$214,000 Sought For Estelline Salt Hole

Congress has been asked for some $214,000 to build a dike around the Estelline salt spring, known as the Salt Hole to most area residents.

At present some 300 tons of salt per day is added to Red River as a result of the flow of the salt spring near Estelline, engineers have estimated.

Col. Howard Penney, head of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers' Tulsa district, has advocated a 280-foot diameter dike around the Estelline spring to seal it off, on the assumption the added head of water on the spring will produce enough pressure to seal the seepage.

The Industrial Era Ahead

Within the next 10 years there will be considerable industrialization of Memphis with an increase in population following. This is our prediction, based on the thinking and actions of the people of this community during the past several months.

For many years the people of this area have been thinking of a broadening of the base of the economy of this area, and some progress has been made in this direction. The division and district offices of General Telephone Company of the Southwest adds many thousands of dollars to the economy here, as does the cotton classing office in the fall.

But this, in our opinion, is only a start toward the development of our potential. We now have here a large compress, which brings money to the community by the processing of cotton for shipment and storage. This field of processing our agricultural raw materials will continue to expand in the years to come, if the community takes advantage of the opportunities — and we believe they will. One good example is that of feeding - out cattle. We have the cattle in this area and we have the grain with which to finish them. So, there is no real reason why the project shouldn't be carried out here — and we understand that this is being looked into right now.

This field of developing the processing of what we have in Hall County was one of the ways of building industry which was pointed out by three specialists who spoke here last Thursday night at an industrial meeting held in the Travis Cafeteria. From the number of persons present and the general attitude manifested, we predict that the community will move forward in the years to come.

However, it will not be a magic movement. It will take the hard work of a lot of people and will depend partly upon the attitude of every citizen in the community. We will give one example of how the general attitude of every person in town can effect a community development program. Last week a person visited our community and was an industrial prospect. He wandered into a business firm, and casually said to one of the employees, "The sand sure blows here, doesn't it?" The employee answered, "It blows every day." This comment left the man somewhat worried about the weather, however, he continued to investigate here and found out that there had actually been only two or three sand storms during the past year. This may not always be the case with visitors. Many of them might take a half-joking remark as the actual truth.

All of the people in Memphis who have contact with strangers should always be on the lookout for prospective residents. This was one of the points which was brought out at the industrial meeting. The feeling that travelers have about a town is usually the impression made by only two or three individuals with whom they come in contact.

There are many other phases of community development which will be up for attention in the coming months. There is no doubt in everyone's mind, outside industrial experts included, that Memphis can boost its economy by industrial development, provided that we move toward that goal at a steady pace. We must always work toward this end, year after year, never stopping. A program of being hot one year and cold the next will not achieve the results. And after our first success, other establishments, will follow. This has been the pattern in other communities. The first industry is always the hardest to get.

At present there are two industries considering Memphis. Maybe they will decide to come here; maybe they won't. But the fact remains that we have made progress to have them consider our community. This is what must be continued in the years to come. The entire community working for the progress of Memphis and this area. It is easy to say, but will require a lot of hard work over a long period of time to achieve.

Baldwin's Indian Battle

An interesting thing about touring Texas is the exciting history you can learn from our highway markers. If you'll take the time to read the markers that dot our highways, you'll find it as exciting as reading an action packed novel. Who's imagination would not be carried away with this marker 17 miles south of Pampa? It reads, "In this vicinity Lieutenant Frank D. Baldwin, commanding two companies of United States troops, attacked a large band of Indians and rescue two white girl captives, November 8, 1874."

Seguin's Rebellion Battleground

Cordova's Rebellion was ended in 1839 in a prairie battleground just east of Seguin. A monument commemorating this Guadalupe County battle now marks the Central South Texas battleground. Here 80 volunteers, commanded by General Edward Burleson, engaged in battle with Vincente Cordova and 75 Mexicans, Indians and Negroes. The volunteers killed 25 of the enemy and drove the rest from Texas. Many of the volunteers were wounded in the battle but they incurred no fatalities.

What Other Editors Say

A Decision Long Overdue

President Kennedy's decision to resume U. S. nuclear tests in the atmosphere was not only wise; it was essential. The only criticism is that it was long overdue. For more than three years the United States has been following the suicidal policy of imposing upon itself a unilateral test ban.

In 1958, we rushed toward an agreement with the Soviets, which wasn't even signed and could not have been guaranteed, under the pressure of world opinion.

Since then we have neglected our own weapons development, while our representatives sat at Geneva with the Soviets discussing possible avenues leading toward nuclear disarmament.

—The Dallas Morning News

No Other Choice

Most of mankind will share President Kennedy's "fervent hope" that a way can be found to banish the arsenals of the world the awesome thermonuclear weapons.

But that day has not arrived. Nor, apparently, the day when the further development and perfection of such weapons can be stopped.

The President has made the difficult decision to resume nuclear testing in the atmosphere to guarantee the security of the American people and the entire free world.

We believe the President's decision was the right one. His presentation of the facts and reasons behind that decision in his address to the nation also should persuade any rational and objective man that it was the right decision.

The decision was not easy to make. It takes only a tiny peek into the future — if you think of the horror of the weapons in prospect — to understand why the President made such a patient and thorough study of the problem before the go-ahead.

The United States will resume tests in the atmosphere over the Pacific Ocean late in April unless there is a revolutionary change of policy by the Soviet Union — a change that would require a reversal of policies the Russians have clung to for nearly 17 years.

President Kennedy holds open one last chance for the Soviets to bring an end to the spiral of nuclear weapon development. He still will sign a treaty banning nuclear tests — if the Russians will agree to an effective international system of inspection and verification. He is ready to go to Geneva to sign such a treaty with Khrushchev.

Past and recent history offer little hope for such an about-face by the Soviet Union.

The Soviet Leaders will be making a colossal mistake if they underestimate President Kennedy and the will of our country on the major points:

—The overriding belief that a slow-down in the arms race is essential if the world is not to plummet into an era of greater insecurity.

—The determination to go ahead with that race if the Russians are unwilling to make any concessions of the essential issue of inspection and control.

The President will continue to work for disarmament even after tests are resumed. But at the freedom of the American people." The American people should support him, as they have supported his predecessors in equally momentous and difficult decisions. — The Fort Worth Press

Local Firemen Vote To Buy Radios for Cars

Memphis Volunteer Firemen voted Tuesday night to purchase 10 units to convert car radios to receive messages broadcast from two of the fire trucks or from the base station at the City Hall.

This move was part of the general program to provide a more efficient means of communication for the fire fighters. In a meeting earlier this month, the City Council voted to purchase two mobile transmitting and receiving units. These will be installed in two of the fire trucks and the base station at the City Hall.

Members of the department are now in the process of providing the necessary equipment to convert member car radios to receive on the base frequency. They are using department funds.

This will enable firemen to turn on their car radios and receive information regarding the location of fires.

Work has almost been completed on the grass fire fighting truck. Tuesday night firemen tested out the pumping system with two hoses, and stated that sufficient pressure was developed to spray the water across a city street and onto the side of a building.

They reported that the truck was complete enough to be used at a grass fire now, but a few other minor changes will be made.

A committee was also appointed at the meeting to begin work on equipping the station wagon, recently purchased. This will be made into a rescue wagon with all the equipment needed for emergencies.

Livestock Team Competes At Top O' Texas Show

The Memphis FFA Livestock Judging Team, composed of Jerry Scott, George Miller and Keith Graham, competed in the Top O'

Texas judging contest at Pampa last Tuesday.

The local team did not finish in the top four but their score was the best so far this season, Neal Hindman, Memphis vocational agriculture instructor, said.

Each member of the team scored over 300 points, and only six points difference was recorded between the top and low man.

"This is one of our better scores and would have won some of the other shows this year, but it scored as well that day," he said.

Robert Moss was one of the youths considered at the meet, a scholarship given by the center of Pampa, but lost out in the final selection.

Every 24 hours, a half million tons of oil are moved from fields to Texas refineries.

GIRL SCOUTS OF AMERICA
on your 50th Anniversary

We Take This Opportunity To Honor Our Local Girl Scouts and the Adult Leaders of Memphis!

In 1912, when Juliette Low organized the first Girl Scout troop, airplanes and automobiles were in their infancy, radio and television were still in the future and space was only a blue sky. All this has changed in the time between 1912 and 1962. So, too, have the Girl Scouts — an organization we are proud to salute on their 50th anniversary.

When founded, there were only 12 members of the first Girl Scout troop. Today, some three and one half million girls are in Scouting. In the past five decades, almost 19 million girls have learned and matured into strong, worthwhile members of their communities, thanks to the fine training received from Scouting.

The basic precepts of Girl Scouting are as valid today as they were 50 years ago. Girls want to do their duty to God and country, help other people, to be patriotic, responsible citizens. Woven into all active, youthful, friendly and adventuresome things Girl Scouts do is Scouting' soundly concept of fairness, honesty, loyalty, decency and kindness.

GIRL SCOUT PROMISE

On My Honor, I Will Try:
To do my duty to God and my country,
To help other people at all times,
To obey the Girl Scout Laws.

1. A Girl Scout's honor is to be trusted.
2. A Girl Scout is loyal.
3. A Girl Scout's duty is to be useful and to help others.
4. A Girl Scout is a friend to all and sister to every other Girl Scout.
5. A Girl Scout is courteous.
6. A Girl Scout is a friend to animals.
7. A Girl Scout obeys orders.
8. A Girl Scout is cheerful.
9. A Girl Scout is thrifty.

Guest speaker was W. C. Davis, superintendent of the Memphis Schools, who spoke on the subject, "Proud to Be a Texan: Proud To Be a Memphis Texan."

He said, "Our state is made up of all kinds of people with a very successful struggle to make this state what it is today. 'As Texas goes so goes the world' was the saying around the Globe at the Texas Centennial some years ago when Texas was one hundred years old. As Texans we are proud of our heritage, our resources, our hospitality, as having served under six flags. The Battle of the Alamo, led by Santa Ana, is now a living shrine for many Texans, love being most predominant.

"It is said Texas is truly space minded—you know it was a Texas cow that jumped over the moon," he concluded.

Concluding the program, Mrs. Clyde Lee Smith showed movies of the Delphian Club's Tour of Homes Decorated for Christmas.

Have you ever asked yourself the question, "Am I an ambassador for Hall County?" What do you reply when you are questioned about the city and county in which you live . . . do you compliment its people, its schools, its churches, its city government, its county government, its climate, its businesses and the merchandise they handle and the services they render? Do you recommend it as a fine county in which to live and rear a family?

You may not have thought your comments count . . . but this was one of the points brought out at the Industrial meeting last Thursday evening by three experts in the field of industrial development. To bring industry to our county is simply a matter of selling ourselves, we decided after listening to three excellent talks by men who devote their time to this field. And, to be able to sell it to someone else, you first have to be sold on its yourself, we believe.

Most times, the three experts pointed out, companies who are interested in expanding send representatives to various towns in an area before a definite location is made. They consider the assets of each town, listing both the good and bad points offered by each city. Their findings are not all based on figures given by the Chamber of Commerce or some other official delegation . . . they talk with individuals who are unaware that they are giving answers to someone who wants to know if this would be a good place to live.

One speaker pointed out that industry moves into a town where the word Community can be broken down to read comm-UNITY.

Then, on Saturday evening we were guests at the Charter Banquet of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. The young men of our city are to be commended for making a step forward in the organization of a Junior Chamber of Commerce, an organization through which they can pool their efforts to render a service to the community.

Guest speaker for the evening was Lewis Timberlake, State Jaycee president, who made one of the most inspiring 20-minute talks we have heard in a long time. We liked the thought that it isn't the number of years we live that counts but rather the things we can accomplish in the time we live that matters . . . that the time to make our mark is now—today!

Congratulations to the Memphis Girl Scouts who are joining with other Scouts to celebrate the 50th anniversary this week. And, at this time, may we commend the adult leaders who are giving of their time and energy to carry on this worthwhile organization to train the young women of our city. Remember the Scouts are presenting a pageant Tuesday evening at the Travis Cafetorium, and they want you to come and learn about the history of their organization. The program is free and YOU are invited.

vacation trip to Monterrey, Mexico, last week.

Miss Saied was one of five Perryton High School beauties who were candidates for Band Sweetheart in Perryton. Dates To Remember: junior plays: at Memphis Friday night, March 16; at Lakeview, Friday evening, March 23; Girl Scout Pageant, Tuesday evening; Travis PTA meeting, Monday night; Volley Ball Tournament sponsored by the senior class, March 22-24; Game Night at IOOF Hall, Thursday night, and at Country Club March 29.

Displayed in Baldwin's window is a prayer by Conrad W. Hilton, which was given on the Ed Sullivan TV show in December. Byron was so impressed with the prayer he wrote for a copy . . . and this week he received an autographed copy from Mr. Hilton. If you are on the west side of the square, do take time to stop and read the prayer. It's most inspiring.

The Speech Department, under the direction of Mrs. Roy Guthrie, came home from the Interscholastic League meet with not only a first on their play but with two individual awards. Noel Clifton, Jr., won the best actor award and Miss Sara Jo Foxhall was selected as the best supporting actress. Congratulations to students and their able director, who are most deserving of this honor as they have worked hard. Memphis will represent the region at Lubbock April 13-14.

MINUTE MEDITATION

Almighty God May We never become so wrapped up in our own troubles that we cannot feel another's woe. Teach us to be so understanding and so sympathetic with our neighbor that we will want to cover the fault we see.

When we come to the throne of grace to ask mercy at thy hand, may we have the fullest confidence of receiving it, knowing that we have first shown mercy to others. Let it descend upon us as the gentle rain from heaven, moving our spirits with a feeling of well being, and a sense that all is right with God.

When the world is falling apart around us, and men's hearts are failing them for fear of those things that are coming upon the earth, may we stand firm as stone, showing kindness in another's troubles and courage in our own.

For all men are created equal and are endowed by their Creator with the rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, for God has made of one blood all nations of men on the earth, and he who shows loving kindness to his neighbor is behaving like the God who made us all

Stars In Their Eyes' To Be Presented Fri. by Junior Class

The Junior Class of Memphis School will present the play "Stars in Their Eyes" on Friday evening, March 16, at 8 p. m. in the High School Cafetorium.

The three-act comedy, "Stars in Their Eyes," is the story of the Kelton family in an all-British city.

The Keltons join in the big show, and as the curtain rises here they are located in sunny California very much intent upon crashing the movies.

The crash they made is the next to the one heard 'round the world. It may not get them right pictures, but it gets the audience into a laughing mood—and that's what counts.

There's Papa Kelton who's employed as a milkman and waiting his big break . . . and there's Mama Kelton who's an aspiring playwright with ambition, and three effervescent daughters, who with their parents, proceed to keep the whole town in a turmoil all the time.

And there's Beatrice—daughter who was cut out for the movies. But apparently cut wrong she can't even get in a mob picture for a Bugs Bunny picture.

And there's Lancy—the little one of the family—who finally succeeds in getting the whole family practically booted out of their tired apartment and into a tent. Julie, the eldest daughter, is the only really sensible one of the whole crop.

You'll want to see this hilarious comedy and the characters as portrayed by members of the Junior Class. Admission is 50 cents for students; 75 cents for adults, and $1.00 for reserve seat tickets.

The characters are: Dwight Gailey, as father; Betty Evans, as the mother; Sara Jo Foxhall, as Lindy; Neva Sue Koeninger, as Eloise; Marilyn Driver, as Beatrice; Paula Gentry, as Julie; Kilgore, as Mr. McDouglhee; Carol Smith, as Mrs. McDouglhee; Jone Ward, as Miss Mennen; Mary Murdock, as Gertie; Jim Reynolds, as Kenny Leroy; Randy Robertson, as Bill; Charles Waller, as Mr. Bounce; Wayne Sweatt, as Mr. Peekin and Harvey McMurry, as Mr. Beammer.

Director is Mrs. Roy Guthrie, while student directors are Jo Ann Shawhart and Nancy Mothershed. Rex Grisham will serve as master of ceremonies. Other committees include: Hurchel Wolf and Roy Graham, house managers; Floyd Aleman, stage manager; Dean Yarbrough and Joe Parker, ticket office; Phil Howard and Sue Beth Stinsman, host and hostess, first floor; George Miller and J. N. Jeffers, floaters; Wayland Fronterhouse and Barbara Haynes, host and hostess, second floor. Also Dale Hall, Keith Graham, David Dillon and Dan Foggnet, hosts, third floor; Jacky Bridges, Marcene Stephens, Jerry Scott and Betty Ann Young, ushers; Marcene Stephens and Barbara Hancock, ticket printing; Barbara Haynes and Phil Howard, general admission; Carolene Kennon, John Lemons and John Miller, reserve seats; Barbara Hancock and Wayland Fronterhouse, posters; Betty Ann Young and John Miller, publicity; Montie Martzell, program; Katie Phillips, Gayle Hadaway, Sandra Hansard, Jacky Bridges and Dale Sexton, strike party.

Class sponsors are Mrs. Gloria Wilson and Neal Hindman.

Members of the Junior Class stated they wished to express their deepest thanks to Mrs. Roy Guthrie for her tireless direction and support, and their thanks to B. J. Thomson for typing the programs.

Hedley Lions Express Thanks For Sale Help

Members of the Hedley Lions Club this week expressed appreciation to all who assisted with their auction sale in any way whatever.

"We had a very successful sale, and the money will be used to help pay for the building which we recently purchased in Hedley for a community building," stated Herbie Moreman, president of the organization.

He also explained that part of the money would be used to pay for a new roof on the structure and to repair the floor.

A special thanks was extended to Winfield Mosley for his work in charge of the dinner at the auction and to Mrs. Clyde Bridges and the other women who gave much assistance.

"We also had several persons who donated things for us to sell, and this really helped financially," he concluded.

The Permanent School Fund provided $18,360,000 of non-tax funds for use by public schools during the past year. Current rate of return of the Fund has been increased from 3.18% to 3.49%, an increase of $1,410,500 in annual income for the public schools. Investments at par totaled $455,091,644 at the end of November.

You bird hunters who carry your dogs in the car trunk should keep the car trunk closed, rather than partly open for ventilation. Open tops only suck in gas fumes. Close the top and "air" the dogs at regular intervals.

Report From Washington

By WALTER ROGERS
Representative, 18th
Congressional District

H. R. 3 Again

On June 24, 1959, the House representatives passed a bill and H. R. 3. This Bill had the same primary purpose as the Federal laws from down and over-riding laws in the absence of an irreconcilable conflict, unless the act affirmatively stated the H. R. 3 was called by the title "The States Bill". Its author was the Hon. Howard Smith of Virginia, Chairman of the Rules Committee of the House.

Need for this legislation of the application of the Federal preemption by the States Supreme Court. It simply provides that no act of Congress shall be construed as an intent on the part of Congress to occupy the field in such act operates, to the extent of all State laws on the subject matter, unless such act contains an express provision effect, or unless there is an irreconcilable conflict between such act and a State law so that the two cannot be reconciled or constantly stand together.

It has long been the recognized rule that acts of Congress take precedence over State laws where there is an irreconcilable conflict between the two. It has only been in recent years that the application of this doctrine has been extended to the nullification of State laws by the mere existence of a Federal statute, and where there is no conflict and where the Congress has not so expressed itself in the act being construed. H. R. 3 simply spells out the proper application of the doctrine. It would not change the law where there is an irreconcilable conflict between a Federal statute and a State law. It would not change the law where Congress, in passing an act, expressly stated that it was the intention of the Congress that the act superceded all state laws in that field. It would nullify the decisions of the Supreme Court which struck down State laws not in irreconcilable conflict with Federal law and when the Federal law does not expressly preempt the field.

Probably the most famous case involved and the one that prompted the introduction of H. R. 3 was the Steve Nelson Case. The Steve Nelson Case decision nullified a Pennsylvania sedition statute on the basic theory that the Federal Government had preempted the field between passage of the Smith Act of 1940 and various other Federal statutes dealing with National security. It is a strange coincidence that the author of the Smith Act referred to here is the same Howard Smith of Virginia who is author of the present H. R. 3. Certainly Congressman Smith never intended that the Smith Act of 1940 should be so construed by the Supreme Court as to result in nullifying sedition laws in 42 states. Congressman Smith has always been one of the leading advocates of States' Rights. He is a southern gentleman of the highest degree, and a man who has always subscribed to the dual sovereignty form of government with complete separation of powers as provided under the Constitution. Those of us who have supported him in his long and difficult fight to correct the decisions of the Supreme Court in this particular are looking forward to many obstacles and difficulties. It is true that we were successful in passing H. R. 3 on June 24, 1959, by the vote of 225 to 192. It is regrettable that further action was not had during that session of the Congress in the Senate. Whether or not the lack of action at that time was due in whole or in part to the vigorous opposition to the measure expressed by the then President Eisenhower, I do not know, but I do know that this is a measure of tremendous importance insofar as the basic policy of government in this country is concerned.

H. R. 3 is again before the Congress and has been recently approved by a subcommittee of the Judiciary Committee of the House of Representatives. It is my hope that it will soon be approved by the full Judiciary Committee. It should then be passed upon promptly by both Houses of the Congress and laid on the desk of the President of the United States, regardless of who he is or what party he represents. Until this matter is finally determined by the Representatives of the people of this country, it will not have been passed upon by more than one Branch of our Government. Certainly the Legislative Branch and the Executive Branch should assume their full responsibilities in the determination of this vital question.

David Hudgins and G. W. Salmons Enjoys Vacation In Monterrey

Mr. and Mrs. David Hudgins and Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Salmons returned on Friday of last week from a combined business trip and vacation to Monterrey, Mexico.

While there they visited farms in the area and also enjoyed sight seeing in the city.

Among places they visited was the office of the American Consulate, where they spent about 45 minutes in conference with the officer in charge. Mr. Hudgins said the American government maintained a very modern building and office in that city and was one of the busiest offices he had visited.

While visiting the farm, they learned that labor was very cheap in that area. Many of the farm laborers received about the equivalent of 90 cents a day in American money for their labor and some of the peons worked for as little as 45 cents a day, Mr. Hudgins said.

There are many beautiful new buildings in the city of Monterrey, he said.

However, he concluded, it makes one happy to be an American citizen after comparing our living standards with those of our neighbors.

SHE IS JUST AWAY

(By James Whitcomb Riley)
I cannot say, and I will not say
That she is dead—she is just away!

With a cherry smile, and a wave of the hand,
She has wandered into an unknown
land
And left us dreaming how very fair

It needs must be, since she lingers there;
And you, O you, who the wildest
yearn

For the old-time step and the glad return—
Think of her faring on, as dear
In the love of those as the love of here;

Think of her still as the same,
I say:
She is not dead—she is just

production at an early date. Members of the Industrial Committee spent several restless nights hoping that the decision would be in Memphis' favor, Howell said. It was with real relief that the information was received Wednesday that the plant would be located here.

The Hall County Industrial Foundation has been asked to provide a building of about 5,000 square feet with considerable outside storage space. This will be leased to the company on a lease-purchase agreement. The company has asked for no special concessions or favors, Howell said.

They wanted a location where they could market their products throughout the Southwest—Dallas, Fort Worth, Oklahoma City, Amarillo, Denver, Albuquerque, Lubbock, Abilene and other cities. Transportation from Memphis is good in all directions and was an important consideration in their selection of a site. Also the weather here was considered favorable. They must maintain a temperature of 68 degrees in the building for working the raw material before it goes into the ovens. Extremely high or extremely low temperatures would present additional problems, Holster said.

A small amount of stock in the company will be offered locally as they want some local participation, and at least two directors from Memphis.

Holster was associated several years with the Red Fish Boat Company, producer of fiberglass boats, at Clarksville, Tex. During this time he experimented with various uses for fiberglass and plastics.

Children of the six families will probably not arrive here until after school is out, but when they are all here, it will represent an addition of 16 people to our community, Clifford Farmer said, in addition to others they will employ in their plant.

Mrs. Leslie Foxhall and Mrs. Noel Clifton accompanied members of the one-act play cast to Canadian Tuesday for the Inter-scholastic League contest.
