Inside Russia

Last week's newsletter ended when we reached Leningrad. Shortly after we had been passed by customs officials we were taken to the Astoria Hotel in downtown Leningrad. It is located on St. Michael's Square just across the street from the Church of Peter and Paul. Incidentally, this Church is under repair, as are a great number of churches in Russia. Most of these that we asked about are to become museums. It was approximately seven o'clock when we reached the hotel. There was very little traffic on the streets other than pedestrian traffic. The hotel lobby was not unlike the lobby of an American hotel. There was pretty much activity. We later found out that there were two conventions in session. This really added an American touch. We were assigned to our rooms and told that we could obtain food at the restaurant located in the hotel. We all gathered in the lobby and later went into the restaurant together. No doubt the waitresses had been alerted that there were some Americans in town. They were obviously waiting for us and were exceedingly nice and solicitous of our welfare. The meal was typically American and consisted of steak, french-fried potatoes, green peas and diced carrots. It was very good and we were all glad to see it. For dessert there were a number of different kinds of Russian pastry and one of the waitresses undoubtedly felt that we would never live until morning unless we ate at least two of these apiece. She could not understand us, and we could not understand her, but the result was she kept putting the pastry on our plates until we finally ate it in self defense, all of which pleased her very much.

The first two Russian words we learned were "spaceba" which means "thank you," and "pashalsta, which means "you are welcome." "I am pleased" and several other things of similar import. One of our first experiences with these words occurred when one of our group got out of the car in which he had been riding. Wanting to thank the driver, he said, "spaceba," to which the Russian driver replied, "Don't mention it," in English. This caused quite a laugh, but it developed that the Russian had studied English and could speak it pretty well.

At the same time we were in Leningrad, the Secretary of State for External Affairs, the Honorable Lester Pearson, arrived with a contingent from Canada on a mission which we understood was to promote friendlier relations between Russia and Canada. His visit preceded by only a few days a good will visit to Leningrad by several British warships. However, our tight schedule prevented us from concerning ourselves with matters other than our own. The next morning was consumed by a conference and the afternoon with looking over the water transportation facilities and the local surface transportation. We were scheduled to depart Leningrad by train at 8:10 p. m. for Moscow, but did not get away until several hours later. I will discuss this departure in next week's letter.

The Best Experience

There is one experience that I want to tell about that took place outside Russia. It was when we left the Greater London Airport to come back to the United States of America, the greatest country in the world. Never forget it. It was a complete reverse feeling from that which I experienced when I got on the Aerflot plane in Helsinki to go into Russia. The London Airport is a tremendous installation. There seemed to be planes in every direction. We were on a Boeing double-deck Stratoclipper of Pan-American Airways. During the take-off I was assigned a temporary seat in the pilot's compartment immediately behind the captain. He was Capt. P. Willie Smith. His First Officer was G. Hawkins; the Navigator, L. Sundquist; the Third Officer, W. Romanovitch, and Stewardess J. Glover and E. Feigel. In addition to the nine crew members, there were DANCER FROM FRANCE . . . Alicia Marquez, premier dancer of Folies Bergere, arrives in U. S. where she'll fill ballet engagements.

43 passengers aboard. The craft empty weighed 45 tons. Loaded it tipped the scales at just short of 75 tons. It would be difficult to explain in words the great confidence I had in the ability of these fine Americans to safely convey all 52 humans to the good earth of the United States. As we moved out on the runway nothing was left to chance. All instruments were checked and double-checked which was in effect checking every moving part of the plane. It is a thrilling experience when you hear the tower clear you for take-off and the Captain gives the orders that will soon result in your being thousands of feet in the air. The throttles are handled by the man directly behind the pilot, and as the speed of the propellers is stepped up and the plane begins to hurtle down the runway, you never lose confidence that you are completely safe. I am frank to say that I did not have that confidence while flying some of the foreign planes, although we always arrived at our destination without mishap. We were soon high in the air and the sprawling City of London spread out before us. One hour and 56 minutes later we began to go back to earth. It was cloudy and nothing was discernible. I was back in the jump seat behind the Captain. You could feel this giant aircraft coming closer and you could see nothing. All of a sudden we broke out of the clouds and directly in front of us were the lights of the runway at Shannon, Ireland, Airport. Captain Smith and his able crew hadn't missed an inch. Within seconds our wheels were rolling on the old sod. Soon thereafter we left Ireland behind, sailed out over the Atlantic and 12 hours later landed at Idlewild Airport, New York. There is no feeling like the feeling when your foot touches the good old U. S. again.

SHAMROCK NEW MOTOR OIL

QUALITY YOU CAN MEASURE BY YOUR CAR'S PERFORMANCE

GUARANTEED . . . the new multi-viscosity motor oils will do more to improve the winter starting characteristics and extend the life of your car than any other petroleum lubricating oil.

It's a scientific fact . . . most engine wear occurs:

1. During the warm-up period before ordinary oil thins down enough to circulate freely.
2. At high operating temperatures when ordinary oil thins down too much to give proper protection.

It's a scientific fact . . . Shamrock multi-viscosity motor oil stops this wear because:

1. It circulates freely in temperatures as low as 30° to 35°F below zero.
2. It retains its viscosity (thickness) at highest operating temperatures.

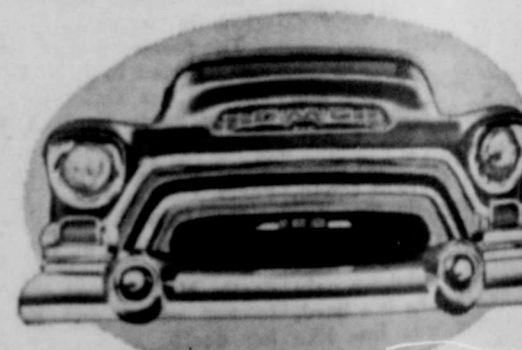

Improve the performance and extend the life of your car with Shamrock 5W-20 or 10W-30 motor oil. Ask for them at the Shamrock station near you.

Panhandle Downs Memphis Cyclone Friday Night, 18-6

The Panhandle Panthers rolled over the Cyclone here Friday night in a conference contest by a score of 18 to 6. Taking advantage of every break, and mixing their running attack, they kept the local eleven off balance all night.

Memphis received the kick-off with Jimmy Jenkins running the ball back to his 42-yard line. On the first attempt, a Cyclone fumble was recovered by the Panthers, who picked up three quick first downs. Jones Hedrick plunged through for five yards and the first touchdown. The attempt to run the ball failed for the extra point.

The Cyclone took over the kick-off on their 42 again. Dean Sustaire, behind good blocking, raced 32 yards around right end before being stopped. A stubborn Panther line then held, and took over on downs. After three attempts, they were forced to punt, and Memphis started a drive again from their 45. Quarterback Young made 8 over tackle, and Sustaire added yardage for a first down. Terry Monzingo hit the line three times, and Young made another first down. Sustaire, Davis and Monzingo moved the ball on another first, placing the ball on the Panhandle 4-yard line. Monzingo crashed through the left side for the touchdown.

After taking the kickoff, the Panthers were stopped in three attempts by the tackling of Jerry McQueen, Jimmy Jenkins, Campbell Morris and Sustaire. A long punt placed the ball on the Cyclone 5-yard line. Jenkins made 5 yards around end, and a teammate fumbled, which was recovered by the Panthers on the Memphis 9. A pass to Right End Pat Hamilton was good for Panhandle's second touchdown.

The Panthers again made six points in the third quarter when Hedrick Jones drove over from the 1-foot line.

Statistics showed that the Panthers earned 15 first downs, and the Cyclone 10. Memphis gained 119 yards rushing and Panhandle was credited with 130.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Morrison of Lubbock visited here over the weekend with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Miller and Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Morrison.

So excited when informed by Bert Parks (right), noted quizmaster, that she had won, she had to leave the victory dinner after the contest and return to her hotel to rest.

Farmers Seek To Improve Production, Bureau Head Says

WORTH — Farmers are seeking better ways of adjusting to market demand, the bureau head says in a speech at the meeting of the Texas Farm Bureau.

“We know that, regardless of price support programs, we must produce for the market. Under the rigid 90 per cent price supports that have been in effect cotton producers have lost a large portion of their market to synthetics here at home and to foreign producers in the export field.

“I am not in any sense an expert on cotton as you all know, but I understand that there is a large cotton crop in prospect — 14 million bales in spite of the fact that allotments were made on the basis of 10 million bales.

“If you had actually produced a 10 million bale crop, I understand that you might have had a tight supply of the grades and staples for which the demand is low.

“I believe that this should be a matter of particular concern in Texas because you produce a considerable portion of both the shorter and longer staple cottons, which I am told are less in demand than the medium lengths.

“It seems to me that if we continue to pile up surplus supplies of the grades and staples that are least desired by our customers there will eventually be pressure to adjust allotments with a view to getting production of the kind of cotton the market demands,” Shuman said.

“We must face a great many problems in developing practical sound farm programs. We face even more problems in the other fields in which we operate as an organization, and this means the whole range of public policy.

“We are fortunate in having a national organization, in 42 states and Puerto Rico, in which farmers work together to find solutions satisfactory to all of us.”

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Vardeman left Saturday for Lufkin, where they will visit his mother, Mrs. W. H. Vardeman, and some brothers and sisters and other relatives. While gone, Vardeman also plans to do some deer hunting. The couple expected to return to Memphis in about 10 days.

LYNDON JOHNSON

Senator Johnson To Head Texas Heart Fund Drive

Senator Lyndon Johnson will serve as the state chairman of the 1956 Texas Heart Fund during February, it has been announced by Dr. Kleberg Eckhardt of Corpus Christi, president of the Texas Heart Association.

Senator Johnson, who is now recuperating at his Texas home from the effects of a severe heart attack he suffered last July 2, accepted the chairmanship of the February Heart Fund Campaign with the statement:

“During recent months I have had a reason to become personally aware of the scope of the life-saving work made possible by the voluntary contributions of funds for use in research into heart disease.

“In all seriousness, I doubt that I would be here now except for the application of medical knowledge gained from such research prior to the attack I suffered last July.

“The money contributed to the Texas Heart Fund, which is an integral factor in the work of the Texas and American Heart Associations, is an investment in human lives. I am confident that the people of Texas will make such an investment in generous measure this year, as they have done in the past.

“This is a cause in which all of us can work together for the good of humanity. I know Texans will not fail to meet this challenge.”

Dr. Eckhardt and R. L. Thomas, Dallas bank official and chairman of the board of the Texas Heart Association, announced their pleasure that Senator Johnson has accepted the Heart Fund chairmanship. We feel certain that local Heart Associations and chapters affiliated with the Texas Heart Association will increase their efforts to support the Heart Fund under Senator Johnson's able leadership.”

Deer Hunt Interest Growing Beneficial

Widespread interest in deer hunting is growing in several ways, resulting in a beneficial management of the deer herd, according to A. Walker, director of the Game and Fish Commission.

Approximately 900 names were drawn since experience has shown that only a certain percentage of the first wave of hunters get their deer in the one day's allotted time.

The names were sent from practically every one of the state's 254 counties.

"This is a heartening development," said the director, since these public hunts which cost only the price of a $2.15 regular hunting license generally appeal to all types of sportsmen. We find they are a pretty cooperative lot and many of them make the trip out of sheer curiosity.

"In other words, they come to see how modern game management techniques are applied. Of course, we hope some of our own enthusiasm rubs off on them and that they will help us get over the story of what we are trying to do in wildlife restoration in Texas."

The director said prospects are good for expanding the conducted and limited public hunts and cited the 11,500-acre Moore Plantation in the Sabine National Forest as a possible future location for controlled deer hunting. Recent surveys revealed deer numbers would justify the hunt.

The only thing preventing that Sabine shoot this fall was pending adjustment of some practices inconsistent with modern wildlife management methods in isolated East Texas areas.

Mrs. Jack Suttle, W. R. Ragsdale, Mrs. J. C. Ragsdale, Mrs. R. V. Ragsdale and Mrs. Eric Edwards of Pampa visited with Mrs. Pearl Massey Tuesday.

Some hunters claim cleaning the body cavity of deer before aging harms the meat, but professional packers, even scrub the cavity of the animal. Be sure to drain the cavity well.

Painting Given To Church Here Sunday Morning

A dedication service was held at the First Methodist Church Sunday morning, Nov. 13, when the Friendship Class presented the church with a portrait in oils of Christ done by Miss Tommye Noel of Denton, formerly of Memphis.

Mrs. N. A. Hightower, teacher of the class, introduced Miss Noel, the talented artist, who has many friends and relatives here. Then she introduced Miss Noel's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Noel of Denton, who are also former Memphis residents.

Mrs. Hightower stated that the class felt honored in having a home town girl to paint the picture, which was a class project, and fortunate, indeed, to have the artist present for the dedication. The unveiling followed and the portrait was presented to the church through the pastor, Rev. Jim Sharp, who concluded the service with a prayer.

After a duet, "Thy Will Be Done," sung by Mrs. Gayle Greene and Mrs. Bob Magnus, accompanied by Brenda Duncan, Rev. Sharp brought an appropriate message for the occasion. His sermon was "Obedience to the Heavenly Vision," just as the artist who paints a truly spiritual portrait.

For this service, the Methodists had as their guests the Presbyterians to whose church the Noels belonged before moving to Denton. Rev. Frank King, the Presbyterian pastor, participated in the service.

Other out-of-town relatives of Miss Noel's here for the service included Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Sloan of Estelline, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Grundy and children of Borger and Miss Elizabeth Grundy, a student at West Texas State College.

Robert Spicer's Father Dies

Frank Spicer, father of Robert Spicer of Memphis, died suddenly Friday night, after suffering a heart attack in his home at La Junta, Colo. He was rushed to a hospital but passed away a short time after reaching there. He had undergone surgery two or three weeks earlier but had returned home a few days before. He was 69 years old.

Mr. Spicer was a retired groceryman.

Funeral services were conducted at 2 p. m. Tuesday in the First Methodist Church in La Junta, under direction of Peacock Funeral Home.

Mr. Spicer was a member of the Methodist Church at La Junta, and the Council, Chapter and Commandery of the Masonic Lodge.

Survivors, other than the son here, include: his wife, Mrs. Rose Spicer of La Junta; two more sons, Randall Spicer of Pullman, Wash., and James Spicer of Fort Lewis, Wash.; 10 grandchildren; two brothers, Will Spicer of Denver, Colo., and Leonard Spicer of Glendale, Calif.; and a brother-in-law, R. J. Broyles of Amarillo.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Spicer left here early Saturday morning, after receiving word of the death of Mr. Spicer's father.

Potts' Herefords Win At Childress

Tomie Potts, Memphis Hereford breeder, exhibited several winners at the annual Greenbelt Hereford Breeders Association Show in Childress Monday.

Animals owned by Potts placed first in the junior bull calf division, second in the senior bull calf division, second and third among summer yearling heifers, and third in the summer yearling bull calf division.

Average price for bulls and heifers consigned at the sale was $228, approximately $4 per head higher than the average in last year's sale.

The show and sale were held in the Vocational Agriculture Building at Childress.

Jay Humphrey of Old Glory, Tex., judged the cattle, and Walter Britten of College Station chanted the bids at the sale.

Shawhart Injured In Ranch Accident

Lonnie Shawhart was knocked unconscious and suffered bruises Friday afternoon when the horse he was riding collided with one ridden by Audie Little. The accident occurred about 3:30 p. m. on the Babeon ranch in the north-west part of Childress County, while the two men were rounding up some cattle.

Little was also injured. He sustained a comminuted fracture to his left leg. The physician who attended him explained that this type of fracture consists of a bone which is broken in several places but does not penetrate the skin. Little had the large bone between the knee and ankle broken.

Shawhart and Little were chasing a cow that had broken away from the herd, at the time of the mishap.

Both men have land near Harrell Chapel.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Grundy and family of Borger and Miss Elizabeth Grundy, who is a student at West Texas State College, Canyon, visited here over the weekend with their mother, Mrs. Allen Grundy.

A canvasback has been clocked at 72 miles an hour.

Officers Pick Up Two Teenagers Here

Two fourteen-year-old Memphis boys were picked up by officers here Tuesday afternoon after the car in which they were riding overturned on a road near Lakeview. The automobile had been taken earlier from its parking place near Memphis High School.

After lengthy questioning, one of the boys admitted to officers that he had entered the home economics department at Memphis High School and two homes here, taking small amounts of money at each. The youth was implicated in the entries by his companion, who was driving the car at the time it overturned, according to officers. The young driver told officers he took no part in the break-ins, officers stated.

The car which overturned was a 1949 Chevrolet.

Crop Harvesting

Overall average possibly around 30 cents.

During the past week, weather conditions were generally fairly good, although extremely cold weather blanketed the area starting Tuesday night and remaining cold all day Wednesday, never exceeding 36 degrees, according to John McMickin, weather observer here. Low Wednesday morning was 21 degrees, while it dipped to 18 degrees this morning (Thursday). There was no falling weather, however, and apparently there was little interference with crop harvesting. Warmer temperatures Thursday and Friday were being predicted by the weather bureau at Amarillo this morning. Another front was expected to come through late Friday but it was believed it would cause very little change in the weather, according to the Amarillo forecasters. Some chance for moisture was foreseen, but it was thought that any which might fall would be of a minor nature.

Before temperatures turned colder Tuesday night, a front produced high winds which stirred up thick dust for a time. The Amarillo weather bureau reported winds there as high as 66 miles an hour. However, they probably were not so strong by the time they reached this area, although they still had plenty of punch to them. Fortunately, they subsided within a reasonably short period of time. There was some dust last Thursday afternoon and again Friday afternoon.

According to McMickin, temperatures the past week have been in the following ranges: Last Thursday 34-73 degrees; Friday 35-87; Saturday 34-48; Sunday 47-80; Monday 35-75; Tuesday 33-77; and Wednesday 21-36.

A Chamber of Commerce committee spearheaded the move which resulted in the establishment of the circle. Committee members are: Tomie Potts, chairman; and Billy Hancock and D. C. Hall of Lakeview, Clifford Farmer, Chamber of Commerce manager, and Hooser.

The county agent said the circle has attracted national attention for having developed outstanding Hereford breeders from 4-H Club members.

Members are fitting heifers for several shows which will be held after the first of the year, Hooser explained. These stock shows will be held at Turkey Jan. 7, Greenbelt at Childress, Jan. 11, Hall County 4-H and F. F. A. Show here, Jan. 14, Tri-State at Amarillo, Jan. 23, San Antonio, Feb. 9, and Houston, Feb. 27.

We Should Be Thankful

Another Thanksgiving Day will be here next Thursday and we believe there are countless reasons for being truly thankful. There may be exceptions to this sense of well-being, some who because of sickness or sorrow, financial reverses, or because of other troubles, may feel they have nothing for which to give thanks. They may be right. Personally, though, we think that if these dispirited persons have no other cause for thankfulness, they can be glad they live in a free country like the United States, where fellow men are quick to help their less fortunate neighbors, once they become aware of their need.

And most of us are very fortunate in many ways. Never has the great majority of Americans had so much, been so prosperous. We know as well as anyone that farmers have not been prospered as much as numerous other groups. And because farmers have not shared equally in the national income, neither have business people and others in areas, where agriculture has been the chief, or perhaps the only, industry.

But even in these sections, of which Hall County and the surrounding area is one, most people have more conveniences and mechanical aids than they, or their forefathers, ever had. And judging by the past, there is every reason for believing that this nation—and likely the world—will become increasingly better places to live.

And while material benefits are fine, let us not forget our most precious possessions, such as freedom of speech, religion and press, the love and respect of our families and friends, and the joy of good health, for such as these are the true basis of full and fruitful lives.

So, let us try to complain less and instead, count our blessings and be thankful for our good fortune.

Retirement Can Bring Problems

Retirement is becoming something that concerns an increasing number of residents of the United States, as the life span of the nation rises constantly higher, and expanded and improved old-age systems are put into effect. Right now, about 47 million persons in the middle and older age brackets are facing this situation.

According to studies made by University of Chicago investigators, a person's attitude toward work affects the problem of his retirement.

Since the average person spends about one-third of his adult life working, he probably will have to find similar satisfaction in play and other leisure time activity when he retires.

The studies ascertained that a small percentage of retired persons are content to spend their time sitting on their porches and watching the rest of the world pass by. But this can prove dangerous, says Dr. Ernest W. Burgess, one of the investigators, because, "it leads to mental stagnation and social isolation. The consequences may be imaginary illness, repeated visits to the clinic and in some cases mental breakdowns and admission to a mental hospital."

According to the university studies, a person who considers his work solely a means of earning a living is usually better prepared, emotionally, for retirement than someone whose work is his major interest, because chances are good that the latter will find retirement boring.

There are some who believe boredom is inevitable in the machine age, when the individual initiative of past generations has to a great extent disappeared. Yet, it is also felt that if one has freedom, good health, and reasonable economic security, it is his fault if he is bored, for the machine age also offers the average person plenty of time for recreation, social and cultural activities.

If the data, compiled by the University of Chicago investigators, proves anything, it would seem to be that age does not alter the belief that the happiest person is a busy one, whether it be with his hands, his mind or in some other way. The important thing, it seems, is to keep some semblance of occupation. It may be nothing more than bird watching but as long as it helps the retired person retain an interest in life, he is likely to continue young in spirit no matter what his age.

CAN'T BUY 'WHOLESALE'

We got a 1956 "wholesale" catalog in the mail yesterday. It was right pretty and had two prices in it — one high and one in code that was supposed to show us how much money we could save by ordering our needs "wholesale."

We've had experience with guys like that before so we're pretty sure right off that we wouldn't be interested in ordering from them because we've learned not to buy a pig in-a-poke. We like to see what we are buying. And we like to do business with people that we know — people who will stand behind the merchandise they sell and make it good if it should turn out to be defective, or just the wrong size. We would feel awfully cheap going into a local jeweler and asking him to regulate the new watch we had bought "wholesale."

But when we start looking up the "wholesale" price on some things we have bought lately, we found there was no cause to hunt for reasons why we would rather buy locally, because we found that most of the coded prices were little if any lower than our neighbors down the street had charged us. By the time we add freight to those "wholesale" prices they are nearly all as high or higher. And we still haven't added anything for the time we spend assembling the item after we get it out of the box, or the time lost in waiting for the box to come in, or the necessity of paying cash before we even see what we are getting.

And if all those things only added up to breaking even, we would be far behind on these "wholesale" transactions because there are some important items we haven't considered at all yet. Those "wholesale" houses don't help us a bit in supporting our local institutions. When we buy locally we know that a part of every price we pay comes back to us in the form of better schools, better roads, youth organizations, churches, help for our poor, prizes for our fair, etc. These are expensive items and we could have a hard time paying for them if the local businessmen didn't carry a large part of their cost.

If we add these community costs to the "wholesaler's" price, along with the freight and the costs of services he does not render on his merchandise, we find that he is far too high for us to deal with. We can't begin to afford him even if his catalog is pretty.

—Lamb County Leader, Littlefield

PROGRESS OR DECLINE

Scores of rural Texas communities during recent years have literally had their faces lifted because their citizens believed that changes for the better were in order. These changes, according to Reagan Brown, extension rural sociologist, came about because rural people realized that their communities were going backwards. They had lost something which had meant a great deal to them in former years.

Modes and patterns of life had changed because of fewer farms and farm families. The widespread use of power equipment had changed the production picture but community activities hadn't kept up. It was the social side of rural living which needed a shot in the arm, says Brown, and the rural community program was the answer.

Experience has shown, he says, that progress can be made in any community. He says give as many people as possible a job to do for their participation will be in proportion to their effort and accomplishment.

Include recreation as well as work in the program and let others know what your community is doing through publicity for information and service but don't, says Brown, rely on outside people to do all the work. The big jobs must be done in the community.

Pathfinders' Entertain With Guest Meeting At Victory Class Room Tues.

The Pathfinder's Council met Tuesday, Nov. 8, at 7:30 p.m. in the Victory Sunday School Classroom. Hostesses for the occasion were members of the social committee and included Mmes. A. Gidden, Clinton Culp, Hall Nelson, A. O. Gidden, W. F. Fritchie, E. L. McQueen, Lloyd Ward and Anna Dickson.

Large urns of mums and other fall flowers decorated the room. The theme for the meeting was "Home."

Members and invited guests were registered by Mrs. A. O. Gidden. The president, Mrs. J. J. McDaniel graciously extended greetings and welcomed the guests.

Mrs. Hall Nelson gave the invocation after which Mrs. W. F. McElreath, program chairman, announced the program using the quotation by D. Liebes, "Home is the symbol of all that is lovely and good in this world." In talking about the color slides to be shown she stated, "That the trend toward do-it-yourself is becoming widespread as more and more women take an interest in this self-expression. They find it fun to create new 'room-do's' on a modest budget, with orderly charm, all creating the essence of smart simplicity. Good taste is displayed in both selection and arrangement, giving the whole a matter of design rather than chance."

Mrs. Gene Chamberlain acted as reader of the script accompanying the 58 slides sent by the Celanese Corporation of America. Outstanding among these were modern rooms and early American rooms reflecting charm and beauty as results of skillful handling of fabric, color and decorations. Rooms done in just one color with different colors dominant and various lighting accents were very interesting. Scenes of living rooms, dens, dining rooms and kitchens all done in high-colors creating friendliness and graciousness with dignity, done "budget-wise" were enjoyed.

Mrs. A. O. Gidden drew the door prize and Mrs. Gene Chamberlain was presented the reader's prize. Both prizes were gifts of Celanese material from the company.

Mrs. Jim Sharp assisted Mike Chamberlain in operating the projector.

Dainty refreshments were served to members and invited guests during the social hour.

How to be sure you are making the best buy in a new truck

- A new truck is an important investment. If you want to be sure you're getting the best buy, you've got to consider a lot of things: price, power, operating economy, good appearance—to mention only a few.
- Take price, for instance. Wouldn't it help you to know that you can buy a Dodge for surprisingly little money? Could be you didn't know Dodge trucks cost less than most other makes.
- Wouldn't it help you, too, to get the whole picture on truck power? The fact that Dodge Power-Dome V-8's outpower every other leading truck in the low- and medium-tonnage fields surely is important to your decision.
- And there are other Dodge advantages you'll want to think about—like the business-building beauty of Forward Look styling, and the long life that spreads low initial cost over years of dependable service.

➤ It all adds up to this: To be sure of your best truck buy, take a few minutes to talk to your Dodge dealer. Just a phone call will put the wheels in motion.

Poultry Farmers Given Advice On Care Of Pullets

Poultry farmers are advised by the American Foundation for Animal Health that the change over from range conditions to laying house confinement of pullets should be made without major disturbance in the flock.

A smooth change-over from range to laying house will help the pullets winter better and lay more eggs, the Foundation said. Five steps that will help make the change-over easy on the pullets are outlined by the Foundation as follows:

1. Change feed gradually. Continue the range ration immediately after housing and change slowly to the laying ration. Supply plenty of water.
2. Encourage the use of community nests. Start with nests on floor and raise them gradually to normal height.
3. Leave windows in poultry house open to help "harden" birds for winter conditions. Leave windows open until temperatures drop below freezing to help birds get accustomed to severe winter temperatures.
4. Start a culling program and continue it all year. Severe culling should not be necessary if the chicks were of good breeding and they were well managed during their growth period.
5. Be alert for signs of sickness. Prompt veterinary diagnosis and treatment will help avoid death losses and even serious drops in production.

Buyers Advised On Qualities Of Apple Varieties

COLLEGE STATION — Jonathan, McIntosh, Grimes Golden, Stayman, Winesap, Delicious and Rome Beauty — those are apple varieties available on the food store counter these days.

For greater eating satisfaction, know the qualities of the more popular varieties. Horticulturists for the Agricultural Extension Service offer this guide for selection.

Jonathan is a red apple with green to yellow undertone. It is tart in flavor, is good for eating fresh, for stewing, making pies, or other apple desserts.

McIntosh is a light to deep red apple with a mild flavor and a sweet aroma. Use it in salads, applesauce and for eating fresh.

Grimes Golden is a clear yellow apple with russet dots. It is excellent for making pies, baking, and for eating fresh.

Stayman, a dull red apple which

Construction Trend Turns Downward

AUSTIN — The construction trend in Texas has taken a mild downward turn, but only because the larger cities have tapered off to a supply-equals-demand situation, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reports.

Smaller but larger numbers of buildings are still in demand in smaller cities, Jo Overstreet of the Bureau staff writes in the current issue of Texas Business Review, adding: "Much of this demand can now be satisfied by contractors who were originally drawn to the larger, more lucrative projects."

Building needs in smaller towns, although not expected to be great enough to keep the construction barometer at current levels, will help cushion the return of normalcy and to prevent a sudden drop, which some observers have anticipated, the Bureau predicts.

Demand for community centers is said to run into many millions of dollars. Many smaller towns have a backlog demand for additional retail establishments of various types. Other types of building include rural schools and public auditoriums in towns that have outgrown the high school gym as more road shows make their appearance. More and better parking facilities are needed in smaller towns where the private automobile is commonly the only means of transportation.

Estimated value of building authorized in Texas during September topped $76 million, which is $22 million short of September, 1954, and $11 million less than in August, 1955.

The next few weeks may be considered a critical period as far as prussic acid poisoning in livestock is concerned. Prussic acid is formed in members of the grass family, especially in Johnson and sudan grass and the sorghum group following wilting. Caution should be exercised in putting live stock on susceptible plants following frosts.

An extra pig or two per litter resulted when the diet of the mother sow was supplemented with an antibiotic during her gestation, reports the USDA. The extra pigs were due to birth of more live pigs and better ability of the pigs to survive until they are weaned.
