Rains, Hail Paint Two-Sided Picture Of Cotton Prospects

Rains ranging from 3.5 to 4 inches, to light sprinkles, have fallen in Hall County this week. However, as welcome as the rains were, a heavy hail storm north of Lakeview caused much damage to growing crops when it fell Tuesday.

The hail, which accompanied a 2.5-inch rain, resulted in crop damage on the Gerald Knight farm where it was estimated at 100 per cent. Other farms receiving damage from the hail included those of Milton Beasley, the McKee Brothers, Stacey Waites, Glen Stargel, Ed Foxhall, J. Robert Hanvey, Jr., and L. A. Stillwell.

Here in Memphis, .79 of an inch of rain was recorded Tuesday, and .30 of an inch this morning (Thursday), according to J. J. McMickin, official weather observer.

Tuesday the Lakeview community received 2.8 inches. The largest rainfall to be reported was 3.5 to 4 inches in the Tell area on the Pete Davis farm. According to some reports, no rain has been recorded in the Newlin area, or across the river. However, these sources did not know if it has rained in these areas Thursday morning.

The usual August rains have boosted crop prospects in some areas to a point where farmers are thinking about the possibility of harvesting a bumper crop. However, there are a number of "ifs" connected with this, including the fact that all crops were planted late.

Temperatures this week included: Wednesday 90-61, Tuesday 84-70, Monday 92-65, Sunday 94-61, Saturday 95-60, Friday 93-60, and last Thursday 90-60.

Penney Store Offers Customers Charge Accounts

L. H. Sims, manager of the local J. C. Penney store, announced today that his store will offer credit facilities to customers beginning Oct. 3, 1960.

The Penney credit plan will make available to customers the newest type of charge account in both Penney's charge account and the Time Payment Plan, Sims said.

He explained that the store's charge account is a 30-day charge account which will make it possible for any customer to pay an account in full within 30 days of the billing date without a service charge. This plan also provides an option for customers who wish to spread payments over a longer period.

The manager explained that the Penney Time Payment Account is designed for higher-priced apparel with a unit price of at least $49 and for home furnishings items with a minimum unit price of $29. For this account the minimum payment will be $5 per month, and the account may extend to a maximum of 18 months.

"The credit plan will in no way change the company's long-standing, low markup policy for customers who wish to continue to make their purchases on a cash-and-carry basis," Sims added.

Penney's first started their credit operations in 1958 with 24 stores after 56 years of operating on a strictly cash-and-carry basis. In 1959 169 more stores were added to the group. By the end of 1963 all of the nearly 1,700 Penney stores throughout the country are slated to offer charge accounts. About 600 stores will be offering credit by the end of 1960.

Hall County Soil Conservation District News

Conservation Districts are to the close of another year with the end of the Hall County Soil Conservation District has been in operation for 18 years and is among the oldest districts in Texas. There are 17 districts in operation in Texas.

Each of these districts is self-governing and operate under the authority of a local board of supervisors through a charter approved by the State of Texas.

The Hall County Soil Conservation District covers Hall and Childress Counties.

W. Hamm of Carey is chairman of the board of supervisors of the district. Other members are: Kenneth Ellis of Kirkland, L. Kenneth Lett of Loco, Lee Scrivner of Loco, and Wayne Hutcherson of Loco.

Above five men govern the district and furnish the local leadership in the soil conservation work. They call upon various agencies for assistance. The Soil Conservation Service helps by providing the farmers and ranchers with the preparation and maintenance of conservation plans.

County agents help on the local matters. The vocational agriculture teachers and extension agents help in the educational matters and in the demonstration service as custodians of the equipment owned by the district.

A large number of the practices are carried out by district cooperators for cost sharing assistance. The district has to offer.

Some of these agencies do part of their work through the district.

Conservation District supervisors

Supervisors serve a five-year term, and the maximum pay is about $80 per year. One supervisor is elected each year. In 1960, the supervisor for Zone 2 will be elected. L. M. Bartlett is the present supervisor for that zone. This area lies north of Red River in Childress County and a small part of the northeast part of Hall County. This election will be held in October.

The main objective of all soil conservation districts is to have a complete soil and water conservation program in effect on every farm or ranch within its boundaries. As each land user takes care of his own acres the goal of a district-wide conservation program is approached.

Child Labor In Agriculture

Farmers are being reminded again this week in a news release from the Department of Labor about using school-age children in agriculture. This has been a controversial matter for several years here in Hall County, due to the custom of harvesting the cotton crop with transient laborers.

The release stated, "farmers who hire workers for harvesting fall crops were reminded that the Federal Fair Standards Act sets a 16-year age minimum for the employment of children in agriculture during school hours." It came from the office of Regional Director William J. Rogers of the U. S. Department of Labor's Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Division office in Dallas.

Rogers stated that children may lawfully work on farms before and after school hours or on weekends, but that their place "is in the classroom when school is in session in the school district where the child is currently living."

He pointed out that "the law protects the children of migratory workers as well as local children. The only exception to the law is the child working exclusively for his parents or guardian."

It was pointed out that an age certificate showing that the youngster is at least 16 is the best protection the farmer can have against inadvertent violation. Certificates are available from Texas Employment Commission offices.

It is hoped that school officials recognize local conditions at this time — before terms start — and take whatever steps necessary to work out a program which will help the hard-pressed farmer, while at the same time comply with the law. If this is not done, field men from the Department of Labor will once again be in the county investigating conditions here. Somewhere in the scheme of things the desires of the migratory workers should be considered, too.

DPS Marks 25th Anniversary

The Texas Department of Public Safety last week marked its 25th anniversary as the state agency responsible for the enforcement of laws protecting the public safety and providing for the prevention and detection of crime in Texas.

The department has become one of the outstanding law enforcement agencies of the world. Its record in law enforcement and traffic regulation will compare favorably with that of any state.

In 1935 the Department had the task of patrolling some 20,000 miles of rural highways with a force of 140 patrolmen. Today it is responsible for 53,000 miles of rural highways with 773 patrolmen.

The state safety agency has many other duties other than patrolling the highways. Among them might be listed the enforcement of laws relating to the operation of motor vehicles, criminal law enforcement in cooperation with local authorities, educating citizens in public safety and law observance, police training, police records, scientific crime detection, and operating a state-wide communications system. The criminal law enforcement agents are the Texas Rangers. They conduct criminal investigation both as independent agents and by assisting local, county and federal law enforcement officers. Members of the Highway Patrol, in addition to traffic control, also have responsibilities in the field of crime prevention and public safety.

Also in the department are two groups of plainclothesmen — the Intelligence Section and Narcotics Section. They work closely with local officers in the investigative fields, and assist all law enforcement agencies in combating the dual menace of narcotics traffic and addiction in Texas.

All persons who are concerned with the public safety in Texas are proud of the accomplishments that have been made in state law enforcement and the regulation of traffic flow since the Department of Public Safety was established 25 years ago. However, the force today is facing increasing crime and an increase in traffic accidents. These are brought about by ever-changing techniques, population increases, and the fact that there are over four and a half million motor vehicles in the state today.

It will take a better informed public, recognizing the problems of public safety, to see that the Department progresses in a similar manner during the next 25 years. It must remain up-to-date, and additions to its personnel will be required to meet the challenges of the future.

U. S. Loses Steel Lead

The United States' steel industry, operating at half of its capacity, is producing less steel than the Soviet Union—United Steel Workers of America's president, David J. McDonald, told the Democratic Party platform committee in Los Angeles recently.

This is a startling statement. One can remember only a few years back when the United States was producing three times as much steel as the Soviet Union. If our steel industry now works at capacity, we can produce almost twice as much steel, but the United States' industry has not been operating at capacity, and the Russians have passed us—in the last six months, according to McDonald.

McDonald says there are 135,000 steelworkers now out of work, and some 350,000 who are employed on a work week of less than forty hours.

Because steel is a barometer of the nation's economic well-being, this is a danger signal, and we should not let this situation continue indefinitely.

The world's leading exponent of the free enterprise system, the United States, cannot allow its economy to lag while communism is making aggressive strides forward. In the field of public power, steel, oil, gas, and many other fields, the Russians have been making progress, and—in the opinion of many—the United States has not been moving ahead fast enough.

We do not agree with McDonald, in his plea for a 32-hour work week, and we do not believe McDonald thinks he will get it. Most labor leaders would probably be delighted and surprised if they got a 38-hour work week.

In our opinion, however, the 40-hour work week is not too long. We can reduce our country to a state of weakness and impotence by reducing the work week and leaving our basic weakness uncorrected.

The administration in Washington, of whatever party affiliation, has the responsibility of keeping the United States economy in a healthy condition. It also has the responsibility of seeing to it that the United States is experiencing a sound and active economic growth.

In the last few years, the rate of economic growth of the United States has not been what it should be. This should be one of the major concerns of the American voter in the coming presidential election.—The Shamrock Texan.

Today's Farmer

Throughout history farming has been an honorable occupation and remains so today, even though this is an age of rocket missiles, jets and satellites.

In spite of all the progress, the farmer's product is still vital, his annual toil mandatory for our survival. Suppose, for example, that all farmers decided to strike during one harvest season, such as some unions do. The population would soon begin to become destitute.

But the farmer doesn't strike. He is largely unorganized. He is independent-minded, sometimes too much so. Usually he doesn't make a lot of money—unless he is a big farmer, with much land and machinery. What, then, are his compensations? Why do capable young people still decide to farm?

There are rewards. One is the outdoor life. Another is the inspirational value of working the land, with nature, against nature, and with and against the weather. Another is the lack of petty scheming in the daily occupational grind—for much of the work of the farmer is physical.

And the wonders of nature, the changes every season, and the wisdom and secrets of the earth and sky and sun and winds, are usually better understood and appreciated by the farmer. He can breathe good air, knows where and how to hunt and fish, and often enjoys animals, especially horses, far more than his city-slicker cousin.

And at the end of life, even if there isn't a pile of money, the farmer has usually lived a full life, a better life, than that of many soot-covered "metropolitan."—Shamrock Texan.

It would take a train of 440 railroad tank cars with a capacity of 10,000 gallons each to hold the 104,800 barrels of fuel oil used every day by the nation's steel mills.

Play Begins Fri. In Tennis Meet

The Memphis Tennis Tournament will be played this weekend, David Duncan, coordinator, said early this week.

The tournament was postponed until this weekend following the death of one of the participants, Sue Gidden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Gidden.

Duncan stated that in case of rainy weather Friday evening, the matches scheduled for that day will be played Saturday, and the tournament carried over to Monday if it is necessary.

All brackets, with the exception of the "Has Beens" will be played this weekend. It is necessary that all participants in the men's singles, men's doubles, women's singles, women's doubles, mixed brackets; also the same brackets in the high school division, to examine the brackets at the city courts, located at the Library Park between Main and Noel Streets. This must be done by 6:30 p. m. Friday, according to Duncan.

"We have the trophies ready to present if participants will play their matches on schedule," he said.

In the men's "Has Been" bracket, matches have been played during this week. The first match was played between Bill and Adrian Combs and Donald Swaim and Swayne McCauley. The Combs team won in the first two sets, 7-5, 6-2.

Then Monday night, the team composed of Temple Deaver, Jr., and Floyd Harden defeated the Billy Roden-Johnny Harrel team in two sets.

Wednesday, Floyd Harden was taken to a local hospital suffering from a virus infection, so Bob Fowler substituted for him.

The Combs team and the Deaver-Fowler team met Wednesday night in the semi-finals. The latter team won the contest 8-6, 3-6 and 6-3.

This places the Fowler-Deaver team in the finals with a team composed of Don Collins and Holmes Posey, who received a forfeit in the semi-finals. Weather permitting, the finals of this bracket will be played tonight (Thursday) sometime after 6:30 p. m.

Local Scouts Go To Swim Meet

Ten local Scouts from the three Memphis troops attended a swim meet in Wellington last Wednesday, despite the rainy weather.

Scouts from here enjoyed themselves in many of the events the swim meet offered, according to reports.

The event was planned and conducted by the health and safety committee of the Comanche District, with F. Byron Range, Jr., chairman of the committee.
