

State Capital NEWS

By Vern Sanford

Quiet has settled over Texas' Capitol Hill after 202 days of hubbub.

As legislators packed up to go home, directors and employees of state agencies were filling scratch pads with figures. For most state-supported activities, the new budget which goes into effect Sept. 1 will mean more funds. Altogether, $300,000,000 more.

There were some disappointments, of course, in the appropriations bill. Many programs got less than had been asked for, some salaries were cut, and there were riders and restrictions in other activities.

But, overall, there was more relief and rejoicing than tears and complaining. Most seemed to regard the new budget as the best that could be hoped for in such a "hard year."

For their parts, lawmakers were eager to get home and "mingle with the folks." Ahead lie probable showdowns on new spending for welfare and public schools, and, always, the inching up every two years in general spending.

BUDGET BREAKDOWN — Texas' new record high budget of $2,418,000,000 was reported out after 95 days of haggling in conference committee.

But once out, it zipped through both houses, with only 8 dissenting votes in the Senate and a 108 to 39 vote in the House.

Spending from the general revenue fund, the state's multi-purpose housekeeping kitty, totals $322,800,000. This is up $42,000,000 from the present biennium.

To show how hard up the state was, more than 56% of total general revenue spending will have to come from the new tax bill passed this session.

Here's how the pie was finally sliced on major items:

PUBLIC SCHOOLS — Received an appropriation of $774,904,500, an increase of about $85,000,000, mostly because school spending has an "escalator clause" which ties it to enrollment.

HIGHER EDUCATION — Got the biggest increase from the general revenue fund of any program. It was boosted by more than $12,000,000 to a total of $130,933,424 for the state's 18 tax-supported colleges and universities. Increase was only about half what was asked by the Commission on Higher Education.

HOSPITAL, SPECIAL SCHOOL, YOUTH COUNCIL — Allocated a total of $90,456,554, an increase of $6,348,252.

This is to be used to improve medical care in state hospitals and to build a new mental hospital at Denton, a new dormitory for delinquent boys at the Gatesville school and a new building at the Gainesville School for Girls. It will also cover some salary increases and cost of some repair and remodeling in the vast hospital and school systems. It does not allow for setting up the juvenile parole system ardently desired by the Youth Council and recommended by Gov. Daniel.

STATE EMPLOYEES — Lower bracketed employees, from $2,400 to $6,000 annually, will get a $180 a year raise. It's not a lot—$15 a month more in the employees' pay envelopes — but it will cost the state about $14,000,000 for the two years.

JUDICIARY — Will receive $9,336,769 from general revenue, a $312,779 increase. Most of this goes for new district courts plus briefing attorneys and secretaries for the Supreme Court.

PRISON SYSTEM — Operating budget increased by $2,800,000 plus $7,720,000 to provide additional buildings for a prison population soaring toward 11,000.

STATE ADVERTISING — State Highway Department was authorized to use $100,000 to lure tourists and the Texas Industrial Commission $20,000 to seek new industries.

CONSTITUTION — Texas Legislative Council was given $50,000 for a study of the State Constitution with a view to revising it.

INSURANCE DEPT. — All the furor over top officials' salaries brought little change. Commissioner of Insurance William Harrison was cut from $20,000 to $15,000 a year; the three board members, from $15,000 to $14,000.

BUILDING PROGRAM — To further the Capitol expansion program, $2,753,000 was appropriated for buying land, $9,924,000 for a second state office building.

WATER PLANNING — Board of Water Engineers was allotted $2,037,000, an increase of $200,000, but nearly $800,000 less than requested. It will allow for some salary increases for board members and engineers and mapping to locate future damsites.

Bureau Efficiency
There are so many stories about inefficiency and red tape, and so few commendations for a good job done, that I decided to pass on to you a story of co-operation and efficiency by the Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization. It involved the location of a young Reverend and Mrs. John Adams of Adrian, Texas. Rev. Adams is the Methodist pastor at point. Here is the story: Brigitte G. M. Ziemann, an exchange student who lived with Reverend and Mrs. Williams and family at Plainview, Texas, in 1954. She was processed at the Church of the Brethren, an exchange program, its headquarters being near Washington, D.C. After her normal year she returned to Germany on her 1957 vacation to visit the Williams in Germany. In the fall of 1958 a telephone from her in Germany advising that she was in the country and would return when she had an address. They never heard from her since the opinion that her address was lost. They could not correspond with her since they didn't know where to write. They simply assumed that she had written and not heard from her. They deduced that they did not correspond with her. Reverend Williams came to my attention recently with the foregoing information, stating that he and his family were en route to New York and would like to find Miss Adams if there was any way of locating her. I contacted the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization, stating that she would be a registered alien if she was still in the U. S. as a permanent alien on May 21, 1959. Her records were in the New York, N.J. District Office of Immigration. The Commissioner advised the Newark office, requesting the Director, Mr. William Wirsch, to find her and to determine if she would object to giving the Williams her address and telephone number. The Newark office had the address which she had reported last January when she registered, which was a Hackensack, N.J. address but had no telephone number. They got the phone company to find the telephone number for the address, tried the number repeatedly, but got no answer. Realizing the necessity for speed, they got telephone numbers of residences adjacent to the address, to see if any of the neighbors knew anything about her. The answers varied from "never heard of her" to "she's gone back to Europe." One neighbor advised he thought she worked for "some airline in Petersburg." They tried all the airlines in Petersburg, none of which knew her.

Meanwhile, all the neighbors they had called had conversed with all their friends and had commenced calling Mr. Wirsch at the office to report small tidbits of information. One of these callers reported that they thought she had moved into New York City and was working at the German Consulate. Upon calling the German Consulate, they were advised she did not work there, but that she might be located at the German-American Chamber of Commerce in New York City. Meanwhile, the phone calls from the friends and neighbors were still pouring in reporting small bits of information.

Miss Ziemann was located working at the German-American Chamber of Commerce in New York City and was thrilled to learn that her friends, the Williams, were en route to New York. She was overjoyed with all the efforts which had been made to locate her, advised her business and home addresses and telephone numbers and that the Williams should contact her immediately upon arrival in New York. Reverend Williams ATTENDS MUSIC CAMP — B. H. Cook of Memphis, third from left above, is in Canyon this week attending the West Texas Music Camp at the college there. was also impressed and most grateful. We are sure they had a nice visit.

Death Whoop

Since we are telling stories, let me tell you the one about the painting of Indian life called "Death Whoop". The picture was painted by Mr. Seth Eastman, who had been commissioned by the government to paint some Indian pictures. He was chosen because of his vast knowledge of the Indian tribes. Several of his pictures are hanging in the Committee room of the Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs, of which I am a member. The picture "Death Whoop" portrays an Indian standing erect and holding at arms length the scalp of a white man. The white man is lying at the foot of the Indian and the place where the scalp was removed is plainly visible. Unless you appreciate this kind of art, you can readily understand that it might be abhorrent to some eyes. This seemed to be the case, because some years back when the Democrats were in control, the Republicans complained because the picture was hung opposite them and they had to sit and look at it all during Committee meetings. Their complaint went for naught, but when they won an election and got into power, they promptly switched "Death Whoop" to the other wall where it stared the Democratic members in the face. This allegedly went on for two or three sessions of Congress until the 82nd session. "Death Whoop" was removed entirely from the wall in the Committee room, supposedly because some of the Indian tribes complained that it put the Indian in a bad light. There is no doubt that the white man was never an all-out enthusiast behind the Indian past-time of scalping. However, most of us on the Committee had understood that this was a lost art. In any event, the request of the Indians was honored and the picture was removed. However, with the advent of the 83rd Congress the picture again found its way to the Committee room and now adorns the wall high above the spectator section of the room. No one needs look at it unless they want to. It might be added that the complaints from Committee members came from those with hair. Several of us felt no danger of being scalped by an Indian or anyone else and, therefore, made no complaint.

Mr. and Mrs. Andy Gardenhire and girls of Quanah, visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Gardenhire and Mr. and Mrs. Phaeton Alexander over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Coleman Shields and son of Lelia Lake, Mrs. Jim May and Mrs. Thelma Hodges attended a family reunion in Duncan, Okla. Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frankie McWhorter visited over the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John McWhorter, en route to vacation in Mississippi.

SENATOR ★★ ★ Yarborough's Report

Forty-four is a critical age for American workers today.

Once a man or woman passes that age many businesses and industries consider him "too old" and will not hire them.

This is a terrific waste of manpower and brain power and the situation grows worse as the person grows older.

Because of compulsory retirement policies, many people are forced out of jobs in which they have long experience. And, to add to the tragedy, people 20 years younger than the usual retirement age often find they cannot change jobs because many companies consider 44 a hiring cutoff age.

At the beginning of this year, 1.2 million workers past 44 were unemployed. And 30 per cent of the companies questioned in a recent survey admitted they have a policy of not hiring a worker who is past 44 years of age. The Labor Department ran another survey and in 70 per cent of the cities considered, more than half the jobs listed with employment agencies set an age ceiling on hiring.

People need the assurance they can change jobs, or — if retired — find other employment to help them remain useful citizens and to earn money to pay for necessities. We have done a great deal to assist our retired people — helping them obtain medical assistance and other types of aid — but we need to do more to help them help themselves. One way we can do this is to assure that age will not be a major factor in consideration of an individual for a job.

For this reason, I am co-sponsoring a proposal which would prohibit discrimination because of age against a person applying for a job with any company which holds government contracts. The measure is now being studied by a Senate Committee.

Older workers have statistically proven records of high production, good attendance and other assets. Men and women who are 40 years of age and older have a great deal of ability and experience to offer our nation. It is tragic and ridiculous to blindly refuse to use this great national resource of people past 44 years of age.

Mrs. Brode Hoover, Regina and Jane spent last week in Alamogordo, N.M. visiting Mr. and Mrs. Claude Ferrel. Debbie and Barry Ferrel, who had been visiting in Memphis and Pampa for the past 3 weeks accompanied them to Alamogordo.

Mrs. S. M. Watts and daughter spent last week in Dallas visiting relatives.

Dale Sexton left Sunday for California to visit relatives.

OPTOMETRY: The Art and Science of Visual Care

"Oh, what a shame!"

Jimmy had to put on glasses — and he's so young!"

"Yes, Clara, he did. But you know what Dr. Roberts said that such an eye problem as his couldn't have been corrected 25 years ago.

"Back in those days youngsters with Jimmy's eye problem grew up unable to do well enough in school to make passing grades. Then, children's chances of achieving much in life were very poor.

"Now, thanks to optometric science, Jimmy is able to learn and to adjust himself. We're SO grateful that optometry could provide him an equal opportunity to live a good normal life."

A professional optometric examination might mean the difference in your child's future.

The Coming Year

Sometimes the workings of the national government seem to take strange courses. Take for example the recent trip of the vice president to Russia. We are in complete agreement that more exchange of visitors between the two countries is a great benefit. There are several immediate beliefs to be enjoyed from such a venture. First it serves to acquaint us with the Russian people in general, and second it lets them see a real, live capitalist. This exchange of views is always good because, where there is knowledge there are grounds for understanding. It also serves another important purpose and that is the prevention of war. We feel that if the Russian leaders completely understand the power and initiative of the people of this country, they will not start a war. The reason is simple. Why should they gamble when they feel sure that they will lose.

All of these things help our world situation. What is strange to us, though, is that it took seven years before a plan could be advanced. Some people have advanced the thought that this entire maneuver was cooked up to give a lot of publicity to a man who will be striving for the presidency next year. It is entirely possible that this theory is true, especially after observing the way the Republican big press handled the tour. We don't know if most people realize it or not, but a lot of national and regional publications are doing a pretty good job of trying to brainwash a lot of their readers. This is accomplished by "playing up" some events and by "playing down" others. Take for example the survey conducted by one agricultural magazine. Their results "proved" that most farmers did not want government controls. However, every time the government has held a referendum, over two thirds have voted in favor of these controls. The only exception is the last corn vote where growers were offered more for staying out of controls than they were for controlling production — and look what has happened to hog prices.

It seems that it will be an interesting year up ahead with both parties vying for position as the national elections approach. Sometimes we wonder what would happen to the average man if it wasn't for elections. This seems to be about the only time that the governmental wheels consider the voter and think that his opinion is worth anything.

Newspapers and TV

Last year was a very bad year in the U. S. automobile industry. Sales were far under both past and anticipated levels. There was but one exception — American Motors, with its Rambler car, whose sales zoomed an astonishing 80 %.

So something reported by Editor & Publisher in a late issue is of great interest.

The television people claim the world for their advertising medium. But American Motors, in setting its 1958 record, spent more than two-thirds of its $6 million advertising budget in newspapers, and absolutely nothing on TV.

The other makes all spent large parts of their ad budgets on TV.

Editor & Publisher says: "It will be argued, of course, that 1958 was an unusual year, that too many other factors enter into automobile sales, and that these figures are meaningless. We disagree."

"It seems to us that the coincidence — the manufacturer placing the largest percentage of his advertising appropriation in television and having the largest percentage drop in sales together with the fact that the only manufacturer who spent no money in TV but had the only increase in sales — is too great to ignore."

TV is a great medium but nothing can supplant the newspaper.

Press Paragraphs — QUOTING OUR NEIGHBORS

Good Relations
President Eisenhower and the Congress went to great length to insure Vice President Nixon a cool reception in Moscow. While Nixon was telling the Russian people he was there to have a frank discussion "to help us to know and understand one another better," his boss was proclaiming a national "Captive Nations Week" in the United States. Americans were urged to conduct ceremonies in memory of nations "made captive by the imperialistic and aggressive policies of Soviet Communism." It's always the best policy, of course, to antagonize people before you get down to the business of trying to help and understand each other. The only other measure which could have contributed to a better understanding between two unreconcilable characters such as Nixon and Khrushchev, would have been the shooting down of a few Russian Miges by U. S. forces, over Moscow, as the precise moment Nixon arrived. It would have made Khrushchev much more friendly. I've got nothing against a "Captive Nations Week." People who have stood up under National Donut Week, National Corncrib Week and National Leave-Me-Along Week can take anything. But wouldn't it have been more diplomatic, and contributed more toward friendly discussion in Moscow, had Ike waited until Nixon's return to twist the bear's tail? The Russian talks will get nowhere, and much of the responsibility for it lies with the president and a Congress that seldom knows what's going on in the first place. It has become an American axiom that western diplomats cannot penetrate the Russian mind. I suggest that the Russian mind cannot conceive of the elected head of a nation coming to Moscow for friendly talks at the moment his boss does the one thing best calculated to thwart any friendly discussion. By the way, how did you observe this "Captive Nations Week," July 19-25, that was so damned urgent it couldn't wait until August? —Ralls Banner

No Bur Burning
Asthma and hay-fever victims take heart! You may not have to suffer through another ginning season. Managers of the four Ralls gins this week announced that the old practice of burr burning will be almost entirely discontinued this fall. This will practically eliminate the smelly nuisance of allergy-aggravating gin smoke which has blanketed the town every fall for years.

Plans call for using the burrs to fertilize land rather than burning them. While all ginners were reluctant to quote a price, last year's rate of $2.50 per ton with gin equipment spreading the burrs is probable. The government pays up to $1.25 per ton of this.

What to do if the farmer refuses to buy the burrs is still undecided. Bill Smith, owner of the Bill Smith Independent Gin, indicated unused burrs would be spread on his own land or dumped in lakes.

Bob McCrory, manager of Paymaster Gin, said he has several customers who have already contracted for the season's first burrs to spread on feed land. "We don't expect that to be a problem," he said.

Fires have been a hazard of burr burning in past years, as flaming burrs blew out on roofs. This fall burning is planned only during wet weather when equipment cannot get into fields. —Ralls Banner

Money
The president's bid for fiscal responsibility by the Congress and his attack on that body seems to fall by its own weight when it gets this far out in the country, with the politics rubbed off. While he pours it on the Congress, asking fiscal reforms, he at the same time calls attention to the fact that the big federal road system is going to languish if the congress does not increase the gasoline tax a cent and a half a gallon. Angle taken by many people in country circumstances is that it is just as well for the federal primary road building job to slow down, even to come to a halt. The government, somehow, has let costs get out of hand in the first place, and in the second place not enough consideration is given to the fact that good roads are supposed to serve the people. A good road in a neighborhood that the neighborhood can't use, hasn't added much to the wealth and happiness of the nation.

Another viewpoint on fiscal responsibility also lies in the areas in which the federal appropriations shall be spent. The president thinks it is fiscal responsibility to add taxes for the Primary Road system, also to increase the tax rate on government financing. The Congress has different ideas, at least the majority Democratic element in the Congress. No doubt the orgy of spending must come to an end, but spending must also go on. The point of view is the big factor here. Where to spend the money. The 1960 political campaign may be fought out along this line. —Floyd County Hespian

Memories Turning Back Time

From The Democrat Files

30 YEARS AGO
July 19, 1929
It is not improbable that Memphis will have a new creamery in the near future owned and operated by Armour & Co., of Chicago. The possibility of the establishment of such a long awaited and much needed enterprise for this section was intimated this week by J. V. Jones, who has sold the Memphis Produce Company to the Armour interests. . . J. B. Burnett and family and James Long of Indian Creek were very ill during the early part of this week as a result of ptomaine poisoning contracted from buttermilk that had been placed in an aluminum container. Had the milk been kept in a crock or glass container, Dr. Hyder explained, it would not have developed the ptomaine content. . . A deal was made the first of the week whereby Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Matlock became the new owners of the White Kitchen Cafe, formerly owned and operated by Sebron Buck. Mr. and Mrs. Matlock have been in the restaurant business several years, being connected with the White Kitchen and Rube's Coffee Shop for the last five years. . . The long anticipated House Dress Contest, sponsored by Miss Ruby Adams, county home demonstration agent, was held last week at the Presbyterian Church with over 300 Hall County Women present. The contest was the first of its kind ever to be held in Hall County, and Miss Adams is very well pleased with its results.

20 YEARS AGO
August 11, 1939
A premium of $25 for the first bale of cotton ginned and sold in Memphis will be given this year, according to a report from the agricultural committee of the Memphis Chamber of Commerce, and the first bale must weigh 450 pounds. . . E. V. Tanner and Clyde N. White, members of the Veteran's CCC Camp in Memphis, gave several piano and violin selections at a meeting of the Rotary Club Tuesday. The two men are a part of the educational project carried on by the camp. Both are skilled musicians. . . Discussion of the erection of a monument to the pioneers of Hall County which might be unveiled at the 1940 Golden Jubilee was heard at a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Memphis Chamber of Commerce. James E. King, president of the Chamber of Commerce is now considering the appointment of a committee to work on the project during the next year. . . Work on the federal Childrens Highways has completed with the exception of a 7-mile stretch which is yet to be constructed and hard work. Richard Harris, State Highway engineer announced. . . Dr. Jones bowlers jumped in to the three-way deadlock stand week with the Independents and Memphis Grocery store the City Bowling League at the es Alleys. . . Nineteen members of the local chapter of the Farmers of America met Gene Barnett, new local leader of vocational agriculture at the first meeting of the summer the Memphis High School Building Saturday.

Requiring Flaps On Vehicles In Effect

...ment of a new Texas law requiring "mud flaps" on dual wheeled vehicles. The law became effective August 10, 1959, as announced by Col. Homer J. ... Director of the Department of Public Safety.

...men have been instructed to start filing complaints on this law. "We feel commercial operators have had sufficient time to comply with its provisions which formerly applied when the pavement was rubber, rubberized material or other substance which would prevent mud from being blown from the rear of a vehicle into the wind of a vehicle following."

...regulations issued by the Department of Public Safety, Garfield, the flaps may be made of rubber, rubberized material or other substance which would prevent mud from being blown from the rear of a vehicle into the wind of a vehicle following.

...statute applies to all road trucks, trailers, and semi-trailers. Exempt are buses, school trucks, tractors operated on private property.

...for violation of the law range up to $200, plus costs, Garrison said.

CARD OF THANKS
It has been awhile since I became ill, but at long last, I've climbed the hill. It is now time I said, "Thank you" for many cards, letters, gifts and attention, not few. Many thanks to doctors, hospital staff and nurses. Without these, I would still have adversities. So pay me a visit, friends all to 1320 Brumley. For a spot of tea, a game of Canasta... and So I say thank you, to you all.
Mrs. A. B. Jones
