Vacation Driving Time Again!

Each year, about the time school lets out for the summer, and the thoughts of citizens turn to vacations, the Texas Department of Public Safety publishes its annual report on Texas Traffic Cost for the past year. This year is no exception, and the report is the worst ever for the year 1966.

It doesn't take imagination or eloquent words to understand the destruction, violence and slaughter outlined in the DPS Texas 1966 Traffic Cost report.

What do phrases such as "human lives lost," "injured being maimed for life," "damaged or demolished," astounding figure," "killed," "injured," dead traffic victims" and "economic cost," mean to the average reader today?

Have we grown so accustoried to the violent death of our friends and neighbors, even members of our own family, on the highways of our state that we accept this slaughter as a price we have to pay to live in our modern society?

The Holy Bible teaches that no greater love has a man than that he lay down his life for a friend. The price our citizens in this state pay for the privilege of traveling from one place to the other is a dear one indeed considering that, 3,406 of them paid the supreme sacrifice last year and 208,310 paid the lesser price of injuries they will suffer from the rest of their lives. Yes, we love our modern luxuries of fast and reckless travel, regardless of the cost demanded.

We here in Hall County can not say "well it happened elsewhere in the state," for the DPS report showed that six persons died and 19 were injured while traveling on Hall County roads and highways during 1966.

What did all these accidents cost in dollars and cents? The DPS report placed the figure at $557,414,000.00, estimated economic cost of the traffic accidents in Texas during 1966, This figure, the estimated loss, would have bought 10,000 homes at $20,000 each; 10,000 refrigerators at $400 each; 10,000 cooking ranges at $350 each; 10,000 TV sets at $350 each; 10,000 dishwashers at $300 each; 10,000 automobiles at $3,000 each; 10,000 central air conditioning units at $1,400 each and furnished the head of each of the 10,000 households with a bank account of $29,941.

As the report said, the problem is serious today. But what about tomorrow? The population will increase, which means greater measure of fairness. The more drivers and automobiles and more miles driven. If the chief questions were: Would it not present problem continues, in Texas by 1975 there will be fairer for men to be selected 1,000,000 traffic accidents resulting in 7,000 persons killed. 500,000 persons injured, and an estimated property damage of over $1,000,000,000.00.

When planning our vacations, we naturally plan the trip around our automobiles. We'll spend the night with our relatives here, and then drive on to here, by pushing it, and arrive the next day late. The schedule probably calls for 12 to 14 hours on the road each day with only a minimum of time for rest, many times at some relative's home. Naturally, it has been months since the kinfolks were together so the conversation shey, Gen Mark W. Clark, and eats away at valuable rest time. The drivers become tired, Rep. L. Fairness And The Draft

The great debate on the extenion of the draft began by raising the big questions: Should the draft system be abandoned in favor of oluntary enlistment? Should selective service be expanded into either a voluntary or compulsory system of universal or national service, with both military and non-military assignments? On the big questions the commissions panels, and responsible figures in the administration and Congress firmly slammed the door. There ould be no change.

The issue then narrowed to a nsideration of how to bring to the selective service system a by lottery, for younger men to be taken first, for students deferments to be eliminated, for local ministration of the system to be adandoned, and for the conscientious objection provision to be changed?

safeguards to help assure fairness at the local level.

Thus, while the legislation shaping up will mean no radical change in the present system, it should mean some definite improvement, some noticeably greater measure of fairness.

One move by the House committee, however, is a backward step. The committee has proposed a tightening of the conscientious objection law, narrowing the committees are reluctant to end grounds for such a plea and in effect wiping out the broadening accomplished by the Supreme Court's decision in the Seeger case. It also would violate the conscience of those opposed to military service of any kind by placing them under military discipline. Cotton Farmers Face Decision On Replanting

Some cotton farmers face an mportant decision-whether to replant hailed-out or cold damaged cotton or to plant permitted cotton acreage to soybeans.

"If the decision is to plant soybeans, growers must receive approval from the county ASCS office." says W. B. Hooser, county agricultural agent. "With tihs approval, cotton price support payments may still be received." Growers can expect a decline in lint yields as planting dates become later in the season, Hooser points out. In fact, some yields have decreased as much as 728 oounds per acre.

Average lint yields obtained at the South Plains Research and Extension Center over a fiveyear period have been 800 pounds per acre for June 1 plantings compared to 662 pounds per acre for plantings on June 8-10. Based on an average price of 16c per pound, this difference alone amounts to $14.08 per acre.

Hooser adds that there are a number of factors to consider before planting soybeans on cotton acreage. First of all, adequate irrigation water should be available to produce sufficient yields. Also, tests have shown that yields are increased if cotton follows soybeans in a rotation. Thus higher yields should be obtained on next year's acreage if soybeans are planted this season.

Of course, the rental agree ment between the landlord and tenant must be considered, points out Hooser. Usual agreements call for one-fourth of the gross income from cotton to go to the land owner whereas one-third of the income from soybeans is paid. The expected income above operating costs is another all-im portant factor in deciding between late-planted cotton and soybeans, points out Hooser. On a per acre basis, to produce a lint yield of 800 pounds, a grower may spend $80 and thereby leave a net operating return of $40.

Dollar Days!

In comparison, irrigated soyhome Sunday night from Orange beans planted by June 6 normalwhere she had been visiting with ly yield about 30 bushels or more her son, Wayne Peabody.

per acre. Considering a production cost of $35 per acre for soybeans, a producer could expect reasonably more net operating return from soybeans than from cotton.

If cotton is to be replanted, Hooser feels that a few guidelines should be considered with regards to varities. Only early maturing varities should be planted at this late date due to the shortened growing season. Long staple varities such as Acala and Del Cerro will not have sufficient time to mature.

"Irrigation of late cotton also ecomes more critical," says Ho-"Less water should be aposer. plied in order to insure early fruiting. Following pre plant irrigation, generally one additional application at peak bloom is sufficient.
