Jaycees, Fire Dept. To Have Donkey Ball Game Aug. 2

The Memphis Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Memphis Volunteer Fire Department will meet at 8 p. m. Friday, Aug. 2, at Estes Field for a Donkey Softball Game, it was announced this week.

Admission was announced at $1 per adult, 50 cents for students under 12, and no charge for preschool age children.

Also will be featured is a special act by a trick mule, Jaycee Chairman Keith Cunningham said. Gene Hamill and Joe Lynn Allard are co-chairman of the project.

The purpose of the Donkey Ball Game is to raise funds for the two organizations.

Ralph E. Godfrey of Crescent, Okla., will furnish the donkeys for the event. The original donkey baseball rules, written by Godfrey, are as follows:

1. All players except pitcher and catcher ride donkeys.

2. When batter gets a hit, he must mount his donkey and ride around the bases in proper order, if he can.

3. There are no strike outs and no walks.

4. Fielders must ride to within a (one) step of the ball before dismounting and must remount before throwing the ball.

5. A donkey softball is used.

6. Nine players on each team.

7. A game plays 5 to 7 innings—or about one hour and a half.

8. All rulings of the Official Donkey Baseball Umpire are final.

Advanced tickets may be purchased from each Jaycee or Fire Department member.

"We encourage the advance sale of tickets because the local organizations receive a bigger percentage from this than from those purchased at the gate," Cunningham said.

Residents in the Memphis area have had opportunities in the past to see donkey baseball games, and many will remember that they are excellent entertainment.

Rev. Fern Miller Is Recovering From Snake Bite

Rev. Fern Miller, pastor of the First Baptist Church, was reported this morning to be recovering nicely from a rattlesnake bite, which he received Tuesday night at Pan Fork Encampment. Rev. Miller has been hospitalized in Wellington, but it is expected he will return to Memphis today.

Rev. Miller was serving as safety officer at the encampment, which is located between Wellington and Shamrock. The snake had crawled into an open assembly area where the youth had met to see slides shown by a missionary from India. It is reported that Rev. Miller was trying to evict the snake when he was bitten on the finger of his right hand. The snake was a small rattler.

Tuesday, all contestants and their sponsors will spend the day at Six Flags Over Texas. The contestants are scheduled to appear on local television in the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Miss Stargel will compete in preliminary contests which consist of bathing suits, evening dresses, and talent contests.

The finals of the Miss Texas Contest will be held Saturday night. Memphis residents will be able to view the contestants on

Childress LL Wins Area Play-Off Here

The Memphis Little League All-Stars lost their chance to represent this area in play-offs last Thursday night when they were defeated 6-1 by the Childress All-Stars.

Danny Havins, Childress pitcher, went the full six innings, and allowed only two hits and walked three in gaining the win.

Memphis opened the scoring in the game in the second inning, when Sammy Bruce hit one over the left field fence for the only home run of the game.

Childress' team showed good pitching and batting in their two victories, Memphis, 6-1, and Clarendon 6-0, in Friday night's game.

Friday night, Danny Lane pitched a three-hit shut-out against Clarendon for Childress. Childress made most of their runs in the first inning against Clarendon.

A large crowd of spectators were on hand both nights to watch the Little League teams vie for the area championship.

Red Cross To Give Swimming Course Here

A Life Saving and Water Safety course conducted by the local chapter of the Red Cross will begin Monday, July 29, at Fowler's Swimming Pool, Doyle Fowler, owner and Red Cross instructor, announced this week.

The course is open to both juniors and seniors and will be held each morning from 9 until 11 a. m. A two weeks course, classes will be conducted from Monday through Friday.

By taking the course and passing the qualifications, Boy Scouts may receive merit swimming and life saving merit badges, Fowler said.

Those interested in taking the two-week course are asked to be at the pool at 9 a. m. July 29.

James Watkins Is Charged With Illegal Entry

James Watkins, a 36-year-old Negro, is being held in Hall County jail on a charge of breaking and entering. Bond has been set at $2,000.

Watkins was arrested at 3:30 a. m. Wednesday in the I. E. McDaniel home by Deputy Sheriff Joe B. Browning.

The McDaniel home had been burglarized the two previous consecutive nights. The Sheriff Department was notified Tuesday by Mr. McDaniel.

A stake-out was set on the McDaniel home. Deputy Browning said he was alerted when he heard someone walk across the grass and insert a wire into a window screen. Watkins was apprehended in the hallway.

Temperature Hits 107 Degrees Wed.

Memphis residents sweltered this week as the temperature continued to soar with the year's high being recorded Wednesday at 107 degrees, according to J. J. Micklin, official weather observer.

But just because Wednesday's 107 was the highest recorded, residents found the other days of the week just as hot with highs of 105 and 106 being recorded.

The high - low temperature spread for the past seven days include: Wednesday 107-72, Tuesday 106-68, Monday 105-78, Sunday 106-69, Saturday 105-70, Friday 103-72, and last Thursday 102-72.

The 107 degree high Wednesday was one of the highest recorded temperatures ever recorded here.

House Resolutions Honor Two Estelline Students

Two Estelline students were recognized recently for their accomplishments by the Texas House of Representatives when that legislative body passed H. S. R. No. 497 and No. 498.

The House Resolutions, signed by Speaker of the House Byron Tammell, paid tribute to Ted J. Barnes, a 1963 Estelline High School graduate, and Miss Sara Holland.

H. S. R. No. 497 Portions of H. S. R. No. 497 are as follows: "Whereas, the State of Texas is aware that its greatest resource lies in its talented and bright young people . . .

"Whereas, among these young student leaders is Ted J. Barnes, 17-year-old senior high school student from Estelline . . .

"Whereas, he has proved himself to be outstanding in athletics and in student government and has maintained a fine academic record. He represented his region in tennis competition at the University Interscholastic League finals in Austin as a regional singles champion . . .

"Whereas, his athletic prowess has shown up in other sports also. He was selected as All-State Class B Basketball player in 1963, having averaged 35 points per game. He is also reported to be an excellent baseball player, and has been invited to attend one of the try-out camps this summer of a Major League baseball club . . .

"Whereas, this young man possesses the moral fibre which should assure his character development along with his growth . . . now, therefore, be it resolved that the House of Representatives of the 58th Legislature of the State of Texas extends its congratulations and good wishes to Ted J. Barnes."

H. S. R. No. 498 A portion of H. S. R. No. 498 is as follows: "Whereas, the Legislature considers Miss Sara Holland worthy of special commendation for her high placement in State public speaking contests and for her general excellence as a student; and

"Whereas, Miss Holland has maintained an A-average in school and is a member of the National Honor Society. She was co-valedictorian of her 8th grade graduating class and won a district declamation contest in 1962; and

"Whereas, her strength of character is equal to her superior scholarship; now, therefore, be it Resolved, that the House of Representatives of the 58th Legislature of the State of Texas congratulate Miss Sara Holland of Estelline, for winning the contest in Persuasive Speaking and for her excellent school record . . . and a copy of this resolution be sent to her with the best wishes of the House for her continuing success."

R. R. Authority Cuts Water Off At Estelline Co-Op Gin Wednesday

Water to the Estelline Co-Op Gin was cut off Wednesday afternoon at approximately 1:30 p. m. L. L. White, manager, announced this morning. The cut-off grew out of the erection of a water rack on the gin property in Estelline.

A controversy arose when directors and patron-owners of the gin decided to install a water rack, from which farmers could get water at no cost.

At a board meeting July 10, members discussed the proposition of furnishing patron-owners of the gin with free water. At this meeting, the board members authorized Manager White to go ahead and erect the water loading rack, which was completed last week.

According to White, the local manager of the Estelline water system, Tommy Hunt, had informed him (White) on July 9 that they did not want the rack built; that the Red River Authority, owner of the water system, had a rack which was available.

Manager White then called Jack Connell, attorney for the Red River Authority, whose office is in Wichita Falls. Atty. Connell told White they did not want another rack in Estelline. Later,

Mr. Murphy was married to Miss Delia Flo McBride on Aug. 9, 1925, in Newlin.

He was a member of the Church of Christ at Petersburg. Surviving are his wife, four sons, Darrell Ray of Lubbock, R. J. Funeral services are pending for Mrs. Lydia Alice Hickey, 75, Hedley resident, who died Wednesday night in University Convalescent Center in Lubbock, where she had been a patient for the past month.

Fred Parkey, general manager of the Authority, told White at his farm in Childress County that they would attempt to get an injunction to prevent the Co-Op Gin from using the water rack and giving water to patron-owners.

Wednesday morning Garland Ray, a pollution officer of the Authority, arrived in Estelline. He went to the gin and talked to Ben Bragg, a gin employee, according to White. The manager was not at the gin at the time he arrived. The officer asked Bragg if he had ever tied into a State of Texas water line.

Later in the morning White talked to the officer, who told him they were "going to cut your water off" and take the meter out. He added that there would be only one rack in Estelline — and the Authority would have it. White said he told him that his board had authorized him to construct the rack and furnish water; and that he was carrying out their instructions.

The officer then contacted Jerral Rapp, president of the board of directors at the gin. According to Rapp, the officer told him that

Freedom's Global Forces

There are forces at work today which are of far greater significance than the ideological philosophy expressed by the communist and free worlds.

Writing in Nation's Business, Secretary of State Dean Rusk says that several highly important global forces are now acting in our favor and to the long-run advantage of the free world.

These include the trend toward unity in Western Europe; the rejection of communism by new nations; increasing conflict between the Soviet Union and communist China; the readiness of more countries to negotiate settlement of problems, ranging from world trade to peace.

Mr. Rusk does not exaggerate the significance of any of these hopeful developments but as he sees it, "today the strength of the free world is far greater than it was a decade ago, and the keys to a new surge of progress are in our hands. The forces at work to build a free and peaceful world community are showing even more vitality, while the forces opposed to this purpose have lost in relative strength and unity."

The struggle for better living and working conditions has been paramount throughout the history of mankind. The free world has strong forces working in its favor at this time. We are offered a tremendous opportunity and the task ahead is to make the most of it. We must demonstrate that the free world has far more to offer humanity than the slave world—and we must do that with unfaltering courage and dedication.

Let's Show Enthusiasm!

What's wrong with showing enthusiasm... laughing aloud at a good joke... applauding a good performance... cheering a parade... or saluting a flag (for showing patriotism is also a form of enthusiasm)?

We seem to be developing a whole country full of people who consider it "smart" to be bored... or, at least, to appear that way. This isn't confined to the younger generation, either... though the kids are quick to label any public show of emotion as "corny."

How do we get this way? A fellow newsman advanced the opinion the other day that television and the movies are to blame... mostly television... and this may be part of the answer. People don't cheer performances any more, he says, because they've already seen the best of everything on TV. And nobody cheers a TV screen, of course, because there's nobody to hear the applause.

The same is true of drive-in movies. Laughter and applause are crowd reactions... and who puts a crowd in a car? We're making of ourselves a segregated society... segregated from our neighbors and from the world at large, taking our entertainment in the privacy of our homes or automobiles... and when we do witness some event in a crowd, as in a theater or at a parade or in a public auditorium, we are somehow a little ashamed of breaking into cheers or applause.

But in doing so, we're not only short-changing the performers, but we're cheating ourselves. We're missing a lot, and it's our own fault. As anyone who has ever performed in public... on stage or on a playing field or on a lecture platform... can tell you, any performer responds to an audience. And any audience which responds to a performer not only gets a better performance but finds itself enjoying it more. Enthusiasm is contagious.

Once many years ago, I attended a piano concert by the late great Sergei Rachmaninov in Denver's huge Municipal Auditorium. Rachmaninov was a flawless performer, but often a cold one. But on this particular night, there occurred one of those magic moments which make a performance memorable. The audience was large and generous with its applause, and Rachmaninov responded to the warmth of the welcome. He not only played brilliantly through his scheduled repertoire, but in a rare acknowledgement of his audience's enthusiasm, returned to play encore after encore... a bonus which I imagine few in that audience have ever forgotten.

Enthusiasm is contagious... but so is boredom. When you put on that look of studied boredom at a public performance, you're not only robbing yourself of pleasure but dampening the enthusiasm of your neighbor. Why not have fun... and look like it. You might be contagious, too.

Split at the Top

The latest split between Chinese and Russians appears to mean the Chinese Communists want a complete break from Moscow and intend to have it unless Moscow gives in to Peking's demands.

This is—if the reading of Chinese intentions is correct—a historic turning point for world Communism and for the world. Heretofore it has been a world movement and no country dared challenge the supremacy of Moscow.

Peking not only now challenges Moscow dogma, but openly fights to take control of the Communist parties in Asian countries—and it appears that the Chinese have won the ascendancy in all Asian nations except North Vietnam. If a final break between Moscow and Peking comes, North Vietnam may be forced to fall in line with Peking.

Peking also has a chance in Mexico, Brazil and certain other South and Latin American countries. She has a follower in Albania and may cause other defections from Moscow's leadership. The important thing is that China has apparently assessed the advantages of every possible course and decided she would make the break with Moscow and wage a Communist world movement on her own. This will put Moscow on the defensive to an extent for the Peking gospel is a more revolutionary one, actually more in line with Marxist theory in some ways, than Moscow's.

The West's golden chance to reunite Germany, and give the Balkan peoples and countries freedom and democracy—if they chose it—will come when Russia is sufficiently embroiled with China. The split in the world Communist movement brings that day closer.—The Shamrock Texan.

What's Fair in Fair Trade?

The Federal Trade Commission is considering measures to make sure that when a nationally advertised item is marked at a certain price, the store selling that item sells it at that price without any price cutting or manipulation.

The FTC maintains that there has been abuse of nationally advertised and preticketed prices.

Some manufacturers have imprinted prices higher than selling prices in order to make purchasers believe they are getting bargains.

This is all wrong, says the FTC, and in order to protect the consumer, they want some laws regulating the area of pricing.

The government is considering laws which would have the effect of banning all national advertising and preticketing. A manufacturer would have to make sure that a substantial majority of sales of his product throughout the country was at the set price, or else he would face FTC action.

But if he did persuade retailers to abide by the set price, he might be in the position of violating antitrust laws.

Either way the manufacturer moved he would be in trouble.

This is a sign of the times—calling the government in to be the policeman. What possible difference should it make to Uncle Sam if the retailer sells merchandise for less than the printed price put on there by the manufacturer? What if the retailer wants to give the stuff away? What business is it of the government?

People are not quite as simple as some of our bureaucrats would have you believe. If a refrigerator is advertised at $200 while the regular manufacturer list price is $325, you can rest assured that the prospective buyer does not be-

Miss Melinda Ray Clifton and Charles Eugene Newton exchanged marriage vows Saturday, July 13, at 5 p. m. in the Chapel of the First Methodist Church in Slaton. The Rev. Keith Wiseman, pastor of Epworth Methodist Church of Lubbock, officiated for the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. A. L. Clifton and the late Mr. Clifton of Slaton, and Mrs. Bessie Newton of Memphis.

James W. Clifton gave his sister in marriage. Her dress of white brocade taffeta was designed with a scooped neckline, short sleeves and a full, circular street-length skirt. A shoulder length veil of illusion fell from a tiara of pearls. She carried feathered carnations atop a white Bible.

Matron of honor was Mrs. J. W. Clifton of Richardson, sister-in-law of the bride.

Tim Kent of Sudan was best man and Jim Bishop of Muleshoe and Dale Kilgore of Memphis served as ushers.

Rebecca Jung of Dallas, niece of the bride, Vickie Jones, cousin of the groom, lighted the candles.

Mrs. Webber Williams was organist and accompanied Mrs. M. G. Davis, soloist.

Reception
Immediately following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Jung and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Clifton, all of Dallas, were hosts at a reception in Fellowship Hall. The bride's table was covered with a white Maderia cloth and centered with a two-tiered wedding cake. Flowers in a summer arrangement completed the decorations.

For a honeymoon trip, the bride chose for travel a silk and linen suit with blue and white accessories accented with the corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The couple will reside at 1800 6th Ave. in Canyon. The bride is a sophomore elementary education major at West Texas State University and her husband is a junior biology major at WTSU.

Friday Brunch

A brunch and bridal shower was given in honor of Mrs. Newton Friday morning, July 5, in the home of Mrs. J. D. Barry with Mrs. R. H. Todd as co-hostess.

The table, covered with satin damask and appointed in china, featured yellow day lilies as the centerpiece.

Bridal Shower

The Joe Walker, Jr., home was the scene for a bridal shower, given July 7.

In the receiving line were Mrs. Walker, the honoree, her mother, Mrs. A. L. Clifton; her sister, Mrs. Keith Wiseman; and sister-in-law, Mrs. James W. Clifton.

Fifty guests were registered by Misses Pam Stansell and Debra Kayser.

Mrs. Locke and Mrs. Cecil Self presided at the serving table which was centered with white carnations and daisies, and featured milk glass appointments.

Other party rooms were decorated with summer flowers.

Sandra Kay Veteto Becomes Bride Of Arvil Ware In Recent Panhandle Rites

In a candlelight ceremony performed July 16 in the Panhandle Church of Christ, Miss Sandra Kay Veteto, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ellis Veteto of Panhandle and formerly of Memphis, became the bride of Arvil Ware, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Ware, also of Panhandle.

Cecil Williams, minister of the church, performed the double-ring ceremony at 8 o'clock in the evening.

Tall baskets of white gladioli and stock, backed by an arch of buckleyberry vines, was the setting for the exchange of vows. This was accented by four seven-branched candelabra holding white cathedral tapers.

Presenting the nuptial music were Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Cummings, Mr. and Mrs. George Eller, Mrs. Arthur Cummings, Mrs. Cecil Williams, Mrs. C. H. Sullivan and Charles Sullivan. They sang "Wonderful One," "Because," "O Perfect Love," and the traditional wedding march, "Faithful and True" from Mendelssohn.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white scalloped nylon styled with a Sabrina neckline, outlined with seed pearls, fitted bodice and long fitted sleeves, which came to points over the hands. Her full skirt was accented with net ruffles from the waist to the hemline in the back, with a net peplum caught at the back with a large lace bow. Her fingertip veil of illusion was attached to a tiara of pearls and sequins.

She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses centered with a white orchid. The bouquet rested in a nest of white net and lace from which fell bridal satin streamers knotted with Stephanotis.

For something old she wore an antique enameled watch, belonging to her aunt, Mrs. E. L. McQueen of Memphis.

Attendants

Bridal attendants were Mrs. David Carroll, sister of the bride, matron of honor; Miss Brenda Williams, maid of honor; and Miss Wanda Ware, sister of the bridegroom, bridesmaid. All wore ballerina length dresses of yellow and white brocaded satin styled with fitted bodices, scooped necklines and full skirts. They carried colonial bouquets of white and yellow carnations accented with yellow and white net and lace. Their veiled hats were of yellow and white roses and yellow net.

Reba Kay Veteto, sister of the bride, and David Ware, cousin of the bridegroom, lighted the candles. Reba Kay wore a yellow and white flowered dress with a yellow and white carnation wristlet.

Kay Hebard, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl, wearing a dress of yellow and white brocaded satin made similar to that of the honor attendants. She also wore a wristlet of yellow and white carnations.

The ring bearer was Ronnie Ware, cousin of the bridegroom.

Serving the bridegroom as best man was his brother, Kenneth Ware. Groomsman and ushers were Charles Hebard, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and David Carroll, brother-in-law of the bride.

Miss Marsha Nunn presided at the guest register.

For the wedding, Mrs. Veteto, mother of the bride, wore a street length dress of orchid silk, green and white flowered hat and white accessories. Mrs. Ware, bridegroom's mother, wore a street length dress of blue silk and flowered hat and white accessories. Both of their corsages were of white carnations.

Reception

Following the wedding a reception was given by the bride's parents in the War Memorial Building. Miss Lana Veteto, sister of the bride, registered the guests, and Miss Linda Urbanczyk played piano music.

The bride's table was laid with a white organdy cloth over yellow satin. A crystal bowl holding yellow and white carnations, flanked by crystal candelabra with white candles, formed the centerpiece. A silver and cut glass punch service was at one end of the table, with the five tiered wedding cake of yellow and white, topped with a miniature bride and groom and yellow and white roses at the other end. Table appointments were of crystal and silver.

In the house party were Mrs. Charles Hebard, sister of the bridegroom; Mrs. Ray Ware, aunt of the bridegroom; Misses Glenda Smith, Jean Biggs and Linda Martin.

For a wedding trip to Fort Sill, Okla., where the bridegroom is stationed with the U. S. Army, Mrs. Ware wore a two piece suit of sand colored linen, with black patent accessories and the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Ware is a 1963 graduate of Panhandle High School, and Mr. Ware is a 1959 graduate of the same school.

The rehearsal dinner was given by the bridegroom's parents in the War Memorial Building.

McMurry Is Ranked As One Of U. S. Best Sculptors

Leonard D. McMurry of Oklahoma City, son of Mrs. R. B. McMurry, has obtained the reputation of being one of the United States' best sculpture artists.

Recently he was awarded the contract for the erection and sculpturing of the Oklahoma Air Force Memorial. The memorial will rise 65 feet in the air. The base will be of ebony mist polished granite. Setting on the base will be an abstract shape representing the wing of an aircraft. This 65-foot shaft will be unpollished white granite. The figure of a man 12 feet tall will stand on the base and in front of the shaft. The man has one foot on the replica of the globe, symbolizing the spring-board into space. In one hand the man holds a wheel representing the fundamentals of transportation. In the other hand he points a flying sword toward space as he prepares for his journey to the stars. Mounted on the shaft 40 feet above the base will be a soaring eagle with a wingspread of 12 feet. Both man and eagle will be cast in bronze. Land marks in aviation's progress will be depicted on the sides of the shaft.

This memorial was designed by Mr. McMurry, who took over one year to complete the design. Total cost of the memorial was set at $70,000.

To be unveiled Sept. 26, is McMurry's "89ers Monument." This bronze monument will be located outside Civic Center, Oklahoma City. It is one and one-half times life-size and is all the sculpture work of Leonard McMurry.

McMurry was born in Memphis on June 23, 1913. At an early age he began to draw and paint without any instruction. When he entered school, his talent was evident to his teachers, and he was encouraged to develop it.

After high school graduation, he entered West Texas State College in 1932. Then he studied art under Miss Isabelle Tompkins. In 1935, he entered Washington University in St. Louis, where he majored in sculpture.

That same year he won the Students Association scholarship. The two following years, he received the Wayman Crow Scholarship and Medal. In 1940 and 1941, he received the McKinlin Foreign Traveling award. Also in 1941, he received honorable mention in Prix De Rome. After receiving his fine arts degree in 1941, he worked and taught in St. Louis, until he entered the armed services in May of 1942.

While he was stationed in England, he met and married Maurine Paulson. She returned to the United States with him, and he was discharged in 1945. He then went back to St. Louis where he worked and studied with Carl Moser until 1949. He was accepted by Professor Teas Mestrovic to study and work with him at Syracuse University.

He spent three years there under the great Mestrovic, doing post-graduate work. McMurry has had his work exhibited in many shows in St. Louis, and in prominent galleries in New York.

In 1952, his work was selected by the National Sculpture Society for exhibition at the national show in New York City. He moved to Oklahoma City in 1955, where he became associated with Thomas Inberth, landscape architect.

Some of his most recent work include: the statue of Wiley Post for the City of Oklahoma City, Okla.; "Christ and the Children," Crown Heights Methodist Church; "Eternal Challenge," Oklahoma City University. He has done many portraits of children and many full figured portraits. Also he has sculptured many garden pieces.

McMURRY'S WORK — Above is a picture of Leonard McMurry's "89ers Monument" which will be unveiled on Sept. 26 at the Civic Center in Oklahoma City, Okla. McMurry did the sculpture work on the monument. The completed monument will be cast in bronze.

I am a member recently held hearings on bills to permit the leasing of U. S. public lands to firms seeking to drill for geothermal energy and chemical by-products. The subject was most interesting to me because of its potential for enriching man's life by providing a new, inexpensive source of power generation and heat.

Geothermal energy, or earth-heat energy, taps temperatures within the earth—temperatures considerably higher than found at the earth's surface. This difference in temperatures causes heat to flow from the interior of the earth to the surface. There it is dissipated in the air. When groundwater is heated by a body of hot residual volcanic rock lying at shallow depth it rises rapidly mixed with hot gases and steam from rock itself. It follows cracks and fissures to the surface. These conditions sometimes produce such phenomenon as hot springs and geysers.

Geothermal steam was first developed for generating electric power in the late 1930's near Florence, Italy. Power plants there are now generating more than 300,000 kilowatts from 24 generating units. As a sideline, a chemical industry has been established mainly for the manufacture of boron products. In the United States, deep drilling has been undertaken by private enterprise in Imperial County, Calif., at the southern end of the Salton Sea. The project has disclosed boiling brines containing, in addition to a large quantity of steam, a high content of valuable chemicals. Single wells have a proved steam potential of generating 8,000 to 10,000 kilowatts. More tests are scheduled. In Iceland, steam and hot water from geyser areas are being tapped for community heating purposes.

The possibilities of developing geothermal energy exist extensively on public desert lands. Legislation has been introduced to making the development possible. The existing federal oil and gas lease framework would be suitable if only steam, heat and geothermal energy were to be extracted. But the wells also produce hot brines in which sodium, potassium, calcium, boron, silicon, manganese, magnesium, lead, iron, copper, titanium, lithium and strontium also may be found in quantities of possible commercial value. Therefore, leases for steam, heat and geothermal energy should encompass the production and sale of these by-products.

Geothermal energy development may take place in the United States primarily on public lands, but the government is not otherwise involved. Private enterprise will do the job.

In my outer office here, hanging on the wall, is a large cowhide loaned to me by Frank Carter of Pampa. It's the pelt from a prize-winning steer at a Panhandle livestock show of some years ago. It attracts considerable attention, even from strangers passing by in the corridor. Lately, however, I've come to think it is a grimy harbor for assorted vermin. I determined to have it cleaned. I asked Tommy Ryan of Shamrock, who works part-time in the office while attending George Washington University, to arrange for the hide to be cleaned. He called a large Washington department store and was referred to the Fur Department. The following conversation took place:

"I need a cowhide cleaned," Tommy told the fur repairman.

"What type article did you say?" asked the man.

"A cowhide," said Tommy. "The hide of a Hereford steer."

"Just a moment," said the man. "Is it a rug?"

"No," said Tommy. "Just a plain cowhide."

"Is it a coat?" asked the man.

"No, it hangs on the wall," said Tommy.

There was a long pause. "Okay. We can clean it for you," said the man.

"How much?" asked Tommy.

"It depends on the size," said the man. "It might be $15, more or less."

"Okay," said Tommy. "Come and get it."

"How much valuation do you place on it?" the man asked.

"Well, to the steer it was everything," said Tommy. "But we figure it at $100."

LONE STAR AGRICULTURE

RELEASED BY THE TEXAS DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

New Market Potential FOR COTTON GOODS

Old King Cotton, Texas' major farm crop, may get a much needed shot in the arm for experiments aimed at "fluffing it up a little!"

For years, the cotton usage has been sagging downward from the competition of synthetic fibers. As new "miracle fibers" were developed in laboratories, cotton was pushed further aside.

Now comes a project to make cotton knit goods more nearly like wool — without the stretch! The goal is to give cotton knit clothing like sweaters and undergarments more bulk, warmth and dimensional stability. A scientific breakthrough which would fluff up the cotton thread and make it stay that way regardless of cleaning processes could widen markets for cotton — particularly on winter-wear clothing.

The advent of wash and wear cotton clothing a few years ago proved to be a good stimulant for the cotton market. Scientists had succeeded in "stabilizing" the cotton thread with finishing agents to give the cloth its wash-wear properties. However, when dimensional stability of cotton was achieved, no increase in bulk or warmth of the material was gained.

Scientists now believe, however, that means of applying the chemicals can be developed that will also increase the bulk and warmth of cotton fabric. Ordinarily, fabrics treated with wash-wear chemicals are passed through squeeze rolls to remove excess treating solution. The high-pressure squeezing as present reduces the bulkiness of the fabric.

The task now is to find new processing methods that will impregnate fabrics with the proper amount of chemicals, fluff up the fabric to increase its bulk and warmth, and stabilize the fabric in its bulky state. The end result would be a fabric much like wool, with many new uses opening up for cotton in the winter garment trade.

Clemson Agricultural College in South Carolina is in charge of the cotton research program in cooperation with the United States Department of Agriculture. The eyes of Texas cotton growers and market men will be on the South Carolina research laboratory for the next year or so. If the experiments are successful, King Cotton may recapture much of its clothing trade volume that has been lost in recent years.

Reclaiming Alkaline Soils

A new chemical means of removing harmful alkaline salts that affect productivity on countless acres of land in Texas and elsewhere is showing great promise. Improbable as it seems, the process involves removal of the unwanted salts by the use of salt water.

Alkaline soils, more properly called sodic soils because they contain 15 percent or more of sodium ions attached to soil surfaces, support on tolerant crops or are worthless. Not only do the sodium ions prevent attachment of vital soil nutrients, but, more importantly, they prevent water from entering soil particles. This problem is especially serious on irrigated lands which tend to increase in alkalinity from the salts found in irrigation water.

The new approach to the problem involves exposure of sodic soil to water high in salt concentration, such as sea water or subterranean salt water as is often encountered in Texas. Even though low-salt water worsens the condition by sealing sodic soils, heavily concentrated salt acts as a flocculant, causing small soil particles to join in larger aggregates and leaving larger openings that readily admit water.

The method of salt water application is a "leaching" process in which the soil is exposed to the salt water just long enough to permit exchange of the sodium ions, many of which may be taken up by the salt water as it is removed.

Sodium ions, which have one positive electrical charge each, do not adhere as tightly to soil particles as do calcium ions which have two positive charges each. When the concentration of salt in the leaching water is changed, some calcium ions dislodge the less strongly held sodium ions, and the leaching water carries away the sodium which the calcium has displaced.

The calcium salt is far less harmful than the sodium because it does not seal water away from the soil to such an extent.

The process, which works well under laboratory conditions, is now being applied to large-scale field tests. It could prove an answer not only to many of the land problems which we now have but also a safeguard against the future ruin of soil on which we now depend.

Randy and Ronny Jones spent the past week with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Mack Jones, and attended the swimming lessons at Fowler Swimming Pool.

Dick Nelson and Beverly Nelson of Amarillo and Mrs. Lillie May Stevens and Mrs. Jimmy Stevens of Pampa visited here over the weekend with Mary Elkins.

About Your HEALTH

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health.

You suffer from "midmorning hunger," better revise your eating habits, State Health Department nutritionists advise.

and more people are falling into the habit of skimping on breakfast. Surveys have shown that one out of every nine children goes to school without breakfast. Four out of ten workers go to work with nothing to eat.

"Morning hunger" is the extreme condition that nutritionists use to describe the feeling which comes after an inadequate breakfast. Victims usually feel weak and giddy in the morning. They may be hungry, but they have no taste for lunch. They are able to eat a big meal, but they may feel sleepy by afternoon.

Morning hunger therapy, nutritionists say, calls for the "padding" of breakfast. The amount of breakfast consumption varies from person to person. In some cases, special problems or diets can be guided by a physician.

Texas teachers and school nurses place special emphasis on breakfast. One school nurse had a contest in the elementary grades. Near the end of the year a mother telephoned to ask for the improved breakfast plan.

The general well being of the family. Before the contest, mother said, none of the children ate breakfast. Her child, in the school breakfast contest, eventually it caught on. The whole family began eating breakfast and feeling better.

The false idea that skipping breakfast is a good way to reduce weight, this highly injurious habit pounds. It works like breakfast and by noon you have your appetite or else are eating for fear of being full after lunch. Then for the rest of the day your body is demanding all day. Now you are bed and your supper is eaten into fat rather than energy. It would have been the case if eaten properly during the greatest activity.

adequate breakfast pattern can be adapted to any age, budget or cultural pattern: fruit or fruit juice, protein-rich food — such as eggs, cheese, meat or beans — bread or cereal and milk.

If time is a prohibitive factor, some precautions can be made the night before — setting the table, fixing the coffee pot, etc. . . .

Breakfast eating is a part of a pattern of daily life that will pay dividends in a higher level of health and well being.

By Vern Sanford

In the future it may be possible for every landowner, with a good sized fishing hole or a satisfactory place to hunt, to borrow money to develop the project.

A program has been developed by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman to broaden the lending program of the Farmers Home Administration to increase rural recreation facilities.

PHA now will accept loan applications from family farmers for recreational enterprises to supplement their farm income.

These same loans also are available to non-profit associations to cover costs involved in shifting land to new and more economic uses, which will include recreation.

Camping grounds, swimming facilities, tennis courts, riding stables, vacation cottages, lodges, lakes, ponds of water for sports, docks, nature trails, picnic grounds and hunting preserves may be provided on family farms through such funds, under the Food and Agriculture Act of 1962.

Maximum amount a landowner may receive for recreational enterprises is $35,000. Amount of real estate development of land and building, including this development for recreational enterprises, is $60,000.

Operating loans are made for up to seven years, but real estate loans are for up to 40 years. Interest rate is 5 per cent.

These funds are available to farm residents who are unable to provide needed funds or who cannot get credit elsewhere at reasonable rates and terms to finance actual needs. Landowners may get necessary information from their nearest county Farmers Home Administration office.

This can be considered implementation of the national recreational program announced last year, in which the importance of recreation to growing America was shown.

How much of the program that will be used remains to be seen.

Most major landowners admit they would rather not have a bevy of hunters on their places in the Fall. There are a few noticeable exceptions where places have been made available on a fee basis. Some of these have been possible because much of the deer country now is becoming overrun with deer and the landowners find fees for hunting will help offset the feed bill.

But there has been a general tendency within recent years for landowners to make available their raw lands for fee uses in hunting. Also many places have allowed use of their fish-planted stock ponds at per day rates to fishermen.

It might be generally agreed that most of these places have shown no profit, but they do add some cash to the chicken and egg basket of the household.

Landowners have been able to get fish from the Game & Fish Commission for restocking their tanks and lakes. Some of them have taken advantage of the commission's hatchery to get pen-raised quail to restock their range.

Drought and other conditions unfortunately made bird restocking an uncertainty, with about as many dismal failures as profitable ventures. Mainly, where landowners have provided necessary cover, food and water, they have found their bird restocking programs worthwhile.

Naturally if a landowner borrows money from the PHA to equip his place with recreational facilities, same must be provided. If he wants to sell per day hunting for birds, or the use of his fishing lake, the customer must be satisfied. Or if it is a nature trail, a swimming pool or just a restful cabin, then the things expected by the man who pays the bill must be there.

Perhaps the local Chamber of Commerce might be a better approach to the program. Even though Federal money is available to individuals, a community project might fare better. But it is worth looking into.

Texas Safety Council Launches Twelve Months Campaign In State This Week

State and national observance of Farm Safety Week, July 21-27, launches a 12-month campaign to lower the rural accident rate in Texas, according to Bill Hoover of Waco, president of the Texas Farm & Ranch Safety Council.

Hoover said the program would concentrate on the prevention of fires and falls with the theme: "Inspection plus Correction equals Protection."

Hoover said his organization will work with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas Farm Bureau and the Texas Safety Association to bring to the attention of farm and ranch families the need for observing safety practices the year round. The main educational program will center on prevention of fires and falls.

Property losses from fires have increased steadily since 1940, and in 1961 cost the nation's farmers $163 million. Falls cause between 15 and 20 per cent of the farm accident death toll.

Historically, farming has ranked as the third most dangerous industry in accident death rates with mining and construction work leading the grim list.

In the past 10 years the number of accident fatalities has declined. But, farming has shown a smaller percentage decrease than the other two categories. There were 37 per cent fewer deaths in manufacturing accidents and 42 per cent decrease in the mining group. Farming accident deaths dropped only 18 per cent during the same period.

Hoover said the Farm Safety theme provided the basic formula for individual safety campaigns on every Texas farm and ranch. Every family should locate hazards which cause cause accidents, then take the necessary action to eliminate or correct the unsafe condition. This will prevent accidents, he said.

Men's Partnership Tournery Attracts 32 Entrants

Thirty-two men entered the partnership tournament at the Memphis Country Club Sunday.

Winning the first flight was the team composed of Mackie Allen and K. D. Nabers, who finished with a composite score of 151. Shooting a 156 and winning second place were Frank Foxhall and Clyde Smith. Third place winners were Regnal Greenhaw and Hiram Crawford with a 160.

In the second flight, James Bray and Ralph Williams turned in the low score of 175 to win first place. Taking second were Homer Tucker and Danny Davidson with a score of 178. Third place winners were Olton Pate and Sam Goodnight with a total score of 180.

Much interest and enthusiasm was shown in the tournament, and plans are being made now to have a handicap partnership tournament within a week or two, Dink Miller, tournament chairman, said.

Also, Miller said, plans are being made for the annual Memphis Invitational, which is being scheduled for Aug. 29, 30, 31 and Sept. 1. The Invitational is an open tournament to all golfers. Qualifying will be held on Aug. 29. Don Kaplan of Childress is the defending champion.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Douthit and family, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Tribble and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Les Sims and family left over the week end for a vacation. They spent the weekend at Red River and then went on to Conejos, Colo., where they will vacation this week.

Peace Corps already has volunteers on the job in India and Pakistan. The call for workers reflects the trained agriculture help increase food production in these and other developing nations, pointed out.

Indian request for more specialists grew out of a program started by four Corps volunteers who developed a new, cheap feed from local materials, wrote a handbook on poultry management in English and stream-lined marketing plans. So successful was their work that the Indian government, with the help of the Corps, to launch similar projects in other parts of the nation to the poultry project.

Five Boys Are Playing In T-O Golf Tourn.

Five golfers from Memphis are playing in the 7th Annual Texas-Oklahoma Junior Golf Tournament in progress this week in Wichita Falls.

Mrs. David Aronofsky carried the Memphis golfers to Wichita Falls Tuesday.

Don January, touring golf professional, kicked off the tournament Tuesday with an afternoon instruction and as guest speaker at the annual banquet Tuesday night.

January, the lean Texan who is one of the top money winners of the professional golf tour, gave an hour-long lesson to the 438 boys who have entered the week-long tourney on the first tee at Weeks Park Municipal Course. His instruction included use of the clubs the pros use, and a nine-hole exhibition with three of the youngsters entered.

The tournament got underway Wednesday morning. The boys play in foursomes, and the last group went off at 1 p. m.

The tournament runs through the finals on Saturday. Only the championship flight and president's flight will play medal play. All other flights, more than 25, will fight their rounds on a match play basis.

The boys represent more than 75 cities and towns across Texas and Oklahoma. Del Rio, on the Mexico border, is the longest distance for an entrant.

has been spent recently for industrial construction in our service area.

Even today, $28,000,000 is a lot of money. But a survey shows that this vast amount has been spent recently for construction of new industrial plants in our service area, and for expansion of existing ones.

The figure is evidence of two things. One is that our service area is becoming more and more industrialized. The other is that when we say "The Center of the Southwest" is one of the Nation's fastest growing regions, we have the facts to back it up.

The industrial figure is one fact. The commercial and civic improvement figures are others. Day by day we become more than ever convinced that this region faces growth unlimited.

Jaycees Announce Another Project

The Memphis Jaycees are sponsoring a house numbering campaign, Joe B. Browning, chairman of the program, announced this week.

The white house numbers painted on a black background can be placed on the sidewalk, driveway, front step, or wherever the house owner desires, he said.

The cost to the home owner was set at $1.00 per house, Browning said.

All persons who are interested in this service are asked to contact any member of the organization.

"This is a long range program," Browning said. "We are planning to keep the offer open until next winter."

out because the Red River Authority bought the Estelline water works, instead of allowing same to be purchased and run by business people other than an organization financed by State taxes.

Here comes the kicker: The Co-Op Gin at Estelline (in order to be of assistance to customers who wanted to take soft water home to use instead of having to use hard water) placed an overhead water faucet at the gin so the customers could fill their water tanks or barrels with water and take it home. The Red River Authority had the water cut off from the gin.

they had come to cut the water off, if the rack at the gin was not taken down. Rapp stated that he explained that the board had made their decision—and he had no authority to order the rack taken down. He added that he explained the set-up of the farmer-owned gin, saying that other gins were hauling water into the Estelline area at no cost to farmers; that the move was in line with customs of gins in this area.

At about 1:30 p.m., after this conversation with Rapp, the officer and Manager Tommy Hunt went to the gin and cut the water off.

A called meeting of the board of directors was held at 8 p.m. Wednesday night. After discussing the matter for some time the board voted to contact an attorney.

Manager White explained that there were several families living in the quarters on the gin yard, who are now without water.

Mr. Ray, upon being contacted at the offices of the Red River Authority in Wichita Falls, stated: "I am the man who cut the water off at the gin. I was acting on orders. All we want the people at the gin to do is take the rack down. We are giving the people of that town a better service. All we want to do is sell water."

IT'S THE LAW
in Texas

Tribal Law

American Indians are the only 100 per cent native Americans. Indian matters come under Federal law and the terms of some 3,900 Indian treaties which are also the law of the land.

Thus long ago Rev. Samuel Worcester, preaching to the Cherokees, refused to take out a license, and to swear allegiance to the State of Georgia. When Georgia jailed him for not taking a loyalty oath, the U. S. Supreme Court freed him: The Court would allow no state to interfere in United States Indian affairs which our treaties governed.

In 1834 Congress set up the Bureau of Indian Affairs to make and carry out rules made under these treaties.

Until the Civil War, the Federal government regarded Indians as wards and dependent nations—foreign nations, yet under U. S. control. In 1871, however, Congress declared that Indian nations were no longer independent. Indians still ran their own affairs for the most part, as illustrated in a case titled In Re Crow Dog.

Natural Duck Blind

For the duck hunter who is lucky enough to have a regular shooting pond of his own, a little

In 1883 Crow Dog killed another Sioux for stealing a friend's wife. Crow Dog made amends under tribal law, and the tribe closed his case. Soon afterwards federal officers sought to try him for murder, but the Supreme Court said no: Such cases did come under tribal law and this one had been settled.

Shortly afterward Congress gave Federal courts jurisdiction over most criminal cases on Indian territories. Accordingly, just the other day, the U. S. Supreme Court invalidated the conviction of a California Indian for murder. He must face trial in a Federal court instead.

Indian tribal courts still try some criminal cases; and within the tribes, tribal law still holds. For example, they can tax and license traders on reservations.

Recently, a tribal adoption ceremony was confirmed even though it took place off the reservation. In another case the Federal courts recognized a tribal divorce by mere voluntary separation.

summer preparation will pay off handsomely.

If he has the forethought to stick willow buds in the mud around the pond the spring before duck season opens, the buds will have grown big enough to afford him and his friends excellent natural cover for shooting.

Inflating Air Mattress

Why waste breath inflating an air mattress on a hunting or camping trip when, for a few cents, you can buy a cylinder of gas such as is used on emergency rubber rafts?

If you balk at this expenditure, start the motor of your car and hold the mattress valve over the exhaust pipe until the mattress is filled.

There is no danger of monoxide poisoning, if reasonable care is observed.

Invert Scope

Owners of rifle scopes, with adjustments in mount and with tapered post reticle, can invert the scope so the post points down.

This gives full view of the target.

Tracing Fallen Game

Much game is lost due to high weeds and other rough terrain.

To lessen this trouble, when you shoot a bird, squirrel, etc., mark a two-foot line with your boot at once, pointing toward the spot where the game fell.

Do this each time you down your game and you won't have to go after each kill as it falls. You can finish your shooting, then pick up your game at your leisure.

Gun Rust Remover

Rust spots on a gun can be safely treated by rubbing the spots gently with a soft cloth and very fine valve grinding compound. This, it is claimed, will not injure the bluing.

Removing Screws in Gun

When removing screws to dismantle a shotgun or rifle, make sure the screwdriver blade fits the slot. If the blade is too large, small, it can damage the screwing metal. If necessary, file the blade to the proper size before using to loosen small, tight screws.

Fish Cleaner

One of the safest, fastest and most convenient gadgets for cleaning bass and similar sized fish is the curved-bladed fish cleaner. It has an excellent point for cutting scales, very sharp inside and its large handle for a firm grip and fast

3 A.M. in a pharmacy...

It is 3 A.M. in a community pharmacy. The street is in darkness, yet lights are on in the pharmacy. Why? Because the pharmacist is faced with an emergency.

He received an urgent telephone call at 2:50 A.M. Mrs. Saxon, a sufferer from asthma, was having severe difficulty in breathing. Her husband told the pharmacist that she had run out of the medicine prescribed by her physician.

The pharmacist dressed quickly, rushed to his store, located the original prescription in his files, telephoned to Mrs. Saxon's physician, prepared and delivered the medication. Soon, Mrs. Saxon was breathing normally again, and a possible tragedy had been averted.

Such crises are frequent, yet your pharmacist meets them with speed and confidence as part of his complex professional duties. Today, a pharmacist goes to college for five years, spends many hundreds of hours in apprenticeship, and must pass a rigorous state examination before he is licensed. He must stock thousands of dollars worth of health products you need every day—as well as those you may need only once in a lifetime.

It was not by chance that the pharmacist had the proper drug ready for Mrs. Saxon when she needed it. We call the complex process by which a drug moves from manufacturer to patient "the miracle of drug distribution."

The teamwork of manufacturer, drug wholesaler and pharmacist assures that you—as well as Mrs. Saxon—will always receive the medicine you need. This miracle of drug distribution—the fact that the medicine you need is ready when you need it—is just one reason why prescriptions are today's best bargains.
