Monty Alewine, Dr. Jack Rose, Bob Stephens and Charles Stout.

Honorary pallbearers were H. H. Lindsey, Ode Gibson, Joe Reheis, Temple Deaver, Sid Baker, Dr. J. A. Odum, N. W. Durham, John Vallance, Jim Vallance, Tom Dunbar, Bill Coursey, R. B. McMurry, J. M. All county winners will receive gold pins and their schools will receive plaques. All winners of county junior spelling bees will be awarded plaques.

Winners of the county spelling bees will be guests of the Amarillo Globe-News, at a luncheon in the Herring Hotel, the day of the regional contest.

The winner of the county junior bee here will have the right to compete in the senior event which follows.

Eligible for junior competition are students through the sixth grade. Seventh and eighth grade students will compete in the senior event.

Miss Foreman will call out the words at both bees. She said Tuesday that words on the official list range from "alas" to "tergiversate."

Judges will be composed of one representative from each competing school.

A Hall County student, Rebecca Smith of Estelline, won the first regional Spelling Bee four years ago and won a trip to Washington, DC, for herself and a chaperon.

Norman Couch of Turkey, won the county event the second year but was eliminated at Amarillo.

For the past two years, Sandy Smith of Memphis, has represented Hall County at Amarillo. Last year, he was runner-up.

Glenda Noah of Memphis, was the champion junior speller last spring, and Sandy Smith was winner the preceding two years. No junior match was held the first year.

Internal Revenue Agent Here, Feb. 17

An Internal Revenue Service agent is scheduled to be in Memphis, Feb. 17, to assist taxpayers in the preparation of their income tax returns for the year 1953. The agent, Wiley E. Davis of Amarillo, will be located at the courthouse from 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Much is being said about the Bricker Amendment to the Constitution these days, and a hot fight is going on in the U. S. Senate concerning the bill. It looks like it will end in a stalemate. However, American citizens are learning more about it, and in the end it will likely be adopted. Until just a few days ago, no one seemed to think such a change to the constitution would be necessary. With Russia working secretly and openly for a world government, which could be finally brought about if Russia can get enough countries to side her, then America would be dominated by sheer force of numbers. That being the case, our freedoms, for which wars have been fought and countless thousands of lives sacrificed, would be taken away from us to the extent that we could no longer vote except as the World Government dictated. This could very easily be done should any president become communist minded and make secret treaties. The Bricker bill would eliminate such a possibility.

Many of Comments readers have been inquiring why this column has been left out the past few weeks. # Pearls of Wisdom

(Strung by J.H.R.)

"When Hearts Are Trumps" Through the years, Valentines have become synonymous with hearts and "affairs of the heart" as was recently evidenced by an answer to a medical quiz. A young medical student in the beginnings of his study was asked to describe the heart. To this he replied, "All I know about the heart is that it's shaped like a Valentine."

Come spring, "A young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love." This being an accepted fact, how can our amorous swain better express his devotion than by sending a frilly bit of verse to his lady love.

Valentine's Day, because of its romantic sentiment, has a universal appeal and everyone (except perhaps the letter carriers) are glad when the day rolls around. As to the origin of this custom of sending greetings on February 14th, there are various theories. Be that as it may, the first valentines as we know them appeared in the 15th Century; they were handmade, with verses composed by the lover himself. And the lovers who were inept at writing poetry, slyly filched suitable verses from Cupid's Bower, Love's Messenger, and Quiver Of Love.

During the 18th and 19th Centuries, valentines became frilly and the verses were couched in fancy settings with real lace and handsome engravings. By 1880 however, the Golden Age of valentines was waning. To be sure the well-heeled sugar-daddy could buy one of the German "mechanicals" which were more startling than romantic. Cologne bottles and lovers, knots snapped and popped open to reveal winged couples in bowers, festoons of roses, spinning wheels . . . everything in short, but a fan fare of trumpets in these ingenious creations.

And to judge from the wild success of comic valentines in those days, people in the 90's were perverse and bitter in their sentiments. The vinegary cartoons had cruel illustrations and verses to match every vanity and fault. One "To A Flapper" went like this . . .

But your dress is too short, and your nose is too long, and your knees are turned in, and your shape is all wrong. The airs you put on, they make men sicken. The fellows all call you "A cold-storage chicken."

Of course, "the comics" enjoyed a limited popularity and were used mostly by pranksters for everyone had his own idea as to what was fitting now in grandpa's day, when a pocket knife was a must with every fellow, the entwining hearts cut into tree trunks and gate posts and carefully initialed with the right letters were not only hand-made but year-round and sincere bits of valentine artistry.

Today big business has taken over and the greeting card manufacturers recognize February 13th and 14th as the two biggest days in the year. A husband can climb out of the dog-house, says one writer, with a $5 super-valentine, "For the dearest wife in the world," with real lace fringes and a red rose on a white satin heart. Women, nothing if not thorough study the valentines carefully before making a purchase but most

Hunt Information Is Being Studied

AUSTIN—The action scene has shifted from the field to the laboratories as the main fall hunting season ended in Texas.

Now, according to W. C. Glazener, director of Wildlife Restoration for the Game and Fish Commission, technicians already have begun study of the specimens gathered during the harvest season.

This is a part of the pattern to determine population, reproduction, migration and general trends pertaining to the various species of wildlife.

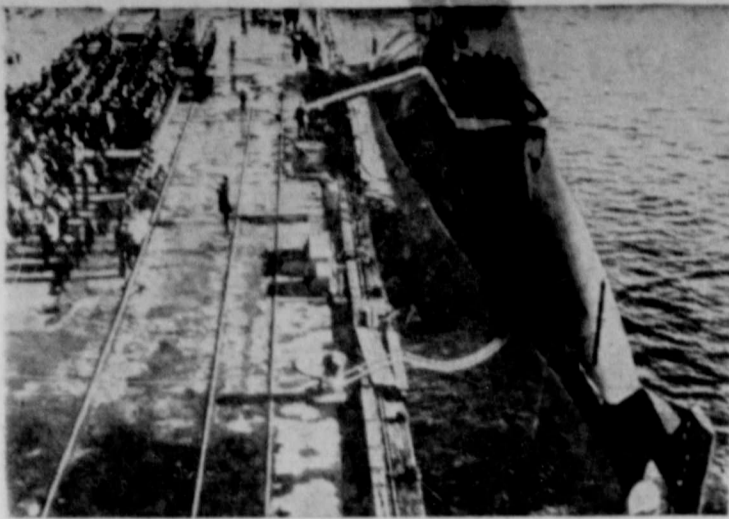

Glazener said information on deer, quail, mourning dove, white-wing doves, antelope, wild turkey, ducks and geese will be assembled.

Out of this scrutiny will come part of the basis for recommendations on future hunting season dates and bag limits.

The director said more than usual interest will center on the results of quail wing research because of the sharp sag in bobwhite populations in many sections. He added that hunters had been very cooperative in forwarding wings. He said the wings reveal an index to production, survival, age, composition and population trends.

Texans Turn From Hunting To Fishing

AUSTIN—Promising reports came from both fresh and salt water as outdoor minded Texans turned from the fall shooting season to angling pursuits.

Marion Toole, chief aquatic biologist of the Game and Fish Commission, said unusually good catches have been made in some areas although fresh water fishing generally has been scaled down to a seasonal pace.

Toole said, for example, that white bass catches have been exceptional in Lake Travis, one of the Highland Lakes chain northwest of Austin.

The year-around fisherman who knows his spots and knows his baits gets his bass, catfish and other fresh water species during the so-called off season, the chief aquatic biologist said.

"Of course," he said, "fish being cold blooded are not as active in winter because their metabolism slows down and they are not as hungry."

The Gulf Coast provided favorable reports, according to Chief Marine Biologist C. W. Reid of the Game and Fish Commission. He said trout and redfish were being taken in good quantities while strings of drum and sheepshead also were recorded.

From his headquarters in Rockport, the chief marine biologist explained that the salt water species are being taken from piers and docks, saying they have been biting good particularly during northers.

"When the water gets colder along the bays and shorelines," he said, "the fish head for deeper water. Many of them reach the ship channels which lead into the harbors and basins which have been dredged out. Thus they become available for the folks angling from the comparative convenience of the breakwaters."

Think before you act and live to tell of '54. That advice comes from the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Committee, and they urge every Texan to take the slack out of their safety belts. In other words, they say, be careful.

Debeaking is the most satisfactory method of preventing cannibalism among chickens. The job should be done several weeks before pullets commence to lay.

A thoughtful gift for the herd is a water heater. It has to be a fancy job—that will keep their drinker warm. Milk is approximating per cent water and if the herd doesn't drink because water trough is frozen, cold, production will drop.

Advice Is Given On Proper Way To Treat Roundworms

Pigs that are fed a good ration and still remain unthrifty are likely to have roundworms. Like wise, if you raise a litter of pigs on ground that was formerly occupied by pigs, there is a good chance that the second litter will have roundworms.

They can be identified as being large, thick yellow or pink worms about lead-pencil size.

Weaned pigs of any age may be wormed, but the best time to worm pigs is two or three weeks after weaning.

Another method is to worm them in the original pen, and later move them to a different pen, or out to the pasture three days after worming.

Pork Needs To Be Cooked Thoroughly Prior To Eating

AUSTIN—“Now that winter is here, our thoughts turn to pork — fast dinners or perhaps to waffles and sausage suppers. From the standpoint of good nutrition, pork is good to eat. It is rich in protein, fat, and vitamin B, but undercooked or raw pork is also the most common source of a disease called trichinosis.”

muscular tissue of infected animals. When such meat is eaten, the parasites multiply and enter the blood stream, causing fever, intense pain in the muscles and a high white blood cell count. Symptoms of trichinosis are varied. It may be confused with typhoid fever, food poisoning, colitis, rheumatism, pneumonia, and many other diseases.

Long, slow cooking will do the trick and retain the delicious juices of the pork.

This disease is transmitted in hogs principally by the feeding of uncooked garbage which invariably includes raw pork scraps containing the parasite of trichinosis. It is, therefore, essential for hog raisers and farmers to cook all garbage before feeding it to swine.

Dr. Cox says, “Don't let your fear of this disease rob you of your enjoyment of pork and its products, which are delicious and good for you. The most important preventive measure is — eat only pork that is well cooked.”

Here's Why Your Home Stayed Warm During the last "Nortner"

When the worst "Nortner" since 1950 swept into this community Wednesday, January 20, you had no fear of being cold.

From afternoon to midnight, temperatures fell from balmy 70's to bone-chilling 20's. Due to the rapid growth of the cities we serve nearly 100 thousand more homes were depending on us than when the last "Nortner" as big as this one hit.

Lone Star Natural Gas Service comes to this and 421 other communities in Texas and Oklahoma through a 7,000 mile interconnected pipeline system. Over 1,300 wells in 165 gas fields supply the system.

PREPARATIONS FOR THE "NORTNER" Gathering and delivering this gas to your and over 600,000 other homes is controlled by a central dispatching staff.

Every precaution was taken. Regular crews were doubled in compressor stations and in gas fields. Extra mobile equipment was brought in to speed movement of men in gas fields.

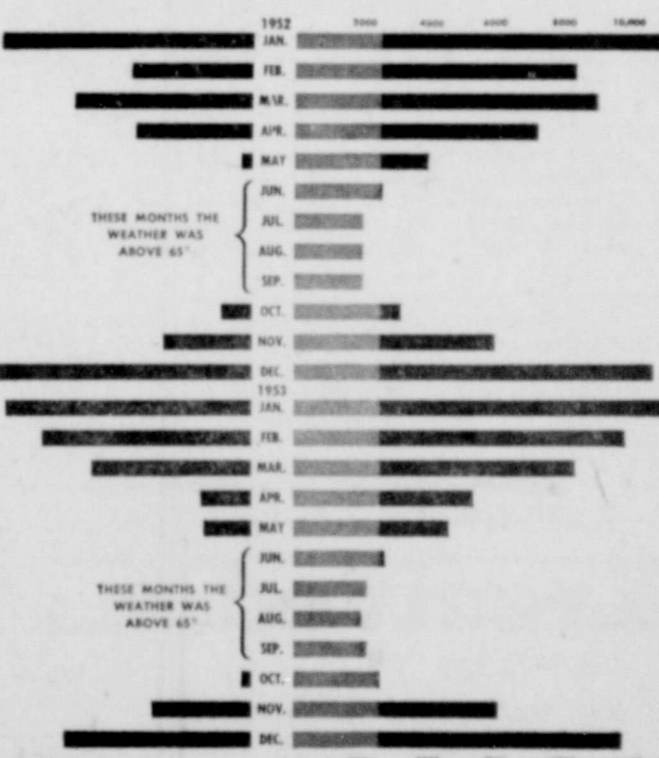

When temperature drops below 65 degrees everyone turns on their heating. For every degree the temperature falls past 65 degrees dispatchers know the amount of gas it will take to keep you warm.

CLOSE TIMING REQUIRED

On split-second timing as the temperature fell, gas from hundreds of wells was turned into field gathering systems. Gas stored in depleted fields was turned in, too.

Electric Cooking School Scheduled Here, February 18

All housewives in Memphis and the surrounding area are invited to be guests of the West Texas Utilities Company at an all electric cooking school to be conducted here next Thursday, Feb. 18.

The demonstration, which will present the most recent and modern developments of cooking, will be held at the Memphis Country Club at 2:00 P. M.

Mack Wilson, West Texas Utilities Company's local manager, in announcing the school, said, "As a result of numerous requests to repeat the cooking school, which we presented last June, this school was planned."

Mrs. Abbie Andrews, a senior home economist for Frigidaire Sales Corporation, will present the newest developments and new recipes and ideas. She will be assisted by Doris Moore, of West Texas Utilities Company's dis-

Atalantean Club Meets Wednesday In Martin Home

"Soil Conservation" was the topic under discussion when members of the Atalantean Club met in the home of Mrs. L. C. Martin on February 3.

Members repeated the club prayer in unison after which roll call was answered with bits of wisdom from great men.

The afternoon's program was presented by Mrs. W. C. Dickey and Mrs. Claud Johnson. Mrs. Dickey gave a worthwhile talk on "You Need Trees." "How to Have a Garden with no Water" was discussed in a most informative manner by Mrs. Johnson.

The president, Mrs. Ed Monzingo, conducted a short business session. Mrs. J. W. Coppedge reported that $59.81 was collected for the polio drive by the Atalantean Club.

Refreshments were served from an attractively laid table to the following members: Mmes. J. H. Norman, J. A. Odom, Robert Sexauer, N. A. Hightower, H. B. Estes, S. B. Palmeyer, Robert Spicer, Ed Monzingo, C. W. Kinslow, J. H. Morris, W. C. Dickey, Myrtil Phelan, Miss Imogene King and hostess, Mrs. Martin.

trict staff, Mrs. Andrews is a graduate home economist with years of practical experience. She has had special training in food preparation, preservation, and quick-freezing techniques at the nationally famous Frigidaire Home Economics Department at Dayton, Ohio.

Recipes and gifts will be given to homemakers who attend the demonstration. All the food used in demonstrating the modern electric way of food preparation will be presented to women attending the school.

Woman's Culture Club Meets For Regular Session

The Woman's Culture Club met Wednesday, February 3, in the home of Miss Alma Bruce for a regular meeting.

Mrs. Grover Moss gave the devotional using as her subject "Peace." For the scripture reading, Mrs. Moss read Titus 2:7-3:14.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Burr Morris, a short business was presided over by Mrs. W. E. Leslie. Mrs. Frank Ellis reported on the result of the Mother's March for polio.

The program for the afternoon consisted of a discussion by Mrs. Clifford Farmer entitled "The Criminal in the Kindergarten." Mrs. Farmer stressed the importance of detecting potential criminals in the home and school to help combat juvenile delinquency.

During the social hour refreshments were served to Mmes. T. E. Adams, Frank Ellis, Clifford Farmer, D. A. Grundy, Ward Gurley, Jeanette Irons, W. E. Leslie, R. L. Madden, Grover Moss, Robert Moss, L. A. Stilwell, R. L. Duncan and the hostess, Miss Alma Bruce and her mother, Mrs. Sam Bruce.

Report From Washington

By Walter Rogers

Congressman, 18th District

BEWARE, PETER COTTONTAIL. Rabbit is coming into more prominence. The U. S. Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Human Nutrition and Economics, has recently issued a Garden Bulletin in its title, "WAYS TO RABBIT." This is a six-page booklet for sale by the Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., for ten cents per copy. It is intended to appeal to the general public, as it contains recipes, among which are rabbit chop suey, Creole rabbit, rabbit and hash, rabbit and plain, fried rabbit, with or without dumplings. It not only gives recipes on cooking, but also on buying and thawing rabbit. It is somewhat amazed, but researchers who peruse the booklet overlooked the fact that they should have at least a paragraph on "How to Eat Rabbit." I have eaten rabbit in my day under various aliases. Most church dinners carry a pretty good run of recipes for preparing the animal after it is caught. I never experienced any trouble in the cooking. It was always the catching that seemed to be the most trouble.

USE OF THE MAILS FOR LEWD AND FILTHY PUBLICATIONS

My good friend, J. C. Phillips, over at Berger, sent me a magazine the other day that is entered as second class mail. He called my attention to several stories and articles in the magazine that could be described as nothing short of absolutely filthy. I have forwarded this publication to the Post Office Department with proper request for investigation into the matter and prosecution by the Justice Department if warranted.

The Department recently conducted rather extensive hearings, which were no doubt rather costly to the taxpayer, concerning a postcard that was being mailed out by an Oklahoma cowboy. There was one word on the card that was certainly not acceptable in decent society and should not have been used. However, as far as pure unadulterated filth is concerned, that postcard couldn't get within forty miles of the publication that J. C. Phillips sent me. Of course, the publishers of that magazine are not some poor Oklahoma cowboy. They are unknown, as far as the publication shows. In fact, the ones who make the profit out of these filthy publications are hiding behind some corporate name or other type of name that does not disclose their identity. If the Oklahoma cowboy's activities caused such an uproar, the publication that I sent them should make the lid go off; that is, if it's decency instead of politics that some of the bureaucrats are interested in. These publications should not only be taken out of the mails, but they should be taken off the news stands and completely out of circulation.

THE TEXAS DELEGATION

I have just come back from an open meeting of the Texas Delegation in the Speaker's dining room at the Capitol. The delegation meets each Wednesday. Some of the meetings are closed and others are open. Today we had as speaker Sir Roger Makins, Ambassador to this country from Great Britain. He expects to make a trip to Texas in the near future, but will probably confine his schedule to the eastern and central parts of the state. I extended to him an invitation to visit the Pushover, but he advised me that he had already seen the Pushover and would take advantage of the invitation at a later date. There were quite a number of visitors at the meeting.

THE HYDROGEN BOMB

The President made public the other day the fact that this country had exploded a thermo-nuclear bomb at the Island of Eniwetok
