Experts Tell Local Citizens Industrial Facts Of Life Tues.

Question Gets Response From Guest Speakers

A discussion about Memphis was started when Mayor H. J. Howell asked the following question, which was given to him from the audience: "What was your first impression of Memphis when you came to town?"

Harry W. Clark stated: "You do need some more face-lifting, put more 'grease on the squeaky wheel.' You will have some growing pains but keep the ball rolling. Do not be content with what you have now."

James Covell stated in response to the question: "You need more housing... do something about it. Look at your zoning laws. Get a plan and look to your future problems."

John Perryman said: "Mark your streets and get an aggressive city government. Paint parking areas and around fire plugs. Lower high curbs and repair curbs and gutters. Don't let cliques get going in your town. Sweep streets regularly and clean up stores and areas."

Bill Sayles answered a question with a question: "What do you think of Memphis as a site for industry? Is Memphis a town you like to rear your children in? If so, then you will take pride in your own town."

The speakers at the meeting toured Memphis from 5:30 to 6 p. m. Tuesday, and then were guests of the Chamber of Commerce Industrial Committee for dinner at the Cyclone Drive Inn at 6 p. m.

'Leaders Who Will Pass Up Making $1 Today To Make $2 Tomorrow'—Clark

"To grow, you must have the leadership... the kind which will give up making a dollar today to make two dollars tomorrow," Harry W. Clark, Executive Director of Texas Industrial Commission, Austin, told an audience of over 100 citizens Tuesday night at the Travis Cafeteria.

Mr. Clark, nationally-known industrial developer, continued, "your leadership must realize the trend to industrialization and urbanization. The future depends on: 1. industrial growth, 2. agricultural growth, 3. transit growth (tourist)."

In his opening statements, Mr. Clark discussed the future industrial development of Texas and stated that the Texas Industrial Commission coordinated and complemented the industrial program of industrial development. "We must move forward on projected plants and we must sell our economic geography," he said.

"Industry will come to your town if they think they can make money here. Can your community sell itself to a prospective industry? You must evaluate and analyze your position, your town must have a favorable economic report," he said.

Selling The Community
John Perryman, Director Industrial Dept., Lone Star Gas Company, Dallas, spoke to the assembly on "Community Selling the Community."

He said, "Your hometown is the greatest place to live. This is the strongest portion of democracy. We come in as a stranger, ask questions and analyze. What is the first impression you get? Lights? Are store fronts clean? Good appearance, etc.? What kind of City government do you have? What about the tax rate, is it fair? If these and many more questions receive good answers, a good impression is taken away. "Local citizens must sell their town," he said. "The opinion expressed by a service station man to a complete stranger can be very beneficial," Perryman said. James A. Covell, Director Industrial Dept., General Telephone Company of the Southwest, San Angelo, carried along the same theme when he said, "the knowledge of an individual can help sell your community to industry."

"Schools are important; each town must have facilities which are first rate. Recreation is important due to more leisure time. The town must have good fire and police protection," he said. "Co-operation of people is important to attract industry. You need active support from county and city officials and the business people must give their active support to a project. These things are what industrialists look for in a community. Community development is necessary for industrial development," Covell stated.

Congratulates Memphis
Bill Sayles, Industrial Department of West Texas Utilities, Abilene, said "congratulations to Memphis on landing Postex Mills." "When you formed your Industrial Foundation, you set up the basic need of attracting industry to your town. We saw the new construction going on and you have stopped the declining population and economic conditions," he said. "Remember," Sayles said, "the basic desire of your people will determine your future. You can use a strong desire and community attitude to help build your community."

"Be sure your new industries here are happy. They must grow and add new employees. Keep what you have and keep them happy. You are looking for employment of people you have here. Keep a balance of your labor force. Try to get industry which will utilize local things," he said. Sayles suggested a pork processing plant. "To be effective, you must go out on an organized campaign to attract new industry," Sayles concluded. The Business and Professional Women's Club served coffee and donuts after the meeting was over.

'64 Wheat Allotments Are Being Mailed Fri.

Notice of 1964 crop wheat acreage allotments will be mailed to wheat farm operators Friday, April 19, Joe C. Montgomery, chairman, Hall ASC county committee, announced today.

For most wheat farms, the allotment represents the farmer's share of the 1964 national wheat allotment of 49.5 million acres which is a 5.5 million acre reduction from the 1963 allotment of 55 million acres.

Hall County's 1964 wheat allotment of 11,710 acres represents a decrease of 1,120 acres from last year's allotment of 12,830 acres. All allotments mailed on Friday will carry the required reduction.

The Hall County original allotment for 1964 before the required reduction was approximately 13,000 acres. This is the acreage on which reduction payments will be based. Through full compliance with the 1964 wheat program, Hall County farmers would receive some $56,000 in diversion payments and have 9,500 acres seeded to wheat on which they would receive a support price of $2.00 per bushel for their normal production, he said. ## 75 Students To Play In Piano Auditions Here Adjudication of 75 piano students of Memphis and Wellington began today, April 18, when Sherman Storr of La Jolla, Calif., arrived to preside at the hearings sponsored by the National Guild of Piano Teachers.

He has also studied toward his doctorate at the University of Southern California at Los Angeles. In 1935-34 he studied at the Juillard Institute, N. Y. C.

He served as professor of Piano theory and composition at the University of Colorado from 1934 to 1943 and 1947-49. Concertized in Duo Piano work from 1950-54 and has served as National Guild Adjudicator and private teacher.

He has published teaching material for piano students at several major publishing companies including Boston Music Co., Mosston, Mills Music Co., N. Y. C., Brodt Music Co., Asheville, N. C. and several others.

in rating piano playing. Each student plays from memory two to ten numbers and all above elementary stage are required to pass a test on scales and cadences. The auditions are conducted privately to put the student at ease.

The main purpose of the Guild is to stimulate the average music student to a fuller musical life. Many little beginners take part at a tender age, playing elementary music, and it is one of the most pleasant duties of the visiting judge to listen to their playing and see their glowing enthusiasm. Diplomas, scholarships and awards are available in the Guild for the student ambitious of making music his life work.

EDITORIAL

Hall County Is Growing!

After the 1960 population figures were released and residents in Hall County were informed that this county had a population of 7,241, many residents were shocked at the drastic decline in population of Hall County during the 10-year period since 1950.

However, sunshine began breaking through the heavy clouds the past two years in the form of new industry, both agricultural and industrial, and Saturday, the figures released by the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Texas on the 254 counties in the state, revealed that Hall County has seen a population increase of 3.7 per cent during the past two years. But the same release stated that Hall County's population as of April 1, 1962 was 7,888. Anyone with a pencil and a piece of paper can see that 7,241 from 7,888 leaves 647 which would represent an increase of 8.9 per cent using simple mathematics.

Hall County's figures are not the only figures which cannot be rechecked in this way. None of the figures coincided with the percentage totals over the entire state.

But this is outside the scope of this editorial. The fact still remains that out of the 254 counties in the state of Texas only 16 counties experienced a greater percentage boost from 1960 to 1962 than did Hall County. This county tied with Wichita County and El Paso County at the 3.7 per cent increase mark.

The population increase in this county can be explained by the increased economy. The county has experienced an increase in the agriculture economy as well as an increase in payrolls by privately owned business and industrial plants.

The Economic Index for Hall County has been raised 8.5 per cent due to the increase in industry and pay rolls, etc. This increase also affects the Memphis Independent School District budgeting for the 1963-64 school year. School officials announced recently that the 8.5 per cent raise in the Economic Index will cost the district better than $3,000 for the 1963-64 school year. This will mean that the district will have to throw about $3,000 more from local taxes into the operating fund. The 1962-63 budget called for about $34,000 in operating fund, derived from the economic index last year.

A review of the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Texas report showed that Texas population is up 2 per cent, and that only three of the states 25 major metropolitan areas saw a decline in population, while the remainder saw an increase in population.

Hall County has received much publicity of its population and economic growth. Long-time residents should welcome the new comers into our communities, churches and schools so that all may work together to make Hall County a better place in which to live, to worship, and to raise our children.

Accidents Bring On Stop Signs!

The number of fender-bending accidents in Memphis have been on the increase the past several months and the Memphis City Council, the Memphis Police Department, and the Memphis Junior Chamber of Commerce have been working together to do something about the situation.

Memphis drivers can prepare themselves to begin observing more stop signs than have ever been erected in the City of Memphis, because 37 such signs have been purchased and the metal poles have been placed on the signs, ready for erection.

Where the signs will be placed has been worked out by the City Council and the Police Department; the corners have been investigated and the necessity for the signs has been ascertained.

When will they go up? Jaycee President Carroll Gardenhire stated this week that the signs will be erected as soon as a digging machine can be acquired to do the job. "We have been ready for the past two weekends but we have had to postpone the project because we did not have a digging machine," he said. The Jaycees have undertaken the project of erecting the signs for the Memphis City Council.

When the signs are erected, drivers will be expected to observe the signs, despite what their driving habits may have been in the past. Until the signs are erected, it would be wise for drivers to observe safe driving practices, and at intersections where there are no signs, to yield the right-of-way to the driver on the right, as outlined in the State Drivers manual. It also has been noted that drivers on 6th street and 16th street (and several other streets) have been driving at excessive speeds and are creating a driving hazard which could result in a serious traffic accident.

Drivers in Memphis are no worse than drivers in other towns or cities in Texas, however, by observing safe driving habits, many fender-bending accidents, which are costly to those involved, can be prevented.

Let's make an effort to be better drivers and set good examples for our children and neighbors!

A Sense of Humor

What is the greatest of gifts, in the field of an individual's personality? In our opinion, the greatest is the sense of humor that produces the contagious smile, the genuine laugh.

A smile and a laugh can achieve what the greatest exertion often fails to accomplish. It can set the mood at a meeting, or in a group, and it can bring about a warm response quicker than anything else.

Have you ever wondered why you enjoy being around certain people, while you dread the sight of others? Maybe it is because you enjoy the company of the former and you enjoy it because they are pleasant and bring you pleasure.

The person with a sense of humor, who can laugh at himself as well as others, possesses a matchless gift. He will live longer, he will get more out of life, and he will go further. He can make friends readily, and will usually be good company.

Try cultivating a genuine smile and a gentle affection for people to go along with it, and you will soon be amazed at the results. And if you do not have a finely developed sense of humor, and are all business, for example, try cultivating a sense of humor.

Do not put it off! The longer you wait in life the harder it is to develop that neglected sense of humor. And of all the personality traits, the most valuable by far, (after personal integrity of course) is the ready smile, the genuine sense of humor.

The Depth and Silence

It is a curious and heartening thing that in all the thousands of words written on the tragic loss of the nuclear submarine Thresher in the North Atlantic, no emphasis was put on the cost of the ship. Such is the value the Western world puts on human life.

It will be well to remember this—that in a week when the newspapers were discussing the possible development of a neutron bomb of such intense radiation that it would "kill people while preserving structures," the loss of 129 men on a submarine left us numb with shock.

A poet once said, "The bottom of the sea is cruel." But this is only partly true. The Atlantic is a great, wide, restless ocean, but in the peace of its great depths and silence lie the bones of many heroes as these.

It befits men who love the sea that they one day should give themselves to her entirely.

Beef Import

Texas cattlemen were pleased when Governor John Conally told them at their recent convention that something should be done about the large amounts of imported beef that were helping to depress prices on the U. S. market.

According to a news story in Tuesday's San Antonio Light, the Department of Agriculture has issued a new order which requires that all frozen meat being received from Mexico must be thawed and inspected before it is cleared for shipment into this country. 300,000 pounds were held up at Laredo Monday. Those importing submarine Thresher, there is little one can say to ease the pain of loss. Only that they can take great pride in these adventurers. As for the children who survive, we hope some day, remembering, they will read these lovely lines from Shakespeare's "Tempest": Full fathom five thy father lies; Of his bones were coral made; Those are pearls that were his eyes; Nothing of him that doth fade

TOTAL PERFORMANCE:

YOU'LL KNOW WHY SHE DOESN'T FEEL THE BUMPS...WHEN YOU TEST-DRIVE FORD'S NEW $10,000,000 RIDE

The 1963 Ford gives you a ride every bit as smooth as cars costing hundreds more, and for two reasons: a revolutionary new suspension system... and added road-hugging weight. It took ten million dollars to develop the new Ford ride. We designed a revolutionary new suspension system for the '63 Ford. Where ordinary suspensions move only up and down to absorb road shock, the Ford suspension moves backward as well. In this double-action suspension system, coil springs up front and leaf springs in the rear combine to give you firmness in cornering and a special smoothness over the road. We added weight, strength and stability. The new Ford is now actually hundreds of pounds more car than any other car in its class. This remarkable weight advantage is in the suspension, frame, and body. And, as you know, this added weight means a more stable ride. But a solid, road-smoothing ride is only part of Ford's total performance story for 1963. Look how Ford swept the field this year in the grueling Daytona, Riverside and Atlanta 500's and the demanding Pure Oil Performance Trials. Only a car with total performance—the best combination of strength, balance, precision control, braking power and road-clinging suspension—could roll up so many wins. Before you buy any new car, test-drive a Super Torque Ford. If you haven't driven one lately, you can't really know what new Ford is like. Make this important discovery—if it's built by Ford, it's built for performance... total performance.

Former Memphian—

(Continued from Page 1, Sec. 2) personnel to get an annual check-up, and here I was a 30-year-old kid. Needless to say, I wasn't received very well. But over a two-year period I finally got everybody to go for his annual examination.

"Then the president insisted that I get one, too. I never felt better in my life, but I did it to pacify him. And the doctor said, 'What the heck are you doing here? Well, we'll make it legal.' So I went through a two-day exam. On the second day he walked around behind me and started punching my neck. He asked if I had any soreness and I told him no.

"He said I had a growth on my thyroid gland. He said it looked about the size of a hen egg, and it would be wise to cut the thing out. The day after the surgery he came in and told me they had cut a tumor out as big as a cantaloupe, hanging from the thyroid, hanging internally behind the rib cage.

"In a couple of days I was up and ready to go home, and then the doctor walked in, his face longer than a ruler. He said he had bad news, that the pathologist at M. D. Anderson had analyzed the tumor and found it malignant. That didn't mean a thing to me then—malignant was just a word. The doctor said a surgeon who specialized in the throat and neck would have to be brought to do a radical.

"The surgeon was one of the most skilled in the world, but bedside manner he hadn't. He said it was going to hurt, it was going to be serious and it was going to be expensive. If I had to say what the worst thing it was, I would say it was having to have surgery 10 days later, instead of right then.

"Well, as you can see, I have a scar that starts at the left ear and runs across the front of the neck to the right shoulder and then it starts at the chin, crosses the other ear, and goes to the left shoulder. It took him 10 hours and 50 minutes. They estimated the tumor was seven years old and the malignancy was 22 months old.

"It turned out it had involved the muscles around the esophagus and the first time I tried to swallow a Coke, it came out my nose. I thought, 'He's fouled up my whole digestive system. He's ruined my life.' I began getting mad and by the fourth day I was in a real, well, what my wife calls a ackassy mood.

"I hurt like hell. My beard was growing out through the bandages, and I couldn't swallow. I wanted to die. That day when the surgeon walked in, he grabbed me by the shoulder and said, 'I want you to quit your bellyaching.' He and I have become close friends, by the way. Anyway, I was up walking around the fifth day and home the ninth day. I was out deep sea fishing in nine weeks." Robertson went on, shifting his 6-foot-3-inch 188-pound frame in his chair and lighting a cigarette.

"It ended up well. Everybody was happy, and then I turned up with a keloid—that's scar tissues that won't heal. In 1959, 1960, 1961, I had plastic surgery on it seven times. Then he came up with a new experimental medicine, and I was saturated with the new pills. That's the way it went, operate, saturate, operate. Finally, they were able to stop the scar tissue from growing.

"They told me three years ago they were quite confident there wouldn't be a recurrence. Then they said they were 99.9 per cent certain there wouldn't be, and six months ago they told me I was scot free.

"Meanwhile, even while I was

Laugh Of The Week

"Don't forget to wait for your trading stamp."

still having the plastic surgery for the keloid, I did a fool thing that I knew was wrong. I was barbecuing for company one night and— I knew better, but I did it—I poured gasoline on some new coals and whoosh!

"I was in the hospital 21 days, with severe burns on my right hand and left leg. This scared me real seriously. I could visualize my whole leg with a keloid, but it healed all right.

"I hate to go the car wreck route, but I guess I might as well go into that, too," Robertson went on with a shrug and a sigh. "But can't we just leave it that I was in three wrecks in 20 days? Once when I was driving and the other two when somebody else was. I had had one other wreck, in one of those repossessed cars about 10 years before, but I came out of that one smelling like a rose. . .

"Before the cancer I was a wild rascal. Now I think a lot more about being home (7703 Betty Jane Lane in Spring Branch.) I fish and I've started back to playing golf. I love to barbecue in the backyard—without gasoline—on week ends. I'm the Bermuda shorts type daddy. I love to cook. I'm a better cook than my wife. I'm not unusual to find her mowing the grass and me inside baking cookies. People might think we're sort of odd, but we're happy. . .

Atalantean Club Meets In Home Of Mrs. L. C. Martin

On Wednesday, April 10, the Atalantean Club met at 3 p. m. in the home of the hostess, Mrs. L. C. Martin, for a regular meeting.

Mrs. D. H. Aronofsky, the president, conducted a brief business meeting. Mrs. W. R. Scott gave the invocation.

The program for the afternoon, "A Time To Think" was on nutrition. "The Allegory of Foods" was a panel discussion on various foods with Mrs. W. C. Dickey as leader. In introducing the panel, Mrs. Dickey remarked, "Many foods that the American people eat today originated in the United States, such as the sandwich, ice cream, barbecue and other foods. The people in America are the best fed due to such a wide variety of food stuffs grown in the United States."

Mrs. W. R. Scott talked about "Bread." Bread is used all over the world and is made in many ways out of all kinds of grains such as wheat, oats, corn and rye. Bread is made in many ways according to the custom of the nation in which one resides. In some places, bread sustains life alone, and to quote an old saying, "bread is the staff of life," she said.

Mrs. Robert Spicer spoke on "Fruits." The watermelon originated in Europe many years ago. Peaches are sweet, therefore used in desserts, as well as apples, pineapple, avocado, and bananas. Most fruits may be used in combination for salads and make very attractive as well as tasty salad and dessert dishes, it was pointed out.

"Vegetables" was the subject Mrs. Robert Philpot talked about. The tomato originated in South America. Eatable beans such as lima, pinto, navy and kidney, may be cooked and served several days. Nearly some kind of vegetable may be grown in some place or places in America, she spoke said.

Miss King closed the discussion by saying, "The Thanksgiving turkey, sweet potatoes and cranberry sauce are truly all American in origin. Salt is a must for seasoning and preserving foods. Sea foods have a different flavor from fish caught in lakes and streams. Wild turkeys are typical American food and many wild turkeys are found in certain areas in the United States today. The cocoa bean is grown in South America. From cocoa bean, chocolate has been made and is used in many forms for flavoring, baking cakes and making candies. Many foods originated in the U. S. and other foods have come from foreign countries down through the centuries, but can be grown in America today."

During the social hour the hostess, Mrs. Martin, served delicious home made ice cream, cake and coffee to the following members: Mmes. W. H. Dean, Robert Philpot, J. A. Odum, C. V. Kinslow, W. C. # McKown Explains Fallacy Of Old Wheat Program

(Editor's Note: Second in a series on the forthcoming National Wheat Referendum.)

By LYNN L. MCKOWN

Hall County ASC Office Manager Any thinking farmer will agree that we cannot continue to operate a program based on the old 1938 minimum acreage allotment of 55 million acres.

The ever-increasing per-acre yields have utterly destroyed the theory of that figure, and continuing to use it as a basis for a modern grain program would result in accelerated chaos. Farmers would literally become buried under their own surpluses.

Accepting that, Secretary Freeman and the Congress, in the proposed 1964 program, want to adjust the allotment to a more realistic ratio of yield to acreage.

Let's see what has happened over the years in respect to yields.

Hall County farmers, for example, produced an average per acre yield of 16.5 bushels of wheat for the period 1952 through 1961. Yet in the five-year period from 1958 through 1962 they made an average of 19.2 bushels.

It was the same nationally. Average per acre yields in the period 1934 through 1938 was only 12.4 bushels. This formed the basis for the 1938 Agricultural Adjustment Act under which we're still operating. Yet per-acre yields progressively increased, thanks to the development of new fertilizers, insecticides, etc. In 1948-1952, they jumped to 16.7 bushels. In 1953, the average was 17.3. In 1958, it spiraled to 27.5 bushels.

Is there and wonder that with using the same old minimum acreage allotment, and with these phenomenal increases in per-acre yields, the surplus supply of wheat should continue to pile up in the warehouses?

There are good reasons, over and beyond the fertilizers and insecticides, why yields increased as they did. For one thing, better land was devoted to grains. Machinery and equipment improved and became more efficient.

But whatever the reasons, this is the chief fallacy in the farm program as now set up, and the fallacy the Secretary and the Congress aim to eliminate in the 1964 program.

And how do they hope to eliminate it?

Well, first, neither the government nor the farmers have any quarrel with increased yield per acre. Higher yields are good; to be encouraged, rather than discouraged.

But something must be done to correct the glaring error in the program, brought about by the increased yields. This, the new program seeks to do by setting the allotment at between 49 to 50 million acres.

Farmers' gross income from wheat from the adjusted acreage will not decline, while surplus stocks will be reduced. This will eliminate much of the criticism leveled at farmers by consumers who naturally are alarmed at the ever-mounting, and evermore expensive surpluses in the warehouses.

The reduction in acreage will have other good effects. It will help bring the surplus to the desired 600 million to 700 million bushel carryover, thus eliminating the depressing factor in the market. It will have good soil conservation consequences, since land not in grain can be gradually restored to productiveness through application of cover crops, etc.

These are good effects that are highly desirable. Moreover, world wheat markets, within the range of International Wheat Agreement, will remain stable.

Be that as it may, a continuation of the old allotment setup could only mean more surpluses and a continued deterioration of markets.

These are some of the things the Hall County farmer must think about when he goes to the polls in May.

been enacted. Congressional floor activity is indeed moving slowly, although (as I pointed out in a recent newsletter) the committees of the House and Senate are engaged in a steady round of meetings on pending legislation. One way to look at the situation is this: When the Congress doesn't pass new laws we Americans simply have to continue to live under the old ones. Critics of government change should find some measure of satisfaction in the fact that Congress is moving no more swiftly than it is.

Even though the House and Senate aren't meeting during the Easter Recess, most Senators and Congressmen will be on the job. Most of us will either be keeping regular office hours on Capitol Hill, visiting our home districts, or working on committee assignments. The week will bring a change of duties but little relaxation.

It will be a busy week for me. As chairman of the Irrigation and Reclamation Subcommittee of the House Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs, I will be in the West with members of the subcommittee to inspect project sites and to hold hearings on proposed projects. Doing a good job of on-site inspection and conducting full hearings on feasibility and need is most essential before we can commit the loan of taxpayers' money to these projects, which are generally similar in nature to the Canadian River project in our own Panhandle. To show you what a trip of this sort involves, here is the week's itinerary for my subcommittee:

Monday, April 15 — The subcommittee will assemble in San Francisco, Calif., and then begin a comprehensive study and inspection of the Auburn-Folsom South Project, a proposed addition to the Central Valley reclamation project. We will also inspect the American River watershed and the Lake Tahoe area.

Tuesday, April 16 — We will conduct an inspection of the previously authorized Washoe irrigation project and then inspect the Auburn Reservoir and area proposed to be served by the Auburn-Folsom South Project.

Wednesday, April 17 — We will continue our inspection of the Auburn-Folsom South Project area and inspect the Central Valley and San Luis Valley areas, returning then to San Francisco for a late afternoon flight to Denver, Colo.

Thursday, April 18 — In Craig, Colo., we will conduct hearings on the proposed Savery-Pot Hook reclamation project and tour the project area, then fly to Grand Junction, Colo.

Friday, April 19 — In Crawford, Colo., we will conduct hearings on the proposed Fruitland Mesa reclamation project. We will tour that project area as well as the proposed Bostwick Park project area, holding a hearing on the latter that night in Montrose, Colo.

Although other subcommittee members will attend the Saturday dedication ceremony for the Smith Fork irrigation project in Colorado, I will have to leave the group to return to Washington Friday night in order to prepare other committee matters for attention Monday.

The other Subcommittee of which I am chairman, the Communications and Power Subcommittee of the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, has completed hearings on a bill to exempt from the radio-television "equal time" requirement for Presidential and Vice Presidential candidates in the 1964 campaign. The subcommittee received testimony from network presidents and political leaders, among others, and is ready now to take the pros and cons before the full committee. A similar bill passed in 1960 paved the way for the famous Kennedy-Nixon debates.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Corley and children of Morton visited here over the Easter holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Corley and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Wright. Mrs. Corley and children remained in Memphis for a week's visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Jarrell and Sherri of Dallas were Easter visitors in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Felix Jarrell and Patsy.
