Rabies Clinic To Be Held At Lakeview

The City Commission of the City of Lakeview passed an ordinance at their regular session June 3, prohibiting dogs or like pet animals running loose or astray in that city unless they bear tag attached showing proper identification number with current rabies vaccine shot issued by licensed veterinarian, Mayor J. B. Skinner has announced.

The City Commission has made arrangements for a licensed veterinarian to hold a Rabies Clinic in Lakeview from 3 to 5 p. m. Thursday, June 20.

Residents of Lakeview who wish to comply with the ordinance can take their pets to the clinic for the proper rabies shots (including tags) for a cost to owners of $1.50 each, which is good for 12 months from the date the shot was given.

Mayor Skinner stated that all dogs or like pet animals running loose or astray without proper identification tags after July 1, 1963, will be disposed of by legal action or authority.

Rainfall Is General Over County This Week

General rains over Hall County Tuesday measured from under one-half inch to over one inch, reports from different communities indicated.

The heaviest activity was recorded in the Antelope Flat area west of Brice Friday afternoon, when hail and over two inches of rain were reported by J. A. (Red) Stephens in Briscoe County.

Mrs. Stephens reported that their house was damaged and the garage was blown away by a twister which accompanied the hail and rains.

Saturday Memphis received .25 of an inch of rain, which followed a heavy sandstorm that blew in from the southwest, late in the afternoon.

Then Tuesday, Memphis received .42 of an inch, which brought the week's total to .67 of an inch, J. J. McMickin, official weather observer, said.

Heaviest rainfall Tuesday was reported in the Newlin, Estelline and Parnell areas when an inch or better of precipitation was recorded. Many farmers in these areas had their crops washed out by the rain. The Brice area received one-half inch as did the Lakeview area Tuesday.

Thursday morning, light traces of rain fell in Memphis and surrounding area.

Miss Janie Hutcherson, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Hutcherson, who is five feet, three inches tall, and weighs 108 pounds, was crowned "Miss Hall County for 1963" at the beauty contest held Saturday evening at Travis Cafeteria.

Miss Sara Jo Foxhall, 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Foxhall, of Memphis, was named first runner-up, and Miss Minka Sims, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Les Sims, was named the second runner-up.

Miss Hutcherson was crowned by Miss Sondra Stargel, 1962 Miss Memphis, while the second and third place awards were presented to Miss Foxhall and Miss Sims by Mayor H. J. Howell.

The winners were announced after the field of 12 girls, representing Memphis, Lakeview, Turkey and Estelline, was narrowed down to a group of five finalists, including the three winners and Miss Nikki Clements of Lakeview, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Clements, and Miss Donna Sue Eddins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Woody Eddins of Route 1, Estelline.

Cotton John of KGNC Radio, Amarillo, served as master of ceremonies for the contest.

President Carroll Gardenhire of the Memphis Jaycees, sponsors of the contest, said, "our organization would like to express its appreciation to all business firms, judges, and all those who helped to make the contest a success."

Greenbelt Dist. Officials Meet Friday With Memphis Council

Dr. S. H. Townsend, president of the Greenbelt Municipal and Industrial Water Authority, and Cy Freese of the engineering firm of Freese, Nichols and Endress, met last Friday morning with the Memphis City Council and Mayor H. J. Howell.

The men brought the Council up-to-date on developments in the plan to build a dam on Salt Fork at a location north of Lelia Lake, to supply water for area towns.

Dr. Townsend stated that the proposed dam would be north of Lelia Lake, and would contain 90,000 acre feet of water with a depth of 75 feet at the dam and an average depth of 35 feet in the lake. He explained that this was a relatively deep lake and would have less evaporation than would a shallower one spread over a larger area.

The cost of the dam is estimated by the engineers at $4 million. Of this amount, Mr. Freese explained, the State of Texas is expected to pay about $2,300,000 and the Greenbelt Authority $1,700,000. The state can enter the program under a constitutional amendment recently passed which provides that the state can finance part of the cost of a dam in order to develop a lake to the maximum capacity, the engineer explained.

The pipeline to the various towns will cost $4,918,000. In the engineering report the cost to the cities for water is estimated at 35 cents per 1,000 gallons. The cities would then each operate their own distribution systems.

If Memphis should become a part of the system the cost is estimated at 32.5 cents per 1,000 gallons.

Townsend stated that the project is to be paid for by the issuance of revenue bonds. Money from the sale of the water would be used to pay off the bonds, he said.

He also explained that Clarendon, Hedley, Childress, Paducah and Quanah were expected to vote on the matter this summer.

Members of the Memphis City Council explained that Memphis would not be able to go into the program at this time due to the fact that the city does not own the water system here.

Drivers Ed. Class Wed. Sees Safety Demonstration

The 51 members of Memphis drivers educational class presently being instructed by Leon Van Alstine, participated in a demonstration Wednesday morning on emergency stops, conducted by Safety Patrolman C. L. McNeil, of the Amarillo Safety Education Service of the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Members of the class were shown demonstrations of a vehicle traveling 15 mph, 30 mph and 40 mph, when the driver was alerted to apply his brakes by an exploding shell which marked the street. When the brakes were applied, another shell exploded, marking the street at that point.

In this way, reaction time of the driver was measured in feet as was the distance from the point the brakes were applied to the point where the car came to rest.

After the figures for the first driver's tests were compiled, Safety Patrolman McNeil pointed out to the students that it took the driver four times the distance to stop the car when going at 30 mph. (Continued on Page 12)

The Month of June

The month of June has arrived and is about half over. June is a month of weddings, college graduations, thunder storms and tornado alerts, swimming, picnics, vacations, etc.

June is Dairy Month and an appropriate time to pay tribute to the cow.

The cow has been an integral part of America and its people. We say, "how now brown cow" oral exercise, we eat ice cream and express our astonishment with, "Holy Cow." Our nursery rhymes foresee the cow as the first astronaut as the cow jumped over the moon.

The story of cows and milk go back to the beginning of civilization itself. Prehistoric drawings of cattle date back 9,000 years or more and an ancient mosaic frieze found in a temple near Babylon depicts a dairy scene showing milk containers and strainers.

The Bible described a land of plenty as a "land flowing with milk and honey." Writings from the early Egyptian, Greek and Roman civilizations praise milk and Marco Polo attributed the strength and endurance of the Tartars to milk.

In 1962, the 17 million milk cows in the United States produced nearly 59 billion quarts of milk. If this milk flowed like a river, it would be more than 3,000 miles long, 40 feet wide and three feet deep.

But besides June being Dairy Month, residents will pause to observe other days during the month. Friday, June 14, has been designated Flag Day. Citizens who do not feel a touch of pride when they see the 50 stars and 13 stripes waving proudly in the breeze are not aware of the blessings they receive daily by living in a free nation—a nation governed by law and order, not by the whims of brutal men with selfish purposes.

Then, on Sunday, June 16, families over this nation will pause to pay tribute to "Father." Most people refer to the day as "Dad's Day". Because it follows behind Mother's Day by several weeks is often overlooked.

Despite much that is written about mother wearing the pants in the family, and women controlling 75 percent of the nations wealth, and other established facts which seem to point out the superiority of the female over the male, Father is still a pretty important individual when it comes time to pay the bills, repair the fence, mow the lawn, keep the car repaired, or any other job which he does to keep things going smoothly for the family.

June, the month of weddings, is a happy month for many people. It is a month worth living to the fullest.

Hunger In The World!

The past two weeks, Americans have become more aware of the growing hunger problem throughout certain portions of the world because the World Food Congress, sponsored by the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization, is meeting in Washington. It is a part of the global program to get hungry people enough to eat. This is probably the oldest known problem in recorded history since Adam and Eve were expelled from the Garden of Eden. Today, as it has been through recorded history, hunger is the toughest and most pressing of all of man's problems.

Dr. Binay Ranjan Sen of India, former ambassador to the United States, is the head of this agency (FAO) and summed up the whole complex issue: "During the last 20 years, while science has increasingly developed man's capacity to remove hunger and want, the extent of the latter has nevertheless continued to grow, due largely to the unprecedented rate of population growth, facilitated by the advance of medical science.

"Never before has it been possible to produce more food on an acre of land, yet never before have the victims of hunger been more numerous in the world."

Dr. Sen said 300 to 450 million persons live "below the breadline," and more than a third of the world population suffers from under-nutrition or malnutrition.

There are two long-term answers: To reduce the rate of population increase, and to enable the undernourished countries to help themselves to an adequate diet. Dr. Sen sees little hope of immediate solution to the population problem, at least before the end of the century. But knowledge, national leadership and some external aid can help in development of the food-short areas.

While hunger is rampant in much of the world, surpluses are common in Europe, the United States and some other areas. But even the surpluses, if they could be delivered to the right places, would not be more than a temporary answer. The only permanent answer is more food production.

In Latin America and Africa, Dr. Sen says, the resources are ample, but less so in the Near East—until water problems are solved—and still less so in the Far East. It is not a happy outlook, and even with the best of international co-operation, it may take generations before hunger can be anywhere near eradicated.

The temper, understanding and facilities of the modern free world are such that progress to this end could be enormously hastened if it were not for one tragic fact: The division of free world energy and resources compelled by the Communist threat to liberty.

We Americans often overlook the blessing we enjoy daily, that of being the best fed people in the world. Through education and scientific advancements, man has come closer to eliminating the hunger problem in certain areas, however, much needs to be done before the growing world population can be fed adequately.

What Other Editors Say

An Old-Fashioned Idea

The Boy Scouts of America, sometimes called the only youth organization in America that devotes a major portion of its program to promoting patriotism and Americanism, has come out with a new merit badge that deserves recognition.

This is a merit badge for thrift. An old-fashioned word? Yes, indeed, in these modern times, when the key to prosperity is something called "consumer spending," which when done heavily enough pumps up the economy and everybody is happy.

The old days when the wise family set aside something for a rainy day seem old-fashioned now. But those families who do manage to have some savings feel mighty comfortable when the inevitable financial crisis arises and they have some money in reserve with which to meet the crisis.

This Scout merit badge ought to comfort fathers who often think that Junior's interest in money matters seems to confine itself solely to steady increases in his allowance.

If he wants to earn one of these Personal Finance merit badges, he is going to have to learn some new things.

In addition to learning how to live within his income, and show positive proof that he was able to save a portion of what he took in, the Scout is required to learn something about business, about stocks and bonds, and a smattering of elementary economics.

He is required to keep a record over a three month period of all money received and a daily record of where he spends it; show a qualified merit badge counselor what portion was used to support church and other religious organizations; explain why some money should be set aside for this purpose.

He is required to estimate how much he expects to get during the next 12 months and then work out a budget as to what he will do with it.

He must explain what plans he has for saving money over a period of time and for what purpose.

To get this merit badge, the Scout has to pass a test where he is made to answer such questions as explaining the possible risk to the owner of the money and the benefits, if any, to others, if his available funds were: buried in a can; put into a savings account; invested in U. S. savings bonds; put into a small productive enterprise of the handicraft type; used to buy stocks in an established company; put into the purchase of a house; exchanged for life insurance; put into a corporate bond.

Last of all, he is asked to explain the advantages and disadvantages between saving money for making outright cash purchase of a bicycle or a radio, and buying it on the installment plan.

When a Scout passes all of these requirements, and if he takes the lessons to heart, he will find that he has jumped one of the biggest obstacles to success in life—that of managing personal finance.

The marriage counselors say that fights over money matters is one of the leading causes of divorce. The average family has more worries over money than any other cause.

And it is not the size of the income that is most important — it is learning how to manage and get by on what that income is.

The Scouts are to be commended for putting in this merit badge. Now if there were only some way to get the adult population to try it!

Safe Farming?

A stranger stopped for a drink of water at a place in which The Georgia Cracker sat barefooted on the steps of his tumbledown shack, smoking a corn-cob pipe.

Wishing to be agreeable, he said, "How is your cotton coming on?"

"Ain't got none," said the crack-corn.

"Didn't you plant any?" asked the stranger.

"Nope," was the reply; "Afraid o' boll weevils."

"Well," said the stranger, "how is your corn?"

"Didn't plant none," replied the native; "Afraid there wa'n't goin' to be no rain."

The visitor was abashed, but cheerful still. "Well, how are your potatoes?"

"Ain't got none; scairt o' potato bugs — pow'ful lot ub'm here."

"Well, really, what did you plant?" asked the man, curiously.

"Nothin', jes' playin' safe."

The Secret Is Out

We have long looked with envy at the homes and gardens and yards and "do-it-yourself" handiwork that appears in magazines like Better Homes and Gardens and for years we have been telling ourselves that we just don't have what it takes to keep a house and yard like the well-groomed folks in these magazine pictures.

A recent newspaper account lets the cat out of the bag. When a house is to be featured in Better Homes and Gardens, it gets a lot more money spent on it than most of us are prepared to spend.

When you compare the two pictures, you observe an important fact. All the marvelously improved conveniences you see are made possible by electricity — every single one. Yes, electricity makes the difference, and what a difference it makes! It eliminates drudgery and creates more leisure time by performing countless tasks in the home at the flip of a switch. It turns factory wheels, lights the darkness, and does all these things effortlessly and economically. That is one of two reasons why the use of electricity is increasing here in the Center of the Southwest. The other is that more people, more businesses, more industries are coming our way. Mr., Mrs. Dennis Give Account of Vacation

Editor's Note: The following is an account of the month's vacation trip taken recently by Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Dennis and Mrs. Martin Gravelly. While gone they visited several of the Southern states. Mrs. Dennis gave a colorful description of the tour as follows.)

May we, Jesse and Leta Mae Dennis and Martin and Thelma Gravelly, share with the readers of our local news the highlights of our trip through Southern States of this lovely land of ours. We covered the most interesting scenic route of Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Florida, Georgia and Tennessee. Beginning our tour we saw the Old Spanish Train in New Orleans and the Old Cathedral which still stands in the heart of the city. Next the Orange trail in Lakeland, Fla., where we spent a week with Mr. Gravelly's daughter, Dorothy and her husband, Capt. Fred Thomas. We must say the hospitality was marvelous. Capt. and Mrs. Thomas traveled the West Coast with us. We visited St. Petersburg which is a highlight of interest on the enchanting West Coast. New on the Sun Coast is the Bayway which is a 15 mile series of causeways costing around 7 million dollars. The Bayway runs from St. Petersburg and the holiday isles through Tierra Verde Island to Ft. DeSota. The Bayway has 880 acres public island park with large picnic areas, a pier camping site, beaches, swimming, bath houses, and boat rentals of all kinds for fishing and recreation.

We saw Clear Water Belleair Beach toll bridge which is connected by bridge spans, causeways and roads running from the northern end of clear water beach to its southern end over the new bridge to Belleair which was opened to the public in 1962.

After a few days travel on the west side, we toured the east coast including Cape Canaveral. There we saw the astronaut in the tower ready to be shot into space. This was a very interesting treat for us. We visited Cocoa beach, winter haven for tourists. Cypress Gardens, skiing show, world famous Aquamade, the human pyramid, the lovely Southern belle models, and America's tropical wonderland in Ft. Wales. We visited the great masterpiece, an original import from the old country. We saw the greatest glass blower in the world. All of the glass is blown, shaped and molded by hand.

On our way to Birmingham, Ala., we toured the capital of Florida, Tallahassee. Florida is one of the wonderlands of the U. S. whose flag was adopted in 1899 and was ratified in 1900. The seal

The State of Florida was discovered by Juan Ponce DeLeon on April 2, 1513. Today she is a land of horizons and unlimited opportunities.

Next we went to the state capital in Montgomery, Ala., which is my home state.

I will not be prejudiced, but will just say Alabama is just north of the coast with the beautiful Tennessee River running near the center of the state. Alabama is the garden spot of the South for fishing, skiing, boating or camping. The three dams across this beautiful river supplies electrical service for most of the Southern states as well as the shipping of all our missiles and nuclear weapons by boat and barge service. Each of the two gates that open the Canal for transportation at each dam weighs 120 tons and are opened by push button. Mr. and Mrs. Gravelly were very impressed with the scenic places in Alabama of which I, Mrs. Jesse Dennis, would like to

WSCS Enjoys Salad Luncheon Mon., June 10

The Woman's Society of Christian Service met Monday, June 10, in the Methodist Church Annex at 12:30 p. m. for a covered dish salad luncheon.

Mrs. M. G. Tarver gave the invocation. All members enjoyed the fellowship of the delicious luncheon, it was stated. Mrs. Ed Hutcherson was in charge of the World Federation program basing her informative introduction on the origin of the organization and what it is. She stated that it was organized in 1939 with the motto, "To Know Christ and Make Him Known," the scripture Rev. 22:2, and the Tree of Life with its 12 fruits as a symbol of the 12-point program, which includes evangelism, education, medical work and world peace.

"It is a world-wide Federation of Methodist women with 52 units organized into nine areas," she stated. "The women of United Churches have also been invited to join. Thus the vision which was Helen Kim's, who is a retired president of Ewha University, Korea, is beginning to become real." Mrs. F. W. Foxhall discussed the latest meeting which was held in Oslo, Norway, in August, 1961, which was the first time the Federation had met outside the United States. Mrs. Ernst Scholz of Berlin, the retiring president, referred to the Federation becoming an affiliate of the World Methodist Council in 1956 which increased the sense of responsibility and furnished proof of the true love held for all races. Mrs. Foxhall touched on the situation of the continual panorama and the exchange of views and personal communication among the areas. She also gave the highlights of Mrs. Raymond Latham's greetings as the new president. In her greetings, she promised that the area of Australia will keep the torch of purpose of the World Federation burning brightly. Mrs. Latham is a native of Australia.

Mrs. R. S. Greene gave an interesting account of Mrs. Meeker's travels through New Zealand and Australia where she attended three conference meetings and said that her visit illustrated the truth of the phrase, "Methodists are one people." Mrs. Meeker enjoyed an inspiring speech by Mrs. Latham while in Australia. Mrs. Greene said. As the new president, she is visiting the different World Federation areas. In March, she came to the North American area to make plans for the next quinquennial assembly to be held in London in 1966.

Mrs. N. A. Hightower led in prayer to conclude the meeting. Those present other than the above mentioned were: Mmes. W. I. Glosson, Lee Brown, Myrtis Phelan, W. J. McMaster, Louis Goffinet, Bess Crump, J. W. Conpedge and one out-of-town guest, Miss Helen Madden.

Several members of the Estelline Chapter of Future Homemakers traveled to Clarendon Thursday, June 6, for an officer's workshop meeting.

Those attending the meeting were Marilyn May, president; Joanna Adcock, parliamentarian; Barbara Diggs, treasurer; Nancy Rea, pianist; Shirley Ward and Darlene Bragg, Miss Taylor, Estelline FHA advisor, took these girls in her car.

Registration began at 8:30 a. m. Refreshments were served from this time until 9 o'clock. Entertainment, presented by the Quail and Groom chapters, was enjoyed by everyone.

Pat Greene, Clarendon FHA president, introduced Mr. Ledger, Clarendon principal, Mrs. Ina Dora Hale, Area I supervisor; Mr. Hensen, county club director and Mrs. Boardland, Clarendon advisor. They each gave a welcome to the girls.

Following this, girls from each chapter met in separate groups for the purpose of exchanging ideas. Relaxers followed this "buzz" session. Then the girls went out to the Clarendon Country Club where they enjoyed sack lunches.

A second buzz session followed, then swimming and visiting began at 2 p. m.

Schools attending, other than Estelline, were Quail, Shamrock, Silverton, Wellington, Groom, Leffers, Panhandle, Clarendon, and Childress.

Mrs. B. D. Frisbie returned Tuesday from a few days visit with friends in Fort Worth.

THOMPSON BROS. CO.

The "Separation of Powers" Doctrine

Our U.S. Constitution separates the power of government among its three great branches—the legislative, the executive, the judicial. Behind the very sound "separation of powers" doctrine is the theory that by keeping the three branches independent of one another, and by keeping their authority in balance, a concentration of tyrannous power is made impossible.

Man has yet to devise a better system of government than that by which we are governed. A key-stone of our system is this "separation of powers." And, despite some stir recently over a "Fund for the Republic" pamphlet entitled "The Elite and the Electorate," there is not the slightest consideration being given in the Congress to changing the Constitutional balance of power. The pamphlet is not a government publication. The "Fund for the Republic" has no connection with government. The pamphlet argues that some authority now vested in the Congress should be transferred to the President in order that the United States might act more swiftly to meet sudden challenges at home and abroad. I'm strongly opposed to any such change—to any move to reduce the power of the Congress, the people's most direct voice in their government. I'm certain the great majority of Congressmen and Senators shares my conviction, as does the great majority of the American people.

From time to time in our history, one branch or another has been dominant in the exercise of power granted under the Constitution's broad outlines. In some periods, the Congress has acted most forcefully. Occasionally the U.S. Supreme Court has acted so strongly as to be accused (and I have raised the point) of exercising powers properly resting with the legislative branch, the Congress. We have had strong-willed Presidents who wielded their powers so vigorously that they were accused in their day of being dictators.

Of all our Presidents, Abraham Lincoln (whom we now all revere but who was a bitterly controversial President in his own time) cornered more power for the executive than any other. Consider these actions of Lincoln: Under the war power he proclaimed the slaves of those in rebellion emancipated. He devised and put into execution his own plan of reconstruction. He increased the Army and Navy beyond the limit set by statute. The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus was suspended wholesale and martial law declared. Public money in the sum of millions was spent without Congressional appropriation. Lincoln knew his Constitution. He did none of these innocently. He knew how far he could go in taking for his office the powers of a divided, weak Congress.

Thus, through history, one branch or another of our government has been in a position somewhat more powerful than the other branches. Today, in my view, Congress must be extremely wary about extending any further delegations of authority to departments in the executive branch. Because Congress has sometimes not been specific enough in its delegations of statutory authority to executive departments, or too generous in the powers it has passed along, the departments (constituting the government bureaucracy) have assumed larger responsibilities than legislators envisioned. Occasionally the Congress seeks to return to itself grants of authority. As an example, I have introduced a bill to bar the Federal Communications Commission from collecting license fees, a step the FCC said it was preparing to take. I submitted a bill to require that no fees be charged without the express Congressional consent.

Generally it can be shown that the "separation of powers" doctrine has been respected, that fluctuations in the exercise of power have through history been contained within the broad confines established by our Founding Fathers in the Constitution.

A sweeping, drastic change in the balance of legislative, executive, and judicial powers could not be made without the adoption of a Constitutional amendment. So fundamental to the entire Constitutional framework is the separation doctrine that, in my firm view, no major change could be made short of the outright repeal of the Constitution—and such a step is beyond any possibility. Even an amendment is most difficult to obtain. Only 13 amendments have become part of the Constitution since the original ten. The Bill of Rights, were adopted. To amend the Constitution, resolutions so providing must be approved by the judiciary committees and then by the Senate—and then by majorities in at least three-fourths of the 50 state legislatures. Right now, resolutions calling for amendments on 25 different points of the Constitution are pending before the House Judiciary Committee. It is extremely unlikely that any of these proposals will emerge for House floor consideration this year. The road is long and hard for any Constitutional change. Altering the Constitution is a serious step not to be undertaken without great and prolonged deliberation—and not without a clear call from the American people saying that the change is needed.

Hall County Soil Conservation District News

With the recent rains we have had and the warmer weather approaching, weed control in pastures becomes even more important to the livestock producer. Weed control is important on all pasturelands but especially important on newly seeded or sodded areas to give the young grass a better chance to grow and spread.

There are several methods used to control weeds and undesirable vegetation. These include mowing or shredding and the use of chemical sprays.

The use of chemical spray in many instances will be prohibitive since susceptible crops such as cotton may be too close to the area to be sprayed, resulting in damage to the cotton from spray drift. If, however, the pasture is isolated enough from susceptible crops, a solution of 2,4-D and water will do a good job of controlling broad-leaf weeds. If this method is used, the low volatile, amena salt solution should be used as it does not drift as much as the high volatile type. Ground spraying equipment should be used under low pressure and applied when the wind velocity is less than ten miles per hour.

SPACE GAP . . . Inch by inch, the remaining gap of the lofty Europa Bridge spanning the Sill Valley in Austria is being closed. At this point, the opening is still almost 80 feet across. Meeting place is over 600 feet high.

the less wind the safer the chemical is to use.

Mowing and shredding is the next best method of weed control. This method is more widely used in the Hall County Soil Conservation District since there is no worry about chemical drift. Weeds should be cut high enough so that at least most of the grass will not be cut. The mowing or shredding have to be repeated during the growing season for effective control.

Pastures on which weeds have been effectively controlled have been known to produce as much as 50 per cent more grass. This means more money to the livestock man.

The Soil Conservation Service technicians assisting the Hall County Soil Conservation District are available to work with farmers and ranchers on the best method of weed control on their grassland.

Mrs. Paul Buchanan and daughter, Mrs. Tommy Hunt, and Kim and Kyle visited in Fort Worth over the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mills. They returned home on Tuesday. While there

Danny Scarborough,
Tech Quarterback
Injured Friday

Danny Scarborough of Quannah, Texas Tech's No. 1 ranked quarterback, suffered a broken leg and severe knee injuries that required surgery in an accident at his summer job in Lubbock Friday, friends here have reported.

Scarborough has visited here many times in the Leo Koeninger home, and is well known by the high school and college group in Memphis.

Scarborough's leg was broken when a steel plate fell upon him at Anderson-Bigham Sheet Metal Works shortly after he had reported for work. When surgeons at Methodist Hospital operated to place a pin in the broken bone they found his right knee had been severely damaged. Four lateral ligaments were torn loose, cartilages were torn and the hamstring tendon injured.

Texas Tech trainer, Don Sparks, who was present at the operation, said damage to the knee was extensive but the surgery was successful. Sparks said Scarborough would not be able to play this year. He will remain in the hospital for 10 days.

Texas Tech head coach, J. T. King, taking a philosophical view of the accident, commented: "That boy will be back. He is a fine youngster and I don't think this will hurt his career. It is an unfortunate accident, but the same things could happen on the football field."

King said Scarborough's injury would mean young Tom Wilson of Corsicana would move into the No. 3 spot among the quarterbacks behind Jim Ellis, Lubbock, and Ben Elledge, Brownwood.

Scarborough was an all-district, all-state and all-Southern performer in high school. The 18-year-old sophomore-to-be was particularly effective in spring training this year on the option and roll-out pass formations.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Dale Watson and family visited with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Querry, in Silvertown Sunday.

TEXAS BRONCO
-V.E.S.S. MFG. CO. INC.
MARKET 38 38236 6 720 W 10th BR 43333

"TEXAS BRONCO" — Sherry Jones is shown above riding the "Texas Bronco" which was developed by her parents. The firm will begin manufacturing the piece of playground equipment here in the near future.

'Texas Bronco' Playground Equipment To Be Produced In Plant Located Here

Work has been underway during the past weeks to begin producing "Texas Bronco" horses in Memphis. The "Texas Bronco" is an aluminum animal capable of providing many hours of enjoyment for youths over a wide range of years.

The piece of playground equipment was created beginning in 1953 by Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Jones of Amarillo and has undergone many changes and modifications over the 10-year period before reaching its present form.

Mrs. Jones first thought of the idea when her young daughters were "crazy" for a real, live horse. Her husband, who had then been selling encyclopedias for 12 years, built the first one from scrap material and placed it in their garage. The idea was an aluminum horse, suspended by four springs so that youths could ride the animal.

They finally moved the horse from the garage to the yard, and before long the place was "over-run" with all the kids in the neighborhood, Mrs. Jones says.

Shortly thereafter the family decided to go into the playground equipment business with horses cast from sand molds. Many of the horses were produced and sold to motels, drive-in theaters, and individuals, but many problems were encountered for the budding business.

Springs of various types had to be tried until one was found that would hold up over a long period of time. The stand was redesigned. And, last but not least, the horse itself has been through many changes.

At first, sand casts of aluminum were used, but these had to be made in 12 parts and required a lot of welding to produce the final animal. At one period the animal was made of fiberglass, but this also proved to be costly and did not have the weight to give the right ride, Mr. Jones said.

The company now has a permanent mold which will enable workmen to cast the animal in two halves. The permanent mold method will also require very little putting and practically no buffing or grinding, it was explained.

mph than it did when traveling at 15 mph.

"Despite what you might think, it will always take four times the distance to stop when you double your speed, not just twice the distance," McNeil said.

The most spectacular test tried Wednesday was when the instructor, Leon Van Alstine, was given the test while traveling at 40 mph. Under the ideal testing conditions, it took the driver slightly over 28 feet to get on the brake when the shot was fired, and 75 feet to stop the vehicle for a total distance of slightly under 104 feet. The officer told the students that under the best conditions, it will take one-third of a city block to stop a car if it is traveling over 30 mph.

Mrs. John Q. Public . . . Anyway, a few store owners are improving fronts on the square . . . Weeds and blinds still exist within a block or two of the square, as well as elsewhere . . . Mosquitoes and flies are multiplying and endangering the health of people living in Memphis, and still nothing is being done about it. NUFF SED! Honey and sugar doesn't seem to have any effect.

Regardless of the lethargy apparent in Memphis, in a Memphis Beautiful way, plenty is doing in a growing way. Perhaps we'll all crawl out of the shell of selfishness and begin to think of and serve others.
