Many Disabled Veterans Living Useful Lives Because Of Rehabilitation Act

Wednesday, March 24, marked the eleventh anniversary of Public Law 16, a Federal law that has enabled nearly two-thirds of a million disabled veterans to train for useful, productive lives, Veterans Administration announced.

VA said its experience in administering this law has demonstrated that veterans with virtually every type of disability can be rehabilitated successfully.

Public Law 16, the Vocational Rehabilitation Act, was enacted March 24, 1943, during the height of the bitterly-fought "leap frog" landings in the Pacific and more than a year before the historic D-Day invasion in Europe.

Originally designed for disabled veterans of World War Two, the law was extended three years ago to cover those disabled in service since Korea.

So far, 602,000 disabled World War Two veterans have trained for jobs they can hold despite their handicaps. Another 13,000 veteran-trainees suffered their disabilities after the outbreak of hostilities in Korea.

A recent VA survey showed that 37 per cent of all Public Law 16 trainees had disabilities of the limbs; those included the amputees, the paraplegics, muscular injuries and others.

Another 25 per cent are veterans who have suffered mental illnesses, brain injuries, epilepsy and other similar disorders.

Eight per cent of the trainees have had respiratory ailments; six per cent had heart or blood vessel conditions; five per cent suffered from ailments of the digestive system; three per cent had hearing difficulties or diseases of the ear; two per cent were blind or had eye disease, and the remaining 13 per cent encompassed a wide variety of other disabilities.

The objectives for which these veterans trained have ranged from atomic physics to airplane mechanics.

According to another VA study, 35 per cent of the disabled veterans trained for professions and for top-level managerial jobs.

Thirty-eight per cent enrolled in trade and industrial courses, preparing themselves for jobs such as machinists, mechanics, electronic specialists and the like.

Fourteen per cent trained in agriculture; six per cent for sales jobs; five per cent for clerical positions, and two per cent for service occupations.

Today, disabled veterans with almost every conceivable type and degree of disability can be found working in practically every walk of life.

In El Paso, a severely disabled veteran who lost a leg on Okinawa was trained on-the-job under Public Law 16 as an electric motor repairman. Upon completion of his rehabilitation the firm which trained the veteran retained him in their employ due to the excellent job he was doing.

In Midland, a blinded veteran is practicing law and has his own law office. He received his training under Public Law 16 at Southern Methodist University in Dallas. His wife served as his reader while she was going to law school and is now a partner in his law office.

In Odessa a paraplegic veteran was provided training under Public Law 16 in his home. The VA provided him with an individual instructor since his disability prevented him from attending a public institution. He is now a very successful accountant and operates a thriving business in his home.

In Lubbock, a veteran with a severe heart condition trained on-the-job under Public Law 16 as a watchmaker. Completing his training, he opened his own shop

Travis Parent-Teacher Association Features Family Night Party Thursday

Approximately 150 parents, teachers and children of Travis Elementary School enjoyed the annual Family Night Party of Travis Parent-Teacher Association in Travis cafeteria on Thursday evening, April 8.

This program was especially planned so teachers, parents, and children could enjoy an informal evening together. Families arrived at 6:45 with well filled baskets of food. Coffee and cold drinks were provided by the hospitality committee.

Several long tables were filled with delicious food and after the invocation by Rev. Lloyd Hamilton in his home.

The Public Law 16 training program for World War Two veterans comes to an end on July 25, 1956. For veterans disabled since fighting started in Korea, the program will not end until nine years after the conclusion of the present emergency period—a date that is yet to be established.

May 15 Last Date Farmers Can Sell Excess Wheat

May 15 is the final date for Hall County farmers to dispose of excess wheat, seeded last fall for pasture and green manure under an emergency provision of the federal wheat control program, according to Lynn L. McKown, manager of the Hall County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office here. The date was recommended by the ASC county committee and approved by the ASC state committee.

The delayed date was approved in order to give farmers the advantage of any late grazing for their livestock that this excess wheat might provide during the next 30 days, McKown explained.

All farmers who have disposed of their excess wheat or who will dispose of it before May 15, should notify the county ASC office here of the disposal date. This will enable early clearing of their marketing quota records and make them eligible for a marketing card, so they can sell their wheat without paying a penalty, the county ASC official pointed out.

Stage Show Due At Memphis High, Monday, April 19

The musical stage show based on the tale of "Peter Rabbit" will be presented on the stage at the Memphis High School on Monday, April 19, at 2:45 p. m., Mrs. Lloyd Phillips, president of the Stephen F. Austin Parent-Teacher Association, sponsoring organization, said today.

The play is open to the public. Admission will be 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children.

"Peter Rabbit," the popular fairy-tale character and his obedient brothers and sisters, will be told in person by real live actors who will perform, sing and dance the whole story through. It is a story that the smaller children will love and one that the parents will enjoy, too, sponsors stated.

"Staged by Hollywood comedians, singers, and dancers, the show is one that you cannot afford to miss," Mrs. Phillips stated. "Peter Rabbit, that mischievous little creature, gets into a load of innocent trouble with old farmer McGregor. You will want to see and hear the Rabbits sing, dance and go through the many comical scenes."

Highway Patrol To Employ Radar To Check Speeding

AUSTIN.—Heavy-footed Texas motorists, whose tendency to push too hard on the gas pedal of their cars has made speed the Number One traffic killer in the state, are going to face the newest scientific device which has been designed to keep them—and others—alive by checking their rate of travel.

Homer Garrison, Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, announced recently in Austin that the Highway Patrol Division of his agency has secured three radar speed meters and that they will be put into use shortly in selected areas of the state.

He stated that the use of the radar machines will be a far cry from the old concept of "speed traps" and that the public will be adequately acquainted with their locations.

The machines, said to be accurate even beyond the reliability of an auto speedometer, will be operated by members of the Patrol who have been specially schooled in their use.

The first public tests of the equipment were made the first of this month in the Harlingen area and judges, prosecutors and members of the press were invited to try their hands at "beating the machine."

Garrison said that similar public demonstrations were to be made in other areas at intervals before the devices are actually utilized to catch speeders.

DODSON YOUTH KILLED IN WRECK EAST OF TOWN

Dan Jameson, 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Jameson of Dodson, was killed early Sunday morning when his automobile overturned at the junction of US Highways 83 and 62, about 20 miles east of Memphis. He was thrown from the car.

The body of Jameson was found about 50 feet from his wrecked auto by the driver of a Wellington funeral home ambulance who was returning from a call to Childress. The youth was pronounced dead on arrival at a Wellington hospital.

Jameson lettered three years in football and baseball at Wellington High School. After graduation he enrolled in West Texas State College in 1952.

At the time of death, he was making his home in the Dodson community, where he grew up. Funeral services were conducted in the First Methodist Church at Wellington at 3:30 p. m. Wednesday, followed by burial in the Dodson cemetery.

"Role of the Teacher in Promoting Mental Health" will be the subject, discussed by Dr. Cobb, a Ph. D., who is resident psychologist at the M. D. Anderson Hospital in Houston.

She was crowned with a silver and blue crown and received a white Testament and white corsage.

The first part of the Easter Parade was by pre-school children and tiny tots. In this division, Kathy Smith won first place and Renee Pardue, second place for the girls. For the boys, Steve Pardue won first place and Timmy Wyatt won second.

A group of high school boys and girls did a novelty arrangement of "Easter Parade." Duane Kennedy represented the press photographer. Mrs. Raleigh Adams was accompanist. To complete the style parade a representative girl, who had been selected from grades 7 through 12, modeled Easter clothes. Senior representative, Doris Chaudoin, won first place. No other places were announced. Representatives were: Junior Class, Tommy Jane Travis; Sophomore Class, Donalene Williams; Freshman Class, Jeanne Self; Eighth Grade, Anita Shields and Seventh Grade, Patricia Nivens.

Joan Kennon placed first in senior girls' tennis singles in district interscholastic League competition at Canadian over the weekend and will compete in regional play at Lubbock, April 23-24. Matches started and ended Monday.

On Friday, Joan defeated competitors from Panhandle and Canadian, and on Monday, overcame a Wellington, player 6-1 and 6-2.

David Duncan won second place in boys' singles, going down before Raymond Ramirez in the finals, 6-3, 6-4, and 6-4, in one of the hardest fought contests of the tournament.

In girls' doubles, Katherine Wright and Betty Claude Hickey lost to Canadian, 6-1, 4-6, 3-6, after beating a Clarendon doubles team in their first match. Childrens won this division.

Jimmy Davis and Roddy Bice lost to Childress, in boys' doubles play.

Junior teams (composed of students under 15 years of age) were in Canadian Monday for League competition.

In boy's singles, Elvie Williams was defeated by a Canadian foe, 6-1, 4-6 and 4-6.

The doubles team, composed of Dudley Gillespie and Don Townsend, also lost to Canadian.

All were hotly contested matches, according to their sponsor, Mrs. Jeanette Irons.

William Rigsby Hurt In Accident

William Rigsby of Estelina was admitted to a Kaufman hospital last week after suffering a neck injury when his automobile overturned near Kaufman. Later, a Dallas specialist was called and placed Rigsby in a cast.

The Estelina couple were en route home from a visit with relatives at Beaumont and were driving along a stretch of highway which was under construction, at the time of the accident.

As the Rigsbys were meeting another car, a large van started to pull around them. Rigsby swerved his automobile off the highway onto the soft shoulder. As he did, the vehicle turned over completely, landing on its wheels.

Angus Breeders Exhibit Winners At Shows In Area

Hall County Angus breeders made good showings with their animals at two area shows this past week.

C. A. Rapp & Son of Estelina, Clifford Farmer of Memphis, and David Hudgins of Brice, exhibited cattle at both shows.

At the Red River Valley Angus Show and Sale at Wichita Falls on Saturday, Farmer exhibited the second-place bull, which was also the reserve champion bull, and the first-place senior yearling heifer calf, which was judged the reserve champion female.

C. A. Rapp & Son had the second-prize junior heifer calf and the second-prize senior heifer calf.

On the previous day, at the West Texas Angus Association show in Lubbock, a bull, exhibited by Farmer, rated first, and one, shown by the Rapps, placed second. However, they were of such similar quality that both sold for $500 each, the top prices for the sale.

The Lower Panhandle Aberdeen-Angus Association will hold its second annual sale at the Hall County Auction Barn, just west of Memphis, Saturday, April 24.

Hudgins, who is president of the association, declared Tuesday that rains of the past few days should improve prospects for the sale.

IT'S THE LAW
in Texas

A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

GOVERNMENT OF LAW IS AMERICAN IDEAL AND PRACTICE
Nowadays we hear the term "Government of Law" from time to time. Few of us stop to think that this phrase means just what it says and that it is especially important to us as American citizens.

Judges get the law by which they decide the legal questions arising in a lawsuit from three sources: federal and state constitutions; federal and state statutes; and from previous judicial decisions and legal writings. Previous decisions state the public standards of rights and duties in matters not covered by constitutions and statutes.

Lawyers say that if judges and juries were not bound by law and precedents—if in each lawsuit, the judge or juror could set up a private standard of rights and duties as a basis for deciding that case—no one would know in advance of the decision how he should have acted in a particular situation. Cases arising out of similar circumstances would not be decided on settled principles but on the personal ideas of the trial judge or juror.

Because cases must be tried and determined on established and recognized public standards of right and wrong, we call ours a government of law and not a government of men.

Judges have access to statements of the law and know which apply to the situation involved in any lawsuit. So that justice may be done according to the law, it is imperative that the jurors in each case accept the law as the judge gives it to them. They are therefore required to base their verdict on his instructions as to the law, rather than on their own notions of what the law is, or ought to be.

For somewhat similar reasons there are rules governing the way a case is to be tried in court. These rules prescribe what must be stated in the pleadings, in what order evidence must be presented, what evidence is proper, what form questions must take, in what order lawyers are permitted to argue, what is permissible and what is not permissible argument.

If it were not for these rules no one could foresee what would happen during a lawsuit. It would be impossible to prepare properly for the trial. No one would know, until the judge had ruled, what he would be permitted to say or do, or in what order. Such a situation would inevitably result in confusion and injustice.

The whole purpose of laws and rules is to insure equal justice by providing a single standard of rights and duties, applicable to all persons similarly situated.

(This column, based on Texas law, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who knows the facts, because the facts may change the application of the law.)

Local Trackmen Go To Childress Meet Saturday

Memphis High School and Junior High School track and field teams accumulated 28 1/2 points, at the district Interscholastic League meet in Childress last Saturday, according to Coach Nolan Poteet.

Duke Frisbie was first in the 100-yard dash, with a time of 10 seconds, and second in the 220-yard dash, with a time of 23-1 seconds.

Memphis took second place in the mile relay, the time being 4:44 minutes. The team was composed of Kenneth Taylor, Jack Montgomery, Carrol Gardenhire and Clyde Tamplen.

Tamplen came in second in the 440-yard dash, with a time of 53.4 seconds.

In the junior high events, Van Howard set a new time for the 100-yard dash. His time was 11 seconds flat.

Howard took second in the high jump, with a leap of 5 feet, 2 inches.

The local junior high 440-relay squad capped first place, with a time of 51:02 1/2 seconds. Members of the team were Howard, Butch Adcock, Darrell Long and Joe Young.

Frisbie, Tamplen, Taylor, Gardenhire and Montgomery will compete in the Sandie Relays at Amarillo this Saturday and in the regional meet at Lubbock, April 24, Poteet said.

RAYMOND BALLEW "The House of Quality"

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

Each year approximately 2,250 people die of accidental gunshot injuries. Deaths due to firearms rank seventh among the list of accidental deaths. Only one fourth of all firearm accidents occur while hunting. Twice as many occur in the home. About 80 per cent of all firearm accidents are nonfatal. Of those that are fatal a goodly percentage die needlessly because of faulty or inadequate emergency treatment. Many of these bleed to death.

These grim statistics were revealed in an article by Dr. A. M. Libasci in Sports Afield magazine. What makes it all the more tragic is that there is nothing complex or mysterious about the emergency treatment of gunshot wounds.

There are but three vital steps to fix in your mind. 1) Stop the bleeding. 2) Protect the wound. 3) Prevent shock.

Your first and immediate concern is to stop the bleeding. If there is only oozing and dripping of blood, put a large dressing over the wound and apply steady and unreleasing pressure with palms of both hands until you are sure the bleeding has stopped. If there is serious bleeding you will have to apply a tourniquet, which very few people know how to do effectively.

The principles are simple. You must put the tourniquet where it will cut off the entire circulation to the arm or leg. This means high up where the main artery enters the limb. It should be no lower than one handbreadth from the armpit or from the crotch. All first-aid manuals caution you to loosen the tourniquet for five minutes every half hour. Don't do this if the bleeding is serious. Your patient will bleed to death. Leave the tourniquet on tight if great bleeding occurs as you loosen it.

Your second step, to protect the wound, means to keep your hands and fingers off it. Cut off the clothes around the wound and cover it with a sterile or clean dressing. Keep the wound covered at all times.

The third step is to prevent shock. You do this by 1) making your patient comfortable; 2) keeping him warm; 3) lowering his head and shoulders to increase the flow of blood to the brain.

Chest and abdominal wounds require special attention. For chest wounds through which air is sucking, you must plug up the wound. Pack it with a dressing and then cover with a piece of raincoat or other material. Bind this tightly with belts or strips of torn clothing around the chest. Have the injured person lie on his wounded side.

For a belly wound 1) cover the wound and 2) treat for shock. Use a sterile or clean dressing and fasten it securely. If the intestines are protruding don't touch them or try to put them back. Don't give anything by mouth—no water, no food.

If you are following animal tracks, remember a fresh track usually has sharp edges; not much debris, dust or snow has fallen into it unless there's a strong wind.

Zachary Taylor, twelfth President of the United States, was a second cousin of the fourth President, James Madison.

Look at your watch—every time it ticks off 15 seconds someone, somewhere is injured in a traffic accident. Every 15 minutes one or more life is lost from the same cause. The Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Committee says you can do something about the situation—be more careful and observe the rules of safety.

G. L. McCoy Dies In Local Hospital Of Injuries In Wreck Last December

G. L. McCoy of Lakeview, died about 7:30 a. m. Thursday in a local hospital, as the result of injuries suffered last Dec. 20, in a collision between Mr. McCoy's pickup truck and an automobile. The accident occurred on State Highway 256, about 13 miles west of Memphis.

W. L. Selmon, 31, of Brice, driver of the car, and Jiggs Lowe, 30, of Lakeview, a passenger, were seriously injured.

Mr. McCoy, 47 years old, was brought to a local hospital, from where he was transferred to an Amarillo hospital the following day. He remained at Amarillo for about two weeks. He had been at his home, west of Lakeview, since then until he was brought to the local hospital Monday.

Mr. McCoy's death raised 1953 traffic fatalities in Hall County to four, highway patrolmen said. At the time of the accident, Mr. McCoy was driving west and Selmon was going east. No one was with Mr. McCoy.

A native of Louisiana, Mr. McCoy was born June 19, 1906, and had been a resident of Hall County for about 30 years. Most of that time, he had lived and farmed in the Lakeview community. He was married to Miss Opal Hodges at Paris, Tex., Sept. 14, 1933. Mrs. McCoy died at Detroit, Tex., June 30, 1949.

Mr. McCoy was later married to Mrs. Dessie Lewis, Dec. 4, 1950.

He was a member of the Methodist Church at Lakeview.

Survivors include: his wife;

two sons, Glenn and Darrell McCoy, both of Lakeview; two brothers, L. O. McCoy and Leroy McCoy, both of Memphis; two sisters, Mrs. A. D. Walls, Amarillo, and Mrs. Roy Marler, Flomot, Tex.; a half-sister, Mrs. Weldon Keel, Tell; and two stepsons, Charley Lewis, Fort Worth, and James Lewis, Amarillo.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. Friday in the First Methodist Church in Memphis. Officiating will be Rev. Lloyd Hamilton, pastor, Rev. F. N. Allen, pastor of the First Baptist Church at Lakeview, and Tom Posey, minister of the First Christian Church here.

The body will be taken to the Forrest Chapel community, north of Paris, Tex., where funeral rites will be conducted at 3 p. m. Saturday, followed by burial in the Forrest Chapel cemetery.

Arrangements are under direction of Murphy-Spicer Funeral Home.

Pallbearers here will be Bill Wheeler, Homer Hulsey, Billy Hancock, J. M. Ferrel, Jr., Louis Richards and Elwin Pate.

Farmer also told councilmen that night use of the softball field at City Park was limited last year to about two evenings a week because of the financial drain on the local chamber of commerce, which paid the light bill. He said he and Grisham were presenting the problem to the council, to see if something might be done to allow more extensive use of the softball field this summer.

The council park committee, composed of W. E. Leslie and L. W. Stanford, was authorized to formulate plans for financing the lighting.

Harrison told council members that the time is approaching when the municipal swimming pool at City Park will be opened for its first season and appointed a committee to supervise the operation of the pool.

On the committee are O. L. Helm, O. M. Cosby, Jr., and L. W. Stanford.

Chief Thomas Clayton, appearing in behalf of the Memphis fire department, requested that a regulation be passed, requiring all members of the department to pass a physical examination.

After some discussion, the council passed a regulation, which will require all who are currently members of the fire department, to submit to and pass a physical examination within the next 30 days and to have a physical checkup annually thereafter. The regulation also makes it necessary for any future applicant to pass a physical examination, followed by a yearly checkup.

Clayton and councilmen expressed themselves as believing this precaution would mean added safety for fire department personnel.

Four aldermen who were elected in the recent city election, were sworn in. They were: O. L. Helm, J. M. Ferrel, Jr., and W. E. Leslie, all of whom were re-elected; and Grover Moss, who was named to his first term on the council.

Harrison announced that no changes would be made in council committees, with one exception. The exception was that of buildings committee, to which Moss was appointed to replace H. J. Howell, who did not run for re-election. The other member of this committee is E. C. Rice.

Other committees, not mentioned previously, are:

Fire department, W. E. Leslie and L. W. Stanford.

ing communities.

The Greenbelt project would be underwritten with revenue bonds issued by the towns, which compose the Authority.

In a recent meeting here with Greenbelt representatives, R. Underwood, an investment banker of Dallas, said some outside financing was almost certain to be necessary, to make the plan feasible. This financing would likely be furnished by industry, interested parties feel.

Underwood's firm, R. A. Underwood & Company, recently completed a contract with representatives of the water association, which has spearheaded a drive for a dam on Salt Fork. Under terms of the contract, the Dallas investment firm will assist participating towns in steps, leading to construction of the dam and in helping to interest industry in the project.

During the rain Sunday, a citizen was heard singing, "It's not raining rain to me, but it's raining violets." And his hearers added, "Daffodils, roses, peonies, stocks, flox, zinnias and a lot of other beautiful and fragrant flowers."

C. A. Reynolds called yesterday and read an article he had clipped. It ran something like this: A hamburger man, who had been doing a rushing business, employing several people, and had customers coming for miles to patronize his business, received a letter from his son who was an economist. His son told him that a depression was already on hand and he had better begin drawing in so he would not be taken when the crash came. The hamburger man, knowing his son to be a smart man, heeded his advice. He took down his neon sign, bought cheaper meats for the hamburgers, and in every way possible cut expenses. It was not long until he had to fire all his waiters, because the customers dropped off one by one. Finally, he closed the doors for good. He wrote: "Dear Son! You were right. We are in a h— of a depression." The moral: One can create his own depression.

1913 Study Club Meets In Home Of Mrs. T. J. Dunbar

An inspirational review of "The Greatest Faith Ever Known" by Fulton Oursler was given by Mrs. R. S. Greene before members of the 1913 Study Club meeting in the home of Mrs. T. J. Dunbar, 903 South Seventh, on Wednesday afternoon, April 7.

Mrs. Greene gave a vivid account of the life of Paul, the Apostle. First, she told of his part in the persecution of the early Christians, then of his conversion. She gave an interesting account of Paul's three missionary journeys and told how he was finally put in prison and later put to death because of his faithful teaching and work as a Christian. In conclusion Mrs. Greene said, "Even after his death, Paul lives on in the heritage he left to Christians of the greatest Faith ever known."

In addition to Mrs. Greene's review the afternoon program included a philosophical symposium entitled "This, I Believe." The opening prayer was given by Mrs. H. A. Finch who also discussed the life of Herbert Hoover, the politician. Also appearing on the program were Mrs. S. C. Hindman who discussed Helen Hayes, actress; Mrs. R. C. Walker who talked on Joe J. Mickle, mission-Teacher work; District chairmen, leading educators, and civic leaders will conduct the workshops under the direction of Dr. Emmett Smith of West Texas State College, Canyon.

The second grade, under direction of Mrs. L. A. Stilwell gave an Easter program.

Mrs. Henry Foster, study course chairman, announced that the next meeting would be Thursday, April 15. Dr. Jack Rose will speak on "The Care of the Eyes."

Mrs. Bill Cosby announced that the parliamentary procedure course will be held Thursday, April 22, at the Austin school.

The room award was won by Mrs. L. A. Stilwell's second grade.

The program for the afternoon consisted of a symposium by Mrs. Henry Foster and Rev. Lloyd Hamilton. They discussed the topic "For Every Child Spiritual and Moral Training."

Mrs. Foster, in discussing moral training, stated, "A home needs home government to teach children to respect parents, teachers, and elders. Character education should begin in the high chair. The home develops the first attitudes of the child about himself. Parents should be careful of examples set before children. Love the child and let him know that he is loved."

Mrs. Foster continued, "The teachers have a chance to observe the child in a different situation. The teacher can observe the child's social relations, work habits, and achievements at school."

Rev. Lloyd Hamilton, in discussing spiritual training, stated, "There are 17,000,000 children in the United States without spiritual training. Children are taught by precept and example. We must be serious with a child, because he is not easily fooled."

The devotional was given by Rev. Fern Miller, using as his subject, "Why is Moral and spiritual Training Necessary?" Rev. Miller said, "Animals are guided by instinct. Man alone is a creature of this world who must learn everything he knows. Every individual must learn for himself. Man is dependent on the home for the first twenty years. The parents must give the right environment and guide the child to help him make the right choices." Rev. Miller closed with the reading of Exodus 20; Proverbs 22:6, and Ecclesiastes 12:1.

It was announced that the stage show "Peter Rabbit" will be on the high school stage Monday afternoon, April 19, at 2:45. Admission will be 50 cents for adults and 35 cents for children. This is sponsored by the Stephen F. Austin Parent-Teacher Association.

Mrs. Robert Sexauer, vice president, explained that the afternoon's program was the club's youth conservation program. She then introduced Miss Rasco who spoke on the enjoyment of music by all. "Music is a living art which everybody young and old can take part in. It is co-operative rather than competitive, and it creates human as well as tonal harmony. Music, like many other things worth living for, begins in the heart," Miss Rasco stated.

Miss Rasco introduced the students according to the tones of the musical scale as follows: the tonic, Brenda Duncan; supertonic, Teresa Beckham; mediant, Lera Kate Hutcherson; sub-dominant, Reatha Ranson; and explained the importance of each tone in harmony. The students played four two-piano numbers and eight solos with understanding and artistic interpretation to an appreciative audience.

The next meeting is slated for May 5 with Mrs. Claud Johnson as hostess.

New Map

I have just returned from a committee hearing at which Secretary of the Interior, the Honorable Douglas McKay, officially presented the new map of the United States. This is the new revision required in the law which originally authorized the Department of the Interior to produce the map. The Secretary advised us that a limited number of these maps would be on sale at $4.00 each. I do not know what they cost the government, but at $4.00 apiece, they are certainly a bargain.

It shows the original thirteen colonies, and territories subsequently acquired are marked off and the date of the acquisition shown. Incidentally, the map does not show Hawaii or Alaska. If the statehood bill passes and these two territories are taken in as states, these new maps may become obsolete overnight.

Foreign Situation

This country faces a two-pronged problem on foreign policy. The problem is both political and military. The military phase of it is being pointed up in Indochina. Many people believe that it will be necessary for this country to intervene in that theater. Others want to keep hands off. This could properly be called a "tug-of-war." I hope and pray that, no matter who wins the tug, a war will not result. The reports are that the Red Chinese have measurably strengthened their forces in Indochina, both in manpower and equipment, and that France should work out a truce, and much of this sentiment comes from France. It is doubtful that a truce in Indochina would accomplish except causing France to lose face. The Reds know this, and it is one of the moving reasons for the terrific pressure now being put on by the Reds.

On the political side of the ledger, the Near East is still the hot spot. You don't read much about this or hear very much about it, but the heat is there and creates a problem that must be faced straight across the board sooner or later. The sooner it is faced, I think, the quicker we will be in a position to take steps that could well avoid a third world war.

The Investigations

There has probably been more comment around here about the reference of the President to the Congressional investigations in his recent speech than any other subject that he treated. Everyone was waiting to see when and where the President would make some comment on some of the uproar that is going on in the Congressional investigations. He touched on the subject very well in his speech and furnished the solution for some of these troublesome matters by calling upon everyone for adherence to the traditional American rule of fair play. Every true American is a fundamental believer in fair play. However, it is understandable that human emotions sometimes take temporary control of a person and cause things to be said and done that are not in keeping with these rules of fair play. The President was giving good advice when he talked about people settling down and approaching these problems with sound and basic reasoning. The quickest and most effective method of attaining desired results is to play the game hard but play

New Jobs for Texans

Texas industries have been providing new jobs for Texans at the rate of about 70,000 a year. That's about 200 new jobs every day.

All kinds of jobs . . . in offices, on construction work, in manufacturing plants, in the development of the natural resources of the State. Jobs for riggers, for secretaries, for engineers, for truck drivers, for accountants, for lawyers, for crane operators, for decorators, for sailors . . . all kinds of jobs.

And the reason why these new jobs have been, and continue to be available is this: Texas industry is expanding, and industry makes jobs.

On the average, each new job created in Texas requires the investment of $12,000 capital*. Thus, Texas industry invests over three-quarters of a billion dollars each year in new plants and in plant expansion to create 70,000 new Texas jobs.

Much of this annual investment in new jobs for Texans is made by the oil industry itself and industries which depend on oil and natural gas for fuel and raw materials. Every year a wider variety of industries put to profitable use a larger number of the resources of the State, and call on a broader assortment of available Texas skills.

Forecasters predict an even greater industrial development in Texas, and an even larger number of new jobs, as more industries recognize the advantages that Texas offers: good markets, raw and manufactured resources, trustworthy and dependable people, efficient and abundant fuel, a mild climate, and a good state government . . . In that list of advantages, the Texas oil industry provides raw materials for processing, and the world's finest industrial fuel—natural gas.

*In the oil industry, the required investment for each new job is over $50,000.

H-BOMB: There is one topic that is on everyone's lips—and everyone's heart. It is the hydrogen bomb—the most destructive force ever wielded by man. As a father, I am deeply concerned over this dreaded weapon. The lives of my little girls—Ma Bird and Lucy Baines—will be determined by our ability to control this force. The lives of our children will depend upon our collective wisdom and determination to harness this power. What is it? The H-Bomb is a very heavy hydrogen exploded in an atomic bomb. The process, according to our scientists, is similar to that by which the sun gives off the heat that warms our earth. Can it destroy the earth? Our best minds tell us "No"—but it can destroy civilization! It is the mightiest force that has ever been in the hands of man. But experts tell us it is still a "fire-cracker" compared to such natural forces as the volcano Krakatoa which erupted in the early part of the century. What can it do? For all practical purposes, it can destroy any city on the face of the earth. It can cause total destruction within a 50-square mile area; severe damage within a 200-mile square area; moderate damage within a 600-square mile area; fire destruction within an 800-square mile area. This does not take into account the damage from radiation. What does the future hold? The hydrogen bomb is a force which will either end war or end civilization. The answer lies in our wisdom; our unity; our ability to put aside our petty quarrels and dedicate ourselves to preserving our country for posterity. Is there hope? I personally have a tremendous faith in the future of our country. I think we have the brains, and the courage, and the will to preserve our freedoms. I take comfort from these verses of the 91st Psalm: Thou shalt not be afraid for the terror by night; nor for the arrow that flieth by day; nor for the pestilence that walketh in darkness; nor for the destruction that wasteth at noonday. In that spirit, we can control this tremendous force that we have developed. HOW ABOUT INDO-CHINA? Here, too, we are at the crossroads. We must make hard decisions—the kind that will tax all our determination and will-power. I attended a highly secret briefing at the State Department last Saturday. Of course, I am not at liberty to reveal the details of that briefing. But it is no secret that the fall of Indo-China to the communists would be disastrous to all our plans in Asia. It would mean the loss of the richest tungsten, tin and rubber producing areas in the free world. More important, it would mean the loss of all Southeast Asia and probably the loss of all Asia. Ultimately, we might be driven out of the Pacific itself! The issues are simply this: Shall we continue to give more aid to the French forces in Indo-China? Shall we insist that the aid be conditioned upon a more realistic attitude on their part? (The French forces actually fighting have been magnificent. But they have had little support from the home front. Furthermore, their leaders have not been inclined to listen to good, common sense advice.) Shall we continue without clear assurances that others will join with us? Or shall we withdraw altogether and fall back upon the concept of fortress America? The next few weeks will see the answers to these questions. Whatever the answers may be, they must be based upon the full knowledge and consent of the American people! BETTER ROADS: Advocates of more and better highways for Texas have reason to feel encouraged by recent developments in Washington. More Federal aid will be forthcoming during the two-year period beginning July 1, 1955. Federal road aid to Texas is $34,493,576 for this year. That figure apparently will be stepped up for the next biennium by between 47 and 55 million dollars per year. OUT OF THE MUD: The Texas highway slogan used to be "Get the farmer out of the mud". We could use some mud in Texas right now, even though not on the roads—but we have come a long way in our highway program. We have a marvelous highway system in Texas. We have some of the most competent road men in the world in charge of it. DeWitt Greer, State Highway Engineer of Texas, is recognized as one of the best highway engineers to be found anywhere. Results of his work can be seen everywhere in the State. Maintained mileage of our State Highway System has increased from 23,400 miles in 1940 to the 45,169 miles maintained at the beginning of this year. After completion of additional mileage already designated and financed, the system maintained mileage will be 50,581 miles. We now have in Texas a total of 24,295 miles of farm-to-market roads, built or designated and financed. SIGN OF PROGRESS: Texans long have considered good roads a sign of progress. They know the value of good roads—important to our national defense as well as to our prosperity. Sound proposals to insure better roads, and more of them, will meet with the approval of Texans. Increased Federal aid is simply a recognition of the fact that the national highway system is falling behind domestic civil needs—not to mention the possibility of military use in case of another war.

Utility Accepts Underwriting Bid

ABILENE—West Texas Utilities Company has accepted a bid from Harriman, Ripley & Company and associates of New York for the underwriting of New York 60,000-share (6-million dollar) issue of new, preferred $100-dollar par stock. Price Campbell, WTU president, has announced. A total of 47,370 shares of the new senior equity issue will be offered on an exchange basis to holders of the utility's $6 no-par preferred stock. The other 12,630 shares will be put on the public market by the underwriters. All will be priced at $105 a share. WTU will call for retirement on May 24 of any shares of the present $6 preferred stock, unexchanged at the close of the offering period on April 19. The redemption price for this stock is $110 a share and holders, making the exchange, will receive a cash adjustment.

How smart can machines be?

Back in the twenties there was a stage play about mechanical men, who repaid their creators by trying to wreck civilization. "Robots" have made people uneasy ever since.

How smart can a machine be? At General Electric we're beginning to find out. For some years now we've been working with machines that come startlingly close to thinking like men.

Can they outsmart men? Just the opposite: they make men even smarter by taking over routine mental chores and freeing men for the creative thinking only human minds can encompass.

A jet engine used to be designed by trial and error. You had to build it first, or a costly model, to find out how it would work. Now, an electronic computer helps solve long and complex jet development problems in advance. In 15 minutes it goes through 8 million mathematical calculations and comes up with an answer that would take a mathematician 7 years.

In management, "hunch" is giving way to fact. Electronic data-processing machines zip through head-spinning statistics on market changes, product design and income trends to come up with the answers General Electric managers need to make sound decisions, not hopeful guesses.

Their ability to digest tons of data in a hurry may one day help the farmer by making weather predictions more accurate. They may shed new light on the reasons for boom and bust.

Machines that can read, write, do arithmetic, measure, feel, remember, now take the load off men's minds, just as machines have eased the burden on our backs.

But these fantastic machines still depend on people to design and build and guide and use them. What they replace is drudgery—not people.

Don't worry; smart though they are, machines will never be as smart as people. Not while people are smart enough to think them up, smart enough to let them do a man's drudging work.

Curly Top Has Caused Great Decrease In Tomato Production In This Region

(The following is another in a series of garden hints to home gardeners on the Plains. The series, written by Dr. George Elle, professor of horticulture at Texas Tech, is in the interest of better home gardens.)

Curly top, a disease which causes leaves to curl and harden and finally destroys the plant, has lowered tomato production in this area so much that many gardeners have become discouraged and no longer try to grow them.

Until about 10 years ago tomatoes were one of the surest crops in the area. About the only problem was "wilt", as it was known then. Will resistant varieties were developed to overcome the hazard. Four or five years ago, however, gardeners began to notice that, about one month after tomato plants were transplanted into the field, the leaves of some began to yellow and about a week later the plant was dead.

This was caused by "curly top", a relatively new disease. Where "wilt" caused the leaves to droop, curly top causes them to curl and harden. The disease is caused by a virus carried in the body of the leaf hopper, a common insect in West Texas, which overwinters in the area. In the summer it feeds on tumble weeds and other common plants making it almost impossible to irradiate.

Control of the insect is complicated. To date, no completely successful method has been discovered. The leaf hopper must feed on a plant in order to inoculate it. DDT and other insecticides used now act slowly, and the hopper lights, feeds and goes on to the next plant, the next, and several more, before the insecticide kills it. DDT takes 24 hours to kill. At first, this insecticide acts as a stimulant, making the insect temporarily more active and causing it to increase its rate of feeding.

A repellent to prevent the leaf hopper from lighting has been found beneficial. A dust, 50 per cent sulphur with 2 per cent DDT appears more effective than anything else tried as yet.

Attention to cultural methods also helps combat curly top. The leaf hopper loves the sun and avoids shade. It is the isolated plant most often attacked. If plants are set closer together than normal—12-inch spaces in the row are recommended—they will tend to shade each other. This method also will insure an adequate stand in case some plants are lost.

Plenty of commercial fertilizer or barnyard manure and sufficient irrigation will support rapid early growth which seemingly tends to discourage the hopper.

Plains gardeners often have a second problem in growing tomatoes. Many complain that their plants look fine in midsummer but don't bear. Most tomato varieties do not set fruit when the temperature is 90 degrees or above. Big vigorous transplants, set out early in the spring (from April 15 to May 1) and cultivated for rapid growth will give the plants a chance to bloom and set their fruit before the arrival of hot weather. Fruit will set with the coming of cold weather in the fall, but it is often caught by frost before maturity.

Some tomato varieties exhibit some resistance to high temperatures. Among these are the Porter strains, Firesteel, Western Reds, Red Cloud and others.

All these varieties, however, are relatively low in quality and lack resistance to diseases. Better production usually is attained by planting the high quality disease resistant strains.

Cleanliness Means Healthier Living, Official Declares

AUSTIN—At this time of the year Dr. George W. Cox, State Health Officer asks, "What will you have—flies, rats, diseased hogs, stench, smoke, unsightly messes dotting the landscape, polluted streams; or fewer flies and rats, cleaner air, less disease, unblemished landscapes, cleaner streams and reclaimed land? You can take your choice and the best will prove to be the most economical."

Safe, sanitary and economical disposal of refuse is a serious public health problem in most communities in Texas. Poor methods of refuse disposal increase the potential spread of disease by flies and rats that thrive in such insanitary conditions. Indiscriminate dumping of refuse along highways and streams is a filthy habit, mars much of the State's beauty and pollutes streams. Foul smoke from burning dumps is unpleasant to everyone. The sanitary landfill method of refuse disposal is practical and within financial reach of most communities, even those in remote areas. A regular collecting system, designated dumping area obtained by the city or county court with small landfill equipment moved about by truck in coordination with the collecting system can solve this serious health problem.

The Texas State Department of Health will be glad to cooperate with any community program with this basic sanitation problem. When all refuse is properly collected and disposed of, Texas will have better health and a more enjoyable environment in which to work and play.

Scientists Find One-Winged Duck Not Born Like That

AUSTIN—The atomic age is producing wonders but it has not yet yielded a one-winged duck that can fly, according to reports of Washington scientists to the Game and Fish Commission.

Reports from the Texas Gulf Coast last fall indicated possibility that a tiny green-winged teal had violated the basic law of aerodynamics and had migrated with a flock of ducks from the far north.

The Washington scientists determined that the duck originally had two wings but that one wing had been lost earlier in its life.

MAYOR McGUP By John Jarvis

Motorists Urged To Drive Carefully When Children Are Anywhere Near

"Drive slow! Children move fast!" That warning has been issued to Texas motorists by Col. E. B. Tilley of Houston, president of the Texas Safety Association.

The plea was made as Tilley opened the Child Pedestrian and Bicycle Safety program, the Texas Safety Association, the Department of Public Safety and the National Safety Council are conducting during April.

"Youngsters often seem to materialize out of thin air, right into the driver's path," Tilley said. "A motorist must think quick and act fast to avoid hitting them when they dart out from behind parked cars or cross streets in mid-block. That's why the motorist must be alert every minute he's behind the wheel."

The wound incidental to the tragedy had been deep but had healed so completely that surface indications were that the teal had never had but one wing. Photos of the fascinating wildlife case will be in the April issue of GAME AND FISH magazine.

Fowls About Due To Climax Flights To North Country

AUSTIN—The climax to the mighty migration of the feathered millions from Texas is approaching down on the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge on the Texas Coast.

Reports to Howard D. Dodgen, executive secretary of the Game and Fish Commission, indicated that the most celebrated of the north-bound flocks—the whooping cranes—are poised for their mysterious flight to their summer nesting grounds.

Emphasis on this momentous wildlife event has been made this year because of the concentrated effort to attain maximum public cooperation in protecting the whoopers, now reduced to a mere twenty-four in number.

The executive secretary said this team showing, between the general public and the acknowledged wildlife authorities, already has stirred unprecedented interest in the spring migration. Field men are aiding the countless unofficial watchers by helping them identify the various species, especially the larger birds which resemble the whoopers.

Some Texans believed they had seen whoopers as early as mid-March but they apparently had mistaken such large white birds as wood ibis and white pelicans for the lumbering giants of the skies.

Down on the Coast, Julian Howard, Refuge Manager, said the whoopers are being checked in the ordinary protective routine habitat patrol. He said the great white birds, with red crown, long black legs and yellow bill, have taken off to their unknown far north destination as early as mid-April but that they have delayed their departure to early May in other years.

Education Lags In Texas

Texas should be anything but complacent about their educational system, a report released the other day by the national Education Association, indicates.

The report shows that residents of Texas, 25 years of age and older, had completed 9.3 years of schooling when the 1950 census was taken.

This was also the national average and placed this state midway between Utah, where citizens averaged 12 years of schooling, and South Carolina and Louisiana, where schooling averaged only 7.6 years.

Texas also matched the national average for the number of citizens who had four or more years of college training—6 per cent of the people in the state having attained this distinction.

And the report further revealed that Texas ranked second only to Arizona in the small percentage of its elementary school teachers with less than four years of college study. It seems that only 4 per cent of the elementary teachers in this state have less training than this, in contrast to the national figure of 31.8 per cent.

If the entire report read like this, all of us could feel pretty good. But the sad thing is, it doesn't, for the report shows our system of education could stand considerable improvement in a number of respects.

For instance, 15.8 per cent of Texans had completed less than five years of school, which ranked this state thirty-seventh in the nation.

Our state also had a high percentage of its young men who were rejected for military service for failing to successfully hurdle the armed forces qualification test during the period, July, 1950, and June, 1951, immediately following the outbreak of the Korean War.

More than 21 per cent of Texans, so tested, were found to have deficient educations.

Not only was this above the national average of 16.4 per cent, it also was far worse than the 1.3 per cent of rejections from Minnesota, the 1.5 per cent from Utah, and the 2.2 per cent from Oregon. This seems strangely out of place in a state, whose fighting men have frequently boasted that "Texas won the war."

Still, Texas ranked much higher, in this respect, than the 56 per cent of youths, rejected in South Carolina, and also above high rejection percentages in other Southern States.

Another phase, in which Texas ranked below the national average—and consequently below some other states—was that of teachers' salaries.

The report revealed that salaries in Texas averaged $3,326 this school year, compared with $3,605 average throughout the nation. California pays best, with a high of $4,800. Bringing up the rear is Mississippi, where salaries average $1,741.

However, the NEA study listed a couple of items, which, to a great extent, explains why some states can afford better educational systems than others. One is a difference in the number of students in proportion to wage-earning adults. The other is a difference in income.

In Texas, there were 456 school-age children for every 1,000 wage-earning adults. This compared with a national average of 403, and ranged from 642 in South Carolina to 305 in New York.

As to annual income, that in Texas was $1,452 per person in 1952, while the United States average was $1,639. Delaware had the top per capita income of $2,260, and Mississippi, the lowest—$818.

The study went on to say that low-income states generally have the largest number of children to educate, and "because of the combination of these two factors, provide the least adequate school opportunities."

There, we have a picture of education in the United States, as painted by a national educational group.

We can be proud of some of the things the study reveals. On the other hand, we should give sober thought to the less pleasant side of the picture and what we can do to improve it.

Certainly, we should want our children to have the best educations possible. Such a course will help guarantee that this will continue to be a free, progressive nation.

ULTIMATE PROMISE OF EASTER

QUOTING OUR NEIGHBORS

Press Paragraphs—

COUNTRY ABOVE PARTY
The little State Observer published down at Austin is red hot for any Democrat, regardless!

The paper published an article showing how Texas members of Congress voted on vital issues. The Observer branded as more Republican than Democrat all of these congressmen who supported any of the proposals made by President Eisenhower.

Texas should feel ashamed of men in Congress who were so cowardly as to support only Democratic bills than to go along with the President. Former Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn was shown to have supported not a single bill proposed by the President. But he was listed as having ducked his responsibility by failing to vote upon all but six issues.

We maintain that Rayburn is a shame and disgrace to the people of Texas. He did not have the guts to stand by his guns and vote for bills which he knew were for the good of the nation. He picked only such bills as a majority of the Democrats of Texas opposed in order to cast a vote. While Walter Rogers from this district and other Texas Congressmen, including Lyndon Johnson, Democratic leader, supported the President in a majority of the issues before Congress, the little Austin publication blasted them for placing Americanism above the Democratic party. Rather than blast Democrats for having voted in favor of measures which all Americans approve, regardless of the source of measures, why not try condemning those Congressmen who are so narrow in their views that they refuse to support measures which are introduced and sponsored by members of the opposing party?

RAISE TAX EXEMPTIONS

The proposal to increase individual income tax exemptions from $600 to $700 was defeated in the House of Representatives last week, and we don't see why it was.

With the House and Senate talking tax relief in this election year, we can think of no more equitable form of relief than to raise the exemption allowance back up.

Legislation is pending which would reduce corporation taxes, excise profits taxes, etc., but the wage earner, the one who has his taxes held out each week, benefits little.

Raising the exemption would put the tax relief where it belongs—on those who need relief the most. If there's to be tax cutting, let it be on the poor old middle class who foots most of the bill today anyway.

INTEREST IN OIL DEVELOPMENT SHOWS REVIVAL

A revivals of interest in oil development in this section has become more apparent the past few days. Leases are reported to be changing hands and out-of-town people are being attracted. This is particularly true in the Newlin area.

The Newlin Development Company has arranged to resume drilling on the Burk well, which is now in the lime at 1500 feet with promising indications.

C. W. Barnes, representing a Chicago company, has secured a block of leases between Newlin and the Burk well, and reports are that a test well will be started soon, probably about three miles east of Newlin.

A well on the Bud Smith ranch has been taken over by a New York company, it is reported, and will be deepened from its present 1500-foot level to 4,000 feet, unless oil is found above that depth.

Entomologists Have Wrought Great Improvement In Control Of Insects

COLLEGE STATION—Systemic! Radioactive materials! Cathode rays and radio waves! These terms, surprisingly, apply to entomology—the study of insects. Such complex phrases certainly would have sounded foreign to the first investigators of our insect pests, but they reflect the 100 years growth of professional entomology.

In the United States today about 4,500 men and women are entomologists. Many are employed in government—federal, state and local. Others are employed in industry and in colleges and universities. A few are businessmen who offer custom pest-control services to the public.

Banning a 1954 slogan "Fight Your Insect Enemies", entomologists in Texas and over the nation are preparing to observe their centennial. Dr. J. C. Gaines, head of the Department of Entomology, Texas A&M College, has appointed a 100th anniversary committee to plan a program to better acquaint Texans with entomology and its effects on their daily living.

The first department of entomology in a Texas institution was established at A&M in 1899 by a special act of The Texas Legislature and was headed by Fred W. Mally. The virtual eradication of the Texas tick and extensive work with field crop insects and animal parasites headline the major achievements of Texas entomologists.

Other milestones of entomology which can be listed since 1900 are successful fights against flies and mosquitoes. A "swat-that-fly" campaign, led by entomologists and health officials urging the destruction of flies and their breeding places, has been in a large measure responsible for a 90 per cent decrease in cases of typhoid, one of the many diseases carried by flies.

No outbreak of yellow fever has been noted in the United States since 1905 as a result of cooperative efforts against mosquitoes.

Potato production per acre has been increased 50 per cent in eight years partly because of insect control with modern insecticides.

And entomology's horizon is bright.

Researchers today are working with toxic chemicals that are absorbed and carried through the circulatory systems of plants. The chemicals, called systemics, do not harm the plants, but kill many insects that feed upon them.

Similar studies are being made with livestock. Chemicals injected into cattle kill grubs and blood sucking insects.

Entomologists also are applying the techniques of atomic science to insect control. In recent experiments, scientists "tagged" insects with radio active phosphorus, released them and later trapped them along with other insects, and determined by means of a Geiger counter, which ones were radio active. Information thus gained about how fast and how far insects can crawl or fly is useful in migration studies.

Glacier National Park was established by an act of Congress in 1910.

Agricultural producers in Harris and Hidalgo counties bought more than 7,000 tons of fertilizers during the last six months of 1953. Sales in Wharton, Colorado, Jefferson and Dallas counties topped the 4,000 ton mark.

The continuing drought and changes in the former PMA program are cited as reasons for the drop in total fertilizer sales for the entire state.

Range plants which are progressively more abundant in the face of drought—when livestock can be too choosy about what to eat. Better give the pasture a rest over for such plants.

Emergency loans are available through the Farmers Home Administration to help farmers in dust ravaged areas.
