There is always a problem of time and importance at the end of a legislative session: What have we got time to pass and what is so important that we must get to it. The majority decides, of course, and there are many admirable measures hanging fire or gathering dust in committee that are being passed by in the rush to finish the session and to deal with such things as appropriations and tax bills. Among the most lamentable of these bills which won't make it up this session are those Good Government Bills sponsored by the Texas Press Association. They are good bills, two of which I myself sponsored dealing with prevention of the situation that has existed in Duval County for the past few years and making improvements in the way the law is administered and public monies are handled.

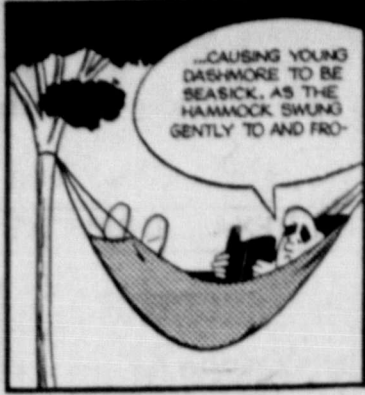

The same situation exists with a number of laws proposed to deal with highway safety, the major one of which was a measure to set up a state program in driver education under the already-existent Gilmer-Akin program in the schools. Certainly the number of Texas highway deaths that can be traced to driver incompetence is tragic and the driver education program would have been a step in the right direction. Another group of bills relating to the important problem of juvenile delinquency is in the process of suffering the same fate—not enough time and the majority is interested in more immediately important legislation.

One of the most tragic of these legislative deaths is that of the small battery of bills designed to correct the situation in the state by which loan sharks are enriching themselves at the miserable, pathetic expense of our poorest, most depressed citizens. It has been shown time and time again that some of these human sharks receive interest rates, sometimes partially hidden, well above 100 per cent. The poor must pay and pay and pay.

Most people who are on terms of working familiarity with the problems of state government are agreed that probably nothing is more needed at present than a thorough tax study. We need to know who is paying the taxes and who is not. Intelligent planning for the years ahead requires that we know a lot more about our tax system than is known now; on this everyone agrees. But it was a relief and a pleasant surprise to me and many others last week when a House-passed tax study measure failed in the Senate by the decisive vote of 19-9. For passage of this measure would have been equivalent as asking to have the wool not pulled but knitted over our eyes.

The House measure would have placed the responsibility for such a needed study with a private group called the Texas Research League. I'm sure that the League is fully capable of such a study, but I shudder at what might happen if it did. The Texas Research League is maintained by the very same people who are heavily organized to prevent taxing programs that affect their interests, who keep full-time lobbyists in Austin, who are continually on the watch for a main chance such as this bill would certainly have offered. It would have been like asking a man's trusted employee to report for him an overtime parking violation.

As the matter now rests I am reasonably certain that we will be able to get no program underway this session to take care of this crying need for a tax study. The only fair and legitimate way such a study can be gained is for the state itself to set up the program with a group of impartial experts—and, believe it or not, there are still such people—who would conduct the investigation with the state footing the bill. You get only what you pay for and a private, biased study would have been worth much less than nothing.

The Senate in other action refused to consider a House-sponsored bill to reduce from felony to misdemeanor the first offense of wife and child desertion.

Texas needed an education program that looked into the future at the time the Gilmer-Akin program was passed. Now, some years later, we find that the program has not been adequate; we have tremendous shortages of teachers and the shortage is sure to become worse; school building programs, while much progress is being made, are falling farther and farther behind. What is to be done? Certainly we cannot go backward in constructing programs; we must find a solution that will fit the needs both of the rich, heavily-populated and industrialized areas of the state and also those areas which of necessity must depend upon small schools with only a few teachers and students. At the present, a new proposal has been made in both houses of the legislature which would appoint a complete study of the education problem in the state. The measure, as introduced, would instruct the governor to appoint a six-man committee to supervise the massive study, which would include a survey of "the needs of the public schools system as related to curriculum, teacher supply, classroom facilities, and other related areas, including adequate financing of the program." The committee would report to the 1959 meeting of the state legislature.

It is my hope that such a study will keep in mind and bring public light to some of the inadequacies of the present school system, along with some of the hardships that have been imposed on comparatively poor school districts in the matter of finances necessary to meet high standards. It must be obvious to all who are interested in our schools that some of the districts, while they want and deserve the best educational system for their children, simply cannot, on the strength of their own finances, pay for such a program. This is a fact which must be taken into account in any study.

Fish Available For Restocking From Federal Gov.

The long-dry tanks and ponds of Texas farms and ranches—most of which are now filled with water from recent rains—can be restocked with game fish—Senators Ralph Yarborough and Lyndon Johnson have announced.

The two Texas senators said they had been informed by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service that "fish for restocking are available and orders can be filled without delay."

This is the procedure for securing fish, as outlined to the senators by the Fish and Wildlife Service:

1. The land owner makes application for the fish from the federal fish hatchery nearest him. There are five federal hatcheries in Texas, at Austin, Fort Worth, San Marcos, Burnet and Uvalde.
2. The application is sent by the hatchery to a regional office at Albuquerque, N. M., for processing.
3. Upon application approval, the fish are delivered.

Mosley Cafe Purchased By Mrs. Davis and Son

Mrs. Trilton Davis announced this week that she and her son, Don Davis, of Wellington had purchased the Mosley Cafe, formerly operated by Winfield Mosley.

The name of the cafe, which is located at 205 South Boykin Drive, has been changed to Davis Cafe. The restaurant will be managed and operated by Mrs. Davis.

Mrs. Davis assumed management of the business Monday. She has extended a special invitation to the public to come by Monday, May 20, for free coffee and doughnuts.

The Bloomin' News

Seems like everybody in town should have had enough tomato plants but we still keep having calls for them so we have restocked. Don't know how long these will last. We also have plenty of pepper plants left—hot and sweet. Something else, tomatoes can't stand a very strong insecticide so we have stocked a special dust for those pesky bugs. Then we have some "Tomato-Fix." If you have had trouble getting tomatoes to hold their fruit, try some of this.

Other new items: Red Devil Dust for squash bugs and other hard to kill insects, Crab Grass Killer, and Acme 10% Chlorodane Dust.

Our chrysanthemum plants, all varieties, are here now and will be ready for transplanting in a few days. Then we still have quite a few other bedding plants left; petunias, periwinkles, Salvia, Ageratium, alyssum.

If you want quality merchandise in your Memorial Day wreaths and flowers, see us.

P. S. I don't imagine the weather is going to keep on being as ideal for flowers as it has for the last 30 days so you better get ready for that hot, dry time by mulching that flower bed with peat moss. We have it.

Organic Matter Will Increase Water Holding Capacity of County Soil

By CHARLIE CAPE
Soil Unit Conservationist

You heard people in the County Soil Conservation District say that we have more water from rains than we used to. Well, the statements are probably true.

Organic matter makes the difference. It holds the soil open and like a sponge. It drinks up water and gives it up to plants on demand. In other words it is the soil and the plants are the water writers on the water that the soil holds.

When the soil loses part of its organic matter it also loses part of its fertility and water holding capacity. When it does this, the particles lay closer together therefore less water can get to the soil causing more runoff and less fertility.

The soil does not have to lose its organic matter to make a difference in the runoff. In fact, a small percent reduction may make a lot of difference. Weighing a cubic foot of soil from your field, then weigh a cubic foot of soil from an old pasture that has been sodded. You will find that the soil from your field will weigh a few pounds more. This means the pasture sod has a lot more organic matter and holds the soil particles apart, therefore there is more water in it—so they weigh as much. Soil Conservation Service employees have found that this is sometimes as

Around and About

by Helen Combs

As the last days of school approach, this is indeed a busy time for parents and children alike. Final examinations, commencement and graduation exercises, piano recitals, dance recitals and closing club luncheons are all marked events of the next few days.

Monday night the graduating class of 1957 made their final adieu to the public in the presentation of "Music Down Through the Years." Aided by parents and several local artists, the seniors presented a most entertaining program. Many were made to reminisce of days gone by as the pages were turned back with songs and dances of other years.

Now that school days are past, the seniors of 1957, like those of years before, will move on to other horizons . . . some to enter college for higher education, and some to make their mark in other fields. As the years pass, we are happy with the many fine things our county graduates accomplished.

Of late, Jeanne Way has won the Fullbright Scholarship in music for a year's study in Salzburg, Austria. Most of you remember Jeanne when she played the trombone with the Cyclone Band, and was ever ready to entertain at various meetings with her solos. We remember Jeanne at a much earlier date—when she was a very small girl in pigtails. That was during the time we lived in Wellington, and the Way family was our next-door neighbor. We know that Jeanne is deserving of this honor and her many friends here are happy indeed.

Congratulations to Miss Hermina Sahagun, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lupe Sahagun of Lakeview, who has been selected the student of the year from the North Plains Student Nurses Association. Miss Sahagun, who is a senior student at St. Anthony's School of Nursing, will attend the state convention as the regional representative and be a nominee for the "Student of the Year" from the state of Texas.

From San Antonio comes word that Mack Wilson, Jr., was designated for the honor of official escort to Miss San Antonio during the recent week's festival held in that city. It was Mack's pleasure to escort the beauty to the many socials held during the festival.

Enjoyed a short chat Monday with Dorothy Deaver who is visiting here this week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Temple Deaver. Dorothy, who is an airline hostess, recently enjoyed a vacation in Europe.

Another out-of-town visitor with whom we enjoyed chatting was the charming Mrs. Dale Dronberger, the former Jane Tarver. Mrs. Dronberger and her two children visited here all last week with relatives. The Dronbergers make their home in Hutchinson, Kansas.

From Hollywood, Calif., comes this press release: Memphis, Texas, Meets Memphis, Tennessee—when Mardian (Margaret Ann to us) Massey was invited to a "Welcome Back to Hollywood" beach party for Elvis Presley—from Memphis, Tennessee. The party, given by Yvonne Lime—Elvis' frequent date, and Jimmy Pickford—Mardian's date, was rained out, the group wound up eating hot dogs in Elvis' plush hotel suite in the Beverly Wilshire, Beverly Hills. Presley's comment when he learned that Mardian was from

Estelline WMU Features Mother, Daughter Banquet

The W. M. U. of the Estelline Baptist Church sponsored a Mother-Daughter Banquet for the Junior G. A. on Friday evening, May 10, in the home of the counselor, Mrs. Albert Bailey.

The table decorations and place cards carried out a theme of "Home." The invocation was given by Mrs. Bailey. Nancy Mothershed gave the welcome to the mothers. As each daughter introduced her mother, she pinned a carnation corsage on her mother. Mrs. Frank Cooper made the response for the mothers. Pauline Buchanan played as a piano solo "Home Over There." Janie Buchanan read a poem. The girls sang "M-O-T-H-E-R."

The menu included fried chicken, gravy, potato salad, fruit salad, rolls, tea, and ice cream. Attending were: Mrs. Allan Matthews and Yvonne, Mrs. Rabb Holland and Sarah, Mrs. Frank Cooper and Jill, Mrs. Paul Buchanan and Janie, Mrs. Glen Bowman and Linda, Mrs. Frankie Longbine and Wanda, Mrs. Bill Collins and Jo Carroll, Mrs. Joe Mothershed and Nancy and Susan, Mrs. Albert Bailey and Mrs. George McMinn.

Estelline Seniors Entertained With Sock Hop Friday

Mrs. Joe Bob Nivens, in her spacious home in Estelline, entertained the Estelline Senior Class with a "Sock Hop" after the senior play on Friday evening, May 3. The refreshment table held assorted meats, cheese, crackers, cookies and cokes.

Seniors and guests attending were: Karen Eddins, Laquetta Wade, Evelyn Hudlow, Janet Long, Ruth Ann Jackson, Guyula Caulfield, Inojean Freeze, and Helen Shackelford; Jimmie Dunn, James Huffmaster, Keith Rogers, Ronald Crump, Ronnie Burl Bruce, Hugh Wayne Lang, Billie Bob Weatherly, O. F. Goldsmith, Burton Lathram, Daves Contreras, and Don Ferrel.

Memphis, too—but not Tennessee—as "well, they say Texas has everything—and I guess it must!"

Mrs. Zettie Dennis Baker, who is well known in this area for her china decoration, has recently had articles and designs published in "The China Decorator" of California. Kitty Hardiff of Detroit, Mich., well known throughout the U. S. for her work in this field, has congratulated Mrs. Baker on the uniqueness and originality of her work and has requested that she submit articles and designs to Arts and Crafts of Detroit.

Congratulations are in order to two Memphis club women, Mrs. Mrs. D. L. C. Kinard, who was elected state parliamentarian at the state convention of Texas Federation of Women's Clubs held recently in Waco . . . and Mrs. R. S. Greene who was awarded first place in the fine arts and drama department for her work as a playwright.

Gerry Kennedy Complimented At Soft Drink Party

Gerry Kennedy, who will graduate from the eighth grade into high school on May 16, was honored at a soft-drink party given by Mrs. J. A. Ballard at her home in Estelline on Monday afternoon, May 13.

The refreshment table was attractively arranged with a center piece of orchid irises. Cocktail napkins in matching shade and frosted line punch made a colorful setting. On the table were also cookies, potato chips, and Fritos. Mrs. Ballard presented the honoree with nylon lingerie.

Attending were Paula Adams, Jo Cooper, Donna Eddins, Sandra Wood, Wanda Jouett, and Gerry Kennedy.

'Burger Party' Fetes Estelline Senior Class

Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Wood of Estelline entertained the senior class following the presentation of the senior play at the second performance on May 2.

Mr. Wood cooked the burgers and weiners in the barbecue nook of his yard.

Attending were W. M. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Wood and family, Gene Nelson, Evelyn Hudlow, Karen Eddins, Willie Mae Ward, Laquetta Wade, Ronnie Bruce, Ronald Crump, James Huffmaster, Keith Rogers, Bennie Nelson and Linda Walker.

rious species, the soil conservation office here has an extensive collection on display at their office. However, we couldn't guarantee it would make the grasses and weeds easier to hoe by knowing the names.

Remember that weed which was giving us so much trouble two or three weeks ago by simply covering our place as well as most other yards around town? Through the courtesy of Mr. Swindell and his scientific research, we can now tell you the weed is called Sisymbrium Altissimum, which does not mean very much to most of us. It is commonly called Jim Hill Mustard, Tumbling Mustard, or Tall Hedge Mustard.

This weed grows in fields, yards, gardens and waste places from Texas to Canada and from Michigan to Idaho. The stems often break off at maturity, causing the plant to be blown about by the wind. It is a cool season weed, reproducing by seed each when moisture is favorable. It is a tap-rooted plant.

Now we have the facts which we pass on to you . . . but knowing that most of you have met this weed face to face more than once this year, we deem the description won't be necessary.

Occasionally we have requests that we make mention of some worthwhile work or deed. This week it was Mrs. E. C. Rice, who came by our office to ask that we give a word of praise to the Texas Highway Department for the good work the men are doing in flooded areas. The Rices made a trip down-state recently, and were stranded in the flood. "It seemed that every time we got into trouble, along came a highway employee to help us out," Mrs. Rice said.

By Walter Rogers
Congressman, 18th District

Administration Attempts Advance Veto Gas Bill

The bill commenced this morning on the new Harris bill, the one that was passed by Congress last year and sent to the White House, was vetoed by President. You will also recall that the bill was a good one that was needed, but it was vetoed because of pressure on the part of some of the members of the legislation. I thought then, and think now, that a pretty lame excuse for vetoing hundreds of small producers and land owners, and foremen under the dictates and orders of a centralized federal government in Washington. Nevertheless, the veto stuck, and the small producers and land owners were under the boot heel of federal bureaucracy.

rously opposed to the philosophy of federal price control of a commodity, that it was basically opposed to concentration of power in the national capital and against centralized government. Taking the Administration at its word, many people bought what has turned out to be a "pig in a poke." The gas bill that is before us is not the gas bill that was passed last year and which Administration indicated it favored. The new gas bill, supposedly agreed to by the Administration, is a limited federal control bill. In other words, the Administration took its position that it had changed its philosophy about federal domination and was willing to accept centralization of government and concentration of power in a federal bureau with certain limitations. Those of us who have staunchly defended the sovereign rights of the states through the years and have vigorously opposed the continuing encroachment of federal bureaucracy, looked upon the bill with many misgivings. We were not consulted or conferred with in the preparation of the measure nor were we given opportunity to present proposals in keeping with our fundamental principles concerning federal pre-emption of all the rights of the people. However, we did realize we would have an opportunity to present clarifying and corrective amendments to provide safeguards under the circumstances. We proceeded with the hearings in good faith.

It was the first witness who appeared before the Committee who dropped the bombshell. The witness was Mr. Charles Kendall, a career employee of the Office of Defense Mobilization (ODM). This agency is an arm of the White House. Mr. Kendall appeared as a witness for ODM and the Bureau of the Budget—another arm of the White House; in fact, the right arm. It had been expected he would announce the position of the Administration in support of the legislation which had been prepared and drafted after consultation with, and full understanding of, Administration forces. He testified that the Administration was in support of the legislation only upon the condition that it be amended in two respects. It was this condition that constituted the bombshell, because the two amendments insisted upon by the Administration, with the other terms of the bill as written, would actually leave the small producers and landowners in almost the identical position in which they were placed by the Supreme Court, if not worse. In other words, these small producers and landowners would be under the absolute domination and control of a bureau of the federal government.

I must confess that the action of the Administration was not a great surprise to me, because it is in keeping with what has been done on several other occasions. The "powers that be" are daily preaching the Constitution of the United States, the sovereign rights of the states, opposition to centralized government, cutting down on federal bureaus and federal spending, reduction of powers in federal agencies, and the return of the rights to the several states. Yet almost every action and practice engaged in by the Administration powers has been contradictory to the philosophies they have advertised. Their position on the gas bill is no different from the position they have taken in many labor matters, in civil rights matters, in numerous tax matters, as well as their support of the doctrine of pre-emption that permits the federal government to actually take over any governmental field it enters.

The developments concerning the gas bill simply amount to this: If the Administration can force the adoption of its proposed amendments, the measure will, in effect, set up a basic governmental principal of federal price control and physical control of a commodity. Once such a conception is underwritten by the Congress of the United States of America, there is nothing to prevent its spread from gas to milk, to shoes, to bread, or to any other commodity in which the people, under the Constitution, have the basic right of private property ownership. There is deep suspicion that some of the political advisers of this Administration have conceived the idea that by this approach the bill will be made so unpalatable it will be defeated, and that it will not be necessary for the President to stand on the subject and either sign or veto the gas bill. If this is the play, it amounts to an advance veto by the Administration's political advisers.

TRADING'S TERRIFIC RIGHT NOW!

IT'S THE LAW in Texas

General Robert and You Whether it's the nomination of a presidential candidate at one of the national political conventions...

You have probably heard of "Robert's Rules of Order" which was published in 1876. General Henry M. Robert ordered only 4,000 of his original edition...

Actually the rules for conducting a meeting go back to the early days of the English Parliament, although General Robert based his upon the rules and practices of the U. S. Congress.

Roberts Rules come close to being "law of the land." They are given added status by the fact that the charter, constitution, or by-laws of almost every organization you can name...

All this means, in effect, that if a serious question arises over the legality of action taken by an organization, a court might have to consider General Robert's rules with the same care as it does the law to determine whether the action in question was proper.

If you take an active part in church, school, civic or fraternal organizations, some knowledge of Robert's Rules is important. At our lodge meeting, for example, things go much smoother if both the chairman and members on the floor follow Robert and stick to the business at hand.

There are many simple guides to Robert that will help, and unless you are chairman of a large or important meeting it probably is not necessary to know all the details in the whole book.

Now we move to adjourn until next week—a motion which General Robert says takes precedence over everything else.

Jury Service is Citizens Duty One of these days—perhaps soon—you may get a notice telling you to report for jury duty—and to "fail not."

Some people try to get out of jury service. It may be inconvenient or unpleasant. Yet, when you are put on a jury you should think of this as a chance to help make good one of the promises of our Constitution—trial by jury.

Under our law no one's life, liberty, or property can be taken without due process of law.

Trial by jury is our basic right. All who seek their day in court should have a fair hearing. They

LETTERS From The People

Dear Old Democrat:

Will you please notify my neighbors and friends of Lakeview or Hall Co. where I am and why. They never know where I am. Think I am a gad-a-bout. But I am not. I just go where and when I am called.

The heavy rains held off just long enough to carry out the entire Pageant. The black clouds, thunder and lightning in the background made it so realistic. Wish every one could have seen it.

I meant to go home weekend after Easter, but on Wed. p. m. about 6 o'clock I had a call from my daughter, Mrs. Ben N. Smith, here in Amarillo, asking me to come at once.

Dale Dronberger and his mother, Mrs. Dronberger, of Hutchinson, Kan., were Memphis visitors over the weekend. Mrs. Dronberger and children, who had visited here for the past week with relatives, accompanied them home on Sunday.

Thanks to everyone for the cards, letters, prayers and inquiries. Elsie Gidden, I hope you have not been trying to contact me. I had no cards and no time to write. Hope to see all of you before long.

Wishing the best of everything, especially health, to everyone.

SPORTS AFIELD
By Ted Kesting

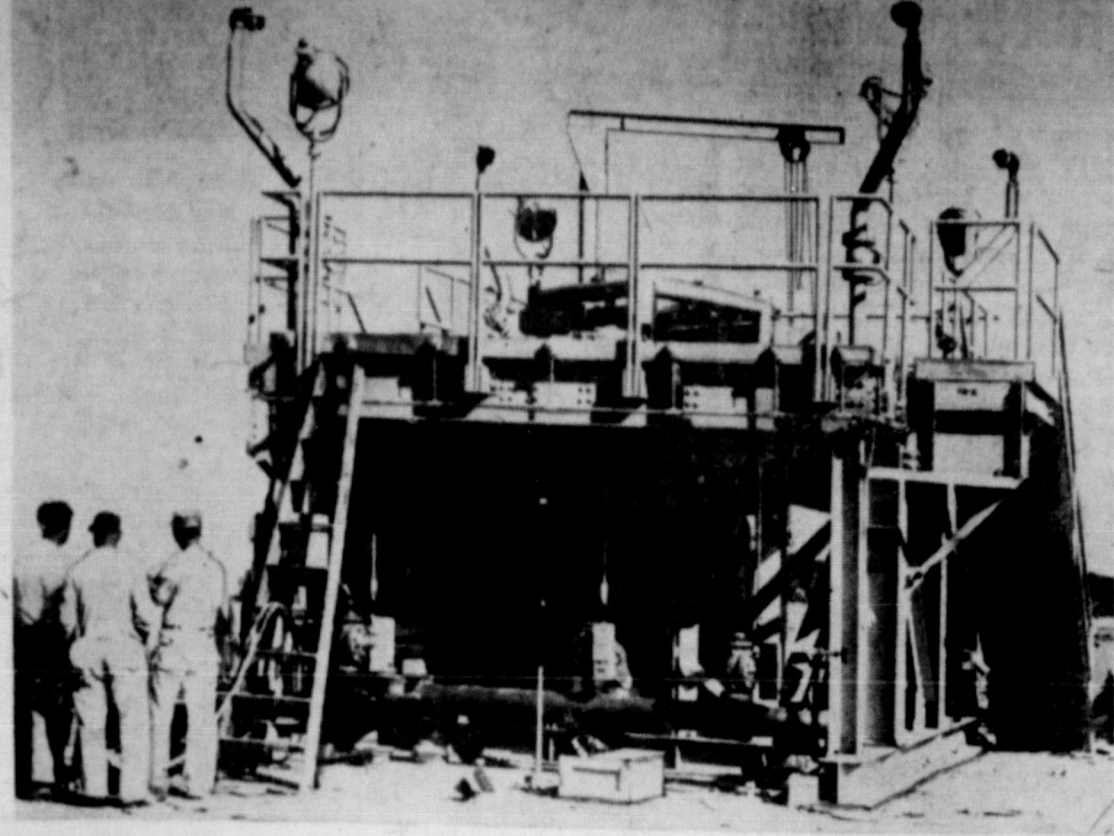

Many anglers take it for granted that a fish sees a lure the same way a man does. However, Jason Lucas, Angling Editor of SPORTS AFIELD, points out that knowing how a fish actually does see can change the average fisherman both in his technique and money.

First, can a bass recognize color? It has long been known that cats, horses and most other mammals are totally color blind. Fish are even more primitive in their vision so it would seem unlikely that they could have color vision similar to man's. Yet the fact remains that game fish can distinguish colors, Lucas points out. Experiments which attempted to establish this fact were questioned by the experts. For example, if a fish could learn to tell the difference between red and green objects placed under water, it might be said that he was seeing them in various shades of gray. Even the possibility that the fish could distinguish a difference in the smell of the paint was not ruled out.

Later researchers took even greater pains to avoid any misleading conclusions. For instance, one often uses several glass tubes in which through one of these he pours red liquid, through another blue and through a third, blue. When the bass touched the red he gives a mild shock, but nothing from the others. He soon learns to avoid the red. When the color was switched from tube to tube, the bass continued to avoid red. He wasn't fooled by different shades, either, yet it was proven that he could distinguish between shades.

However, Lucas states, living creatures, fish see a different spectrum than man. Colors that cannot be seen by men can be seen by fish. Lucas likens this to the response of a dog to a "silent" whistle.

Many such things have been discovered about how a fish sees things, but what does it all mean to the angler? Well, perhaps different things to different anglers. Lucas has some theories of his own. He says that a large percentage of the time he gets most of his bass by using darker lures in deep water and lighter, white with a dash of red, up top.

But, he admits, we may be able to determine how a bass sees things, but never how he looks on matters.

TAX TIPS

from the office of James Z. Pearce, Amarillo, Texas

Tax education has become a very common high school subject along with the three R's, according to James Z. Pearce, Administrative officer of the Tmarillo office.

Memphis should be proud of the fine Tax Education Program being carried out at Memphis High School. J. W. McCreary, principal of the Memphis High School, and Mrs. W. C. Davis, teacher of the High School Training Program, are to be congratulated on the very fine job they are doing with the 28 students enrolled in the tax course here.

There are approximately 1000 teachers teaching 26,000 high school students in the North Texas district of internal revenue Service who are participating in this program. On a nation-wide basis there are 41,000 teachers presenting the course to approximately 3,000,000 students, including 15,000 teachers presenting the farm course to 500,000 students. Students and teachers alike find the course interesting and profitable to them in preparing the students' own tax return and in helping Dad to prepare his own tax return, according to Pearce, administrative officer. The Tax Education Program gives practical illustration to many of the other things learned in the regular high school courses. The course demonstrates the growth of Joe Johnson from his high school days through the young family man to the mature corporation executive and it teaches the high school students to solve Joe's tax problems at all stages in life. Most Dads would do well to seek Juniors help after he has been through the tax course, according to McCreary, high school principal.

A New Era Is Born

Memphis citizens Tuesday night ushered in a new and greater future for the entire community. This was made manifest by the large number of persons who turned out to hear the industrial foundation plan discussed and explained at the Travis School Cafetorium Tuesday night.

A study of the surrounding counties will readily prove that a community cannot stand still. It must forever go forward or it will go backward. Throughout the years Memphis has always depended on area farmers to supply the money for the economic machine, with all of the businesses and employees merely trading their income back and forth.

The industrial foundation will be an organization seeking to bring a small manufacturing concern to Memphis. The concern will serve a two-fold purpose: first it will add money to the present economy to supplement the income derived from agriculture; and, second, it will offer employment to those persons who have been forced to discontinue farming due to mechanization and other factors.

A complete study of the problems involved in interesting a manufacturer was conducted by the Memphis Chamber of Commerce and Hall County Board of Development Industrial Committee during the past few months.

Directors of the organization will began work the latter part of this week asking persons and firms to underwrite a part of the $50,000 goal. Firms will not be asked to give the money now but to pledge an amount to be furnished at the time the money is needed to help a business establish here.

An example of this would be as follows: A manufacturer wants the foundation to construct a building costing $30,000. The foundation would collect approximately $10,000 from its members and then borrow the rest of the amount from a commercial firm.

Sometime within the near future each firm and individual in Memphis will be called upon to help in organizing this foundation. Pledge whatever amount you can—invest in the future of Memphis and watch your own firm grow.

Carton County Goes Wet
Joy and tears greeted news that Carson county had voted "wet" by 13 votes Wednesday, May 8. The unofficial tabulation read 973 for legal sale of all alcoholic beverages and 96$ against legal sale.

Last May the "drys" won by 22 votes, 971 to 949. Precincts of White Deer, Conway and Skellytown will remain dry since these voting precincts were dry before the vote last May and the Attorney General has ruled that the "only way for these precincts to change their present status is by pricent vote."

An unofficial check of statutes indicates that Carson county can be proclaimed wet 30 days after the official canvas of the election is made.

Budget Cuts
Sen. Lyndon Johnson is promising, or predicting he calls it, a budget cut this year. "There will be material cuts in the budget. We are going to try to make them material enough to justify relief from the heavy tax burden."

"Business men tell me their profits are down even though they are doing more business than they did last year. People on a salary tell me their bank accounts are lower, even though they have had no salary cuts. "Costs are up all along the line—the cost of living, the cost of money, the cost of doing business. We have prosperity in terms of gross income. But in terms of take-home pay and profits—the kind that puts the pork chops and potatoes on the table—the picture is far from bright."

"It is not surprising that there are such strong demands for economy in government. The recent tax bite was a heavy strain on our people," the senator says.

You'll remember that the President hoped that when the Congressmen got home during the Easter vacation, they would cool off on the budget cut business—but apparently that didn't happen. That must mean that most of the people are interested in cutting government expenditures and taxing. Let's hope so.

Haste Makes Waste
Somewhere we read that farm work will hit a new high in the high plains country the day it is dry enough for farmers to get in to their fields. This is a trite need to it is not: Farm accidents need to it is not: Farm accidents will increase unless all due precautions are taken. This means, among other things, do not try to cut corners to save time when working with machinery, gasoline, butane and electricity. To save ten minutes or 30 seconds you could lose a whole year's work and be in debt for a hospital bill.

—Floyd County Hesperian

Surpluses and Shortages
Chas. A. Guy in The Lubbock Avalanche: Two Federal officials recently warned that farmers may rather than cut it, in the years ahead in order to meet the nation's growing demands.

Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson said this that farmers will have to produce 40 percent more crops by 1975 with very little additional acreage.

We warned farmers to "pay heed" to American eating habits, in order to help achieve a more balanced and efficient agriculture.

Another warning was voiced by Donald A. Williams, administrator for the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, who sees a danger of the shrinking farmland.

"A balanced diet will be severely jeopardized in future years," he said, "unless high efforts are made to prevent our nation's farmlands from shrinking."

"In spite of temporary surpluses, the U. S. shall need every one of its wasted acres, to feed an estimated 220,000,000 in 1975.

Our farmlands are shrinking and the most optimistic view—under current conditions—is not pleasant to contemplate.

Across the nation, Williams pointed out, people are being pushed off farmland by reckless expansion programs, showing complete disregard by building on lands that have produced valuable foodstuffs, rather than in infertile acres. Last year, for example, nearly 1,250,000 acres of the very best farmlands "were buried under steel and concrete of expansion developments," he declared.

If this situation continues, he contends, food will become scarce and prices will go so high that the average family will have very little left to spend for other necessities, to say nothing of luxuries.

While 1975 is still quite a way off, it is not too early to begin thinking about these things. By planning ahead, perhaps the predicted food shortage can be averted and the nation's economy kept in balance. At least, the people of the U. S. can't say they haven't been warned.

TRAVIS NEWS

The children of Mrs. King's second grade division of Travis Elementary School entertained their mothers in a special Mothers' Day program Friday afternoon in the school cafeteria. Zee Yarbrough announced the program which consisted of rhythms, songs, dances, and the dramatization of a story. Vivian Maddox assisted at the piano for the musical selection. The dances used on the program were performed by pupils of Miss Mary Beth Adkins.

The rhythm band numbers, "Amaryllis," "Pop Goes the Weasel," and "Country Gardens," were directed by Donna Beckham. A modern version of School Days in dance and song was presented by Nina Glover and Tommy Bell assisted by the singing chorus. The entire group of children gave their own arrangement of their interpretation of the rhythm in "Lobby Loo." The story of Danny's Mother's Day Gift was dramatized by the following children: Jimmy Grice as Danny; Susan Starlevant as Mrs. Hen; Dennis Brundige as Gray Goose; Jerry Jeffries as Billy Goat; Joe Williams as Black Sheep; Bobby Carroll as Brown Cow; Kay Miller as Mr. Bear, and Zee Yarbrough as Mother.

"Little White Lies," and the Mexican Hat Dance as she, Donna Beckham, and Vicki Jones portrayed the falling rain, the pronounced rhythm, and the spirit of Mexico in these numbers. John Nixon, Trudy Allison, Laura Sue Moss, Nina Glover, Janet Coleman and Tommy Bell assisted in the first dance. The songs, "My Mother" and "Mother's Day" were led by John Nixon after which the guests attended an art exhibit in the regular class room. Each mother was presented with a flower by her child to which was attached a personal note of love and appreciation for her.

Mrs. Gurley's fourth grade room had three days in a row of perfect attendance last week. This is very unusual because so many children have been out because of illness.

Twenty-five children made 100 in spelling this week.

The students are eager for the Junior Olympics.

Since Sunday was Mother's Day, pictures were made for the students in art Friday afternoon.

Soon after school started in September, the fifth grade students became interested in the library books which they found in the fifth grade library and also in the public library. A reading circle was formed and Suetta Lemmon was appointed librarian.

Each Friday reports were given by those who had finished books and these were then neatly writ-

Twenty-one first grade children and their teacher, Mrs. Morris, went for a spring walk on Tuesday. They saw many kinds of flowers and brought a collection of wild flowers back to their room for further study.

While visiting in the home of their teacher, the group watched a television program, "The Romper Room." Refreshments of candy and drinks were served, and a short social period was enjoyed by all.

Mr. and Mrs. Russel Weston of Phillips and Mr. and Mrs. William T. Frazer of Pampa were guests in the D. M. Jarrel home in the Swearingen community over the weekend. On Sunday afternoon the group visited here with Mrs. Ora Denny and Mrs. Gladys Power.

Estelline WMU Entertained In Kennedy Home

Mrs. E. F. Kennedy entertained the Baptist W. M. U. of Estelline at her home on Monday afternoon, May 13.

Reverend Joe A. Allison opened the meeting with prayer. Mrs. Kennedy gave a devotional, "The Pearl of Great Price" and read the 138th Psalm. Then a program of recorded sacred music featuring Beverley Shea, who sings with Billy Graham, was enjoyed. Mrs. Albert Bailey discussed "Mary, the Mother of Our Lord."

The refreshment table was lace covered with a bouquet of white chrysanthemums as a center piece. Iced punch and cookies were served from crystal appointments. The Sunbeam Band also came during the refreshment hour. Nineteen ladies, the pastor, and the Sunbeam Band were present.

Game and Fish Commission Authorizes Aid for Quail, Fish, Dove Given

...momentum for bobwhite and white-winged dove and projects was authorized by Game and Fish Commission in Austin.

Executive secretary... to make an immediate survey of fresh water fish... to determine whether... propagation facilities... to meet restocking... incidental to an extensive water impoundment...

...connection, the commission formally accepted a gift... Federal fish hatchery... and leased a tract... adjacent to the hatchery... to protect the... brood stock.

...Henry LeBlanc... Arthur, said the farm... demonstrated, through... educational... the experiment is just... of none of the hatchery quail survived", said LeBlanc, "we would have done a job in restoring habitat—after all, that's the real goal we are after." Distribution of farm-produced bobwhites is strictly contingent on applicants' meeting rigid habitat regulations.

W. J. Cutbirth, assistant executive secretary, who is in direct charge of the quail farm, reported that for the first year's operation, curtailed by a late start, 210 qualified applicants in 93 counties received 17,096 quail for release on 508,471 acres of approved habitat. Cutbirth urged interested Texans to rush their applications for 1957 farm quail and to get their land in shape immediately.

Commissioner Howard Carney of Atlanta, urged special informational efforts to notify Texans about quail restocking possibilities. He said in his East Texas region "thousands of acres are being retired from farming for the new soil bank program which will be available for ideal wildlife habitat."

The Commission moved to augment its new whitewing dove restoration program in deep South Texas where approximately 200 acres in Cameron County recently were acquired as permanent

Rough Fish Booming In Possum Kingdom, Fish Commission Reports

Problems in Modern fisheries management are pointed up in a new study showing that rough fish now dominate all species in sprawling Possum Kingdom Lake, according to the Chief Aquatic Biologist Marion Toole of the Game and Fish Commission.

Field men have recommended that tighter control of the undesirable fish in that popular lake is vital to better sports fishing and found that gizzard shad are particularly numerous.

This prolific, inedible species has been the target of major fresh water lake renovation projects throughout the state. Last big lakes to be treated were Inks Lake of the Highland Lakes chain in Central Texas; Lake Walk near Del Rio on the Mexican Border, and Diversion Lake of the Wichita Falls chain of lakes in Northwest Texas.

Texas has pioneered in some phases of the rough fish control technique and the commission's long range fisheries program calls for elaborate use of this method to improve sports fishing, all subject to the funds made available.

Senior Aquatic Biologist Leonard Lamb, who directed Possum Kingdom study, recommended flatly:

- "The increase of rough fish in the catch, both by number and weight indicates a greater need for better rough fish control methods."
- "The dominance of gizzard shad is more pronounced in each succeeding segment. This species as the term has become known to Commission technicians, comprises use of a chemical compound in lake waters. This concoction kills the shad which are unusually sensitive to this treatment while sparing all but a comparatively few of the assorted game fish.

Full cooling capacity for hot torrid days to a soft evening whisper for moderate days or late evening in at the user's command with fingertip control of the special two-speed motor on all built-in coolers with a "2" following model number. Depending upon temperature conditions, with two-speed motors, the cooling can be varied to suit the personal desire and requirements of the individual user and provide the last word in modern comfort.

The use of two-speed motors will increase the use of cooling equipment as much as 50%, so there are many days when full capacity of the cooler is not required and, unless the cooler is equipped with a two-speed motor, the cooler is turned off and the users are deprived of many hours of comfort.

Be sure and ask us to show you the advantages of the two-speed motor.

Bill To Study Red River Pollution Passes House

State Representative Will Ehrle notified The Democrat by tele- Wednesday that the House of Representatives had passed the bill which authorizes the Board of Water Engineers to study the salt pollution problem on the tributaries of the upper Red River.

A similar bill to this was introduced in the Senate earlier during this session by Sen. Andy Rogers of Childress.

Proponents for the bills stated that some of the largest lakes in Texas are rapidly becoming worthless because of salt and gypsum concentration.

"We have already spent hundreds of millions of dollars in the facilities, and we are getting ready to spend many more millions of dollars without a full and adequate knowledge of what we are doing," Sen. Rogers said several weeks ago.

The purpose of the two bills (HBS64 and SB328) is to ascertain if by use of modern engineering methods that the salt springs, gypsum beds and other pollution sources can be effectively isolated and sealed off from the usable streams.

An urgent call for funds to aid the community of Silverton was made this afternoon by H. J. Howell, chairman of the Hall County chapter of the American Red Cross.

needed the foundation. He told of recent conferences with industrial departments of metropolitan banks. At these sessions, it was suggested time and again that an industrial foundation would be the best way to deal with a prospective manufacturer.

The foundation here will not be a give-away organization, Tucker said, but has been organized to foster, protect and promote the growth of an industry in Memphis. He stated that the main purpose of the foundation will be to give a manufacturer one group of men with which to deal. The directors of the foundation will know what the community can or cannot do in assisting industrial plants to locate here.

He also explained that the foundation will be supported by money pledged by individuals. This money will not be called for until there is an actual need for it, and it will be used to construct a suitable building or to assist a manufacturer in some other respect.

"The foundation will operate under a charter from the State of Texas," Tucker stated, "and none of its funds can be used for advertising, traveling expenses, or other expenses of that type."

Dr. David Aronofsky, another member of the industrial committee, explained to those present what had been already accomplished by the work of the foundation in relation to securing an industrial site. He announced that the Hall County Commissioners Court voted this week to lease a large block of ground in the southeast part of the city to the foundation. This land, known as the old fair grounds, is an almost ideal location for a manufacturing concern.

Following Dr. Aronofsky, Mayor O. L. Helm stated that the City Council, in a recent meeting, voted unanimously to extend the sewer system and good roads to the block of land should development of the area take place.

J. Claude Wells explained to the group what industry had meant to towns in Mississippi, Tennessee and Georgia where he had visited several times.

He stated that the population of Hall County had dropped from 17,000 to 10,000 over the years since he had resided here; and that the only way to get many of these persons back was to have a place where they could work and earn a living.

A guest speaker on the program was Bill Sayles of the area development department of West Texas Utilities Company. Sayles explained that area development should improve the economy of the town and area, resulting in an increased standard of living of all the citizens.

He continued by outlining the following seven-point program for developing an area:

1. Improvement and development of the existing agriculture in the area.

2. Complete development and utilization of natural resources such as minerals, clays, sand and gravel, etc.

3. Further development of the physical resources such as water, highways, recreational facilities, tourist trade, and anything "your geographical position has to offer to the ultimate end you are working towards."

4. Development of industries and payrolls to balance the economic structure of the town. "First, take good care of the existing industries and nurture them well. Add additional industry to complete the existing ones and round out a well-balanced industrial picture. Don't put all your eggs in one basket," he said.

5. The complete utilization of manpower—this includes the existing manpower and attracting new people to the city. "Give special attention to providing jobs for your young people," he stated.

6. Retail trade development for present business establishments, and attract others necessary to round out the services and products needed by citizens.

7. Improvement of community facilities such as schools, water system, streets, recreational programs and others.

Sayles concluded by asking "Whose job is it to do all these things? If everyone is to benefit from this community development program, then everyone should enter into this program with their time, talents, efforts and money."

Coffee and doughnuts were served following the speeches.

Texas To Vote On Advertising Its Attractions

The Legislature in Austin last week passed a bill which calls for a constitutional amendment election to see if Texans want their state advertised.

The amendment, if approved, would wipe out a provision written into the constitution in 1876 which was aimed at barring carpet baggers from the state.

As the law now stands the state cannot advertise its many and varied attractions. Increased tourist travel from outside the state would mean millions of dollars each year, surveys have indicated.
