Pre-Schoolers To Take Summer Classroom Work

Class for youngsters who will be in the first grade this fall who have not had previous kindergarten training will begin at Travis Elementary School on Monday, June 9, Supt. C. L. Chambless announced this week.

The classes, beginning at 8:30 and ending at 11:30 a. m. each day, Monday through Friday, are held under the Title I Pre-School Program. They will continue through August 1.

"The Restless Ones", A Billy Graham Film To Be Shown June 12 At Baptist

"The Restless Ones", considered the most successful motion picture yet produced by evangelist Billy Graham, will be shown in Memphis on Thurs., June 12 at 7:30 p. m. in the First Baptist Church.

With the accent on youth, this feature-length film deals imaginatively and dramatically with the teen-age crisis. With a background setting provided by the 1963 Billy Graham Los Angeles Crusade, and artfully woven into the story pattern, "The Restless Ones" is a hard-hitting, bold approach to our social problems.

Here is a film which dares to be different, a story which will stir the heart and mind. Having seen "The Restless Ones", you will never be the same.

As one reviewer said, "Here is a picture that tells the world the truth and comes up with an answer, not an easy answer, but an answer from beyond us." This answer will satisfy, challenge and inspire young and old alike and will appeal to churchgoers and non-churchgoers. The message comes through in the midst of a realistic teen-age situation, cleanly and without cloying. Swift-moving plot episodes highlight the opportunities facing the church.

Screen writer James Collier has skillfully brought into focus the contemporary plight of both teenagers and parents. A sensitive script, produced by World Wide Pictures under the direction of Dick Ross, has resulted in a "break-through" in "The Restless Ones".

The first of three "Fellowship of Worship" services sponsored by the three Memphis churches will be held Sunday evening at 7 p. m. in the First United Methodist Church, it was announced this week.

Sponsoring the Fellowship of Worship services are the First Christian Church, First Presbyterian Church and the First United Methodist Church.

The June 8 Fellowship of Worship at the Methodist Church will be a service of worship in music featuring Miss Sandy McQueen at the organ, vocals by Sue Fowler, Larry McQueen, Kim Wynn, Darla Sasser and Peggy Fowler, and the church choir.

Rev. David Hamblin, Methodist pastor, said that this year, the host church is responsible for providing those to conduct the service.

"The worship in music planned for Sunday will portray the Life of Christ through music," Rev. Hamblin said.

Plans called for a Fellowship of Worship one Sunday evening each month for June, July and August.

Members of the sponsoring churches extended an invitation to the public to attend any or all of the Fellowship of Worship services this summer.

Rev. Hamblin said the special service for Sunday has been in the planning for several months and he encouraged a good attendance.

Good Food, Folks, Weather Make Giles Picnic Enjoyable This Year

By VIRGINIA BROWDER
Fair weather, good food and natives so to say, were present and accounted for. Freddy Watt, his new son, and the rest of his family were there. Freddy's grandfather came to Giles from Canada in the 80's to put down roots in that community, to farm, teach school, raise cattle and a family. The Carvers from Childress were among the revelers. Mr. Carver taught in the Giles school in an early day. Cordia Stotts Levi, who was born and reared in Giles, was on hand as was Jake Thaxton and his wife from California and Richard Stotts and his bride - to-be, Brenda Boykin. Jovell Blackmon who was one of the Giles Johnsons answered present as did Mary Sue Stotts, Charlie and Audrey Foster and Charlie's mother. And, of course, Gladys and Walter Johnson and their family mixed and mingled with the picnickers.

The high Sheriff, Dave Browder, and his deputy, Gerald Knight, and Mayor Blackie Johnson supervised the activities. And the officials of Giles wish to thank all who brought food, served it, ran errands, made music and, in any way, helped to make the annual Giles Picnic a success.

As is true in any other project, it takes genial cooperation and "all hands on deck" to make a good country picnic even on old Buck Creek.

Heritage Hall To Open on June 16

Plans now call for the Hall County Heritage Hall to open its doors on Monday, June 16, with starting hours set from 10 a. m. to 12 noon and 2 to 5 p. m. each day.

The schedule calls for the Heritage Hall to be open six days each week, Monday through Saturday, for the time being, but these hours and dates are subject to change, Byron Baldwin announced.

There will be two members of women's clubs here who will be in attendance during the Heritage Hall open hours. These ladies are volunteering their time to the project.

There is still room for several more displays, Mr. Baldwin said. One of the latest additions is a school room depicting past years in the classrooms of this area.

During the past several months, workers in the Heritage Hall have brought a museum atmosphere to the Old First National Bank building, even to the addition of the Hall County Heritage Hall clock on the outside of the building.

Mrs. Carl Wood is outlining and designing a highway sign to be placed on highways advertising the new museum here.

Those needing to work on displays or make contributions of artifacts to the Heritage Hall may do so by seeing Wendell Harrison or Homer (Soapy) Tribble, who have keys to the back door of the Heritage Hall, if the Hall is not open.

The Roping Club hopes to have a good number of entries and extends a cordial invitation to the public to come out and watch the play day.

Approximately 60 percent of the display cases are now occupied, and much of the north wall of the building is being used to display the larger items such as coal burning stoves, the organ, old washing machine, sewing machine, plow, scythe, ox yoke, and many other items. One pair of saddle bags, 150 years old, has also been received.

Strife Of College Life . . . Calm Of The World Outside!

Baylor President Abner V. McCall, in his charge to the 1969 graduating class of Baylor University last Friday, pointed out a truth so profound it is worth passing on to citizens throughout this nation.

He noted that in a college commencement address last year, famed comedian Bob Hope's advice to the graduates about going out into the world was "Don't Go!" If he was speaking this year, President McCall said, his advice would probably be for the graduates "to leave the turmoil and strife of college life and seek a haven in the comparative calm of the world outside."

The Baylor president went on to say, "Our generation must admit that it is a mad, mad world. We certainly have not solved all the problems," he said. "The age-old plagues of mankind are still with us . . . and we have invented instant coffee, oatmeal, stomach relief and instant breath sweetener, but we have not discovered instant compassion, instant peace and instant plenty for everyone."

McCall told the class that one does not have to earn a college degree to detect that this is not a perfect world. "But many of this generation of young people," he said, "seem to think they are the first to really notice the world is so imperfect and they have been commonly upset thereby."

Most college graduates, McCall said, will soon learn that the "ancient evils and problems of the world are rooted in basic human imperfections and are most stubborn of solution. They do not disappear before high ideals, good intentions and even dedicated work."

Our educators in our colleges are facing difficult times trying to handle and educate certain students of "basic human imperfections".

Socrates advised parents many years ago, "They who provide much wealth for their children, but neglect to improve them in virtue, do like those who feed their horses high, but never train them to manage." This is a common fallacy of human nature.

Shelley's famous quote concerning this situation states, "All of us who are worth anything, spend our manhood in unlearning the follies, or expiating the mistakes of our youth." Pope explains, "His education forms the common mind. Just as the twig is bent, the tree's inclined."

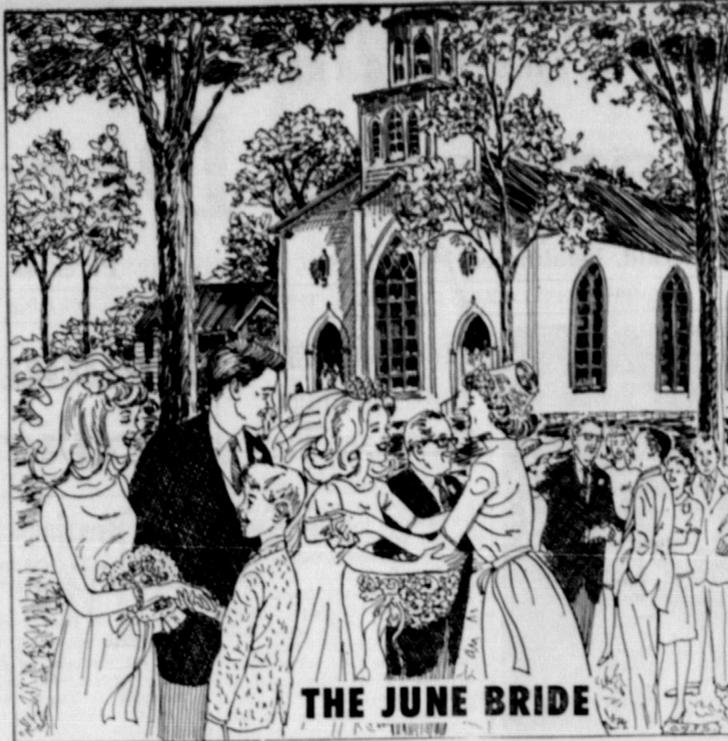

Students in college, sometime along the way, come to the realization as Haliburton stated, "A college education shows a man how little other people know." And with this thought in mind, these students set forth into the world to accomplish their objectives.

McCall closed by giving those who would conquer great wrongs in the world a sentence from the noted "Middlemarch" by George Eliot: "The growing good of the world is partly dependent upon unhistoric acts; and that things are not so ill with you and me as they might have been, is half owing to the number who lived faithfully a hidden life, and rest in unvisited tombs."

Bacon had this piece of advice for mankind which is worthy of note: "The desire of power in excess caused angels to fall; the desire of knowledge in excess caused man to fall; but in charity is no excess, neither can man or angels come into danger by it."

Student turmoil and campus violence is stirring second thoughts among many of the nation's professors about their jobs. If campus turmoil continues, professors will be out job hunting for better working conditions. This would be a blow to our educational systems far greater than any concessions students could hope to achieve.

One Harvard professor, summed it all up when he said, "If this keeps up I'm going to quit and go back to Wall Street." Wall Street has long been considered a "Hot Spot" in the business world. It is ironic that working conditions in Wall Street are preferable to teaching at Harvard.

THE JUNE BRIDE

ACROSS the DESK

What Other Editors Say

Defense of ROTC

The current student opposition to Reserve Officers Training Corps programs on college campuses seems not so much a protest against officer training as against the Vietnam war and the unfairness of the draft.

Neither of these issues would be changed by forcing ROTC off the college campuses.

The ROTC organization is a target because it is a symbol of the unpopular war in Vietnam, but the program has values that people other than the student demonstrators can recognize.

As long as we need an army, it should be led by officers who not only know their trade but also understand the limits and functions of the military in this republic. They should be broadly informed, not narrowly molded.

If ours is to continue to be a citizens army, as General Westmoreland advocates, its leaders should be good citizens before they are soldiers.

And where better can this requirement be met than in the classrooms of those colleges where academic freedom is maintained and bold inquiry thrives?

If the ROTC program is voluntary in all aspects, if its professional courses are well taught, if it is integrated with academic disciplines under faculty control, then it should be offered for credit and encouraged.

It has as much place on the campus as programs for doctors, engineers and school teachers, unless of course, you think we can do away with the army and care less how badly it is led.

As a former enlisted man, we sympathize with those who dislike officers and their authority. As a former officer, we can appreciate the necessity for such authority. As a citizen, we believe we need officers of the calibre turned out by the ROTC and let's not let the SDS kick ROTC off the campus.

Losing our students!

No businessman in his right mind would think of sending an employee to an advanced training course, paying him while he is here, and then losing him to another city or state.

If we can compare our city, or community, to a business, then we can say that this very same situation is happening in regard to young people who graduate from high school.

As we have pointed out before, local - level education amounts to almost 75 per cent of the tax bill that each and every resident pays annually.

we have already spent on their education, but we also lose the potential earning power and community contributions that each and every graduate has.

As they are forced to look elsewhere for jobs, positions and homes, other cities and states benefit at our expense. And our loss, annually, runs into thousands and thousands of dollars. In addition, we lose those valuable youngsters and their potential toward community progress.

Unless a city can make available new jobs and positions each year — and not just those which open due to retirement of other workers — the financial drain on the local economy is reflected by taxes which must necessarily increase as the assessed valuation fails to keep pace with public needs.

This is the sort of thing which keeps a small town small.

And it is happening to us.

COLLEGE STATION — Enzymes in concentrated form — such as those present in some laundry products — may have irritating effects on the skin.

Although the enzyme concentration in the laundry products is low, some people may be hypersensitive to the enzymes and develop an allergy when exposed either to enzymatic detergent solutions or to clothes washed in them, reports Linda Jacobsen, Extension home management specialist.

Gertrude Rasco Is Judge For NG Auditions

Gertrude Rasco is in Quannah to judge the piano students in that area who are entering the National Guild Auditions which are sponsored by the National Guild of Piano Teachers of which Irl Allison of Austin is president.

After serving 16 years as chairman of the National Guild auditions in the Memphis Center, Miss Rasco resigned from this position. A new chairman will be appointed by President Allison later.

During the past 16 years the Memphis Center has had from 75 to 120 students each year, Miss Rasco stated. Students from Wellington, Childress, Hedley, Quail and Quitaque as well as Memphis have entered the auditions.

There have been 24 high school music diplomas, three Paderewski medals, and three $100.00 scholarships issued to students here during the past 16 years. Miss Rasco said that teachers in this area have cooperated in every way during this time. We have also been fortunate to have kind and helpful judges from far and near and we have deeply appreciated their service.

"I want to express my appreciation and thanks to the teachers and judges for all their kindness to me during the 16 years of my chairmanship and much credit goes to the staff of the Memphis Democrat for the nice publicity which the Memphis Center has received," Miss Rasco concluded.

Ladies Enjoy Golf And Salad Luncheon Wed.

Myrtle Helm, chairman of the Golf Committee at the Memphis Country Club, said that 15 women were present for the first Ladies' day Golf and luncheon Wednesday at the club.

The group decided to meet each first Wednesday of the summer months for the luncheon and golf, Mrs. Helm said.

Winners in Wednesday's matches were: first a team composed of Martha Campbell, Johnny Rice and Teddy Allen; second, a team composed of Lois Ann Monzingo, Betty Curl and Brenda Gresham.

All ladies, who are members of the Country Club, are cordially invited to be present on the first Wednesday in July. Those who cannot play golf are invited to bring a salad and join the group for lunch in the club house.

Mrs. Jess Smith of Amarillo visited with her father, W. A. Davis, at Cousins Home in Memphis and also, her brother, R. F. Davis, and sister, Mrs. C. J. Reed of Lakeview, last Friday and Saturday.

EMPHASIS MEMPHIS

... and County Comments —By HAC

The construction superintendent of Bigbee Steel Buildings, contractor to construct the 50,000 sq. ft. building to house Memphis's newest industry, is here this week with a preliminary crew. They are in the process of pouring concrete floors and doing other work toward the completion of the new plant which will house the new mobile home factory, to be known as Triple M, Inc. The superintendent expressed his thanks for the cooperation which he is receiving from firms and individuals in Memphis.

The blooms of Homer Tribble's bluebonnets, next door, have nearly disappeared. They cause much comment for nearly two months each year. This is the seventh year this strip of soil has grown the state flower.

The following is reprinted from the May monthly newsletter from Texas Good Roads Association, and is published to answer questions asked by several friends since the publicity was carried in many newspapers:

"It's Hate - Healty Month at Austin as capital correspondents pay their perennial disrespects to William S. of Paducah, the abrasive and effective chairman of House Appropriations.

"Without attempting to describe, define or defend the various ways in which some scribes have found Healty repulsive, we do wish to state that in the case of the Cottle County caliche they hit a rich vein of nothing.

"The 'charge' was that Healty sold some caliche and gravel to the State Highway Department. No claim was made that the dirt wasn't worth the money; the inference was that a member of the Legislature (Healty particularly) oughtn't to be selling things to the State.

"The facts: Healty is one of 10

Cottle County landowners who have sold caliche, gravel and crushed stone to highway contractors since 1960, under options negotiated by the Highway Department. The option price was 10 cents a cubic yard, which is standard.

"Also standard in Highway Department procedure is the practice of prospecting for base materials in the area of future construction. That's (1) to get information about the availability of materials called for, and (2) to guard against having the sources tied up by others. The successful bidder may take up the option; he doesn't have to. This procedure has been developed over a period of 40 years and is followed all over the state, not just in Cottle County.

"Highway Department records show that options have been taken on 237,194 cubic yards of base material in Cottle County since 1960, and that Healty's pits accounted for 23,285 CYs, or 10.6 per cent. All this was on the initiative of the Highway Department.

"One reservation has to be made: The Department DID buy some caliche directly from Healty on two occasions, for maintenance use — $10 worth in 1966 and $25.50 worth in 1968."

Don't run to a shelter when storm clouds are overhead or approaching unless you hear the sirens blow continuously for a long time. Members of the Volunteer Fire Department and officers are watching the clouds, and by radio will call in the warning. It nearly happened recently when neighbors, knowing I had a big storm cellar, heard the fire alarm. They checked the clouds, then went back to bed.

The following is taken from the column, "My Akin' Back," by Kenneth Hogue in The Dalhart Texan:

"Recent income tax discussions got Bob Lang to thinking. Recently he suggested that 'My Akin' Back' quit paying him a salary and loan him money instead. He would sign a note which he would not pay. The 'My Akin' Back would not have to withhold social security and income taxes and then My Akin' Back would charge the note off as a bad debt thereby saving matching social security, workmen's compensation and unemployment taxes. Sounds real neat. Akin' Back posed the situation to Public Accountants Bob Beilue and Harlon

Gaskill. They wouldn't commit themselves — they certainly would be interested in seeing what would develop in such a situation."

It is estimated that approximately 80,000 acres will be planted in Hall County this year. This compares to about 61,000 in 1968 — when average production was slightly over a bale to the acre. A survey Tuesday afternoon, north of Red River, revealed most cotton to be up to a good stand, although a few planters were putting seed in the ground. Some irrigated fields have plants from four to five inches tall. Overall, everything looks good at this time for a cotton crop.

SPORTS SCENE

By M. C. ALLEN, JR.

Do you know how the U. S. once won an Olympic walking race?

In the 1906 Olympics, George Bonhag finished fourth in the five-mile race. But he had gone to Athens intending to win an event for his country. He finally determined to enter the walking race.

At that time, there were endless arguments whether contestants were actually walking or running. Prince George of Greece consented to be the official judge. The race had hardly started before Prince George began ordering contestants off the track for running. Bonhag was one of the few left. He was cheered as he crossed the finish line. He had won an Olympic championship in his first try at the event.

SPORTS QUIZ: Who was the oldest heavyweight champion?

ANSWER TO LAST WEEK: "Regret" was the only fly ever to win the Kentucky Derby.

Deck's Didactics, written by Doskins Wells, editor and publisher of The Wellington Leader.

Many young people have been deafened by the loud noise that passes for music. And I have that information, which I suspected all along, from no less an authority than Dr. Douglas N. Morgan, President of the American Society of Aesthetics. He said recently in Austin: "Our bodies do not forget the assaults made on the senses but much of what passes for art in our wild, wild world. We seem to be pretending that our bodies are infinitely flexible, and can withstand any and every assault. They are not and cannot."

The wise professor continued: "The healthy human ear can organize sound only within physiologically specifiable maxima and minima; the ear can be — many healthy adolescent ears are now being — selectively deafened. The healthy eye can organize light only within limits; if you gaze, open-eyed and acid-brained into the sun, you will be permanently blinded.

"The human brain, wonderfully flexible though it is, can structure experience in fascinating ways, and no critic should dare to proscribe in advance any structure; but without structure of any sort, every animal gibbers. Sensory explosions an dimposions anesthetize. And anesthesia, or non-perception, is the death of art."

Dr. Morgan said it is time to "give the lie" to the "added proclamation" that there are no limits and all things are possible in art.

"Not every happening is a good happening. Not every possible sequence of noises is good music, and worth listening to. Not every possible array of colors deserves looking at or into."

This is what we have instinctively thought about as our ear drums have been pounded by loud noises for a long time.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Simmons, Brenda and Steve of Houston visited Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Davis of Lakeview and W. A. Davis of Cousins Home Friday.

INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION ST. LOUIS 1904

GOOD TO THE LAST BITE—The hamburger is still America's No. 1 sandwich. It was introduced 65 years ago at the International Exposition in St. Louis, and remains the choice of both young and old.

Happy Hamburgers For Over 65 Years And Still Gains In Popular Favor

Hamburger on a bun may be a 100-year-old food idea, but it's about to retire from the American scene. Hamburger alone has been around for centuries. However, it didn't catch up with the bun until 1904. That was the year that somebody decided to serve hamburgers on buns at the great St. Louis Exposition. Introduction of hamburger on a bun shared spotlight with another great American innovation, ice cream in edible cone.

The hamburger's ancestry goes as far as ancient Egypt where meat was minced for quick cooking. Through the ages, men and that grinding meat was a good method of tenderizing it. Exactly how ground beef came to be called hamburger is a bit obscure. However, it was probably named for the German seaport of Hamburg. In medieval times, traveling merchants from the city of Hamburg went to the Baltic lands. They saw the Tartars scrape raw meat and season it with salt, pepper, and onion juice to make what we now call "Steak Tartare".

This is the way the Hamburgers ate their beef until some cook decided to shape the raw meat into patties and broil them crisp on the outside, nearly raw inside. German immigrants brought their rare hamburger idea with them to America. Here people of

Anne Rapp To Join Flying Queens At Wayland College

PLAINVIEW — Anne Rapp, star guard for Albert Motesenbocker's Estelline cagers, will play for the Hutcherson Flying Queens of Wayland Baptist College next year, joining sister Cherri on the famed women's team. This information was received this week from the college's public relations office.

The 5-6 senior as EHS landed a berth on the All-District team the past two seasons and also has been chosen as an alternate for the Texas High School All-Star Game to be played in July at Duncanville.

She played forward her first two years in high school, then switched to guard her last two. Jimmie Don Adams was her coach for three seasons. Miss Rapp made several all-tournament teams in her career.

In tennis this past season, she combined with younger sister Jan for the State Class B tennis title, making her fourth straight year the Rapp family has claimed the doubles crown. Anne and Cherri, now a sophomore to-be and a promising star for the Queens, teamed to win the title for three straight years.

She was captain of the team this season and also was named Basketball Queen, and was cheerleader for two years.

Miss Rapp was salutatorian of her graduating class with a 96.28 average, member of FHA, Student Council, and yearbook and newspaper staff at Estelline High.

"We are counting on Anne to develop into a fine college star and feel she will have little trouble adapting to the new international rules whereby we will play with five girls on the floor at one time like men's rules," said Coach Harley Redin.

Anne is the 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Rapp of Estelline.

English-Irish-Scotch ancestry leaned more to the well-done variety of hamburger. In England it was called "Salisbury Steak" after physician, Dr. James H. Salisbury.

Dr. Salisbury had recommended to his patients that they eat such "steak" three times a day with hot water before and after each meal. It was his contention that such a diet would relieve an assortment of conditions from asthma and bronchitis to hardening of the arteries and gout.

Nevertheless, it was simply because the hamburger proved to be so easy, economical, and popular with everybody in the family that it became a regular item in the weekly eating schedule.

Today the plump, juicy hamburgers are still sizzling on grills from coast to coast. Most often they're in the good company of fresh hamburger buns, thick slices of onions, tomatoes, mustard, and pickles or relish.

Of Vital Interest To Hall County

Proposed Cotton Payment Limitations

Much has been said and written about a proposed new farm program which we assume will be enacted by the United States Congress, either this year or early next year. Of vital interest to all segments of the cotton industry, and it should be to others involved in the Texas and the national economy, are the payment limitations that will no doubt be incorporated in such a law. Many Congressional farm leaders believe it may be impossible to extend the farm program after the 1970 crop unless some kind of limitation is adopted.

It is a matter of record that some Congressmen favor and will introduce a bill to limit farm payments to any individual farmer (or payee) under all farm programs. One limitation figure considered is $20,000.

Cotton Economic Research, The University of Texas at Austin, being cognizant of the importance that the placing of government payment limitations would have on cotton production in Texas, and the general economy, has prepared the following information in the interest of all segments of the cotton industry.

In order to apply the data reflected in table 1 with definite sections of the state, the USDA Crop Reporting Districts are used. The information contained in the table was derived from the 1967 data, the most recent information available. The loss in cotton acres and in bales does not include acreage diverted under the program or any unplanted allotted acreage.

Under the present farm program, Texas cotton farmers received a total of almost $296 million in payments during the 1967-68 season (about 64 percent of total Government payments) and about $248 million during the past season, 1968-69.

Should the limitation of $20,000 derived from all the farm programs be placed on a farmer (payee), based on the 1967 payments, a total of 2,963 farmers would be affected, with a total of over $40 million paid in excess of the $20,000 limitation. Every district in Texas would have some farmers receiving in excess of $20,000 in payments. The High Plains area of the state would have nearly 2,000 farmers with a total of over $22 million paid in excess of the $20,000 limitation. Other greatly affected districts would be the Lower Rio Grande Valley, the Trans-Pecos area, and the East Texas section, chiefly the river bottom counties.

Of the 254 counties in the state, 143 had farmers located in the county that received payments in excess of $20,000. Some of the larger affected counties, ranked according to number of payees, are as follows: Hale, Lubbock, Terry, Crosby, Floyd, Hidalgo, Hockley, Lamb, Cameron, Lynn, Gaines, Castro, Farmer, Reeves, and Dawson.

Not considering the cotton acreage lost to production for the 1967 crop through diversion under the Food and Agriculture Act of 1965 and environmental conditions (see table 2) the estimated acres lost due to the $20,000 payment limitation would amount to an additional $13,677 acres. This is based on the assumption that all payments in excess were due solely to cotton acreage payments and not other A.S.C.S. farm program payments, and that none of the excess acreage would be planted to cotton.

The estimated additional bale production loss due to a $20,000 limitation is derived from the excess acreage not being planted to cotton and the annual yield for each respective district. The additional loss in bales would amount to 799,566, or a total market value loss of almost $98 million.

It will be noted that during the year beginning August 1, 1967, nearly 1.9 million less acres were planted to cotton than in 1965, chiefly because of diversion provision of the Act. This was the second crop produced under the Food and Agriculture Act, Public Law 321. Also, over 1.9 million less bales were produced during the 1967 crop.

The loss in the Texas economy can be calculated easily by multiplying the bale loss by $122 per bale (value of lint and seed per bale of cotton) in 1967. This amounts to $321,922,000 at the farm level.

Cost to begin the nursing course is approximately $200.00. Mrs. McCauley said. This includes $120.00 for Tuition, $35.00 for textbooks, $5.00 for each uniform, plus expenses for white shoes and hose, and classroom supplies.

Students receive their caps at the end of the pre - clinical period of the course, which is three months. This indicates that their supervisors feel they are capable of completing the course, the director stated.

The first four weeks of the school consists of six hours of class per day from 7 a. m. to 2:30 p. m. with weekends off, after that time students begin five hours of class and two hours of clinical experience in the hospital gradually increasing clinical experience and decreasing class work.

During the last six months of the course, according to Mrs. McCauley, students work eight hours per day in the hospital, alternating shifts and weekends. They also participate in four hours of clinical conference per week, during which they discuss the textbook aspects of their working experiences.

Every registered nurse at Hall Co. Hospital evaluates each student every three months, and the students write self-evaluations at the end of the first three months and at graduation. All of these evaluations are read and compared so that the students may become aware of any need for improvement.

The demand for Licensed Vocational Nurses is greater than ever, Mrs. McCauley said, and a graduate is capable of having a job assured. Eight persons graduated from the Hall County Hospital School of Vocational Nursing on July 13, four from Memphis and four from Hall County, Okla.

Persons wishing more information on becoming LVN's are urged to contact Mrs. McCauley at the Hall County Hospital.

The first class began in August of 1966, and with this year's class there will have been 23 graduates.
