Guy Alden Wright Killed in Air Accident

Police Chief Mrs. G. Wright

Guy Alden Wright, Police Chief and Mrs. Wright of Memphis, was killed in an air accident in the Hawaiian Islands area.

Details on the accident were in the telegram received by the family Tuesday evening from the Navy Department. Wright, 22 years old, was a graduate of Clarendon High School and Clarendon College. He enlisted in the Navy on March 15, 1954.

After this he was transferred to Hawaii where he has been stationed for the past year. A telegram from the Navy Department stated that he was in an aircraft accident at the Territory of Hawaii, and his remains were not recovered.

It is stated that a letter from the commanding officer would be received by the family had not necessary further communication been received Tuesday morning.

Survivors include his husband; two sons, Albert Billy Stone of Memphis and Foy Ray Stone of Amarillo; three grandchildren; two sisters, Mrs. A. B. Howeth and Mrs. J. A. Easton, both of Paris, Tex.; two brothers, W. B. Proffitt of Hedley and R. O. Proffitt of Lakeview.

Burial was in the Fairview cemetery under the direction of Spicer Funeral Home. Pall bearers were Gene Hughs, Exie Sweet, Bob Stephens, Garvis Davis, W. M. Davis and Herman Vallance.

Receiving paramount attention of the speakers before the oil jobbers were the problems which will arise in the oil industry if Congress extends coverage of the Wage and Hour Act, Boone reported. Also discussed thoroughly was state and national legislation and the pressure of rising costs.

Boykin Drive Paving Almost Finished

Construction of the four-lane highway through Memphis ground to a stop again this week because of bad weather with only a little work remaining before the job is completed, Mayor O. L. Helm said Wednesday.

Workmen had finished the road itself and were in the process of marking the road before painting lane stripes when the rain Tuesday night stopped the work.

The only rainy weather this county has had in several years has caused the crew to stop work many times since they began about Dec. 20, 1956, Mayor Helm said.

The base of the road had to be reworked several times because of the rains, and in one section, on the south end, the crews tried six times before they defeated the weather.

Tuesday the workers placed marks on the paving, dividing it into lanes and were scheduled to start their painting Wednesday.

There were also a few other small jobs remaining to be finished as soon as the weather clears. One of these is filling in dirt around the curbing and dressing up the right-of-way.

A few intersections still remain to be paved, tying the road to other paved streets.

There is also a little work remaining to be done on the shoulders of the road in the north part of town, he continued. The contractors had originally hoped to finish the work by Feb. 20 but the weather has delayed them a month already.

The new asphalt through-way for Highway 287 will be four lanes wide from Noel Street to the county line, a short distance north of Memphis.

No parking will be allowed on the street due to the narrowness of the right-of-way, Mayor Helm stated.

The road will probably be open to traffic about the first of next week, depending on the weather, he continued.

"I think they have done a good job and it's a wonderful improvement over the former Front street," he added.

See page 12 for the resolution changing the name of Front Street to Boykin Drive.

WORK ALMOST COMPLETED — Packers are shown above finishing the paving of Boykin Drive, formerly Front Street, as the construction crew lays the last strip of paving on the street itself Tuesday. Bad weather called a halt to the work Wednesday but the road will probably be ready for use about the first of next week.

Spring Bursts Forth Wednesday With Rains of Almost One Inch

The first day of spring burst upon the scene Wednesday with the most glorious bloom of all—Rain.

Memphis received a total of .88 of an inch during Tuesday night and Wednesday, according to the official weather recorder, John J. McMickin.

The rainfall was reported to be heavier west of Memphis, exceeding one inch in some places.

The county, so far this year, has received 3.05 inches of moisture, almost an inch over the normal amount for this period. The average for January, February and March, according to the Texas Almanac, is 2.23 inches.

January of this year dropped .52 of an inch on the dry earth and then February rainfall totaled 1.05 inches. So far this month, March rains have totaled 1.48 inches.

Old timers have remarked that there may have been years when there was more late winter moisture, or when it fell better, but they can't remember when.

Hall County Soil Conservation District Technician William Swindle reported Thursday morning that the moisture penetration was now down to 36 inches or more.

Temperatures for the most part during the past week have been mild with the low here this morning being 42 degrees, as recorded by McMickin. Other temperatures were as follows: Wednesday 48-37, Tuesday 54-40, Monday 67-45, Sunday 82-41, Saturday 74-29, Friday 65-30.

M., or Amarillo. It has been pointed out that under certain conditions an atomic explosion at Los Alamos could endanger persons in this area through fall-out.

Polio Respects No One

County Officers Find Missing Clovis Boy Exploring Red River

A disillusioned boy with great courage was picked up west of Estelline Saturday morning by Sheriff Bill Baten and returned to his home in Clovis.

The boy, Howard Steel, 16, had been missing from his home since Thursday night. Curry County officers and about 100 volunteers spent most of Thursday searching around Clovis for the missing boy.

After his parents reported the boy missing and feared that he might have gotten lost or injured during the sandstorm Wednesday night.

The sheriff's office here reported Friday afternoon information that a boy answering the description of the missing boy had purchased $4 worth of groceries at the store that day.

People in the store had noticed that the boy was carrying a rifle and was a stranger to the community when he made the purchase. After he was told the amount of the groceries he asked how much tax there would be.

After hearing the noon news broadcast giving the description of the boy the residents decided that he was the missing youth. This also explained the youth's question about the tax, since New Mexico has a sales tax.

Deputy Sheriff Elmer Neel and Morris Odom began flying up and down the river looking for the youth that afternoon after being notified by Parnell citizens. Just before dark they spotted the youth and then flew back to Memphis where it was decided to wait until morning to try to reach him.

His parents were notified and his father and several of his uncles came to Memphis to help in the search. Saturday morning Neel and Odom began flying over the area again and spotted the boy walking in the center of the river. When the youth saw the plane he ran into the salt cedar bushes and hid.

The men in the plane signaled to Sheriff Baten and Deputy Clyde Rogers of Estelline who walked to where the boy was hiding. The boy went with them to the cars and was turned over to his father.

The youth stated that he had planned to explore Red River. He said he intended to get a boat and travel to the mouth of the river, complaining because there was no water in the stream.

The Clovis boy was equipped for the outdoor life with a .30 caliber carbine rifle, trench knife, barracks bag, pack, water-purifying pills and other camp gear.

Report From Washington

By Walter Rogers
Congressman, 18th District

The Battle of the Budget
The resolution that was adopted by the House of Representatives on Tuesday, March 12, returning the budget to the President of the United States, and which caused long, tedious and at times heated debate, was a very simple resolution. It advised the President of the United States that it was the intention of Congress to cut his 72 billion dollar peace-time, record-high budget, and that the Congress would appreciate advice from the President as to where and how he wants the budget cut so that he may protect his presidential program, whatever it might be. Our action has already borne fruit, because the Administrator of the Housing Agency has announced a cut of 200 million dollars. I feel that others will awake to the fact that the people of this country are tired of paying taxes for increased government spending and regimentation. Frankly, I am most happy to see people at the grass roots rising to the occasion as they have, because the very foundations of our government may rest in the balance. The budget must be cut.

To point out specifically one particular item that should and can be substantially curtailed, if not completely abolished, let us look at foreign aid. This has cost the American taxpayers billions upon billions of dollars; yet, we are in a worse position today on the world front, insofar as buying friends and influencing people, than we were when it started. The truth is this entire program has been a giant subsidy to big business, big industry and big labor, and that is one reason it has never been stopped. At long last one of the most ardent advocates in the Congress of the foreign aid program has admitted indirectly that such is the case. In an address by Representative Walter H. Judd (R-Minn.), (a fine gentleman whom I like but with whom I disagree on several matters) to a U. S. Chamber of Commerce economy meeting here, he was quoted as saying: "Only a dribble of money (foreign aid) goes abroad. It's goods that are sent abroad. The dollars are spent here." Please note that the dollars, referred to as being spent here, are your tax dollars. They are being paid to manufacturers in this country for goods to be given away abroad. If that isn't trying to lift yourself by your own bootstraps, I'll stand corrected.

Although this procedure was referred to as political maneuvering, skulduggery, and some worse names, it is my opinion it was a courtesy due the President of the United States. In the first place, it was he who said it would require 72 billion dollars to run this government for the next fiscal year. This statement was based upon careful study by experts in every field in which the government operates and that, my friends, includes many fields. These experts are many in number and varied in accomplishments and are in every department of the government. Approximately 18 months ago they started to determine how much money they would request from the Congress to run their respective departments for fiscal 1958. Mind you, each of the departments is staffed with innumerable experts working for that department. When they get all of their facts and figures together, these are submitted to the Bureau of the Budget (which is also in the Executive Branch of the government) and the fiscal advisor to the President of the United States. These financial geniuses and statistical experts in that bureau then go over the figures, and out of all this comes the budget recommendation of the President which reaches Congress sometime in January and which must be acted upon before June 30. In other words, each of these departments, with all their experts, has about 18 months in which to prepare facts and figures to submit to the Congress. The Congress is then expected to take all of these facts and figures from all of these different departments and set on all the budgets in one-third of the time required by each department to prepare one budget. The truth is it would be humanly impossible for Congress to weigh each of these budgets with the same care used by the experts who prepared them and, incidentally, those who expect to spend the money.

The admission on the part of a staunch foreign aid advocate would seem to me to cause many red faces among those who so flagrantly criticize and condemn the American farmer and the small businessman as being the recipients of subsidies, yet participate in this giveaway program. Panhandle Talent Recognized
It was good to learn this week that Panhandle talent is not being overlooked nationally. LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

(Editors note—The following letter was received recently by Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Weatherly from Joe Colvin, a former Hall County Sheriff. The letter in part is as follows.)

Hello Friends,
I have thought for a long time that I would write you. I was through Memphis in July, 1955 but you were out of town. I visited my old friends, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Ferrel, Sr. I worked on the old Mill Iron ranch with Murph more than 50 years ago and visited in the Crump home many times.
Well, it has been several years since I ran into you here in Las Vegas. The town is several times as large as it was then and is spread all over this desert with more than fifty thousand population.
I have a good job working five days a week, the easiest job I ever worked on and intend to stay with it. I get two weeks vacation with pay, but I intend to take a month off this year as I plan to come to Texas in July to visit my old friends I have left behind.
I have been here nearly twelve years and was in Los Angeles more than three years so you can see I have been away from there nearly fifteen years. I prowl around some here and go into the mountains to some old abandoned mines and get a kick out of it. Sometimes I wish I were younger.
When I shall quit this mortal shore,
And ramble 'round the earth no more,
Please do not mourn, nor sigh, nor sob,
I may have found a better job.
Don't go and buy a big bouquet,
For which you find it hard to pay.
Don't mope around and feel all blue,
I may be better off than you.
If you have roses, bless your soul,
Just pin one in my buttonhole,
While I'm alive and well to-day.
Don't wait until I've gone away.
Don't tell the folks I was a Saint,
Or anything that you know I

Fifty-Two Tracts of Land Offered For Sale By Veterans Land Board

Fifty-two tracts of land in 23 counties will be offered for sale in the fourth Veterans' Land Board forfeited land sale on April 3rd, Land Commissioner Earl Rudder said Monday.
Sealed bids will be received until 10 o'clock that morning when they will be opened.
Altogether, 3,923.70 acres—mostly located in the northeast, central, and southwest portions of the state—will be offered for sale.
Largest tract of land offered by the VLB is 239 acres located about five miles northwest of Rising Star in Eastland County.
Previous forfeited land sales were conducted by the Veterans' Land Board earlier this month and in September and January, 1956.
The property offered for sale was originally bought by veterans through the Veterans' Land Program, but was later forfeited because original purchasers were behind in their payments.
Ten thousand veterans on a special mailing list have already received information about the sale. Advertising notices announcing the sale began appearing last week in newspapers near offered.

Information about the sale also been sent to county officers, VA hospitals, and regional offices.
Anyone desiring further information about the sale may contact the Veterans' Land Board in Austin, Commissioner Rudder added.

Duwall County, USA

This is the last in a series of articles by New York newspaper reporters Frederick Hodgson and Franz Rosenwald, who recently spent several weeks in Duwall Co. and South Texas, gathering facts for this series.

's Anti-Secrecy Legislation Will Prevent Another "Duval County"

their commissioners court held its meetings, and in some cases whether the statutory school board even existed. But then I talked with men whose lives had been threatened just because they were curious enough to ask questions about the county government. There's a woman in Freer, Texas, who repeatedly asked all the members of the Benavides School Board for permission to attend one of their meetings. Her letters were never acknowledged. The State of Texas has charged that hundreds of thousands of dollars from Benavides school funds were shoveled into private pockets.

John Ben Shepperd, in three years of court battles, became pretty familiar with the Texas Constitution and the criminal and civil statutes as they serve the purposes of dictators. He came out convinced that the best protection against crookedness in office is an alert newspaper backed up with laws. Publication laws. Anti-secrecy laws. Auditing laws. Open-records laws, and laws for removing public officials who do not keep faith with the people. Most of all, laws to indict and prosecute malefactors outside their own sewed-up counties.

It happened that with those of the Texas Press Association, which for several legislative sessions has asked for laws to strengthen the people's right to know what is going on in government. President of that group is David C. Leavell, publisher of the Galveston News-Tribune. Under his guidance the TPA is pushing 15 bills "for better government" at this legislative session, most of which are aimed at plugging the loopholes that made Duval County possible.

TPA members, by and large, believe Duval County is a warning of worse things that can happen unless the people of Texas act. Chief among these are probably Russell W. Bryant, publisher of the Italy News Herald, who is TPA's Legislative Committee chairman, and W. R. Beaumier who publishes the Lufkin Daily News, and is vice chairman. Shepperd is quick to deny that the TPA's bills are proposed just because of Duval County, which he says would be a case of the tail wagging dog.

"The defects in the law that we found in Duval County were not new discoveries," he says. "They have been here for decades and longer. The Duval County business simply shows what can happen in any of the 254 counties of Texas if something isn't done about the loopholes."

The bills which Shepperd and TPA think would improve and safeguard the quality of government in Texas are simple.

One of them would make it possible for persons charged with embezzling or misusing public funds to be indicted in any county adjoining the county where the offense occurs, or in Travis County.

Such a law would keep crime and punishment apart from local politics. This "outside indictment" is already provided by law in rape cases, so it isn't new.

Another proposed law would require District or County Attorneys to file suit for recovery of misapplied funds in any political subdivision of the state within their jurisdiction, with or without the permission of the governing body. Another would make an audit of the records mandatory when 30 per cent of the qualified voters petition the District Judge.

An anti-secrecy bill is included in the bunch, requiring that all meetings of official bodies be open to the press and public except as now otherwise provided by law. There are a few cases in which closed meetings are necessary—such as when job applicants are being considered. In all other cases, as Shepperd puts it, there is no business in public office that is not the public's business.

If one of the TPA bills goes into effect as law, public officials who stand on the Fifth Amendment and refuse to answer questions about their official conduct would be removed from office. Shepperd maintains that this is not inconsistent with the Constitution.

"The Fifth Amendment is a guarantee that a person does not have to incriminate himself in a criminal proceeding. It was never intended to shield bad officeholders from just criticism or to keep unworthy men in office. Such a distortion of its use is not consistent with the honor of public service."

A number of laws governing publications would protect the people against bad government, the TPA says. One would require the full text of city ordinances to be published, not just a descriptive title. All offices, boards, agencies and commissions on all levels of government would be required to publish an annual financial statement under another proposed bill, and there is a related bill which would authorize the removal of any official who failed to publish this or any other required information. With still another TPA bill providing for the removal of any official who refuses to show his records, things may be getting tough for officeholders who have anything to hide.

There are provisions, too, for stopping the flow of State funds to school districts and other political subdivisions which fail to file and publish reports according to law. According to Shepperd, misappropriation of funds in Duval County was so rife that it didn't stop immediately when the State moved in. Efforts to cut off the flow of money to the Benavides school district until "lost" records were found and the money was better accounted for failed for lack of a law under which the State could control the flow of its own funds.

So, another of the 15 bills in the Better Government packet would make it unlawful to steal, conceal, alter or deface a public record—penalty three to seven years—with indictment and venue lying in the county of the offense, any adjoining county, or Travis County.

When you stop to think about it, there are ways of withholding public information from the public which are sanctioned by law. A lot of folks believe precinct, county and state political conventions are public business from which reporters, at least, should not be arbitrarily excluded. You couldn't very well tell the public in, lest the bona fide delegates get lost in the milling crowd. But a TPA proposal at this legislative session would allow the presence of the press, radio and TV—"that the people may know."

The need for this legislation is statewide, TPA believes, but if you want a Duval County illustration, there are plenty. Residents tell how they were forcibly excluded from political conventions if they didn't like the Duke and his candidates. If they tried to hold conventions of their own, they were raided by goon squads. Since the TPA came out with a proposal to admit the press and TV to such conventions, Duvalans speculate on what would have happened to the goons if they had come in swinging their carbines and found themselves on statewide television, and their pictures in the newspapers.

Franz Rosenwald and I talked to a lot of people in South Texas. We had heard about the "better government" bills that Shepperd and the TPA were urging upon the Texas Legislature two years ago, and the ones they are urging now.

"No," one of these South Texans said, "more laws wouldn't have stopped George Farr. With or without laws, he would have been Duke of Duval."

I looked at Rosenwald. He does not know everything about law, or dictators, or South Texas. But he lived under the Nazis and the Russians, and he says there's nothing unique in this Duval County.

When you stop to think about it, there are ways of withholding public information from the public which are sanctioned by law. A lot of folks believe precinct, county and state political conventions are public business from which reporters, at least, should not be arbitrarily excluded. You couldn't very well tell the public in, lest the bona fide delegates get lost in the milling crowd. But a TPA

County history. It's all so painfully familiar.

When the South Texan said, over a cup of coffee in the Alice hotel, that laws don't stop the world's little dictators, Rosenwald said, "You want to bet?"

Around and About by Helen Combs

Can this be true . . . March, the month of wind and sand, is three-fourths past, and we've had rain and more rain—and hardly any sand at all. Thus far we can't grumble about the weather!

With warmer days and wonderful rains, people all over town have turned to their yards . . . trees have been trimmed, shrubbery and rose bushes planted, ground broke and grass reset.

To date we haven't had time to do anything about our yard, but the urge to once again dig in the soil is with us. We're beginning to think of again trying our hand, in a very small way, at gardening. We're hoping this is the year we can redeem ourself and convince the husband we can grow blackeyed peas at less than $2.00 a mess!

Congratulations to Miss Billie Jean Stroehle for the fine work she is doing at Texas Technological College. For her high academic rating, Miss Stroehle was among 58 freshmen students invited to join honor societies. She was also one of the students to be honored at the annual All-College Recognition Service at 2 p. m. Sunday in the Lubbock auditorium. Billie Jean is the daughter of Mrs. Reba Stroehle, and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fitzjarrald.

James and Marjorie Morris of Amarillo are enjoying a second honeymoon, so to speak, in the vacation land of Florida. Making the trip possible was James' mother, Mrs. J. H. Morris, and sister, Mrs. Temple Deaver, Jr., who are caring for the Morris' three children, Jimmy, Marjorie Lou and Charles Daniel. James was awarded the two weeks paid vacation trip through his work with an insurance firm in Amarillo. Adding the Temple Deaver's young son, with his three cousins, Mrs. Morris says they're quite busy these days!

Speaking of grandchildren—Susan has now taken two steps . . . but Janet McNally, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. McNally, Jr., who is several days younger, can walk across the room!

All of us are faced with problems from time to time . . . but this week an unusual situation turned up for Ruby Thornton. She opened the basement door in her home, and started down the stairway—and there at the foot of the stairs was a skunk fast asleep. Now, the problem was this: how to get the fellow out without leaving his "smell."

May we offer our condolence to Chief of Police and Mrs. Guy Wright in the tragic loss of their son, Lt. Guy Alden Wright, who was killed in a Navy aircraft accident Monday. Making the loss harder to bear is the fact it will be several days before they can obtain a full account of how the accident occurred.

4th Amored Div. To Go To Europe

Enlistments for direct assignment to the 4th Armored Division, which will be transferred to Europe this fall, are now being accepted by the U. S. Army. It was announced today by Sergeant First Class John C. Dills, Army Recruiter who is in Memphis every Friday at the court house.

The 4th Armored Division will travel to Europe, replacing the 2nd Armored Division under the Army's unit rotation plan. The plan, called Operation Gyroscope, will allow soldiers to stay with an outstanding outfit, and gives advanced knowledge of their future duty stations.

"This enlistment option offers young men a chance to complete basic training at a location near their home, a chance to join one of the Army's finest Armored Divisions, and a chance to see Europe while in the Army," said Sgt. Dills. "Buddies who desire to stay together throughout their military career will find the option particularly attractive since they can enlist together for direct assignment to the same Division."

More information on the 4th Armored Division enlistment option and the qualifications for joining may be obtained at the Army Recruiting Station, 212 East 7th Avenue, Amarillo or from Sgt. Dills on his scheduled days in Memphis.

Soil Conservation News

By PAUL MOHLE Soil Scientist, SCS

How would you in the Hall County Soil Conservation District like to increase the value of your farmstead? A farmstead is the home and farm buildings.

Real estate people tell us that when you have something that protects buildings, you increase their value for real estate and insurance purposes. Farmstead windbreaks protect and prolong the life of farm homes and buildings. They do this by reducing the amount of sand that hits the buildings, particularly in sandy land.

How often during the summer has your home been hot as a furnace? Since the farmstead is used only for buildings and pens, a strip of trees on the west and south sides of the buildings would take up very little land. The south strip would break up the hot summer winds as would the west one. The west windbreak would be most useful in reducing the amount of sand that blows across the farmstead. The cost of putting the trees in is small and there is very little upkeep to them.

Considering the protection it gives buildings, the added value to the farmstead and relief it gives from the summer heat a farmstead windbreak is a good investment.

For complete information and technical assistance in planning and planting farmstead windbreaks contact your Hall County Soil Conservation District.

The Marine Corps has three combat divisions with supporting forces and three Marine aircraft wings, to provide balanced ground to air teams in its Atlantic and Pacific Fleet Marine Forces.

The motor fuel used in the Iwo Jima campaign would have filled a train of tank cars 238 miles long and the lubricating oil would have filled an additional 125 box cars.

New Increased Payments Available For Some Widows of Veterans

Three of every five widows of veterans who died of service-connected causes before Jan. 1, 1957, have failed to apply for the new increased dependents' compensation payments, Veterans Administration announced today.

The Servicemen's and Veterans' Survivor Benefits Act, which authorizes the new payments, became effective Jan. 1.

Widows of veterans who died of service-connected causes before Jan. 1, may elect to receive the new payments or to continue under the old death compensation, whichever is higher.

In most cases, VA said, the new act provides for higher payments to these widows than were granted under previous laws.

Any of these widows who wish to receive the higher benefit must apply for the new compensation payments, even though they already are on VA rolls.

Application cards have been sent to 114,000 of these widows, who may be eligible for increased payments, VA added.

If a widow is eligible for an increased monthly payment under the new law, VA said, such payments will be made retroactive to Jan. 1, 1957, provided she applies by July 1, 1957.

With certain exceptions, applications will be effective as of the day they are received, VA emphasized.

The benefit will be paid at the monthly rate of $112 plus 12 percent of the basic monthly pay now being received by a serviceman whose rank and years of service are the same as those of the deceased veteran, VA pointed out.

Computing the benefit on the current military pay avoids inequities in the case of widows of veterans who died or were separated when military pay scales were lower than they present, VA explained. Widows who make application for the new benefit would receive more under laws, will be advised by VA office.

However, if a widow apply for the new benefit compensation at the same time in the past, even though she might be eligible for the new benefit is available VA office.

ABOUT YOUR HEALTH

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health. HENRY A. HOLLE, M.D., Commissioner

When President Teddy Roosevelt ordered periodic health examinations for all army officers in 1908, he started what has since become recognized as one of the most vital phases of health promotion.

A "periodic check-up" is simply a careful study of a presumably healthy person. It should be performed regularly once a year, preferably by the family physician as a means of detecting disease or body malfunction in an early stage.

Besides detecting disease at an early stage before it becomes too painful or too deep rooted, the check-up can be used as a basis for better health practices for the patient and his family.

How often and what type examination should be given varies with the patient's age, sex, occupation, heredity, past health, place of residence, and economic status.

"The normally healthy infant should be checked about every six weeks during the first year; every three months during the second year; and once a year from the sixth to twelfth year."

No single examining routine can be applied to all persons, but all check-ups include a medical history, the actual physical examination, and certain laboratory and x-ray procedures.

Crime Increases 14 Percent in Texas Cities During '56

Crime in Texas during 1956 gained 11.8 per cent over the preceding year according to Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety.

The increase was attributed to urban areas where a 14.4 per cent increase in crime was shown during 1956 in comparison with the records for 1955.

On a statewide basis, including urban and rural areas, murder and homicide was down 13.7 per cent, rape was down 11.1 per cent and aggravated assault was down 4.7 per cent.

On the other hand, burglary was up 13.5 per cent, theft was up 14.5 per cent and auto theft increased 11.3 per cent.

The rural areas showed a crime decrease in all divisions except two—theft with an increase of 9.2 per cent and burglary with an increase of 1.1 per cent over the preceding year.

Garrison said the crime rate for Texas compares favorably with that for the entire nation.

Editorial

Make Public Business Public

In this issue of The Democrat will be found the last of a series of articles on the Duval County story. It summarizes the weaknesses in the Texas legal system that permitted the Duval County situation to come into being and to exist for a period of 40 years.

This concluding article also points out what the newspaper profession of Texas, as represented by the Texas Press Association, is trying to do to restore and preserve democracy in Texas with its "Better Government" legislative program.

The legislative program proposed by this organization is designed to "make public business public." Texas newspapers believe that nothing is more conducive to honesty in government than the spotlight of publicity. Most of these proposed laws make it illegal for public officials to conceal their official actions.

There is not one thing in any of the fifteen proposed bills to which an honest official can object. They should be enacted by a unanimous vote in both the House of Representatives and the Senate. A negative vote on such worthy measures cannot very well be explained and certainly will raise a question in the minds of the constituency of any legislator so voting.

If, after reading this concluding article, you think the people of Texas are entitled to the protection against corruption and oppression these proposals offer, then write your representative and senator and tell them you expect their support when the measures come to a vote.

Advertise Texas

The Legislature will take under consideration this year one of the most important and probably the most overdue bill to be introduced in many years. This will be the proposal to advertise Texas.

It would simply set up a constitutional amendment for a vote of the people of Texas. This would give all Texans the right to make their own choice as to whether or not they want their state advertised both in and out of state for the purpose of attracting more tourists, new industries and permanent families.

Texas is the only state left out of the forty-eight which does not have a program of this kind. Forty-seven states and three U. S. possessions are now advertising themselves with budgets up to $1,000,000 annually.

In every case the experience of other states indicates that the program has vastly benefited them from a variety of angles. Our small friend to the east, Mississippi, set up its Development per capita income jumped from $486 to $838, cash farm income is up 136 per cent, livestock production has climbed steadily by 169 per cent, manufacturing wages have increased 96 per cent, effective buying income has soared 72 per cent and the tourist business has risen from annual value of $99,000,000 to $271,000,000, a gain of 174 per cent.

Texas has many times more to offer these tourists and businesses than does Mississippi yet they don't come to Texas because they know little of what we have or where it is. There are few people in the entire United States who haven't heard of the Alamo, but how many have seen it? With more and more people on the roads each year, they only need to be invited to visit our state. It has been said that a dollar spent in a community changes hands seven times before it leaves that community, and how well could we use more of those tourist dollars now.

For every woman who makes a fool out of a man, there seems to be one that makes a man out of a fool.

Money talks all right, but in these days a dollar doesn't have enough cents to say anything worthwhile.

The Bolsheviks still puzzle the people of America. #### Labor is Pricing Itself Out of Business

Most of the small-town businesses in this area are exempt from the provisions of the minimum wage and hour law. However, from the looks of legislation now pending in the halls of Congress, they'd better watch out for their position as it seems to be imperiled.

As a matter of fact, we have more or less expected to see the extension of minimum wage and hour provisions for some time. That seems to be the trend, and there doesn't seem to be much that can be done about it.

With the recent attention given to "do something for small business—it's dying out" in Washington, we have never once heard it suggested that the exemption from government price-fixing be continued for small businesses. And that would be one of the most reassuring things Congress could do.

Incidentally, whenever we speak of small businessmen, we do not necessarily stop at the level of the average retail or service establishment on Main Street.

When all is said and done, farmers are businessmen in just as real a sense as are the storekeepers. In fact, anyone who hires others to assist in carrying out some kind of operation is an employer, and all employers are businessmen.

To judge from the present attitude of the legislators, we would guess that within two or three years, the average small town retailer or service businessman will be paying no less than $1 an hour just to have some kid burn his trash, or some totally untrained person try to learn the ropes of his business.

And when that happens, you may be sure that it won't take but another session or two of the legislature to make sure that no farmer pays less than the minimum wage for cotton choppers and the like, regardless of how much the person might want for the job.

Small wonder that the glassy-eyed businessman, confronted with the thousands of other things he must do for his paternalistic government, is considering changes of the most radical kind. Small wonder that he feels that almost any machine is worth its price—if it will just reduce the number of people required to produce the product.

With the aid and blessing of the government, organized labor of the United States is going to price itself right out of the business.—State Line Tribune

For Women Only

We read your article today, "Help Your Husband Stay Alive," by Hannah Lees of Philadelphia. She states there are 7,000,000 widows in the country. Seventeen men die in the 40's for every 10 women. Eighteen men die in their 50's for every 10 women.

Miss Lees says American women, who would prefer to have their husbands to the mink stole his overwork earns, can do more than a whole battery of psychiatrists to save their lives.

She offers these suggestions: Help him relax; make him happy to be a good father and husband—if he needs more sleep, reduce his social engagements. If he is overweight, plan attractive low calorie meals; encourage walking, swimming, gardening, golf in moderation, and other forms of light exercise, and please, please, don't expect a tired husband to shovel snow or do anything that makes him more tired. These are only a few of the many ways a man's wife can contribute to his happiness and well being.

Now, what about the woman who works from 8 to 10 hours

15 Hour Session
The writing members of the House are recuperating after an extended 15 hour session which time the appropriations committee considered and passed House met at 10:00 a. m. and did not adjourn until 1:00 a. m. the following day.

A "call of the House" was voted. This means a member is allowed to leave the chamber. The doors are closed and no one can get out. Members who are not present are subject to "arrest" by the House chamber. Even if a police escort would be sent to a member, he would be held in a room of applause.

Extension Service
The first amendment increased appropriation by two million dollars for the A & M Extension Service. This money would be used for increased extension work for new employees for a larger program, and salary increases for present extension workers.

Cotton Research
The second amendment which was for the cotton research program. The appropriations committee had cut out a portion of this research program, but were successful in restoring the appropriation. The cotton research program is very important to our area as it aids in new outlets for cotton and in selling more cotton products.

Crisis Faces Texas Livestock Program
An amendment was drawn but presented which would increase the money available to the Texas Livestock Sanitation Commission. There is a crisis in the Texas livestock industry, unless we start a state-wide control program, cattle may soon be embargoed from many other states. This control the other will not want Texas cattle shipped into other states.

Greenbelt Amendment
Be Heard in Senate
An amendment which I offered (Greenbelt Water Authority passed the House.) has been set for a hearing in the Senate. Perhaps within a week this bill will be finally passed and signed by the Governor. Then we will be able to proceed with our election to confirm this water district.

The session is half over and we have accomplished much, but there are still many things that Texas needs. Perhaps the second half of the session will also be beneficial to the people of the state.

Justice of Peace J. S. Grimes Collects $1,303 During Feb.

Justice of Peace J. S. Grimes had a relatively quiet month during February, collecting a total of $1,303.60 in fines, fees and other court costs.

A total of 46 cases came before the court with 40 persons paying fines and the other six spending time in jail.

Speeding was the offense most often appearing on the docket with a total of 19 cases with that as a charge.

Judge Grimes said that February is always a slow month and that he thought this year was a little more active than has been the case in the past few years.

Youth To Organize

form of an open house and an invitation has been extended to everyone in this area to attend. Sandwiches and soft drinks will be sold to help raise money to start the club, Smith said.

Following the sandwiches, a membership drive will be conducted. Persons from junior high through 21 years of age are eligible to join the center. Initial dues will be $1 and anyone living within 20 miles of Memphis is eligible to join, the committee said.

Officers will be elected at the Tuesday meeting and only those who have paid their dues will be eligible to vote.

The planning committee is working up a constitution and by-laws for the club, and present plans call for the center to be open one night each week, Smith said.

A group of approximately 20 teen-agers worked at the center all day last Saturday cleaning up the building. Tuesday night a group of about 30 nailed cardboard up behind the stage, and plan to finish the cleaning operation this Saturday.

The youth center will offer members ping pong, trampoline, badminton, checkers, card games, and shuffleboard. A concession stand will be in operation, and books and magazines will be available in a lounge.

Present plans also call for four chaperones to be present at any time the center is open. Members will be required to sign in and out at the door, and after leaving the building, will not be permitted to re-enter that night, Smith said.

Front Street Renamed Boykin Drive

When the new, four-lane street for Highway 287 is opened here in the near future it will no longer be known as Front Street. The City Council in a recent meeting voted to change the name of the street to Boykin Drive in honor of an old pioneer family. The resolution the council passed is as follows:

Whereas we recognized that the existence and growth of this town, spring directly from the patience, tenacity, fortitude and the courage of its early settlers, who fought drought, famine and adversity, an thereby made possible its growth from a settlement to a town; and

Whereas Charles Stuart Boykin and Pearl Davis Boykin stand among the early settlers who contributed unsparingly of their time, talents and energy for the growth of the town; and whereas such interest in and love for the town is renewed and further evidenced by the daughters, Charlotte Stuart Carlson and Elizabeth Wells, in providing without cost or expense to the town, a right-of-way over Lots Nos. 19 and 20, in Block No. 4, of the original town of Memphis, Texas, to be used as a part of the new highway through said town; and

Whereas it is the opinion of the City Council that such love and devotion in its people should never go unrecognized and that some note memorializing such contributions and devotion should be made at this time and to that end the following resolution is hereby adopted:

Resolved: That South Front Street in said city be and same is hereby renamed and designated "Boykin Drive" in memory of the said Charles Stuart Boykin and Pearl Davis Boykin; and that appropriate markers be installed thereon designating such name for said street and thus commemorating the memory of the said beloved.
