Fire Damages Cyclone Drive Inn Wed. Night

A fire broke out in the kitchen of the Cyclone Drive Inn at about 9:45 p. m. Wednesday, only minutes after the restaurant was closed for the night.

Members of the Memphis Volunteer Fire Department battled the blaze until shortly before midnight before extinguishing it.

Alvin Winters, owner of the restaurant, said Thursday morning that he had no estimate of damages. However, for his part, he estimated them to exceed $15,000. The owner of the building, Carl Wood, said Thursday morning that an insurance adjuster will be here tomorrow. He did not make an estimate of the damage.

The fire broke out in the kitchen, and this portion of the cafe was completely destroyed. All kitchen appliances were a total loss, and the heat broke all glass items in the cafe. Smoke and water damage to the inside of the building was extensive.

Winters said that firemen reported when they got into the kitchen and had the fire extinguished in that portion of the building, that they examined the ice box. The door of the box was burned off, and all the food, such as meat and eggs, was cooked.

New Well Will Be Added To Memphis Water System Soon

The Donley County Water Control and Improvement District No. 1, supplier of water for Memphis, this week was testing a new well north of Memphis.

Frank B. Foxhall, manager of the water firm, stated that the new well was pumping about 300 gallons per minute Wednesday. The initial pumping continued Wednesday, and then a 24-hour test is being carried out today, Thursday, to determine if the well will hold this rate of flow. Also samples of the water will be sent to Austin for testing.

Foxhall explained that the system at present had plenty of capacity to take care of the needs of the town, but that Memphis was growing, and the district planned to stay ahead of the growth and keep adequate water for the years ahead.

Last year the peak day in consumption of water was a little over 1,000,000 gallons. This volume of water was supplied by the present system easily.

If the new well proves to have a capacity of 300 gallons per minute, as the preliminary tests indicate, this will add another 432,000 gallons per day to the capacity.

Give Us A Man Who Reads!

In the past, one of the highest compliments one could pay to another was to say, "He is a well read man." But, with the changing times and customs, this statement has slowly disappeared from our vocabulary.

In May, citizens all over the nation paused to pay tribute to the graduating classes. Also, National Library Week was held and a group devoted to promoting the art of reading as a tool of democracy instituted a program with a battle cry of "Send me a man who reads!" We heartily concur with this slogan.

It has been said that you can tell more about a person by what he reads than by any other personal habit. In this country, we are free to choose what we like to read, and the training we receive as children has a great deal to do with what we choose as adults.

Long have preachers from the pulpits encouraged reading of good books, especially the Bible, by members of their congregations. Reading is the source of knowledge. Through reading we learn of our history, our heritage, our traditions. A nation of people that cannot read is only one step removed from the jungle savage.

Information gained by word of mouth is hearsay, easily misunderstood and easily forgotten. Information learned from books by the serious student will stay with him the rest of his life.

Are we living so fast today that we have no time for reading? Only at our fast pace in the United States can you hear the same news release 27 times. While radio and television, has come along in the past few decades to provide entertainment and education of a sort, the fact remains that a basic education can be gained only through reading.

This is the time of year, it seems, when anxious parents of anxious high school seniors move into the home stretch of a ritual known as college hunting. Where there is a choice in the matter — not always the case — parents too often make decisions, some educators contend, on the basis of campus attractions, claims by alumni of glories achieved on the playing fields.

A columnist once wrote that instead of worrying about athletic acclaim or the social amenities on the campus, parents should ask more pertinent questions. Does a professor earn more than a football coach? Is the university library well stocked? Do campus groups as a matter of policy prohibit racial and religious discrimination? Is the faculty well paid?

Nearly 200 years ago Thomas Jefferson, in outline purpose of the University of Virginia, wrote: "This institution will be based on the illimitable freedom of the human mind. For here we are not afraid to follow truth wherever it may lead, nor to tolerate error so long as reason is left free to combat it."

The people of this nation, propaganda and proselytism aside, have access to the greatest wealth of information concerning their communities, states and nations that has ever in history been available to members of the human race.

It is a human fact that habits established by parents are handed down to their children. If our children grow up to be readers, then this nation will survive the troubled days and years ahead.

WHERE HEROES SLEEP

ACROSS THE DESK

What Other Editors Say

Dr. J. A. Hill Says —

Let it be said to start with that I am not a one-worlder in the sense that would supplant national sovereignties with one consolidated world power. I cannot remember in all my 85 years, a day or a moment when I would not gladly have given my life if thereby I could have saved my country either from its own weaknesses or the aggression of another. There is no cause holier than that of the sovereign power of the individual and his personal responsibility to God and country. This truth is at the base of all that is good in the American system — indeed, in civilization itself.

On the other hand, I am a one-worlder in the sense that men and nations the earth around, regardless of race, religion, nationality, language, social or economic status, or anything else must learn to live together in peace. The only alternative is death, hell, and utter destruction. To me, that is as plain as that I am alive as I write this.

But, the critic asks, how can we learn to live together in peace when the whole experience of men and nations is grounded in war? Such peace as history records, for the most part, has been that which kings, emperors, and the like have imposed by sheer physical power — by superior implements of war. And the tragedy of it is that the world today is still governed by that concept.

In the opinion of this column there will be no enduring peace until the masses of people in the most civilized areas of the world shall adopt a new concept of world relationships. As pointed out by Hubert Herring in the March issue of the Rotarian "Our human fate hangs upon understanding. If the 3 billion people who inhabit the earth can learn to live together in peace, we shall prosper. If we cannot resolve our differences, the human family is damned."

Mr. Herring then admits — indeed asserts — that the obvious facts in the present day international scene seem to indicate that world-wide understanding is impossible. Few of us would deny that the prospect is tragically dark. But the Prince of Peace taught us to walk by faith, not by sight. In another place Holy Writ tells us that "without vision the people perish". Moreover, nothing is impossible with God; and let us not forget that God still is.

These, of course, are concepts of the Christian faith; and the basic ideology of human freedom, the sovereign rights of the individual and the doctrine of the equality of man are found in the same place.

During and immediately following World War II civilized people of all nations, races, religions, languages, and colors had a dream of world peace, just as other people of vision had had before. Their feelings and their fervent prayers were dramatically portrayed in the following verse by Don Blanding, the Vagabond poet who faced death and Hell through two World Wars.

"What did you pray, Soldier?
 What did you pray at war?
 "I prayed that we might do the thing we have not done before;

That we might mobilize for peace — nor mobilize in vain.
 Lest Christ and man be forced to climb stark Calvary again."

It was this dream of civilized men that brought the now much denounced United Nations into existence. Thank God, my country was a leader in bringing about this instrument of peace through understanding. It is rightly subject to criticism for its mistakes and its failures, but it is also entitled to credit for its humanitarian service in most all parts of the world and for providing a platform for airing conflicting philosophies and points of view. If it shall become necessary that we forsake it either chaos with reign or dictators will rise up to rule all mankind.

Memories Turning Back Time From The Democrat Files

40 YEARS AGO
May 31, 1923

The stone work on Hall County's new district court house is progressing rapidly, the foundation work on the outside walls having been completed on the north and west walls. One feature of the work at the court house that is proving to be quite an attraction to the public is the fancy stone work being done by an Italian that is an artist in his line of work. He is now molding the ornamental columns which are to stand on either side of the main entrances to the building . . .

During the 1922-23 session of the Memphis High School, Irvin Johnsey proved to be the best all around athlete of the school . . .

taking their annual vacations in the fall months. But this is the time to plan vacations—summer or fall vacations—for summer is rapidly approaching. Now that May has arrived, June and summer and the end of school crowd is immediately behind. By then, people are taking vacations, with reservations made months ago.

Part of the fun of vacations is the planning and anticipation of them. Plan yours now and enjoy it until you actually begin it. First allow yourself plenty of time to reach your destination if you are driving, and avoid hurrying on your return. It's wise not to go too far if you only have limited time.

Keep in mind the budget — or what you wish to spend on your vacation. Nothing ruins the spirit quicker than money worries. Take it easy in going in for new physical exertions in the first few days, or week, of your vacation. Remember that many people drown in lakes, or while fishing, by overestimating their swimming or "staying" capacity.

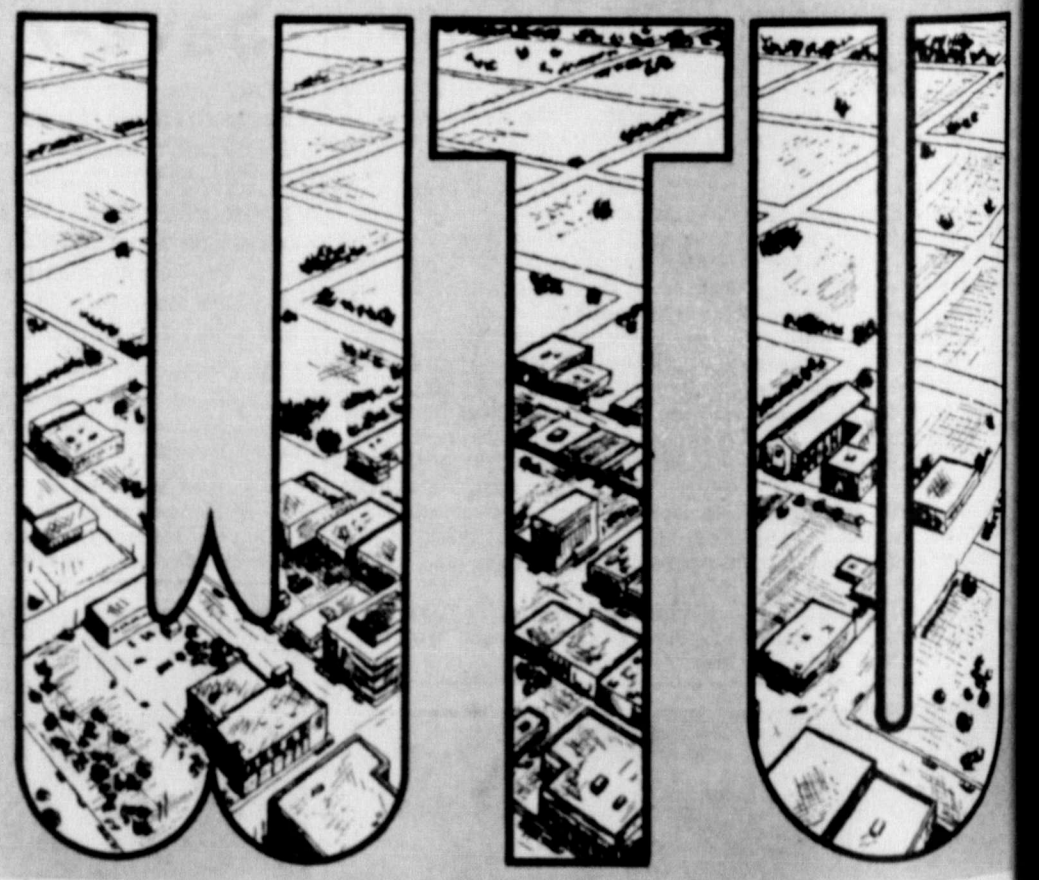

The object of this editorial, in short, is to point out the wisdom of planned and leisurely vacations. If they are not that, they are not vacations, and each summer a distressing number of Americans are killed en route to vacation spots or while engaged in the various sports enjoyed by us at that time.

Clifford Farmer Writes Fishing Article for TGF

Clifford Farmer, Memphis area of Commerce Manager, wrote an article "White Lightning" published in the May, 1963 issue of the Game and Fish Magazine.

Farmer, who owns a cabin on Lake Kemp, wrote the article as a bass fishing on Lake Kemp. He particularly enjoyed the fishing on the lake and the area fishermen.

Farmer explained in his article that many area fishermen enjoyed the fishing on the lake and the area fishermen.

Farmer explained that he waited for the fish to feed again, and even moved the boat to another cove, watching for action; however, the fish did not appear.

The next day, Dub Legion and his wife from the Gulf Coast Country, arrived at their cabin nearby, and Cliff and his wife showed off the dishpan full of two-pound white bass. A midnight fishing expedition was planned by the men.

It was hot July at the lake and the men tried trolling in the afternoon. They caught small fish but felt the catch wasn't worth the sunburn.

The next three nights the fishermen were on the lake from midnight on, but could not find the large school of two-pounders. They tried all kinds of day-time tricks to hook bass, only to net some small ones.

Finally, with only one day of Legion's vacation left, we agreed to pass up our night fishing so Dub would be rested for the long drive back to South Texas. When I awakened the next morning I could see a line of light across the eastern sky, the pre-dawn promise of a new day. As I lay in bed reviewing the fishing of the week, I suddenly remembered that in the hours of moonlight fishing we had been coming in tired and had slept late each morning. We had passed up the just-before-sunup fishing time! During the full-moon period when the sky was cloudless, I had found them in a wild feeding spree at night. But the past few nights had been cloudy, and that — or some other mysterious factor — had kept them from feeding. It was too hot for them in mid-day. In that case, the very early morning hours would be the time for them.

"I hurriedly got dressed and walked across the field to the Legion cabin. Reluctantly, Dub agreed to dress and meet me at the boat in a few minutes.

"I was adjusting the motor for starting when Dub let out a yell. He was pointing across the lake. 'Look at that!' he said. 'The gulls are going crazy out there!'

"I looked where he was pointing and, sure enough, a big flock of gulls circled low over the water.

"I gunned the motor and the light boat climbed to the surface and planned toward the circling gulls. My confidence and excitement had returned. Many times, gulls had tipped me off to surfacing fish.

"The gulls were a half-mile from shore, out over the deep water where I had never found surfacing whites before, but there was no mistaking their activities. We could hear the gulls' excited cries area of the cove in front of the cabin.

"I got up and walked to the window, listening. It died down, then started up again. It was like a school of surfacing fish. I dressed and went outside.

"The full moon in a cloudless sky lighted the scene. I had never seen Lake Kemp so beautiful. The motor started on the first pull and I eased the boat out, trying to make as little sound as possible. Then, I killed the motor and let the boat drift as I picked up my rod. The surface was glassy smooth, reflecting the light of the moon that was almost directly overhead.

"Suddenly, all around the boat, the water came to life as though someone had turned a high-pressure hose on it. I wrist-snapped my rod and sent the surface lure into the midst of the commotion. With the sound of the plug hitting the water came the jolt of a strike, and I was busy fighting a fish. It made battle, boring down, then splashing on the surface, but by putting on the pressure I soon had it to the side of the boat and in my landing net.

"I turned on the flashlight so I could see to remove the hooks. I had caught a two-pound white bass. When I freed the plug, I saw a shad minnow in the fish's mouth.

"I cast again and felt a strike as soon as the plug hit the water. I had another fight on my hands. After that, it was fast and hectic. There was no time to string the fish. I left them flopping in the bottom of the boat. Sometimes, when I missed a strike, another fish would be hooked before I could reel the lure to the boat.

"Without warning, the action stopped and the surface of the lake was smooth again. I turned on the flashlight and counted the flopping fish at my feet — 14 white bass as alike as peas in a pod. And, scattered about were a dozen or more two-inch shad minnows, some of them still alive, that the bass had disgorged after I boated them. I tossed the minnows back into the lake and put the white bass on my keep-alive stringer."

Farmer explained that he waited for the fish to feed again, and even moved the boat to another cove, watching for action; however, the fish did not appear.

The next day, Dub Legion and his wife from the Gulf Coast Country, arrived at their cabin nearby, and Cliff and his wife showed off the dishpan full of two-pound white bass. A midnight fishing expedition was planned by the men.

"I cut the motor and we coasted in. Before I could get my line out, Dub had tossed his plug and I saw the tip of his rod bend sharply as he got a strike. I made a hurried cast and got a jolting strike. There was no mistaking what was on the line. It was no yearling. The fish bored deep, making drag sing, as I hung onto the rod. Then, it turned and made a wide, wild dash near the surface, sending minnows jumping to get out of the way. Where Do You Go From Here?

The retirement years should represent years of happy leisure, but often they are accompanied by boredom and restlessness. Sometimes they are years fraught with fear, or loneliness.

Yet they can become wonderfully fulfilling and golden when faith abides. Your church not only offers spiritual nourishment that is needed by healthy people of all ages. It also can offer stimulating companionship, and a sense of real purpose.

Strength, courage, happiness are the gifts of deep religious faith. There are many reasons why you should worship together each week at your church.

FIND THE STRENGTH FOR YOUR LIFE...

Lemons-Stewart Nuptials Read In Pretty Home Ceremony Fri.

Miss Gayle Ann Lemons became the bride of Donnie D. Stewart on Friday, May 10, in a lovely candlelight ceremony in the home of the bride's mother, 421 South 10th Street.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. John Lemons and the late Mr. Lemona. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Stewart of Texline.

The double ring vows were read by W. R. Lawrence, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Clarendon, before the fireplace, which was flanked by large baskets of white gladioli and mums. The mantle was centered with an arrangement of white gladioli and candles.

The candles were lighted by Miss Marcy Ann Shepherd and Miss Dana Brice Shepherd, cousins of the bride.

Miss Linda Lemons was her sister's only attendant. She wore a dress of baby blue pima-mist cotton fashioned with puffed sleeves and a full skirt which was accented by several rows of matching lace. She wore a corsage of white feathered carnations.

Attending the groom as best man was Scott Shepherd of Childress, uncle of the bride.

The bride wore a wedding gown of Chantilly lace over slipper satin designed and made by her mother. The bodice was fashioned with a scoop neckline and long sleeves which tapered to a point over the hands. The elbow-length veil of tulle fell from a headband of braided white satin. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, and she carried a bouquet of feathered carnations atop a white Bible.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception honored the wedding party. The table was laid with a white cloth over blue satin. The three-tiered wedding cake was decorated in blue and white rosebuds and topped with white miniature bride and groom. Punch was served by Miss Kay Lemons, sister of the bride, and Miss Bobbie McBrayer, cousin of the bride, served the cake.

Presiding at the register was Miss Johnnie Lemons, sister of the bride. Only relatives and close friends attended the ceremony.

For traveling, the bride chose a suit of blue Boucle, complimented by white accessories, and the corsage from her bridal bouquet.

After a short wedding trip to New Mexico and Colorado, the newlyweds are at home in Dalhart where the groom is engaged in ranching and trucking. The bride is employed as assistant superintendent of nurses at Coon Memorial Hospital in Dalhart.

Mrs. Stewart is a graduate of Clarendon High School, Amarillo College and Northwest Texas Hospital School of Nursing. Mr. Stewart attended schools in Clayton and Las Vegas, N. M.

Nuptial vows were solemnized at 6:30 p. m. Saturday evening, May 25, in the First Baptist Church at Hedley for Miss Brenda Monk, daughter of Mrs. C. M. Monk of Clarendon, and Ronnie Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Hall of Clarendon.

The double ring ceremony was read by Rev. B. Gene Grace before a nuptial space decorated with candelabra holding lighted white candles, greenery and baskets of white mums.

Mrs. Don Springer played a prelude of nuptial selections and accompanied Miss Susan Cox who sang "Always" and "Because." The traditional wedding march was used.

The bride was attired in a gown fashioned of Chantilly lace over satin. The bodice of the gown was styled with a sabrina neckline and long sleeves that tapered to points over the hands. She carried a bouquet of white carnations centered with an orchid atop a white Bible. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls.

Mrs. Billy White served as her sister's matron of honor. She wore a dress of pink embroidered silk organza and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations. Jeanne White, niece of the bride, and Ricky Mills, nephew of the groom, lighted the candles.

Robert Mills served as best man. Ushers were Bill Monk and Kenneth Hourden.

Mrs. Dave White, sister of the bride, registered the guests. Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in Fellowship Hall. The bride's table was laid with a white embroidered linen cloth centered with the three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. Miss Tony Davis of Memphis served the wedding cake and Mrs. Robert Mills of Clarendon presided at the punch service.

A group of Hall County 4-H members met Sunday, May 26, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Houston. Carl Houston, county president, presided at the meeting with Jody Rapp serving as county secretary.

Jody presented the minutes of the last meeting and outlined projects planned in the near future to improve the facilities at the show barn. The club, with the assistance of the county F. F. A. chapters, will conduct a scrap iron drive to raise funds to build tying racks for show animals, and remove the stage to provide more room inside the barn. A fence will be built to protect the grounds, and the outside area will be leveled.

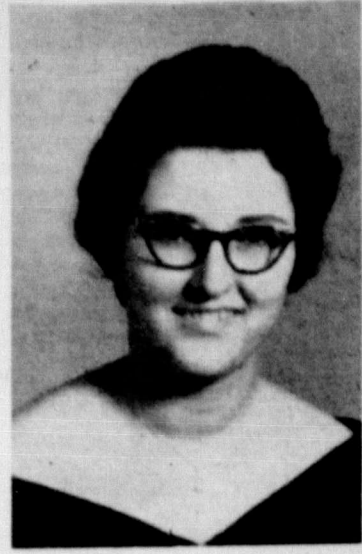

This drive will be made the latter part of August, it was announced. Anyone having any scrap around their farm or home which they would like to donate to this drive, are requested to contact Mike Branigan or L. B. Snider at Memphis, Jody Rapp at Estelline, or the presidents of the Turkey or Lakeview 4-H clubs.

Ice cream and cookies were served to the members attending and to Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bradley and children.

ond, the growth of the plant is less in dry years. These two plant reactions, either alone or together will lower forage production.

The death of part and sometimes all of the plant may occur in continued drouth and further reduce the amount of top growth. Plants weakened by continued close grazing are more heavily damaged than plants that have been grazed properly. Large grass clumps often separate into smaller grass clumps. Weeds become fewer in number. Woody plants may show some die-back in the top.

The treatments of plants is more important following drouth than during the drouth. Plants should be grazed lightly following that "one good rain" if they are to recover to give maximum yields.

ANNA B. ORRELL

Anna B. Orrell Is Salutatorian Of Mansfield High

Anna Bert Orrell was named salutatorian of the graduating class of Mansfield High School. Miss Orrell, 18, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louie A. Orrell of Burleson. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Alexander of Lakeview and Mrs. C. A. Orrell of Cleburne.

Miss Orrell plans to attend Arlington State College and major in elementary education, her grandmother said. She has been a member of the FHA for Future Teachers for four years and was newspaper staff editor her senior year. She has been a Thespian Club member and on the pep squad for three years.

At the commencement exercises Monday evening, May 20, Miss Orrell gave a speech entitled, "The Challenge Facing the 1963 Seniors."

The plants after a rain that have been grazed off will use all of their food reserves to begin new growth. The plant development depends on the amount of food that the grass plant can manufacture in its leaves. If the new growth is allowed to be grazed off close the plant can not manufacture enough food.

Research has shown that range forage production is more stable if livestock are permitted to graze no more than 50 per cent of the annual growth of the grass plant by weight. Yearly income is 50-60 per cent higher on pastures that are grazed properly as compared to those pastures that have been overused.

Cotton Division Celebrates 50th Anniversary

May marks 50 years of organized marketing services to farmers, industry, and consumers by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

This anniversary is of special interest to cotton farmers because they represent one of the largest groups to use these marketing services, points out C. E. Cox, Officer in Charge of the Altus Classing Office.

Cotton farmers sell nearly all of their cotton on the basis of the USDA classification — the green card — and they use USDA cotton market news to guide them in getting the best price for their cotton.

Both of these cotton marketing services were started soon after the first organized marketing office was established in USDA in 1913.

"One of the most important developments—during this first 50 years came in 1937 when the Smith-Doxey Act authorized the USDA to class cotton without cost for groups of farmers organized to promote cotton improvement," Mr. Cox said.

"Another important development—the micronaire testing service—will be offered this year to all farmers in Smith-Doxey groups," he announced. A fee of 8 cents a sample will be charged decision. I also notified them of my belief that no interim wheat legislation could be expected from Congress this year should the referendum fail to carry.

Already, some of those who strongly opposed a "yes" vote in the referendum are saying they believe Congress will provide new wheat legislation before this session ends. I'm afraid they've misread the mood of the Congress, which had set up the enabling legislation under which the defeated program was proposed to the wheat growers, and also the primary political orientation of most Members of Congress.

Most Congressmen are from urban areas. My Texas colleague in Congress, Bob Poague, the chairman of the Livestock and Feed Grains Subcommittee of the House Committee on Agriculture, estimates that not more than 6 per cent of the Members of Congress are from major wheat producing areas. That Congress is so heavily weighted to urban areas reflects the dramatic shift in our population over the last few years. The powerful "farm bloc" of the 1930's has been succeeded by a strong "big city bloc." Its power to control the course of legislation is growing stronger.

A study last year showed that 300 Congressional districts are urban, 137 are rural. By sections, the breakdown is as follows: South, 58 urban, 62 rural; East, 109 urban, 20 rural; Midwest, 84 urban, 45 rural; West, 49 urban, 19 rural. As you can see, farm legislation must have the support of city Congressmen in order to win approval. Such is their strength in numbers, in both parties. I've discussed the situation with colleagues from big city districts. They are not now inclined to support any new wheat legislation this year. They say that if farm income suffers drastically and supplies of wheat become excessive, the Secretary of Agriculture is obligated by law to take action. He is required to establish a marketing quota for wheat and call a new referendum for no later than June 13, 1964, to establish the program for the 1965 crop.

"I would like to take this time to say a little prayer for all the people, including myself, involved in this launch operation.

"Father, thank You, especially for letting me fly this flight. Thank You for the privilege of being in this position; to be up in this wonderful place, seeing all these many startling, wonderful things You have created.

(Continued from Page One) Brown Auto Store and Memphis Tire & Supply. There is talk going the rounds that still others will join in the movement to make the business section of Memphis more attractive, especially around the square. This is in keeping with suggestions made by recent industry speakers as how to attract visitors and probable location of families and more industries and business institutions.

Another suggestion made by the speakers to add to the attraction in Memphis is to include the residential section of the city in a beautification campaign—such as clean-up, paint-up and repair-up. No women takers for the job. No organization wants to sponsor the job. Where do we go from here?

A drive over northwest Memphis reveals that a lot of building and improvement is going on, with many workers on the job.

The Postex Factory building has been roofed, concrete floors laid, and electrical wiring and other needed permanent equipment installed. Completion and readiness for occupancy of the building dates have not been announced, but may be expected soon.

The Hall County Hospital building is gradually taking shape, with walls and roof already done, and flooring expected to be laid soon. . . all permanent and movable equipment will then follow. . . expected occupancy date should be before winter.

The commodious auditorium of the Travis Baptist Church has been completed, pews in place, and services being held. This annex (or now the church building proper) is just one of many improvements made in Memphis lately.

Cousins Home on 18th Street is under rapid construction, and completion shouldn't be very far away. Some two dozen applications have already been received by persons wishing rooms in the home.

New and modern residences are being added to that part of town, with likelihood of home-building companies adding many more residences—all in expectation that there will be a much larger demand than now by industry workers who will want to live in Memphis when more workers are employed.

That is not all going on in the development of Memphis. Streets are being opened, lots are being laid out for more buildings.

Watch for much improvement along 18th Street in the months to come. By the way, is anything being done toward continuing 18th Street south to connect with Lakeview highway? People coming from the west to the hospital, nursing home, and workers to Postex factory will certainly appreciate such a move.

What has become of the women who want to organize shut-in visiting clubs and an On Guard Club in Memphis? There are many elderly people who are living alone, not able to get out and see other people, or visit each other, who would enjoy visits by others singly or in groups. Can you think of a more worthy cause in which one can be of service to others?

Here is my check for $4.08 for another year's renewal subscription to the Memphis Democrat. It is the plan now that Ray and I will see you in September at the Hall County Picnic. Kindest regards to you and Mrs. Wells. J. E. Bass, 3719 Normandy Ave., Dallas, Tex.

Monday visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Posey were his brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Q. E. Posey of Grand Junction, Colo. They also visited with Virgile Posey and the Marion E. Posey family.

Mrs. C. W. Crawford Undergoes Surgery

Mrs. C. W. Crawford, who underwent surgery in St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo last Thursday, is doing nicely. Mrs. H. R. Crawford said today. Mrs. Crawford returned from Amarillo Tuesday.

Mrs. Crawford fell at her home on Tuesday night of last week, breaking her hip. She was taken to a local hospital, and Amarillo about noon Wednesday.
