Readers have noticed in recent months, we are forced by rising costs and postage to set new subscription rates to The Democrat. Behind this decision are details—but the necessity was recognized by our readers many years ago. It has been postponed this decision but it has caught up with you who like to save the effective date of the new rates is Jan. 1, 1965. Until then you can renew at the old rate and extend your subscription a year, and it does not matter when your subscription expires. On Tuesday, December 15, 1964, cotton growers will vote in a referendum on whether marketing quotas will be in effect for the 1965 cotton crop, Lynn C. Davis, Chairman of the Hall ASC County Committee, announced this week.

By law, quotas must be proclaimed by the Secretary of Agriculture in years when the cotton supply exceeds normal. The estimated 1964-65 total supply of cotton exceeds the estimated normal supply by 41 percent.

It requires a favorable vote by at least two-thirds of the growers voting in order to keep marketing quotas in effect. With two-thirds favoring quotas there will be penalties for exceeding 1965 cotton allotments, and guaranteed price support of from 65 to 90 percent of parity for cooperators. If the vote is unfavorable, there will be no quotas or penalties, and price support will be 50 percent of parity to cooperators only, he said.

Growers eligible to vote are all those farmers who engaged in the production of cotton in 1964. The county has received a 1965 cotton allotment of 92,195 acres, compared with a 1964 allotment of 91,984 acres.

The polling places for the 1965 Cotton Referendum and the chairman in charge are as follows: Lesley, Lesley Co-Op Gin, Aubrey Martin.

Lakeview, Rear of Bank, J. B. Byars.

Plaska, Farmers Union Gin, Arvin Orr.

Memphis, ASCS Office, E. L. Kilgore.

Estelline, Co-Op Gin, R. A. Edleman.

Turkey, City Hall, Tink Lane.

In the 1964 Referendum, 559 farmers voted, with 537 favoring quotas and 22 against.

General rains last night and early this morning of over one inch in amounts, halted the 1964 cotton harvest again. A telephone survey of the 14 county gins revealed that 16,638 bales have been harvested.

Several farmers in the Memphis and Lakeview areas were just getting started with their harvest when the rains began, it was reported.

The rainfall was heaviest in the Lesley area where two inches were reported, however, most of the gauges in Memphis and west recorded as much as an inch and a half.

J. J. McMickin reported last night’s rainfall in Memphis was 1.20 inches official, and the temperature was 41 degrees and its lowest mark.

Lakeview reported one and a half inches, Estelline about one inch, Brice, one inch or more, and Turkey over one inch.

Last year, which was considered as a late year for harvest, the county had ginned 43,856 bales, which proved to be a little over two-thirds of the year’s total harvest. This year’s harvest, which is expected to be somewhere between the 40,000 and 50,000-bale mark is between the one-fourth and one-third mark now.

McMickin reported that last Thursday’s snowfall moisture content measured .10 of an inch.

The high-low temperature spread for Memphis included: Wednesday 60-28, Tuesday 61-25, (Continued on Page 12)

Rural Renewal

Secretary of Agriculture Freeman, by his remarks to the national Advisory Committee on Rural Areas Development, has lighted a hope that the focus of the Department may broaden from commercial farming to rural life as a whole. The Department can take great pride in its contribution to the enormous success of American agricultural production. It has had a large role in improving farm efficiency to a point where only eight per cent of the labor force is engaged in farming. (The number of people supported by one farmer was 4.2 in 1850 and today is 26.) But the appropriate focus for the Department is the people of all rural America who live in its smaller towns and rural communities whether or not they are directly engaged in agriculture.

They have become a "minority" in America only since 1920 when the urban dwellers for the first time exceeded rural residents.—51.2 per cent to 48.8 per cent. Now 70 per cent of the population is urban and only 30 per cent rural.

Rural people, unfortunately, have not been paid for their increasing efficiency. They have lacked the power to obtain for their products prices that would reward them as well for their labor as urban dwellers are rewarded. Their per capita earnings today are less than half of the per capita earnings of urban workers. The Secretary enumerated a familiar catalog of circumstances in which rural opportunity has not kept pace with urban opportunity. He repeated the President's purpose to achieve "parity of opportunity for rural America in every aspect of our national life."

The Secretary dealt with a great many lending and aiding operations that can help redress the balance. But, the problem basically, is one of providing in the rural areas of American economic opportunity. The failure of rural life to provide this has been sending the rural population into the cities at an increasing rate. This seems to be happening in other countries, too. Sicco Mansholdt, vice chairman of the Common Market Commission, recently pointed out that more than a half million people in Europe leave the land each year. The percentage of the population on farms is steadily declining in many countries. From 1950 to 1962 this percentage dropped from 29 to 21 per cent in France; from 14 to 10 per cent in the Netherlands; from 25 to 13 per cent in Germany and from 45 to 28 per cent in Italy. Even in underdeveloped countries the rush to the cities is on—Egypt's population from 1937 to 1957 rose by 45 per cent but the population in cities of more than 100,000 increased by 152 per cent.

The cities do not have unlimited ability to absorb the great immigration from the countryside. Almost every single urban facility is overcrowded—streets, schools, hospitals, jails, libraries, theaters. The sheer density of population is being suspected as a cause of profound maladjustments in society. No doubt the tide cannot be reversed and we need vast programs of urban renewal to make the overcrowded cities better places to live. But if we had an appropriate program of rural renewal, not all the immigration to the densely overcrowded cities would take place. We need to ask if we are a better, healthier, stronger and greater Nation for having 70 per cent of our people in cities, with all their vast and unsolved problems.

A great program of rural renewal, to match the programs of urban renewal might solve some of the urban problems before they develop. If the Department of Agriculture really is to change its focus, it must devote more and more attention to practical problems of rural people. If it really is an object of national policy to improve rural life, the whole orientation of building up their incomes. Methods of moving appropriate industry into the country must be devised. Concern must be shown the Department must shift. Rural people must be given help in for the day-to-day needs of very small and part-time farmers. They have an importance in our social structure all out of proportion to their contribution to commercial production.

No one can look at our distribution of population and resources without wondering if we have taken advantage of the mobility that has been conferred upon industry by the wide availability of power and transport. Once we were almost compelled to move people to the site of power, raw materials and markets. We can now, more effectively than heretofore, move these elements of production to the place where people live—and to the rural places where million of them can live better than they can live in the cities. —The Washington Post.

What Other Editors Say

Postman and Dogs

Apparently thousands of postmen, who are supposed to ring the doorbell twice and deliver the U. S. mail, don't agree that a dog is man's best friend.

Fact is that when a dog spies a mail carrier on his daily rounds, all vestiges of friendship ceases. The problem has become so universal that some postal employees have resigned their jobs.

Who wants to be chased by dogs every time he approaches the front door?
Earl Spinks, our postmaster, tells us that the U. S. Post Office Department has spent many bureaucratic hours in an attempt to protect mail carriers from nipping pooches and other types of canines.

A year or so ago the department issued a seven-page mimeograph memorandum on how a postman could make friends with graph memorandum on how a postman attempted to approach the problem by citing rules based upon a better understanding of dog psychology and behavior.
"Come reason with us," was the essence of the directive. But the psychological approach didn't have much effect on the dogs. Just as many mail carriers got their pants torn almost off by unfriendly canines.

Now, we understand, chemical science and research has come up with an answer. This week local mail men were supplied with a three-quarter ounce can of dog repellent.

A shot of this and an attacking dog is supposed to roll over and wish his mother had another name. No lasting harm is caused by the shot of hot stuff, which is actually similar to cayenne pepper.

In ten or 15 minutes the dog is supposed to be over the sting. No reference is made concerning how the dog will treat the postman the next day. The pooch is supposed to duck his tail and hit for the back door.

It is possible the cayenne pepper synthetic is stronger than the real article. For years we've sprinkled cayenne on shrubs, flowers and even on auto tires.

If it has kept warfaring pooches away, we aren't aware of it. —The Raymondville Chronicle.

Teen-Age Drivers

In general, teenage auto drivers have a bad "image." Insurance rates usually are higher for families with youngsters operating cars.

But not all of them are bad risks, and in some places the youngsters themselves have initiated programs to prove it.

American Youth, a bi-monthly magazine circulated among teenage drivers by General Motors, has an article about this in the current issue.

In Ponca City, Okla., for instance, high school students set up their own traffic court, with approval of the city commissioners, to deal with under-18 traffic offenders. Violators pay sentences in their own time instead of from their parents' pocketbooks. Sometimes licenses are lifted.

Traffic violations, the city reports, have been drastically reduced.

The magazine also reports that teenage drivers who have taken driver-education courses stay out of trouble much better than those who haven't.

But the best solution for this problem probably was summed up by one young driver who said:

"Teenagers could drive responsibly if they were forced to. My father's ruling for me was very simple: Get one ticket for a moving violation and he would take my license. Needless to say I never got a ticket." —Fort Worth Press.

TIPS for OUTDOORSMEN

For Better Pictures
Every boatman's camera should have a medium yellow filter to darken the sky and help enhance clouds and water texture.

Filters may be the screw-on or slip-on type. Adapter rings are available to fit most any camera lens.

"Bisque a la Outboard"
Here's an easy-to-fix, delectable dish for cruise-campers.

It's appropriately dubbed "Bisque a la Outboard": Mix one can each of condensed tomato soup, cream of celery soup and condensed milk, as well as one can of either crab meat, shrimp or lobster. Combine all ingredients in the top of a double boiler. Then heat, stirring occasionally. Season to your taste. It will serve three.

Carlights in Camp
Trying to erect a tent after dark is an irritating business which the veteran camper avoids like poison ivy. But it happens to the best woodsman once in awhile.

If you find yourself in the predicament of setting up camp after nightfall, don't fumble around doing the job by lantern light. Use your car's headlights to illuminate the area.

Miss Susan Mothershead visited in Waco over the weekend with Miss Pamela Lindsey, who is a student at Baylor University.

FOR BETTER HEALTH

If you give your youngster a bicycle this Christmas—or if he has one already—don't send him off for a ride with a wave and a vague "be careful".

Chances are a bicycle is a youngster's first experience as a part of the traffic, discuss the finer points of bike-riding safety with him—or her—and see that they are practiced.

Make sure your youngster rides a sturdy, well-equipped bike, and teach him how to take care of it.

Pass these admonitions on to him on having safe fun on a bike: Know and obey traffic laws. Traffic lights and signs are for bike riders, too.

Ride with the traffic. A good bike-rider always rides on the right hand edge of the road.

Give the proper traffic signals before stopping or turning, then take hold of the handle bars again.

Ride single file. If your friend has a bike and you ride together, ride one in front of the other, with plenty of space between.

When traffic is heavy at a corner get off your bike and push it across, following the crosswalks.

Light up at night. Do all your riding in the daytime if you can. If you must be out at night, be sure you have your white light in front and your red reflector and tail light on the rear, just as automobiles do. Wear clothing that is light or that shines in the dark so you can be seen easily.

Use a carrier or basket for books and packages. If you have no basket or carrier, tie your books and packages to the frame.

Ride one to a bike—unless you have a special bicycle—built-for-two.

One of the most dangerous things a bike rider can do is "hitch a ride" by a moving truck or car. You could be easily thrown down—perhaps in front of a car or squeezed against a truck or bus.

Playing games or racing on bikes should be done in empty lots or yards and not where people are walking or driving. Don't try hard stunts or you may hurt yourself.

Stop and take a look before riding out of alleys, driveways or from behind parked cars. A car can't stop as quickly as you can.

Your bike will stay nice longer if you park it in a rack or on its own stand.

Riding a bike can be fun, when you ride like a responsible part of the traffic.

ABSTRACTS
While driving around a lake, John and Mary saw a "For Sale" sign on a piece of lake property which they thought they could afford to buy.

They made inquiry of the owner and agreed on a price. They inquired about title and the owner assured them that he would give them an "Abstract." They took the abstract, which was a fat book of papers, and the deed, filed the deed at the courthouse and thought no more about it, assuming, as many people do, that an "abstract" is an assurance of good title.

Some years later they went to sell to a buyer who was better informed. He insisted that either the abstract be examined and an opinion given by an attorney that the title was good or that the seller must provide title insurance. When they sought an opinion as to whether the abstract showed good title, they were dismayed to find that the title was not in good order, and that there would have to be a quiet-title lawsuit to dispose of some flaws in the title before the buyer would accept it. Neither would a title insurance company write a policy of insurance for them without legal action to clear up the title.

John and Mary were astounded to learn that they were wrong in assuming that an "abstract" was an assurance of good title. An abstract is merely a record of every document which has ever been filed of record at the courthouse affecting the title to a particular piece of property. It may show good title or bad title, or no title at all. It is only a bundle of paper, as John and Mary discovered, which summarizes the state of the title. Its possession does not in any way assure good title.

Thus while one may be able to get possession and peacefully occupy a property with an unsalable title, difficulties will arise when the property is to be sold or mortgaged. To do so is only to postpone and perhaps increase the trouble and expense of clearing the title. It makes good sense to correct any title defects when you buy property.

Beaching the Boat

If you ordinarily run your boat onto a beach when you come in from boating, lay an old auto tire flat on the sand with half of it in the water. Dig a depression in the beach and sink the tire to half its thickness. Then fill it with sand. This gives you a firmly anchored rubber "landing field" and prevents scratching the bottom of your boat.

Too many people who save for a rainy day work on the assumption that it will be a light shower.

About Your HEALTH

Is it true that cherries help arthritis... that honey prevents muscle cramps, a stuffy-nose and bed wetting?

These are examples of food fads, fallacies and myths present today—even in such scientific and sophisticated times as the nuclear age.

The old notions that fish and celery are "brain foods," or that oysters increase fertility are harmless. But when garlic pills are promoted for high blood pressure, or grapes for the treatment of ulcers and cancer, the price of ignorance may come high.

Claims may range from a specific food being a "cure-all" to the myth of overprocessing modern-day foods.

Health authorities are especially concerned about the promotion of "food supplements" as cure-alls for conditions which require medical attention. Although a quack food remedy may not cause harm itself, the delay in securing proper medical attention could be serious, or perhaps even fatal.

Beware any product—food or patent medicine—advertised as a cure-all, whether you hear about it in an advertisement, from a door-to-door salesman, over the back fence, or in a book.

Be skeptical if you hear or read the myth of modern-day overprocessing of food. This claim is usually followed up by a sales pitch for a food supplement or special cooking utensils sold at greatly inflated prices.

The fact is, that modern food processing methods have been devised to preserve nutritional values or to restore them to foods. For example, most fruits and vegetables are canned or frozen at the peak of nutritional perfection. And such products as flour, milk and oleomargarine normally fortified or restored with vitamins and minerals.

Whatever the health quacks or faddists say, the truth of the matter is that We Americans today have a bigger supply of food, a larger variety of choice and more nutritional value in the food we eat than ever before. By patronizing all departments of a modern food store we can easily supply all our nutritional needs.

Eat cherries and honey—or whatever you like—along with a balanced diet, but don't expect miracles.

Memphis Garden Club Enjoys Annual Christmas Party

The Memphis Garden Club met at the Community Center on Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock to observe the annual Christmas Party.

Jingling sleigh bells met the members at the door and when they walked into the auditorium they were greeted with beautifully decorated tables with festive clothes of red and white and Christmas music playing softly. In the center of each table were lovely arrangements of red poinsettias, candles, angels and singing choir boys.

One special table arrangement was shown. There were gold span-the party hours was spent in quilting for the hostess.

Refreshments were served to Ruby Randolph, Florene Yarbrough, Kathryn Hook, Amanda Simpson, Etta Jones, Sabra Rice, Alla Boswell, Jean Lamb, Lina Young and visitors, Edna Merrell, Eula Moreland, Lucy Phillips, Grace Duke and hostess, Mrs. Barber.

gles, red balls and red poinsettias arranged around large stained glass candle flanked on each side with red feathery angels.

On the piano was a scene of reindeers pulling a sleigh containing a Christmas tree over the snowy hills. A gaily wrapped Christmas package and a Santa, who is highly esteemed by the Ben Parks family since it has been used to decorate their home throughout the years, stood on a table in the corner near the piano.

After the invocation was given by Theodore Swift, the members and guests enjoyed a delicious salad supper.

For the program, Mrs. Kedron Stephens demonstrated how to make ribbon bows to decorate Christmas packages. Then the crowd was eager to see what the gaily decorated packages in the Christmas box contained. A round ring was formed by the members standing in line and Mrs. Ben Parks acted as Santa by ringing a small bell. With much fun and laughter the packages were passed rapidly from one to the other until each received a package.

Upon opening the packages one received a huge sweet potato and another an old perculator with this verse:

This piece of equipment is quite attractive,
As you see, too bad it won't work;
As an electrician I'm such a Jerk,
This perculator has become a white elephant to me.

Enjoying a great deal of fun as the packages were opened the meeting closed after the club voted to place a Bible in the waiting room of the hospital as their contribution to the community for this Christmas.

Special guests of the club were former members, Mr. and Mrs. Ewell Robinson of Childress.

Congressman Rogers Lists Problems And Program Of New Congress

covering a wide range of subjects, confronting the 89th Congress, U. S. Representative Walter Rogers addressed the Memphis Club by long distance telephone recently. The unique program was arranged and introduced by Wayne Goodrum, director of General Telephone Company of the Southwest. The telephone hookup was arranged by a microphone and loudspeaker system, which was provided by the company. Rogers spoke from his office in Washington. Congressman Rogers told his audience that the new Congress is composed of 295 Democrats, 140 Republicans in the House and 100 in the Senate. There will be 68 Democrats and 32 Republicans.

our problems in this matter are great." Mill use of cotton is increasing sharply, but producers will gin over 15,000,000 bales from the 1964 crop. Acreage allotment for 1965 will be about 16,000,000 acres, and the price (loan) will be determined by the Secretary of Agriculture, he stated. "The anti-poverty program will move along as the president proposed," Rogers said. "There are 30 national organizations which have agreed to enroll young people in these programs. Also there will be legislation on this nation's educational problems." Referring to national resources development, the speaker said that more will be pushed. "In the Eastern Panhandle there is great possibilities along this line. We must explore the needs for making available more water. It will be used by municipalities, industries and for irrigation," he said. There will be more research on conversion of saline water to potable water. "We have made some progress in this," he said. "The cost has now come down to 88 cents per 1,000 gallons. We'll get new ideas on this problem, and will press forward." He predicted that "medicare" will be much in the news soon after Congress convenes, and stated that the president has said that this nation must provide a better program of health care for the old people. The mass transit problem will be pushed by the administration. Rogers said that he thought it should be handled by the areas affected, and that local commission should take the lead. Among other matters discussed was foreign commerce. The speaker stated that the level of imports affects the people of the Panhandle directly, citing sugar as an example. He added that the import of beef and meat will be considered.

Post Office Predicts Large Christmas Mailing

Asst. Postmaster Glynn Thompson reports that the Post Office Department is confidently predicting that the volume of mail during this year's Christmas rush will hit a record high. "Actually," he says, "it's an easy prediction because mail volume has been rising at a rate of nearly three percent a year for the past several years and this is most strongly reflected around the holiday season."

Well over twelve billion pieces of incoming and outgoing mail are expected to move through the system during December—with about ten percent of the year's mail moving in less than three weeks. The Memphis postmaster reports that public cooperation is one important reason that post offices around the country are able to handle this huge mountain of mail in such a short period.

"Without the assistance of the public, we'd be in a jam. People who shop early and get their cards and parcels into the mails early make it possible for the holiday mail to be delivered on time. Imagine what it would be like if we were to get all the holiday mails the last week before Christmas?"

In addition to early mailing, the postmaster has several other suggestions which will help the hard-working postal employees move this avalanche of mail. First, he recommends using ZIP Codes which help handle the mails faster because of a new transportation and distribution set-up. ZIP Code also helps clerks to identify receiving post offices when addresses are hard to read. During at this time of the year, the faster mail is processed the better chance it has to make connections with outgoing trains, planes and trucks.

Postmaster Thompson also recommends that all parcels be wrapped securely, packed tightly and that the address be included inside the package as well as on the outside. This helps assure delivery even if the outer wrapping comes loose. The Postmaster points out that "because ZIP Code on parcels usually means a more direct routing and less handlings, the chance of damage is drastically reduced."

Finally, Postmaster Thompson says that the use of the new Christmas stamps helps brighten up envelopes and packages. You've got to hand it to the income tax people—or they will come after it.

Photos Help Police

If you haven't a recent photograph of your outboard rig, better have one taken.

In the event your boat and motor are stolen, you'll have something to show police that will help them considerably in tracking down your rig.

Participation Builds Interest

To hold junior's interest on a cruise, make him an active participant.

Assign him specific navigational and household duties, such as spotting buoys (especially good if he can use binoculars), putting out fenders and securing dock lines.

Keep him busy and he'll enjoy himself more. And so will you!

Check and Double Check

Before casting off, a wise skipper makes a careful inspection of his rig.

He should make sure there is ample gas aboard, as well as life preservers and emergency gear.

Also he should check to be doubly certain that steering controls and fuel lines are properly connected . . . points often overlooked.

From and About People

A Friendly Letter

Good morning all people in Memphis: May I have a short little visit with you this December morning? It would please me very much to see each of you and to have a little heart-to-heart conversation. To walk down your streets, to go into your offices, your stores, churches, and on and on until the visit could be extended to so many places and to meet a number of persons whom we knew from 1936 to 1940, four short years. We were so impressed with the entire community, your pastors, your homes, your young and older persons, your kindness to us, we have not forgotten. No indeed.

Most especially we recall hours of holy worship in our church and at certain times, many times in all other churches during those four short years. The first two years we were there, we had no car. Walking was fine for me. Those short or long walks gave time for serious meditation and prayer. At times I met young Americans on their way to school. Yes, good friends, those walks will not be forgotten. You will not be forgotten by my dear wife and I as we are now in the evening time of our life. Cannot run races—cannot see so well. However, a clear mental picture of you, our friends.

If time permits, will you call over long distance, once or twice every few months. I will pay the cost, please make it only three minutes. See? Seems now I hear you calling me in the big city of more than a million people, Atlanta, Georgia. Our daughter's telephone number is MEIrose 4-5705. Our address is Box 15185, Atlanta, Georgia 30333.

God bless you, dear friends of Memphis, Texas. We loved you. E. C. Cargill.

Hereford Bull Sale Set For Mon. At Guymon

The first annual Golden Spread Hereford Sale to be held at the Fair Grounds, Guymon, Okla., Dec. 14, promises to be one of the leading Hereford attractions yet to be held in the Panhandle area.

Ross H. Miller of the R. S. Management Co. of Denver, the sales manager, said there will be over 60 head of clear pedigreed selected bulls to be sold on Monday afternoon.

The bulls, being judged that morning, were selected from 30 of the most prominent Oklahoma and Texas breeders and are the kind that normally would have been consigned to leading national and regional sales.

Ross Miller said this is the finest set of herd-bull prospects he has ever seen in any single consignment sale in the Southwest.

Tomie M. Potts of Memphis is a consignee from this area.

Clarendon Bull Sale Attracts Large Crowd

Approximately 1,000 attended the Rolling Plains Bull Sale held in Clarendon on Dec. 2, H. M. "Flip" Breedlove, secretary, reported. In all, 67 animals sold, including 46 Hereford bulls, 11 Angus bulls and 10 Galloway bulls.

Thirty-seven single Hereford bulls sold for an average of $500 per head. The grand champion brought $430 and sold to V. M. Bentley of Lela, Texas. The reserve champion sold for $430 and sold to Mrs. Vera Dickey of Memphis.

Clyde Magee of McLean won first on his pen of three weaner bull calves and they sold to Mr. W. H. January of Claude. Bob Newton of Lark won first on pen of two bulls and they sold to Craig Morris of Clarendon.

In the Angus division, T. V. McAnear of Clarendon won the grand champion and George Saunders of McLean the reserve champion. David Hudgins of Lakeview bought the champion animal for $300 and the reserve champion sold for $360 to Butch Brown of Groom. All Angus sold for an average of $297 per head.

YOUR COUNTY AGENT SAYS

HOME FIRE HAZARDS INCREASE At Christmas Time

Stop and think what would happen should a spark get into the tinsel and tissue paper that usually packs a house at Christmas. Santa might have a chimney to come down, but he wouldn't have a house to leave the gifts in. Fire safety is especially important during the holiday season because of added hazards, warns W. R. Hooser, Hall County Agricultural Agent.

One of the principal fire hazards is that beautiful tree in the corner of the living room. The Council says that this danger can be minimized by selecting a freshly cut tree shortly before Christmas. The tree can be kept fresh by cutting the bottom diagonally and placing it in water or wet sand.

Placing the tree is also important. It should be placed so it will not block exits, and should be kept well away from the fireplace, stove, powerful electric lights or other sources of heat.

Hooser recommends that only Underwriters Laboratories approved lights be used on the tree. Lights which have been used before should be checked for frayed wires or damaged sockets. Electrical circuits should not be overloaded with additional lights, toys or appliances.

Only non-flammable decorations should be used on the tree, and tree lights should be turned off when no one is at home or when the family retires. As soon as the needles begin to dry and fall, the tree should be discarded.

Fire safety should not be confined to the tree alone. Discarded wrappings and packages should be put in the trash can as soon as possible. Smokers should also be extra careful where they lay their cigarettes, cigars and pipes.

Make sure that Santa finds something besides a chimney when he visits your home. Observance of basic rules of home safety can keep the Christmas Season a happy one, the County Agent concludes.

Report From Washington

By WALTER ROGERS
Representative, 18th
Congressional District

PRESIDENT'S PROGRAM
You might be interested in a brief look at recommendations the President possibly will make to the 89th Congress when he returns his State of the Union messages early next month.

DEFENSE: President Johnson announced he is determined to keep the budget below $100 billion for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1965. The Bureau of Budget is completing work on the budget he will submit, but, as yet, no funds may be spent until Congress grants the appropriation.

EDUCATION: The President is expected to favor extending federal education aid at all levels. One proposal may call for extending Government grants for training and school construction.

AGRICULTURE: Several programs formulated by the Department of Agriculture are being reviewed by the Bureau of Budget. It is likely that the President will urge a continuation of present commodity programs, but he has made it clear he wants to search our present grain, wheat, cotton, and other programs for those elements which need to be strengthened or improved. President Johnson said the Administration will emphasize the importance of commodity programs, to continue and improve them or eliminate them altogether. He said he means for the choice to rest with the farmers.

DEFENSE: Continued strengthening of the Nation's defense posture will be urged by the President and certainly supported by the Congress. About the need for strong defense there is no argument. Our strength now is mighty: by mid-1965 it is expected the United States will hold a lead of more than 5 to 1 over the Soviet Union in the long-range missile race. Our military capability is designed to meet Communist aggressive challenges in whatever form they develop. That is the way it will be maintained.

TAXES: President Johnson will urge Congress to repeal the excise taxes on cosmetics, furs, jewelry, luggage and handbags—with an estimated saving to consumers of approximately $524 million per year. In addition, the President is expected to ask Congress to cut many of the excises on manufactured goods and the tax on theater and concert tickets. Being reviewed for possible repeal are taxes on such items as automobiles, cameras, radio and television sets, appliances, and sporting goods. Part of the purpose in revising excises is the same as that behind the 1964 reduction in personal and corporate income taxes: To return capital to the private sector of the economy to increase the rate of business investment and consumer spending.

HALF-PAST TEEN

ness investment and consumer spending.

"MEDICARE": President Johnson has said that he will recommend some form of tax-supported system to provide health care for retired persons. The form the proposal will take is not as yet clear.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS: President Johnson will advocate a "tough line" as the Cold War continues—strengthening the Western alliance, further isolating Cuba militarily and economically, continued support for South Viet Nam and possibly a step-up of our military involvement there, a review of foreign aid with the possibility that he will advocate dropping assistance to so-called "neutral" and "non-aligned" nations.

NATURAL RESOURCES: The President is expected to recommend expanded efforts to desalt sea water and brackish water, several large multiple-purpose reclamation projects in Western States, stepped-up water resources planning with Federal-State cooperation, several new units in the National Park system, and, possibly, an expanded exploration program to determine the extent of mineral resources of all types in areas of the United States where exploration has been at a minimum.

Hall County Soil Conservation

The Supervisors of the Hall County Soil Conservation District want to remind the cooperators of the District, that with fall harvest of crops well under way, it is time to plan on the construction of new terraces or repairing their old terraces.

A good terrace system has many advantages, some of which are: increased yields, control of water erosion, conservation of moisture, and permanent guide lines for contour farming.

In order for a terrace system to be efficient it must first be planned properly. All outside water has to be taken care of before installing a terrace system. Then terraces should be built to specification. In this area the level ridge type terrace is the standard terrace. Terraces must be laid out with proper interval so that they can handle the normal rainfall. The soil and the slope of the land are two other important items to consider when planning a terrace system. It is almost impossible to hold or maintain terraces on land that is too steep or too sandy. Where land is too steep or sandy, it should be put back into permanent vegetation, such as native grass.

As most everyone knows, one broken terrace can ruin a whole system of terraces. When a terrace breaks, the next terrace below will have to handle more water than it was designed for, causing it to break. This usually starts a chain reaction that breaks the rest of the terraces to the bottom of the slope.

The proper maintenance of a terrace system is just as important as the original construction. All farming operations should be performed parallel to the terraces. All low places in the terrace ridge which may occur as a result of excessive settling or from pulling equipment across the terraces should be regularly built up. Terraces should be plowed every year to maintain their effective height and cross section.

Your local Soil Conservation Service technician, assisting the District, are available to assist you in planning, laying out terrace system, and in the maintenance of existing systems.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my appreciation to Dr. Goodall and the entire staff of the Hall County Hospital for the very attentive care I received while there and many thanks to my friends for the visits, cards, flowers and prayers. God bless each of you.

Mrs. J. B. Burnett.

Coach Berl Huffman Pays Tribute To Athletes For Beautiful Banquet

Texas Tech Coach Berl Huffman told the Memphis football players and their fathers that team sports are an important part of developing character and sound bodies and minds in American youth.

He also complimented Memphis parents for taking an active interest in what their boys are doing. "I had rather have parents interested in their sons than have them show no interest, because the job of raising youngsters is the parents' responsibility," he stated.

The speaker, who explained that he attends as many as seven banquets of this kind a week, sometimes, paid high tribute to the mothers of the athletes "who have taken such great care in seeing that all the little details have been taken care of for this banquet . . . it is beautifully done and the food was delicious."

"To get to the top in a competitive sport like football, basketball, track or football," Coach Huffman said, "sacrifices have to be made." He explained that this can be compared to life, because life has its ups and downs. "When a player is knocked down, if he has championship stuff in him, he will bounce right back, instead of staying down for the rest of the play," he said.

Coach Huffman's talk was well received by the group.

Miss Diane Gailey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Gailey, was presented as the 1964 football sweetheart of the team. She was presented a necklace from the mothers of the players and an autographed football, painted white, from the Cyclone team, by Tri-Captain Jimmy Sturdevant.

Memphis Plays Clarendon In Tourney Today

The Memphis Cyclone basketball team, licked its wounds Wednesday and then focused attention on the Samnorwood Tournament and their first round game with Clarendon, a district foe, set for 2 p. m. today.

If Memphis defeats Clarendon, they will advance to the semi-finals where they will meet the winner of the Quail-Shamrock B game, at 2 p. m. Friday. However, if they lose to Clarendon, they play the loser of the Quail-Shamrock B game at 10:30 a. m. Friday.

The Cyclone is playing in the bottom portion of the bracket and no previous predictions have been made as to which team has the edge. Quail is probably the toughest Class B boys team in the area and Clarendon is always a tough opponent for Memphis. Shamrock has two teams entered.

The top portion of the bracket contains tough Shamrock, Samnorwood, another strong Class B team, Wellington, who is possibly the choice to win District 2-A, and McLean. Predictions are that Shamrock's A team will be in the finals in that portion of the bracket.

Childress Game

The Memphis Cyclone battled the Childress Bobcats, Tuesday night, and for the first half, it was a good game, 27 to 20. But after the half the Bobcats rolled to a 74 to 44 victory.

Coach Milton Miller said the Bobcats are as good this season as their rating. "We just weren't getting rebounds under either goal, especially in the second half," he said.

Jim Odom was the Cyclone's high point man with 16 points while Bruce Evans was Childress' high point man with 24 points. In the B game, Childress won the contest 51 to 22.

Next Tuesday, the Cyclone will host the Turkey Turks with the first game beginning at 6:30 p. m. Turkey's boys team lost its first game to Clarendon by two points and lost last Tuesday to Clarendon by a 62 to 42 score in the boys game and 52 to 27 in the girls' game.

Next weekend, the Cyclone will take the court against Childress in the opening round of the Childress tournament, scheduled for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Dec. 17, 18, 19.

Classing Report

The USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service in Memphis reported that cotton classed for growers during the week ending Friday, December 4, was again lower in grade, staple length, and micronaire readings than in the preceding week. The weather and the method of harvesting accounted chiefly for the lower quality.

Based on samples classed this week, White grades decreased from 40 percent to 30 percent, and Light Spotted and Spotted grades increased from 60 percent to 70 percent. Strict Low Middling was the predominant grade in the White cotton with 16 percent and Middling Light Spotted prevailed in the Colored cotton with 38 percent.

About two percent of the cotton classed was reduced in grade because of Bark, and the same proportion was reduced in grade because of Preparation. Preparation denotes the smoothness of the sample, and the below normal preparation this week may be attributed to the harvesting of green and immature bolls.

The staple length ranged from 7/8 inch to 1-3/32 inches. The predominant length continued to be 15/16 inch with 76 percent. Other lengths were: 29/32 and shorter—13 percent; 31/32 inch—9 percent and 1 inch and longer—2 percent. Only a few samples were classed as Wasty.

The micronaire readings were lower than any week this season. However, 86 percent of the samples classed still read in the desirable range of 3.5 to 4.9. Other readings were: 2.7 to 2.9—1 percent; 3.0 to 3.4—9 percent; and 5.0 and above—4 percent.

The latest figures released by the Cotton Division, in cooperation with the Cotton Research Committee of Texas, continued to reflect strong and very strong Pressley results, with 55 percent testing 85,000 and above pounds per square inch.

Cotton prices, the latter part of the week, were slightly lower than last week, and cotton was a little more difficult to sell, according to some of our trade sources in the Memphis Market. The average price for cotton having a mike reading of 3.5-4.9 were: Strict Low Middling, 15/16—27.85; and Strict Low Middling Light Spotted, 15/16—27.15; Middling Light Spotted, 15/16—27.85; and Strict Low Middling Light Spotted, 15/16—26.85. These prices were based on uncompressed, mixed lots in warehouses.

Cottonseed prices remained steady and were $45 and $47 per ton at gin points.

Men who are industrious, sincere, and honest will have easy sledding on their way to success, cold just because they imagined could just because they imagined they had the fire of genius.

It's better to give than to receive—because it's deductible.
