IMHOFF TANK—The first structure of several to be built at the site of the City's new sewage treatment plant is this Imhoff Tank. Construction of the tank is being done now by the contractor firm. The plant is expected to be completed sometime in September.

Construction Underway on Sewage Disposal Plant

has begun in earnest this week, the City of Memphis' sewage treatment plant located southwest of Memphis. Construction of the plant is being done now by the contractor firm. The plant is expected to be completed sometime in September.

The sewage passes first into the Imhoff tank after passing through a screen. From this tank it will pass into a filtering plant of concrete and steel, about 40 feet in diameter filled with rock of varied sizes. From here it goes to a pump station which pumps the water into the first of two oxidation lagoons where it is exposed to sunlight and air. From the first oxidation lagoon it passes into the second, smaller sediment lagoon and from here either into a creek or possibly some irrigation use can be made of it, Mr. Boren said.

Archie Richardson of Tulsa, Okla., is the general superintendent on the project.

The project engineer said that a lot of dirt moving will have to be done. "We have been working about one month, and plan to finish the job in four months, so completion will be sometime in September if all goes well," Mr. Boren said.

Readers will remember that the City Council awarded a contract of $82,438 to A. W. Boren, contractor, of Fort Worth, early in March for construction of the plant.

Following Mr. True's program, soft drinks and cookies were served and then the group was introduced to the new citizen's emergency unit by Dwayne Ellender.

Remodeling Begins On Memphis Post Office Bldg.

Remodeling of the Memphis Post Office Building began yesterday and due to the nature of the remodeling planned, it will be necessary to close the lobby at 6:30 p. m. on weekdays, Postmaster Gene Lindsey announced.

The contractor, B. D. Click Co. of Abilene, is in the process now of tearing out many partitions, Lindsey said, which would bring about poor security inside the building.

"Our last man goes home at 6:30 each evening and we plan to lock the lobby at that time," Lindsey said. The lobby will be open on weekends as in the past because the contractor will board up the portions which would allow access to the rear of the building.

Work is expected to be completed in December, 1966. The $55,770 contract calls for a complete interior remodeling and air conditioning job on the Post Office.

Vacation Time Help

The vacation season is upon us and this usually means that employers will either have to get along with fewer employees or hire inexperienced part time employees as temporary replacements.

Around every business there are certain jobs and areas which are dangerous, especially to those who are inexperienced. Many of the jobs on the farm are dangerous and should not be turned over to the inexperienced, unless close supervision is available.

An inexperienced young employee should never operate any machine without intensive training. It is unwise to hire young persons to drive firm automobiles or trucks. No doubt some of them are experienced drivers, but vehicle accident records indicate conclusively that the best drivers are at least 25 years of age.

Records prove that more than one-half of all injuries at work happen in the first year of employment, often within the first hours or days.

Time devoted to safety training always pays off for itself, so impress on all employees that safety is an important part of their job and that neither their employer or themselves can afford accidents or injuries.

Youth Must Develop Its Own Initiative

There's a lot of talk over the country today about "finding and developing the creative and brilliant youngsters in our midst."

The theory seems to be that they are buried under a bushel or in the sand, and if no one digs them out and applies some sort of pressure onto them, they'll be lost to society and the nation.

We'd suggest that the process of digging themselves out is a major part of development—and that, to make it effective they must do it themselves.

Certainly opportunity should be wide open to any youth who wants to take advantage of it. Mostly, we think it is—meaning that, with very few exceptions, anybody can get an education today who's willing to work for it.

And after the education, opportunity is wide open to any youth who has a goal and has prepared himself for it—probably there never was a time when that was as true as it is today.

In taking advantage of that opportunity, the youth is going to need personal strength and initiative—and lots of it.

So it seems to us the goal of earlier education should be to teach fundamental knowledge and in so doing, create in the pupil a thirst for more, a desire to understand, a questing mind, and a knowledge of how to go about further learning.

In putting that into effect, the more of it he does himself, the more self-reliance he will develop, the more initiative he will find, and the more good he will acquire from the process.

The problem of education and youth leadership, it seems to open the vista of knowledge and thought for him and—to that extent—help him to develop himself.

Too many of the theories today seem to involve too much pushing and too much dictation—and that, we think, is much more likely to hinder his real development than to help it.

What Other Editors Say

Rural Industry!

Recently Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman urged big business to locate its new factories in the field and small towns of rural America. He announced the establishment of a new rural industrialization program to help companies find favorable plant sites where the jobs will benefit rural residents.

Freeman said he had formed a staff to meet with businessmen in their own offices or in Washington to advise them on the opportunity for profits which can be earned while "stemming the migration from country to city."

"It is folly to stack up three-fourths of our people in the suffocating steel and concrete storage bins of the city," he said, "while a figurative handful of our fellow citizens rattle around in a great barn full of untapped resources and empty dreams."

Freeman noted that he was not encouraging the pirating of industries from the communities where they are now established. The aim of the program, he said, is to encourage the establishment of "sound new plants which can operate profitably in the countryside, and promise rural America parity of income and opportunity."

What Mr. Freeman said about the advantages of industry locating in smaller towns is not new, especially to the Haskell Industrial Foundation which is gaining steam, valuable information and getting the ball rolling, so to speak, in an all-out effort to attract industry.

Haskell is what the people living in it want it to be... and if we want industry, it can be obtained, if all of us pull together and help in every way possible the newest organization in our fair little city... the Industrial Foundation.

Since its organization just about a month ago, the Industrial Foundation headed by Clay Smith has met at least once a week and last week held two meetings, so you see Industrial wheels are rolling.—The Haskell Press.

Don't Go Near The Water

A well-known area conservative applauded long and loud the other day when a 14-year-old boy came up with the bright idea that the best way to avoid an accident is to stay out of a car, or something to that effect.

He credited the boy with having more sense than the Ribicoff Committee of the U. S. Senate which is trying to do something about the mass killing of Americans in automobile accidents.

We were not particularly impressed with any humor to be found in the statement of the 14-year-old. We were impressed with the reaction of the conservative.

The remark of the 14-year-old is in reality profound because we have never heard a more concise definition of conservatism. That invariably offers to solve a maj

NOTEBOOK-PATTERNS FOR PROGRESS

INDUSTRIAL PROSPECTS

... a must in Economic Development

Obtaining leads on industries that might locate in a community is one of the hardest parts of any sound economic development program. The lack of an industrial prospecting program that produces several leads may cause serious mistakes by a community in financing or other endeavors to attract unsound or unattractive industry. A community needs a well balanced program, combining all the techniques and utilizing all of the sources that will give it increased effectiveness and chances for real success.

LOCAL PEOPLE AS A SOURCE OF INDUSTRIAL PROSPECTS—usually provide a sound reason or give the community a competitive advantage in attracting the industry.

BUSINESSMEN—should ask the company representatives they buy from if the company needs additional manufacturing facilities to serve this market area, also, service stations, restaurants and motel people can ask their customers.

CITIZENS—who know someone that works for an industry should inquire if that industry might be interested in locating a plant.

EXISTING INDUSTRY—may need a companion industry to supply them with raw materials or services. Expansion of existing industry is sound economic development.

LOCAL IDEAS—can provide leads for the local people to establish an industry of their own or attract a certain type industry.

EX-CITIZENS—should be contacted, advising them and asking their help to obtain leads on any industry that could logically locate in the town.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ACTIVITY—should utilize such programs as direct mail, asking local citizens to call on industries when they are on a trip—watching all news media for possible leads or indications that a company might expand.

COOPERATION WITH OTHER AGENCIES—such as utilities, banks, railroads, regional and state development organizations fully provide leads for new industry. Keep all of these organizations fully advised of the local programs, advantages, activities and community interest for attracting new industry for improved economy in your community.

ANY and ALL industrial leads should be handled through and by the local group that has been delegated this responsibility, usually the Chamber of Commerce.

Ask your WTU local manager for additional information and services available.

Deer Hunter Tip

Most deer hunters check out the area they intend to hunt before hunting season opens.

When you find a deer run and want to know if it used often, sink a forked stick in the ground on each side of the trail. Then lay a thin twig across the trail, resting it in the forks of the up-rights.

Next morning if you find that the horizontal twig has been knocked off the forked sticks, you will know the game trail is in use.

Untangling Hooks

One way to separate a tangled cluster of treble hooks is to drop the mass on a hard surface. Several will bounce free on each drop.

It saves punctured fingers from trying to untangle the mess by hand.

Nelda Ferrel, Betty Ferrel, Cordy Hood, Irene Hood, Lena Hill, Clessie Jouett, Bessie Latham, Roxie Orcutt, Eva Morrison, Opal Winn, two guests, Mrs. R. A. Adams, and Mrs. Elva Richbury and children, Donna and Mike Ferrel.

Around and About

By HELEN COMBS

One of our favorite TV shows is the Today Show which comes on in the mornings. We depend on it for our news, weather, and also like the informative feature they present from day to day as well as the artists.

But must say we never expected to hear Memphis, Texas, mentioned. But, Monday morning we were listening to a new artist by the name of William Mooney, who is very popular as an entertainer. . . he has a new style of presenting stories in a humorous folklore manner. We perked up our ears when we heard him say many of his stories were taken from information handed down from relatives in Texas. . . but we really started listening when he said, "And this story is about my cousins down at Memphis, Texas." Then he started talking about Cousin Odie and Cousin Edwin. . . Well we dashed to the phone to call Betty Shahan so she'd be sure and tune in her TV. . . and missed most of the story.

But, did learn he was telling a humorous incident about Dr. O. R. Goodall having a loud telephone bell installed in Dr. Edwin's room while he was away one weekend. . . this was so Dr. Edwin would be sure and hear the telephone when he received night calls. Seemed prior to this Dr. Edwin had had the habit of sleeping through the night calls. . . or at least so he said. . . and Cousin Odie had been making them.

We are happy to welcome to Memphis John Chamberlain, his wife and four-month-old daughter. We are always happy when our young people come back home after receiving their education. John and his family will reside at the Gene Chamberlain home, which has been unoccupied since his parents, Gene and Helen, have been living in Lubbock.

John will set up a law practice in the office with Gordon D. Maddox, another local boy who has returned home to set up a bookkeeping office. We have a special interest in both these young families. . . John worked for us at The Democrat while attending high school. . . and Gordon's wife, the former Barbara Widener, also worked at The

Daughters Of The Confederacy Meet With Mrs. DeBerry

The lovely home of Mrs. L. G. DeBerry was the scene for the Lee and Jackson luncheon of the Winnie Davis Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, on Friday, June 3, at 12:30 p. m.

The foursome tables were placed in the new paneled addition to the home. Tiger lilies throughout the home added their beauty to the decor of the home.

The salad luncheon was served from the table in the kitchen and carried into the paneled room.

Following the meal, the regular meeting was held and was presided over by Mrs. R. E. Clark, outgoing president.

Included in the business were the contribution to the district scholarship fund and also an offering of $5.95 to the Kool-Aid Fund.

Mrs. Nat Bradley led the unusual installation of incoming officers: president, Mrs. Bray Cook; first vice president, Mrs. Herlie Moreman; second vice president, Mrs. Nat Bradley; secretary-treasurer and historian, Mrs. L. G. Rasco; registrar, Mrs. Emma Baskerville; and reporter, Mrs. R. E. Clark.

Mr. and Mrs. James Osborn and children have returned home after a two weeks vacation in Arizona with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Duke Osborn. The Osborns live near Tucson.

Democrat for several months after she finished high school.

Overheard Peggy Moreman say she had to sit on the front seat at the union service Sunday evening at the First Presbyterian Church. . . the building was full when they arrived. Like most of us, Peggy admitted she had a habit of sitting in the back pew.

One of the drawbacks to fishing with a cane pole and float is that your cork stays in one spot.

You can make your cork travel every which way by sticking a couple of sticks in the top of the cork.

Do this and your cork range over a wide area, fishing with the breeze, carrying bait in a very life-like manner.

Ford sales are at an all-time high. During May Ford outsold all other car makes!

The word is spreading—fast—that Ford Division is building the best cars it has ever built. And it's true. Never have Ford cars been so good—never have Ford sales been so high.

People discovered our 1966 Ford was the strongest Ford ever built. A strong car, well-engineered, is a quiet car—and the '66 Ford has a ride that is quieter even than some of Europe's most expensive hand-built luxury cars.

Over a million people have already bought Mustangs. This rare blend of sports-car excitement and solid value is the most popular new car in history. . . and right now it's the world's best-selling hardtop and convertible.

Wagon buyers are excited about our Magic Doorgate—the greatest step forward in wagon convenience in years. It opens out like a door for people and swings down like a tailgate for cargo. It's standard equipment on all Ford and Fairlane wagons.

Car shoppers discovered a whole new range of comforts and conveniences. The '66 Ford offers power front disc brakes, a Stereo-Sonic Tape System, America's largest V-8 to perform on regular fuel, Silent-Flo Ventilation that keeps air fresh with all windows closed, and a new Safety/Convenience Control Panel that lets you lock all doors with one switch, has lights to warn if fuel's low or a door's ajar, reminds you to fasten seat belts.

A whole new group of sports-minded car buyers have come over to Fairlane. We've redesigned it completely with 30 new models, including GT's, sports-luxury XL's, convertibles, Squire wagons, and an exciting new Sport Shift Cruise-O-Matic Drive (on GT/A models) that gives you the ease of an automatic—or lets you shift manually for the fun of it.

People everywhere are finding out just how much extra value we've built into today's Ford cars—extra value that's the reason why Ford sales have soared to an all-time high.

And that's why Ford Dealers . . . leading from strength . . . are now offering you the best deals ever. There are specially equipped, specially priced Fords, Fairlane and Mustangs, and special values on all our cars. See them soon.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Mr. Bill Combs, Editor
Memphis Democrat
Memphis, Texas
Dear Editor:

May I commend you for your editorial of April 21, "Tourism—Important to Texas!"

I am particularly appreciative of your reminding your valued family of readers of the value of a warm Texas welcome when visitors stop in. My observations convince me beyond a doubt that the innate friendliness of Texans is the greatest single asset the state has. We too often tend to take this quality for granted since we are fortunate enough to be surrounded by it daily. But it is noticed!

Just last week we concluded a fourth tour for national travel writers and travel counselors who came from 15 states and the District of Columbia to see a bit of Texas as guests of Governor Connally. Typical of their comments as they returned home was this by Mrs. Mark Passaro of the AAA Pennsylvania Motor Federation:

"If I were to select the one highlight of this tour, I could only comment on the fact that I have felt completely wanted, and most cordially welcomed, everywhere we went. Perhaps I might better describe it as genuine hospitality."

"Since my work is primarily in public relations and publications, I recognize this genuine element as that something that cannot be built into people. While it is not a measurable ingredient, in my mind it will not only serve to make visitors welcome—it will create such an atmosphere as to make them want to come back again."

So, it seems to me, we can never overemphasize the value of our storied Texas hospitality.

Cordially,
Frank Hildebrand,
Texas Tourism
Development Agency,

State's Watershed Protection Plan Being Tested

(Editor's Note: Following is a report from H. N. Smith, State Conservationist, commenting on upstream watershed protection like the one being planned for the Lakeview Watershed. The article explains several interesting facts.)

"Never before has the upstream watershed protection and flood prevention programs in Texas been tested so extensively and thoroughly, and never before has proof of adequacy been so evident," says H. N. Smith, State Conservationist, Soil Conservation Service, in commenting on the torrential April rains.

Smith went on to point out that extremely heavy rains fell over large areas of the State, April 17-28. Rainfall ranged from 8 inches near Dublin to more than 25 inches in the Marshall-Gladewater area.

Heavy flood damage occurred in agricultural and urban areas alike. Damages to roads, bridges and utilities ran into hundreds of thousands of dollars. The Texas State Highway Department reported damages to highways totaled almost one million dollars. More than a dozen Texas counties were declared disaster areas because of flood damage. Total damage estimates, still incomplete, range upward of $15,000,000.

Only minor flooding was noted on watersheds where upstream watershed protection and flood prevention programs were substantially completed. All of the approximately 1100 completed floodwater retarding dams in Texas caught and held some floodwater.

About 820 completed dams are located in North Central and Northeast Texas where rains were heaviest. It is estimated these structures held back over 600,000 acre-feet of floodwater and released it downstream over a period of several days. The holding back of this much water in watersheds on which the dams are located prevented damages being several times heavier than they actually were to crops, livestock, fences, roads, bridges and urban areas.

An outstanding example of the benefits of a completely installed watershed protection program was on Cow Bayou which runs through McLennan and Falls Counties. This project, in addition to land treatment, includes 29 floodwater retarding dams and 11 critical sediment areas. All measures in the watershed are completed. No flooding and no damages occurred. Without the program on this watershed it is estimated damages would have totaled $104,000 during April alone.

Even partially completed watershed construction on the Techuanacana Creek watershed east of Waco was effective. The work plan calls for 30 floodwater retarding dams and about 12 miles of stream channel improvement. Thirteen dams have been completed; no channel work has been done. During the heaviest rains, 11,000 acres were flooded with damages estimated at $412,000. It is estimated without any dams completed, 15,000 acres would have been flooded with damages in excess of $620,000. The partly completed project reduced damages by about 35 percent or approximately $208,000. If all floodwater retarding structures and channel work had been completed, damages would have been reduced another 35 percent and would have totaled only about $211,000 instead of $620,000.

"Land treatment such as terraces, waterways, cover crops, and good grass in pastures reduced land damage and kept thousands of tons of dirt, mud and silt from moving on to fertile bottomland and into downstream reservoirs. These benefits were in addition to over five million dollars additional flood damage that would have occurred had the 1100 floodwater retarding dams not been built," Smith concluded.

YOUR COUNTY AGENT SAYS

Prompt Attention Will Save Damaged Fruit And Nut Trees
Spring and summer storms frequently cause considerable wind damage to trees. And, says County Agent W. B. Hooser, he is often asked when and how this damage should be repaired.

He suggests removing the damaged limbs and branches immediately after the damage occurs, making the cut flush with the trunk or limb from which it is growing. Paint all cuts with a good tree wound dressing, he adds, to prevent diseases or insects from getting into the tree through the wound.

Hooser makes these suggestions for removing a heavy limb in order to prevent bark damage. First, make a saw cut from the underside of the damaged limb and about eight inches from the main trunk. Make this cut at least a third of the way through the branch or until the saw binds. Make the second cut from above and several inches further out from the trunk. Continue cutting until the branch is removed. Make the final cut, says the county agent, flush with and parallel to the main trunk, and apply tree-wound dressing to the exposed surface.

Now that summer is here, don't be in a hurry to water your lawn and flower beds at the first sign of wilting. Plants frequently wilt during the midday heat but recover in the early evening. Frequent watering encourages shallow root growth.

For longer lasting cut flowers, cut them in the late afternoon or early evening. Avoid collecting them during the heat of the day. Put freshly cut flowers in a container of warm water and place in a draft-free spot until water cools to room temperature. Flowers are then ready to use in any arrangement.

Control And Prevention Of Termites

Swarms of winged termites in a home is good evidence that a well established colony of the insects is nearby. But, points out County Agent W. B. Hooser, it doesn't always mean they are coming from the house.

There are two kinds of termites. The subterranean, or ground-nesting, termite which attacks buildings and the non-subterranean termite which attacks wood products of all kinds in warm, humid regions. Structural timbers and woodwork in buildings, as well as furniture and other wooden objects, may be damaged. These termites are less widespread than the subterranean type.

The subterranean group of soil-inhabiting termites is the most common in Texas. Their presence is usually indicated by the sudden appearance of swarms of the winged insects in building during the spring. Important signs also are the earthen tunnels of runways inside or outside of foundation walls.

The swarming termites have four silvery wings of equal length which are about twice as long as the body. The wings break off soon after swarming takes place and the detached wings are usually evident in the swarming area. The winged termites are sexually mature and produce the workers and soldiers which are wingless. The workers, says the county agent, are nearly white and make the galleries or tunnels on wood and other materials.

Swarming termites should not be confused with winged ants which also swarm in the spring. The ants have two pair of unequal wings, a thin waist and eyes. The waist of the termite is thick and eyes are absent, the county agent explains.

Subterranean termites are most numerous in moist, warm soil containing a supply of food such as wood. These conditions are found beneath buildings where the space below the floor is poorly ventilated and where scraps of lumber have been left in the soil. Infestations are commonly found in buildings where wood is in direct or indirect contact with the ground, particularly at porches, steps or terraces.

To control termites, the county agent says, first find the colony. Then treat it and the surrounding soil with an approved chemical such as chlordane.

Some of the students are experienced swimmers so Mrs. Fowler has been working with them.

The students remain in the pool each day for an hour of classroom work and an hour of swimming. Tests and performance will be given.

Students taking the course include Stephens, Sandy Saye, Saunders, Kathy Skaggs, Sams, Dan Sams, Jane Lynn, Pamela Watson, Lura Moore, Pamela Myers, Sharon Johnson, Judy Leggett, Tobi Rowell, Sharon Bain, Laura Saloman, June Lynn, Kay Stewart, Billie Painter, and John Leggett.

Texans Using Freeze-Branding

Texas cattlemen are on the ball. County agents around the state report cattlemen are already trying the newly developed freeze-branding.

The freeze-branding was developed by Washington State University researcher Dr. Keith Farrell.

The way it works is simple enough. According to L. A. Maddox, Jr., Texas A&M University Extension animal husbandman, copper branding irons are cooled to about 94 degree F. below zero by a mixture of dry ice and alcohol. The dry ice cools the alcohol and the alcohol cools the branding iron.

When the iron is applied, it destroys pigment producing hair follicles and the hair grows out a permanent white, said Maddox. It makes an extremely legible brand that can be read on the longest haired animals from a distance. It should be a big help identifying cattle in winter when the hair coat is extra long, he said.

Another advantage is that freeze-branding doesn't harm the hide like hot-branding. Estimates are the cattle industry loses several million dollars each year from hides ruined by hot brands.

The freeze-branding is supposedly painless. It's permanent and leaves no scars or thickened areas to cause a dock in price for the hides.

Maddox cautions that the freeze-branding is still an experimental procedure, so no recommendations for its widespread use have been made. Also, the technique is so new it isn't even mentioned in the branding laws. Branding officials are studying the technique to possibly include it in the law books.

It's important that animals' hair be clipped around the area to be branded to get better contact with the skin. In Washington, researchers use cordless clippers. Then they wet the clipped surface with alcohol and apply the brand.

Several animals in the A&M beef cattle herd at College Station have been freeze-branded experimentally. A&M researchers are using dry ice and acetone. They report good results from 30 to 40 seconds contact.

The freeze-branding is fairly inexpensive—usually less than a nickel a brand. According to Washington researchers, all-white animals can also be freeze-branded using a nitrogen chilling method.

Mrs. Tom Fry of Dallas arrived Tuesday night by train for a short visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Buster Helm and brother Larry.

Income Tax Q. And A. Column

Q. Where can I get a withholding certificate?

A. Ask your employer for a Form W-4. It is also included in IRS Document 5642, a fact sheet for employees. The IRS mailed a supply of these forms to all employers in March along with information on the new system.

Q. My wife and I are separated. Do I list myself as single or married on my withholding form?

A. If you are "legally" separated then you are considered single for tax purposes. Otherwise you would be considered married.

Q. I'm self-employed. Will the new withholding rates have any effect on me?

A. No. The rates will affect only those who receive wages subject to withholding. You will be required, however, to include self-employment taxes in your Declaration of Estimated Tax, beginning January 1, 1967.

Q. The new withholding will be sufficient to take care of what I owe. Can I stop filing estimated tax declarations?

A. The requirements for filing declarations of estimated tax are unchanged. The declaration of estimated tax and payments may not be necessary, however, if the graduated withholding approximates your total tax liability. Generally, estimates are required to be filed only when the estimated tax liability for the year exceeds tax withheld by $40 or more.

Q. Should I file a new W-4?

A. If you are married and want to be withheld at the rates for married persons it is essential that you file a new withholding certificate. Unless you do, your employer is required by law to consider you single for tax withholding purposes.

Ask your employer for a copy of Document 5642, which explains the new withholding system and contains a Form W-4. It will enable you to figure out how much will be withheld under the new system and how close this will be to your total tax liability. Q. Have only the withholdings changed or have the tax rates gone up too?

A. The Tax Adjustment Act of 1966 makes no change in corporate or individual income tax rates. The law does have provisions that increase the excise tax rates on automobiles and telephone service.

After washing items trimmed with cotton ball fringe, machine-dry them to restore the fluffiness of fringe. If you don't have an automatic dryer, you can soften line-dried fringe by holding it over a steaming kettle.

Don't Tempt "Guess" Shooters

Never carry anything white when camping, hunting or fishing in deer range country. Trigger-happy hunters have been known to fire at the flash of a white handkerchief guessing it to be the "flag" of a white-tail deer.

New Arrivals

Fishing Murky Water

For any extra flash in murky water use two spoons rigged in tandem. Remove the hooks from one spoon and attach it to the other with a ring clip.

These tandem spoons will give the rig a darting action that produces a lot of flash.

This extra weight also is ideal for casting into a strong wind.

Hall County Cotton Insect Survey Begins

Better and more complete reporting of the cotton insect situation in Hall County is the objective of the 1966 insect survey program. "For the purpose of reporting, the state has been divided into six areas," said W. B. Hooser, Hall County Agricultural Agent for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. He added that the Service's area entomologists will serve as coordinators for the program.

Don Rummel, Area Entomologist, South Plains Extension and Research Center, Lubbock, will serve the High Plains area which includes the Turkey region; and, Emory Boring, Area Entomologist for District 3, Vernon, will coordinate the insect survey work in the Hall County area north of Red River.

The Hall County Insect Association made the following recommendations of locations of four-teen farms in the county to be checked weekly as follows:

T. H. Gattis, Brice Route, Clarendon; Jack Montgomery, Lakeview, whose farm is south of Lesley; Quilla N. Clark, Lakeview; M. A. Beasley, Memphis; H. A. Hodges, Memphis; James M. Richburg, Lakeview; Troy Phillips, south of Memphis; Wayne Hutcherson, east of Memphis; Roy Gresham, Newlin; Crump Ferrel, Estelline; J. C. Cox, Tell; Robert A. Hodges, near Lakeview; A. C. Sams, south of Lakeview near the river.

special session in the Council Room of the City Municipal Building, Memphis, Texas, on June 27, 1966, at 7 P. M. to award such contract.

ed in entomology will make a weekly check on the farms mentioned above. Ronald Winfrey and Don W. Keeling, Agricultural students from A&M University entomology department will check one hundred and twenty farms each week in the Turkey area.

These checkers will make a weekly report for release each Tuesday and send a copy to the county office and to the state office where a statewide report will be made. The county reports are the basis for the area summaries and the state report.

"We are attempting to make the reporting system more effective so that cotton producers can know with the least possible delay just what the insect situation is and where infestations are spreading," said Hooser. "We have on hand in the county office an ample supply of Texas Guide for Controlling Cotton Insects in the High Plains, Rolling Plains and Trans-Pecos Areas of Texas. Every farmer should have one of these bulletins so that he may be informed on what chemical should be used to combat cotton insects."

Sandra Deyhle, James C. Hill Marry In Church Service Sat.

Miss Sandra Lee Deyhle, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles E. Deyhle of Clarendon, and James Carrol Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Omer C. Hill of Memphis, were united in marriage in an impressive candlelight ceremony at 8:00 p. m. Saturday, June 11, in the First Methodist Church in Clarendon.

The Reverend Robert S. Ely, pastor, read the double ring ceremony. Circular suspension wrought iron candelabras with votive candles and crystal lights and baskets of white stock and gladioli decorated the altar.

How To Find A Spring

Plenty of fish hang around a fresh spring. If you have an aluminum boat it is easy to locate these cold springs.

Just remove your shoes and socks, put your bare feet flat on the floor of the metal boat and paddle around in the vicinity where you think the spring might be.

The instant your boat passes over the spring a tangy feeling will be flashed from your bare feet as the boat cools.

Six Hall County Youth Enjoy A Week At Salvation Army's Camp Hoblitzelle

Six boys from Hall County returned to Memphis Sunday after spending a week at the Salvation Army's Camp Hoblitzelle near Dallas, Joe Bob Browning, coordinator, announced. Attending from here were Lee Wright and Joe P. Tedder of Lakeview; Alvin Bullock, Dale Bullock, Paul Bullock and Danny Crawford, all of Memphis.

During the 13 week-long sessions this summer, approximately 2600 campers will enjoy the facilities at the camp which is under the sponsorship of the 266 Salvation Army Service units operating in Texas cities and communities.

Located on a rolling, heavily wooded tract of 340 acres, Camp Hoblitzelle is seven miles south of Midlothian, eight miles west of Waxahachie and within an hour's drive of Dallas. The camp features a large lake for water skiing, fishing and boating; a swimming pool; a gymnasium, and well-equipped playgrounds and recreation areas. Organized sports and activities are under the supervision of experienced coaches and counselors.

While at camp, the youngsters were housed in attractive brick and redwood cabins. Expert cooks and kitchen personnel prepared balanced, nutritious meals, designed for the needs of growing youngsters, which was served in the camp's own dining room.

Camp Hoblitzelle has been made possible through the generous gifts of more than one hundred men and women of Texas. Their gifts provided money for the purchase of the land, buildings and improvements on the property. The Salvation Army operates the camp for the benefit of youth who, without the help of the Salvation Army, would not have the opportunity to enjoy camp life.

Improvised Fishing Boat

Need a shallow-water fishing boat.

Take a 22 x 10 truck inner tube; put a No. 3 washtub inside the tube circle; and inflate the tube. Then fasten a short board to this craft for a seat; get a canoe paddle; and you are ready to launch a sturdy little craft.

When you go down to the sea this summer, tuck cotton make-up pads in your beach bag. Lay them on your eyes when sunbathing, to protect eyes from glare and help eliminate the pale circles caused by sunglasses.

More than 10,000 hand-lumber are used in the production of the average home.

Carleton, Range Conservationist, assisting the Hall County Soil Conservation District in Memphis will be promoted and reassigned to the Plant Materials Center in Knoxville, Tennessee, according to Henry Gregory, Work Unit Conservationist. He will serve as the assistant manager of the Plant Center which is a part of the Soil Conservation Service. In regards to the transfer Carleton said, "I hate to leave Memphis and Hall County as the people here are very progressive and conservation minded. In all of my travels I have not found a better group of people to work with and for anywhere in this big country. The friendliness and response here is something of which the people of this county can be very proud."

Girl Scouts May Register Now For Camp Kiowa

The first session of Girl Scout Established-Troop Camp, July 17-23, has been filled and closed. However, there is still room for a few more girls in the second session, which will be held July 24-30, it was announced.

Ten dollars of the camp fee is due immediately; the balance of $10 is due by July 1. The deadline for registration for the second session has been extended to June 17, and no further registrations will be accepted after that date, Scout officials stated.

Established-Troop Camp will be held at Camp Kiowa, located east of Canadian, and down the road to Lake Marvin. Campers will be placed in tent units according to their age and camping experience, and will participate in a variety of activities while at camp. Qualified instructors will teach archery and riflery, swimming and canoeing. Campers will have the opportunity to learn more about cooking and the arts of campcraft, knotcraft, and lashing; compass and wide games, hiking and trail blazing; and songs and campfires and ceremonies are all a part of camping and growing up! Camping helps girls develop a sense of responsibility, resourcefulness, initiative, and self-reliance.

Established-Troop Camp is on a permanent campsite with staff and facilities provided by the Council. It is supervised by qualified, experienced, employed personnel. All leaders and staff must meet high personal qualifications and have an understanding of the needs and interests of girls.

How To Find A Spring

Plenty of fish hang around a fresh spring. If you have an aluminum boat it is easy to locate these cold springs.

Just remove your shoes and socks, put your bare feet flat on the floor of the metal boat and paddle around in the vicinity where you think the spring might be.

The instant your boat passes over the spring a tangy feeling will be flashed from your bare feet as the boat cools.

Six Hall County Youth Enjoy A Week At Salvation Army's Camp Hoblitzelle

Six boys from Hall County returned to Memphis Sunday after spending a week at the Salvation Army's Camp Hoblitzelle near Dallas, Joe Bob Browning, coordinator, announced. Attending from here were Lee Wright and Joe P. Tedder of Lakeview; Alvin Bullock, Dale Bullock, Paul Bullock and Danny Crawford, all of Memphis.

During the 13 week-long sessions this summer, approximately 2600 campers will enjoy the facilities at the camp which is under the sponsorship of the 266 Salvation Army Service units operating in Texas cities and communities.

Located on a rolling, heavily wooded tract of 340 acres, Camp Hoblitzelle is seven miles south of Midlothian, eight miles west of Waxahachie and within an hour's drive of Dallas. The camp features a large lake for water skiing, fishing and boating; a swimming pool; a gymnasium, and well-equipped playgrounds and recreation areas. Organized sports and activities are under the supervision of experienced coaches and counselors.

While at camp, the youngsters were housed in attractive brick and redwood cabins. Expert cooks and kitchen personnel prepared balanced, nutritious meals, designed for the needs of growing youngsters, which was served in the camp's own dining room.

Camp Hoblitzelle has been made possible through the generous gifts of more than one hundred men and women of Texas. Their gifts provided money for the purchase of the land, buildings and improvements on the property. The Salvation Army operates the camp for the benefit of youth who, without the help of the Salvation Army, would not have the opportunity to enjoy camp life.

Improved Fishing Boat

Need a shallow-water fishing boat.

Take a 22 x 10 truck inner tube; put a No. 3 washtub inside the tube circle; and inflate the tube. Then fasten a short board to this craft for a seat; get a canoe paddle; and you are ready to launch a sturdy little craft.

When you go down to the sea this summer, tuck cotton make-up pads in your beach bag. Lay them on your eyes when sunbathing, to protect eyes from glare and help eliminate the pale circles caused by sunglasses.

More than 10,000 board lumber are used in the construction of the average home.

By VERN SANFORD
One of the fastest growing and most unusual outdoor pastimes in Texas today is Indian artifact hunting. It's better known simply as arrowhead hunting.

Since Indian tribes roamed all over Texas at one time or another, there are many likely places to search for relics.

Most of the choice places near populous areas have been picked over by meticulous searchers. But each eroding rain or a farmer's plough turns up new tidbits.

Best-known artifact is the arrowhead. But a search may turn up other historic relics like spear points, tama hawk heads or flint knives.

There are two distinct types of Indian relic seekers. . . the surface hunter and the digger. The former is the most basic. He is a pastime anyone can indulge in, whether he's a dyed-in-the-wool archeological bug or not. The latter is more painstaking and requires advance knowledge and know-how.

Surface hunting won't turn up as many artifacts as digging. However, its great appeal is that no equipment is needed. Just a patience and tenacity. Too, it's a recreational pastime for the entire family.

Only requisite for surface hunting is knowing where to look. Most logical places are where the ground has been broken or eroded. These are the places to look for a panned field, for example, would be more apt to have artifacts scattered about than would a sodded turf.

Cultivated fields probably are the most accessible spots common to all parts of Texas. Other possibilities are stream beds, bulldozed road right-of-ways, eroded hillsides, broken places in the land, gullies and washes.

A surface hunter can ascertain whether or not a spot is likely hunting ground almost immediately. There will be some evidence of Indian life, even if it is only tiny broken chips of flint, a tell-tale clue that it has been worked.

Surface hunting is the sport in its most basic form. When a hunter begins exploring beneath the earth it gets somewhat more complicated.

Dr. E. Mott Davis, an archeologist at the University of Texas, does most of his exploring underground, salvaging the artifacts by excavating a particular site. Many of the hobby archeologists also have started to dig and search, and this causes Dr. Davis and other professionals so much dismay.

"Many times a person just digs aimlessly, looking for the more choice artifacts," Dr. Davis explained. "In the process he destroys much valuable property which is vitally needed in our work, information that can not be obtained in any other way."

But Dr. Davis doesn't try to discourage the hobbyist who digs in his quest for coveted relics. Rather, he stresses that the person should know what he is doing and understand what he is looking for. Serious hobbyists, he points out, contribute a valuable role in cataloging the archeological history of any specific area.

He encourages the amateur artifact hunter to keep a written record of his discoveries. In this way he actually is conducting an archeological survey, one that the professionals can put to good use when seeking additional information.

There has been such a phenomenal upsurge in Indian relic hunting during the past few years that organizations of persons interested in the pastime have been formed. There are many in different towns across Texas, as well as a statewide group.

And as Dr. Davis explained, he also can contribute a vital part of the state's archeological study.

REACT

"REACT" which has grown out of the rapidly increasing popularity of two-way Citizens Band radio. Sponsored nationally as a public service by the Hallcrafters Co., REACT's objectives are to provide a supplementary system of radio communication for local emergency situations and to promote correct and efficient use of citizen radio.

Coordinating the Memphis effort will be Wayne Hutcherson, 1220 North 17th, who is the president of the local radio club. Wayne said that a headquarters monitor system will be in operation 24 hours a day for the purpose of relaying emergency messages to the proper authorities. Included in this system is the local Sheriff's department.

"In many communities, Citizens Band radio has proved the difference between life and death," Wayne pointed out. "From an accident scene on a remote country road, a citizen whose car is so equipped can instantly alert an ambulance, a doctor and a hospital staff. He can also save precious moments in disaster situations where emergency oxygen or a resuscitator is needed."

"Citizen radio has many community uses as well as in disaster," he added. "Through organized effort, we expect to realize its potential more fully."

Citizen Band radio was authorized by the Federal Communications Commission to satisfy a need for a low-cost two-way radio for necessary personal and business communication. Today, any over 18 years of age may own a private Citizens band station. There are no examination fees; the license costs $3.00 and may be secured on request from the F. C. C.
