Train Service Halted By Broken Drawbar

Service through Memphis was disrupted several hours Friday morning when a drawbar on one of the cars of a long Fort Worth & Denver freight train broke on a curve about four miles southeast of town. The train was headed toward Estelline at the time. The mishap prevented the northbound morning passenger train from arriving here until about 10 a. m., according to John McMickin, station agent. Crewmen first tried to bridge the broken drawbar with heavy chains so the train could continue on to Estelline. However, this attempt ended in failure when the chain snapped, McMickin said. Finally, the locomotive proceeded on to Newlin and Estelline with the portion of the train attached to it. A northbound freight which had been halted, resumed its movement and pushed the remaining portion of the severed train into Memphis, permitting normal service again.

Blaze Results In Damage At Compress

A fire in the blocking room at the Memphis Compress Company early Friday night caused minor damage before it was extinguished by members of the Memphis Fire Department. The blaze was quickly snuffed out after firemen arrived. About $500 damage, mostly from water, was the estimated loss, Bill Vardeman, fire department driver, said. Vardeman said the blaze started when some loose cotton in the room. Both department trucks answered the alarm, which was received about 8:30 p. m. Friday.

Committee Assignments
 Committee assignments in Congress usually take up the first week or ten days. The reason is that the two political parties, the Republicans and the Democrats, assign their own members to the several committees. There are always a number of new members for whom room must be made on the committees. Seniority has quite a bit to do with a choice of committee, but is not always the determining factor in the final assignment. There are rules and regulations governing the membership on committees so that all of the members from one state will not end up on one committee while all of the members from another state end up on another.

The end sought is to see that the people as a whole in this country are adequately represented on all of the committees. There has always been talk about one committee being more important or less important than another. Frankly, I do not subscribe to this school of thought because I have found that the matters handled by each of the committees are of about equal importance to the people in this country. These matters require a complete and searching analysis by the committee members. Therefore, the opportunity to render splendid service is available to the member regardless of the committee to which he is assigned. A member is usually governed in his request for committee by the relationship of the committee work to his particular district, and of course the question of whether or not there is a place available on the committee. I was very fortunate in my assignments to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce and also the Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs on several other subcommittees on Mines and Mining and will hold membership on several other subcommittees that have a direct bearing on the agriculture and other segments of the economy of the 18th District. The subcommittees of the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee have not yet been designated, but the committee as such will have jurisdiction of legislation daily affecting the lives of every individual in the Panhandle, regardless of the particular work in which he or she may be engaged. The assignment to this committee was welcomed by me also because it will afford me an opportunity of continuing and expanding the fight against federal control of our lives and for the slowing down of the trend toward centralization of government.

Federal Control

recent months will disclose that this country is drawing nearer and nearer to a centralized government and a federal control. In fact, it is my frank opinion that we are today nearer a centralized government than we have ever been in the history of this nation; that there has been no slowing down of the trend toward centralization, but, on the contrary, there has been a speeding up thereof. The laws and rules by which we are governed are supposed to find their source in the Congress and in courts. As I pointed out in a previous newsletter, much of this has been changed because of certain powers vested in bureaus and boards in the executive branch of the government. The directives of these boards and bureaus have always been toward centralization, but the alarming thing is that the proposals for additional legislation are pointed toward centralization, and the decisions of our high courts are opening the door for such proposals to become law and to become constitutional.

If this trend continues, it will only be a short time before the states will be wholly void of any rights except to try law violators and send them to the state penitentiary. The reason that the states will be left with this right is because the federal government does not want to assume that board bill.

It would be very easy for us to get rid of this problem if we followed the philosophy of a telephone man who was working in my office recently. He was holding a big wire that was made up of a great many smaller wires. All of the small wires were a different color. I casually remarked to the man, "What would you do if all of those small wires were the same color?" He replied, "I would quit and go home." That philosophy would get rid of the problem, but it certainly wouldn't solve it. None of us can quit in the battle for the preservation of the dignity and rights of the individual.

Deer Herd Build Up Reported In East Texas

TIN—Definite progress in building up deer herds in East Texas is reported by Daniel W. Glazener, director of the Texas and Fish Commission.

Major limiting factor to East Texas deer is illegal hunting. In some ways this is fortunate, for it is entirely controlled by men. Thus, it can be changed when enough men wish. If the problem were lack of suitable range, the solution would be much more difficult.

"As the illegal hunting diminishes, other factors will control the number of deer the range carries. In some of the club pastures around Lufkin where good hunting has been available for a number of years, these other problems are developing. The sex ratio is spreading; too many does are being fed to obtain one harvestable buck. Some of the better deer foods are disappearing, and there are indications the range carrying capacity is declining.

"These problems, which may be expected to become widespread in East Texas when the deer herd increases, are beginning to receive the attention of the Commission's wildlife biologists.

"The surplus doe problem is well understood from experience in the Hill Country, where efforts to correct it have led to legalized controlled doe hunting. Eventually, carefully regulated harvesting of does will become necessary in East Texas. However, for the present, does need more protection, not less."

Texas' farm population is now lower than at anytime since the 1870's. Only 13.7 per cent of the state's total population now resides on farms and ranches. The number of farms has dropped in the last four years from 332,000 in 1950 to 281,000. These are findings of a recent study made by the USDA and Texas A&M College System personnel.

Deer stock is widely distributed. It does not mean good hunting is available everywhere. It means that widespread deer hunting is potentially around the corner.

Public cooperation has improved in the past 15 years, but is needed. At this time, the

Veteran Says Bucking Horses Tougher Today

FORT WORTH—Were the bucking horses of yesterday tougher than the horses in the rodeos today?

Verne Elliott (who has produced all the rodeos at the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show but two since 1923) casts his vote for present-day horses.

Of course, it is only one man's opinion—but this man has had more opportunity than anyone else to know. For he was a champion rider away back in 1908, then became a producer and has presented the greatest rodeos in the nation—Cheyenne, Kansas City, Denver, Fort Worth and others. He and Bentler Bros. are associated in the presentation of the '55 rodeo here.

"It is true that you had more horses to pick from in the old days before the automobile, the truck and the tractor came into the picture," Elliott concedes.

"But the horses today work in more rodeos and, with greater experience, they are smarter; they learn more tricks."

Contestants of today also are superior to the old-time contestants, Elliott believes, because in earlier days, the riders and ropers were actually cowboys who came in from the ranch to take part in a few rodeos each year, but the contestants today are really athletes who are busy contesting almost the year 'round.

With better horses and better cowboys, rodeos are better than ever, the veteran producer believes. But when asserting that today's bucking horses are tougher Elliott makes two exceptions—Midnight and Five Minutes to Midnight. "They were the greatest," he says.

There will be 19 performances of the world's greatest indoor rodeo, Jan. 28 through Feb. 6.

HOW DO I PLAN FOR HOUSE HEATING?

See that it's Vented

Flue-vented heating keeps indoor air fresh, more healthful, more pleasant. Window sweating is reduced; moisture from combustion is eliminated. Flue-vented heating is recommended by Lone Star for residential installation.

Get Expert Engineering

If your furnace isn't the correct size, you'll never achieve comfort heating. Insist on expert engineering... on a heating system designed to deliver the correct amount of heat at proper intervals in exactly the right places.

A furnace without a good duct system is like a fine automobile engine in a pushcart. Plan for installation by experienced, reliable personnel. Luckily for most homeowners, new gas central furnaces are compact—fit in small closet areas or in attics.

Insist on Warm Floors

Here's a good way to judge a heating system! Modern flue-vented perimeter gas heating systems actually put heat in the floors. Children can play with less danger of catching colds. Chilly feet become a thing of the past. "Toe-tucking" days will be over!

Drouth Increases Talk Of Irrigation

COLLEGE STATION—Drouth and its resulting loss of production as contrasted with irrigation farming has emphasized to farmers the necessity of utilizing every available source of water. The latest assistance, reports E. E. Bushnell, R. V. Thummond, extension agricultural engineers, through several meetings of experts from farmers for information on soil and water conservation, irrigation and drainage.

The specialists in their 1956 annual report say that county agents and specialists of the Agricultural Extension Service were called for assistance on such problems as the layout and design of terraces, drainage and irrigation systems, mapping, surveying of ditches, dams, canals and borders. Also information was sought on spring drilling and equipping wells; the crop-water relationships; soil-water relationships; crop rotations; fertilizer and insecticide programs; irrigation management practices; water, economic marketing and many other related subjects.

The information sought was supplied through 12 training days, held at 150 points including county agents, leaders and others. The specialists also

Organization Lists Pointers Useful In Saving Baby Stock

A series of pig, calf and lamb-feeding pointers, to help farmers bring through a larger percentage of the new year's crop of infant animals has been offered by authorities of the American Foundation for Animal Health.

"Be sure that mother animals get top notch ration, so they can raise strong, healthy young," the Foundation's pointers suggest. "Mother-to-be should get plenty of suitable protein, vitamins, minerals and good legume hay."

"Keep brood animals comfortable and clean, and in properly-ventilated quarters."

"Be sure the young are born in clean pasture, or in clean, dry well-ventilated quarters, away from drafts."

"Near the end of the gestation period, be on hand so that if assistance is needed in delivery, a veterinarian can be called to assist the nurse of the young."

"Check up to see that the newborn nurse properly. Calves should get the cow's first milk. Baby pigs should have access to clean soil or an iron preparation which will prevent anemia."

"Be alert for signs of scouring. It may indicate over-feeding, improper feeding, or disease."

"Have pigs vaccinated against cholera around weaning time. Also, check with your veterinarian as to whether other stock may require vaccination."

"If any unexpected sickness should appear, get an expert diagnosis without delay. Prompt action in this regard may mean the saving of many valuable animals."

REV. T. T. BRUMBAUGH

Noted Visitors Due At Childress Methodist Meeting

Three outstanding visitors will be heard at a district missionary institute in the First Methodist Church at Childress, Thursday evening, Jan. 27, according to Rev. Jim H. Sharp, pastor of the First Methodist Church in Memphis.

They are: Bishop W. C. Martin of Dallas; Rev. T. T. Brumbaugh of New York; and Dr. Ganjo Kozuka, president of Aoyama Gakuin University of Tokyo, Japan.

A year ago, Bishop Martin visited the men in the armed services in Korea and Japan.

Reverend Brumbaugh, an assistant secretary for the Board of Missions has made three visits to the Far East since hostilities ended, and has had recent interviews with religious, social and political leaders of Japan, Korea, the Philippines and Okinawa. He supervises the missionary activities of the Methodist Church in the Far East.

Dr. Kozuka, a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan and of Columbia University, first taught economics in Aoyama Gakuin until 1932, at which time he was made dean of the university. He was elected president in 1951.

Everyone is invited to attend the meeting, which will start at 7 o'clock.

Costs And Prices Will Continue To Squeeze Dairymen

COLLEGE STATION—The cost-price squeeze on Texas dairy farmers will continue and may tighten in 1956.

John G. McHaney, extension agricultural economist, says prices for milk in relation to the cost of feed probably will be lower than this year. Prices for dairy products on the whole may stay about where they are, McHaney predicts.

Farmers will enter 1956 with about the same number of cows as a year earlier. Total milk production in the U. S. next year is expected to equal the record 124,900,000,000 pounds in prospect this year.

McHaney says the high production of the past two years has been produced on very poor pastures in many areas. With revived grasslands, he says, next year's milk flow could exceed this year's.

The price outlook is not too favorable from a supply standpoint. Stocks of all dairy products in July were 5,000,000, 900 pounds greater than a year earlier.

The average price received by U. S. farmers for all milk will be about $4.00 per hundredweight in 1954 compared with $4.32 in 1953 and $4.95 in 1952, a decrease each year.

Fire Causes Minor Apartment Damage

Fire and smoke last night damaged a refrigerator in the kitchen in which it was at the apartment of Jack Odum, 838 Mendon Street. The most damage belongs to Dr. Odum.

Probable cause of the fire, believed to have been the refrigerator, was the driver of the fire. The fire department and men estimated the damage at $100.

Both trucks of the department made the run and were out 15 minutes.

The alarm was turned in at 8:30 p. m. last Thursday.

Mrs. Scott Sigler of Brentwood visited over the weekend at home of her brother, Odum, and with other relatives.

Air Force Needs Many Technicians

"At the present time approximately 70 per cent of the Air Force volunteers who complete basic military training will be sent to technical schools to learn electronics, aircraft maintenance, radar operations, or any one of 288 specialties available in the Air Force establishment," according to Sgt. George Ahern, head of the Childress Air Force recruiting station.

Sgt. Ahern added that the Air Force is greatly in need of young men who desire and are qualified for training in any one of the technical specialties offered. He said that those men who aren't actually sent to one of the service schools will be given on-the-job training. About four per cent of the volunteers will be assigned to special projects elsewhere in the Air Force structure.

Farm Population In Texas Still Declining

STATION—Texas' farm population is lower than at any time since the 1870's. The number of persons living on farms in Texas last year was 1,126,000, compared with 1,387,000 in 1940, according to a report by W. G. Adkins and R. H. Wherry, agricultural economists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Marketing Service.

The decline in Texas farm population is a continuation of a trend which began in 1934 when the number of farm residents fell to an all-time high of 2,423,000.

The farm population declined from 1934 to 1940, but increased rapidly and in 1940 was about 2,200,000. Since then it has declined steadily and in 1954 was about 1,126,000, a decrease of about 100,000 or about 18.8 per cent in 14 years.

The agricultural economists who made the survey conducted a statewide survey in cooperation with the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Marketing Service.

The decline in Texas farm population is a continuation of a trend which began in 1934 when the number of farm residents fell to an all-time high of 2,423,000.

Help Them To Live And Walk

The 1955 March of Dimes has started operations in this area and throughout the nation for the purpose of raising funds which will pay the existing young and adult victims of infantile paralysis and also in building new centers that will provide protection from attacks of the disease.

While great achievements have been made for the past year against crippling and sometimes fatal polio, there still remains much to be done before it is finally and permanently brought under control. And even here, those already victims will need treatment to restore them to normal, if possible—and if this cannot be accomplished, to make them as comfortable as human hands can. All of this will require large expenditures to achieve. And this money can be obtained from only one source—donations by the general public.

A vaccine which it is hoped will afford protection against polio has been developed by Dr. Jonas E. Salk. It was given to 440,000 children last spring. Its success, its effectiveness in combating infantile paralysis is being evaluated at the University of Michigan. In the process, health records of 1,850,000 youngsters in the four states bordering the Great Lakes in 1954 are being checked. Commenting on these tests, Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis, pointed out recently that "we still do not know if the Salk vaccine has prevented one case of paralytic polio. This factor, plus the large number of patients still awaiting help, means that polio is a larger job now. I know that parents are anxiously waiting for the answer."

And what if the vaccine is proved to be effective. The National Foundation has taken a calculated risk by expending one million dollars of this year's March of Dimes funds for the introduction of this new vaccine.

Because of this, enough of it will be available in the spring to vaccinate nine million persons without charge for the parents.

If, on the other hand, results from the vaccine tests are negative or inconclusive, vaccine research will be intensified. Financed by March of Dimes contributions.

Another phase of the Foundation's work, has been outlined by Dr. Hart E. Van Riper, medical director of the organization. Dr. Riper:

"From the time a polio patient is first diagnosed, skilled hands and wise heads are at his bedside to ease a life and return the patient to normal living. For this, most patients need financial aid from the March of Dimes."

Much progress has been made, according to the doctor. "New treatment techniques involving physical therapy and orthopedic surgery, plus improved self-help devices can give mobility to many paralyzed arms and legs," he explained.

"While the prevention of polio is our final objective," Dr. Riper continued, "provision of the best available care and treatment must parallel our efforts to control it. We must provide the kind of treatment that will allow polio patients to return to their homes prepared and able to take an active part in the life of their communities."

The National Foundation has set a quota of 64 million dollars for the March of Dimes fund drive this year. Workers in various communities of this county are joining their efforts to those of workers throughout the nation to achieve this goal.

But they are going to need lots of help from people like you and me if the campaign is to be a success and the battle against the scourge of polio is to continue unabated.

Will you please help, at the time you can when our young people—and older persons, too, for that matter—will no longer live under the threat of this menace?

SPHINX, 1955 VERSION

Press Paragraphs— QUOTING OUR NEIGHBORS

REGENERATION

The new year begins with hope in our hearts that it will end as peacefully as it began, with no hot and cold warfare involving our young and impetuous in the world.

The developing interest in thinking may be an attempt to bring about a moral revolution or regeneration in our nation. For it does begin to seem that all other means have failed to make leaders of the world citizens, and a spiritual approach was the advantage of having nothing to lose in the trying.

Confessions to denying a spiritual dimension in the world are being made in a time when confessions are not only more lucid but more honest and the order of the day.

We believe that only through an awareness of moral responsibility can the world become a good place in which to live again. We think that the moral standards of the people of the world have been allowed to slip to the danger point and it is high time we got back to some of the teachings which are the basis of Christian living.

Instead of distrust and suspicion, we would like to see trust and mutual understanding. Let's this come about, and it could come in 1955, as I wish all the confessions and diplomatic statements are warded off.

—Katherine Johnson

TEACH 'EM TO DRIVE

One of the goals of the Commission on Traffic Safety Education of the President's Highway Safety Conference is establishing standard Driver Education and training courses in all the high schools of the nation. Taking out of this The Texas Federation of Women's Clubs in their convention last November decided to lend support to the program by adopting as their safety project the development of public support for increasing and improving the teaching of Driver Education in the public schools of Texas.

It takes money to do these things, and a minimum of $35 per pupil, and enrolling in driver classes of 100,000 young Texans, have been set as goals. It will take legislation to provide this money on a continuing basis, but in support of their thesis the Federated clubs point out that 2,348 persons were killed in traffic accidents in Texas in 1953 and the economic loss from the same cause was $149 million. Anything that will reduce that frightful toll would demonstrably be worthwhile, to say nothing of the saving of lives and limbs.

Lack of adequate funds, permanently provided for, has handicapped the high school training program in Texas where only half the high schools offer such courses, and then usually only in the senior grade. A great many traffic experts believe the age should be lowered to include junior high school instruction.

West Texas C. Of C. Slates Industrial Conference Meet

The annual West Texas Industrial Development Conference, which last year attracted more than 250 community leaders from 61 West Texas cities, was held in Abilene on Saturday.

The conference was held at the Hotel San Angelo, a member of the industrial committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the conference. It is the first of a series of conferences presented by experts.

The purpose of the conference is to bring industrial leaders throughout the West Texas region together to discuss ways to increase payrolls for their communities.

The conference is of particular interest, according to the industrial committee, because it will be the "case study" of the program presented by several industrial representatives, and chambers of commerce in a round-table session on personal experience in manufacturing.

The program, to begin at 9:30 a. m., will be held at the Hotel San Angelo. The speakers include: Earl C. Aston in a discussion of "Community Planning." Aston is vice-president of the Republic National Bank in Dallas and a former city engineer of the City of Dallas.

"Not Made in Texas for Texans," a discussion of opportunities to make in Texas items which are now imported into the state, by L. S. Paine, research economist of the Texas Engineering Experiment Station at College Station.

"Locating Industrial Prospects for Your Community," by Earl C. Allmand, industrial manager of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce.

"Selling Your Community to the Industrial Prospect," by Oscar Monrad, vice-president of the First National Bank and Trust Company of Oklahoma City and former industrial engineer for the Oklahoma City Chamber of Commerce.

Participating in the case histories panel will be A. R. Mielly of Houston, industrial commissioner of the Southern Pacific; J. A. McCaul of Dallas, director of industrial development of the Texas and Pacific; W. P. Dahl of Galveston,

WT Essay Winner To Be Named Soon

Winners of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce industrial essay contest will be announced at the regional industrial conference in Abilene on January 27, E. L. Buelow of San Angelo has announced.

Buelow is chairman of the WTCC's industrial development committee, sponsoring the contest and the conference.

Hundreds of high school seniors wrote essays on the subject "What Can My Town Do To Have More Industry." Winner of the contest will be given a $250 college scholarship at ceremonies during the regional chamber's annual meeting in Lubbock in March.

Harold Aspren, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Aspren of Memphis, was the winner in the essay writing contest here. His paper has been entered in the regional competition.

Declarations of estimated tax are required from all persons who expect gross income of more than $400, plus $600 times the number of exemptions which may be claimed, if more than $100 of the income will not be subject to withholding. Single persons with more than $5,000 and married persons with more than $10,000 expected gross income must file declarations of estimated tax even though all of the income is subject to withholding.

Declarations of estimated tax, except those for farmers, must be filed by April 15. Like the income tax return, this date is one month later than before. However, the quarter installment payment dates remain the same—June 15, September 15, and the last one on January 15 of the following year.

If a person, other than a farmer, desires to file his income tax return and pay his tax in full, he may do this on or before January 15 instead of paying his last quarterly installment. It does not relieve anyone from filing the original declaration of estimated tax and making three payments on it. However, in most cases this provision does remove the possibility of a penalty for an under estimate of tax liability. Farmers have special provisions concerning declarations of estimated tax.

IT'S THE LAW in Texas

New Laws Provide Income Tax Breaks For Individuals

This is the first of a series of articles outlining changes in the U. S. Internal Revenue Code that favor individual taxpayers.

Under the 1954 revenue act, all persons who have a gross income over $600 must file income tax returns, except if the taxpayer is 65 or older he need not file a return unless he has gross income over $1,200. This is because persons who are 65 or older have two exemptions which automatically eliminate any tax liability for income under $1,200.

The old established date of March 15 by which income tax returns must be filed has been abolished. All federal tax returns for individuals may now be filed on or before April 15. Although many persons believe that a tax return need only be postmarked by the due date, such is not the intent of the statute. Tax returns are supposed to be in the office of the Internal Revenue Service by the due date specified.

Declarations of estimated tax are required from all persons who expect gross income of more than $400, plus $600 times the number of exemptions which may be claimed, if more than $100 of the income will not be subject to withholding. Single persons with more than $5,000 and married persons with more than $10,000 expected gross income must file declarations of estimated tax even though all of the income is subject to withholding.

Criminal Court Overrules Two Liquor Motions

Two motions which were presented to the Court of Criminal Appeals of Texas by F. D. Pierce of Turkey in connection with liquor convictions in county court here have been overruled, according to County Judge Tracy Davis.

One of the motions was for a reviewing of a case, based on the sale of a part of whiskey last April near Turkey to a Liquor Control Board agent.

The other motion was for an installment of an appeal of another conviction on the same day, in connection with the subsequent sale of a second pint of whiskey to another Liquor Control Board agent. Both cases were made with a short time of each other the previous January, although at different times, court records show.

The sales were made after the agents, who were together, indicated to Pierce that they wanted to buy some whiskey, according to the court evidence.

Pierce was fined $500 and $200 on separate charges of selling whiskey in a dry territory, as a result of his conviction in connection with the two incidents, the county judge said.

Sponsor of the annual event is the Memphis Chamber of Commerce and Hall County Board of Development.

Drivers will receive thorough, courteous and personalized service on their vehicles at any of the inspection stations in Hall County, the Amarillo man said.

Over the weekend, Texas motorists were admonished that a lot of them are likely to be strictly unhappy when April 22 rolls around. The observation was made by Col.

Elmer Garrison, Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, following a conference with George Busby, chief of the motor vehicle inspection division of the department.

Garrison declared the untidiness will result from motorists not being able to drive on streets and highways because they lack proper approved inspection stickers.
