Commissioners Court Wednesday Approves Plan For County Hospital

Farmers May Sign-Up For '62 Grain Program

Growers of grain sorghum may now sign up to participate in the 1962 Feed Grain Program. Joe C. Montgomery, chairman of the Hall County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, announced this week.

The sign-up period extends from Feb. 5 through March 30.

The 1962 Feed Grain Program will be similar to the 1961 program with the same payment rate. The county average rate will be $12.90 per acre for the first 20 per cent and $15.50 per acre for the second 20 per cent of acreage diverted, making an average payment of approximately $14.00 per acre for full participation.

There will be an additional payment of $2.00 per acre that may be earned for seeding diverted feed grain acreage to summer field peas, which will make a possible $17.00 return for diverting 40 per cent of feed grain base acreage to good conservation use.

The principle features of the 1962 Feed Grain Program are as follows: (1) voluntary participation, (2) diversion of not less than 20 per cent of 1959-1960 acreage, (3) compliance with the farm's barley feed grain base, (4) compliance with corn, grain sorghum and barley base acreage on any other farm on which the producer shares in the crops, (5) payments of approximately $14.00 per acre will be paid for acreage diverted, (6) an advance payment, up to about one-half of the total amount can be received at the time of sign-up, (7) price support of the normal production of the acreage in grain sorghum will be guaranteed cooperators in the feed grain program.

Grain sorghum will be supported on a national level for 1962 at the same rate as for 1961,

$1.93 cwt. to cooperators in the Feed Grain Program. To be a co-operator, not less than 20 per cent of the feed grain base must be devoted to a conservation use.

"Just planting 80 per cent of your feed grain base will not qualify your farm for price support," he said.

The diverted acreage devoted to conservation uses cannot be grazed after May 1, 1962 or a crop harvested from it in 1962.

The land idled under the skip-row provision for cotton will not be eligible for use as diverted acreage under the feed grain program.

"We would appreciate all farmers who have planted grain sorghum in past years or expect to plant grain sorghum in future years, to call by the ASCS county office for an explanation of this program before March 30, 1962," Montgomery concluded.

HOSPITAL PLAN APPROVED BY COMMISSIONERS — The schematic plan for the Hall County Hospital pictured above was approved here by the Commissioners Court in a special meeting Wednesday at the courthouse. The plan was presented to the court by Architect Evan Roberts and the court had it reviewed by the Hospital Committee Which recommended that the court approve the plan. The plan will be submitted to the State Department of Health and the Public Health Service for their approval also as one of the steps necessary in the overall program.

Hall County Commissioners Court Wednesday approved the tentative plans for the County Hospital, accepting the recommendations of the recently appointed Hospital Committee.

The Court met Wednesday morning and then returned for an afternoon session until about 2:30 p. m. Present for the meeting were Commissioners Ed Hutcherson, H. W. Spear, O. R. Lambert, Pat Brittain and Judge Tracy Davis.

Meeting with the group was the Hospital Committee, composed of Tomie Potts, chairman, J. W. Coppedge, W. D. Mullin, Carl Hill, and R. C. Clements. One other member of the committee, Lawson Halford, was unable to be present.

Meeting with the commissioners and the committee was Evan Roberts, architect for the County Hospital.

Roberts reported to the group that he recently returned from Austin and has received the latest recommendations of the Department of Public Health there concerning the planning for the County Hospital building.

Since August, Roberts has been working closely with officials in Austin concerning the plans for the hospital, and Wednesday presented the latest floor plan to the Commissioners Court for their approval.

In developing the floor plan, Roberts explained, several plans had actually been drawn. He was trying to utilize the space in the best manner possible, always keeping in mind the requirements of the Public Health Service and the State Health Department.

During the lunch hour the Hospital Committee met and discussed the latest plans, and then after the court came back into session, they recommended that the Court accept them.

The Court also authorized the committee to look further into an offer for the donation of a site and to report back with their recommendations when the commissioners meet next Monday. The Commissioners Court has already purchased the land for one site, but it was pointed out in the meeting that if the other site under consideration was donated, then the county could probably sell the first site for about as much as they had paid for it.

The Court also named County Attorney John Deaver to serve as the person to sign all legal papers necessary in connection with the hospital program.

The commissioners also discussed the necessity of having soil tests made at the hospital site sometime within the near future.

The approved plan shows 14 single rooms and eight double rooms for patients, for a capacity of 30 beds. However, it was pointed out that extra beds could be added to the single rooms if needed in emergencies.

The actual cost of constructing the building according to the latest plans has not been figured as yet, but it was estimated that, after the construction was completed, there will still be about $50,000 left for the hospital to use as operating capital.

National Boy Scout Week

Wednesday began the 52nd observance of National Boy Scout Week here in Memphis, and all over the nation. Few, if any, national movements reach the magnitude of service to mankind in the long run that this organization has accomplished. During the past 50 or so years the Boy Scouts of America, Cub Scouts and Explorers, have done much to mold the development of the boys of this nation in the right direction. And the great work of this organization does not just happen, it is the end result of much hard work on the part of the Scoutmasters and other adult leaders of the program.

Think what a wonderful place in which this would be to live if everyone adopted and followed the 12 Boy Scout Laws, which are as follows: A Scout is Trustworthy, Loyal, Helpful, Friendly, Courteous, Kind, Obedient, Cheerful, Thrifty, Brave, Clean, and Reverent. Not only would their not be any crime and violence, but there would also be a greater amount of brotherly love.

A recent speaker in Memphis stated that the cost of placing one prisoner in the state pen, keeping him until his time is over and then going through the paroll time until he is completely restored to his place in society is over $6,000. At this cost, which we are having to pay whether we like it or not, we can afford to spend at least a little money on programs which give the youth of this nation training in the right direction.

Memphis has a good Scout program in all phases of the work and we hope that this effort continues in the years to come. It takes a little time and a little money, but the investments will pay back many times over as each generation of boys grow up into manhood and take their place in society.

Cost of Government Goes Up

Each day interested and sincere citizens of Hall County mention the fact that government costs are continuing to go up. When this item is mentioned, very little is said about the cost of city, school and county functions. The public are accepting these increases without very much protest. They are primarily interested in the rising cost of government on the national level.

This matter is being discussed in newspapers as they print newsletters from different Congressmen and Senators. Here in Memphis, the matter has been pin-pointed by Congressman Walter Rogers several times during the past year.

Recently an explanation was received by this newspaper from the office of Cong. Jim Wright of Fort Worth. His report is as follows:

Why is it that, in spite of the most painstaking efforts to economize, government costs continue to go up? Basically, there are three reasons.

First, of course, is the continuing struggle to maintain our freedom in the face of the world Communist threat. For every dollar 63c goes for current national defense and such related programs as the space race which aim to preserve our future invulnerability to nuclear blackmail.

Secondly, increasing costs of goods and services hit the government even as they do the private citizen. The government itself is undoubtedly the biggest victim of price inflation. Happily, this grim spoiler has been halted, at least temporarily, for the past year.

In the third place, our population is growing. Every week there is the numerical equivalent of a new Arlington, every two months of a new Fort Worth. There are 40 per cent more people in the U. S. today than there were during World War I. The same level of government services to such a rapidly expanding populace unavoidably brings higher budgets.

These are some of the facts which every citizen of Memphis and Hall County should note. As they are analyzed, one obvious result occurs: higher taxation.

As the demand for better education for our children continues, local people will be asked to pay more money to support our schools. As the public demands more and better services from its city government, costs will increase. Also the same holds true for the county. On the state level, we are now living with the "limited sales tax," which takes its bite from every person's budget.

All are for economy in government. But the question which has never been answered is: where should expenditures be cut? It will be up to those persons who are elected to public office in this election year to find the answers. It takes more than a promise from a candidate that he stand for "economy." He must spell out specific steps which he advocates to curtail this rising burden upon all taxpayers.

Buffalo Clover Festival
Buffalo Clover is what the old settlers called it. Now it's known as the state flower of Texas.

Most likely you prefer the modern name of this beautiful blue flower for it does look more like what it is now called... the bluebonnet.

You haven't seen much of Texas either if you haven't seen the fields of sky-blue bluebonnets.

Every April the town of Marlin holds a "Bluebonnet Festival." Beautiful models are provided to pose for the amateur photographers who travel from all over the nation to see the festival and to compete in the annual photo contest.

Weatherford Walls Bullet Scarred
A double log cabin stands at Holland's Lake just a few miles east of Weatherford.

Its east room is where George McClesky was killed by Indians in 1873. This room still contains bullet-scarred walls.

The cabin was a popular spot for old settlers reunions. Now it is a monument to the pioneers of Parker County.

Lost A Boy

Not kidnapped by bandits and hidden in a cave to weep and starve and raise a nation to frenzied searching. Were that the case, one hundred thousand men would raise to the rescue if need be. Unfortunately the losing of this lad is without dramatic excitement, though very sad and very real.

The fact is: his father lost him, being too busy to sit with him at the fireside and answer his trivial questions during the years when fathers are the only great heroes of the boys, he let go his hold.

Yes, his mother lost him, being much engrossed in her teas, dinners, and club programs, she let the maid hear the boy say his prayers, and thus her grip slipped and the boy was lost to his home.

Ah yes, the church lost him, being much occupied with sermons for the wise and elderly who pay the bills, and having good care for dignity, and mindful of human feelings of the boy in the pew made no provisions for his boyishness.

Are We Over-Extending Our Credit?

As everyone must know, the American economy rests in large measure upon consumer credit—and in late years, on an ever-soaring volume of consumer credit. It takes many forms—mortgages, revolving charge accounts, installment contracts, credit cards which can be used to buy practically anything, and so on. In any case, it provides a means where people can obtain what they want now and pay for it later. In some fields—such as homes, automobiles, and major appliances—cash buyers are few and far between. The majority of the business is done on credit.

In its issue of January 8, Newsweek devoted a lengthy feature article to credit—its vices and virtues, its excesses and its assets, its significance, its probable future. As it observes, never before "have so many owed so much to so many for such an immeasurable variety of things." At the end of last year, total consumer debt was about $290 billion, of which home mortgages accounted for $175 billion. The largest portion was owed to banks, with finance companies, retailers, credit unions, and others following.

The magazine observes that such relatively new economic elements as social security and unemployment compensation "have soothed the debtors' classic fear of being trapped by economic collapse and unemployment." But there is much more to the drastically changed picture than this.

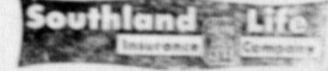

To quote again, "Most important of all has been the expansion of the U.S. middle class and its demand for goods, too huge and too insistent to be satisfied on a cash basis. Debt, in fact, has been transformed from stigma to status symbol, from a last resort of people in need to an entree to the good, material things of life."

How important is consumer credit as an economic force in encouraging production and distribution, maintaining employment, and producing other such plus factors? The answer is—just about all-important. As Newsweek sums it up, the debtor is "the very bulwark of the economy and creator of the U.S. standard of living. Without him, the nation's great industries would slow to a crawl, and the price of almost everything would soar." It quotes a University of Southern California economist as putting the case this way: "Credit makes possible mass production because it makes possible mass buying."

Local Students Now Receiving Dental Inspection

A dental health program is now being carried out in the Memphis Public Schools as a joint project between the schools and the Parent-Teacher Associations.

An inspection is being made of each student's teeth, and those which need something done to them are marked on a chart with red. This chart and a letter is then sent to the parents and they may follow up the inspection by taking the student to the dentist of their choice, if they so desire.

Supt. W. C. Davis pointed out that the parents are under no obligation to have anything done as a result of the inspection. The inspection is only to call attention to the actual condition of the child's teeth.

So far the local dentist, Dr. D. H. Aronofsky, has been inspecting students at the rate of about 40 to 50 per day, and the work will continue into next week.

SENATOR ☆☆☆ Yarborough's Report

As a co-sponsor of the Cold War GI Bill, I'm gratified to be able to report that Senate leadership has indicated that the bill will be called up for Senate action about the middle of February. The Cold War Bill, which 36 other senators are co-sponsoring with me, is a readjustment program for persons serving on active military duty between Jan. 31, 1955, and the end of the Korean GI Bill, and July 1, 1963, the end of the draft.

For this eight year period, there will be nearly 250,000 post-Korean or Cold War veterans in Texas. And the fairest and most effective way of acknowledging the sacrifices of these young men is by training them through the passage of the GI veterans education bill. It is patterned after the GI Bill of World War and the Korean Conflict—the bills that gave the nation 450,000 more engineers, 150,000 physicists, chemists and other scientists, 150,000 nurse doctors, nurses and medical technicians and over 200,000 school teachers. Last year Soviet Russia graduated from its colleges 100,000 scientists, engineers and scientific personnel, while we graduated only 60,000.

These World War II and Korean GI Bills provided the training of the men who are now moving into positions of leadership throughout our nation. Where would we be without them? Where would we be 10 years from now without new resources of leadership upon which to draw? The GI Bill of World War II and the Korean Conflict gave us our present lead with engineers and scientists—a lead that we must step up or lose.

Laws to educate the men who serve our country in the armed forces will go a long way to provide the know-how that will help us maintain a position of world leadership. Even now, with this backlog of people trained under the GI Bills of World War II and the Korean Conflict, our nation does not hold the position of leadership in space that it should hold.

We must attain such proficiency in space that we shall not miss our objectives by a mile, nor an inch nor a fraction of an inch. And we must not miscalculate by a moment in our assessment of the emergency nature of the educational needs of this country in the critical years ahead.

The need for higher education in the United States goes much deeper than the obvious fact that our status in the world depends on our ability to compete with other nations. A case for a readjustment program for the veterans could rest almost entirely upon the increasing role that education plays in our domestic economy. And nowhere is the Cold War GI Bill needed more than in Texas.

We stand thirty-second among the states in the average annual amount of money each person earns per year. We need this bill in Texas; the nation needs this bill.

Through the GI Bill, World War II veterans have become the best educated single group of people in the history of the United States. Because of their training, they have raised their income to the point where they are now paying an extra billion dollars a year in income taxes to Uncle Sam, and at this rate, the GI Bill-trained veterans of World War II and the Korean Conflict will finish paying off the $15 billion cost of the GI education and training program in the next eight years—so the GI training bills make money for the taxpayers of the United States. They are investment bills—not spending bills.

Memphis Cyclone Drops Game At Canadian

The Memphis Cyclone Tuesday met a hard fought basketball team from Canadian to give them losses and three wins in display.

McLean here in what promises to be one of the hardest games of the season.

So far, McLean still hasn't lost a game, but if Memphis could beat them, and then Canadian also down them, the district could be in a three-way tie.

In the game Tuesday night, the local cagers were behind 11 to 14 at the end of the first quarter, and then by the half still trailed by three points, 23 to 26. In the third quarter Canadian surged ahead, 47 to 33. In the final period the Cyclone sunk 16 points to 11 for Canadian, making the score 49 to 58.

The difference in the score was largely from the amount of free throw points tallied by Canadian. Canadian had a total of 34 points from free throws as compared to 13 for Memphis.

In the latter part of the game, Ronald Ables, Bunky Adcock and Perry Wright all fouled out and three other teammates, Dwight Gailey, Dale Sexton and Bill J. Pounds all had four fouls.

Adcock led the scoring with 14 points, followed by Sexton with 12 points.

Jerry Clements led the scoring for Lakeview with 19 points, followed by David Payne with 8. Flomot's high man was Dannie Green with 19 points, and second high was Clois Shorter with 8.

During part of the last quarter, Flomot had to play with four men after having several fouled out of the game.

Shelton Jacobs broke his leg in

Description of Louisiana Is Given By Recalled Army Reservist in Letter

The following account of Louisiana is an excerpt taken from a letter written by Tanya Combs, and describes the countryside from Leesville to Lake Charles, as Billy and Tanya Combs and Johnny and Monta June Harrell motor from Leesville to Lake Charles on a one-day excursion and sight-seeing trip.

The Combs and Harrells are now residing in Leesville where Billy and Johnny are serving as recalled reservists with the U. S. Army at Fort Polk, La.

Mrs. Combs writes: "Sunday was truthfully the most enjoyable day we've had since coming here. Saturday at noon I suddenly got the idea that I was tired of Leesville and wanted to drive down to Lake Charles and around. Billy readily agreed so we asked Johnny and Monta June to go and took off about 10 Sunday morning. It was quite dismal Saturday and then Sunday here came the sun.

"Lake Charles is a lovely city. It is the one place in Louisiana where I think I might enjoy living. There were roses blooming in some of the yards. We didn't really know where to go, so we promptly got lost in Lake Charles. It took us about two hours to finally eat lunch there and grind our way out. Louisiana is the beat-est state I have ever seen to get lost in the towns. We came back and got lost in both Sulphur and DeQuincy and they are relatively small places. Their highway signs are just plain misleading.

But back a little—before you enter Lake Charles you cross the most fascinating river I've ever seen called the Calcasieu. It has lots of water, some houseboats, and along the edges was the only real true swampland I've seen. Dead trees heavy with moss are everywhere. You can see gobs of rotting stumps. It really looks spooky and very snakey. Lake Charles is on Calcasieu Lake and we more or less drove all the way around the lake. We didn't get to the docks in Lake Charles but Gail says Italian luxury liners come up that far. As we started down to Cameron there were just sort of water lilies on either side of the highway much like at home. We began to notice people were fishing everywhere and wondered what in the dickens they were catching in so little water. The ditches got a little bigger and the first thing we knew large boats were on them and there were bayous with house boats along the side. In Lake Charles and all around I'll bet 7 out of 10 houses have boats of one kind or another. We passed a migratory bird refuge which was swampy but without trees and there were beautiful cranes and white smaller birds. Down the highway a bit we took a wrong turn and soon came to the most precious little ferry across the intracoastal waterway. The ferryman was a true cajun. The little ferry carried 6 cars at a time. We finally got to Cameron. You remember it was so bady hit in that hurricane. They have a dock there and at one point or other we got to see most of the fishing fleet including a pretty close look at the Annie Belle. I was amazed at how the front end and deck sloped upward so. They must walk at a perpetual slant. At this dock they had a dredge which is really huge. Cameron is not right on the Gulf so boats must enter through Calcasieu Pass. We left there to drive to Holly Beach. On the road we came to another ferry, this one larger. It crossed Calcasieu Uass, also. We missed a load by one car so had to wait. We got out and watched him cross. A patrol boat of some kind passed. When he came back, we were the first car on. It was the ferry boat "Cameron" under the direction of the State of Louisiana Dept. of Highway, powered by 2 150 HP Diesels, auto capacity 15, Seat 24; length 90'; width 42', depth 9'; built in 1954. As he gets out in the center, he turns sideways and the current takes him across. We could really see well; and when we got out in the center, we got our first glimpse of a ship. It was up-channel toward Lake Charles though and we never did see it close. When we got across and began driving toward the side of the Pass, we saw a freighter up close. It was waiting for the ferry and honestly it was beautiful. I had heard freighters were ugly but this one was black and white trimmed in orange. It was so funny, as we drove away where you couldn't

Highway Comm. Praises New FM Road Bill

The Texas Highway Commission this week praised the new Farm to Market Road Bill as a "constructive piece of legislation" and announced that the bill will pave the way for an eventual 15,000 mile increase in total Farm Road mileage in the State.

Governor Price Daniel recently signed the Farm to Market Road Bill into law.

"The establishment by the legislature, through this legislation, of a long-range maintenance program for Farm Roads will make increased new mileage possible," said Herbert C. Petry, Jr., Chairman of the Highway Commission. "The Texas Highway Commission," he said, "has passed a Commission Minute Order expanding the objectives of the Department from the present 35,000 mile system of Farm to Market Roads to a 50,000 mile system." It was pointed out that this is in accordance with the agreement made by the Highway Commission to all of the interested road development groups to coordinate with the new legislation. "The increased mileage will be developed over a period of years, logically balanced among the various areas of the State," Petry said. "Such a system of roads will be selected for the over-all benefit of the road system and the areas involved and with the objective of developing all areas of the State up to the 50,000 mile system as uniformly as possible."

A total of 34,294 miles of Farm to Market Roads have already been designated.

We are confident that we can secure under the new Farm to Market Road Bill more miles of newly designated Farm Roads than we have been getting in recent years," he said.

see the water, it looked as if the boat was sitting on the land. Just about the time we reached Holly Beach, we finally got to the Gulf. It was very calm. You can drive alongside it for miles. We could still see the effects of the hurricane. Holly Beach is a very small village with houses built on posts. Some of them had been splintered and bits of wreckage were everywhere. Stoves, refrigerators, etc., were just lying around. Some of the houses had been rebuilt with parts of other houses.

Things are so quaint down there. One fishing boat had the laundry hanging out on the lines above it. One fairly nice house had a whole flock of chickens roosting on the small front porch and steps. Everywhere you see these mangy-looking, wild-eyed cattle and horses and pigs. By the Gulf we saw lots of dead cattle and pigs but never could decide what killed them.

There is a shell beach which runs for miles. We got out and roamed up and down looking for pretty shells. Monta June and I got some really pretty ones.

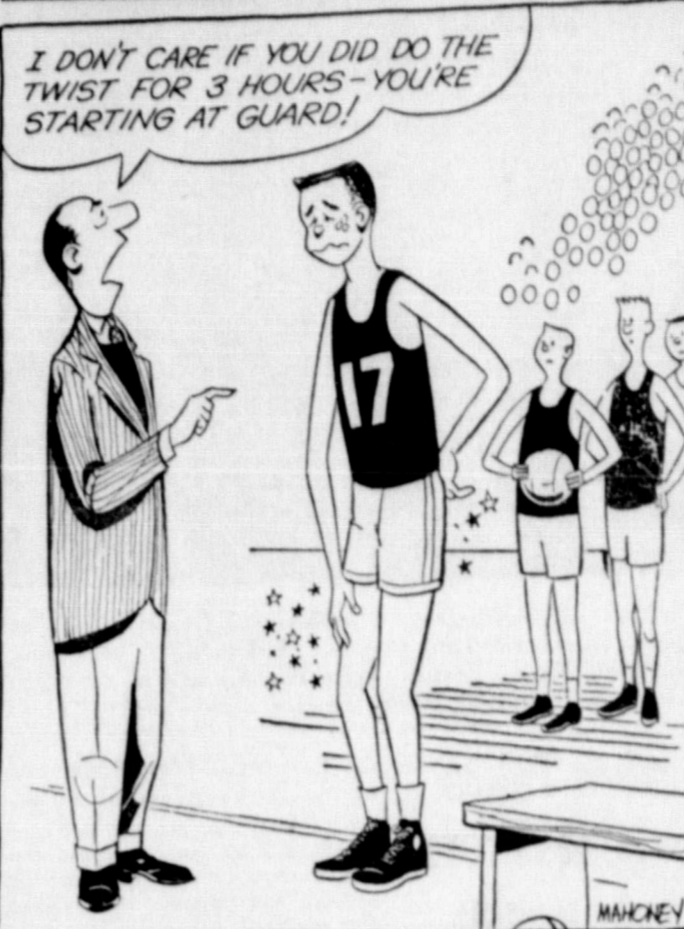

We left the Gulf and started back around the other side of Calcasieu Lake. More bayous! We caught our pretty freighter clear up and across the lake, docked at Hackberry. Through the whole trip we crossed many pontoon and draw bridges, some over not much water, but small fishing boats were around. I think you would really have to know what you were doing to take a boat out of some of those places.

Further on up we passed the Louisiana State Pen. It was quite impressive after dark with all the lights on. The road sign said, 'Do not pick up hitch-hikers.'

We finally got back about 9:00 p.m. Johnny and Monta June seemed to enjoy themselves and I know we did.

Texas ranked first in the nation with 37,477 persons enrolled in Civil Defense adult education classes.

G. D. Stephens Called to Indiana At Relatives Death

Hall County Soil Conservation District News

The population of Texas is expected to grow rapidly during the 1960's. On April 1, 1960 there were about nine and one-half million people in Texas. There should be about eleven and one-half million by 1970. This is an expected increase of about 20 per cent.

The United States is undergoing adjustments in land uses, and will continue to do so, whether one accepts the low, medium, or the high estimates of the population increases by the years 1975, 2000, or 2010.

At the present time one million acres of land each year is given up to housing projects, roads, and other non agricultural uses in the United States. The shift of land to industry, recreation, transportation, water surfaces, and living space will continue at perhaps an even faster pace.

We are at the beginning of a new and decisive period in our national conservation effort. To meet our food and fiber need a scant 15 years from now, we will need the production equivalent of 200 million more acres, as based on 1956 crop yields. This production must come largely from existing cropland.

So it is that, even by 1975, there will need to be improvements in soil management, disposal or prevention of excess water on good soils, added water for dry soils, reduction of soil losses resulting from water erosion on sloping lands and wind erosion on dry lands.

The current trends in American

Report From Washington

By WALTER ROGERS
Representative, 18th
Congressional District

About De-Urbanization?

It has been said and written about the problems and difficulties of the urban population. It has been repeatedly pointed out in economic reports that the deconcentration of our farm population in our farm population areas is that there is a corresponding increase in the city areas. It is now estimated that 70 percent of our population live in the urban or metropolitan areas of the country. This trend has been obvious for years to the politicians, but its physical impact on the economy of the country and on the political makeup of the country is just not beginning to be felt.

It is an assumed fact of human life that a great many of man's ills are caused by overcrowding. The social ills of the past century were primarily the result of overcrowding in the cities. It provided a fertile field for the exploration of the city as an economic base and as the breeding place for the ills of man. As the population increases at the rate of three million per year (an increase which will be 60 million by 1980), the problems become accordingly greater. The migration from the rural areas into metropolitan areas has not only increased, but, in fact, appears to be increasing.

It was recently estimated that by 1980 our population will increase by 65 million people. This will mean that we will have 240 million people in the United States. Yet, in 1950, experts estimated that by 1975 we would have 175 million people. It is almost impossible to feed that many people. It shows how wrong the present can be. The fact is that migration from the farms to the cities is caused by the increasing difficulties encountered by the small farmers trying to make a living on the small family-sized farms. It is estimated that although the population will increase to 240 million by 1980, 50 million less acres will be required to feed the population. Some argue that the farmer has advanced technologically so fast and so well that he has virtually put himself out of business. Be that as it may, the more rural people who move into the cities, together with the natural increases in the populations of the cities, the more social problems we are going to be faced with in this country, and the more and greater demands for legislation to solve them. It will necessarily follow that the demands for such legislation will be to the Federal Congress is most instances, rather than the State Legislatures. The reason being that most States undertake to meet the problems proposed by this great influx of the population to the metropolitan areas are now bankrupt or on the verge of it. They do not have tax sources from which to acquire the funds to meet the demands. Most of their taxing powers have already been stretched to the breaking point. Hence, these cities are turning more and more to the Federal government, as a number of them have done in the past, and as others will do in the future. The end result will be complete centralization of the government of this country. It will mean the ultimate destruction of the dual sovereignty form of government and could well do much damage to the basic separation of powers theory.

Several years ago a group of us in the Congress undertook to place a "dispersal amendment" on authorization and appropriation bills for defense expenditures. This would have set up machinery for expenditures by the Federal government to be spread through the country and contribute to the dispersing of the population. This amendment was repeatedly defeated because of the greater number of Representatives from the areas designated as industrial areas of the nation. Had the amendment passed I feel that the people of those areas, or perhaps their children, would have been much better served. Although it may have been necessary for them to have been removed from one geographical location to another geographical location within the United States, it could be assumed that this would have been to their benefit rather than their detriment.

Cpt. Bill Wyatt Serving Aboard Assault Ship

Information was received this week that Marine Lance Cpl. Bill T. Wyatt is serving aboard the amphibious assault ship USS Princeton. The ship is operating as a unit of the Seventh Fleet in the Western Pacific.

Cpl. Wyatt is the son of Mrs. Margaret C. Wyatt, Route 1, Memphis.

Certainly it would have avoided the declaration of many of these areas as distressed areas, to be the recipients of negotiated contracts to keep employment up, and Federal welfare grants.

In short, it is my feeling that emphasis should be placed on deurbanizing our population if we are to solve the problems of social justice, of health, of freedom from exploitation, of crime, and create an opportunity for the freedom which many of the people have never tasted. They might like it.

'The Devil at 4 o'clock' Features Tracy, Sinatra at Tower Drive In

Spencer Tracy and Frank Sinatra, two of the screen's most important actors, are paired for the first time in the Mervyn LeRoy-Fred Kohlmar production, "The Devil at 4 O'Clock," in Eastman Color at the Tower Drive-In here Friday and Saturday. Playing a Pacific island priest and a cynical convict, respectively, the stars reportedly give performances so filled with entertainment fire-works that they almost outshine one of the most explosive of all possible natural phenomena: an earthquake and volcano eruption which completely destroys the South Seas island of the film.

"The Devil at 4 O'Clock" is set in the South Pacific, on the island of Talua. Here, on the side of a dormant volcano, Tracy has built and is maintaining a jungle hospital; here, as a stopover while enroute to an island prison elsewhere in the Pacific, Sinatra arrives with two other convicts. The criminal's every meeting with the priest strikes fire; they join forces only when the earthquake presages later, more violent, volcanic action.

The priest and the convicts parachute to the rescue of the hospital's staff and child patients. Their party fights its way against time, through raging forest fires, landslides, rivers of mud and other perils created by nature gone berserk. The children and the hospital workers reach the beach in time to board a waiting schooner; they are carried to safety as Talua blows itself up.

According to Hollywood report, Tracy and Sinatra are equally superb in their characterizations of priest and criminal, bringing to the screen performances which are made the more meaningful by the way they work together.

Among the other colorful characters of "The Devil at 4 O'Clock" are Kerwin Mathews as a priest come to relieve the aging Tracy; Jean Pierre Aumont as a seaplane pilot; Gregoire Aslan, as a criminal; Alexander Scourby as the island's cruel governor, and Barbara Juna, as a blind hospital worker who brings total enchantment to her love scenes with Sinatra.

Farmers May Find Advantages In New Depreciation Method

Depreciation takes its toll from farm machinery, buildings and other farm investments every year. It's just simple economics that capital goods lose value as they age. There is a bright spot, however, because farmers can deduct this depreciation from their income tax, says C. H. Bates, extension farm management specialist.

All farmers, whether they complete their own tax returns or provide information to an accountant for filing, should study the choices on depreciation available to them. A copy of the 1962 Farmers Tax Guide, which may be obtained from the local county agent, provides an explanation of the alternatives available. The discussion in Chapter 9 of the Guide explains how each of these choices can affect the amount of tax to be paid in a particular year.

A rather recent change in the tax law allows what is called Additional First Year Depreciation. This is a flat 20 per cent deduction allowed the first year on personal property used in farming (or business) provided the assets have a useful life of six or more years. The total amount on which this deduction can be taken is $10,000 on a single tax return, or $20,000 on a joint return, explains Bates.

For computing regular year-to-year depreciation, the farmer has a choice of three different methods. If the Straight Line Method is used, the farmer subtracts a reasonable salvage value from the cost of the asset, and then divides the remainder by the number of years of estimated useful life. This gives the annual depreciation allowance, which is the same amount every year.

Under the Declining Balance Method, the rate of depreciation on new assets is double the rate used in straight line method. For example, on a tractor having 10-year life, the depreciation is computed by taking 20 per cent of the cost as the first year's allowance. This is then subtracted from the cost, and 20 per cent of the remainder is the second year's allowance, Bates points out. No salvage value is required under the Declining Balance Method since there is a "remainder" after 10 years deductions.

The farmer's choice of the Declining Balance Method or other fast write-off on an asset would depend on his need of larger deductions. For example, in a year of unusually good income, a tractor, combine or other asset bought could be placed on this method, thereby doubling the depreciation.

Conversely, if the year's income is small, any asset bought could be placed on the Straight Line Method, thereby holding the depreciation to the lowest possible level.

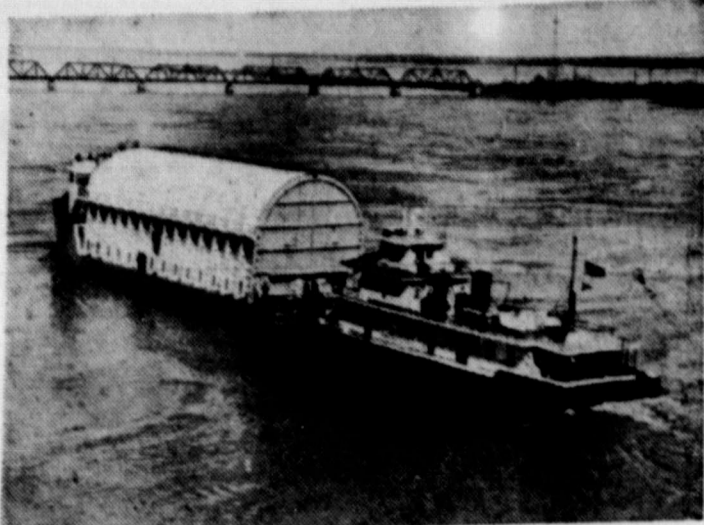

Farmers should also remember that depreciation may be taken on breeding stock. It should be claimed on those animals that are purchased at a cost considerably above what they will bring when discarded from the herd.

I Give You Texas

By Boyce House

When I was editor of the Piggott Banner in 1920, Arkansas had a wide-open race for governor. There were seven or eight entries with the high man the winner — (in other words, no runoff).

The best bet in the early stages appeared to be an able lawyer who had master-minded two or three successful campaigns for the governorship for other candidates. But there was one entry who apparently was running with no hope of winning but just to keep the favorite from finishing first.

The other candidate devoted almost all of his speech to an attack upon the "lead buck," a big, broad-shouldered man who walked with steady tread. His appearance caused the rival to refer to him in contemptuous tone as "the proud peacock-Napoleon of the Ouachita."

The vitriolic one finished well down the list.

Tom C. McRae had been in Congress 30 years before and was reputed to be 70. Furthermore he was a banker — which meant, to the average voter in Arkansas in those days, that he was rich — yet so effective was the cutting-down to size done on "the proud peacock-Napoleon of the Outchist" by his enemy that McRae was the high man.

And incidentally he made a fine governor.

Your columnist was McRae's campaign manager in Clay County. When he spoke in Piggott, someone paused and then made a sage remark:

"The wise hunter does not waste ammunition on a dead duck."

Gilbert K. Chesterton in writing a review of a lady novelist's latest book slightly varied Shakespeare's phrasing, "Age can not wither nor custom stale her infinite lack of variety."

Twenty-two Texas public high schools have taken advantage of a new State Board of Education Standard which authorizes state-accredited high schools to advance superior and talented students at their own rate through advanced standing and advanced credit examinations.

USDA Announces Developments on Cotton Fabrics

Longer lasting collars and cuffs on men's wash-wear shirts and a single treatment that gives cotton wash-wear properties and also permanently dyes, starches and adds other finishing agents to the fabric were announced today by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

A cotton interliner was treated to give it wash-wear qualities and then bonded by an adhesive to outer layers of untreated cotton cloth to make the collars and cuffs. The finished fabric not only has wash-wear qualities similar to those of the treated interliner but also has high resistance to fraying or abrasion that is ordinarily associated with cotton. Samples made with the treated interliner were somewhat stiffer than the usual soft collars and cuffs but less stiff than acceptable starched ones. The wash-wear qualities were rated excellent.

The new multipurpose treatment involves use of divinyl sulfone derivatives. These chemicals have the unusual ability to react with cotton's cellulose molecules to produce a good wash-wear finish and at the same time to attach other finishing materials permanently to the cellulose molecules. The derivatives could prove even more versatile in cotton processing. They may be capable of attaching to cotton many other chemicals, including those that give resistance to fire, heat, rot, mildew and some repellency to water and oil.

By adding both dye and starch to a solution of divinyl sulfone derivatives, the scientists obtained a permanently starched and colored wash-wear fabric. Laundering tests indicated the treated fabric was highly resistant to damage from chlorine bleach.

The new treatment can be applied with conventional textile finishing equipment. Fabric is dipped into the chemical solution, run through squeeze rolls to remove excess solution, then dried

Pick-Ups for Beauty

If your beauty is suddenly looking a bit winter weary, then do a quick beauty pick-up in those departments in which it's needed to feel more alive.

Make-up may need a change as skin lightens from summer months. Try one of the new moisture, base and powder combinations that comes in a tube and spreads readily. Select a color closest to skin tone.

Use a pumice stone on winter-roughened elbows, heels, etc. If this is not enough, apply a good moisturizing cream for nighttime use.

If the hair has been exposed to wind and snow, drying heat, etc. use a conditioner to rub in the hair and scalp. A trim and change of styling may also help.

To keep hair styling and set longer, band lots of tissue around the head, placing clips in strategic positions to hold both tissue and hair line. Wear a large net over all.

Thespian Troupe To Give One-Act Play in March

The National Thespian Troupe 1113 of Memphis High School will present its annual one-act play festival on Thursday and Friday nights, March 1 and 2. Mrs. Roy L. Guthrie, co-ordinator, announced this week. The curtain will rise at 7:30 p. m.

For the past several years members of the troupe have presented the one-act play festivals in the early spring. The purpose of the productions has been two-fold, Mrs. Guthrie said. First, to give entertainment to the friends and families of the Thespians and second, to select a one-act play for Interscholastic League competition. In addition to the selection of the play, the Judges also name the best actor, the best actress and a supporting cast of three boys and three girls.

On Thursday evening, March 1, "Ruffles and Roller Skates", a comedy by Margaret G. Myers; "The Thompsons," a comedy by Joseph Hayes, and "Maker of Dreams," a fantasy by Oliphant Down will be presented.

Two plays will be presented on Friday night, March 2, and the honor Thespians will be recognized.

The plays presented Friday will be "Meet Me in St. Louis," a cutting from a three-act play by Perry Clark, and "The Glass Menagerie," a cutting from the seven-scene play by Tennessee Williams.

YOUR Social Security

Persons who receive monthly social security checks and who earned over $1200 in 1961 are required to file an earnings report with the Social Security Administration by April 15, 1962, according to Hal Geldon, manager.

Some people confuse the income tax return with this special earnings report, Geldon said. The filing of an income tax return does not relieve social security beneficiaries of the responsibility of filing the annual report with the Social Security Administration.

Most beneficiaries who have received some checks for 1961 will get a notice about the report in the mail. The report is necessary so that the Administration can determine if beneficiaries have received all of the payments to which they were entitled in 1961. Persons who have previously filed for benefits, but have never received any because they were working and making too much money also need to file the report. Some of these people, as a result of filing the report, discover they are entitled to receive some payments that they have not received.

Geldon stated that most people are able to file their report and mail it into the Social Security Administration without any assistance.

Department Of Public Safety

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following the seventh of a series of articles appearing in the Memphis Democrat detailing the evolution and organization of the Department of Public Safety and the numerous vital services this agency provides for the people of Texas.)

Texas Highway Patrol—High Performance Record
The Texas Highway Patrol, operating with less than half the number of patrolmen recommended by national authorities, is high in performance during the past two years as it pursued its primary objective of securing and maintaining order on the rural highways of Texas.

The program consisted of traffic control, police traffic accident investigation, police traffic law enforcement and patrol, and criminal enforcement.

The patrol, operating on a decentralized basis out of 12 district offices, carried out its mission by covering 54-hour weeks, covering 64,000 miles of rural state highways.

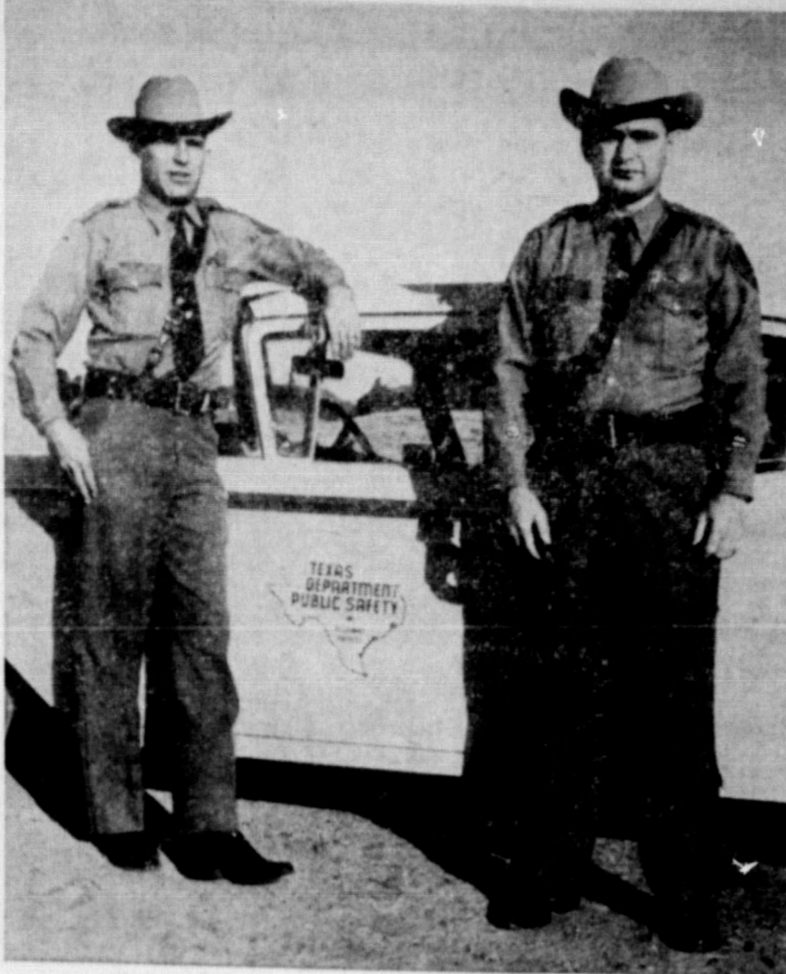

It combats traffic dangers, traffic accidents and crimes also occur at times under adverse weather conditions, patrolmen were assigned to work at these times and under these conditions. In major traffic accidents, in tornadoes, in floods, in fires, explosions and hurricanes, men of the Patrol were found working, without thought of personal safety, for the protection of the people of Texas.

The volume of traffic in terms of vehicle miles driven is rising constantly, and the total number of miles of highway under Patrol jurisdiction is steadily increasing.

During the calendar biennium 1958-1959 the average number of traffic deaths per year on rural highways was reduced from 1,956 in the previous two-year period to 1,699. Congestion was further relieved to add to the general efficiency of the transportation system. The reduction of these two wastes, fatal accidents and congestion, made a significant contribution to the security as well as the social and economic well-being of every citizen and visitor in the state.

Patrol personnel travelled over 20,000,000 miles per year during the past biennium, working an average of some 1,600,000 man-hours annually. They investigated some 26,000 accidents each year, gave information or rendered as-istance to more than 700,000 persons each year; made upwards of 900,000 arrests or warnings; rendered first aid to more than 1,000 persons per year; gave approximately 100 blood transfusions a year; and apprehended approximately 1,000 felons each year.

With an authorized strength of less than 800 men actually patrolling the highways, the Texas Patrol was seriously undermanned if compared to that of California, with over 2,500; Illinois with over 1,300; Michigan with 1,100; New York, with 1,500; and Pennsylvania with 1,900.

The most widely-accepted criterion for determining police personnel needs, and one used by national professional groups, is a ratio of 80 men per billion vehicle miles travelled. This criterion considers accident exposure, traffic volumes and attendant congestion, and highway mileage.

In Texas in 1959 there were about 22 billion rural vehicle miles travelled. On this basis, a Texas Patrol force of 1,760 men would be indicated.

The National Safety Council reported that, with less than half the number of men considered a minimum by its standards, Texas' Highway Patrol did an 82 per cent job, according to the Council's appraisal measures.

When danger threatens or disaster strikes, Texas highway patrolmen are among the few persons who know what to do and are able to do it. Countless incidents of this nature have occurred during the past two years. In 1959, when a Braniff Airliner exploded in mid-air and crashed to the ground near Buffalo, Texas, patrolmen played a major role in handling security at the scene where 34 persons lost their lives. In 1960 an alert patrolman saw a funnel cloud dipping to the ground at intervals in the vicinity of Schulenburg, flashed a warning to the communities in its path by radio, and literally "chased" the twister in his patrol car so that he might keep people advised of its course. In another instance, highway patrolmen extricated a family trapped in a burning automobile near Corpus Christi, and watched it explode minutes later. These are but a few examples of how the Patrol went about its business of protecting the public safety.

Art Workshop Held Here For Local Teachers

An art workshop and clinic for the teachers in Austin and Travis Elementary Schools was held in the Travis Cafetorium Thursday, Feb. 1, at 2 p. m.

Troy Caraway, teacher of Art Education, Abilene Christian College, was the instructor. He has served six years as supervisor in the Abilene Public Schools. He has been Art Demonstrator for the American Crayon Company for the past three years.

Mr. Caraway is a wonderful teacher in the field of art and he demonstrates with an enthusiasm that makes his teaching great.

This workshop was one of several in-service training programs the teachers of the Memphis Schools are having this year.

More than 4,500 graduates of Texas colleges and universities in 1961 are now teaching in Texas schools.

Farm Records Are Essential For Success

Good farm records are essential for a successful operation, according to Cecil Parker, extension farm management specialist. Records provide the proof of past performance, and they are an indication of the potential of a given farm, farm manager and the technology used.

Proper records will allow each farmer to compare one enterprise with another and they are very important when the farmer wants to combine enterprises. An analysis of a good set of records will point out the strong and weak points of the business, and they are also handy to have around when it comes time to file income tax returns.

"The type of record book or system you use depends on what you want your records to do for you," says Parker. "The minimum record should include an inventory of land, buildings, equipment, livestock and supplies; all expenses grouped by kind; all income received; land use and production of crops and livestock; and a place to summarize the year's operation. The more details the record shows the more valuable it will be."

Parker says this is a good time to get records for 1962 started, and it is also a good time to study last year's records to determine if any changes need to be made.

Entries should be made as soon as they occur or as soon thereafter as possible, he advises.

Why you may never catch up with the Joneses

Their car is a slightly battered '56 model. The house could use a coat of paint and some new rugs all around. The family couldn't get away for a vacation last Summer. Why should anyone envy them . . . unless it's a case of their contagious happiness. They're close as a family, self-sufficient, self-reliant with what they have. Faith in themselves plays a big part in their happiness; a deep religious Faith plays a bigger part. Take a look at your lie and see if it could be fuller. Regular worship at your church can help you find what you've been missing.

... of cold weather showed week to remind us winter season—despite the balmy last week! However, the plowed fields remind us is just around the corner, and are in the making for next of '62.

Amid a Valentine members of the Atalan-Club entertained honoring president of the Santa Rosa TFWC, Mrs. Philip Carl of Burk Burnett. Mrs. Carl is heading the organization first president after the re- of the state nearly two ago. It was in Memphis that district was formed and officers elected. Also at the tea were other Fed-Club members of the city.

... gratulations this week to H. Stanford who celebrat- 79th birthday Saturday. ly the party was a couple early in order for her two sers, Mrs. Raymond Thomp- and Mrs. Helen McMurry of to be here. A vivacious charming little lady, Mrs. and doesn't let the years up her activities. She is one truly pioneers of this city having come here as a young bride in 1898. For more than 50 years now she has resided at the same location, 503 North 14th Street.

And, congratulations, too, to Mr. and Mrs. Sam Brown, who observed their 50th wedding anniversary Sunday, and to Mrs. C. B. Stephens of Lakeview who observed her 77th birthday Sunday.

And, we want to say thanks to Bob Stephens who commented he missed our column the past three weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Stephens and daughter, Terri, of Perryton were here over the weekend to visit with their many friends.

It's the second set of twins in the Dunbar family. . . Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Whitten have adopted twin sons, William Brad and Cecil Brock. Mrs. Whitten, the former Beverly Bowerman, is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Dunbar, and the boys are their great-grandsons. Other twins in the family are the Dunbars' grandsons, Van and Nance Hodge, six-year-old sons of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Hodge of Fort Worth.

Happiness will prevail within the next month for three Memphis families whose sons will arrive from Korea where they have served with the U. S. Army for several months. Butch Adcock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oran Adcock, and Jerry Gowdy, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Gowdy, Sr., have already sailed for the States. James Waddill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Waddill, will sail on March 2. Despite the fact that the three Memphians went to Korea together, they are all scheduled to sail on different dates.

Visiting here with friends last week was Fred Boon of Exeter, Calif., who left Hall County for that state in 1923. He has returned several times through the years to visit here. Friday Mr. Boon came by for a visit with Mr. Wells, and, finding him out-of-town, we gave him information concerning old-timers who still reside here. And, Mr. Boon, in turn, filled in on some of the early-day stories of the county.

He recalled the first wogan he owned was purchased from the late T. M. Harrison at Harrison Hardware Co. The terms were $80 cash (cash meant if you paid in 30 days) or $90 on credit. . . the credit extended up to one year. Mr. Boon said he used his wagon to do hauling and was able to pay it off in the 30-day period. Later that same fall he purchased a low-wheel wagon on the same terms. He was able to pay that off on the cash terms, too. When Christmas came along, he decided to buy a toy wagon for his son; so he went into Harrison's, and reminded Mr. Harrison that he had bought two wagons already that fall and asked what kind of trade he would make him on a third wagon. Mr. Harrison immediately replied that he could have $5.00 off any purchase. . . Mr. Boon pointed to the toy wagon marked $3.50 and said he would take that one. Mr. Boon recalled that every- one in the store laughed at the joke. . . and not to be outdone, Mr. Harrison would not take a penny for the wagon but insisted on sticking to his part of the bargain.

Today's chuckle: Bobbie was in a store with his mother, when he was given a stick of candy by one of the clerks. "What must you say, Bobbie?" "Charge it," Bobbie replied.

WAY TO A MAN'S HEART—There's an old saying, "Red and yellow, catch a fellow." This also may be true when it comes to keeping him. The tie-back draperies in this cheerful dining and kitchen area are bright yellow cotton trimmed with red half fringe. Red is picked up again in the baby cafe curtains and in the tablecloth edged with yellow half fringe. Pleated draperies are easy to make with pleating tape and hooks by the Consolidated Trimming Company.

Patricia Gardenhire Named To Honor Roll at Wayland

Patricia Alexander Gardenhire, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Alexander, Memphis, is one of 22 students at Wayland Baptist College, Flainview, who earned a place on the Dean's roll by making a 2.50 or above grade-point average.

Mrs. Gardenhire, a junior English major, posted a 2.81. Among the seven men and 15 women who were named on the list, Hong Kong, and four states, Idaho, Indiana, Wyoming, and Texas were represented.

MINUTE MEDITATION

Jesus said, "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free."

In the prayer that Jesus prayed to God, he said, "Thy word is truth" (John 8:32; 17:17).

The truth is what God has said about a thing, and what men have said about the same thing could be true, but it is not necessarily true, and it certainly is not true unless it agrees perfectly with what God has said about it.

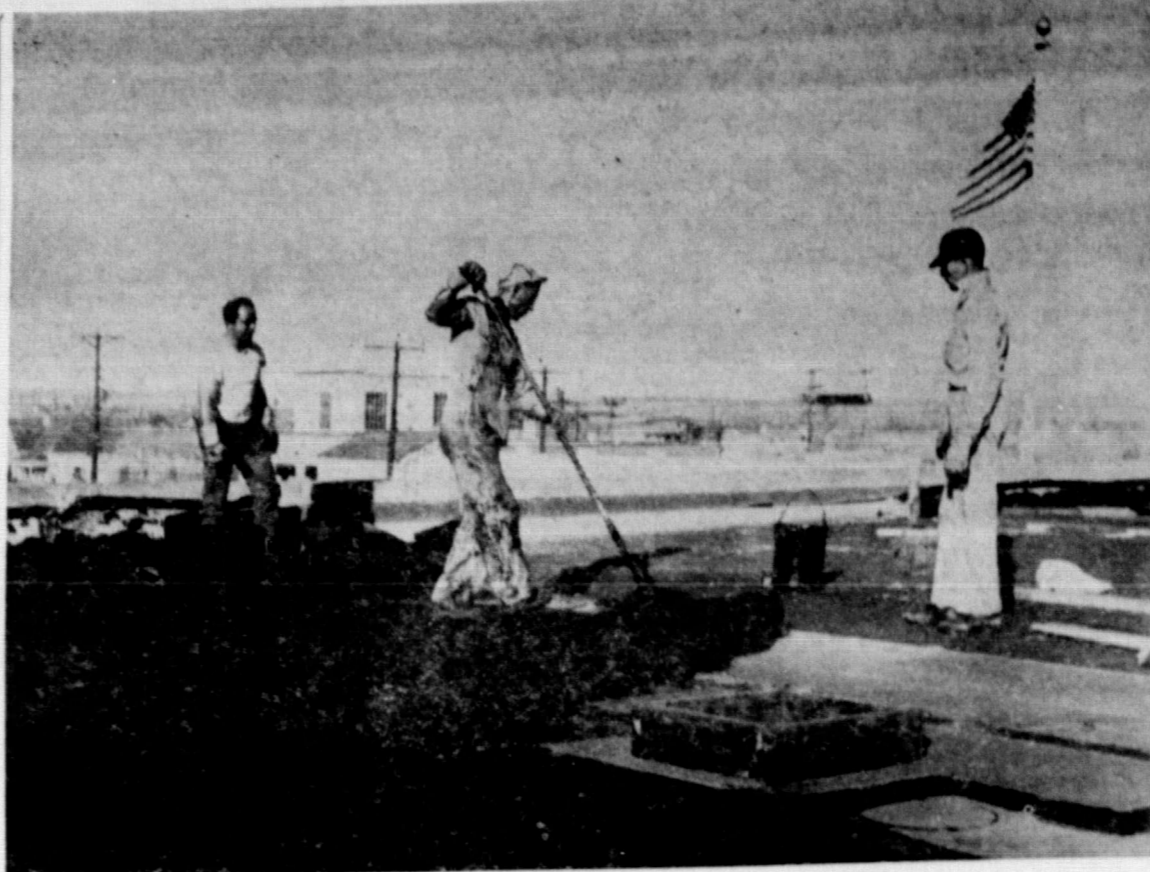

Truth is like the sun which may be hid momentarily by a passing cloud; it is like a living stream whose waters are promptly cleared after having been troubled; it is like gold which the more it is tested the brighter it becomes.

Truth is glorious and precious; it is as old as the Ancient of Days; and yet it is always as fresh as the morning rain to those who find it.

Truth is unerring; it is a single star in a firmament of comparative blackness that leads one to the Christ; it is a diamond in the dust, a jewel among rocks, a lily among thorns.

God give us men who love the truth and will not ruin it by stretching it; men who will not only speak the truth, but translate it into life; men who will seek truth instead of greatness that they may find both.
