Coach Clyde McMurray Says—

Mental Attitude is Key To Whole Program In Athletic Competition

By BILL COMBS
(Editor's Note: Within the past few weeks, Memphis Football Coach Clyde McMurray has spoken to local civic clubs concerning his philosophy of an athletic program and the development of a winning spirit. This editor interviewed the new coach of The Cyclone, asking some of the questions he answered during his appearances before the clubs.)

Editor—Coach, what type of an athlete do you think it takes to build a winning team?

Coach McMurray — Well, Bill, Bud Wilkinson says there are three types of football players: No. 1, those that play because their parents push them to; No. 2, those that play because of their girl friend or the clique they're in, or 3, those that have a burning desire to be a success in life, that play because they really want to.

We can help the third category (Continued on Page 10)

70 Census Is Making Final 'Missed' Check

One of the final steps in the '70 census in rural and small areas of the Southern States, check by mailmen, is now underway, according to the U. S. Department of Commerce's Bureau of the Census.

The '70 census was taken by two methods: by mail-out and mail-back of questionnaires in most major metropolitan areas and by census takers in the rest of the United States. The latter procedure entailed the mailing out of questionnaires and subsequent visits by census takers who would pick up filled-in forms or, lacking that, interview families while following a house-to-house route, it was explained.

Canvassing in the metropolitan areas required checking of addresses by postal employees before the mailout. A similar step now being taken by mailmen following the visits by census takers.

This is the procedure: When census district offices complete their preliminary counts, they turned over to the post office a set of white cards listing every address canvassed. The mailmen, in turn, check these addresses against the households on their routes. If the mailman discovers that he considers a "missed" address, he fills out a blue card noting this fact. The blue cards are referred to the Census Bureau, which will check them against the census records.

Cherri Rapp Is Trying Out For U. S. Women's National Basketball Team

WOOSTER, Ohio.—Miss Cherri Rapp, a standout women's basketball player at Wayland College, is trying out for the U. S. Women's National Basketball Team at the training camp at The College of Wooster in Wooster, Ohio.

Cherri, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Rapp of Estelline, was a member of the national team that toured Central and South America last year. The 5-11 forward would like to make the trip again this year.

Miss Rapp has been playing basketball since she was in seventh grade. "We had a team and I just wanted to play," is the way Cherri describes her early involvement with the sport.

Cherri joined the Hutcherson Flying Queens from Wayland College. She's a deadly shot who averages 15 points a game. She is also respected for her rebounding.

One goal Cherri set for herself when she started playing at Wayland was to win the national tournament. The goal was conquered in 1969 when the Flying Queens walked off with the championship trophy.

Because of her performance in the national tournament, she was invited to last year's training camp. On the tour last year she said she performed better than she expected.

"I improved a great deal during the training camp," she recalled. "There was so much to learn about international rules."

Cherri was considered one of the best shooters on last year's national team. That compliment does not satisfy her.

"I know I have to improve my game under the basket," she said. "There are a lot of good players here. If I try hard enough, I believe I can make the team again this year."

Neighborhood centers will be designated in each county where low income individuals can receive medical examinations and vouchers with which to purchase food.

A similar emergency food and medical service grant has been made to the Central Plains Community Action Agency in Plainview. The $15,000 grant is for a 22 month program serving 500 persons through one neighborhood center in Hale County.

Hunger Is World's Second Biggest Problem!

First of all, the greatest danger to mankind and the world is the danger of a world-wide nuclear conflict which could all but destroy life as we know it today on this planet.

But the second biggest problem is hunger. Approximately half of the world's 3.5 billion people suffer from malnutrition. The World Food Congress in 1963 was told that around 10,000 persons die every day from starvation and present predictions are that hunger will grow more and more intense with the passage of time.

The world's population increase is zooming along at almost 60 million souls per year. The population of the world reached the first billion by 1830, took only 100 years to reach 2 billion and only 30 more years, 1930 to 1960, to reach 3 billion. It is expected to pass 6 billion people by the turn of the century, only 30 years away.

Almost every country in the world is searching, some desperately, for ways to increase agricultural production to feed its hungry people.

The problem of hunger and starvation is so important that they will never be peace and harmony among mankind so long as physical needs are ignored. The most noble service one man can do for another is to serve his needs, by providing the necessities of life.

Here in the United States, where agriculture is using only about four-fifths of its productive capacity, consumers are enjoying the most sumptuous and varied diets in the history of the world. So it is not surprising that the urban population of this country scoffs at the possibility that the U. S. may not be immune to the problem of hunger.

Efforts have been made in past years to discourage agriculture in this country, drive the "inefficient" farmers from the land, suppress agriculture markets, open import gates, scoff at the id eathat how agriculture goes so goes the nation, economy wise.

This movement to discourage agriculture by failing to reward producers with fair prices may catch up with this nation sooner than some may think. How many years has it been that disaster prices on the farm have been emptying houses by the dozens in every rural county of the nation? The manipulators of agriculture markets suggest that all those who were beaten out were "bad managers", or "inefficient". They are unwilling to understand what is bad for one segment of the economy is bad for the whole economy.

Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., points out that the U. S. population is growing by leaps and bounds along with the rest of the world. The population in the U. S. increased from 13 million in 1830 to 123 million in 1930 and 179 million in 1960. It is now something over 200 million and expected to reach 300 million by 1990.

This means that the U. S. farmer in 1990 will be called upon to produce food and fiber for almost three people where he now produces for two and he will have to do it on considerably less land than is now available for cultivation.

Roads, cities and other non-farm uses for land are on the increase, eating up millions of acres of productive land each year. From 1944 to 1964 harvest cropland in the U. S. declined by 66 million acres.

Then, there must be people in the U. S. with the know-how and the incentive to feed and clothe the nation from the farm. Farmers can only continue to produce food and fiber above their own needs so long as they have a means to recoup production costs and realize a return on capital investments in land and equipment," Johnson says.

Ask a young man today why he isn't farming and he'll answer, "Too much risk, too much investment and too little profit. Where will our next generation of farmers come from? We're afraid the old song, "How You Goin' a Keep 'um Down on Th' Farm" may become a national concern in future years.

"Fortunately for agriculture, the consumers and for the Nation, Congress has devised and enacted a series of programs to supplement farm income from public funds," Johnson said, "and for this reason alone U. S. agriculture and the U. S. diet is the envy of the world."

Now, however, there is a great danger that an urban-minded Congress either this year or sometime in the near future may kill this production incentive for farmers before a replacement has been found. "And when that happens, if it happens, it is not inconceivable that the population of the U. S. could feel the hunger pangs so well known to the people of so many other countries of the world," Johnson stated.

Have you ever stopped to think what would happen in this nation if all farmers converted their holdings into capital and invested in securities? They would make twice the profit they are making now, save tremendous amounts in taxation, and not have to work at all. The result would be a crumbling, starving, pitiful nation.

As long as this nation's agriculture is strong in production, this nation will be strong and always will be the envy of the world.

What Other Editors Say

On a clear day . . .

On a clear day you may be able to see forever, but appearances can be deceiving. Writing in the publication "Analytical Chemistry," two chemists from the University of Maryland describe what they found in the air on a clear day in Boston.

Using a new approach to pollution measurement called "instrumental neutron activation analysis," the two researchers found that a sample of fresh, clean spring air contained 25 identifiable chemical elements. They found vanadium, an element that reacts with a common pollutant, sulphur dioxide, to form substances which have been shown in animal experiments to be particularly lethal.

There were aluminum, chlorine, bromine, iron and zinc. There were also a few with more exotic names like ytterbium, cerium, hafnium and thurium. Though some of these are harmless, the toxicity of others is under question.

The Eyes of Texas
Sid McCubbins of Oklahoma City is on a project I've been interested in for some time, namely that Texas derived its name from the Indians who lived in the Palo Duro Canyon south of Claude. The name has been credited to Indians in East Texas.

Sid mailed me a copy of a letter he recently wrote to Roy Sylvan Dunn, director of the Southwest Collection at Texas Tech in Lubbock. I found it interesting. He wrote:

I was quite pleased to have your letter of May 21st. Sometimes text books can be wrong or only partially right. When one reads Castaneda's account of Coronado's trek across the Texas Panhandle, there can be little doubt as to the route taken or the distance traveled. He describes the Tule and the Palo Duro Canyons and the terrain before there.

Bolton, after much research, gives the direction Coronado traveled on leaving the Palo Duro after sending his main contingent back to New Mexico.

Castaneda states that the Spaniards called the Indians "Teyas" because they used the word as a friendly greeting. This was many years before other Spaniards applied the name "Tejas" to Indians they encountered between the Trinity and Red Rivers further down in Texas.

I am no historian and of course do not have access to the information you and Mr. Fauly have. But it seems to me that either or both of you might just be able to establish that Texas did derive its name as a result of Coronado's visit in the two canyons. If so it should be favorable to Texas Panhandle history.

Noah and his Ark

I await with deep interest the findings of an expedition of scientists who are returning to what the ybelieve may be therest-land of Noah's Ark.

Embedded in glacial ice 14,000 feet up the side of a high mountain in eastern Turkey is a large mass of hand-hewn timbers. In prior explorations these scientists pointed out the following:
—The site is Mount Ararat, specifically identified in Genesis 8:4 as the place where Noah's Ark came to rest as the waters of the great flood began to subside.
—The wood has been identified as white oak, and no white oak trees grow within 300 miles of the mountain.

—Scientists at the University of Bordeaux in France and Madrid Institute of Forestry in Spain have concluded from the amount of lignite, the degree of petrification, and the cell structure of the wood that is must be about 5,000 years old.

—Chemical tests have yielded evidence that some of the wood had been water-proofed with bituminous pitch.

Following clues given in ancient references, explorer Ferdinand Navarra in 1955 discovered a mass of wood embedded in a glacial ice pack at 14,000 foot level of Mount Ararat. He estimated at least 50 tons of wood were visible through the ice. It appeared to be organized in a bow shaped structure, and included hand-hewn timbers 150 to 200 feet in length.

If this proves to be Noah's Ark it will destroy the faith of millions of atheists.

Tax Man Sam Sez—

Millions of wage and salary earners will receive a small increase in take-home pay effective July 1. Your employer will reduce the amount of income tax withheld from your pay on July 1. The 1969 Tax Reform Act dropped the tax surcharge which has been 5 percent from January 1, 1970 through June 30, 1970, and each of your exemptions will increase from $600 to $650 effective July 1. You won't feel like you have quit paying income tax, but every little bit helps.

The History Of Treatment Of Burns Is Full Of Varied Methods Of Cure

(Editor's Note: Mr. and Mrs. Matt Ward of Tyler, were here visiting relatives recently. He is the father of Mrs. Billy Thompson, and a member of the Board of Governors of the Galveston Burns Institute. He gave this newspaper, along with John R. Collard, Jr., of Amarillo an article entitled, "The Burn Story," which is of interest concerning the history of treatment of burns.)

THE BURN STORY

A fire rages . . . a child screams . . . tragedy strikes . . . and the child, the parents, and the community are left to cope with the most devastating injury known to man—the burn!

Since the dawn of history man has valiantly tried to cope with the burn problem. Some of his efforts have been remarkably colorful in their variety, but, very limited in progress. Hippocrates, the father of medicine, prescribed the following: "Melt swine Seam (fat) . . . mix with resin and bitumen . . . spread on a piece of cloth . . . warm at a fire, apply with a bandage to burn."

The Greeks and Romans thought that wounds healed better when the raw area was fed by applying food. This notion set the pattern for burn care for centuries afterwards.

Even the Renaissance physician Paracelsus, had not strayed from ancient tradition. He added some lurid touches of his own in his formula for a burn salve which consisted of: ". . . the fat of old wild hogs and bears heated 1 hour in red wine, wrapped in cold water, skimmed and the fat rubbed up with roasted angle worms, and moss from the skull of a person hung, scraped off during the increase of the moon, to which were added bloodstone, the dried brain of the wild hog, red sandelwood, and a portion of a genuine mummy."

Through the ages, the care of the burn wound has been the subject of a great deal of controversy and debate. For centuries there have been those who endorsed the application of heat-oven fire to the wound to alleviate the pain while others, such as the famous 9th and 10th Century Arab physicians, Avicenna and Rhazes, strongly favored the application on refrigerants to the burn.

Perhaps the greatest controversy has surrounded the issue of covering the burn wound. It is better to treat a burn with the "open method," (leaving the wound exposed to the air) or with the "closed method" (covering the wound with an occlusive dressing)? The debate has been endless.

Indeed, the burned patient and his wounds has been subjected to every kind of treatment from bloodletting, and purging to exotic salves, from benign oils and waxes, to poisonous (and often deadly) chemicals. In fact, there have been as many patients lost from the cure as lost from the injury.

However, even from the chaos that resulted from all the confusion, some sparks of knowledge were ignited, grew, and warmed into a new illumination of the burn problem.

In 1831, a slow but significant change in burn therapy began when it was noticed that burns and cholera had something in common, a severe loss of vital body fluids.

By 1900, the need for fluid replacement therapy was becoming clear to a growing number of physicians.

With better technology, the scientists are better able to evaluate the extensive destruction caused by a severe burn.

As has been stated, the burn is the most devastating injury known to man. It not only destroys the skin, which is a vital organ in protecting us from the deadly bacteria, but also involves every major organ of the body. The total effects of a large burn can be and usually are overwhelming.

Today there are approximately 2,000,000 burn accidents reported annually. Of these approximately one-half are children. These are truly staggering statistics. It should become clear that this nation must not only face a problem that is almost impossible in its complexity and severity, but also that is staggering in the sheer occurrence of number.

The erratic, catch-as-catch-can trial and error, old-wives-tales, or intuitive methods of the past are not adequate to support the burgeoning weight of today's burn problems.

Fortunately, for the first time in history of burns, there is a new awareness of the necessity for a total approach to burn therapy. In the presence of the Shriners Burns Institute, the nation now has such an approach.

The disciplines of medicine, research, and education have been gathered together under one roof, to combine their knowledge to investigate, to evaluate, and to cure, and to rehabilitate burned patients.

It seems rational to assume that from such an organized and systematic approach by such a diversified and talented group of specialists, that this nation may be on the threshold of overcoming one of the oldest enemies of man and man's children . . . the fire.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Newton of Brownwood, cousins of Mrs. H. W. Spear of Lakeview, stopped here for a visit on route to Denver, Colo., for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Stilwell visited in Big Spring over the weekend with their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Johnson and Teresa.

Mr. and Mrs. Tinsley E. Mullins of Hedley are the parents of a son born June 18. He has been named Steven Dale and weighed 5 pounds, 14 ounces.

Mr. and Mrs. Lowell F. Keeton announce the arrival of a daughter, Ella Mae, on June 20. She weighed 6 pounds, 6 ounces.

Mr. and Mrs. Rex Allen Row announce the birth of a son on June 22. Weighing 7 pounds, 1 ounce, he has been named Chad Maurice.

What's right about America?

Today, the surest means of a book becoming a best seller is for the author to highlight and denounce bitterly the faults of this country. The same can be said of television and the movies, which prefer in these modern days to depict the seamier side of life in America.

But there's hope. As I have sensed that our people are growing weary of gloom. It's becoming easier to strike up a conversation on what's right about America.

I always suggest that there are a lot more level heads in this country than we are sometimes led to believe. There are a lot more decent, law-abiding citizens than there are criminals and cheats and sharks. There are a lot more young people in the "now" generation who want to improve America than the handful of radicals who want to burn it to ashes and start all over.

I can understand why the "majority" has broken its "silence." There's a growing impatience with agitation and controversy. But I feel we should continue to approach our nation's problems with a cool head and an open mind. I've listened to the voices of dissent. I think I know what they're asking of their government.

One thing they want is confidence. They want the assurance that their public officials have the courage to meet the issues of the 1970s with imagination and integrity, and not with some form of "old politics" that thrashes around with problems but never quite locates the workable solutions. It was my desire to answer this urgent need that prompted me in January to seek the office of United States Senator.

Conservation, Gardening Is Leaflet Subject

Gardening and conservation is the subject of a new USDA leaflet written by the Soil Conservation Service.

District Conservationist Henry D. Gregory of the Memphis SCS office, said the eight-fold leaflet, titled "Gardening on the Contour," outlines ways to control erosion in a backyard garden. It tells, for example, how rows can be laid out on the contour using a carpenter's level mounted on a 12 by 4. The leaflet also explains how rainwater which drains from a neighbor's property might be diverted away from your garden.

"Some of our gardeners in the Hall County area are excellent conservationists," Gregory said. "Many use mulches on the soil surface to help reduce erosion and to improve soil fertility similar to the way conservation farmers use crop residue. A few local gardeners compost their grass clippings and tree leaves for this purpose. Others use hay, straw, cottonseed hulls or peat moss. Preventing erosion in a garden is just as important to a gardener as it is to any other land user." Leaflets are available free at his office in Memphis.

YOUR COUNTY AGENT SAYS

Restrictions Have Been Placed on Some Insecticides Used on Vegetable Gardens

Most home gardens are off to a good start and many are already supplying plentiful amounts of wholesome vegetables. But, advises County Agent W. B. Hooser, if production is to be maintained, insect control measures may be necessary.

He reminds home gardeners that not all insecticides are recommended for use on home gardens and the importance of using only acceptable insecticides. Poor insect control may result from the use of the wrong insecticide and perhaps a bigger problem could come from residues on the treated vegetables.

Restrictions have been placed on the use of some insecticides when applied to edible crops. Observation of these restrictions will protect consumers from harmful residues.

The county agent noted that he has available from his office information on both insects and their control and invites persons interested in obtaining it to call or come by his office located in the courthouse.

He suggests that gardens be checked frequently for signs of insects or infestations, and if they are found that control measures be applied before the situation gets out of hand.

Most people are poor guessers—and those who insist on guessing on horse races usually are poor people.

Planet Jupiter Could Be Laboratory For Prebiological Organic Chemistry

The planet Jupiter is composed primarily of hydrogen and helium and is thus very much like a star in its chemical composition; in particular, very similar to our special star, the sun.

According to Dr. Tobias Owen of the Illinois Institute of Technology in Chicago, this giant planet in its present state of development may be a type of solar fossil retaining the relative abundance of chemical elements in its make-up that existed in the primordial nebula from which our solar system was formed.

This possibility has interest beyond its cosmological significance from the standpoint of theories of the origin and evolution of life.

It is commonly agreed, writes Dr. Owen in "Science," that life originated on the earth under conditions very different from those we know today. The primitive atmosphere of the earth may have been composed mainly of methane and ammonia gases that are known to exist on Jupiter.

Experiments in which electrical sparks are sent through mixtures of methane, ammonia, and water vapor (and it is now virtually certain that there is water on Jupiter) have led to the formation of complex organic compounds that are considered essential precursors to the development of life.

Jupiter, says Dr. Owen, may be offering science a giant natural laboratory in which these prebiological organic chemistry experiments are spontaneously going on, again and again.

Reach Outward

"And we exhort you, brethren, admonish the idle, encourage the faint-hearted help the weak, be patient with them all."
—Thessalonians 5:14

There is joy in a life that is not selfish. Too often, we are indifferent, self-centered. Pain and sorrow are personal things, else they are ignored. We have no understanding, no sympathy, for the problems or sufferings of our fellow man.

Be of help, and your life will be enriched. Reach outward, in some way, to help the idle, to encourage the faint-hearted and the weak.

It can be lonely when one lives in a private world.

All visitors are invited to attend and work with the group to shed those ugly pounds and inches, the reporter stated.

YOUR COUNTY AGENT SAYS

Safety Emblem For Slow Moving Vehicles Is Being Used Nation-Wide

If you see a triangle of fluorescent orange and reflective red ahead on the highway, it means slow down and drive carefully. It's a Slow Moving Vehicle emblem and was placed on the machine as a warning to motorists to slow down, points out County Agent W. B. Hooser.

The emblem was developed by agricultural engineers to warn drivers when they are approaching a slow-moving vehicle. The emblem can be seen and recognized up to 500 feet away at any time of the day and under almost all driving conditions.

Many accidents are caused simply because the motorist often does not realize that the object ahead is moving so slowly until it is too late to avoid a collision, explains the county agent. If the emblem is in place, and is duly noted, there is time to slow down or even stop, Hooser says.

The center of the emblem is fluorescent yellow-orange, the most visible color in daylight, and the outside border is reflective to show us at night. The emblem is intended for use on vehicles designed to travel 25 mph or less and can be easily mounted on most farm equipment.

It's inexpensive, durable and movable and doesn't interfere with the machine or its operator.

Hall County farmers who must move farm equipment and machinery on highways should attach the SMV emblem on the back of the tractor or implement being moved. The emblem is being used nationwide and motorists should be familiar with it. Its use is cheap insurance against rear end collisions, believes the county agent.

Aphids Literally Suck Plants To Death

Aphids, commonly known as plant lice, not only cause damage to many important crops but they find roses and many other ornamental plants to their liking. When large numbers feed on such a plant, they can mar its beauty, prevent growth and cause its death.

Aphids, says County Agent W. B. Hooser, are soft-bodied, ear-shaped insects and are usually 1/25 to 1/8 inch long. They vary

Notre Dame Biologists Discover Control For Mosquito Population

A team of University of Notre Dame biologists may have pointed the way to a revolutionary new control of insect populations.

Dr. Morton S. Fuchs and his colleagues have isolated a compound which reduces by at least 50 percent the number of eggs a female mosquito will lay. A purified concentrated dose of the substance, they believe, will inhibit egg laying almost completely.

The egg-inhibiting compound was a spin-off from basic research into the general chemistry of mating and reproduction in mosquitoes.

The faithful female mosquito will mate only once in her life, the biologists explained, and soon afterwards deposits a large mound of eggs — far larger than she has ever deposited before mating.

The key to her fidelity appears to be a complex protein called matrone. It is found in the semen of male mosquitoes, and the Notre Dame group have demonstrated conclusively that females injected

B. B. Shots

By BYRON BALDWIN

Since our "Shots" of last week, found out Dr. Odom has bounced back into the hospital but he will soon bounce out. It is to me that he was up at 10 o'clock in the morning and ran over his record player and dropped it and the records. It was four o'clock in the morning and in contact with the player, he must have been in a hurry looking for that record, "Three O'clock in the Morning".

Marvin Smith of Houston, son of Brown Smith, was visiting in Heritage Hall and said he was surprised in the showing for so short a time. Marvin's wife is former Billie Jean Stroehle, daughter of the late Reba Stroehle. They have been living in Houston the past 10 years. Marvin graduated from MHS in 1948 and is now teaching in the University of Houston. His brother, Truman, graduated in 1957 from MHS and has lived in Brazil, York and is now living in Angelo.

Well Noel, former resident of Houston, was on a trip to the Asian countries and was pretty sick, flown back to the states and died in a hospital in Dallas about a month. His sister, Mrs. Mack, says he is gradually getting better. I still don't know whether he got the bug or the bug got him.

Letter and package for Heritage Hall last Monday from Mrs. Berne Frances Milam Toner, is the daughter of the late Clyde Milam and Katherine Stokes Milam and sister of Betty Jean Neal. Included in the package for a painting she did for the late aunt Maud Milam for her birthday, March 1, 1969. This picture includes the longhorns, also location of the Milam ranches with dates, their cattle brands and ear marks. It shows they first registered their brands in Hall County in 1893 and Collingsworth County in 1898. The hand painted picture is touched up with the "Texas Blue Bonnets" and makes it very outstanding. The first Milam to enter Texas was in 1818, Benjiman Rush Milam trading with the Texas Comanche Indians as Colonel of Lang Trespacios Expedition in 1820, Texas colonizer 1826-1835 and first navigation of the Upper Red River in 1831.

We had a good "Father's Day" weekend as both boys were here and enjoyed seeing them eat some of the things that I had to go light on, but that is the difference in ages.

Betty Callahan Brown brought in the following items for Heritage Hall, John McMickin's railroad agent's cap, picture of John on his 50th anniversary with the F.W.&D.C. railroads, picture of the old R.R. station, picture of John McMickin's house of Main and 13th, picture of the J. F. Bradley home east of the railroad with the surrey with fringe on top and first milk wagon, Mr. and Mrs. Bradley sitting on the front porch and the girls in the surrey. There is a picture of a couple of sportsmen in a buggy with their shotguns. This picture was made in front of the Donley County courthouse, and one picture of A. G. Powell, early day merchant of Hall County.

Short note from Byran Powell that he was sending the cast iron waffle irons. Byron says he left here by rail side-depi pullman in 1912. He served a number of years as a forest ranger and is now retired in California.

Among those visiting Heritage Hall past Friday was Gladys Mixon Turner of Sacramento, Calif., daughter of the late C. L. Mixon and Mrs. Mixon of Clarendon. They were long-time residents of Hall County. C. L. liked ball games, liked to fish and work. In fact, this family believed if you are you need to work. Gladys brought down three things that her daddy requested before his death be brought to Heritage Hall: a chair (1913) kodak (1911) and picture of a car wreck at Giles in 1920.

Joyce Shield Knight of Spearman brought in a good collection of items of early days. Her grandfather, M. O. Summerville, and his brother, John, operated a blacksmith shop in Lakeview about 1911, both are now deceased. Joyce's mother was the former Mammie Summerville, some of you may remember that Mamie Shield Knight was a seamstress in Lakeview. Joyce says she still remembers the lesson taught her in

S. S. by her teacher, the late Pearl (Mrs. D. H.) Davenport, and also remembered one of her school teachers who is now living in Amarillo Elva Davenport. Included in the items she brought in was a picture of the late Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Goodpasture. M. O. married her mother and father, Jimmie Lee Shield Knight lives in Spearman.

Mrs. A. B. Jones loaned us two of the pictures she had of the last public hanging in the Panhandle of Texas, which was in the year of 1910. It is a very sad picture to see upholding the law in the manner. This man was tried and convicted of murder of two or more men on the railroad. Some people have told me that 3500 to 5,000 people out of town camped out around Clarendon to see this hanging.

Mr. and Mrs. Matt Ward of Tyler visiting in Heritage Hall. Matt's wife, Edith, was an Oklahoma girl and said Matt sure ran into a lot of old girl sweethearts around here. Matt discovered one of the bodies of one of the men that was murdered by the man who was hanged.

Said it was about 4:30 a. m. when he went to see about the cows and discovered the body north end of the railroad bridge over Red River where he had been shoved out of the box car. He and Roy Ewing rode the train to Clarendon to see the excitement and then the man dropped through the floor of the scaffold they saw Dr. V. V. Clark of Esteline checking his heart to pronounce the verdict of death by hanging. Matt graduated at Lakeview High School in 1918, attended school two years in Canyon and graduated from Pharmacy school at Weatherford, Okla., in 1922. It was not a very long course of study at that time. Matt was one of the larger producers of peaches around Pittsburg, Texas, for the large chain stores. He has now retired and is consultant to the orchard people of the care of their trees. He will also be remembered as one of the first car race drivers down at the Fair grounds, driving that Esie 40 miles an hour everyone thought he would only live a short time at that rate of speed.

Donors to Heritage Hall the past week were Mrs. V. V. Clark and Mrs. Chas. Read of Lubbock in memory of Lynn Langford, daughter of Mrs. J. N. Helm, Sr. Thanks to you both, Mr. and Mrs. Matt Ward were donors to Heritage Hall and both thought we had grown a lot since they had last seen it.

I had a belated birthday card from Diane Hunt, said they were doing fine and would see their friends here in July on their way to Dallas markets.

Bull Elk Horns, the Elk shot by Teddy Roosevelt Oct. 2, 1903, in Wyoming, later given to his friend, Dr. Burch of Rhome, Tex. Years later the Burch family gave them to the W. R. Land family of Rhome and Fort Worth. He is the grandson of the late R. D. Land, a pioneer family of Hall County. The weight of this Elk was 2,465 pounds. Loaned us by Homer Tribble.

Items sent to Heritage Hall from Alice Gist Dunaway of Amarillo were Normandy Lace Pillow hand embroidered lunch cloth, kodak and a group of early day photographs. Thanks, Alice.

Minnie Kinslow brought in some large plate glass cylinders, an early day hat rack and also hand made items by her daughter, Helen. Minnie has been a lot of help to us in every way for Heritage Hall.

Visiting in Heritage Hall the past Saturday was Faye Carolyn Patrick Robertson of Beaumont. Carolyn graduated from Memphis High in 1948. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Shirey Patrick, married Gene Robertson and they have two children, boy Kelley age 19 and girl Renee age 20. It seems to me that Carolyn should be only 10 or 12 years old. She liked Heritage Hall very much. Others in Heritage Hall Saturday was Mr. and Mrs. W. E. (Floyd) Nichols of Needland which is near Beaumont. Floyd graduated from MHS in 1934 Class. He is the son of Mrs. J. W. Nichols of Memphis. Floyd married a Panola County girl and they have one boy 22 and one girl 17. His sister, Mildred, lives in Amarillo.

Peggy Moreman and Kathryn Jones had a race for several months to see which one would be married to a grandpa first. Well, Peggy won the race with a granddaughter June 11. The old bird finally found the right place and left a grandson to Mr. and Mrs. Larry Helm, father's day at 3 a. m. I thought for a while Kathryn would win as Hubert was so pale around the gills. Others have lived through it.

Life will be a lot happier for you if you use the advice you have been giving your friends.

Male Telephone Operators Are Working For GTC

SAN ANGELO — If a man answers, don't hang up!

This is the advice that General Telephone Company of the Southwest gives some of its phone users who may be startled to hear a masculine voice intone "Operator — may I help you?" when they start to make a long distance call.

"Nothing's amiss," says Traffic Director L. L. Porter. "You're simply talking to a male telephone operator."

American women have reigned over telephone company switchboards for decades. When people think of a "telephone operator" they envision a girl plugging cords into sockets and wearing earphones.

But now, small squads of bright young men are entering this traditionally all-female preserve — much to the surprise of many telephone customers. The largest contingent in the General System, numbering 81, works at long distance and directory assistance positions in four suburban Los Angeles offices of General Telephone of California; however, General Telephone of the Southwest and four other General System companies employ a total of 45 others.

Nearly all of the 126 General System male operators are college students who wanted jobs with hours that could be arranged around class schedules. They work full, partial, and split shifts and accept duty on weekends and holidays. Many work nights, often at remote locations.

Generally men leave the company when they complete college. But one former operator, Michael Jury, accepted a management post with General of the Southwest as assistant traffic supervisor at Sherman, Texas, after he was graduated in June of last year. He had worked for the company while attending North Texas State University at Denton.

"Our experience with men operators in the Southwest company has been excellent," Porter said. "They learn very quickly and work well with the girl operators and with their supervisors."

When young men and women work side by side, some "fringe" benefits frequently result. For example:

"We notice many of the girls are dressing more stylishly, now that some personable, good-looking young men are working among them," said Mrs. Marchalnell Stinnett, chief operator in the Lexington office of General Telephone of Kentucky. Her company has 24 male operators.

LOCALS

Those visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Crisler over the weekend were F. C. (Doc) Rasco of Odessa; F. H. Rasco, Mrs. V. J. Jones, Mrs. John Yarbrough and Mrs. R. L. Green and daughter, all of Abilene; Mr. and Mrs. Gus Rasco, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Rasco and daughter, Tiffany, Mr. and Mrs. Firman Willamson and daughter, Lisa, of Amarillo. They were here for the 50th wedding anniversary celebration of their brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Rasco.

Traffic Accidents Cost Texans Over 38 Million Dollars

AUSTIN — Traffic accidents cost Texans nearly $38 million during April, according to the Texas Safety Association.

The total cost of traffic accidents during the first four months of the year was more than $185 million, when computed according to a National Safety Council formula.

So far this year, the Texas Safety Association said that the most startling increase in traffic accidents and fatalities has occurred on the state's Farm to Market roads. Preliminary reports show a 51 per cent increase in traffic fatalities on the rural road system over the same period last year.

Traffic collisions on Farm to Market roads so far in 1970 have cost Texans an estimated $23 million.

TSA reminds motorists who use the Farm to Market system that staying alert to such traffic hazards as slow moving vehicles and intersecting roadways can reduce traffic collisions and deaths.

The statewide safety group also emphasized the need for motorists to use seat belts and shoulder harnesses while driving on any roadway since a driver's chances of survival in a crash are five times as great if he is not thrown from the car.

holds for which such cards are filled out have already been enumerated. This can happen for a number of reasons. For instance, some people get mail at two or more addresses, or there may be differences in the way a rural address is described.

The Census Bureau will check the blue cards turned in by mailmen and then take appropriate steps to provide a complete census count.

Topics scheduled for discussion during the four-day meeting, in addition to reports from all Conference committees, include:

Current issues in federal-state relations (revenue sharing; new approaches to welfare, etc.); Louisiana's program to coordinate federal grant information; State programs for lower and middle income housing; Consumers and Farmers—A Problem in Agricultural Economics; Environmental Health Problems Facing the South; Critical Issues Facing the States in Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice.

The Council of State Governments was organized in 1932 for the purpose of strengthening state governments and their public services and of preserving the role of state government in the American federal system. Through the Council, State legislators pool information about their problems and achievements so that all may benefit from the exchange.

of boy become better. The first and second groups will not get out of the game what the third group will.

Editor—Is a summer program related to a successful fall program?

Coach McMurray—I think in order for the athlete to ever come close to reaching his potential he has to workout at running, jumping rope, and weight lifting all year around.

We do not have a mandatory summer program but the facilities are available for those who want to become more proficient.

Editor—Are many boys working at summer jobs?

Coach McMurray—Yes; quite a few are and this is good. I think a boy who is willing to get out and work in the summer will generally be willing to pay the price to win in athletics.

However, summer work is still not a substitute for running and keeping the legs and cardio vascular systems in keen condition.

An athlete has to do a little bit more than the average fellow to become a winner.

Editor—What about tradition?

Coach McMurray—This is a great asset. Memphis has won before and some of these kids remember it. I would like to think that these boys would like to build a tradition that people would remember for 25 years, say like the great "Golden Sandies" teams of Amarillo years back.

Editor—What about mental attitude?

Coach McMurray—This is the key to the whole shebang. A tough mental attitude on the part of the athlete is a necessity. It takes a good mental attitude to face the game of life.

Editor—What about the boy's desire?

Coach—I think a good many of the kids have it but some of them need to do some soul searching. I really believe that all of the ability in the world is of little value if your attitude is poor; drive and determination pay off.

Editor—How many schedules will you operate next year?

Coach—Junior High (7th and 8th), 9th, B team and varsity.

I feel that any boy in Memphis who wants to play can find a team to be on.

Editor—What about our opponents next year?

Coach—Respect your opponents but fear none. I think positive, myself, that we can give all our
