C. of C. Banquet Tickets May Be Purchased Now

Tickets sales for the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet, which will be held Thursday, Feb. 12, at 7 p. m. in Memphis Community Center, are now underway, according to Charley Brown, chairman.

Speaker for the banquet will be Wayne B. (Red) Smith, executive vice president of the Borg-er Chamber of Commerce.

Chamber officials are urging citizens to make plans now to attend the affair.

Tickets may be purchased from Mr. Brown or from these committee members: John Ferrel, D. H. Pope, Byron Baldwin, Lester Campbell, Sherron Lee, C. E. Voyles, Don Carmen, Bill Leslie, Doc Saye, Rayford Hutcherson, Johnny Farnsworth and Joyce Webster.

Outgoing president of the club is Dink Miller who this week made a progress report of improvements at the Memphis Country Club during the past year.

A caretaker's house was purchased near the clubhouse, which allows the caretaker and his wife better living quarters and more privacy.

A club room was added in the upper portion of the clubhouse which has refrigerated air conditioning, color television, carpet and nice furniture in the interior room and a covered balcony with metal lawn furniture overlooking the No. 9 green. The two facilities are connected with sliding glass doors.

The irrigation system for watering the course was improved considerably during the year. Two new irrigation wells were dug and one of these wells was added to the system. New 4-inch pipe was put in from the wells to the course. Irrigation pipe with risers were added to No. 1, No. 3, No. 4 and No. 9 fairways. This is a much better system than the club had tried several years ago when movable pipe was used. Whenever funds are available, more irrigation is being planned for the club.

Two other improvements on the course were completed during the year. The numerous trees on the course were trimmed and the big washout hole on the creek on No. 2 was repaired to stop the erosion problem.

Marijuana — A Creeping Danger

We have been increasingly alarmed with the continued rise in the use of marijuana by young and adult citizens of our state. The problem is growing steadily and our citizens need to be alert to its dangers.

Why is the problem growing to alarming proportions in our state? Well, the answer lies in the fact that Texas borders Mexico and Mexico is the principal supplier of the weed.

The U. S. News and World Report reported recently that marijuana is the chief cash crop for the Mexican farmer to grow, and, due to the ruggedness of the plant, it grows almost anywhere. Control of the smuggling traffic of marijuana is difficult between the United States and Mexico.

Currently, both countries are working in a cooperative effort to control this flow. Mexican officials have full military battalions combing the country and destroying marijuana wherever the plants are found; but due to the magnitude of the problem, it may be years before an effective control cuts the flow to a trickle.

The problem is that there are those in this country willing to pay handsomely for the "reefers", in order to control the minds and reap huge profits from their unfortunate customers. If there was not a demand, then the suppliers would be out of business.

Narcotics are not new in this world. Men have known for centuries the harmful effects of the use of narcotics. The principal danger is the effect narcotics have on the minds of those who use them. Users become irrational, turning from constructive pursuits to destructive pursuits, sacrificing everything worthwhile for their "habit".

Why anyone would want to destroy their lives is the major problem. U. S. Military officials in Vietnam have reported that marijuana has been found on four out of five bodies of dead GI's including officers, as many of the confused young men in combat have turned to marijuana in sheer desperation.

There was little marijuana in Vietnam until 1965 when Americans began arriving in large numbers. The Vietnamese prefer opium, as do most Asians. Marijuana is cheaper than beer in South Vietnam and can be had by asking any taxi driver, bar girl, newsboy, or at many roadside stands in the countryside.

It was only in 1968 when U. S. officials were able to convince the South Vietnamese Government that a crackdown was essential. Among the things the Army is using to track down marijuana is a special dog corps trained to detect marijuana by smell.

Last weekend, Houston law enforcement officials arrested 120 in a huge narcotic raid, the largest in the history of the State of Texas. Amarillo and Hereford are area towns actively combating the problem with some success.

Just because we are located in a rural area is no guarantee that our citizens, young or adult, can not get their hands on "reefers". We hope our citizens will have better sense than to choose that kind of life.

Life is full of enough tragedies without compounding them and adding to them by taking narcotics. The cowboys had a saying, "you can lead a horse to water but you can't make him drink". If the horse didn't drink the water, then the cowboy didn't drink it either.

What Other Editors Say

Wasn't anybody listening?

January 15 would have been the 41st birthday of Dr. Martin Luther King, martyred moderate leader of this nation's blacks. Dr. King was cut down by an assassin's bullet in Memphis, Tenn., in 1968, and his wise counsel has been sorely missed by blacks and whites alike in the past two years. The following editorial appeared in the January 15 issue of The Washington Daily News, and it speaks to many of us in America today:

"I Have A Dream," the black man told the crowd, "that my four little children will one day live in a nation where they will not be judged by the color of their skin..."

The speaker was Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. The occasion was a gathering of 200,000 concerned Americans at the Lincoln memorial in August of 1963.

Less than five years later, Dr. King, an apostle of non violence, was shot to death in Memphis, before his dream could be realized fully.

Had he lived, he would have been 41 today. And those who admired him are marking the day with eulogy and prayer — a far cry from the senseless burning and looting that followed his assassination.

"Let us not seek to satisfy our thirst for freedom," Dr. King had warned in his "dream" speech, "by drinking from the cup of bitterness and hatred."

Each of us — black and white — might pause today and ask ourselves whether we heard what the man was saying in 1963.

Success Late In Life!

One of the pitfalls that many men over forty tend to fall victim to is the belief that if they haven't made their first million, they are doomed to a modest income and a middle rung on the ladder of success.

And most likely this attitude, more than anything else, relegates them to this middle rung spot.

But are 40, 50 or even 60 years of age too late for a man to make his move on up to a higher rung on that ladder?

Let's take the true case of a gentleman who was past 60 when he fell upon bad times.

This gentleman was offered nearly $200,000 for a restaurant-motel-service station business he had spent his life building up. But he turned the attractive offer down simply because he was not ready to retire.

But two years later he was flat broke. Yep, at age 65 he had only the remnant of his former thriving business left. Or this plus his monthly social security check. The state had constructed a new super highway a few miles distance from his place of business and that rung the death knell to it.

Most men at that age would have become crushed by the blow and given up.

But not our hero. Instead, he took stock. There was one thing he knew how to do... fry chicken. Maybe he could sell that knowledge to others.

He kissed his wife goodbye and in a battered old car, with a pressure cooker and a can of specially prepared flour, set out to sell his idea to other restaurants. It was tough going and he often slept in the car because there wasn't enough money for a hotel room.

A few years later he had built a nationwide, franchised restaurant chain which he sold for $2 million. It's the Kentucky Fried Chicken system and the man's name is Colonel Sanders.

Not only has the Colonel made a big success of his "finger lickin' good" fried chicken, he appears to have been having a barrel of fun while climbing up the ladder.

So take heart, all you guys who think age has halted your climb up the ladder of success. There is still room at the top for those who have the courage, desire, a little ability and drive.

Elmont Branigan Is Graduate of Bulova School

Elmont Branigan of Branigan Jewelers, has graduated from the course in Electronic timekeeping conducted by Bulova Watch Company. The intensive training program is designed for the professional watchmaker who handles the Acutron tuning-fork watch, the world's first tuning-fork timepiece for wrist use.

The self-powered 33-gram Acutron time keeping movement was employed on the Moon on July 21 (1969) by U. S. Astronaut Neil Armstrong and Buzz Aldrin. It is incorporated in the Cosmonaut now reporting to Earth by radio from the Moon's surface of Tranquillity. Clock versions of the timepiece were used on NASA's manned Gemini spacecraft, and other applications include use as the master timer board Nomad — the world's first computerized buoy that broadcasts weather information from the position off Cape Hatteras, the Atlantic storm center.

"This new transistorized timepiece uses a tiny tuning fork as a time base," Mr. Branigan said. The fork vibrates 360 times a second, or 31,104,000 each 24 hours. That's 144 times as fast as the balance wheel oscillates in conventional electric watch — making possible an average accuracy of plus-or-minus two seconds a day in actual use on the wrist.

Servicing of the revolutionary timepiece requires special training, he added, because the electronic movement uses components not found in conventional watch movements. It has 12 moving parts, compared to 19 for manually wound watches and 26 in electric and self-wound watches. The Acutron course for jewelers and watchmakers is being offered on a nation-wide basis. Branigan attended class sessions at Okmulgee, Okla., conducted by Bulova's Field Training Services.

This usually stems from the fact that this same sound is also found in the sub-standard pronunciation of another word. Many people avoid using such sounds, even though correct, because of this, it was explained.

WTU Employees Set New All-Time Safety Record

A new all-time safety record was set on Dec. 31 when the employees of West Texas Utilities Company completed the year without a lost-time accident, J. B. Scott, local manager, announced this week.

During the 12-month period, WTU's 1040 employees worked a total of 2,332,674 man hours.

During its long history of providing electric service to customers in West Texas, never before has such a record been achieved. Several times during the past 10 years the perfect record was almost reached. In 1960 only two lost-time accidents were recorded. Three were charged to the company's record in 1963; four in 1964; and only two in 1967. Since 1957 only 57 lost-time accidents have been recorded in the 10-year period.

Last September the WTU employees received special recognition when they were presented the Safety Achievement Award by the Bureau of Safety. This came after they had worked more than 2,000,000 man-hours without a lost-time accident. The last recorded was in October, 1968. The record now reads: 14 months without a lost-time accident.

RESERVE CHAMPION BARROW—Pictured above is the reserve champion barrow of the County 4-H, FFA Livestock show held recently. Ronald Bradshaw showed the heavy weight Duroc winner. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Bradshaw of Memphis.

Fish and wildlife are in the spotlight as never before. Due to the great demand for recreation today, programs to study the various species of game and fish and to improve our favorite outdoor sports are being accelerated.

As our population grows, available land is shrinking. This means more hunters concentrated on fewer acres. Because of this supply and demand, biologists are working overtime to increase the yield of fish and wildlife per acre of habitat.

It has been done quite successfully in farming and there is no reason it can't be accomplished with outdoor subjects. Right now it is a matter of hitting the right formula.

On land that can carry more wildlife, for example, studies are being made with various imported exotics. The number of animals like the blackbuck antelope, Maunton sheep and axis deer is growing each year, and there is much work being done with imported game birds.

With native birds and animals, the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department is speeding up its research. One need is more wildlife management areas. The department hopes to obtain several more areas "of sufficient size to permit needed wildlife research and management studies in each major ecological region of the state."

One need is a management area in the Trans-Pecos region to study the pronghorn antelope.

In a report on the subject, the Parks and Wildlife Department pointed out that "historically the pronghorn antelope roamed the entire western half of Texas in uncounted thousands. However, fencing of the land and indiscriminate and wasteful hunting took a heavy toll and the antelope herds were reduced to an all-time low of 2,000 head in 1920."

Through informed game management and restocking, the herds were rebuilt by 12,000 head by 1960. Since then, increased farming, sheep ranching, disease and adverse weather have caused a reduction in the numbers to 9,000 head in 1966.

"O.K. God, so strike me dead."

That's the famous dare of the one who says he's an atheist.

And if he's not immediately floored by a lightning bolt, he usually sneers, "See? So what is all this God balony?"

All of which proves that he doesn't know very much about talking to God.

Indeed, even people of faith sometimes feel unhappy when their "prayers aren't answered".

Which means that they've forgotten that God always answers our prayers. And sometimes the answer is No.

That's a good thing to remember in these times that often seem almost too difficult to bear.

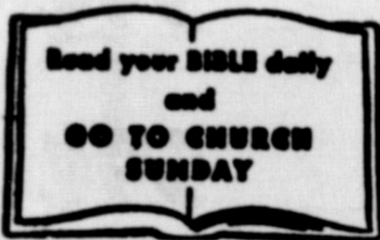

When it seems like God's gone away permanently.

God is not dead.

God is.

And, moreover, His sense of hearing is very acute.

So why not start talking to Him again? He's a good listener.

Successful applicants will be given an eligibility test, a character investigation and a physical examination. Those accepted for employment will be notified prior to the beginning date of the next training school.

Training

Cadet patrolmen will be assigned to the Texas Dept. of Public Safety Law Enforcement Academy in Austin, Texas for a 17-week training period. The cadet will receive some 800 hours of intensive classroom work and supervised study. The training is designed to equip the cadet to handle any of the various situations he may encounter as a patrolman. The training of a patrolman is a test of an individual's intellectual, emotional and physical stamina. It is also an educational process which prepares him for a rewarding career in law enforcement.

In addition to classroom work the cadet is taught self-protection by means of judo, boxing, wrestling, and other police-protection methods.

The salary during training is $525 per month. Room and board while at the academy will cost the cadet approximately $50 per month.

Benefits

Upon being commissioned a patrolman, the salary is automatically raised to $630 per month. Effective September 1, 1970 the salary will increase to $651 per month. Patrolmen receive additional longevity pay for each five years of service to a maximum of 25 years. Uniforms, vehicles, weapons, ammunition and necessary equipment are furnished. They are also granted a monthly uniform cleaning allowance, and receive travel expenses when away from their assigned station. Group life and hospitalization insurance are available at reasonable cost. The patrolmen become members of the Texas Employees Retirement System and the Social Security System. Vacation, holidays, and sick leave are also provided for the patrolmen.

Assignment

Assignments will be made to one of the four uniform services—Texas Highway Patrol, License and Weight Service, Motor Vehicle Inspection Service, or the Driver License Service. These assignments are made according to the individual's preference, his aptitude, available vacancies, and the Department's needs. Requests for a specific home station will be given every consideration.

After two years of experience each patrolman is eligible for promotion to Sergeant in the form services and also eligible to transfer into the Narcotics Intelligence Sections.

All interested young men feel like they meet these requirements are urged to contact nearest Texas Department of Public Safety office or patrolman an application and details.

Mrs. Hutcherson Gives Review For 1913 Study Club

Mrs. Edwin Hutcherson gave a most entertaining review of the book, "Gee Whiz! I'm Getting Old" by Agnes Durant Pyland, before members of the 1913 Study Club Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 21. The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. M. G. Tarver.

Mrs. Hutcherson, who presented the review in the first person as the book was written, captured her audience with humorous passages from the book, interspersed with facts facing a person who has reached her 60th birthday.

Preceding the review, Mrs. Sherron Lee, program chairman, gave the meditation entitled "Life Begins at 70."

Mrs. Bray Cook, president, presided during the business session and report of counselors.

During the social hour, tasty refreshments were served to the following members: Meses. Byron Baldwin, Virginia Browder, Herschel Combs, Bray Cook, George Ferris, F. W. Foxhall, Gayle Greene, R. S. Greene, T. M. Harrison, Edwin Hutcherson, D. L. C. Kinard, Sherron Lee, M. G. Tarver, and Miss Neville Wrenn.

Memories of two pioneer families have been brought to us in the past several days, in the passing away of the elder sons. Earl Bradley of Dahart passed away at the age of 77. His family was living here in Memphis when we were in 1907. J. E. Bradley, father of Earl, was one of the city aldermen after the town was incorporated. I think he was a charter member of the First Baptist Church and some time he was county judge and active in school one time and active in school in this area. The Bradleys operated the first dairy in Memphis and several school boys worked for them before and after school, as they started milking at 4 a. m. each day. I remember Earl came home after graduation from A&M. He and his brother built the new dairy house with all new equipment for feeding and electric milkers. This was when Mrs. E. C. Rice was now. This and our brick yard were two tourist attractions if there had been tourists. But any time there were a lot of visitors these cows milked by electric milkers. I think there were a lot of cows that did not yield their sign out, "The skin love to touch". The Bradleys here over 40 years ago after leaving their dairy, and I have told them were milking about cows about that time. According to the Amarillo Daily News, it was tax assessor and collector for about 40 years. Survivors were his wife, the former Mrs. Hill; George, a brother of Earl; three sisters, Mrs. O. Smith and Mrs. Bessie Sims of Amarillo and Eva Holladay of Clarendon. We should have the story in Heritage Hall in memory of this pioneer family. The other family of pioneers brought to our attention the past days was the A. L. Thrasher family, as noticed Bert Lee Thrasher passed away at the age of 77. He was the oldest son of L. Thrasher, a hard working man who tried to carry his part of the community load. We have cornerstone of the first brick building for school and Mr. Thrasher was one of the trustees on this stone. Mr. Thrasher operated a blacksmith shop on the corner of 7th and Main where Creed's store is now located in the Potts Building. You could hear him hammering on that anvil all over town, both early and late. The First Baptist Church of Memphis was organized in the blacksmith shop and Mr. Thrasher was a charter member. The Thrasher home used to be where Doc Saye is now living. I think Bert and Earl must have graduated in the same class as note their age was about the same. After finishing school, Bert was employed by the Southern Pacific Railroad and continued with them in Houston until he retired. Bert's brother, Albert, and sister, Ina Mae, worked for the railroad company many years, also. Ina Mae passed away several years ago. Albert is now living in Houston and one sister survives. His wife survives, who was the former Era Johnson of Hedley. Bert was born in Clovis, N. M., where his daughter and two grandchildren live. We also need something from this family for Heritage Hall.

Wendell Harrison and Olton Pate may still have their heads in the air as one day last week they were flying high and fast to Kansas City and back in one day in time to get the 10 p. m. Texas news. I think it took two kinds of "green" to get all this done in one day.

When I was a small boy, we used to buy a box called Cracker Jack and in each package there was a surprise gift when you opened it up and all of this for 5c. What a thrill to get this prize! I had been thinking that the days of surprises were over on anything, but one morning last week I opened a jar of coffee and it was running over and I thought that a surprise as too many times we open up a package that has the new weight on the outside of the box and it is about 1/4 down in the package before the new weight starts. Seems like a lot of cardboard wasted to put the small new weight in. It makes a nice display.

Of all the books in the Bible, I have studied or rather read, one of them that most appeals to me is the book of James. I think James was, or rather I would picture him as one of us just ordinary men, along with his Christianity, a man of common sense. He has a lot to say about loose tongues and putting a bridle on the tongue. In looking back over the past several months, the bridles for human tongues went out with the horse and buggy or else we had the wrong kind of bits on the bridle.

We do not have riots and uprisings in our government and schools, but it has been a day of a lot of loose tongues. Quote from James, "Where jealousy and selfish ambitions exist there will be disorder and every vile practice." It may be time to get back to the horse and buggy days and bridle our tongues with the right kind of bits.

I have been having some suggestions on how to treat "Arthur-write-us" lately and have not been able to get around to all of them, have not tried the alfalfa stew or soup. Have not used the copper bracelet and have tried to borrow the one buckeye in town to carry in my pocket to try it out, but Clyde Smith says, "I might have a customer any time now and I would not want to lift anything without having it in my pocket."

Had a letter from an aunt in Lamesa (who is now 95 years old). She gave me her recipe or prescription she used several years ago and it sounds good like it would taste good and that is one thing I have left that is good, my taste buds. Says she is bothered a little now with this trouble but it might be her age.

Getting back to tongues, sometimes and places we can be too tight with our tongue. I was setting on the east end of a long bench in the drug store with Gayle Greene sitting next to me and in place of him using his tongue and asking me to let him out, he slid the whole length of 15 ft. or more around that bench to get out. I was afraid there might be a rough place on the bench or his pants but there wasn't, he made it. I know he had told some people this sliding on slides would sure wear out the seat of your pants, but I think Gayle has an extra pair of pants.

I heard of, I guess, one of the earliest day automatic cotton pickers before the bolly slide came in.

This man told this for the truth—said he and some more men were driving a bunch of cattle through Quail community and they went down by the creek where they went through a bunch of cuckoo burrs. Where they came out, the cattle went through a man's cotton patch. With these cows switching their tails they picked half this man's crop with cuckoo burr tails. ("Detergent", the tailor, was author of this.)

He did not finish this story, but I guess they carried the cows to the gin and put the cuckoo-burr tails in the suction to get this cotton.

Garland Gardenhire brought in to Heritage Hall last week two very interesting pictures. The larger one shows Panama City and Balboa, and it is the overall picture of the entrance to the Canal and Panama Bay in 1927. The other picture shows the boats entering the locks from Panama Bay, about the time these pictures were made. Garland served in Coast Artillery. He saw the "Saritoga" and "Lexington" go through on their maiden voyages.

Jack I. Davis brought one 1920 Schaeffer desk set, still writes, also one 1930 cigarette lighter with watch on one side, and the watch is still percolating. Then

Then he presented to Heritage Hall a large size $10.00 bill signed by D. Browder, president, and Scott Montgomery, cashier. It was a 1902 issue. I believe that was just 4 years after the bank was organized. The bill did not show much use. We have these things under glass on display. Thanks to Jack for these items. Someone made the remark about the ten dollar bill being smaller now and we said they are a lot smaller when you spend them.
