Lakeview-Morris To Tangle Sat. Night

The Lakeview Eagles will play their first conference opponents, Morris, Saturday night at the Lakeview field beginning at 7:30 p. m.

This will be the first game of a 10-game double round robin schedule for Lakeview in the 8-man Class B district.

Coach Paul Kitchens said this week that Lakeview's 16 boys out for the team were showing a lot of hustle, desire to win, and determination.

"This is our first year in the 8-man district," Coach Kitchens said, "and I feel that football spectators in this area will enjoy seeing this type of football being played."

Since Lakeview's first game is on Saturday night, local sports fans will be able to see it, without conflict with the Cyclone schedule, it was pointed out.

Coach Kitchens said that 8-man football is played on an 80-yard by 40-yard field, smaller than the 11-man field. There are five linemen and three backs on each squad. The rules of the game are the same as 11-man football. The center and two tackles (or guards) are ineligible to receive passes. Only the three backs and two ends are eligible to receive passes.

The game is not as wide open as 6-man football, Coach Kitchens said; thus, the team is not required to have six fast men, as is the requirement in 6-man football. There is usually plenty of line play, as well as open field running, the coach explained.

The boys working out on the team include: Carl Robertson, Jerry Clements, Rodney Clark, David Payne, Clinton Pierce, Jimmie Neighbors, Tony Sahagun, Max Weaver, Paul Ponder, Lonnie Campbell, Bobby Bristler, Richard Arnold, Brady Durrett, Connie Mack Moore, Larry Skinner and Jerry Lawrence.

The squad has three seniors on it, including Carl Wayne Robertson, right end, who won honorable mention in his sophomore year.

Coach Kitchens stated that 8-man football is getting very popular among the smaller schools, and that possibly there will be state finals in this class this year.

Young Farmers To Have Picnic At Park Friday

The Memphis Young Farmers will have a picnic Friday night at the City Park beginning at 7 p. m., it was announced this week.

The chapter will furnish a picnic meal, and films of "Tom and Jerry" cartoon, and Cotton John's "Artic Adventure" will be shown. Chapter members are urged to be present for the special picnic, Neal Hindman, sponsor, said.

Cyclone, Tulia Hornets To Open Season Friday

The Memphis Cyclone and the Tulia Hornets will open their 1960 football season Friday night at the Tulia field beginning at 7:30 p. m.

Head Coach Don Lambert reported Wednesday that his small team (in number) received another injury set-back. No. 11, 157-pound back, Dick Morgan, will not get to see action in football or basketball due to the re-occurrence of a wrist injury. Morgan was taken to a specialist in Amarillo where a decision was made for an operation upon the right wrist. He will not see action this season.

Other injured players include Garland Moore, who has a pulled shoulder muscle, and will not play in the Memphis-Tulia game; Sam Goodnight, who has suffered a re-occurrence of an old knee injury, and probably not see action. Other than these, there are several minor bruises, Lambert said.

However, despite the injuries, Coach Lambert said that the boys have a very good attitude and are showing a lot of spirit for their first game.

From a comparative standpoint, the Memphis line averages 177

Farmers Predict Good Yield Of Grain Sorghum

The grain sorghum crop in Hall County is one of the best in many years, it was reported by grain dealers this week.

High yield will depend on whether the county will receive a general rain on all fields within the next 10 days, they said. Some of the grain sorghum fields have received moisture the past two weeks, however, there are many areas that will be needing moisture soon, it was reported.

Oscar Maddox brought the first load of grain sorghum to Memphis last Wednesday, Aug. 24, to the Farmers Union Gin. However, it will be another 30 to 40 days before any large scale harvesting of the crop will get underway.

Farmers are already predicting yields on some farms from 2,000 to 2,500 pounds per acre. If another rain is received soon, there may be greater yields recorded.

The official budget for the Memphis Independent School District for 1960-61 was adopted at a meeting of the Board of School Trustees Thursday night, Aug. 25.

The budget listed a total expenditure for the year of $293,850.00. This includes an administration expense of $16,434.00; instruction expense of $181,191.00; pupil transportation, $2,000; total operation of plant, $21,400, and total maintenance of plant, $6,000; total fixed charges, $4,600; food service, $300; total student body activities, $3,600; total capital outlay, $10,000; total debt service, $48,325.

Estimated revenues for the school year, not including the unencumbered fund balances, totals $244,463.20.

The district expects to receive $89,075.00 from local sources such as maintenance tax and debt service tax; $400 from county sources; $154,813.20 from State sources; and $175.00 from incoming transfers.

The $154,813.20 from state sources is broken down into $8,986.20 per capita apportionment, $95,000.00 foundation fund salary and operation and vocation education, $827.00.

Under expenditures, salaries for administration personnel total $14,034.00, instruction salaries total $174,641.00, and plant operation personnel salaries total $12,000.00.

The district's capital outlay on buildings is expected to be $5,000 and on furniture and equipment to be another $5,000.00.

Under debt service, the district will pay $15,000 on retirement of serial bonds, and $20,000 on retirement of short term loans. The district will also pay $13,325.00 in interest on serial bonds.

Under plant operation, besides salaries, it is expected to cost $3,000 to heat the buildings, and $4,600 for the other utilities. Other supplies for the operation of the plant is expected to cost $1,800.

Copies of the budget will be filed with the county clerk and the Texas Central Education Agency, school officials stated.

Hall County Soil Conservation District News

"Grass Makes Its Own Food"
Grasses, like all green plants, live and grow on food manufactured in their own leaves.

Range, pasture or other grass crops can flourish and conserve soil only if the individual plants have opportunity to make food for their own growth.

Plant food is manufactured in the leaves, and is not, as many people suppose, drawn from the roots or the soil. The plants get the "raw materials" to make food from the soil and the air. Since the plants' "food factory" is above the ground, grazing, mowing, or clipping promptly stops plant food production.

A grass plant stores food in its roots, after it has made the season's main growth. It uses this stored food or reserve to live on while the plant is dormant, to make the first growth next season, and to start new growth after its green leaves and stems are closely grazed or cut.

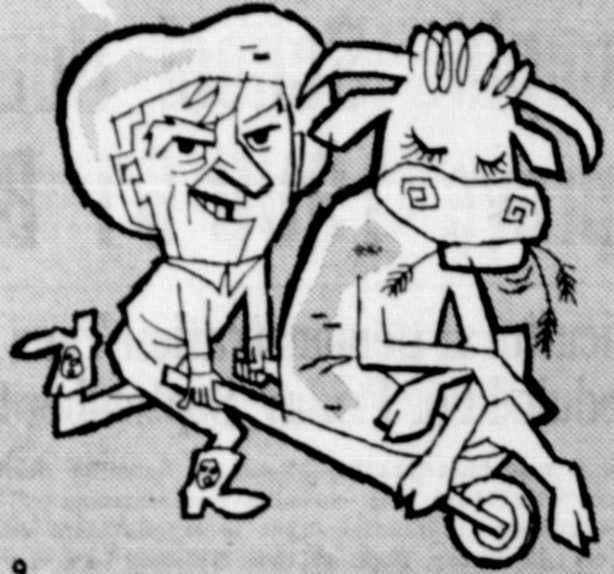

When grass plants repeatedly lose their leaves from close grazing or cutting, during the growing season, no "food factories" are left to receive and combine raw materials into plant food. The plants keep drawing on the feed stored, in the roots, until the supply is exhausted and then the plant dies of starvation.

Research shows that grass will not reach maximum vigor and growth, when more than half their leaf surface is removed by grazing.

Thus the man who values grass, sees to it that his "feed factory" is large enough. He knows that without some grass left, he can't grow more grass.

The Danger of Red China
Part I: The Deadly Argument
 The man Lenin called "the best file clerk in Russia" has bounced out of obscurity and into the headlines once again. After a three-year exile as Russian Ambassador to Outer Mongolia, Vyacheslav Mikhailovich Molotov will soon re-enter the splendor of full-fledged diplomatic life as delegate to the International Atomic Energy Agency. Molotov, who was Soviet Foreign Minister and Josef Stalin's closest associate, was swept from the Kremlin in 1957 for opposition to Nikita S. Khrushchev. His withdrawal from the remote Mongolian capital of Ulan Baator touched off a chain of Western speculation. Outer Mongolia is a virtual subsidiary of Red China, and the prevailing thought seemed to be that the Russians felt Molotov has been a bit too sympathetic with the tough, unyielding policies of the Chinese. The Kremlin has been working to move Molotov to a new assignment for more than a year, perhaps with the hope of finding this devoted Stalinist an atmosphere less agreeable to his own ideological tastes. Molotov's transfer may thus be another symptom of a deep-seated dispute between Soviet Russia and Red China. Although it has received scant general attention here, this dispute is of foremost importance in relation to our struggle with the communist world. The grim argument between these two totalitarian giants may well be vital to the survival of freedom as our own opposition to communism as a whole. For the central theme of the Russian-Chinese battle concerns nothing less than the necessity of all-out war with Western capitalism. Red China not only believes in the inevitability of war, but even suggests that a nuclear holocaust might be a good thing. The Chinese leadership has stated that should half its people die in such a war the country would still have a greater population than either Russia or America does today. This chilling attitude directly conflicts with Soviet pronouncements that war is "unthinkable" and that peaceful co-existence was a guiding principle for Lenin. None of this means, of course, that the Chinese seek war tomorrow or that the Russians have given up war forever. But the implications of the basic struggle are obvious. Both the Soviet Union and Red China, since their very beginnings, have twisted the writings of Karl Marx to fit their own expedient purpose. Lenin's version of Communism could not be used in China, Mao Tse-tung's interpretation would have failed in Russia, and both leaders learned very quickly that the brittle dogmas of Marx were unworkable in any society. Thus Communism has developed into a highly nationalistic and authoritarian system which has radical differences in each country and which would be largely unrecognizable by Marx himself. These traditional differences in interpretation led to open conflict between Moscow and Peking last spring, when the Red Chinese openly opposed a Summit Conference between East and West. There has been ample evidence since that time to indicate the extreme aggressiveness of China within the communist bloc. But for the immediate future, the Soviets seem to hold the winning cards. The Peking regime is dependent upon Russian aid and technical advice, not to mention diplomatic support. The Chinese, however, may hold a series of significant long range trumps. Their rate of population growth has been at least five times that of the Soviet Union. They are expected to develop their own atomic bomb within the next year. The prophet Marx was certainly no enemy of war and would appear to be on the side of Chinese interpretations despite Russian talk of peaceful co-existence. And the opportunities for initiating a full scale war are plentiful for the Chinese, notably in the Formosan straits. The Soviet Union, after tediously underwriting the communist build-up in China, is very possibly finding that Mao Tse-tung's ambitions are radically different from its own. The Peking government has not been slow with the realization that should Russia and the United States destroy each other that only China would remain, able to establish a world dictatorship with no serious interference. The idea has its appeal for Mao, and exists in the Russian mind primarily as a nightmare. It's not exactly a pipe dream for America either. The possibilities of a fanatical and enslaved society unleashing a world conflagration are highly ominous, and all the more so because of our own general lack of knowledge about Chinese conditions. The Russian-Chinese argument offers much more than a remote instance of hair splitting or the mere possibility of causing a little embarrassment within the communist camp. We have seen the possibilities behind such a dispute, but we must also be aware of and understand the Communist Chinese life itself, and I will attempt to present a basic outline of some information during the next few weeks. Whatever lies behind the ideological disputes of China and Russia, the truth is that this could be the opening round in a bitter battle for the leadership of world communism. Such a battle and its outcome will, I am sure, be an ob-

I Give You Texas

By BOYCE HOUSE

Roaming through Arkansas: In Hot Springs, there is a small cafe which offers a steak dinner for only 50 cents! It's a lamb steak... A clever name for a motor court: Kink Arthur's Court... Talking about playing a sure thing, in a window are two signs, "Blank Cemetery Association" and "Income Tax Service." Evidently, here is a believer in the old saying, "Only two things are certain — death and taxes."

Odd name: A lawyer in Arkadelphia is G. W. Lookadoo.

In Prescott, one hotel has two names. A sign in front says, "Lawson Hotel"; a big sign on the roof says, "Lee Hotel."

In Benton, a sign reads, "The Friendly Butchers."

If you have a copy of "Tall Talk from Texas," you may, eventually, own a "collector's item." After 16 years, the book is out-of-print. What with loss through fire, flood and friends who borrow, but never return books, "Tall Talk" should ultimately be in short supply. This probably will take some time as close to 100,000 copies were published.

Rock-and-roll came into vogue four or five years ago. Long-suffering folks hailed with delight the announcement that it was dying. The prediction that it was on the way out was first made two years ago — but rock-and-roll is still with us.

I have given the matter considerable thought and I have figured the situation out. Rock-and-roll indeed was slipping out of favor with the teen-agers who were its devotees — but as they outgrow rock-and-roll, a new army of teenagers comes along to take their places.

So, friends, Romans, countrymen, I think we are stuck with it. Rock-and-roll has become a permanent part of our way of life.

MR. AND MRS. GORDON MADDOX

Widener-Maddox Nuptial Vows Read Saturday in Pretty Home Wedding

Miss Barbara Widener, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Widener, became the bride of Gordon Douglas Maddox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Maddox, at 2 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 27, in the home of the bride-elect's parents, 101 N. 15th Street.

Cecil Hadaway, minister of the Church of Christ, read the double-ring ceremony before the mantel which was decorated with pink gladioli and white tapers. Jade trees, at either end of the fireplace completed the nuptial decorations.

Gayle Widener, sister of the bride, lighted the candles.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street-length sheath dress of embossed fabric styled with three-quarter length sleeves, scooped neckline and cummerbund of satin. She carried a white Bible topped with a bouquet of pink carnations and stephanotis.

The couple's only attendants were Miss Dorothy Moore of Memphis and Don Beasley of Amarillo cousin of the bridegroom.

Miss Moore wore a street-length frock of pink styled with basque waist and full skirt. She wore a corsage of white carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Widener were hosts at a reception. The dining table was laid with a lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of pink carnations. The three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom, was served by Mrs. Don Beasley, sister of the bride. Miss Vivian Maddox, sister of the bridegroom, poured punch.

Guests were registered by Miss Jo Ann Widener, sister of the bride.

The bride is a graduate of the

More Acreage in Conservation Reserve in 1960

New acreage placed in the Conservation Reserve of the Soil Bank in 1960 has surpassed the announced acreage goal for the program by more than one million acres.

The larger acreage accepted for contracts is chiefly the result of two factors: conservation practices are being established more economically than in the past, and per-acre annual payment rates under 1960 rates are lower than anticipated.

Approximately 80 per cent of the farmers placing new land in the program for 1960 elected to come in on a "whole farm" basis, that is, to place all their eligible cropland under contract. This is of maximum effectiveness in checking surplus production, since the entire farm is withdrawn from crops and usually from livestock production as well.

Under a whole farm contract, the family may continue to live on the farm, and recent field studies indicate that most of them are doing so. In some instances farmers who would have sold and moved off their farms said they would have moved to towns or cities if they had not had the opportunity to obtain a reasonable return from their farm property.

Participation in the program will be particularly heavy in the wheat-producing areas. The five leading states in new acreage, accounting for more than a third of the total are Texas, Kansas, North Dakota, Oklahoma, and South Dakota.

Under the Conservation Reserve Program farmers voluntarily sign contracts with the government to retire cropland from production and devote it to conservation uses, such as grass and tree cover and wildlife shelter. The contracts provide that the government will make an annual rental payment to the contract signer and will assist in establishing the conservation use on the land.

Contracts may be for three to 10 years, depending upon the conservation use to be established and the wishes of the farmer.

local high school and for the past year has been an employee of the Memphis Democrat.

The groom is also a graduate of the local high school with the class of '59 and attended Texas Technological College last year. During the summer months he has been employed with the Memphis Lumber Co., but plans to return to school for the fall semester at Texas Tech.

Following a wedding trip, the newlyweds will be at home at 2306 10th St., Lubbock.

Farmers Urged To Be Careful With Chemicals

Safe storage of agricultural chemicals is vital to farm safety, says the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council.

One recommendation the Council makes for safe storage of chemicals is to always use properly labeled containers. Chemicals may look like other compounds such as sugar or soft drinks. Without a label it is impossible to distinguish between a dangerous substance and one that is safe. Agricultural chemical labels not only explain how the material is to be used but also the safety precautions that should be observed.

The Council lists these Commandments of Chemical Storage:

1. Have an organized place for storage.
2. It is best to use or dispose of small amounts of left-over chemicals.
3. When chemicals of any kind are stored, be sure the label is kept intact.
4. Keep chemicals stored in a dry place away from fire or other sources of ignition.
5. Keep the chemical storage place locked to keep out children and others who are not responsible.
6. Store highly toxic chemicals, those having skull and cross-bones on label, high enough to be out of reach of children should they get into the storage area.
7. Never stack one chemical on top of another.
8. Check label for instructions so that chemicals that should not be stored together are separated.

Social Security May Be Lost By Not Inquiring

A relatively large number of people in the Panhandle, even now, are not completely aware of their rights under the social security law, stated Hal Geldon, Manager of the Amarillo Social Security Office.

In a number of instances, retired individuals and their wives have lost months of monthly benefits, simply because they failed to inquire from their social security office about their rights under the program. Geldon called attention to the liberalization of the eligibility requirements under past amendments, which have made it easier for older persons to qualify for insurance benefits.

Two other phases of the program which should not be overlooked are the survivor insurance protection and the disability provisions under the law. Geldon emphasized that many persons are inclined to under estimate the value of their social security protection.

Persons should inquire about their rights, even though they may think they are not eligible for payments. This applies to all phases of the Federal insurance program, Geldon stated.

Health Officials Denounce Fear Of Rabies Shots

You've heard it or read it dozens of times...

A youngster is bitten by a dog or cat which promptly disappears. A public appeal is made for help in locating the offending animal, lest the child has to unnecessarily take the "painful" rabies shots.

State health officials are the first to agree that such public appeals are highly beneficial. But those same officials do not mince words in denouncing the "painful" label as grossly inaccurate. They are no more painful than any other immunizing injection, and less so than some shots which are accepted with philosophical cheerfulness.

Ask Dr. A. B. Rich, director of the State Health Department's veterinary public health division, or F. W. Huff, a veterinarian who in his career has autopsied well over 97,000 animal heads for rabies. Both men can speak with the authority that comes only with first-hand experience. Once while in private practice Dr. Rich examined a dog for rabies. The very next day the animal may displayed typical signs of rabies. Since he had a scratch on his hand, prudence demanded that he find them to be almost painless beyond the initial brief prick of the needle.

Huff echoes the same sentiment. He ought to know — since he has to take a 21-shot course of treatment on four separate occasions. Anyone who handles his rabies vaccinations to Alaskan wolves — is bound to be exposed on occasion.

Has the "pain" label dissuaded anyone from taking the shots when they should have? There is no way of knowing. But Dr. Rich says he can readily imagine how it could happen. From this point of view, the inaccurate label is dangerous since rabies is endemic over most of Texas — particularly among wildlife, primarily foxes and skunks. A total of 567 rabid cases were reported last year and for the first six months of this year 357 positive cases have been diagnosed.

Dove Studies Make Possible Longer Season

The dove population of the central management area, which includes Texas, has increased 14 per cent this year, according to estimates of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service. Since 1953 there has been a 69 per cent increase.

These figures were given to Howard Dodgen, executive secretary of the Game and Fish Commission, as one of the reasons this year's dove season was extended to 60 days and the possession limit increased to 30 or the daily bag limit of 15.

For many years there were only two management areas considered in the national survey—eastern and western. The dove banding program and call counts made by biologists, however, have indicated the central management area, where the heavy population increase has been noted.

According to the department figures, 95 per cent of the unit's hunting kill is produced within the area. Thus the major portion of the doves killed in Texas were hatched in the central unit.

Texas biologists and game wardens for a number of years carried out a banding program and call counts, to assist in the overall program.

The Texas Twenty-Nine

"And they're off" could well be the words with which the Labor Day weekend in Texas gets in full swing. It doesn't affect those of us in small communities as much as it does those in the larger cities, but we, nevertheless, should take note of this event. Many years ago this weekend was set aside for the running of the Indianapolis 500, the biggest race of them all, and since that time city dwellers have adopted the occasion as one during which they should try to travel the shortest distance in the shortest possible time.

Since most of us here will go about our jobs as usual, we don't need to be cautioned about driving fast, but it might be well to mention that some of the fast drivers from the cities may be coming through Hall County and this being the case we must practice our defensive driving to the highest degree. The official prediction is that 29 people will meet death on Texas highways during the Labor Day holiday. This is a terrible price to pay for one last fling before school starts.

We have had our share of accidents that were "accidents" in Hall County in the past and also our quota of accidents that were nothing but carelessness. Accidents are like forest fires — only you can prevent them! Every person behind the wheel of a car guides his own destiny, and in most cases, that of other persons as well.

At Texarkana, Texas, one of the major gateways into the Lone Star State, stands an impressive statue of James Bowie, one of the great men in Texas history.

On the monument are the words, "They never fail who die in a just cause."

Jim Bowie, for whom the Bowie Knife is named, was one of the most famous of the valiant defenders of the Alamo who fought to make Texas free.

LaFitte's Grove is just 8 miles west of Galveston, Texas. Established in 1817, this fort was the headquarters of the freebooter Jean LaFitte while he was pirating ships in the Gulf of Mexico.

This was also the site of the "Battle of Three Trees" between LaFitte's men and the fierce Karankawa Indians.

One of the world's largest meteorites lies about two miles west and six miles south of Odessa, in the far western portion of Texas.

The great meteor, a mass of iron, nickel and various other metals, rests 170 feet deep in a 10-acre pit.

This great visitor from outer space is estimated to have fallen to earth thousands of years ago.

Interested in architecture or in fine homes? Across from the Courthouse in the town of Corsicana stands the Victorian Mansion of the great evangelist, Abe Mulkey. This well known show place amazes all its viewers with its preserved youthful appearance.

Corsicana is a famous oil center and it located approximately 50 miles south of Dallas.

Sam Houston was converted and baptised in Rocky Creek in 1854, 18 years before they built the Old Baptist Church that now stands at Independence, in Central Texas.

A monument stone on the bell tower by the church reads, "She sleeps within its sound." Reference is to Mrs. Nancy Lea, mother of Houston's wife. She donated her silver service to be melted into the bell.

The tower was erected with stones from the ruins of the original Baylor Building. Judge Baylor's hearthstone is stid to be included in the tower.

Our National Purpose

The most stimulating of our national leaders, our writers and philosophers, are today specializing on the direction of the United States will take as a nation—as a nation among nations in the atomic era world.

From the intellectuals and deeper thinkers among us comes a call for clear thinking and dedication to a purpose. Generally speaking, the main theme of most of the thinkers of the moment is that the United States must develop more of a purpose in today's world than our leadership has exhibited in the post-war years.

That is to say, in the line of philosophy, that we must have a national goal, a national aspiration as a people—if we are to go on to achieve greater and better things for the individual, and remain the leading nation in the world in so many ways.

It is an accepted fact that our country was founded on the principle of a great purpose—liberty for colonies being taxed without representation. And our goals were many and uniquely high-minded. We were a home for those seeking freedom from religious persecution (and we sometimes established our own forms of persecution once we escaped the European variety), we were a home for the under privileged, who were held down both economically, in their native country.

We were the example to all the world of a country where immigrants came and enjoyed equal opportunity, religious and personal freedom and became good and wealthy citizens in the New World. This was our purpose, and we grew into the strongest country in the world playing this role and serving this purpose.

But now our country has arrived. We are the most prosperous people on earth. Gone is much of zeal and pioneer spirit and dedication of the earlier eras. And yet we have developed no outstanding culture of our own. In the way of the arts and music and intellectual our product has been meager and disappointing.

We export mainly trash. Our country is littered with ugly sights and examples of materialism. We are still, comparatively, a brash and crude people—in the way of civilizations and cultures as judged in some European countries. In short, we do need a national purpose to something inspirational.

Some believe the United States' new dedication must be to lead the world to a better life, to help the various nations of the world, to establish freedom and even justice everywhere, as best we can. In this approach one includes the work of making it triumph over the communist economic and social challenge.

It is a challenging thought and one which every citizen must carefully consider. For we in the United States do appear to be in search of a goal, in need of dynamic leadership and in need of a national purpose. It is not enough just to be against communism. We must have some sort of purpose.—The Shamrock Texan.

... are so similar that in effect they cancel out each other and are at least only political eyewash with most of their plans a long way from being enacted into law. However, it is our firm belief that the farmer, the small business man and the rest of the people of this country as a whole have a better chance of survival under the Democratic banner. —Temple Daily Telegram

Insect infested lawns can be cleaned up with the right insecticides, says entomologists of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. They suggest a visit with the local county agent for complete details on control measures.

Texans who exhibit exceptional bravery during a time of crisis or disaster are eligible for the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council's "Rural Heroism Awards." Any heroic act involving personal danger or sacrifice to aid or assist others may be nominated for the three state awards — properly engraved plaques. Local county agents, Farm Bureaus and teachers of agriculture have, or will soon have, available details on the program.

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

Sandies, those scrappy little fish that are so prolific in Lake Texoma, are creating a sensation along the Texas-Oklahoma border. Night fishing for sandies is a great sport, as testified to by the hundreds of after-dark fishermen who line the Roosevelt Bridge by Lake Texoma Lodge on U. S. Highway 70 between Durant and Kingston. Almost any evening from dark to daylight you'll find the anglers elbow to elbow along the rail, almost all the way across the bridge. Their fishing technique is unficient fuel to last throughout the night. Some of the fishermen used Coleman or Bernz lanterns. These proved effective, but threw less light than did the electric units. The lanterns are better for the shallower water fishing, say some of the fishermen. The principle of the light was, of course, to attract insects. The insects fell into the water only to be gobbled up by the minnows and had that also had been attracted by the brilliant light shining upon the water. Deeper down lay the larger fish, pan-size Sandies, gobbling up the crippled minnows that sank bottomward. Most fishermen used a short, heavy rod with a 20 to 28-pound braided line and a small, inexpensive reel. How many are dropped overboard we do not know, but we're sure there must be plenty — which is another reason for using the less expensive rigs. A heavy lead weight is attached to the end of the line. A few feet above is a stagean about 12 to 18 inches long, to the end of which is tied on a small hook. Minnows are used for bait. That of course presents another problem, the matter of keeping the minnows alive while fishing from a bridge high above the water. Solution is a bull cord tied to the minnow bucket and long enough to lower the bucket into the water and tie to the bridge railing. All of which means that it's a long pull to bring the fish up, once he's hooked, some twenty or thirty feet deep in the water; and it's another long pull to drag the bucket up again to re-bait. That isn't all there is to it either. What to do with the fish presents another problem. Some ice them down, then and there, atop the bridge. Others drop a stringer into the water and keep the string of fish alive until ready to return home. Slickest deal we saw was by a Dallasite who used the metal stringer hooks, available in singles, that slide down the line. It was a fast ride to the water that his Sandies took, but it sure saved him the task of dragging an ever-increasing string of fish 100 feet or so out of the water every time he landed a Sandie. Fishing from a bridge is illegal in Texas. Although they can't do it at home, many Texans aren't missing the fun. A large number of the bridge fishermen we talked to were Texans who bought Oklahoma fishing licenses primarily to enjoy the sport of bridge fishing.

Posters Warn License Needed By Fishermen

A new warning to fishermen to buy licenses now is being posted in public places near the water for the benefit of fishermen, according to the director of law enforcement of the Game and Fish Commission. The large placards remind that a fishing license is required to fish in salt or fresh water, unless: 1. You are under 17 or over 65 years of age. 2. You fish on property which you own or upon which you reside. 3. You fish with a trotline, a throwline or ordinary pole and line having no reel or other winding device attached IF you are fishing in the county in which you reside. 4. You have a commercial fisherman's license. BUT if you have a commercial license, then you must: (a) observe commercial size limits; (b) have a license for your boat, trawl, oyster dredge or nets of any kind if you use them). If you are in doubt about your need of a fishing license, then see your game warden. The current fishing license is in effect until August 31, when new licenses must be procured.

Humble Oil and Refining Company's polyolefin unit in Baytown, the largest installation of its type in the world, occupies an area equal to three city blocks and represents an investment of more than $30,000,000, including research and development.

Old-timers of the Southwest called a paint or pinto horse an "Indian pony," since he was the favorite of the Indian because of the savage's love of color.

A False Statement

"If you think you are saved you are saved." The foregoing statement is false and here is why. "He that trusteth in his own heart is a fool" (Proverbs 28:26). He that walks in the imagination of his heart, the Lord will not spare him, but will blot out his name under heaven (Deuteronomy 29:19, 20). A person who cannot declare his salvation upon the basis of what the Bible says, the same has the curses of the Bible resting upon him. If one can be saved on terms other than those stated in the Bible, then the Bible cannot be true.

What does the Bible teach one to do to be saved? Deny himself and follow Christ (Matt. 16:24). Repent and believe the gospel (Mark 1:15). Believe and be baptized to be saved (Mark 16:16). Repent and be baptized for the forgiveness of sins (Acts 2:38). Confess Christ as the Son of God and be baptized (Acts 8:37; Romans 10:10). When baptism is accompanied by these acts, it saves (1 Pet. 3:21). And besides that, it is the answer of a good conscience toward God. Finally, "Be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee a crown of life" (Revelation 2:10). One must do all of these to be saved. Read it and see.

Smooths the Way...
Just as oil lubricates the machinery of business so does NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING smooth the way to greater sales by the local merchant; increase his profits; and enable him to point out to the people of his community not only where to buy but how to save.
