Catholic Church To Be Started In Memphis

The Catholic Bishop of the Amarillo diocese, John A. Markovsky, visited in Memphis last Sunday seeking a location for a church here.

The establishing of a Catholic church here has been considered for some time and the church group estimates that, at some times during the fall months, there are as many as 500 Catholic members in the Memphis area.

In the past these people have been driving to Childress, Clarendon, Wellington, or Silvertown to attend church.

Anyone with a building or location for sale or rent was asked to write the bishop in Amarillo.

Plans Advanced For Paving One Runway at Airport Here

Work Progressing Fast on Cotton Classing Office

Work was progressing at a fast pace this week on the remodeling of a building here for a cotton classing office.

Carpenters had constructed most of the inside walls and were sealing up the sheetrock Thursday. However, there still remains some other small rooms in the back of the building which must be completed.

Wiring and installation of lights is about one-third completed and the plumbing has gotten off to a good start, according to contractors. Most of the windows in the building are being bricked up to seal out dirt.

Installation of air conditioning and humidification equipment will begin as soon as the rooms have been completed far enough.

L. B. Robertson is in charge of the plumbing on the job and Robert Breedlove air conditioning. L. J. Kennon is in charge of construction and Arthur Gidden electrical work.

The office is owned by the Rolling Plains Cotton Producers, Inc. and office personnel will be furnished by the Department of Agriculture during the fall when grading of cotton is underway.

Moore is an outstanding speaker, Pickard said, and has held numerous meetings in the section of the country.

Subjects for the various nights of the meeting are as follows: Monday, "Who is the Authority in Christianity"; Tuesday, "The Non-Essential Command"; Wednesday, "Who Makes the Difference"; Thursday, "Why We Exist As A Church"; Friday, "How Can I Know I Am a Member of the New Testament Church"; Saturday, "Remember Thy Creator in the Days of Thy Youth," a lesson especially for teenagers; Sunday, "A Question With Two Answers." The subjects to be discussed in the morning services will deal with "Christian Virtues."

Pavement of one runway at the Memphis Airport will be completed late this summer if plans of the Memphis City Council materialize.

According to an announcement this week by Alderman Ed Foxhall, cooperation by business firms, officials and individuals will make it possible to get the improvement. Due to the huge cost of getting gravel hauled, a volunteer program has been worked out.

Trucks belonging to the City of Memphis and the county will be joined by those privately owned. The fleet will soon start hauling the base material for one runway from the gravel pit on Paul Montgomery's ranch. Foxhall stated that the Memphis Compress Company and Western Cottonoil Company were making available their dump trucks for the project.

"We will need every available truck to take care of this important and expensive task," Foxhall added. "If more individuals will cooperate, the 1,000 square yards of gravel can be hauled to the airport without undue delay when the work starts."

Foxhall is in charge of the airport committee of the City Council, which decided recently to pave the runway when the contractor (Continued on Page Ten)

Plow Point Estimated To Be About 60 Years Old Found

A turning plow point, estimated to be about 60 years old, was found about three miles south of Plasko recently by C. B. Craighead.

The unusual thing about the plow is that it is made of cast iron. The design can be seen in the accompanying picture. There is no brand name on the plow and there is a crack along the center of the ridge.

Craighead stated that he found the plow on an old turn-row and theorized that it was probably thrown there after it was cracked.

For sometime now Craighead has been plowing across the turning row to level it down even with the rest of the field. The land it was found on is known at the old Boon section.

Local implement and hardware dealers could remember little about cast iron plows and more information on the subject would be welcomed by The Democrat.

One county resident stated that the plows were sharpened by chipping off the edge with a hammer. In that day power grinders were not available and the dull edge of the plow was hit with a hammer to chip it, much in the same fashion as arrow heads are made from stone.

Much of the land broken out in Hall County in the early days was probably turned with a plow of this type. It is believed to be one of the walking type and was probably pulled by from one to four mules, depending on the size of the plow, etc.

Report From Washington

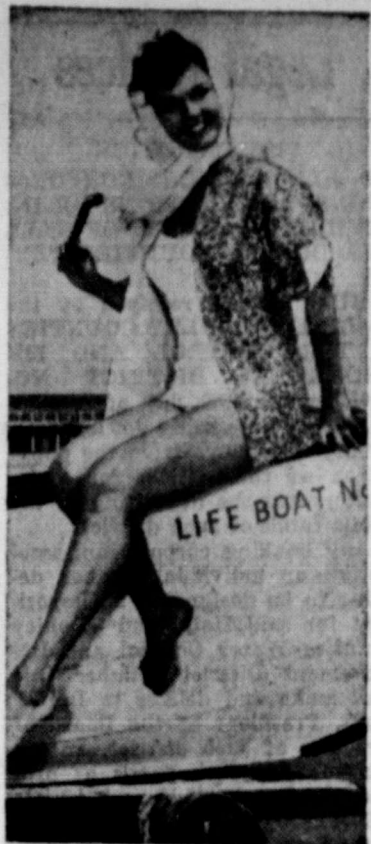

By WALTER ROGERS
Representative, 18th
Congressional District

The Labor Issue
The big question in this country is "what kind of labor bill will Congress pass?" The Senate already adopted its version. It has argued the Senate will not pass it, because it is not strong enough, because it does not include the McClellan amendments. On the other hand, being argued in many quarters that the Senate Bill is much stronger than the House Bill recently reported. The House Bill probably will be the subject of debate in the Congress by the time we receive this letter or shortly thereafter. It is contemplated that several substitutes may be offered to take the place of the House Bill. Whether or not any of these will be adopted is highly conjectural, but it can be expected that there will be many amendments to the measure. What its final form will be, no one knows. But, when it is completed the contest between the House and the Senate will be in reconciling the differences between the two bills.

It is generally conceded that the American public demands the passage of legislation effectively prohibiting racketeering and gangsterism in the unions. This is a primary requirement by the people of this country, and rightfully so. The racketeering and gangsterism which has been exposed should never have been permitted in the first place. A great number of the acts alleged to have been committed in carrying on violence by many of these groups constituted violations of the criminal statutes of the states in which these acts occurred. I am at a loss to understand why these violators were not prosecuted and sent to prison where they belong. Ex-convicts, racketeers, gangsters and every other kind of hoodlums, who have weaseled their way into these organizations, will surely destroy them unless they are removed. It is entirely unfair to the honest, sincere, law-abiding, laboring people of this nation to permit these practices to continue. They bring honest union officials into disrepute and open the door to the corruption of whole communities. If these practices are to be allowed to continue in labor unions, we must expect they will breed the same kind of activities in all segments of the economy and completely destroy the democratic processes upon which we stand. A corporation, a labor union, or an individual does not and should not have the right or the power to circumvent the Constitution and the laws of this country to its own benefit. Yet, we see attempts every day to do just that.

It is my hope that, in the final analysis, the Congress will adopt a labor reform bill which will be a step toward the end of the hearts of all thugs and cut-throats,

Soil Conservation News

The Great Plains Conservation Program in the Hall County Soil Conservation District is progressing steadily, with new application for assistance at a pleasing rate. The supervisors of the District are well pleased at the boost that the Great Plains Conservation Program has given the conservation activities within the District.

Under GPCP the farmers and ranchers have planned to apply complete conservation programs on their farms or ranches. Several of them have already applied a large percentage of the practice that they had planned in their GPCP plans.

Some of the conservation measures that have been applied are: wells for livestock water, cross fencing, brush control (both grubbing and spraying), overseeding of poor condition range land, deferred grazing, seeding of a cover in which to seed grass next year, waterway construction, terracing, diversion terrace construction, underground irrigation pipelines, and a concrete drop structure. Other practices available through GPCP are: field and contour strip-cropping, farmstead windbreaks, erosion control structures, spreader terraces, land leveling, stock tanks, pipelines for livestock water.

The Great Plains Conservation Program was initiated to encourage and assist the farmers and ranchers in the Great Plains area of the United States to carry out complete conservation programs on their land. It was developed for this area due to the hazardous climatic conditions of the area. With proper conservation on the land, there should never be another period such as the "Dust Bowl" days.

The Great Plains Conservation Program, as well as other conservation programs such as the Agricultural Conservation Program, were developed as a means of reaching the objective of the Department of Agriculture. This objective is "The use of each acre of agricultural land within its capabilities and the treatment of each acre of agricultural land in accordance with its needs for protection and improvement."

The technicians of the Soil Conservation, assisting the Hall County Soil Conservation District, will be glad to discuss the Great Plains Conservation Program with any farmer or rancher who is interested in the program. They may contact the SCS by letter, telephone or personal visit.

By VERN SANFORD

Another woman has walked into a man's world and copped first place!

This time she is a cute little blonde with a pony tail that waves from shoulder to shoulder every time she tosses a fishing plug.

At Lake Belton on the last day of May she proved conclusively to man and bass that opening your big mouth can get you into trouble.

She hung 39 pounds of bass on her rod and reel. But more than that, she hung defeat on a bunch of men who'd been fishing Lake Belton for weeks and bragging about how they would take the tournament.

Perhaps there weren't a dozen persons in the tournament who ever heard of Elaine Vickers. She and her husband Vic operate Lake Point Lodges at Buchanan where "she fishes a little every day."

To say Elaine Vickers was a dark horse and not expected to win isn't exactly true. A couple of months ago Dave Hawk, last year's state champ, and L. A. Wilke, one of my fishing buddies, were talking about the possibilities among some of the hot-shot fishermen. They named them over one by one, discussing the strong and weak points of each.

They agreed that any one of three or four, who had been fishing the lake regularly, might cop the honors.

"Then there might be a dark horse," said Wilke.

"Dark horse!" Dave repeated. "Yep, I know a pony tail that can do it." He then said Elaine Vickers, in his opinion, possessed all the qualities of a great fisherman.

"She's better than her husband, but together they make a wonderful pair," he said. "Elaine is the best caster, Vic is a good boatman. If they enter the tournament they'll be sure to take the husband-wife trophy, and I had just about as soon bet on her win."

ning first place."

Dave had watched Elaine fish a great deal. In fact, he had done some side-line coaching even before she had thought of entering the tournament.

Dave had met Vic and Elaine rather accidentally. He was talking with Game Warden Flannigan about a good spot to launch his boat one day when we planned a picture taking trip to the lake. The Warden sent him to the Lake Point Lodges and it was then that he met the woman who was not only to succeed him as top fisherman, but also was to cop the perpetual trophy he gave this year in the State Bass Tournament.

This tournament is sponsored on some Texas lake each year by the Waco Herald-Tribune.

Last year the tournament was held on the Highland Lakes and Hawk was the winner. Elaine was present during the tournament, but wasn't a contestant.

The year before, the tournament was held at Lake Whitney. Ray Creel was the winner.

Those three names — Creel, Hawk and Vickers — now appear on this perpetual trophy which is nearly four feet high.

Vic and Elaine formerly worked in the composing room of the Abilene Reporter-News. When they were married in 1951, they honeymooned on Lake Buchanan at the very camp they now own.

"I fished with a cane pole and rowed my boat on that trip," she now recounts. Today she tosses her lures with a 5 1/2 foot Ted Williams rod, equipped with a Shakespeare Sportcast reel. She uses a Silvertrout electric motor to move her boat around the lake.

Incidentally, she says winning the tournament will not affect her fishing habits. She still thinks Lake Buchanan is the best place in Texas to fish.

Elaine is a hard working fisherman. She has good eyes and has developed a strong casting arm. She has good control, so she has no trouble in using a fast reel and light lures.

She uses a lure to fit the occasion. For the last several months she's been using Extractors, Champs and jigs and plastic eels. Now she has switched over to some Hula Poppers and similar top-water lures.

Elaine believes any woman can become a proficient fisherman if she likes fishing. She can't understand why anyone wouldn't like fishing, but she also recognizes that to fish successfully it is best to have an interest in it.

The Vickers live at Lake Point Lodges, just west of Buchanan Dam. They can literally fish out of their back door.

Catfishing is a democratic outdoor sport.

A catfish doesn't care whether you use a drop line, trotline, cane pole or casting rod, just so there is something to eat at the end of the line. And he doesn't care a fin-wiggle what that something is.

But don't get the idea that Old Whiskers is a dumb fish. He isn't. It takes experience to become a good catfisherman. It helps too, if you know something about the catfish's eating and living habits.

For instance, the catfish is a bottom feeder. So, if you want to land a cat, let your bait sink down near where he is.

Also it's good to know the peculiarities of the various species of catfish. So let's divide the catfish tribe into three broad families and discuss how best to take each of the species.

CHANNEL CAT: Probably the most sporting of the catfish.

The channel cat, however, is no more choosy a feeder than his cousins. He is available to fishermen using the usual catfish bait. This includes insects, crayfish, worms, frogs, various fishes such as perch, minnows, etc. Also stink bait, commercially prepared, or made from the most evil smelling concoction you can invent.

Here's a popular stink bait formula: Place cut-up shad or sunfish in a jar of water and forget about it until it becomes nice and ripe. Mix this with some adhesive "body" such as dough or cotton. Then mold into balls and place on hook.

Channel cats generally are found around fast flowing water. However, many factors enter into their choice of lurking places. As an old-timer put it, "You gotta fish in the place where fish are at."

During the day, channel cats are more often found in deep water, near logs or underbrush.

Angling for this tasty meaty fish is an art in itself. Daylight fishing especially requires shrewd figuring on the fish's hiding place, whether you are casting or pole fishing.

On your rod or pole, use 30-lb. test line and be sure your rod or pole is stout. Attach a sinker just above a 1 1/2 inch hook for a weighted bait carried along the bottom appears more natural to a channel cat than bait hanging from a float.

BLUE CAT: The largest of the Texas catfish, with a maximum weight of 150 pounds. Blue cats are found all over Texas in various sub-species. Mostly they inhabit large lakes and streams. Usually they are taken by trotline fishermen using whole shad, sunfish, suckers, carp, or bait cut from these fishes. However, smaller blues often are caught with rod and reel, cane poles, and drop lines.

An average trotline has from 10 to 30 hooks, set 3 or 4 feet apart, attached to the main line by stagings, or leaders, each about 2 or 3 feet long. Where possible, stagings should be attached to the trotline by swivels, to prevent the fish from twisting off.

Use a 75-lb to 100-lb test for your main line, and also for the leaders or stagings. Weight your stagings and attach to each a 1 1/2 to 2 inch hook. Allow 10 or more feet free of staging at each end of the trotline.

Tie one end of the trotline to a tree or stake on shore. Tie the other end to a snag, rock, or stake, out to whatever distance you determine best for your particular body of water. Weight the main line in the middle with rocks or iron. Bait the hooks with your predetermined lure, then attach a turnkey bell to the shore end of the line.

Now all you have to do is sit back and wait for the ringing bell to tell you that there is a fish somewhere out yonder on your line.

YELLOW CAT: Also known as mud cat, flathead, etc. Maximum size over 100 pounds, sometimes over 5 feet in length. This catfish lives and feeds on the bottom, so set your trotline low to get results. Yellows hide under cutbanks, rocks, and hollow logs. Bait your hooks with 3 or 4 inch sunfish, or a good stink bait. Otherwise proceed as you do with blues, only be sure your stagings drag the bottom.

Catfishing takes savvy, just as do all other forms of fishing. But if you'll use these tips and plain "hoss sense", before long you'll be catching catfish as large as are caught by the old-timers in the next boat.

What Small Watersheds Offer Local People

The Small Watershed program provides for a new kind of project type approach to soil and water resource development use and conservation. The program differs from the old type public works undertaking in this field because it calls for local people to initiate and take full responsibility for any P. L. 655 project.

Flood prevention works carried out under Small Watershed projects fall into two broad brackets — land treatment and structural measures. Structural works might include, for example, improvement of channels to allow runoff to pass without damage, water retention dams and debris or sediment basins. On sloping land, such upland conservation measures as terracing, grass waterways, diversion ditches, seeding and forage management may be needed. Generally, the flood cure varies from watershed to watershed.

Structures and other flood prevention measures give only partial protection unless soil and water conservation measures are applied on every individual farm and ranch of the watershed.

Where economically justifiable large gullies and severely eroded land may be treated with land treatment works and structures. Waterways crossing two or more farms may be improved. Plans needed to keep the land tied down may require additional protection from fire.

Other flood prevention works may include shaping and planting waterways or drains serving more than one farm; lining channels and building diversions, check drop inlets, disilting basins, breaks, and jetties.

Another type of measure controls waterflow and sediment cause damage to groups of landowners, communities and recreation areas.

Even on well conserved treated uplands watershed runoff may be heavy when the soils are saturated or frozen. Damage from this surplus water runoff may be controlled by structures to retain floodwater, stream channel clearing; levees and dikes, ditching basins, floodways, floodwater diversions, and special water diversions terraces and dikes.

These are only a part of a small watershed program may offer local people, for more information contact the Board of Directors of the Hall and Donley County Water Improvement District or your local Soil Conservation Service office.

Mrs. Lula McConnell went by plane to Mauden, Mo. Sunday for a month's visit with her son and family.

Dearen-Hill Nuptial Vows Are Read in Pretty Church Service in Wichita Falls

Nuptial vows were solemnized at 7 o'clock Saturday evening, at the First Christian Church in Wichita Falls to unite in marriage Miss Donna Dearen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Dearen of Wichita Falls, and Jerry Edward Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hill of Memphis.

Officiating for the double-ring ceremony was Dr. Geo. R. Davis, church pastor.

Highlighting the altar arrangement was a large bouquet of white gladioli and daisies offset by candleabra and fern. A white satin prie dieu completed the setting.

Presenting a program of nuptial music were Stanley Norworthy of Vernon, cousin of the bride, soloist, and Brent Stratten, organist and choir master of the First Christian Church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a ballerina-length gown of white bouquet taffeta topped with a bodice of hand-clipped chantilly lace and featuring a black panel which flowed to the hem-line. A tiara of seed pearls held her fingertip veil of white tulle. She carried a bouquet of white roses atop a Bible.

Miss Linda Dearen attended her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Kay Callison Dearen, also sister of the bride, and Miss Joyce Landers. The maid of honor wore a street-length dress of pale yellow chrysanthemum over taffeta and the bridesmaids wore matching dresses of pastel green. Their head-pieces were bands of yellow and green chrysanthemum with bows. Cascade bouquets of pale green and yellow chrysanthemums completed their attire.

Serving as best man was Dickie Craig of Memphis. Groomsmen were James Freeman and Jerry McQueen of Memphis. Johnny Chamberlain and Jerry McQueen of Memphis served as ushers.

A reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. Centering the bride's table was a candleabra with smilax garlanding extending to the punch bowl and encircling the cake.

Miss Jane Dearen, sister of the bride, and Miss Kay Hill, sister of the groom, presided at the bride's book. Assisting in the house party were Mes. J. S. Dearen of Quanah, Jack Bradford, Eldon Hughes and L. D. Prewitt of Henrietta.

Mr. and Mrs. Hill, parents of the groom, were hosts for the rehearsal dinner given Friday at the Wayfarer Inn. The table was centered with an arrangement of yellow chrysanthemums.

The bride is a 1958 graduate of Wichita Falls High School where she was a member of Tri-Alpha and of the Junior Forum. She is a sophomore speech therapy major at Texas Technological College in Lubbock.

The groom is a 1956 graduate of Memphis High School where he was named "Mr. Memphis of

SENATOR ★ ★ ★ Yarborough's Report

Senate has passed and sent House for action a bill which means additional millions of dollars of income to our country.

Additional income for the country would come from finding new uses for farm products.

As my privilege to co-sponsor with Senator Olin of South Carolina. It was the Senate last session, but the lack of House action.

This proposal an Agricultural Research and Industrial Administration would be established in the Department of Agriculture.

Administration is charged with conducting basic research to find new uses for our farm products, particularly those which are in heavy surplus. The proposal takes a realistic scientific approach to helping solve some of our most pressing agricultural problems. With the hard times we have had on the farms in many areas, we are overdue in starting concerted scientific research programs to help meet the problem. We have scientific research to develop methods of farm production; we need scientific research methods to develop uses for farm products.

There is strong indication here that the House will go ahead with passage of the measure during the current session.

Wind Gauge Is Needed When Herbicides Used

When applying herbicide sprays for brush and weed control, the wind speed must be below 10 m.p.h. to reduce damage to susceptible crops, and give full coverage of the plants sprayed, says G. O. Hoffman, extension range specialist.

A simple wind gauge has been developed by the research staff of the Texas Agricultural Station to determine wind speed. This gauge is used by research personnel to register the wind speed when they are applying chemicals to experimental plots for brush and weed control.

A state herbicide regulation states that a wind gauge must be available at the time and place of spraying herbicides. They developed wind gauge is approved by the State Department of Agriculture for compliance with the regulation.

Weeds should be sprayed in the early morning before the wind gets too high and in the evening after the wind calms down, says Hoffman. To further reduce wind drift, equip the spray machine with a nozzle that applies medium size droplets and a regulator for adjustment to low pressure.

Any farmer, ranchman, or tin-smith can make the simple wind gauge from scrap tin found around the shop. Instructions and the pattern for making the gauge are outlined in PR-1466, "A Simple Wind Gauge for Agricultural Spraying." A copy of the report may be obtained by writing the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas. Ask for PR-1466.

Possum Kingdom Wildlife Shows Large Increase

Quail, deer, squirrel, turkey, dove, and cottontail rabbit populations in the Possum Kingdom Game Management area show an increase for this year. Field biologists' reports indicate that in some cases they are over 100 per cent above the 1957 population figures for the same area, according to the director of wildlife restoration, Texas Game and Fish Commission.

Early 1959 survey figures show a 36.04 per cent higher breeding population of bobwhite quail now than at this time in 1957. A bird dog census on selected areas conducted in late fall of 1958 indicates a 160.31 per cent increase in the total quail populations over that for the fall of 1957.

A deer census in the same section of state showed a fall population of one deer per 19.75 acres compared to one deer per 13.71 acres in 1957 in Bosque County and similar increases in most of the other counties in the Possum Kingdom area.

Regular field observations indicate a higher turkey hatching success but only a slight increase in turkey populations over those for the previous nesting season. Squirrel populations were much higher and cottontail rabbit numbers continued high. Dove numbers were comparable to those for the preceding year.

Sixty-five roadside quail counts were made in 15 counties during the survey, while 5,643 acres in Clay, Wise and Young counties were censused with bird dogs. Methods for determining the population trends for turkey and squirrels included field observations, contacts with game wardens, landowners, and other field workers.

Automatic Pilot Developed for Farm Tractors

Farmers who want to make their work easier should be interested in an automatic pilot that has been developed for farm tractors, said W. L. Ulich, extension agricultural engineer.

This new device is expected to increase the effectiveness of cultivation as a means of weed control, he stated. The steering control system enables operators to guide tractors more accurately,

Air Conditioning Moves To The Barn And Greenhouse

What's new in the animal kingdom? Air conditioning, that's what. Researchers have taken one of mankind's greatest boons to comfort and have begun cooling plants and animals for greater profit.

It has been a known fact for many years that the hot Texas summers slow growth and production rates of farm animals. But the difference in just a few degrees of temperature will mean a more rapid growth rate which increases farm income.

According to preliminary research studies, hens kept cool in chicken houses not only lay larger, tougher eggs but they also produce twice as many. In addition, a "heat struck" hen may consume up to 4 pounds of feed in her efforts to produce a dozen eggs. But when kept cool and comfortable, the hen needs only about 2.66 pounds of feed per dozen.

The air conditioned chicken house also increases flock production. Eight per cent more of the setting hens' eggs hatch in a cool house. Chick mortality falls and thereby making possible finer adjustment of cultivation machinery for control of weeds without damage to the crops.

The automatic pilot was designed and laboratory tested by the U.S.D.A. engineer, and is now being field tested. The main problem to overcome in developing this device involved finding a way to use fairly simply low enough in cost to be a profitable investment for farmers seeking to do a better job of cultivation, said Ulich.

The automatic control is intended for use in conjunction with power steering hookups which are featured on many modern tractors. Lightweight feelers, capable of sensing the position of the crop in relation to the tractor's front tires, are used in the automatic pilot to close switches when the tractor moves too close or too far from the row.

The microswitches, in turn, open valves that permit hydraulic pressure to turn the front wheels into alignment with the row. A linkage system between the front wheels and the switches automatically straightens the front wheels as soon as the tractor returns to the correct position, he added.

the house itself can accommodate 15 per cent more chickens comfortably, reports show.

Pigs and cattle respond equally well to cooler quarters in the summertime. If pigs are kept at 70 degrees, they reach a marketable weight in one-fourth the time needed at 90 degrees. And they consume a total of only one-third as much food.

When cattle are kept cool, they gain up to half-pound more per day and give more milk, according to research tests.

Air conditioning trials in greenhouses reveal that plants respond equally well. Plants need light, air, water and heat for growth—but in correct proportion. The blazing Texas heat often retards plants in the hottest months.

Cooling green houses thus can double the growing rates of marketable flowers and vegetables, researchers claim.

The experiments have been conducted by the American Society of Heating and Air Conditioning Engineers. The organization is developing systems for cooling farm buildings for an operating cost of under $5 per month which would require investments of under $500.
