GOV. FLOYD A. HEMPHILL

Rotary Governor To Speak to Club Here Tuesday

Rotary District Governor Floyd A. Hemphill of Amarillo will address the club here Tuesday, Oct. 27, John Fowler, local president, announced this week.

He will meet with the president, secretary, program chairman and club bulletin editor of the organization at 6:30 p. m. Monday. Later the same evening at 8 p. m. he will meet with the various committee chairmen.

The first Rotary Club was organized in Chicago, Ill., on Feb. 23, 1905, by Paul Harris, a young lawyer. At first, members of Rotary did not meet in luncheons, but met in rotation at the various places of business of its members, and this suggested the name "Rotary."

Since that time Rotary has grown until it now has 400,000 members. (Continued on Page 12)

Classing Office Handles 10,285 Samples Last Week

Hall County cotton harvest was rolling at full speed this week as the ginning total to date reached 11,642 bales, according to a telephone survey conducted Thursday by The Democrat.

The 1959 cotton crop is about one-fourth completed, according to pre-season estimates of local citizens, whose average guess was between 40,000 and 50,000 bales. Good weather has speeded up the harvest as both field hands and harvesting machines have been functioning at full speed.

The cotton classing office here received 3,500 samples Wednesday from the 12-county area surrounding Memphis. Thursday morning they received another 2,500 samples and another 1000 was expected during the day. A. E. Anthony, officer in charge, said.

Last week the office here classed 10,285 bales, bringing the total for the season to 22,398 bales. The grade of cotton classed here last week was as follows: strict middling and above, 1 per cent; middling, 23 per cent; strict low middling plus, 3 per cent; strict low middling, 16 per cent; low middling plus, 3 per cent; low middling, 3 per cent; strict middling light spotted, 9 per cent; middling light spotted, 34 per cent; strict low middling, 6 per cent.

As far as the staple length is concerned, 3 per cent was 7-8 and shorter, 10 per cent was 29-32, 32 per cent was 15-16, 29 per cent was 31-32, 17 per cent was one inch, 7 per cent was 1 and 1-32 and 2 per cent was 1 and 1-16.

This week there were four flasks at work in the office here.

mann colors are beginning to appear all over town. Some of the fall coloring make a drive town interesting and eye-opening.

Izard, Amarillo News: should Amarillo spend more money on a new auditorium? The answer is obvious. All sorts of attractions could be booked for Amarillo with a resulting inpouring of visitors from out of town, all of whom spend money with our merchants.

After another, a new business opened in Memphis, either a new institution or a merging business. And one affording a new residence is another family moves into the city. Like Wes Izard, I believe that a new auditorium would bring more business to Memphis, and result in more jobs.

1913 Study Club Meets in Home of Mrs. A. L. Gailey

The 1913 Study Club met in the home of Mrs. A. L. Gailey Wednesday, Oct. 7.

Mrs. W. C. Davis, the club's president, presided over the business session. Members voted to sponsor the "trick or treat" for UNICEF in which the school children will participate.

Virginia Browder summarized the study for the year, "Our Ever Widening Circle of Endeavors," and concluded with the poem, "Today," by Angela Morgan, which is quoted in Masterpieces of Religious Verse.

She then introduced Mrs. W. C. Davis who brought the president's message. Speaking on "The World Begins with You," Mrs. Davis stressed the fact that "we must begin with the individual."

"If the world feels our influence or is improved by us it must be reached by these channels, making our club's programs count more in the life of each individual member and increasing the influence of our club in the community," Mrs. Davis continued.

"We must not be content to enjoy the occasional mental refreshment of our meeting; we want to carry their broadening influence into our daily lives, and into our homes. Neither must we be content with making what we learn count in our homes, we want to use it for the advancement of the community, state, nation and world," she concluded.

Mrs. D. L. C. Kinard brought a very interesting account of her visit to Alaska—the land of the midnight sun. Mrs. Kinard describes Alaska as a friendly frontier land that offers many intriguing wonders. The multi-million dollar gold dredges at Fairbanks; the mighty Yukon with its fantastic wilderness; majestic Mt. McKinley, the highest mountain in North America; enchanting Eskimo land and all the natural wonders are a delight to the camera enthusiast.

Mrs. Kinard visited Juneau, the capital city on the inner passage and also Anchorage which she described as the Most American of all Alaskan cities and a delight for the tourist. Seeing Alaska from the air is a thrill and experience long to be remembered. Mrs. Kinard concluded. Following her talk, Mrs. Kinard showed slides of these interesting places.

Refreshments were served to the following guests: Mmes. John Robbins, Don Lambert, Bob Martin, Hiram Crawford, and these members: Mmes. Richard Avery, Virginia Browder, Bray Cook, Herschel Combs, L. G. DeBerry, W. C. Davis, Allen Dunbar, Frank Foxhall, R. S. Greene, T. M. Harrison, John Howle, Hubert Jones, D. L. C. Kinard, R. C. Lemons, Clyde Milam, Joe Montgomery, Paul Montgomery, T. J. Ethel Hillhouse Attends State Textbook Meeting

Miss Ethel Hillhouse recently attended a state textbook committee meeting for the purpose of recommending a multiple list of textbooks. The books include spelling, grade two through eight, inclusive; high school art, trigonometry and journalism; and science for both eighth and ninth grades.

The textbook committee made its recommendations after several months of examining approximately 130 textbooks offered by 23 publishers. The maximum number that may be recommended by the committee is five books for each subject.

Textbooks adopted from the list will be available for distribution to Texas school children for the year beginning Sept. 1, 1960. Local textbook selecting committees choose one or more of the five, which means the final decision as to the specific texts that will be used in each system will be made by teachers and school officials of each county and independent district.

Miss Hillhouse was appointed last May to serve for one year by Dr. J. W. Edgar, commissioner of education, to represent the Eighteenth Congressional District.

Miss Hillhouse appointed key advisors to aid in the evaluation of the textbooks who in turn were assisted by advisors. Included in the list were the following:

Science seventh and eighth grades: E. A. Sanders of Childress, key advisor; Mrs. Maggie Gaines of Childress, Mrs. Charley Cape of Memphis, Mrs. W. C. Davis of Memphis and Miss Neville Wrenn of Memphis.

Spelling: Bonnie Willis, Hall County supervisor, key advisor; Mrs. Marjorie Bain, Mrs. Oleta Crump, Miss Amy Davis and Mrs. Bert Degan, all of Turkey; Mrs. L. A. Tucker, Miss Carrie Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Wooten, Mrs. J. A. Ballard and Mrs. Ernestine Collier, all of Estelline; Miss Mary Foreman, Miss Ira Hammond, Mrs. Linda Estes, Mrs. Carrie Bell King, Mrs. Reba Stroehle, Mrs. Dorothy Gurley and Mrs. Clifford Farmer, all of Memphis.

Journalism: Mrs. Roy Guthrie, key advisor; Mrs. Glenn Bruce, Mrs. Clent Srygley.

Art and grade school drawing: Mrs. Lucile Polk Naylor, key advisor; Miss Ruth Richerson and Mrs. Virgie S. Johnson.

Trigonometry: Weldon Day of Clarendon, key advisor; Clinton Voyles of Memphis and R. H. Clark of Shamrock.

Oil Centennial
When we consider the size and contribution of the oil industry today, it is difficult to believe that it is only one hundred years old. It was, however, born on that day in 1859 when Colonel Drake drilled down sixty-nine and a half feet near Titusville, Pennsylvania and found the first barrel of oil produced in America. A deal has already been said this historical event, and so, since it fostered the industry which provides so much of our energy that has conspired to our economy and our standard of living. Since the State produces some forty per cent of all domestic petroleum liquids in the United States, it is doubly fitting that we join in paying tribute this Hundredth Anniversary year. It is interesting to note some of the facts and events of this first hundred years. Of the 1,729,708 wells drilled for oil and gas up to January 1, 1959, 27.3 per cent of them turned out to be dry holes. The State of Texas, with 443,827 drillings, experienced a higher percentage of dry holes with 140,450 or 31.7 per cent. Incidentally, the deepest well ever drilled, 25,340 feet, was in Texas and was a dry hole.

During 1859, the first year of domestic production, 2,000 barrels of crude oil were produced, as compared to 2,617,283,000 barrels in 1956. Of the 547,515 producing wells in the United States at the end of 1958, 179,678 of them were in Texas.

As of December 31, 1958, 31 of the 48 states had oil and/or gas production, and 310 of Texas' 254 counties had production. Crude Oil and natural gas production in America employs 310,019 people, of which 118,125 are in the State of Texas. The total value of crude oil, natural gas liquids, and natural gas in 1958 was $9,303,962,000, of which more than one-third was produced in Texas. Had work and science have gone

Wesleyan Guild Meets Here For District Meeting

Wesleyan Service Guild members from Paducah, Quannah, Childress, Wellington and Lubbock met in Memphis Sunday, Oct. 11, for the District Meeting.

Mrs. John Fowler presided over the session. Business reports were given by district officers and guild presidents.

The afternoon's program included a vocal solo by Mrs. Bob Fowler accompanied by Miss Brenda Duncan. Guest speaker was Mrs. Ethel K. Terrell of Lubbock, who spoke to the group on the topic, "Find Them, Win Them, Lead Them and Keep Them."

Presentation of the study, "The Role of the United Nations in World Affairs" was given by Mrs. B. F. Barrett of Wellington. Miss Alice Magee of Quannah offered the closing meditation.

Mrs. Ruth Aaron of Wellington registered the guests. The next district meeting is slated for April 10 at the First Methodist Church in Vernon.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Welcher and Butch visited in Hollis, Okla., Saturday.

Hand in hand in building our domestic oil industry and will continue to do so in the second century. In an earlier day, the gas from a producing well was a waste product. It is now a $21.5 billion business and it is the nation's fifth largest industry.

We have learned that this great natural resource must be used wisely and conserved for future generations. We know that new reserves must be constantly sought and the industry has implemented this search continually, so that as of January 1, 1959 there were 36,739,935,000 barrels of proved liquid petroleum reserves in the United States.

To me, the story of the first hundred years of domestic oil production in this country is a splendid example of the solidity and challenge of our free enterprise system. It is a story sprinkled with millionaires and paupers, heart-break and joy, and with generous splashes of color, but it is the story of what ingenuity, hard work and the rewards therefrom can mean to our democracy. There are many who would deny some of the magnificent contributions which our democracy has derive from the fact and example of the oil industry and would take advantage of every opportunity to discredit and curb its accomplishments. Some inroads have been made in this direction, but it is my earnest hope that we can prevent further encroachments.

By BOYCE HOUSE

Can you remember when a representative of the weekly paper in a little town was at the depot at train time to get "personals" about who was leaving and who was arriving?

And do you recall when a small town post office had boxes that did not open? They were covered with window-glass. You could see if you had any mail. If so, you asked for it at the delivery window. If you had no mail, you went on about your business. Only thing was, if you visited the post office "after hours" or on Sunday and there was a letter in your box, it was "so near and yet so far." You would have to wait till next day to get it and you wondered and worried meanwhile.

Usually, it turned out to be of no importance.

Turning through the forgotten biography of a forgotten man, Senator Foraker of Ohio, I came across this passage, speaking of President Benjamin Harrison:

"He was one of the ablest men who ever occupied the White House. . . . Someone truthfully said he had a great faculty for measures but none for men. Nearly everyone who called upon him came away with the feeling that he had been an unwelcome visitor. . . . This made him much trouble, so much so that it was with

Truth Seekers Class Meets in Gerlach Home

Mrs. Wm. Gerlach was hostess to members of the Truth Seekers Sunday School Class on Thursday evening, Oct. 8.

Mrs. Pearl Massey, president, presided during the session. The program opened with the class song, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," followed by prayer by Mrs. Herring. Minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. J. J. Evans. Mrs. L. G. Yarbrough gave the devotional, reading the First Psalm, after which Mrs. Massey read the poem, "Grow Old and Like It."

Mrs. Dickson closed the program with a very interesting account of the Life of Eve, taken from the book, "Women of the Bible." Miss Waller then presented a copy of "Women of the Bible" to the class in memory of her brother and family.

Delicious refreshments were served including sandwiches, cake and ice drink.

As the benediction, members repeated the Lord's prayer in unison.

Fifteen members and one visitor were in attendance.

difficulty he secured a re-nomination. The defeat that followed was due almost altogether to the fact that, while everybody had great respect and admiration for his integrity and ability, nobody had any enthusiasm for him personally.

Foraker also quotes Mark Hanna, the Ohio Senator and political power who made McKinley president, as saying of Theodore Roosevelt, "That lunatic in the White House."

Local Women To Presbyterian Area Meetings Recently

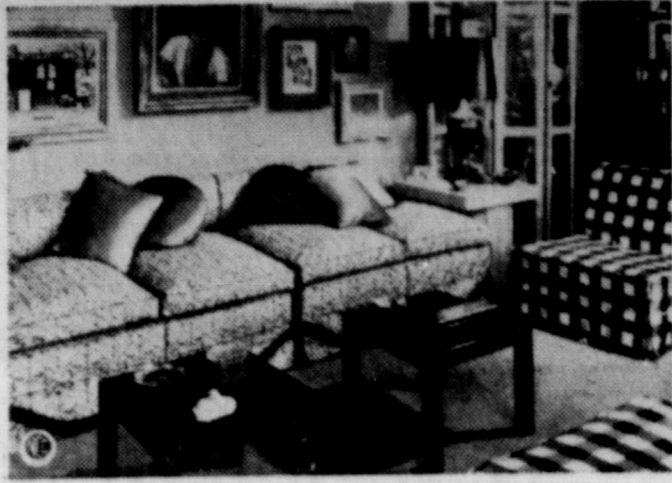

Presbyterian women from all parts of the Panhandle gathered in the annual Amarillo Presbyterian meetings held in Amarillo, Hereford and Pampa last week. From Memphis attending all three meetings as Amarillo Presbyterian district officers were Mrs. Bill Cosby Jr., secretary of National Missions, and Virginia Browder, secretary of Missionary Education.

The purpose of these fall sessions is to acquaint the members of the various local associations with the program literature for the coming year and assist in program presentation with emphasis on World Service and Christian Fellowship, Mrs. Cosby said.

Mrs. J. D. Barber of Canyon, the Presbyterian president, presided at each area meeting and was ably assisted by her board of Presbyterian officers representing each department of work. Mrs. W. Felton Christopher of Kansas City, Mo., the main speaker at the training session, in developing her subject, "The Mission of the Church," stated that, "The soul purpose of the Presbyterian Church is the education of the soul" and that "the Presbyterians gather in Christian fellowship to scatter Christian fellowship."

In Pampa, Mrs. Christopher was presented a Topo' Texas certificate of citizenship by Rev. Ronald Hubbard of the First Presbyterian Church, and urged to make this the first of many visits to the Lone Star state.

Going from Memphis to the Pampa meeting were: Meses. Bill Cosby Jr., Brode Hoover, Clinton Voyles, Guy Wright, O. V. Alexander, O. L. Helm, Richard Avery, Bill Leslie, and Virginia Browder.

COVERING THE SCENE—Bold plaids and an all-over design dramatically cover the oversized soft and chairs in this room designed by Good Housekeeping. The trim, tailored slipcovers are of black and beige Everglaze cottons. Bright throw pillows accent the understated color scheme.

The UPW of the First Presbyterian Church met Oct. 19 at 7:30 p. m. in the home of Mrs. E. M. Wilson.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Bill Cosby, and the opening prayer was led by Mrs. Richard Avery.

During the business session interesting reports were given by several members who attended the Pampa District Presbyterian Oct. 15. The purpose of the meeting was to prepare officers for their specific responsibilities and help each woman find her place in church work.

Mrs. Joe Montgomery presented the lesson on "New Occasions and New Duties."

During the social hour tasty refreshments were served to the following members: Meses. Joe Montgomery, Bill Leslie, Guy Wright, Bill Cosby, Brode Hoover, Clinton Voyles, Minnie Kinslow, Richard Avery, Ora Denny, Mills Roberts,

Will Ehrle Is Guest Speaker at B&PW Luncheon

Will Ehrle of Childress, State Representative, was guest speaker at the regular luncheon meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club on Thursday. The meeting was held in the Masonic dining hall with the president, Mrs. Wesley Waites, presiding.

Representative Ehrle was introduced by Mrs. Herschel Combs, chairman of the legislative committee. Rep. Ehrle gave a most informative talk on matters relating to the House of Representatives. He traced the steps and procedure a bill undergoes after being introduced in the House before it becomes a law. He pointed out that citizens sometime become impatient with the length of time required for a bill to become a law; that in the long run the method is a good one.

"It is through this system that we maintain our democratic rights," he said.

Following the program, a short business session was held at which time Mrs. Harry Boswell was named to serve as vice president to fill a recent vacancy occurring when Mrs. Waites was elevated to president.

Plans were also discussed for the play the club is sponsoring and presenting on Nov. 7 and 8.

G. E. Haslam Is Guest Speaker at Atlantean Club Luncheon Wednesday

Ralph Williams, assisted by W. Kinslow and Mrs. Ed were hostesses to members of the Atlantean Club at a luncheon on Wednesday. The social was held in the home of Mrs. Williams. Mrs. G. E. Haslam, president of the District Federation of Women's Clubs in Oklahoma, and a personal friend of Mrs. Williams. Mrs. Haslam was introduced by Mrs. J. W. Coppedge, program chairman.

An active member of the federation for a number of years, Mrs. Haslam has attended several national conventions as well as district and state.

Speaking on Federation, Mrs. Haslam said the organization dated back to Charles Dickens and was organized in New York City in 1890; however, it was not until 1901 that the charter was granted.

Dividing her talk into two parts, Mrs. Haslam pointed out that the federations brings all countries closer together. This is accomplished through education, representation in world affairs and contact with other peoples. This way we learn to depend on each other going forward to success.

Through Federation we learn to be co-operative; we gain courage, faith and simplicity to meet defeat; we gain strength, mental, moral and physical. Happiness is found in forgetting self, Mrs. Haslam said. She concluded her talk with remarks and slides on a Caribbean cruise that she and her husband took the past summer.

Places were laid for the following members: Mmes Robert Spicer, J. A. Odom, Jack Rose, W. R. Scott, W. C. Dickey, Claude Johnson, L. E. Barrett, Herbert Curry, J. H. Norman, D. H. Aronofsky, L. C. Martin, Earl Allen, D. A. Neeley, J. W. Coppedge, Robert Sexauer, Eddie Foxhall, C. W. Kinslow, Ralph Williams, and guests, Mrs. Marvin Slack of Altus, Okla., and Mrs. G. E. Haslam of Anadarko, Okla., and Mrs. A. E. Anthony of Memphis.

Woman's Culture Club To Observe 60th Anniversary

The Woman's Culture Club of Memphis will celebrate its 60th anniversary with a tea at the Memphis Country Club at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, Oct. 24, Mrs. R. E. Clark, president, announced this week.

All Federated club women of the city are cordially invited to attend. In addition to club women here, several out-of-town guests are expected to attend, and invitations have been extended to all ex-members of the club.

Several district TFWC officials will be present at the tea as well as board members.

THE RIGHT WAY . . . The correct way of disposing of plastic garment bags is to tie them in knots, and throw them in a covered garbage can. They should never be used in the nursery or be given to children to play with.

This mother knows that the disposable ultra-thin plastic bag in which her dress is delivered after cleaning should be disposed of after the bag has served its original purpose. She is following the safety precautions endorsed by safety experts cooperating with the Society of the Plastics Industry by shredding or knotting the material and disposing of it in a covered container.

Plastic bags used to protect foods, clothing and other merchandise have been put to many useful supplementary purposes around the house. The heavier plastic bags used for fruit and vegetables are widely and safely used to store leftovers in a refrigerator, keep food in an ice cooler for picnics, carry wet clothing or diapers, or protect books from rain.

The ultra-thin plastic bag, though, presents a hazard when misused as a substitute protective covering under infant's sheeting on cribs, play pens, baby carriages, furniture, etc.

The Society urges parents not to mis-use this ultra-thin plastic bag, but after it has served its purposes to destroy the bag by shredding and/or knotting and placing it in a covered disposal unit away from infants.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

A competent guide may mean a highly successful fishing trip when you'd have been skunked flat without one. Or, he may be a waste of your money. Or, regardless of the money side of it, you might be a lot happier without him. The matter is governed by many factors, the first of which is you, says Jason Lucas, Angling Editor of Sports Afield Magazine.

But here is one very important reason why one who takes fishing rather seriously should get a guide. A novice at golf or boxing will pay a coach to help him get started properly, and an expert at either will often pay still more to someone who can improve his skill. There are many coaches of casting, with fly and casting tackle, sometimes with spinning tackle.

But who ever heard of anybody's hiring a coach to teach him to fish? Still, doing just that can be invaluable to the comparative beginner, and there are few so adept that tips from a really good guide couldn't make them still more successful in their fishing.

If you hire a fishing coach, he should nearly always be a guide, not a casting instructor. Casting instructors in most instances are tournament or exhibition casters, and these are very often (not always, of course) poor anglers and may have fished little or even none at all.

We usually read that while casting distance is of little benefit in fishing—as a matter of fact, it generally results in fewer fish—development of accuracy is very important. The truth is that in at least 98 per cent of the fishing done one needs only accuracy enough to hit a barn door most of the time at 30 feet or so, and great accuracy would not result in more fish.

Remember even the worst guide is likely to mean more fish for the average guest than he'd find himself—because the average guest is fairly ignorant about fishing.

And if you're in the least sociable by nature—and most anglers are very much so—here's a final and important tip: Try to find a guide who's congenial, whom you'll like and who'll like you. Then, during those dull fishing streaks you're sure to find, you can enjoy being out there anyhow.

Mr. and Mrs. Mack Wilson spent last week in Dallas and visited their son, Mack, Jr., who recently moved from Dallas to San Antonio.

Columbus Good Navigator To Find America

Columbus must have been a good navigator to discover America. He was seasick much of the time. With none of the modern luxuries of the modern luxuries, he had to rely on his own "dead reckoning." This means figuring out where he was going on the basis of direction, time and speed, according to the World Encyclopedia.

Navigation was easy to find with the compasses available. Time was measured by an hourglass, pre-arranged by a ship's boy, who would tell him over the moment all the time had run out and kept a record of the time on a slate.

Navigation was figured by multiplying the speed by the time traveled. There was no way to measure distance, so Columbus estimated it. The records show that the "Admiral of the Ocean Sea" overestimated his speed . . . but because he was consistently wrong, the error didn't prevent him from getting back to Spain.

Navigation with a more reasonable estimate, Columbus made good. Ships like the Nina, the Pinta and the Santa Maria — called "the three" — usually made three knots in a light breeze. In a strong gale, they made up to 12 knots and sometimes his 12 ships averaged about 10 knots a day for five consecutive days on the trip to America, one day, whizzed along at 15 knots. The Nina and the Pinta hit 11 knots on the trip in 1493.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson spent Sunday in Amarillo. Mrs. L. M. Johnson, and his nephew, Alan Johnson, will spend this week here.

Editorial

Will the Dragon Devour the Bear?

Not too many years ago the great bear, Russia, gave its aid and assistance to the establishment of the Communist system in China. We are all familiar with the war between the Red Chinese and the Nationalists who were finally pushed to the island of Formosa. Since that time the Red Chinese have made great changes within the country. They have collectivized everything from farms to businesses and have established complete control over the people in a manner similar to that of the early Stalin era in Russia. Those who have resisted have been removed, and last year the situation was purported to be under control. However, during the past several months, there has been considerable unrest in the country due to what the communists call natural causes. There was a short wheat crop because of drought, and then heavy rains did a tremendous amount of damage to the low lands and the rice crop.

These factors, piled on top of the governmental pressure on the farmers to produce more under the state-ownership plan, have created a tremendous problem for the Red rulers. In past years the western world has gone to the aid of China in times of natural disaster but this time there has been no such assistance. Russia and the other Soviet block countries have little food to spare and the result is that China is having to take care of her own.

Red Chinese officials have been feeling lately that they were pretty important people. Many observers have noticed a trend toward the Chinese running their own business and not taking too many orders from Russia. Since the Chinese officials have the country in their firm grip they seem to think that they can not cut away from the big red brother. This feeling was noticeable in the recent visit of Khrushchev to that country immediately after he completed his tour of the United States. Khrushchev wanted the Chinese to stop their aggressive action in the Middle East, but so far they seem to have ignored his request.

If this rift in the relations between the two countries continues, we may see the day when the U. S. will have as their ally Russia in a movement against China. It is no secret that Khrushchev has eased the iron hand on the Russian people. They have even gone so far as to offer special monetary awards to factory workers who produce above their quota. In other words there is a little capitalism creeping into the Communist system. If this trend continues the two countries could be brought closer together in the future.

Adding to the problem of China is their great population. Throughout history it has been a difficult task for every ruler of the country to find enough food for the subjects. This has led to expansion efforts in the past and they seem to be continuing now into Indo-China and even more recently into India. These have not as yet been out-and-out wars to seize land but they could well be in the future. It is entirely possible that China could even have in mind some of the Russian territory. The break between China and Russia may not be large at present but it could well develop in the near future.

Halloween Drive To Aid Children

Oct. 18 through 24 is being observed all over the world as United Nations Week. We in Memphis have very little contact with this world-wide organization other than through our news media. However, this year there will again be a local drive by school children to help children of other lands through the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund.

This drive is being sponsored by the 1913 Study Club as it has in past years. It will consist of a door-to-door effort on the part of school youths to collect funds to be used to assist children in other lands. The UNICEF program, which is currently making life better for mothers and children in 108 countries and territories, has rolled up an impressive total of help in the twelve years of its existence. It has distributed 750 million pounds of surplus dried milk contributed by the United States and Canada. The total allocation from its own funds has been 282 million dollars.

This allocation, because of the fact that all UNICEF funds spent in a country must be matched by that country, has attracted another 520 million dollars in matching funds from recipient countries. This amount, over 800 million dollars, has purchased widespread improvement in maternal and child health, conquest of disease in a number of areas emergency feeding in disaster area and improvement in nutrition of children in many countries and territories. The drive here will be to collect money for the organization. Children will call at doors Halloween night with milk cartons soliciting funds. So, help them in their work by donating whatever amount you can spare.

Press Paragraphs—

QUOTING OUR NEIGHBORS

Agriculture Problems
Farm-produced foodstuff are probably cheaper for what you get than other things in our economy. Yet, because groceries cost so much more now than 20 years ago, the consumer wants to beat the farmer, grocer and the elusive middleman over their individual collective heads.

Mr. Maclay K. Orman, Agricultural Agent for Fort Worth and Denver Railway in Fort Worth, sent us part of a recent broadcast by Paul Harvey, famous newscaster, recently. On this particular program, Mr. Harvey pointed out the culprit who makes all the money in the grocery business.

It seems Harvey made a study, trying to find the costs involved in a loaf of bread.

We won't go into detail about the costs involved except that all the costs in a loaf of bread and all profits amount to about 12 cents. The other cents are taxes. And if the truth were known, it may be that the tax amount would be more than that. The grocery makes only two or three cents on a loaf of bread, which go to help pay for clerks, electricity, more taxes, floorsweep, stamps, printing, and a jillion other things.

While wholesalers, retailers, and manufacturers might be collecting a lot of money for their wares, they don't get to keep much of it, because Uncle Sam's hand is in their pockets just as deeply as any of ours.

We know these things. A Castro County farmer knows he isn't getting anywhere near all the money made on the sixty-six loaves of bread that come from each bushel of wheat he produces. But the city dweller doesn't. Newspaper editorials back east and elsewhere keep cursing the government for the exorbitant amounts spent on farm subsidies. The Brooklyn housewife can hardly be blamed for accusing the Plains farmer of robbing her blind and causing her to have to pay so much for bread. She does not know any better. And when a senator candidate comes along saying he'll vote against farm price supports and will do all he can to help Benson axe what's left of a good farm program, then she can be excused for voting for the man.

Here's a little item that appeared recently in a New York newspaper: "The government farm program is one of the two or three most costly nondefense items in the budget; this fiscal year it is expected to cost the taxpayer nearly $7 billion. Among other evils, more acute in the farm program than in other subsidies, is the double jeopardy of the consumer who must pay high prices for food while paying high taxes to keep prices high."

Without better public relations, farmers can expect trouble keeping workable farm programs. If the entire nation were fully educated to the importance of adequate price support levels, there would be little trouble in getting more justice out of the Department of Agriculture. — Castro County News.

We Pay The Bill

The American taxpayer won't be told how much it cost him to entertain Premier Khrushchev. The State Department, long accustomed to conducting its private business in secrecy and without reference to those who pay the freight, has snottily informed the press that it is not customary or polite to invite a guest to dinner and then discuss the check. This peculiar protocol means that if the State Department wants to toss the funds around in whatever direction, the taxpayer has one recourse. He can overthrow the government by force, which is a fine democratic attitude on the part of an agency of the United States government that has turned its activities and its policies into a reasonable facsimile of the Kremlin's. And in the State Department insists that a guest is not to know the cost of his meal, may I suggest that the cost of the meal is always made known to the person or persons who have to pay?

Where is Golf Headed?

Golf, as we first remember it, was a game played for exercise. The average player had only a few clubs, including a niblick, a mashie, a putter, a midiron, a brassie and a driver. Most of the players in our set used a brassie as a driver for economy's sake. We walked from tee to green and on all 18 holes. Many of us "toted" our own bags, too.

These days, we hear, electric carts are available in which the golfer rides from one shot to another, always provided he doesn't dub one just a few inches or feet. Now, as we are sold, there is a gadget that automatically sets a tee at any one of seven heights in any sort of soil so that the player does not even have to bend over. We started out making our own tees from a little bit of moist

We fully expect that it will not be long until somebody builds a machine that will automatically swing the club in a perfect arc to hit the ball that the player has automatically set on the tee without getting out of his electric cart. It will unquestionably be reasonably interesting, but should it be called golf?

Soil Conservation News

The recent rains received in the Hall County Soil Conservation District have helped rangeland green up again. This growth will be of benefit to the cattlemen, as well as producing more cover and protection on the rangeland for the coming winter months.

It will not be long before frost, so grasses may not have a chance to make much top growth, but the root systems will be strengthened by the storage of reserve plant foods. The first growth grass makes in the spring comes from food stored in the roots the fall before. These stored reserves may produce as much as 10 to 12 percent of the current year's growth. Once the plant has exhausted food reserves from its roots, it depends on the leaves for current operating nutrients. How early the grass greens out next spring and how fast it grows off will depend a lot on the amount of grazing it received the fall before. Remember, also, that young grass must not be grazed too close next spring, since it is in the grass blades that the processing of plant foods take place.

It was noticed, after the recent rains, how much faster the grass that had not been grazed close to the ground came out and started producing forage. When grass is grazed too short it may take as much as two or three weeks longer for it, to respond to rain. Grass has definite needs for growth and reproduction. When root needs are not supplied, the grass plant does not function to the height of its ability. Allow sufficient foliage to be produced yearly to maintain growth and production. A good rule to remember is to take half and leave half.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Cunard Line R.M.S. "Queen Mary" On Board October 11, 1959

Greetings from the mid-Atlantic: I hope this letter finds all my friends in Hall County in the midst of a most successful Fall season. I hope the weather is as fine there as it has been in Europe.

I am writing from on board one of the world's two largest ships, the R. M. S. "Queen Mary" (RMS stands for Royal Mail Ship). I thought the "Liberte" was a marvelous ship, but I like the "Queen Mary" even better. It is so luxurious and comfortable. She is 1,020 feet long, 118 feet wide and her gross tonnage is 81,237. If she were stood on end she would extend almost 40 feet higher than the Eiffel Tower, in Paris, and would come within 30 feet of the Chrysler Building in New York. I have always been told that the food and service on the Cunard Line ships didn't compare favorably with the French Lines, but I find otherwise. The food is both good and plentiful, and the service excellent. I have crossed the Atlantic on six different ships, and I believe I prefer the "Queen Mary" to them all.

The weather has been rather pleasant for an October, there has been a lot of wind, but the sea hasn't been too rough. There are a lot of swells which make the ship pitch somewhat and of course this makes many people sea-sick, but it is not as bad as a rough choppy sea, which would cause the ship to pitch and roll as well. I was sick the first morning out, and lost my breakfast but since then I have felt wonderful. It was my first time to be really sea-sick and I hope my last. I was sitting at the breakfast table when the sickness came up on me all of a sudden. I got up and head for the men's room, but didn't quite make it, as the nearest one was one deck below, and I just made it to the bottom of the stairs when up came my breakfast. Happily my sickness was only momentary, and not like some who have been feeling bad the whole trip. With all being considered, however, it has been a most pleasant crossing so far.

I haven't written to The Democrat in quite sometime so I will try to fill you in on what Margaret Ann and I did since we last wrote you. The last letter was from Rome where we both spent quite some time. Margaret was about a month there and I was about two months. While I was working on the movie Margaret Ann went to Naples, Capri, Pom-pei, Analfi, and Sorrento. She had a wonderful time there seeing the sights. I had been there before so I didn't go this trip.

We were in Rome on my birthday in July and some friends of ours in the movie business gave me a little party on the Via Veneto and it received a nice write-up in the Roman newspaper because of the fact that I was working on Rossellini's picture and there were famous personalities there. The publicity man for the film studio was very good at getting me publicity in both the Italian papers, and the American ones.

John Barrymore Jr. was in Rome making a movie and we saw him on several occasions, and lunched with him at the studio. The day after my little birthday party I was invited to a large costume ball given by Rolof Benny, at his home. It was quite fabulous. I went as a Texas cowboy, with my boots and all. All of the Roman and American society was there and it was quite amusing and a lot of fun.

When Margaret Ann returned from Naples she was supposed to be met in Rome by a friend whom she had been dating in Hollywood. However he called her the day she arrived back in Rome and asked her to fly to Hamburg and drive back to Rome with him. She took the next plane for Hamburg and they bought a car and drove through Germany, Austria, Milan, Florence, Venice, and met me again in Rome. While I was waiting for them to get there I went with some actor friends of mine and a director to Sienna, for the famous Polio, or medieval type of horse race. It was quite colorful and lots of fun. There is a parade of hundreds of boys and men all dressed in medieval costumes as were worn in the middle ages for the jousting contests. I made some movies and slides of the parade and race. I only hope they are good. Margaret and her friend, Charles, spent another week in Rome seeing the sights.

Charles had a letter from Cardinal McIntyre, of Los Angeles, asking for permission for an audience with the Pope. We went out to Castle Gondolfo, which is the Pope's summer residence where we had an audience with His Holiness, Pope John XXIII. We carried rosaries and religious medals which the Pope blessed for us to give our Catholic friends. He is a very jolly and pleasant man and we were impressed with him.

I have written about most of the sights of Rome in previous letters, but there is one thing which to me was very odd and interesting. It was the Church of the Capucine. In the basement of this church are stacks of Human skeletons which have been placed there by the monks of the church. As well as the stacked bones, there are mummified bodies, dressed in shrouds, standing around the walls, holding crosses. These are all the bones of martyrs who died in the Holy Lands of the relatives of one of the Popes. The walls are plastered and into this plaster on the walls and ceilings are designs of flowers and crosses, all made of human bones. Although this was quite interesting, I thought it rather unusual for a Christian Church, to use the various parts of the human anatomy for decoration.

Speaking of tombs, we also went to the crypt of St. Peters in the Vatican and visited the tomb of the last Pope who just died. It is right across from the supposed grave of St. Peter. Later in the week I went out to view the graves of the English poets, Keats and Shelly. Finding their graves bare, with no flowers, I bought several dozen and took them out to the graves another day. A friend of mine from the studio saw me with the flowers, and when he found out what I was doing with them, he had an article put in the newspaper about it. I also visited the house in Rome where Keats died.

An interesting thing in Italy as in Spain, all the stores and shops close from 1:00 to 4:00 p.m. It is impossible to buy anything between these hours, but to make up for it they stay open until 8 every night. Everything in the Latin countries moves at a much slower pace than we do. In some ways it's nice and in other ways inconvenient, but I must say as a whole I like to live in Rome better than any other European City.

After seeing the sights of Rome, Margaret Ann and Charles left for the French Riviera and to try their luck at the Casino at Monte Carlo, but I'm afraid luck was with the Casino as they didn't win a penny. On the way to Nice they stopped at Genoa, and went swimming in the Mediterranean. On coming out of the water Charles stepped on some coral type objects which broke off in his feet, and crippled him for some days. However they managed to get on to Nice by Margaret Ann doing all the driving and they stayed there enjoying the sun and sea air of the Riviera until he had recuperated.

I remained in Rome for another week where I had been engaged by Sgr. Rossi to be in another film called "Estate Violente". When the film was finished I went up for a couple of days in Florence and Venice. I know Florence very well from my last trip to Italy so I didn't do much sight seeing, only shopping, for Florence is a shoppers paradise. The Venice film festival was on while I was there and I'm happy to say the first film I made in Rome received the award as the best picture of the year. Also the Sunday I was in Venice was the day for the annual Regata, or gondola races. By the custom all gondolas are painted black in Venice, but on the day of the Regata they are hung with bright colors, and the gondoliers put on bright costumes and race down the Grand Canal. It was a lot of fun and most picturesque. The day of the Regata I was to leave for Paris by the Orient Express at 6 p.m. Now as you know the only mode of transportation in Venice is by boat or gondola through the canals. It is a city built in the ocean and all it has are foot paths and canals, there is not a wheel in the whole city. When I went to take the taxi boat to the station to catch my train I found they were not running because of the races. That left me with no choice but to walk. I didn't know if I would make it or not as I had to go all the way from the Square of St. Mark, to the station on the outskirts of Venice. However after winding through dozens of back alleyways and crossing dozens of canals I arrived at the station in time to get the train. The Orient Express is a wonderful train which runs all the way from Istanbul to Paris. It is noted for its foreign intrigue, and I was happy for the opportunity of riding on it. I looked all around, but didn't see anyone who even resembled an international spy or appeared the least bit sinister, so after dinner I went to my compartment and went to bed to awaken the next morning approaching the Paris station.

I was supposed to meet Margaret Ann and Charles in Paris but when I arrived I had a note from them telling me that they had flown to Madrid, Spain, for the weekend to see the bull fights, and would return the next day. It was so good to see Paris again and all the old familiar sights, such as the Eiffel Tower, the Arch of Triumph, and Notre Dame. We did a lot of shopping and sightseeing, and went to all the night clubs for which Paris is so famous and popular with tourists. One always hates to leave Paris, but Margaret Ann and Charles' time was running out and they had already extended their visit an extra week, so they had to get on to England in order to have any time there at all. They left Paris and drove through Brussels and Amsterdam where they stayed a few days, then they put the car on a boat and crossed the North Sea to England. I flew from Paris to London and met them there a few days later. By this stage of the trip time was really getting short, so I started them off on the first morning on a hectic sight seeing tour of London. We went everywhere, to the changing of the guards, the Tower of London, Westminster Abbey, the Old Bailey where we set in on a trial in session, the Cheddar Cheese, the famous old restaurant where Dr. Johnson used to eat, St. Paul's Cathedral and other points of interest. In the evenings we went to plays in the West End and at the Old Vic. We went to Greenwich, from where the time of the world is governed, and saw the 24 hour clock. Pocahuntus, the Indian Princess is also buried in Greenwich. Another day we went to Windsor Castle and Eton, and we also visited an old English country house done in the grand style. All in all we did more in that week in London than most people do in a month. We cut time so short that by the time they delivered their car to the shippers and got to the air terminal to leave for Scotland they had only three minutes to spare. They spent the day in Glasgow, Scotland and then boarded a plane for New York, and home.

Even though I had been living in London for ten months, there were still things I wanted to do before coming home, so I set out to do them. I went to Stratford on Avon, to see Shakespeare's birth and death place, and saw a play at the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre. The next day I returned to London by way of Oxford, where I visited the various colleges which make up Oxford University. Then I went to a play every night trying to see all those I wanted to see. The best I saw was a play by Noel Coward, and starring Vivian Leigh called "Look After Lulu". It was most amusing, and Vivian Leigh was as delightful as always.

After seeing all that I felt I wanted to see I went to the Cunard office and found I could get Passage on the Queen Mary, sailing the next week. So, I booked

Highway Dept. Begins Working on Tourist Information

Creation of the Travel and Information Division of the Texas Highway Department came officially Sept. 30 as a direct result of state legislative action. "The task of advertising the tourist attractions of Texas was given to the Texas Highway Department, and these duties will be assumed by our former Information and Statistics Division," said State Highway Engineer D. C. Greer.

"Texans and out-of-staters may write the Travel and Information Division, Texas Highway Department, Austin, for information, maps, travel folders, etc., and these items will be furnished without charge. We also dispense this material through our seven Tourist Bureaus at the principal ports of entry to Texas. We have already handled many thousands of requests for tourist information."

"Fred T. Bennett is director of travel and information, and Tom H. Naylor is the assistant director," Greer stated.

RAILROAD FEATHERBEDDING: $500,000,000 LOSS TO THE NATION—INCLUDING YOU—EVERY YEAR

Featherbedding on the railroads — pay for work not done or not needed — is costing the American people the shocking total of more than $500,000,000 a year.

You pay for it every time you shop, because featherbedding costs are hidden in the price of everything you buy.

Obsolete union work rules, involving the railroad operating employees, are responsible for this gigantic burden. Right now, for instance, these rules require every diesel locomotive to carry a fireman — even though diesels have no fires to stoke, no boilers to tend.

The forthcoming negotiations between the railroads and the unions are urgently important to the whole nation.

In asking the unions to drop these featherbedding rules, all the railroads ask for is a fair day's work for a fair day's pay.

Regional Meet Delta Kappa Gamma in Borger

A dedicated Delta Kappa Gamma chapter, not to be confused with the national organization, met in Borger, Texas, on Oct. 18-19. The meeting was presided over by Miss Mildred Hulsey, president of Alpha State Chapter of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society, in speaking to the attendees on the fall meeting in Borger on Oct. 18. She attended meetings, discussed the welfare of the Society, and ideas through committees, prepares programs, suggests and helps promote them, "continued Miss Hulsey, "members were challenged to the marks of greatness in the Society, to be confident, fair, responsible, calm, profound, alert, tactful, initiative ability and a sense of purpose to rise above problems."

Kathryn McDaniel, first vice president of Gamma Theta chapter, presided at the dinner which concluded the convention. The invocation was given by Hazel Sheppard, Miss Pat-public school music teacher in Borger, accompanied by Helen Bisbee, Phillips, sang "The House of Dreams" and "Things You Are."

Attendance at the meeting was made by Miss Zady Walker, director, to the local Gamma Kappa, of Hall, Childress, and Collingsworth counties. Mrs. Velma R. Reynolds, president, accepted for the meeting. A morning session opened at 10 a.m. with registration and a luncheon. A report on the Southwest Conference held in Tulsa, in August was led by Mrs. Foster, Gamma Xi, assisted by Miss Velda Anderson, Gamma Xi, and Misses Irene Crawford and Mary Kate Campbell, Pi. The theme "The Key to Understanding" theme was developed in the meeting, was developed in the meeting by Mrs. Velma R. Reynolds of Gamma Xi, assisted by Miss Turner of Beta Delta, Miss Gladys Wallis of Pi. Leaders reported to the group following the group meeting. Mrs. Weaver used an address poem by Miss Esta McDaniel concluding her report on the "Obligations of Leadership."

The meeting is not just sensitive to the physical world; it has a spiritual dimension as well," stated Mrs. Reynolds in summing up the program theme. "It was a meeting in which Dr. Annie Stanton envisioned The Delta Kappa Gama Society as a medium through which women leaders in education might gain recognition. The facets of awareness are manifested by the multiple activities of chapters and state organizations; the extensions of accomplishments of special and standing committees at chapter, state, and international levels; the work of officers and members; the services of International Headquarters," concluded Mrs. Reynolds.

Methodist Church At Lakeview Has Layman's Service

The Lakeview Methodist Church joined Methodism and churches of 34 other denominations in a Layman's Day service Sunday morning at the worship time. The message for the day was based on the theme: "You Have Been Called." Doyle McKinney, from the First Methodist Church of Childress, was the guest speaker for the occasion.

W. M. Gowdy, church lay leader, was leader for the service. He was assisted by other men of the church who helped with various parts of the worship. The call to worship was led by Mr. Gowdy. Coleman Duke led the affirmation of faith, and the responsive reading was led by T. U. Hughes. Reading of the scripture was by James Richburg, and the prayer of dedication by J. P. Montgomery. The benediction was offered by Russell Payne. W. M. Gowdy, Sr., and Walter McMaster were ushers.

Rev. Clesby Patterson, pastor of the Lakeview church, said the local congregation is making plans to join with other churches in the Enlistment for Christ Mission which will be held Nov. 15-19. There will be six services in this mission, he explained. The first is to be at 11:00 o'clock Sunday morning, Nov. 15. Then each evening at 7:30 o'clock Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evangelistic services will aim at the "Total Enlistment" of every member of the church; and the enlistment for Christ of those who are not in the church, he pointed out.

Committees have been in operation two weeks planning for every phase of the Enlistment for Christ Mission, Rev. Patterson continued. "Our attendance at the morning worship has been increasing the last three Sundays. We are aiming at 125 as the attendance mark Sunday morning, Nov. 15," he stated.

Committees are as follows: advertising, attendance assimilation, finance, group evangelism, hospitality, music, nursery, personal evangelism, reception, ushers and youth. Mrs. Lee Blanks is general chairman with James Richburg as assistant. Chairmen of the above-named committees include James Richburg, Mrs. James Richburg, Mrs. Joe Durham, Mrs. Jack Wolf, Mrs. Coleman Duke, Gus Orcutt, Mrs. J. B. Byars, Mrs. W. M. Gowdy, Sr., and Mrs. Russell Payne. Rev. Patterson, pastor, will do the preaching during the Mission. He came to Lakeview the first of June from Hermleigh where he had been pastor for two years. Before that he had pastored the Abilene Circuit while attending school at McMurry College.

Tax Man — SAM SEZ

Now that school has started and a lot of boys and girls are returning to their studies a lot of dads are interested in what their son or daughter's summer job did to their income tax deduction. In many cases Dad is entitled to a personal exemption of $600 as well as Junior or Sis being entitled to a similar deduction on their own return.

Read your tax instructions carefully on these deductions since the loss of an exemption usually costs more than $120 in additional tax. Most of us are not so prosperous that we cannot use $120.

There is a large number of excise taxes that are enforced by the Internal Revenue Service. The use tax on highway motor vehicles passed a few years back to finance the new highway system is creating several thousand audit cases a year. These taxpayers protest, in many cases, that they do not know of the tax and that they should not be required to pay a penalty and interest for failing to file on their truck. Here are some of the instructions.

A tax of $1.50 a year for each thousand pounds or fraction thereof is imposed on the use of public highways of any highway motor vehicle having a taxable gross weight of more than 26,000 lbs.

The tax year begins July 1 of each year and ends with the following June 30. The tax is payable by the person in whose name the vehicle is registered or required to be registered under the laws of the state in which the vehicle is operated or situated. Form 1041 is the tax return prescribed for reporting the tax. This form is secured from your local Revenue Service office.

tion, of which Memphians can tune in three. KFDD-TV is one of the three and is not owned or controlled by a newspaper. The manager of the station has created a new 5-minute broadcast which can not be bought by any advertiser or interest. It is "The Voice of 10," and Lewis Nordyke is the editor. The intention of the TV folks is to discuss local and Panhandle problems by having an unbiased discussion of some phase each night of the week except Saturday. Nordyke has been in the Panhandle for many years, having worked on the Amarillo newspapers, and of late years has been a consistent contributor to Readers Digest, Saturday Evening Post, and other nationally known periodicals. He has also authored several books, most of them dealing with Texas subjects. Lewis is sincere about wanting to bring out the things that will mean an improvement of conditions in the whole Panhandle.

Five minutes on TV is so short that one appearing on same must speak quickly, shortly, and to the point. He has to do his talking, and if he is a slow thinker, he has to do his thinking after the broadcast. Which happened in my case last Monday when Nordyke interviewed me and a recording was made, same to be on KFDD-TV tonight at 10:45. Van Dorn couldn't have answered one question on Twenty-One if he had been limited to five minutes, so what could a country editor do who had never appeared on TV? Thanks, Lewis, for giving me an opportunity to do another first. Following the recording I was my pleasure to visit with Lewis and wife, Dorothy. This couple ranks with the Panhandle's finest.

The September issue of The Southwest General News, the monthly magazine published by General Telephone Company, had a feature story about Mills Roberts of Memphis, division manager of the company.

The feature is headed "Old Fighter's Mighty Message" and the subtitle of same: "Wisdom, wit and whimsy keep Northern Division salesminded."

Introduction of the subject was made in two paragraphs: Up in the Northern Division, there's a weekly memo that is read with zeal. Its forcefulness would make many a writer turn green with envy. The arrival of each issue is said to bring work to a short halt while expectant employees eagerly digest what's on the pages. This lively memorandum is a unique sales report. "Fightergram" is its name, and "Old Fighter" is its author. Old Fighter, as any Northern Division employee knows, is their own division manager, Mills Roberts. In his fighting bulletin, Old Fighter extols those who have made sales, goods those who have not, and delivers thought-provoking bits of wisdom on the side.

Interjected into his memos are such expressions as, "Even if you aren't smart, you don't have to look stupid; just wrinkle your eyes and look thoughtful; something may come to you."

People of Memphis have learned to listen when Mills speaks. His wit and expressions are not surpassed by any one in this area. And it is refreshing to have Mills and all the employees of the company division and local exchange as citizens.

A small sculpture of his daughter, Jennifer, done in 1951, catches a youthful, fresh and wondering aspect of childhood.

"The Eternal Challenge" is a bronze statue of a girl and boy holding aloft the lamp of knowledge, which burns a continuous natural gas jet. It is the focal point of a landscaping project on the Oklahoma City University campus and is the centerpiece of a fountain between the administration building and the Gold Star Building.

McMurry has not yet finished the 14-foot sculpture of the '80er, his horse and his son which will be placed in a park area of the Oklahoma City Civic Center. The blue-coat bronze statue will be mounted on a red granite base eight feet high. Its rough finish and massive contour suggest the pioneer spirit of the state.

Among his busts of prominent men is a bronze sculpture of Dr. Oscar C. Johnson, president of the Baptist World Alliance.

His work has been exhibited in St. Louis, Chicago, Syracuse and New York.
