County Delegates Give Report On Fort Worth Democratic Convention

Weary Delegates Return Wed.

Hall County's delegates to the state Democratic convention returned Wednesday afternoon, with a report that some victories were won and some defeats sustained.

Attending the rough rowdy session from this county were: J. Claude Wells, Joyce Webster and D. C. Messick of Memphis; O. E. (Ott) Bevers, Lakeview; Joe Eddins, Estelline; Carl Hill, Parnell; Cole Boswell and Elmer Lacy, Turkey. Wells was chairman of the delegation.

Wells went to Fort Worth Thursday night to take part in pre-convention activities, and to obtain rooms for the delegates. The Hall County group found rooms in a Fort Worth Hotel, although they had been assigned to a Dallas Hotel.

"It will take time to evaluate convention results," Wells stated. "When the full story comes to light, much of the maneuvering will be deplored by fair-minded people."

The liberal-loyalist group was made up of conservatives, moderates, liberals and some extreme leftist liberals, according to county delegates. On the other side—calling themselves the conservatives—were found moderates, conservatives, a hard core of ultra-conservatives, and some extreme rightist radicals.

The delaying tactics, after the convention was called to order Tuesday, was resented by the majority in attendance, according to the report.

The 30th District caucus was held Monday afternoon. Delegates from this 15-county area named Joe Cowan of Dimmitt as committeeman. The next day, word was carried to another delegate, who was a friend of the governor nominee, to the effect that the committee on nominations would ignore the caucus and would place him up for committeeman. This man refused, saying that he would not have it; that

Deadline on Wheat Soil Bank Extended to Oct. 5

The deadline for farmers to enter the 1957 Soil Bank program on wheat was extended this week until Oct. 5, Lynn McKown, office manager of Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation, announced.

An allocation of $49,900.00 has been given this county to make payments on 1957 Soil Bank wheat, McKown said.

Thirty-eight growers signed up last week with 2,357 acres of wheat land. They will receive $18,991.20 if they meet all requirements of the program. This was 38 per cent of the money allocated this county, McKown continued.

A count Wednesday afternoon revealed that 15 more farmers had signed up this week to bring the total to 54.

Persons who place their wheat in the Soil Bank will receive payments based on the average production for yields at the rate of $1.20 per bushel. This will mean about $12.00 an acre for the average land.

Land placed in the bank can be planted in legumes, pasture grasses, sweet sorghum, Sudan, grain sorghum and all small grains including wheat, but none of these can be grazed or harvested in any manner, he continued.

If the land is left fallow it must be kept clear of all obnoxious weeds.

Cyclone Plays in Crowell Friday, Seeks Second Win

Coach D. C. Andrews' Cyclone squad will try to get a second victory this week when they meet the Crowell Wildcats at 8 p. m. at the Crowell Stadium.

The Cyclone squad will leave Memphis about 2 p. m. Friday by bus with a roster of about 22 players, Andrews said. The squad is in good condition for this week's game, he said.

None of the team was injured in last week's clash with Tulia and the same starting team will take the field this week, Andrews said.

In last Friday's event, Memphis took a hard fought 6-0, non-conference victory from the Hornets here in the opening game of the 1956 season.

The lone score was run up late in the second quarter following a drive from the Memphis 11 yard line with Daryl Long going through left tackle for the score.

The Cyclone threatened again in the 3rd quarter but were held on the 4 yard line. Immediately following the Hornets drove down into Memphis territory where Te Wheeler intercepted a pass from Tulia quarterback Byron Lewis to stop the drive.

Halfbacks Sherman Clemons and Long divided the ground attack with fullback David Davis. Joe Young handled the quarterback position for the Cyclone.

Of paramount importance was Clifford Farmer to Judge Dairy Show.

Clifford Farmer, manager of the Memphis Chamber of Commerce and Hall County Board of Development, will be in Shamrock Friday judging the dairy show of the State Line Fair.

This is the fourth year that Farmer has judged the competition.

Hall County Placed On Disaster List

Congressman Walter Rogers informed The Democrat and representatives of the Hall County Farm Bureau Wednesday by telephone that Hall County had been designated as a drought disaster area and would be eligible for federal assistance.

Shortly after this a telegram from Lyndon B. Johnson's office to Robert Moss, president of Hall County Farm Bureau, stated, "Department of Agriculture has today designated Hall County as disaster area eligible for emergency feed grain and hay as well as grazing of acreage reserve under soil bank."

This designation will be of much benefit to stockmen of our county, Moss said. It means that the approximately 110 Hall County farmers who placed land in the Acreage Reserve of the Soil Bank can now graze this land, he continued.

The government will also pay a part of (probably $1.00 per hundred) on feed grains to maintain livestock, and $7.50 per ton on hay, Moss concluded.

Lynn McKown, manager of the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation office here said that he should soon have information concerning the details of the program.

Applications will be handled through FHA as in the past, McKown concluded.

Opinions Differ As Readers List Guesses on Cotton Crop

Readers of The Democrat are showing the usual difference of opinion as they enter the annual Cotton Guessing Contest, which is currently being sponsored by this newspaper.

A check of figures Wednesday afternoon show that the highest estimates of Hall County ginnings to be 41,575 bales. The lowest guess is 12,500.

A total of 46 persons had entered the contest as of Wednesday afternoon.

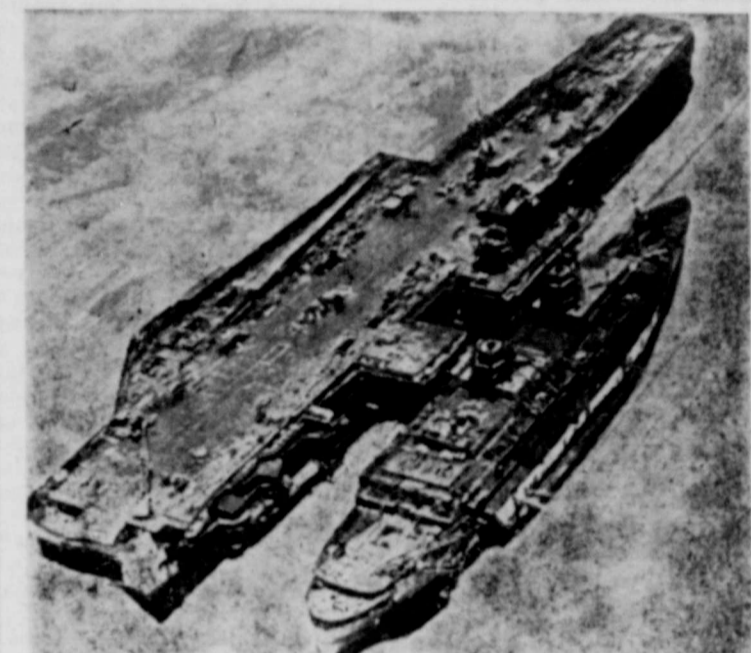

Any person is eligible to enter the annual Cotton Guessing Contest. All that is necessary is to come by the newspaper office, write your name and mailing address—and your estimate for the ginning from the 1955 crop. Guesses will be accepted if they are mailed to the paper, but all persons mailing entries should give their names and addresses.

The individual guessing closest to the number of bales of cotton which will be ginned in Hall County from the current crop will receive a three-year subscription to the paper. Second best guesser will get a two-year subscription, and a year's subscription will go to the third place winner.

Publishers will use the official figures supplied by the Bureau of Census, U. S. Department of Interior, to determine winners. The figures are released the latter part of March each year.

It's natural to argue with your friends and neighbors about anything—especially the cotton crop in Hall County. Whether you win your argument or not, come into The Democrat and list your guess.

Monopoly on the Turnpike

Recently Mrs. Rogers, our two older boys and I had the occasion to travel for a short trip along the Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana Turnpikes. The Pennsylvania Turnpike is the oldest toll road, but proved so successful that Ohio and Indiana have initiated similar programs and have tied their roads into a continuous turnpike across the northern part of their states. Their turnpikes connect with the Pennsylvania Turnpike which, in turn, connects with the New Jersey Turnpike. Needless to say, these are excellent roads on which an automobile traveler can make splendid time. One of the main reasons being that there are no crossroads or intersecting roads and no entrances onto the highway except at intervals that are plainly and visibly marked well in advance of reaching them. The toll to travel on these roads is very reasonable and within the bounds of what any traveling motorist can pay.

I had felt for a number of years that the need for an interstate highway system might be answered by the federal government obtaining rights-of-way across the United States in several directions necessary and constructing toll roads. It was my thought that such a program would maintain a complete separation between the state governments and the federal government in so far as the highway system was concerned. A completely owned federal highway could be policed in the same manner as our national parks system. The cost of the roads and maintenance could be paid for by the tolls collected for their use. There would be no need for conflicts between the state and federal governments in so far as the type of highways are concerned, the regulations governing them, the warning signals to be used, the speed or other matters incident to a highway and motor traffic. There would be no commingling of state and federal funds, that would enable the federal government to dictate certain requirements that had to be met before participation by the states in federal funds. Altogether, it looked like a possible solution at a minimum cost to the average American taxpayer.

However, there were several difficulties requiring consideration which would have to be carefully weighed as relating to such a program. The major one of these difficulties, in my opinion, had to do with the complete monopoly that is enjoyed by the concessionaires of these toll roads. This has been argued pro and con for many years. I have ridden on toll roads, including the Pennsylvania Turnpike, during its early years. However, my recent trip along these turnpikes pointed up the seriousness of the monopoly problem as it concerns the free enterprise system upon which this nation has been built. In the first place, the traffic on the turnpikes has increased tremendously, and will continue to increase tremendously. Once you enter the toll gate, you are a captive of the toll road authority and the concessionaires who are authorized to operate on the road. You either buy gasoline that is available to you at the intervals of approximately 25 to 30 miles or you don't get any gasoline—that is, unless you want to leave the toll road and hunt for a town where you can buy the brand of gasoline you want. On the road itself, you are not only limited to the particular brand of gasoline sold by the concessionaire, but you must buy it when the concessionaire decides to deliver it to you. By this, I mean that you are required to line up and await your turn to purchase gasoline, even though the line may be 15 to 20 cars long. Although there are a number of gasoline pumps available, there are few attendants and you must wait until the attendant serves all the cars in front of you. Usually, Americans are very fair and would make no complaints if such waiting periods were due to exceptional circumstances like peak trade periods. But, it was my observation on the toll road that the same condition existed at almost every station on the road. We saw cars lined up from 5 to 6 deep to 20 deep. In our own case we lost over 45 minutes in travel time during an 8 hour period, waiting in line to buy gasoline.

The same situation is true in some of the eating places. You have no choice. There is only one eating place, and if you want something to eat, you wait until you are served, whether that be 30 minutes or two hours. Some of the eating places had excellent service, others did not, according to turnpike standards. None of the service was equal to the service you can get where there is competition.

The life blood of the American free enterprise system has always been a fair, honest, but vigorous competition. When this economic circulatory force is slowed down or stopped, the dynamic, expanding economy essential to a democracy is destroyed.

Perhaps some day an answer will be found to this situation with relation to toll roads, but at the present time, the problem is bad and no solution is in sight.

Game for Game
Hunters will do well to carry a small but well stocked first aid kit on their treks into the wilderness this fall. Aside from the obvious hazard involved, there are the much more frequent cuts, bruises and falls that can ruin the trip and even cause serious harm. What to take? Bandages, iodine, aspirin and eye drops will do the job.

Work of Game and Fish Commission Limited by Drought This Year

AUSTIN — Progress, naturally limited by negative weather, marked efforts to advance facilities for hunters and fishermen during the state fiscal year ending September 1, according to the Executive Secretary of the Game and Fish Commission.

He said the forward pace "was not as fast as it might have been in view of the dry conditions affecting the Animal Kingdom which is so sensitive to the elements."

Despite the unfavorable conditions the Executive Secretary said "a promising new start has been made toward putting bob white quail back in Texas in numbers adequate to restore the once famous fall field sport."

The quail movement centers around a statewide educational program to counsel land owners and hunters in the essential phases of quail habitat development all linked to the new experimental state quail farm at Tyler, which is designed to provide brood stock where native birds are not available.

"This investment," he said, "is not how much the hatchery itself cost and how much is required to maintain it, but rather to use the project as the key unit in the overall comeback program. Countless people now realize that the quail problem has been simmered down to the mere provision of habitat. Actually, if food and cover prevail, quail, famed for their amazing productive qualities, will quickly restore normal numbers."

The Commission, he added, also has: Conducted a broad transplanting program involving deer, antelope, and turkey as well as exotic upland game species expected to populate arid West Texas areas; Extended regulatory responsibility into new areas, as authorized by the legislature, where hunting seasons and such are conducted on the basis of current conditions; Sponsored antlerless deer harvests in key Hill Country areas to eliminate overpopulation and to provide better herd balance. Put into effect new knowledge gained from strategically located game management areas; Staged public hunts in some experimental demonstration areas to extend studies of the entire management process; Authorized purchase of a Rio Grande Valley tract to facilitate hoped-for comeback of the whitewinged dove which has suffered a great population slump because of decreased habitat and unfavorable weather; Expanded renovation of fresh water lakes and streams through removal of rough fish and obnoxious aquatic growth; Improved the experimental coastal fish pass on Bolivar Peninsula, connecting the Gulf of Mexico with East Galveston Bay; Extended reef building for oysters an increased research into shrimp and sports fishing along the coast, as well as setting up a definite exploration of vital shell deposits.

Sheldon Anisman and Jackie Ben Boone left this week for Austin where they will attend the University of Texas. Sheldon is a law student at the University and Jackie Ben is a sophomore student.

OLD TIME RELIGION
We sing and talk of 'old time religion'. Just where does this 'old time religion' date back? When did it start? Is it my mother's or maybe my grandmother's? Just how far back does this 'old time religion' go?
Many centuries ago devious means of worship were devised. The Romans and Greeks of the apostolic age largely worshipped the sun. The Ephesians worshipped a Goddess named Diana. Surely we would not accept an 'old time religion' that dated back to and was the same as either of these false concepts.
The apostles of Jesus Christ were guided into all truth (Jno. 14:17). Anyone who believed and obeyed what they taught became Christians, and God added them to the church of Christ (Acts 2:47). The promise of eternal salvation is given to all in the church who remain faithful until death (Rev. 2:10). You could then, and can now, fall from grace. (Gal. 5:4) God has not changed his plan of the New Covenant; he will do today as he did some 1900 years ago. This is the 'old time religion' we all should want.
The Bible is a Holy book because it is inspired of God. (II Tim. 3:16); by it we are completely (thoroughly) furnished unto every good work (II Tim. 3:17); it is the 'perfect law of liberty' (James 1:25). What I might think or want to practice in religion, or what you think or want to practice will not be considered on the day of judgement. We will be judged by the way we have lived according to the written word (Rev. 20:12; Jno. 12:48; Jno. 5:28,29).
Perhaps you have been practicing an 'old time religion' that is not 'old time' enough (doesn't go back to the New Covenant for all its authority). If you have it will not save you. Every practice in the work and worship of the body of Christ must have been practiced by the apostles or early day Christians and recorded on pages of inspiration to be acceptable unto God (Rev. 22:18-19) Let us all go back to the original teaching of the New Testament and truly have 'old time religion' that will work to our salvation.

IT'S THE LAW in Texas

Unordered Merchandise Suppose the mailman delivers to you a package containing a necktie or a book, key-ring tags or a photograph record that you didn't order.

What are your obligations, assuming you don't want the merchandise? Must you return it? Can you use it and not pay for it? Must you keep it or can you throw it away?

Generally speaking, recipients of unordered merchandise are under no obligation (a) to return it; (b) to acknowledge its receipt; (c) to pay for it unless used; (d) to give it particular care or (e) to keep it beyond a reasonable time.

You are obligated to surrender the merchandise if called for in person by the shipper or his agent within a reasonable time.

There are no postal regulations governing unordered merchandise, except where fraud is involved.

Congress is trying to draft some legislation that will cover the situation. However, if you know what is in the envelope or package, you can write "refused" across the face of the piece of mail and hand it back to the mail man unopened.

Saving A Few Billions

When figures showing the amount of money the government is spending are published, most persons can't grasp the full meaning. When a statement is made that the United States can save a billion here or there, very little interest is encountered among the masses of the citizens.

Government business is big business, and no private firm operates like Uncle Sam. Under our present system of doing business in Washington, Congress each session appropriates money, much of which won't be spent for several years. These are the long-term federal expenditures stretching over a period of years. The foreign aid programs are an example of this kind of bookkeeping. But the biggest are the appropriations to purchase military equipment. Nearly all this offensive and defensive equipment takes many years to design and manufacture.

Due to this fact, vast sums accumulate in the different departments of government. The total of these sums are many times greater than the single-year sum which is discussed in the press.

The money does not revert to Congress. It stays with the different departments, and is committed to be spent at some future date by contracts. It is beyond the control of Congress. It is the cause of all the laxness and waste which is making the headlines today.

We are interested in the suggestion to bring public pressure to bear on Congress to straighten out the mess. The national Congress should pass laws requiring each government agency to prepare a budget estimate based upon a single year's anticipated need. Then, at the end of that year, any funds not spent could revert back to Congress, which could then make a reallocation of the money.

The plan has merit. It would end carry-over funds, which are out of the public eye due to the way our government does its bookkeeping. It would restore control of the nation's huge budget to Congress, where it belongs. Congress could still authorize long-term projects, making appropriations on a year-to-year basis.

It has been estimated that an approach along this line could save the taxpayers between three and four billion dollars a year. Then taxes would be automatically reduced as soon as the facts and figures were known.

You Can't Clip a TV Program!

Dorothy Kilgallen, the columnist and television star, recently had something to say about newspapers as reading matter.

"You can read on a train crossing the desert or on a plane at 17,000 feet above the Atlantic—no static, no fading, no blips," says Miss Kilgallen. "You can read in a bathtub or while hanging onto a pole in a crowded bus. You can read as much or as little as you want, or as fast or as slowly as you want.

"And if you read something you like, you can tear it out and save it to read again some day. I enjoy radio and television, and I am gainfully employed by both, but I must admit they have their drawbacks. Did you ever clip a television program and paste it in your scrapbook?"

Here's why the newspaper holds its dominant place in the homes and hearts of Americans. And here is why—to touch on the world of commerce from which all of us draw our livings—the newspaper remains an unsurpassed means of advertising goods and services—Ochiltree County Herald.

Veterans' Medals

Hang on to your Confederate money, boys, the South will rise again. Yessir, them Yankees haven't been able to hold out even a hundred years.

There was a time when them Yankees wouldn't part with any money for pensions for Confederate veterans of the Civil War (the war them Yankees call the War Between the States). But here the other day, the Yankee President okayed a bill providing medals for the veterans of the war who are still living.

Three of them are Confederates — William L. Lundy, Laurel Hill, Fla.; John Salling, Slant, Va.; and Walter Williams, Franklin, Texas. The Yankee is Albert Woolson, Duluth, Minn., who died recently.

The next thing you know, them Yankees will look the other way, and we'll get a Southerner for President, and won't that be something.

Common Sense

A woman who lived in India was having some wiring done by an Indian electrician. Over and over he came to her for instructions. Finally in exasperation, she said: "You know what I want. Why don't you use your common sense and go ahead and do it."

He made a grave and courtly bow and replied: "Madam, common sense is a rare gift of God. I have only a technical education."

Car Inspection To Begin Sept. 15

The Texas Public Safety Commission has set September 15, 1956 to April 15, 1957, as the period during which automobiles and other motor vehicles must be inspected under provisions of the State's Motor Vehicle Inspection Law.

Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., Director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said in announcing the Commission's action that motorists should avail themselves of the opportunity to have their autos inspected as soon after September 15 as possible in order to avoid the inconvenience and delay which is usually associated with the end of the seven-month period by the "log jam" of car owners who wait until just before the deadline to have their vehicles safety checked.

George W. Busby, Chief of the DPS Motor Vehicle Inspection Division, stated that the more than 4,200 licensed inspection stations in the State would have sufficient supplies of stickers on hand by the starting date and would be equipped to check vehicles without delay.

Your Own Future Prosperity

Spend a dollar here at home and it's a vote FOR the improvement of your own individual well-being.

Because it's a dollar that keeps on working for you . . . circulating and creating more trade volume in your own community.

Trade volume that makes YOUR business better, YOUR job more secure, YOUR schools and churches better, YOUR local investments more valuable and profitable.

Spend a dollar away from home and it's a vote AGAINST the life and growth of this community . . . the prosperity of which has much to do with the kind of living that YOUR work will provide for you.

Many small town folks have helped to vote themselves out of business, out of jobs, and out of investments which were the savings of a lifetime, by casting their $-ballots AGAINST the community in which they live.

Enrollment Totals 1,639 For County

Enrollment in all the Hall County Schools totaled 1,639 students, according to information available Wednesday in the office of Mary Foreman, County superintendent.

Memphis has a total of 818 students enrolled, W. C. Davis, superintendent, said this week. Of this number 180 are in high school, 131 in the colored school and 507 in the other Memphis schools. This is slightly less than the enrollment last year, Davis said.

Lakeview has a total of 300 students with 82 of these enrolled in high school. Estelina has 43 in high school and 218 enrolled in all grades. Turkey schools had a total of 303 students with 108 of these enrolling in high school.

Throughout the county enrollment was slightly less than last year, Superintendent Foreman said.

County Delegates

he wanted to work with his district and that Cowan was the unanimous choice. Cowan received the o. k. from the committee on nominations, according to county delegates.

Up in the 31st District, Asa Willis, long-time party leader of Texline was the choice of his district caucus. Word was sent to delegates of that district that Willis was unsatisfactory to Daniel, and for another caucus to be held. Delegates gathered, and again named Willis as their choice. When the name of the committeeman for the 31st District was read at Tuesday night's convention, Willis was eliminated, and that of Carl Mill was substituted in its place.

Ordinarily all convention committees are made up of one member from each senatorial district in Texas. At Fort Worth, several members-at-large were named by the state executive committee, and these members voted on all questions along with those selected at district caucuses.

Key to the convention was the report of the credentials committee, Hall County delegates stated. At Fort Worth, this committee was in session for many long hours, until finally a majority voted to recall the El Paso loyalist delegates, and replace them with conservatives. This gave the convention to the Daniel forces by a small majority of votes. When the committee report came to the floor, County Judge Jim Sewell of Corsicana then gave the minority report, which brought on one of the noisiest demonstrations of the day. In his speech against the El Paso switch, Sewell told the delegates that it was a "raw deal and rotten politics."

After Sewell made a motion that the convention adopt the minority report of the credentials committee, the chairman recognized a delegate who moved to table the minority report. The move to table carried on a roll call vote. This set the machinery in action to carry the convention for Daniel, and caused the catcalls and boos which greeted him when he made his acceptance speech.

The boos and derogatory remarks were not confined to the liberal-loyalist forces, according to reports received here and those published in the Amarillo Daily News this morning. When speakers like Judge Sewell and other speakers for loyalists appeared on the platform, they were greeted by hisses and snarls from the conservatives.

The ultra-conservatives, especially those from the Dallas district, showed enthusiasm only one time. That was when Senator Daniel appeared on the platform. They gave him a rousing ovation.

"The vast majority of delegates were together on one point: To strengthen the party toward electing a Democratic administration in November," Wells stated.

The loyalist party delegates were able to get several members on the new state executive committee, local delegates said.

"We saw nominees of district caucuses thrown out, as happened two and four years ago," they added. "This was the determining factor of the resentment found after the convention adjourned."

"We went to Fort Worth to help get our party back into the hands of the rank and file of our people, and out of the control of a closely-knit machine," Chairman Wells stated. "We saw only part of this accomplished."

The county delegates were unanimous in their statement that Price Daniel, nominee for governor, was never heard to state that he would support the nominees of the Democratic Party.

"Friends of Daniel, including Senator Lyndon B. Johnson, did assure the convention that our nominee for governor would support the Democratic ticket. Headlines in all daily newspapers were giving this same impression. But the fact remains that Daniel did not answer this question—issued by hundreds of delegates—and nail it down. He tacitly agreed when he endorsed the platform. "Had those words been uttered, they would have wiped out most of the resentment found among delegates."

"I predict that right-thinking people — and we have thousands upon thousands of them in Texas—will work and cooperate in the future to kick out all the power seekers, the ward heelers and the king-makers who have proven a detriment to the party in the past. From the unyielding, fractional elements (on both sides) can come a united group that will have only one program in mind. And that program will be to raise the standard of the Democratic party from the dust of our state, and place it in a position where it can be pointed to with pride," he added.

Miss Dink Dennis returned home last Thursday from Dallas where she underwent surgery. Dink is reported to be recovering nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Hawkins of Marionville, Mo., are visiting here this week with Mrs. Carl Harrison and family and Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Harrison and Rosemary. Their son, Morton, accompanied them to Norman, Okla., where he will be a freshman student at the University of Oklahoma this fall.

Telephone System

feet of open wire, and 1,800 feet of rural distribution wire, Craig said.

To be retired from service are about 300 poles, 15,500 linear feet of cable and 215,000 feet of wire.

The project will result in greatly improved service, Craig explained, since "by replacing so much cable and so many poles we're going to be able to prevent a lot of trouble before it begins, which will mean fewer service interruptions here."

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Combs visited here Sunday with their son, Herschel Combs and family. They were en route to their home in Wellington following a vacation trip to California.

Among the Memphis beauticians who were in Amarillo last week to attend the Hair Styling Convention were Mrs. Wyley Whitley, Bonnie Butler, Vernell and Allie Caviness. Two eminent hair stylists were present for the one-day meeting. They were present from Tennessee.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Bridges returned home Friday after spending the past week in Houston visiting with their daughter, Mrs. M. Smith and family and J. Bridges, Jr., and family. Mr. Smith, who has spent the week here with his grandparents, accompanied them home.
