Young Democrats Seek Ouster of Texas Party Leadership

will guide the Hall County delegates is as follows:
"That the delegates from this organization to the state convention of the Young Democrats Clubs be instructed to support all measures to remove the present State leadership of the Democratic party; and that they be further instructed to support only such individuals for leadership whose records show that they have never helped elect a Republican administration."
The motion was introduced by V. C. Durrett. After reading his motion, Durrett spoke to the group briefly. In his talk, he outlined the history of the leadership of the Democratic party in Texas for the past four years, and verbally blasted the "Bensonizing process" which the farmers are getting from the Republican administration in Washington.

Presiding at the meeting was Arville Settiff of Turkey, president of the club.
Settiff gave a brief report of the aims and objectives of the Young Democrats Clubs of Texas, emphasizing the development of leadership within the party.
First order of business was the collection of dues from old members, and the admission of new members.

March Starts Quiet as Lamb In Memphis Area

March came in like the proverbial lamb this morning, so if the old saw proves to be reliable, it should go out like a lion. Skies were overcast, temperatures were mild, and winds were relatively calm this morning. However, no moisture was foreseen by the weather bureau at Amarillo.
Residents of this area were more than glad to see March get off to such an auspicious start, for they had an extremely distasteful, though brief, preview of what might be in store for them last Friday afternoon and night. During that period, westerly winds continued to gather force, resulting in some minor property damage and a genuine duststorm. The Amarillo weather bureau reported Saturday morning that wind speeds there were clocked at around 60 miles an hour, with gusts to 95 miles, at the height of the storm.
Damage in Memphis and surrounding area included bent and blown down television antennas and towers. Lumber companies reported some damage to house and outbuilding roofs, windows, screens and signs. One lumberman said that since Friday's dust, a number of persons had come in and purchased weather stripping and masking tape, in order to be better prepared for any future sandstorms.

ANNUAL CHAMBER OF COMMERCE BANQUET SLATED FRIDAY NIGHT

Travis Baptist Eyes Building Program

First step in a proposed long-range building program for the Travis Baptist Church here was taken at the Sunday morning service, Rev. Lanham F. Campbell, pastor of the church, said Monday.
At the service, a committee of three was appointed to study blueprints for a Sunday school building, to be located south of the present church building. The structure would be a one-story brick building, extending on a north-south line, and would seat about 200 persons, Mr. Campbell said.
The second building, to be constructed in a contemplated three-phase program, is an auditorium. It would extend west from the south end of the Sunday school building.
The third part of the program — construction of a larger building to replace the present structure — would be put into operation if time came that the existing quarters were inadequate. The old building would be razed and the new one built on the site.
If the contemplated program is carried to completion, the resulting structure would be in the form of a U, with the Sunday school building connecting the auditorium on the south side of the church property and the newest addition on the north, Mr. Campbell explained.
Appointed to the blueprint committee Sunday were: Cecil Edwards, chairman; and Mrs. Claud Johnson and J. P. Parker. Mr. Campbell will serve as an ex-officio member.

4-H Members Told Value of Range Training Program

COLLEGE STATION — "Because the responsibility for keeping the grasslands productive and Texas a leading livestock producing state will in a few years be shifted to the youth of today," Garlyn Hoffman, extension range specialist suggests that 4-H club members take advantage of the training programs offered in the fields of range management.

Grass, he says, produced on the ranges of the state, especially native grass, is Texas' greatest crop. The livestock produced on this crop should be considered as nothing more than harvesters of the grass. But the kinds and quality of the grass crop depends upon the management practices which are carried out on the range, says Hoffman.

For a beginning, the specialist suggests that 4-H members consider making a collection of all the native range plants in their area. They should be classified as to grazing value and the season of growth. Knowing the range vegetation, he says, is the first step in developing a good range management program.

The next step is to carry out a deferred grazing demonstration. Take two pastures of equal size and condition and defer one during the growing season and note what happens, suggests Hoffman. The deferred pasture will show how much forage can be produced if the livestock are grazed on sudan or other grass during the growing season. The deferred pasture could then be used for the winter hay supply with the livestock doing the hay baling.

Hoffman suggests that brush control be practiced on a small area. Defer grazing and watch what happens. The water formerly used to grow trees and brush will grow grass and lots of it.

Then as experience is gained tackle the range management demonstration. It is designed to give training in stocking rates, soil and water conservation and other practices related to keeping the range producing at a top rate. Local county agents can supply additional information on 4-H range management programs.

Tech Expanding Testing Facilities

LUBBOCK — Texas Tech is expanding its cotton fiber testing facilities almost double, Texas Cotton Research Committee Director K. Lanse Turner, says.

The expansion is part of a consolidation of the fiber testing facilities at Tech and Texas A&M College, which participate in the Committee program with the University of Texas. The Legislature created the Committee to foster research for expanding markets and uses of cotton.

Raymond K. Fliege, Tech textile engineering department head, said the consolidation of fiber testing facilities will permit economies in operation and will result in an increased testing and research effort.

Farm Operators Advised About Wage Payments

Farm operators who paid as much as $100 in cash wages to any farm employe during the year 1955 should file an employer's tax and information return for agricultural employes, John R. Sanderson, manager of the Amarillo Social Security office, has announced. This tax return should be filed with the District of Internal Revenue, Dallas, together with the social security taxes on the wages shown on the form.

Sanderson emphasized that this annual report of wages paid for agricultural labor should have been filed with the Internal Revenue Service before January 31. The return must show the name, social security number, and wages paid every employe whose cash wages from the same farmer amounted to $100 or more.

Farmers, who must make these tax returns and have not yet received or written for the proper forms, should write the District Director of Internal Revenue, Dallas or Amarillo, immediately in order to prevent further delay in getting the report filed.

Research Shows Antibiotics Help Increase Pig Crop

COLLEGE STATION — An extra pig or two per litter resulted when the diet of the mother sow was supplemented with an antibiotic during her gestation, N. R. Ellis of the U. S. Department of Agriculture told delegates to the First International Conference on the Use of Antibiotics at its meeting in Washington.

The extra pigs were due to birth of more live pigs and better ability of the pigs to survive until weaned. It was emphasized that the inclusion of aureomycin (the antibiotic used) in the gestation ration neither increased the number of embryos nor the birth weight of the pigs.

Similar work has been conducted by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and Fred Hale, station swine husbandman, says that at least three antibiotics have been tested including aureomycin. He has reported results which closely parallel those of the Beltsville Research Center.

Hale does offer this additional advice to farmers who may include an antibiotic as a supplement to the gestation ration of their sow herd. "Don't depend upon the antibiotic to replace a good sanitation program on the farm. As in the case of the ration, the antibiotic is only a supplement to management and sanitation practices which will aid in the control of swine diseases and parasites."

Among practices listed by Hale a re-rotation of hog pastures, thorough cleaning of farrowing houses before farrowing time, cleaning the sows before the pigs are born and carefully watching the sows and litters for any signs of diseases or parasites. Frequent rotation of pastures and farrowing areas will aid in preventing "pig sick soil," a term used by swine producers to describe soil which is infected with disease or parasites.

The normal dosage of aureomycin is 10 grams per ton of feed. Supplementing the gestation ration at this level gave the same results as the inclusion of larger amounts—better survival of young pigs.

Report Stresses Importance of Herd Replacement

COLLEGE STATION—A year-end summary of Texas dairy herd improvement records shows that 23.5 per cent of all cows on DHIA test during 1955 were removed from herds during the year. Based on this average, Texas dairymen will be milking almost a completely new herd in four to five years, point out Extension Dairy Husbandmen R. E. Bureson and A. M. Meekma.

The level of production and the profit from the milking herd are dependent, say the specialists, on the herd replacement program that is being followed on each dairy farm. Select the good brood cow and base the selection on actual production records. Then breed them to the best bull, of the same breed, available or obtainable with consideration given to circumstances and finances. And, point out the specialists, the future profitability of the dairy enterprise depends on how well each dairyman carries out a program of selection and breeding.

Last year DHIA members removed 3,367 cows from their herds. Low production was the reason given for removal of almost 63 per cent of these cows. In descending order of importance, the remaining were removed for dairy purposes, deaths, udder trouble, sterility, old age, brucellosis, accidents, tuberculosis and miscellaneous reasons.

The extension dairymen believe the successful dairyman can best maintain the size of his herd, keep disease problems at a minimum and increase the level of the herd's production by combining the best known herd management and replacement practices.

Herds which do not have the inherited ability to produce large amounts of milk and butterfat regardless of the management used may not prove profitable.

On the other hand, herds with good breeding have the capacity and ability to produce at a profit if properly managed. Therefore, say the specialists, don't gamble with the future by playing down the importance of the herd replacement program.

About two-thirds of the poul losses during brooding period can be traced to management factors and the balance to specific diseases.

Read Your Bible By HARRY GRAHAM CHURCH OF YOUR CHOICE!

It is very often said, "Attend the church of your choice." Nothing is ever said about God's choice in the churches. Does God have any choice in the churches? Surely he does, and his choice is more profound than anyone I know. "Every plant my Heavenly Father has planted, shall be rooted up." (Matt. 15:13) As said, "Husbands, love your wives as Christ loves the church (singular), and gave himself for it." (Eph. 5:25) This plainly shows that Christ was very decided on the matter. He had as much choice about the church as a man has to have toward his wife. A man does not have the right to the church of his own choice, while he the Lord to save him. When Jesus was in the world, he did not consider his choice of pleasure. "Christ pleased himself." (Rom. 15:3). "For I do always the things pleasing to Him (God)," said Christ (Jno. 8:29).

Men have the divine order exactly reversed. They made churches of their own choice, not of God's. They have put names on these churches entirely for an expressed choice of God. They heap upon the teachers after their own lusts, or choice (II Tim. 4:3) practice many things in their work and worship because it is pleasing to men. Christianity (so called) come largely a matter of choice with the human, divine choice (will) completely disregarded. Sects and denominations differ so much that we have a multitude of churches, names, creeds, doctrines and methods.

Each one should ask, "Is my religion, the church I belong to, the doctrine I believe, the way I worship God, the matter of my choice, or is it the expressed choice of God and specified in His Holy Word, the Bible?" now say with Jesus, "I do always the things that are pleasing to Him." (Jno. 8:29), or do I worship according to my own personal choice?

Care Urged Performing Stock Surgery

More and more livestock being done on the farm, the Foundation for Animal Health has cautioned that the same care and attention should be given to the surgery as is given to the operations in the hospital.

There are great recuperation periods, but they still need the same care and attention as before, during, and after surgery, the Foundation has stated.

When an animal is sick, the surgical risk it becomes. It will reveal whether there is enough to the surgery, and if this is not enough, the amount of anesthesia should be increased. The veterinarian should provide clean quarters for the operation and they should be modified and free from drafts. Instruments should be prepared and sterilized from the beginning. The veterinarian should also list the care recommended by the farmer should see to it that the animal is clean and comfortable both before and after surgery. ### Play Presented At Little Theatre Meeting Wed.

A one-act play, "Betty Misbehaves," was presented before members of the Memphis Little Theatre meeting in the home of Mrs. Ralph Williams on Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 22. Co-hostess with Mrs. Williams was Mrs. Noel Callaway.

Directing the play was Miss Ethel Hillhouse and members of the cast included Charlene Greene, who played the part of Betty; Nita Bess Coppedge, as Joannette, and Helen Combs as Ellin.

Setting for the humorous play was a dormitory room in the Linwood boarding school. Miss Linwood, who was away on a business trip, left the school in charge of Ellin, one of the pupils. Betty, mischievous niece of Miss Linwood, continues with her usual pranks while her aunt is away. When Joannette, rich and cultured new student arrives, Betty immediately takes her aside and tells her that Ellin is deaf and she will have to scream at her to be heard. Later she tells Ellin the same story about Joannette. The pranks develop as Betty had planned, but when Joannette and Ellin become wise they play Betty back, pretending to misunderstand everything she says.

Report From Washington

By Walter Rogers
Congressman, 18th District

President has again chosen to pursue a course that must result in a marked expansion of bureaucracy and bureaucratic controls with which we have so long been plagued.

History will record such veto as not in the best interest of this country.

Collective Farm in Russia

There are three types of farms in Russia. The state farm, the machinery or tractor farm it is called, and the collective farm which is the type most widely employed.

The state farm is operated entirely by the state and everything goes to the state. The tractor farm is the farm from which the state farms and the collective farms get their machinery. They borrow this or rent it. One tractor farm may supply several collective or state farms. We were taken from Odessa to a collective farm located about 15 miles out. After we left the city limits, the roads were gravel and reminded me very much of some of the farm-to-market roads some 15 to 20 years ago in this country. When we reached the collective farm, we found it to be a small village of separate housing units for each family. In outward appearance it closely resembled a small rural town in many sections of the United States. The main street was about four blocks long and was paved. It was the only paved street in the village. The offices, barns, meeting rooms and other installations of the collective farm were located just off this main street. We were taken into a meeting room and briefed on the manner in which the farm was operated. The assistant manager of the farm, who was in charge, was very cooperative in answering our questions. The farm consisted of approximately 1600 hectares or approximately 4000 acres. We were told that it supported 577 families. That out of these 577 families there were 800 workers. Each farmer was entitled to the use of a separate tract of some 300 meters to one hectare on which he could grow what he desired. We were told that the farmers on this particular operation were very prosperous, and that for the prior year, they had received about 12,000 rubles ($3000) each as their share of the profits. In addition, they received their seed and several other things such as vegetables, an allotment of wine, silage for the cow and so forth. We were told, also, that the farmers mostly owned their own homes and cars. The farmer can own the house but cannot own the land. He has certain rights that can be inherited by his heirs, but the land always remains the property of the state. The manager told us that this particular farm showed a profit in the previous year of 9,000,000 rubles. According to the present rate of exchange, that would mean $2,250,000. I questioned their figures, but their only answer was that I just did not understand exchange. I assured them that they were sure right about that if they thought that I thought they made $2,250,000 off of 4000 acres of land in one year. The major part of the income of the farm was from wine that was made on the farm from grapes grown on the farm. There were tremendous vineyards of beautiful grapes. These were all mashed and made into wine. About 400 hectares was in grain. There were 740 cattle on the farm, of which 170 were used for milking. We were told that the farm netted 1,000,000 rubles ($250,000) from cattle last year. The cattle looked very good but not quite that profitable. They showed us some huge pumpkins and other melons that they had grown on the farm. They were grinding up a small round watermelon type of melon to be made into cattle-feed. There were only 44 Communist Party members among the people on the farm. There were about 50 of the younger people who were members of the Young Communist League. This will give you an idea of the control of the many by the few.

Unlicensed Driver Described as Traffic Hazard

AUSTIN — The unlicensed driver has been pointed up as a traffic hazard on Texas Highways in a statement by Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., Director of the Texas Department of Public Safety.

In quoting a survey made during the first six months of 1955 by the Texas Highway Patrol, Garrison said the unlicensed Texas driver is two and a half times as likely to be involved in an accident as a licensed driver.

He also said the survey of rural highways showed that when involved in an accident the unlicensed driver's mishap is half again as apt to prove fatal as that of the licensed driver.

In explanation Garrison said, "The irresponsibility of the driver in not obtaining a license is a reflection of the character of that driver and his driving habits."

4,600 Texans Enter Services During January

AUSTIN — A total of 4,600 Texans entered the armed forces in January, with 5,017 being separated during the same time, according to Colonel Morris S. Schwartz, state Selective Service director.

"This is the same general trend experienced in 1955," the Colonel said. "More than 46,000 Texans went into all the services the past year, but during the same time, more than 54,000 got out."

Of the 4,600 Texans who went into uniform during January, 4,174 entered by enlistment or other volunteer means. The remaining 426 were drafted.

Texas draft boards forwarded a total of 2,375 men for pre-induction mental and physical examinations during January. Of this number, 1,537 were accepted as fit for military service, and the remaining 833 were rejected.

Eight physicians were examined by the Army for draft boards under provisions of the doctor's draft law, with one found unacceptable for service. Three physicians received commissions in the armed forces during January after orders to report for induction were issued.

Of all the services, the Air Force reported the largest number of entries in January, 1,695. At the same time the Air Force separated 1,060.

A total of 1,308 Texans entered the Army by enlistment and draft in January. During the same time, a total of 2,384 Texans were separated from the Army.

By Helen Combs

On a weekly newspaper each Thursday is a day set apart for all the staff, including mechanical and editorial. It is perhaps the day we work hardest of all, but without doubt the day from which we derive the most pleasure from our work — because that day our job is completed! If we are not pleased with our product, and many times we are not, then the next week we can strive to do just a wee bit better.

We doubt that any community has more flattering and inspiring readers than we do here in Memphis. Early Thursday morning we start answering such questions as "Is the paper out yet?" and "Will the paper be on time today?" You can imagine how we felt last Thursday when Mrs. J. H. Harbee, Jr., instead of asking the usual question, said, "Will your column be in the paper today?"

The community was saddened this week by the death of Mrs. W. C. Davis. For more than 20 years, Mrs. Davis has led an active and useful life in our midst, being directly or indirectly associated with the many children who have passed through the Memphis schools. In the earlier years while rearing her family, Mrs. Davis was connected with the school only through her husband, but in later years she has served as teacher in the elementary school. It was only last spring when she became ill that she was forced to give up her work. She was loved and admired by not only her pupils, but her co-workers and friends as well.

Judge and Mrs. A. S. Moss, long-time Hall County residents, were here Monday visiting friends and transacting business. They are now living in Tulsa and have recently constructed a new home. When we saw Mrs. Moss Monday she was paying for a purchase in a local store and remarked she had carried the change purse, from which she was taking some coins, for almost 40 years. She recalled it was the late W. B. Quigley, president of the Citizen's State Bank, who had given it to her, and she has carried the purse continuously through the years!

Scop on oil news . . . as of midnight Tuesday night . . . well down to depth of 8983 feet, drilling in granite.

How many of you have been working in your yards this week? The T. J. Dunbars and the Claude Welles, who are noted for their pretty yards, have both been busy this week getting ready for the spring and summer season. The Welles, who had some lovely roses last year, have added to their collection by putting out more varieties this year . . . for many years Mrs. Dunbar has furnished lovely bouquets of roses as well as many other flowers to her friends for parties and other occasions . . . another flower lover who is continuously sharing her flowers with friends and neighbors is Mrs. Louie Goffinet . . . Ruth, as we call her, has been busy the past few days caring for her grandchildren, as her daughter has a new son at their house.

Speaking of flowers, we were wondering if the federated club women and other clubs and church classes wouldn't like to undertake beautification of the City Park this summer . . . L. W. Stanford, park committee chairman, stated this week that the City officials were most anxious to do something about making the City Park one of the prettiest spots in the city . . . plenty of water is available at the park and they have a man who will water and care for the plants once they are put out . . . if you, or some organization you belong to, would be interested in helping with this project, go by and talk to Mr. Stanford at the drug store or contact us here at the office.

Memphis is already noted for its friendliness and can just as easily be noted for its beauty . . . if we will join forces and put forth a little work . . . many tourists visited our park last summer and it could easily be one of the beauty spots of this area.

When tourists stop in a town, they spend money with some local merchant . . . only last week Mrs. Whitley was remarking that two women came into her beauty shop that week to have their hair shampooed and set . . . one was from Nebraska and the other from Colorado.

Scouts To Have Cake Sale Saturday

Scouts of Troop 35 are having a cake sale Saturday at Tarver-Stanford Pharmacy on the west side of the square. Scoutmaster Ted Myers announced this week. The event is scheduled to start at 8 a. m.

A candy sale is planned later in March, Myers said. A program in the high school auditorium also is contemplated.

The events are being carried on, in order to finance purchase of camping equipment which the Troop needs; the Scoutmaster explained.

WILLIAM B. TEAGUE

William Teague Asks Re-Election To Attorney Post

This week Wm. B. Teague authorized The Democrat to announce that he was a candidate for re-election to the office of County Attorney, recognizing that his election was subject to the action of Hall County voters in the Democratic primaries.

He issued the following statement:

"To the citizens of Hall County: "I wish to take this opportunity to announce my candidacy for the office of county attorney of Hall County. But first I want to thank everyone for the confidence you have shown in me in the past by twice electing me as your county attorney, and for the splendid cooperation I have received from all the people in the performance of my duties. Without that cooperation it would have been impossible for me to have efficiently executed my duties.

"Two years ago I promised only to serve you impartially and to the best of my ability, and to always cooperate with all local and state officials in the operation of the office of county attorney. This promise I have continually tried to keep, and to the best of my ability I have prosecuted all violations of the law within the jurisdiction of the county attorney's office. I renew my promise now, and if you re-elect me as your county attorney, I will continue to prosecute all offenses impartially and to the best of my ability. I also pledge to continue full cooperation with all local and state officials in that work.

"During the time I have been privileged to serve you as county attorney, particular vigor has been used in prosecuting the offenses of Driving While Intoxicated and Liquor violations, and I pledge continuance of this policy. Cooperation among all officials, including juries, has been very effective in this work. During 1953 there were 48 Driving While Intoxicated cases filed, 47 cases disposed of during the year, with 2 pending at the close of the year. There were 47 convictions and no acquittals. These convictions resulted in $4513.25 being paid into the county treasury, in addition to credit for time spent in the county jail. During the same period there were 43 Liquor violation cases filed, 22 cases were tried, and 21 cases were pending at the end of the year, 5 of which have been disposed of during the last two months. Of the 22 cases tried, 20 resulted in convictions and 2 cases resulted in acquittals. These liquor violation convictions resulted in the payment into the county treasury $4469.30. The county received $19,254.15 in fines and fees from convictions in all criminal cases in county court and the two justice courts during the year 1953. Your county attorney paid into the treasury of Hall County the amount of $4,874.54 as fees of office (all from criminal cases) during last year.

"During the past year 5 liquor violation convictions were appealed to the Court of Criminal Appeals at Austin, Texas. Four of these were confirmed by that court and one was reversed. In the cases affirmed by the Court of Criminal Appeals, Hall County Juries had levied the following punishment:

- 1 case a fine of $500.00.
- One case a fine of $625.00.
- 1 case a fine of $650.00.
- 1 case a fine of $750.00 and a jail sentence of 30 days.

"A state witness was indicted by the Hall County Grand Jury and convicted in the District Court of the offense of perjury committed in the trial of a liquor violation case in the County court which resulted in one of the two acquittals above referred to. This witness pleaded guilty to perjury and was placed on adult probation for two years.

Passersby told highway men that one of the tires had thrown through the rear window of the car.

Patrolmen stated that the tire of the automobile was presumed that Miss Barkett was driving, lost control of the car while attempting to change a tire.

The car was heavily damaged. Witnesses told officers it was traveling at a moderate speed at the time of the accident.

Miss McCrary teaches in Cleburne High School. Barkett is a physical instructor.

Home Service Director Carnation Company

This time of year citrus fruits are at their best! Oranges and grapefruit are rich in Vitamin C, so necessary to good health and vitality.

Here are a few hints on caring for citrus fruits.

- ... Do not buy more than your family can use during a week.
- ... Store citrus fruits in a cool, dark place.
- ... Handle fruit carefully. Avoid bruises caused by dropping or crushing.
- ... Chill oranges for juice before squeezing. Adding cubes to chill, dilutes the juice.

Integration Shouldn't Be Rushed

The Supreme Court tossed a "hot potato" to the Southern States when it ruled that segregation of white and Negro school children must be abandoned. That was a year or so ago, but the "potato" apparently is as "hot", if not hotter, than it was at the time the ruling was handed down.

The highest court in the land, in its decree, gave Southern people time to make the change, and the majority of communities are availing themselves of this transition period. Some schools already have combined their classes, but it is our personal belief that there will be less chance of undue friction, if the slower approach is used.

After all, segregation has been around for quite a while, and to expect this to be reversed overnight, seems to us, to be asking too much. It just isn't natural for humans to change their habits that fast.

The problem of integration is a very complex one, anyway, because of the many differing shades of opinion, pro and con, concerning it. And the difficulty of resolving the matter satisfactorily is compounded by the prejudice connected with it.

Nor are the "hot heads" on both sides helping the situation any. Unreasonable demands and unjust accusations usually only antagonize, making chances of settling a controversy more difficult. For the good of everyone concerned, it is always best to try to quiet the rabble rousers, and if this proves impossible, then to ignore them.

A custom that is as deep-rooted and as long-standing as segregation probably will not die easy, but no one, or no group or groups should attempt to force integration on the South. Instead, Southern communities should be permitted the right of working the problem out for themselves. What is needed most, is patience and understanding, on the part of both whites and Negroes. If this course is followed, there is no reason why a solution to the problem should not be found.

It's Time to Do Something

Anyone at all familiar with this area knows that its economy has been declining for the past 25 years or so, with the possible exception of a spurt at the end of the second World War. If any proof was wanted, however, one source would be the periodic reports on business which the Bureau of the Census of the Department of Commerce publishes.

The most recent one, covering the period from 1946 through 1954, reveals that retail sales in Hall County dipped 33 per cent from something over 10 million dollars to less than 7 million dollars. At the same time, business firms were dropping from 182 to 146.

Among things that the government report does not disclose are the number of jobs that vanished and the number of people who moved away during the period. But the county's population, which was 16,966 in 1930, had slipped to 12,117 by 1940, and to 10,930 by 1950, and there is every reason to believe that this loss of residents is continuing.

And this trend is not likely to change, unless something occurs to give our economy a "shot in the arm."

Residents of this area have been hoping that some of the oil well tests that have been made throughout the years, would prove out and bring a new era of prosperity to the section, but so far this has not come about. There has been talk of acquiring other new sources of income, but this, too, generally has not been productive of results.

But there is at least one thing all of us could do if we would, and that is, to keep our money at home. If this were done on a large scale, it is likely that most of us probably would be pleasantly surprised by the improvement in our economy.

Money spent and invested in one's hometown can help it to grow and to become a more enjoyable place to live, while money spent elsewhere helps drain the life out of it.

A great many towns already have disappeared and others, Memphis included, are gradually dying. But this process can be slowed, even halted, if citizens believe in and support their hometown wholeheartedly.

What is your wish, citizens of Memphis and the surrounding area? Are Amarillo, Pampa, Borger, Lubbock, Plainview, Wichita Falls, and other large business centers to continue to expand at your expense? Or will you join your efforts and financial support in strengthening your own economy and the future of this section?

The decision is yours to make. What will your answer be?

Business of Farming
 Time was when a man raised cows on the farm, or cattle in the pasture, or chickens in the pens or pigs in the sty and so on. That was years ago. Now down on the farm it's registered white-face, angus, or some other type of cattle; Holstein or Guernsey cows, Rhode Island Red Chickens, Hampshire pigs and on down the line. A man has to know his breeding and keep up with a lot of things to make a success with stock farming.

And with the annual Junior Fat Stock and Project Shows we are taking a step towards instilling the desire to learn a little more of this complicated process of farming in our youngsters. For years now we've been trying to learn something about High Plains farming. About the time we think we know a little something, it's changed to something else. In the past fifteen years most farmers in the county have had to learn at least one completely different set of rules of good farming and in many cases even more. Us city folks who try to keep up with and understand Castro County farming are often a day late and a dollar short. Farming has come to be so technical a man almost has to be a farmer and study it continuously to know what is going on.

With these agricultural programs for our youngsters, it is possible to keep them abreast of what is going on until they reach the point that they, themselves, are causing some of the changes. —Castro County News, Dimmitt

Misjudged
 Seems like almost everyone misjudged the public attitude about integration. It turned out that there was much less opposition than most of us had always thought there was.

About the only regrets we hear are that nine persons who have spent years preparing themselves to teach suddenly find themselves without jobs and with no hope of getting new ones. It is going to be mighty tough for them to go back to picking cotton after they have learned there is a better way to live.

But the young ones can do it even if it is tough on ambitious people. Young persons with enough drive to prepare themselves for something else, now that the teaching profession is no longer open to them.

The concern we hear expressed is mainly for the principal of Dunbar and his wife, who have given a large part of their adult lives to building Dunbar. They took Dunbar when its only building was an abandoned boxcar. They set up a class in each end and since then have striven, with considerable success, to improve the educational opportunities of their people. While doing so they have earned the respect of both the white and colored citizens of the community, including their colleagues in the white schools.

We have heard many citizens express the wish that Maurice Powell could be retained in our school capacity where he might help make the adjustment easier for the colored children. We have heard others say that they respect the Powells and consider them good teachers and that they are sorry to see them lose their jobs, but that hiring either of them in the integrated schools was out of the question. Maybe they are right. But then maybe they are wrong. Maybe we have also over estimated the opposition to hiring a qualified, respected colored teacher during the transition period.—County Wide News, Littlefield

Grass Changing Picture

Grass as elephant's eye is changing picture in the Rio Grande valley and may soon affect the entire Southwestern area of the Southwest Foundation for Research and Education.

Elephant grass is being grown on their acreage at Brownsville.

These nursery plots are maintained as a public service to provide others with cuttings so they can grow their own crops of elephant grass. Any farmer or rancher who wishes to develop his own nursery may have sufficient cuttings for one-fourth to one-half acre merely by paying the cost of mailing and shipping. Requests should be addressed to Dr. Charles L. Shrewsbury, Associate Director, Southwest Foundation for Research and Education, San Antonio 6, Texas.

Many farmers in the Rio Grande area have already been supplied cuttings and one dairyman near San Antonio has developed his own crop which he is feeding to his cattle.

Elephant grass is best as a sod crop. It may be used for grazing, but this is not its best economic use and it must be grazed intermittently or in rotation.

It does best only under an intensified cultural operation. The ground must be heavily fertilized. This is especially true in rotation with nitrogen. Phosphorous and potash should be added if they are needed. Elephant grass requires a considerable amount of water and the land should be irrigated if it is not in an area of heavy annual rainfall.

While elephant grass is primarily a semi-tropical plant, it has survived temperatures of 2 degrees below zero for 48 hours and 2 degrees above zero for 120 hours. Further details on its resistance to cold await plantings in other states.

A sample of the cost of production is: $15 for fertilizer; $10 for irrigation to supplement the rainfall; $20 rent; and $10, the first year's share of the cost of planting ($50.00). This brings the total cost to $55 per acre or less than $1 a ton for forage.

Southwest Foundation for Research and Education and Brownsville Cotton Compress are eager to supply farmers and ranchers with free cuttings and hope they

Engineers Seek Answer to Texas Water Problem

AUSTIN — University of Texas engineers say they hope to find at least a partial answer to Texas' troublesome water problem by studying reclaimable water in the state.

The project, conducted under a contract with the U. S. Bureau of Reclamation, is directed by Dr. Earnest F. Gloyna, associate professor of civil engineering.

Specific goals of the investigation will be to establish the amount of waste water that will be available for reuse to municipal, agricultural and industrial users in the state and the cost of preparing that water for reuse.

Texas has a potentially rich industrial area along the Gulf Coast and an important winter garden in the fertile Rio Grande Valley. Yet the growth of industry and agriculture in those and other regions of the state will be retarded unless more water is made available.

Most industries that locate in Texas, because of the raw materials and minerals found here, are large water users, Dr. Gloyna noted.

"It is a challenge to determine the long-range trends in production techniques and how much water will be available for reuse by industrial users in the future," he said.

Assisting Dr. Gloyna in the project are graduate engineering students who are surveying the quantity and characteristics of the state's reclaimable waste water.

Scent is the best-developed sense in most animals.

Back in the 1800's it was the custom to enroll very young boys in the Navy. David Farragut, for example, was appointed a midshipman when he was less than 10 years old.

The first Naval Officer's Training School was established in Boston, Mass., in December, 1815. It was under the guidance of William Bainbridge, a great naval leader whose courage had been demonstrated in the war with Tripoli.

Many Pedestrians Called Hazards to Selves and Others

"Many pedestrians on our streets today are a constant hazard to themselves and others by their reckless disregard of traffic laws!"

This view was expressed by E. C. McFadden of Dallas, president of the Texas Safety Association, Inc., in a discussion of the Know and Obey Traffic Laws program which the Texas Safety Association and the Department of Public Safety is conducting this month in cooperation with the National Safety Council.

"How many of us can plead 'Not Guilty' to sneaking across a street on a red light, or jay-walking, or to doing any of the other extremely hazardous things which spell disaster to so many pedestrians in traffic each year?" McFadden asked.

Emphasizing that traffic laws were made for the protection of both pedestrian and motorist, he said that statistics indicated that many traffic accidents are caused by reckless pedestrian walking habits and an indifference to the necessity for obeying traffic laws at all times.

"Traffic signals represent the expert thinking of engineers and safety authorities and are used for the protection of both motorist and pedestrian," McFadden said.

"When we disobey traffic laws, whether motorists or pedestrians, we're cheating ourselves as well as others. It might be fun to fool yourself at solitaire — but don't try the same thing in modern traffic. It could be fatal."

The first warship of American construction to enter European waters was the 16-gun brig Reprisal. On the way over, she captured two vessels, and in the Bay of Biscay two others, one of which was the King's packet plying between Palmouth and Lisbon. This was the first capture by the American colonists of a ship in enemy waters and the first attempt to block and destroy English commerce at the source.

Since 1910, more than 24,500,000 boys and leaders have been members of the Boy Scouts of America.

Lice Harm Poultry And Cut Profits, Authority Says

COLLEGE STATION — Nothing can be more irritating and disagreeable to poultry or to the poultryman than a flock infested with lice. And too, says Ben Wormell, extension poultry husbandman, lousy poultry grow at a slower rate, are unthrifty and produce fewer eggs. In laying flocks kept for producing hatching eggs, heavy infestations of lice can cause egg fertility to drop to the vanishing point.

The louse spends its entire life on the host bird and spreads through the flock most rapidly in cool weather. The eggs, attached to the feathers by a gluey substance, hatch in two weeks or less and in another two weeks the lice are full grown. One pair may produce 120,000 offspring within their life span of a few months; hence, the need for immediate control.

Fortunately, says Wormell, the several species commonly found in Texas can be controlled by the same treatment, the most common is fumigation by using a roost paint. An effective paint is one per cent lindane in an oil solution. It should be applied at the rate of about one pint to each 200 feet of roost and just before the birds go to roost. A second application should be made within a 10-days to 2-weeks period, says the specialist. He adds that dips, sprays and dusts can also be used to control lice but they require the handling of each bird.

Sanitation pays off in controlling lice just as it does in keeping diseases in check but regular inspection of individual birds within the flock will enable the poultryman to start control measures with the first appearance of the parasites. Fast action, says Wormell, will prevent heavy infestations and the costly reduction in flock performance.

University Names Medical Affairs Vice-President

AUSTIN — Dr. Melvin A. Casberg of Solvang, Calif., becomes University of Texas vice-president for medical affairs next July 1.

Dr. Casberg is a surgeon, medical administrator and former assistant secretary of defense. His basic function at the University will be to advise the president on programs and activities in medical and dental education.

The position of vice-president for medical affairs was established and authorized more than a year ago as part of an administrative reorganization designed for maximum efficiency of operation.

"We have been searching since then for a man with the unusual qualifications needed for this highly responsible post and in Doctor Casberg we believe that we have such a man," President Logan Wilson said.

The University's health education and research program includes the Galveston Medical Branch, with its John Sealy Hospital, and M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute in Houston, the Dental Branch in Houston, the Postgraduate School of Medicine in Houston, with programs in nine Texas cities, and Southwestern Medical School in Dallas.

Dr. Casberg has been dean of St. Louis University's School of Medicine, chief of surgery in hospitals, and chairman of the Armed Forces Medical Policy Council, served as assistant secretary of defense (for health and medical purposes) by presidential appointment for two years ending in 1954, when he returned to private practice of surgery in California.

TU Scientists Announce Gain In Cancer Control

AUSTIN — A new step in cancer control is revealed by two University of Texas scientists, Dr. Roger J. Williams, famed director of the University's Biochemical Institute, and Dr. Alfred Taylor, his well-known research associate.

They announce they are now able to control with substantial success the growth of a mouse mammary cancer when cultivated in embryonated eggs. As a result of their study, they suggest that cancer control may involve the simultaneous use of suitable drugs along with certain physical agents, such as temperature increase.

While recognizing that a method which might control a cancerous growth in mice or rats could not be carried over unchanged to humans, Drs. Taylor and Williams say they believe their technique will be an excellent tool for long range cancer study.

"Although no one can foresee the pathway by which cancer investigation will progress, it seems likely that it may take a course involving first the control of cancer in embryonated eggs, second its control in experimental animals, and lastly its control in human patients," they say in their report, prepared for publication

Questions & For Veterans

Q—If I enroll in a course under the Keogh Act before my starting date, will I be permitted to receive military training in the field, after that date has passed?
A—No. A correspondence course is considered a program of training within itself. A change of program or room training would be a change of program, and not permitted after starting cut-off date.
Q—I have just been from military service. Can I insure?
A—You must apply your first premium 30 days after the date of discharge.
Q—I bought a house loan, and I am planning to take over my loan. Can I get a VA's permission to do so?
A—No. VA's permission is required. However, you must remember you remain liable for GI loan, even though you have your house to another. You can relieve yourself of liability by insuring that the house is refinanced.

Scouts of Troop 35 Making Plans for Coming Months

Scouts of Troop 35 are making plans for several events which will be coming up in the next six months, Scoutmaster Ted Myers said Monday.

For one thing, the Scouts are getting ready to re-register the troop for a new charter year, which will begin March 31. Scouts now in the troop should bring their 50 cents yearly dues in soon, Myers said, and also their $1.50 subscription to Boys Life Magazine, the official Scout publication.

On either March 17 or March 24, the Scouts and their parents will tour Amarillo Air Force Base. The latter part of the month, some of the Scouts are scheduled to go to Camp Ki-O-Wah, near Canadian, to plant trees.

On April 27 through April 29, local Scouts will take part in a Boy Scout Camporee at Camp Ki-O-Wah. Over 700 Scouts from throughout the state are expected to bivouac during the three-day period.

Then, on June 3, Memphis Scouts will return to Camp Ki-O-Wah for a week's stay, returning home June 10.

Adult Scout leaders are making plans to attend several round-table meetings at towns in the Council.

Myers said it was going to be necessary to purchase new camping equipment this year. Among items needed are new tents, as the old ones have been in use for several years and are deteriorating considerably.

Also needed is educational equipment, such as a 35 mm. projector and a screen. The Scoutmaster said there are a number of training films that can be shown to Scouts, if the projector and screen can be obtained from some Memphis citizen. He stated that donation of both these and any tents that might be stored away would be appreciated.

Myers said that Homer Shankle recently presented the Troop an Army Training Signal Set, while Mrs. W. C. Milam gave the boys an umbrella tent, which they already have put into use. The Scoutmaster explained that he wished to thank both profusely, as neither knew the Troop needed equipment at the time of their donations.

"One of the greatest thrills I have received in Scouting," he declared, "is when our neighbors help us like these two have done so recently."

"To run a Troop successfully," of Lesley, vice president; Mrs. Billy Thompson of Memphis, secretary; and Jack Wolf of Lakeview, treasurer.

Delegates to the state convention were not named during the meeting, but President Durrett was instructed to select the club's representatives within a few days.

Two speakers were introduced by Setliff. They were Rep. Elbert Reeves of Matador and N. W. Durham of Memphis. Durham is a member of the State Democratic Executive Committee.

Rep. Reeves discussed "How a Bill Becomes a Law." He listed each step a bill takes during a session of the state legislature until final passage.

"I am in favor of our people reworking our state constitution to make it more effective under these modern times," he emphasized in referring to the overall picture of state government.

Committeeman Durham explained the set-up of the Democratic party conventions, and outlined the order of business which is followed.

He told the group that the first convention of Democrats will be held May 5, 1956. This will be the precinct convention, at which delegates will be elected to the county convention. Then on Tuesday, May 8, delegates elected at the precinct conventions will hold the county convention, where delegates to the state convention will be named. The speaker called this the "presidential convention." Date of the convention is May 22.

Then, on July 28, Democrats will hold a second precinct convention, where delegates to the county convention will be named. Date of the county convention will be Aug. 4, 1956. Here the delegates will elect Hall County's delegates to the state convention. Date of this second state convention is Sept. 11. It is known as the "Governor's convention," and delegates from the counties will elect the party's officials for the next two years.

"Remember, it is at the state convention in May — the president's convention, where Texas will elect delegates to the national convention. These men will choose the president and vice president nominees of the Democratic party," Durham said.

He told his listeners that the party's most important function was the precinct conventions, and urged his listeners to attend and take an active part.

After the meeting was turned over to the new president, a special membership committee was named. Serving will be: J. R. Mitchell, Jr., Mrs. Billy Thompson, Bill Baten, K. D. Nabers, Jr., Jack Moreman, Jack Wolf, Arville Setliff and Joe Eddins.

Emphasis will be placed upon getting new members for the club during the next few days, Durrett announced.

"The more members we have — the more delegates we can send to our state convention," he stated.

Durrett said that the new club will probably hold another meeting within a short time.

A. J. Fowler and his mother, Mrs. W. S. Crowder, made a business trip to Brownfield today (Thursday).

Mrs. T. J. Bridges returned on Monday from Houston where she visited her son, T. J. Bridges, Jr., and daughter, Mrs. O. M. Smith.
