J. A. Scofield of Marietta, Okla., acted as judge for this year's show, and had many problems in picking the winners in the steer divisions.

Joe Montgomery Is New Director Of First National

Joe Montgomery, Memphis farmer-rancher, was elected a new director of the First National Bank here at the annual meeting of stockholders last week. Montgomery is a native Hall Countyman, and operates farm land in the Brice community.

At a meeting of directors of the bank last Friday, all officers were re-elected for the coming year. Officers include: T. H. Deaver, president; O. L. Helm, vice president; Ben Parks, vice president and cashier; Roselyn Williams and T. H. Deaver, Jr., assistant cashiers.

Directors of the bank are: S. S. Montgomery, T. H. Deaver, O. L. Helm, J. E. King, O. V. Alexander, John M. Deaver, Ben Parks, E. N. Foxhall, Dwight Kinard and Joe Montgomery.

Bank Assets Over Eight Million As Year Ends

Hall County's four banks start the new year with resources of more than eight million dollars and deposits that almost reach the seven and a half million mark, reports of condition as of Dec. 31, 1956, reveal.

Total assets were $8,265,487.76 for 1956 while at the end of 1955 they were $9,238,413.39. This reveals a drop of only one million dollars as the county suffered another year of severe drought.

This drop in total assets coincides almost exactly with the drop in deposits of individuals, partnerships and corporations. In 1955 these deposits were $6,923,409.68 while in 1956 they dropped to $5,979,965.66.

Total deposits at the end of 1956 were $7,453,519.82. The deposited of states, county, school districts, cities and other public funds made up the remainder.

Loans and discounts totaled $3,713,561.33 at the end of 1956. As of Dec. 31, 1955, loans and discounts were $5,080,348.82.

Local Band to Hold Concert Next Week

Plans were being made this week for the Memphis High School Band to present a concert next Thursday, Jan. 24, Miss Kathryn Phillips, director, announced Wednesday.

The concert will be given in the high school auditorium, and will begin at 7:30 p. m. Admission will be 50 cents and 25 cents.

Farmers Union President To Speak Here Saturday

Alex Dickie, Jr., president of the Texas Farmers Union, will report to Hall County farmers on President's Eisenhower's recent trip into the drought-stricken area of Texas at a meeting in Memphis Saturday evening, Jan. 19. The Farmers Union president will address the group in the county court house here, and will discuss many phases of the farm program.

The meeting will be called to order at 7:00 p. m., and will be held in the county court room.

Dickie had a previous engagement in East Texas on the day the President and his group were in San Angelo. Representing him and the Farmers Union was Max Carricker of Roby, a member of the state executive board. Carricker was seated next to Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson when the group was in session in San Angelo. He has made a complete report of the meeting.

Dickie will present his analysis and report to area farmers here Saturday night.

The Farmers Union president grew up on a ranch in Throckmorton County. He received a Bachelor of Science degree from Texas A & M College, majoring in agriculture; and a Master of Science degree from North Texas State College in economics.

He is a rancher near Denton; is married, and has four children. He was president of the county Farmers Union group and served on the State executive committee. (Continued on Page 12)

Weekly Spelling Held in Childress

Sandra Meachum of Turkey took first place in the weekly spelling bee held at Childress Tuesday, and Inez Richardson of Turkey took second place in the event.

Other contestants in the event were Linda Bowman and Ann McCreary of the Travis Elementary School in Memphis.

Last week Billy Don Lane and Conroy Lacy, both of Turkey, were still standing when the time ran out. Other spellers in last week's competition were Leslie Helm, Don Aaron, and Gary McWhorter.

The County Spelling Bee will be held Feb. 28 at the Memphis High School, beginning at 10 a. m., County Superintendent Mary Foreman said this week.

The matches for both junior and senior spellers will be held at that time.

County Workers Now Taking School Census

Census enumerators for each school district in Hall County are now taking the scholastic census, which will serve as the basis for allocation of per capita aid for the school year 1957-58, County Superintendent Mary Foreman said this week.

Children who will be over 18 within eighteen years of Sept. 1, 1957, and who are listed on a particular school census as of Feb. 1, 1957, are to be enumerated on the scholastic census of that particular district later than Feb. 1, Supt. Foreman said.

Enumerators are urged to see that the census is taken on the above date and included in this year's scholastic census, she continued.

John Hayes, assistant commissioner for administration of Texas Education Agency, explained the importance of the census as follows:

"The scholastic census serves as a means for distributing state available school funds to all school districts in the state. Since the state available fund has always been the foundation of the education program in Texas, the importance of this fund distribution cannot be emphasized too much.

"The census serves as a basis for distribution of county available school funds to all school districts in the county. The census is used locally to determine the need for teachers, buildings, supplies and equipment. The census is used locally in securing compliance with compulsory attendance laws.

More Conservation Reserve Funds

Last week Hall County received an announcement that an additional $121,307.00 had been allocated to the area for use in the Conservation Reserve part of the so called "Soil Bank."

The idea put forth when this program was implemented last year, just before election time, was that the program would take land out of production and put the surpluses as well as promote the conservation of the soil.

Soil Bank seemed to be a good name for the program. It was designed to place the acreage we do not need into a "bank" of grass. As our population increased and we needed more food, the land could be placed back into production.

The "Bank" part of the name seems a little out of place now that the program is in full operation. Did you ever see a bank that would not take your money? This is exactly what has happened to farmers who own about 3,000 acres in Hall County.

There are many men in the Republican party who would like to help the farmer but they are powerless since the party is controlled by the large financial interests.

The reason they want low farm prices can be explained by a simple look at the economic situation. If there is a super-abundance of cheap agricultural raw materials, the profits of food processors and handlers will be bigger and easier to make.

While the price the farmer receives for his products has dropped, the cost of living has increased and food prices are at an almost all-time high, and are above four years ago. Who has pocketed this difference in the raw material cost and the store-selling price? Is it the local grocery stores? Of course not! They are having as difficult a time of it as the local farmers.

Of course this is all covered up by the news releases which come out of Washington by the boxcar load. By the time this paper is out the President will have made his flying trip over the drought area and probably will have announced some type of program to help the people in the area.

Social Security Taxes Go Up

Over fifty million workers and their employers started paying higher federal taxes Jan. 1 when Social Security rates were raised to two and one-fourth per cent. The total Security tax now is four and one-half per cent of the first $4,200 earned during the year.

The Social Security program began in 1937, when about thirty-two million persons started paying one per cent on the first $3,000 of yearly earnings. Since that time the number of persons under Social Security has almost doubled, and the rates have gone up to the amount listed above.

With changes in the laws and the increases, benefits paid out have gone up tremendously. Contributions to the Social Security fund in 1952 amounted to more than ten billion dollars.

Today Social Security is an important factor in the economy of the nation. It is now draining off vast amounts of income from employers and employees, and is paying out huge amounts in the form of benefits to millions of people.

The hugeness of the program is now causing politicians and individuals alike to ask, "Where is it going to end?" More and more people will be eligible to receive their Social Security benefits in the years ahead. This will cause the government to levy higher and higher taxes to pay off its obligations under the program.

Tax-Man Sam Sez:

Most of us have our income tax withheld from our salaries by our employers during the year and like it that way. Some of us, however, pay income tax through quarterly payments. Folks who pay their income tax through quarterly payments often make a very common error. In filing their tax return, they claim to have paid four quarterly payments on their tax when actually they have paid only three payments and are filing their returns and paying the tax instead of making the fourth payment.

A CRUCIAL MOMENT IN HISTORY

I, DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER, DO SOLEMNLY SWEAR THAT I WILL FAITHFULLY EXECUTE THE OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES AND WILL TO THE BEST OF MY ABILITY, PRESERVE, PROTECT, AND DEFEND THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES. SO HELP ME GOD.

Press Paragraphs — QUOTING OUR NEIGHBORS

The Middle East We agree with President Eisenhower that our interest in the Middle East is sufficient to warrant the use of armed force if necessary to keep the vast oil reserves, Suez, and important British military installations from falling into the hands of Russia. However, we aren't sure he needs to have the unlimited power he has requested.

There is no place for the pacifist in a world which will experience "wars and rumors of wars" until the very end. Mad dogs and demon posse, red humans can only understand the language of force. But we have not forgotten the days when Presidents Roosevelt and Truman also were confronted with similar situations. They too realized the importance of military preparedness, of being able and willing to call the bluffs of international bullies. And they were called "war mongers." Their enemies accused them of "leading us into war" in order to create prosperity. The editorial writers and radio news commentators were the chief offenders.

But today the tune is so different. We have examined all the dailies that come our way. Efforts of these papers to cushion the President's requests, to condition the public, is too obvious to those who follow closely news headlines and the mechanical handling of the news. It seems we live in a day when a doctrine or policy is not evaluated in terms of its own merits but rather in terms of which party advocated it.—Tulia Herald

Washington Kite

A historical fact is that the higher the kite flies "back east," the more official Washington and big business talks of prosperity the tougher it gets in the southwest. So a business concern and the community of which it is a part will have to put out more effort in 1953 than it did in 1952 to keep up its part of the common welfare. Mostly this calls for planning.—Floyd County Hesperian

Taxes for Everybody

It's a rather revolting subject to bring up, but we were rather startled to find the percentage of taxes paid by Americans has not gone down, in spite of some small cuts in federal income taxes. This slack has been taken up by local taxes in the form of city, school and county.

It has now reached the point where taxes make up the largest single cost of living for the American people. If you make $67.30 a week, you pay $1,043 a year in taxes. If you make $86.54 a week, you pay $1,425 a year. And if you've got a job paying $7,500 a year, the tax collectors will get $2,637 of it—more than a third.

A recent survey, considered authoritative, shows that a man making $86.54 a week will work more hours to pay his taxes than for food and clothing combined. We think this has gone far enough.

Our legislators should remember some of these failures when Congress convenes next month and the deluge of bills are introduced which will pay out federal money for every conceivable purpose, from Senator's haircuts to free milk for the Hottentots. It's time to call a halt.—Ochiltree County Herald

Communists "Pat, what's this I hear about ye joining up with the communists? Be ye daft, man? 'Tis the truth, Mike. I signed up last week. The doctor told me I had but 10 days to live and 'tis better one of them communists die than a good Irishman." — Eloy, Arizona, Enterprise

people." That reads like a sage bit of wisdom which we might hope to find over the entrances of some of our government buildings in Washington, and which could be repeated on placards in every office of every federal government bureau.—Newport Beach, Calif., News-Press

Death of Admiral Dewey: Admiral Dewey, the Nation's Spanish War hero and by priority of grade the ranking naval officer of the world, died at his home in Washington tonight in his eightieth year. He had been unconscious since yesterday, when he lapsed into coma, still believing that in a few days he would be back at his desk in the Navy Department.

"Buffalo Bill" Is Dead: Col. F. Cody ("Buffalo Bill") died in Denver, Colo., this afternoon. He was born in Scott County Iowa, on Feb. 26, 1846. His father was a frontier man who was killed while defending a wagon train from an attack by Indians. Funeral services for the noted scout were held on Sunday afternoon; the body was placed in a receiving vault in a local cemetery, but the burial will not take place until next spring, probably Decoration Day, in a tomb hewn from the rock at the top of Lookout Mountain near Denver.

The demonstration of the Emerson, Model Q Tractor and Four Disc Plow, advertised to take place Jan. 16 postponed because of bad weather, will be given on the date of January 27. The State of the Union Message

The reaction to the President's State of the Union Message was very well expressed by the phrase "general terms," which was employed by many of the publications in this section of the country immediately after the speech had been delivered. Even the most astute and ardent protectors of the Administration openly admitted in the Capitol corridors that it was one of the most "generalized" State of the Union Messages delivered in some time. Much of the blame for the platitudes was laid on the President's speech writers. Many of the critics observed that the speech was obviously not in the form or style of President Eisenhower and was not delivered in the usual Eisenhower manner, despite the fact that the head White House dramatic coach, to wit, Robert Montgomery, was present in the chamber and sitting just a few feet from the President.

Although the message could be aptly termed a political "mother Hubbard" that covered everything and touched nothing, the President did specifically pinpoint his four legislative recommendations to bring the question of civil rights squarely under the jurisdiction of the federal government. I find some difficulty in reconciling these recommendations with the statement of the President on page four of his speech where he expressed great alarm at the possibility of a stifling bureaucracy and a dangerous degree of centralized control over our national life. If the American people want a centralized government and a concentration of political power in Washington, D. C., nothing would serve to bring about that end quicker than the adoption of the so-called 4-Point Civil Rights Program advocated by the Administration.

The President stated in general terms that the entire nation was enjoying widely shared prosperity and remarked that inflation had been held in check. Yet, there is a growing clamor from many segments of the economy complaining of the inflationary trends of recent years that threaten to wipe them out. The victims most severely affected have been the small business establishments and those engaged in agriculture and associated endeavors. Although the President admits in his speech that it is high time for a broad, national inquiry into the nature, performance and adequacies of our financial system, there has been no action by the Administration to stop the many practices in the past few years that have resulted in a continuous upping of interest rates and the resulting downgrading of credit in many sectors. For instance, credit paper, the payment of which is guaranteed and insured by the federal government, is being sold at high discount rates simply because the big money interests of this country can control the sale of such paper. At the same time the Administration has permitted the interest rates on this government-insured paper to be increased and is now undertaking to force an increase in interest rates on veterans insured loans. This type of transaction simply means that the builder of a house must eventually accept a lower price for the house than he agreed to build it for in the first place; that the purchaser of the house, whether he is a veteran or a person buying under a FHA loan, must pay a price that is getting higher and higher. The additional sum that has to be paid by the purchaser, because of increased interest rates, ranges from around $700 on a $10,000 home to approximately $1,800 on a $20,000 home. At the same time that these practices are being allowed to continue, the cost of living index has been setting records. The national debt continues to press new heights. All of this contributes to a continuing devaluation of the dollar. Call it inflation or whatever you like, the fact remains that such developments victimize those on fixed incomes such as retired people and those who have invested their savings in life insurance policies in undertaking to provide for themselves in their old age. It also victimizes the small business operators and those in agricultural and associated pursuits.

This tight money policy has been felt for some time in many of the smaller towns and in the rural areas. It is now beginning to take its toll in the thickly populated areas. I sincerely hope that the President is aware of the dangers present and will move quickly to halt further spread of this economic ailment.

The Filibuster
Much has been said and done recently with regard to doing away with Rule 22 in the Senate—the rule that is referred to in many quarters as "the rule that allows filibusters." I look with great alarm on the possible destruction of this rule and also on the method that has been employed to attack it. The opponents of the rule have never failed to refer to it in sneering, degrading and vile terms. This is a dangerous way to bring about changes in governmental policies. I do not question the fact that there have been occasions when the rights under this rule were abused. But I do hasten to point out that those abuses have not been confined to any one individual, small group of individuals, or subscribers to any particular philosophy. If we are to destroy all rules of procedure because of occasional abuses, the rules of procedure in our court system, both state and federal would be in serious jeopardy.

It would be well for all of the people of this country to appreciate the need for unlimited debate in one House of the National Congress for the proper safeguard and preservation of the freedom of man and democratic institutions.

She emphasized the goals of Federation, particularly those of study, service, leadership, encouragement of youth and work for peace and international understanding.

Wm. Travis PTA Meets In Monthly Session Thursday

The William Travis Parent-Teacher Association met in the school cafeteria on Thursday afternoon, Jan. 10, for its regular monthly meeting. Presiding was Mrs. Gene Lindsey, president of the unit.

Mrs. Brode Hoover, secretary, read the minutes and the communications including a letter from Clifford Farmer, manager of the local Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Farmer expressed his appreciation for the help of the PTA in the annual visit from Santa Claus.

Mrs. Lindsey then gave a brief report from the state convention which she attended in November. She emphasized the "Pay your Poll tax" recommendation of the legislation workshop of the convention. All members were urged to pay the tax during January.

A report from the executive committee recommended the election of Mrs. Maurice Nixon as one member of the committee to nominate officers for the 1957-58 school year. Elected from the floor were Mrs. Mildred Stephens and Mrs. Glenn Stargel. Miss Ethel Hillhouse will serve as an ex-officio member of the committee and Mrs. Nixon was appointed its chairman.

At the room count the room of Mrs. Ward Gurley won the prize.

Texas Safety Association Explains Common Traffic Laws Misconceptions

The past eighteen years experience of the Texas Safety Association reveals that many Texas drivers and pedestrians have misconceptions about traffic laws. Here are seven such misconceptions.

1. The driver on the right always has the right-of-way at an intersection. Not so; Texas law states that the car entering the intersection first has the right-of-way. When two cars approach the intersection from different directions at approximately the same time the driver of the vehicle on the left shall yield the right-of-way to the vehicle on the right.

2. Pedestrians must yield to cars at intersections where there are no traffic lights. Wrong! The law gives pedestrians the right of way.

3. When a school bus stops to pick up or discharge children, you have to stop if you are behind it and traveling in the same direction. This is only partly correct. Texas law requires you to stop in such cases no matter in which direction you are driving.

4. You don't have to stop on yellow when a traffic signal is changing from green to red. Wrong! The Caution, or yellow light is a signal that the red or Stop signal will be exhibited immediately thereafter and vehicular traffic shall not enter or be crossing the intersection when the red or Stop signal is exhibited.

5. You can make a turn any time as long as you signal. That's incorrect. To make a turn, you have to be in the proper lane and you are required to signal at least 100 feet before you turn.

6. You may pass at any time you see an opening. Wrong again. Texas law says that you have to give a car coming from the opposite direction at least 100 feet clearance after you have passed it. You cannot pass at all when approaching within 100 feet of a bridge, viaduct or tunnel; or traversing an intersection or railroad crossing. The passing laws, of course, contain many other specific limitations.

7. Drivers must watch out for pedestrians walking on the roadway. This is a good idea but the law says a pedestrian must walk on the left side of the road or on the left shoulder. It is also illegal to walk in a roadway if a sidewalk is provided.

8. The meeting adjourned with the thought for the day: "Education is an investment rather than an expenditure."

with certain limitations, at all market crosswalks.

9. A fourteen-year-old Sweetwater boy was fatally shot by a young companion when a .22 rifle was discharged as it was being placed in a car.

A 28-year-old Llano man was shot in the back with a rifle held by a ten-year-old boy as they walked down a trail.

A 44-year-old Lufkin man was killed when a 21-year-old companion fired a shotgun loaded with buck shot at a brush movement which he thought was made by a deer. The victim's 11-year-old son also was struck but recovered.

A San Antonio deer hunter, hurrying to take his gun from his car to shoot a deer, died instantly when the gun discharged, the bullet striking his heart.

A sixteen-year-old Port Arthur man was wounded with a shotgun blast when he was crawling through the brush and was mistaken for a wolf. His companions reported they had seen several wolves earlier and that at the time of the shooting, visibility was poor because of fog.

Of the eighteen total deaths for the year, fatal wounds of six were self-inflicted. Teenagers were involved in eleven of the tragedies.

Texas Hunters Cut Deaths in Half During 1956

Texas hunters closed the old year with a gunning safety record sharply in contrast with last year's fatality leadership.

Four new deaths have been reported since the last tabulation but this ran the total to a mere eighteen in contrast with thirty-five reported unofficially the previous year.

The Executive Secretary for the Game and Fish Commission said the improved safety showing reflected "the traditionally good gun handling reputation of Texans," but added that there is "still room for improvement."

Of the four new hunting fatalities listed, one was self-inflicted, two involved hunters being shot by others and the other concerned a hunter mistaken for a deer.

A 14-year-old Sweetwater boy was fatally shot by a young companion when a .22 rifle was discharged as it was being placed in a car.

10 Cold Years With Deep Snows Predicted Soon

Ten chilling years, "with a rapid return to the snows that grandpa recalls," were predicted recently by Prof. C. L. Hosler of the Department of Meteorology, College of Mineral Industries, Pennsylvania State University.

Mixing science and, admittedly, a little guesswork, Prof. Hosler took issue with the contention that trends over the past half-century indicate that the Northeastern United States is getting warmer.

"This was based on the observation that it was, in fact, warmer during the last 50 years than during the preceding 50 years," he told an Anthracite conference at University Park, Pa., recently.

"There are indications now, however, that the trend has ceased and that we may return to colder weather. Historically, these warm and cool periods have been roughly of 100 years duration and the temperature changes have been of about the same magnitude.

"By joining the ranks of the 'extrapolators' and by also considering some apparent statistical relationships of solar activity to weather than have not been established physically, I will predict, with tongue in cheek, that the next decade will be a cold one, with a rapid return to the snows that grandpa recalls."

Prof. Hosler spoke at the concluding dinner of a two-day technical and scientific forum on hard coal, which is most heavily used for domestic and commercial heating in the Northeastern United States.

Water-Short Texas Towns Get Help Under Public Law

Water-short Texas towns are waking up to the opportunity of adding to their water supplies through the Department of Agriculture watershed protection and flood prevention programs in the Trinity and Colorado River watersheds and in local projects assisted under Public Law 566.

State Conservationist H. N. Smith of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service reports growing interest on the part of municipalities eager to pay added costs to provide needed water shortage behind floodwater retarding dams.

Smith explained that the dams are designated as detention structures primarily. Their purpose is to slow down floodwaters and release them automatically at a rate stream channels can hold. Each dam must first be justified on the basis of its usefulness in flood prevention. Water storage for any purpose other than flood prevention must be secondary in keeping with state law.

Applications for SCS help under the comparatively new Watershed Protection and Flood Prevention Act (Public Law 566) now total 113, Smith reported. Modification of the Act has made it easier for municipalities and special purpose districts to make use of the program in meeting local water needs.

In the new watershed protection program, municipalities or other authorized organizations can build water storage into a floodwater retarding structure by paying the difference in cost, Smith explained. The city of Kaufman, in the Kaufman-Van Zandt Soil Conservation District, was the first Texas city to take advantage of the water-storing opportunity.

Added capacity of 1834 acre feet was built into a floodwater retarding structure on Big Cottonwood Creek, a small watershed in the big Upper Trinity flood prevention program.

The 1934 acre feet of storage—nearly 600 million gallons—was provided at a cost to Kaufman of $18,114.

Smith said construction has started on a similar project near Coolidge, Texas, to provide 355 acre feet of storage for that city in the Pin Oak Creek watershed program.

In the new watershed protection program the government can lend up to $5 million for periods of as long as 50 years at a rate of about 2 1/2 percent. The loan is retired on an annual basis. There is no such loan provision in the older Upper Trinity and Middle Colorado flood prevention program.

SCS is authorized by the new law to cooperate with local subdivisions of the government in building structures up to 5000 acre feet of floodwater detention capacity. Additional storage up to 25,000 acre feet in total capacity can be provided for municipal water supplies.

A city or water district must use its own engineer or employ one to determine water needs and suitability of the watershed and the proposed structure for a municipal supply. The local engineer may re-design the include the additional the city water district SCS engineering help and reimburse the agency.

Smith explained that the tive of the locally sponsored watershed program is to protection to land, crops and ty against flood damage. servation treatment of watershed is fundamental

Imagine San Diego, Texas, as the hottest spot in Texas politics, as the scene of plunderings, of murder—sixty three murders in just over a dozen years according to Attorney General John Ben Shepperd.

Yet the story of San Diego, of the Parrs and of Duval is on the record. Beside my typewriter as this is written is a long list, three foolscap pages, of men and women who met sudden death in Duval in recent years. Duval from the first has been a county of violence. The man whose name the county bears, Capt. Burr R. Duval, was massacred with Fannin's men at Goliad.

That frightening list of homicides, most of them unsolved and unpunished, might be doubled if the truth were known about many cases listed officially as suicide or accident.

For example, the death of Border Patrolman Ed Wheeler was first listed as accidental. Wheeler was, to use his own words, "about to blow the lid off Duval" in a narcotics report when his car went off the road and his body was found in the flaming wreck. Then the undertaker found a small bullet hole at the base of his skull.

Just for the record here are a few of the cases officially on the books as homicide.

Horacio Garza, knifed to death in San Diego; Jacinto Gutierrez, shot, San Diego; Ricardo Escobar, shot, Freer; Juan Elizondo, shot, Benavides; Rolando Ruiz, shot, San Diego; John F. Gilbert, shotgun, Freer; Thomas Banks, shotgun, Freer; Rodolfo Munoz, shot, San Diego; Guy Hastings, shot, Freer; Frank Lotto, shot, San Diego . . . but why go on!

There is nothing on the record to show that these murders were political. Certainly the wanton slaying on September 9, 1952, of Jacob Floyd, Jr., was political. So were the killings of radio newsmen Bill Mason and of Edwin Wheeler.

Assistant Attorney General Sidney Chandler puts it this way: "Before Shepperd came here, if a man committed a crime in Duval, including murder, it depended on which side of the fence he was on whether he got punished or not. The evidence didn't matter. It was how the jury voted. If the machine wanted you acquitted, you were acquitted.

"It worked another way, too: If a man killed another man, in a fit of temper or for any other

The last echo of the Angelus had long gone when the spell was broken by juke box music from a candy store.

It was difficult just then to reason, and he was acquitted, then the machine could count on his loyalty and the loyalty of his family from then on."

No matter how the figures for violent death in Duval are interpreted, one fact is grimly clear: they are far higher than the national average. The suicidal rate, for example, is more than four times that for the United States as a whole — and Latins, being Catholic, DO NOT COMMIT SUICIDE. The Mexican-American is intensely religious and to him suicide is mortal sin, punishable by an eternity of damnation.

It was just forty-one years ago, January 20, 1915, when George Berham Parr was in his 'teens, that a man called Basilio Ramos, age 24, was arrested in McAllen, Texas, with a copy of the utterly fantastic "El Plano de San Diego" on his person. Ramos, alias Garza, promptly became a celebrity and the Federal Government moved fast to take over jurisdiction.

The plan was for revolution against the United States.

In San Diego today they'll show you the sun-blistered building where the plan was hatched in August, 1914, and they'll tell you of the furtive comings and goings of mysterious Germans, supposed agents of the Imperial General Staff in Berlin.

The San Diego plot wasn't taken too seriously at the time, but in 1917, when the famous Zimmermann note, a document that helped put the United States into World War I, was intercepted astonishing to officials in Washington when they suddenly realized that the plan was real and not the product of raving crackpots. The mysterious strangers who conferred in San Diego with Mexican-Americans and with Huerta agents from Mexico were what they seemed to be.

It retails, it will be remembered, was violently anti-American because President Wilson had refused to recognize his "government by assassination." Americans had captured Vera Cruz and Marine snipers had killed many Mexicans. Feelings ran high on both banks of the Rio Grande.

Under the plan Mexicans in five states—Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado and California—were to revolt February 20, 1915, and declare an independent Mexican republic. A "liberating" Army would then "free" six states to the north and set up a Negro republic as a buffer state. All "Anglo" men—except Germans—were to be killed.

The whole insane idea from Germany's point of view was to keep the United States so busy on the Mexican border that she'd be unable to join the Allies in fighting the Central Powers in Europe.

Certainly the plan was mad and just as certainly it did have part of the effect the plotters wanted. The border area, including Duval, seethed with excitement and killings, with raids from both sides of the Rio Grande, with train robberies and the flames of burning ranch houses. More than 500 Americans lost their lives in the fighting before General Pershing and his troops restored a semblance of order.

A curious fact in the border

Two New Tax Books Available

This year two booklets have been developed by the Internal Revenue Service to assist taxpayers in preparing 1956 tax forms.

The 1956 edition of "Your Federal Income Tax" booklet, a very popular publication in past years, contains a wealth of information. There is a sizeable increase in subject matter, and covers such subjects as: who must file a return, when and where, nontaxable income, personal expenditures, sick pay, retirement income, deductions, medical expenses, traveling expenses, collections and refunds, what type of return to file, and the substance of many of the regulations based on recent tax laws.

In addition, this year is a new companion publication entitled,

"Tax Guide for Small Business."

This informative booklet provides the answers to tax questions and problems common to most small businesses, deals with Federal income, employment, excise tax problems of corporations, partnerships, sole proprietorships, and covers the operation of a going business, the establishment of a new business, and the liquidation of a business.

Copies of either, or both of these booklets, may be had for 30 cents per copy, from the Dallas Field Office of the U. S. Department of Commerce, Room 3-104, Merchandise Mart Building, Dallas 1, Texas.

Persons remitting should not use postage stamps.

West Texas Plant Helps Arthritis

Scientists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture have labeled agave lecheguilla, a plant which grows over thousands of square miles in west and southwest Texas, as the most promising native plant yet found to yield substances that can be converted to cortisone. The drug, cortisone, is widely used for treatment of arthritis, inflammatory eye diseases, asthma and other painful ailments.

Annual Amarillo Stock Show and Rodeo To Be Held Jan. 19 Thru Jan. 25

On a tour to publicize and invite persons in this area to the annual Amarillo Stock Show and All Professional Indoor Rodeo, beginning Jan. 19 and continuing through Jan. 25, a group of Amarillo businessmen were in Memphis on Jan. 14th.

All world champion rodeo performers and many other top money winners plan to participate in the seven performances at Amarillo. Numerous feature acts, including Swede Fuller and his Golden Retrievers, will appear at all rodeo performances to further entertain all age groups. Fuller's animals are hunting dogs as well as show dogs and do retrieving both on land and in water with live ducks. Spotting the fun department will be the world-renowned rodeo clowns, Gene and Bobby Clark, whose daring and mirth provoking stunts keep the rodeo programs moving rapidly.

The stock show and rodeo boosters reported a record number of entries had been received for the 1957 exposition, which has become the area's greatest winter event. They said enthusiasm for this year's gala attraction is at an all-time peak, with many cities planning to sponsor organized delegations along with their 4-H, FFA Club and cattlemen groups.

First of the seven rodeo performances will be given Saturday night, Jan. 19. The second performance is slated for Sunday afternoon, Jan. 20. There will be performances each night thereafter through Friday, Jan. 25.

Rodeo tickets are available by mail order. Prices range from $1.00 for children under 12 to $3.00 for box seats. Mail orders should be sent to RODEO, Box 70E4 South Amarillo Post Office, Amarillo, Texas.

Read Your Bible

By HARRY GRAHAM TEACHING OF THE APOSTLES

The first members of the Lord's church, those in the Jerusalem congregation, accepted the apostles' teaching as fallible and final. (Acts 2:42)

As time passed, however, the zeal and steadfastness many Christians waned. Eventually some began to teach and practice things different from the apostles' teaching. Such a departure from sound doctrine was forecast by New Testament writers in pointed warnings against digressing. Consider these passages:

"I know (the apostle Paul speaking) that after my departing grievous wolves shall enter in among you, not sparing the flock; and from among your own selves shall men arise, speaking perverse things, to draw away the disciples after them." (Acts 20:29-30)

... that ye might learn not to go beyond the things which are written." (1 Cor. 4:6)

In spite of these injunctions, from the beginning of the second century through the Middle Ages and Renaissance one departure after another followed until the church in organization, worship and teaching was vastly different from the church of the apostolic age.

History records that innovations introduced included:

- (1) Church offices unauthorized in the Scriptures. (2) The creation of a special clergy. (3) Religious councils to decide matters of organization and doctrine. (4) Sprinkling substituted for immersion and the sprinkling of infants. (5) Addition of instrumental music to the worship.

At the close of the Middle Ages many religious leaders rebelled against the ecclesiastical authority and the practices of the Roman church. They pleaded for the full authority of the Bible in matters religious. Chief among these great men were Martin Luther, John Calvin and Ulrich Zwingli. Followers rallied around the reformers, and unfortunately their teachings eventually crystallized into many creeds. (More next week)

County Soil Conservation District "Tailor Make" Plan for Your Farm

A farmer or rancher receives assistance from the Hall County Soil Conservation District, which has one or more problems in mind on which he needs help. For example, he may want to know how to seed certain types of grasses, or he may have outside water causing damage to his land, either of which constitutes a problem.

However, it is the purpose of the District, and the technicians of the Soil Conservation Service assisting the District, to do more than help solve the specific problem on which the farmer or rancher requested assistance, William C. Swindle, SCS technician said this week.

Generally, a complete conservation plan for the entire farm is worked out which will help conserve soil, water, and plants, he said.

The first step to take in working out a conservation plan is to make a soils capability map. This map is made by a soils scientist of the Soil Conservation Service. The map is the actual inventory of the resources of the soil on the basis of texture, slope and depth. When texture, depth, and slope of the soils is known, it is fairly easy to ascertain what the capability of the land is under various local conditions.

Soil Conservation technicians then explain and discuss land capabilities with the farmer or rancher. Soil types, conditions, and range site conditions are studied. The objective being "the use of each acre of agricultural land within its capabilities and the treatment of each acre of agricultural land in accordance with its needs for protection and improvement." All this is worked into a pattern in the conservation plan, Swindle explained.

A farmer or rancher may not be ready to complete a conservation plan or it may not be financially possible for him to fit the intended use of the land into such a conservation pattern at the present time. At any rate, the district will help as much as possible as long as whatever he does will eventually help him get a conservation plan started on his farm.

"The best way to farm is the conservation way, which means that a man is trying to fit his way of doing things into nature's way. In the long run, this will prove to be the most profitable way," Swindle said.

VA Explains Conservation of Insurance Policies

The right to convert World War I and II GI insurance from term to permanent plans is not affected by the new Survivor's Benefits Act, Mr. Scott B. Harrington of the Veterans Administration Regional Office at Dallas, Texas, announced today.

Mr. Harrington said the only GI policies which may NOT be converted are the 5-year term post-service policies which the law stipulates are non-convertible.

"Otherwise," Harrington said, "all other GI term policies are convertible, even the post-service term policies for which disabled veterans are eligible if they apply with in one year from the date that VA finds their disabilities to be service-connected."

New Year Is Program Theme at Culture Club

"Let's give it (the new year) nothing to keep which will not prove an honor to God's name and a blessing to the world," was the theme of the Woman's Culture Club program when the organization met on Jan. 2 in the home of Mrs. Frank Ellis.

Mrs. Ward Gurley gave a most inspiring meditation for the new year entitled, "In the Beginning God Created the Heaven and the Earth" taking the scripture text from Gen. 1-1. Mrs. Gurley said: "Great issues are at stake in the affairs of the world today. As women we can by studying our Bibles learn how to pray effectively for peace. With us God will travel the unknown and changing ways of the future. Faith bids us go forth unto this year, face its problems, undertake its tasks, meet its emergencies, and dedicate ourselves to the opportunities it will present. Only through prayer, faith and trust can they be met successfully and wisely."

In keeping with the program theme, Mrs. Theo Swift read two poems, "Unearned" by Frank Carleton Nelson and "Three Wishes for the New Year."

During the business meeting the following officers for the ensuing year of 1957-1958 were elected with Mrs. Brode Hoover, president, presiding:

Mrs. Ward Gurley, president;
Mrs. Theo Swift, first vice president;
Mrs. Clifford Farmer, second vice president;
Mrs. Jeanette Irons, secretary;
Mrs. Robert Moss, treasurer;
Mrs. Frank Ellis, historian;
Mrs. Nat Bradley, reporter and Mrs. R. E. Clark, parliamentarian.
During the social hour refreshments of chicken salad, sandwiches, fruit cake topped with whipped cream and hot punch were served to Meses L. A. Stilwell, Nat Bradley, Robert Moss, Jeanette Irons, Clifford Farmer, Brode Hoover, Ward Gurley, Theo Swift, Miss Sybil Gurley, Miss Alma Bruce and the hostess, Mrs. Ellis.
