The high school and open divisions begin Friday and most matches will be played Friday and Saturday, Bevers said.

Little Leaguers Lose Out In District Finals Tues.

For the boys on the Memphis Little League All-Stars baseball team, the District Tournament they participated in at Hereford was the most exciting thing in their lives, and the local team came close to pulling off one of the biggest come-from-behind upsets to win the tournament.

But the sixth inning rally by the local boys fell short, as Canyon All-Stars won the final game 13 to 11. Memphis trailed 10 to 2 after the 2nd inning and 12 to 3 in the 4th.

Then the All-Stars got their batting going and closed the gap to only two runs in the final inning. Home runs were hit by Glen Johnson and Jose Reyes. Ronnie Wilks was the beginning pitcher but he was relieved in the second inning by Glen Johnson who finished the game on the mound.

Little League President Royce Frisbie said the All-Stars

without the services of Charles Bryley Tuesday night as he had illness in his family and was unable to make the trip to Hereford. Also Ted Phillips was unable to play due to an ankle injury.

Victory Monday

Charles Bryley got the pitching nod Monday night as the local All-Stars met the North Berger All-Stars in a game which ended 9 to 5 in Memphis' favor.

Bryley and Glen Johnson aided much in the victory by hitting home runs for the local team. The Memphis lads played almost flawless baseball against Berger to advance into the finals.

Praise Received

The local Little Leaguers were given much praise by their different opponents and Little League officials, President Frisbie said.

"We also especially appreciated receiving the two telegrams from

Seven Proposed Constitutional Amendments!

Texas Citizens will be asked to vote their preference in the November 3, 1970 general election on seven proposed Amendments to the Texas Constitution. These proposals will be listed on the General Election Ballot.

This week, in this issue of The Memphis Democrat, the seven constitutional amendment proposals are listed. They will be published during four consecutive weeks for the convenience of the citizens in this area. It behooves us all to read the proposals and to begin to form an intelligent opinion concerning these possible changes.

The 1876 Constitution of the State of Texas has been amended 195 times with the first amendment approved in 1879. There have been a total of 320 proposed amendments submitted to Texas voters since 1876. Sixteen amendments were approved by the 61st Legislature in 1969 with nine of them voted upon last year and seven to be submitted to voters this year.

Only four of the proposals presented to the voters last year received approval: the so-called clean-up amendment, which removed obsolete superfluous, and unnecessary sections of the constitution; the amendment giving the legislature authority to increase the ceiling on state assistance for the four classes of needy to a maximum of $80 million; the amendment authorizing the legislature to provide for payment of assistance to surviving spouses and minor children of certain governmental officials and employees, including members of organized volunteer fire departments and certain organized police reserve or auxiliary units; and the amendment authorizing the legislature to provide for additional loans to students at institutions of higher education under the Texas Opportunity Plan.

What are the seven proposed amendments for consideration this year?

No. 1. Amending Article V, Section 1-a, of the Texas Constitution, relating to removal, retirement, or censure of justices, judges, and justices of the peace under prescribed circumstances.

No. 2. Amending Article XVI, Section 20, Subsection (a), to authorize the legislature to enact a mixed beverage law regulating the sale of mixed alcoholic beverages on a local option basis.

No. 3. Authorizing the legislature to provide by law for the establishment of a uniform method of assessment on ranch, farm, and forest lands based upon the capability of the lands to reconstitute the State Building Commission as a three-member commission.

No. 4. Amending Article III, Section 51-b, Subsection (a), to reconstitute the State Building Commission as a three-member appointed commission.

No. 5. Authorizing any county to issue road bonds in an amount not to exceed one-fourth of the assessed valuation of the real property in the county under certain conditions.

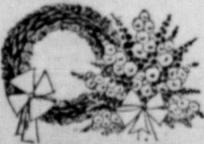

No. 6. Amending Article XVI, Section 51, to increase the value of the homestead exemption from forced sale from $5,000 to $10,000.

No. 7. Authorizing the legislature to provide for consolidating offices and functions of government and for performance of governmental functions by contract between political subdivisions in any county.

Proposed amendment No. 2 which would authorize the legislature to enact a mixed beverage law regulating the sale of mixed alcoholic beverages on a local option basis and the proposed amendment (No. 3) providing for a uniform method of assessment of ranch, farm, and forest lands are both controversial issues with voters.

These amendments will be discussed, pro and con, in later editorials of this publication. It is vital to the continued betterment of our state that each voting citizen take time out to study these issues so he will be well informed when he casts his ballot in November.

A message for parents

Believe it or not, we run into some mighty nice, wholesome, wonderful young people quite frequently . . . both here at home, at press conventions and while traveling around the country.

At a recent press convention, for example, one of the most enjoyable features of the affair was that of breaking bread and conversing with the young people of some of our newspaper friends. Without exception, they were a joy to be around.

We noted no wide generation gap between them and their parents.

As we visited with these young people, we pondered the question of why they should be so comfortable around adults . . . and we around them, and no major problems had cropped up during their upbringing.

After careful study, the answer came. It was due to the type of parents they had. The parents, whom we knew well, gave love, respect and stability to their youngsters. There was good communication, but there was also discipline with rules and regulations to be followed. Also these youngsters were required to work.

As we pondered why these particular families had such excellent rapport with their youngsters, our mind turned to the outcome of a recent survey conducted by a P-T-O group in several junior and senior high schools. The survey asked "what are the things you wish your parents would or would not do?"

The resultant tabulation of the variety of suggestions indicated a high percentage listed the following:

- Be stricter.
- Be more dedicated to church work and go to church as a family.
- Be fun loving; not too serious.
- Treat my friends like they were welcome in our home.
- Try to understand me and my friends. Don't treat me like a child, but depend on me more.
- Tell me right from wrong, but don't be too harsh about it.
- Don't fuss at me before other people.
- Don't curse, don't drink, and don't smoke.
- Answer simple questions without giving me a lecture.
- Ask my opinion instead of demanding.
- Be trustworthy. Fulfill your promises.

Sometimes it takes me a long time to explain why I did something, and I'm convicted before the trial begins. I would like for my parents to be more thoughtful of one another. Love one another. Love me. We think there is a message here for all parents.

Average Merchant On Way Out

In a system of free enterprise, it's the person with the ability to outwit his competitors who succeeds.

It isn't easy to admit the truth—it's much easier to rationalize, to blame others for our defeats, for our loss of business. Perhaps the public is unfair. Perhaps potential customers do ask us for donations and favors, then take their business out of town. Perhaps they never ever bothered to inquire about our prices before they made that purchase in Lubbock or Amarillo.

But in a competitive society there is little consolation in lamenting lack of loyalty or appreciation. Perhaps as businessmen we feel that we have done everything within our power to attract business. Yet, if an Amarillo or Lubbock merchant got the business, the only pertinent evidence in the case is that we were outwitted. Right or wrong, the out-of-county merchant was able to convince the customer that he had the most to offer. It isn't important that our service and prices were just as good. It is important that our business was snatched from under our very noses.

Unsound business policy is that which appeals to town loyalty or which attempts to force a person's business by artificial means. "Trade at Home" campaigns seldom are worth the time and effort. A bank in a Panhandle community recently took advantage of its monopolistic position to try to force customers to insure with its agency in consideration for loans. It didn't work. A charter was granted for a competitive bank.

People will trade where they believe the best bargain is to be had.

The only sound way to keep their trade in Swisher county is to make our prices and services so attractive that they can't afford to go to another market.

To date, Swisher merchants have lost the battle to keep local trade at home. Tens of thousands of dollars are paid out each month by local banks on checks paid for printing, lumber, groceries, television sets, clothing, automobiles, furniture, and a hundred other articles available in Swisher county.

For many years we didn't have to go after business. The public would buy almost anything we could stock. Money was plentiful. As a result, most Swisher business concerns were able to make money off the business that accidentally stayed at home.

But times have changed. There is a surplus of consumer goods. We're in a consumer's market. As Swisher merchants, we can learn something by watching our city competitors. They're working harder than ever to draw in trade from rural areas. They're hollering their wares from the house-tops. They're making all kinds of attractive inducements.

LES CAMPBELL

Ph. 259-3531

Our challenge is this—we can meet or better his competition or go out of business. The nation is dotted with ghost towns—towns that once thrived but with the coming of good roads and fast automobiles have died because other communities stole their business. It can happen to Tulsa, Happy and Kress.

It is not implied that all local merchants are not meeting the challenge, at least to varying degrees. It is the common thing for residents of Quitaque and Turkey to drive to Tulsa to trade. But with keen competition to the north and south, Swisher merchants have got to be better than average.

Their next tour was of the area surrounding the old city, to Mt. Scopus on which the lovely university stands, and to Mt. Olive where they enjoyed a breath-taking view of Jerusalem seeing "Old Jerusalem" first. They also toured the parliament building called "Knesseth".

After spending five days in Jerusalem, the group took a three-day tour up into the northern and southern areas of Galilee. They spent some time on the Sea of Galilee at Tiberias.

Back once more in Tel Aviv, the travelers stayed in another lovely hotel with rooms facing the Mediterranean.

Last on their agenda was a bus-tour to Eilat on the Gulf of Eilat near the border.

They were treated to scenic drives over rugged mountains, through desert, past craters, and learned a new meaning of the word "wilderness" as they saw first hand the extreme desolation of the countryside.

In this region they saw the Bedouin tribesmen with their dromedaries (camels) living the ways of the Nomad in tents at water holes.

Miss Wrenn noted that the high-ways of Israel were excellent forming a definite aid to the great amount of traveling which the group did.

In the Gulf of Eilat, they took a glass-bottomed boat trip and viewed the lovely flora and fauna of the gulf.

They flew back to Tel Aviv by plane. Leaving Israel, they journeyed to New York City via Rome.

Catching another plane to Columbus, Ohio, they visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Gilbert until July 19.

In Columbus, they were also treated to a tour of the city taking in the sights and visiting places of note.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Maddox of Lovington, N. M. visited here over the weekend with his mother, Mrs. T. J. Hampton, and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennie West and children, Lisa and Scott, of Hitchcock, Tex., are visiting their parents and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lamar West, this week.

New Guide For Insect Control Now Available

Grain crops are subject to insect attack from the time of planting until maturity. Some of the attackers are hard to control, points out County Agent W. B. Hooser, but carefully selected and properly timed insecticide treatments usually are effective in reducing yield losses.

As an aid to grain producers in their fight against insect pests, entomologists of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service have made available a revised insect control guide.

The publication, MP-339, "Texas Guide for Controlling Insects and Mites on Corn, Sorghums, and Small Grains," is now available at the County Agent's office, he said.

The major changes in the new guide, he said, include detailed and extensive recommendations for controlling pests which live in the soil; recommendations for greenbug and mite control on grain sorghum and changes in recommendations dictated by current research findings, new label clearances and label cancellations.

The use of pesticides continues to be studied from many angles, notes the county agent, and changes and revisions must be made to reflect them. Our Extension publications are used as one method to pass this information on to those who need and use it, explains Hooser.

Copies of many useful publications are available at county extension offices which reflect the changing times in agriculture and are helpful to those who live in the city as well as in the country, says the county agent.

Mrs. T. L. Rouse returned last week from a five-week visit with relatives in Dallas and Tyler. She was accompanied to Memphis by her sister, Mrs. J. O. Haynes of Tyler, who will spend several weeks here visiting with Mrs. Rouse and with Mr. and Mrs. Byron Baldwin.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lockhart returned home Sunday after enjoying several days vacation in El Paso and Juarez, Mexico.

Highlights and Sidelights FROM 2400 State CAPITOL

AUSTIN—As fast as the state's major finance agencies moved out of the capitol into the new Finance Building, contractors' bids were opened for remodeling of the old quarters to the tune of more than $1 million.

Work soon will be underway on all floors of the capitol, including the basement.

Senators will get private offices of at least 550 square feet each. Bulk of the new Senate space will come from quarters long occupied by the State Comptroller.

House members will have smaller offices—but at least a private office—in the old first-floor State Treasury quarters and the basement.

Senators plan new committee rooms, including one especially wired for sound and tv lights.

Capitol station post office will make an early move into the new Finance Building, clearing the east entrance of the statehouse for restoration to its original splendor.

Enrollment Limit Asked

Soaring public college enrollments prompted a request from the Coordinating Board of the Texas College and University System that each school give "immediate consideration" to the problem.

If voluntary curtailment does not result, Board officials indicated they will ask the Legislature for power to order mandatory ceilings. Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin held in a recent opinion that the agency does not now have such authority. University of Texas system regents, meanwhile, approved a UT enrollment-control plan and a lottery system for use when units reach capacity.

Coordinating Board at its meeting also placed the student loan program under federal loan insurance to guarantee repayments, advised expulsion of students who are involved in campus disruption, and directed studies of free credit exchange among all public institutions and possible elimination of unnecessary college courses.

Integration Pressed

Federal negotiators conferring with representatives of Texas school districts found 48 not in compliance with desegregation provisions of the 1964 civil rights act.

Sessions are seen as a last-ditch effort to get voluntary integration without a massive lawsuit by the U. S. Justice Department demanding immediate compliance.

Negotiators included three teams representing the civil rights division of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, plus Justice Department Washington headquarters and Dallas regional office.

Texas Education Agency has contacted all 48 districts following receipt of a letter from the Justice Department asking TEA's help in ending school segregation.

School districts were limited to a maximum of three on their negotiating teams—preferably the board president, superintendent and school attorney or board vice-president or another board member.

Federal teams limited each district to one-hour hearings. Any agreement, if not worked out in that time, will be communicated to HEW as soon as possible after local board discussions.

Each district was requested to bring copies of its own desegregation plans to the Austin meetings.

Independent or consolidated school districts named by the Justice Department as not compliance were:

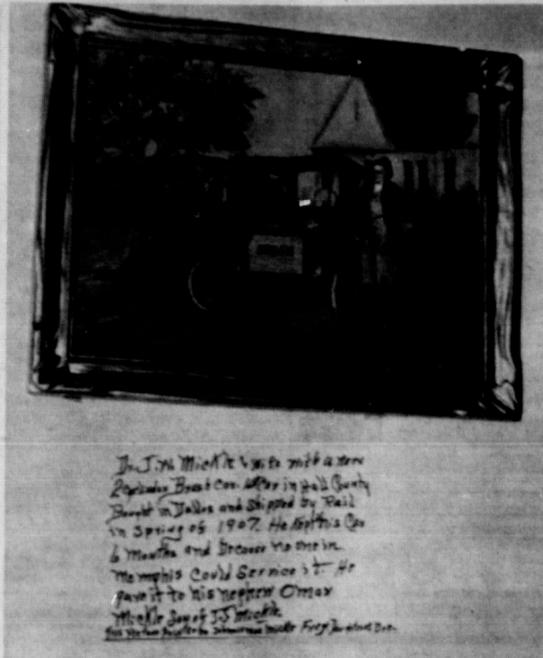

Amarillo, Atlanta, Austin, Bellville, Calbert, Carthage, Church Hill (annexed to Jacksonville), Concord Rural High, Crockett, Cypress-Fairbanks, Ector County, Elysian Fields, Ferris Friendship (annexed to Caidwell), Galena Park, Garland, Hearne, Hempstead, Henderson, Jackson, Jasper, Karnack, Katy, Kilgore, Klein, La Vega, Lubbock, Lufkin, Madisonville, Marshall, Midland, Mount Haven (annexed to Jacksonville), Nacogdoches, Palestine, Port Arthur, Refugio, Richardson, Sabine Pass, San Angelo, San Augustine, Shelbyville, Silsbee, South Park, Sulphur Springs, Temple, Waskom and Wichita Falls.

Courts Speak

Third Court of Civil Appeals voided incorporation of West Lake Hills (an Austin suburb), holding that a city cannot incorporate solely to escape annexation and taxes of a neighboring city.

Supreme Court held that the State Board of Medical Examiners could not revoke the license of a Galveston pathologist for failing to keep records of medication administered to himself and his family.

Court of Criminal Appeals said the co-defendant in a case cannot be called as a witness against another unless he previously agreed to testify.

War on Taxes

Texas Manufacturers Association has declared war on additional state taxes and set up a special department to keep an eye on state spending.

Alarmed by reports that the 1971 tax bill may go as high as $700 million, TMA President Ed C. Burris said its organization is going to do everything in its power to prevent any kind of increase.

TMA, said Burris, also will be on guard against long range spending programs, with increases automatically built into state law.

Carl H. Braubach, a budget analyst under former Gov. John Connally, and one time Legislative Budget Board staffer John A. Haddad will head a research project on keeping government spending within revenues. Offices will be located in Austin near the capitol.

Appointments

Frank Vandiver, acting president of Rice University and a noted historian, will be executive director of Texas' American Revolution Bicentennial Commission.

H. C. Pittman of Austin is the new president of natural Automobile Trade Association Managers. Sam White of Houston already heads National Automobile Dealers Association.

Ed Latta, Jerry Heare and Jim Heath will be directors of information, community development and prospect development for Texas Industrial Commission.

FOR BETTER HEALTH

Just a year ago Texas was at the crossroads in establishing a meat and poultry inspection program, but since that time the Texas State Department of Health has made the turn and moved ahead in providing necessary inspection.

Faced with the responsibility of adequate state inspection or having the federal government take over the program, the Texas Legislature passed a new Texas Meat and Poultry Act effective Sept. 2, 1969. The new law parallels minimum federal inspection requirements, which still apply on all red meat and poultry processed for interstate shipments. Authority for the new state inspection program was invested in the Division of Veterinary Public Health of the Texas State Department of Health.

With an estimated 2,200 meat establishments in Texas requiring continuous surveillance, the job is no small one. Cost of the project was set at $2 million the first year and $3.6 million the second. The federal government pays half.

Passage of the new legislation meant a training program had to be established fast to meet the need for trained inspectors. State Health Commissioner Dr. James E. Peavy, Deputy Commissioner Dr. J. B. Copeland and Dr. A. B. Rich, director of the Division of Veterinary Public Health, had seen this need developing and were ready with a solution. On the day the new law went into effect, a training program also was ready. The State Veterinary Meat Inspection School began its operation in Yoakum. R. C. Hall, D.V.M., coordinates the program from Dr. Rich's office, and Louis Boening, D.M.V., is training officer. By the end of the first year this September, the school expects to have turned out 240 meat inspectors.

Dr. Boening said five different courses have been established: 1. basic slaughter; 2. advanced slaughter; 3. processing; 4. poultry inspection; and, 5. veterinary orientation. A new, specially-designed school is on the drawing boards for the continuously-operating program. Inspectors who finish the initial training have received further training under veteran inspectors in commercial slaughter houses.

Recently added to Dr. Boening's faculty was Erwin Jemelka, D.V.M., formerly with the veterinary medicine program in San Antonio. Leon Barrett, a lay meat inspector, is on the training staff and Mrs. Virgie Rutledge, office secretary, has given instruction in non-professional categories such as record keeping and filing. Some federal representatives have helped with classroom instruction.

In addition to class work, training has been given in federal and state inspected packing houses located in a 50-mile radius of Yoakum.

Aim of the program, said Dr. Rich, is upgrading of the meat industry and protection of the consumer.

The man who dreams he is wealthy, and wakes up poor, loses nothing but the sleep.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Campbell are vacationing in New Mexico and Colorado this week.

Weekend visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Gardener were the daughters, Mrs. Edna Gilliam and Mr. Gilliam of Jackson, Tenn., and Mrs. Elma Kilgore of Los Alamos, N. M., grandson, Mike Kilgore, who is a student at Eastern New Mexico University at Portales; and friend, Mrs. Marlene Spence of Los Alamos.

Responsible Leadership

"Woe to thee, O land, when thy king is a child, and thy princes eat in the morning."
—Ecclesiastes 10:16

This famous quotation from the Bible can be interpreted many ways. If the king, who has the power to rule, is a child in years or lacks the maturity to make responsible decisions, leadership and power may fall into the hands of persons without principle.

In many areas of the world today, people have the right and privilege to choose their leadership at the polls. Politics, of course, is not free from deceit and deception. But the right to choose is always there.

The thinking citizen votes—and votes wisely always with the thought of obtaining the best, the most responsible leadership.

NEWS for OUTDOORSMEN
by VERN SANFORD

Several years ago, I was fishing near an angler who made extremely long casts. His boat was far from shore and he was whipping himself to death trying to drop his lure close to the bank.

Occasionally he caught a bass.
Then he fought that bass through 50 yards of good bass water. This of course can ruin the area for further fishing . . . at least for the time being.

Actually, he was so far out that his fish had many opportunities to get entangled in submerged brush —and did.

At times long casts are fine—such as working with trout and red fish on the coast. But, for fresh water fishing a cast over 50 feet usually is useless. If you keep within this distance you don't disturb much water, or scare away many fish.

Rod Makes Difference
Some good fishermen insist on making long casts. But most of these distance shots are for show.
A light-action rod puts the lure there, but when a fish hits, that same light-action rod will bend almost double getting him in—providing you're lucky enough to set the hook in time.

Naturally, the farther away the lure the longer it takes to firmly set the hook. A split second sometimes determines whether or not bounces he usually has a bass (or gets his lure hung on an underwater rock or an old dead tree).

Angler number two just drops the same kind of lure over the side of the boat, or maybe tosses it out about 10 feet. He lifts his rod tip and jiggles the lure two or three times, and he has a fish.
Both methods work.

They usually wind up the day with about the same success. Of course the one who fishes close to the boat isn't nearly as tired at day's end. (Which means he gets to clean the fish.)

Long Casts Straighten Line
There is one definite advantage in making an occasional long cast.
It plays out the line so that you can wind it back tightly on the spool. On the other hand, there is more likelihood of a backlash on a long cast.

There is no firm rule you can follow on long or short casts, but generally speaking you can wind up with just as much poundage on a short cast and not work nearly so hard.

Anarillo several days last week

Miss Harrison, Larry Parks Are Wed Here Sat., July 25

Our house is quiet this week . . . so quiet that we have to turn on the TV to break the silence. We are spoiled to a hum of activity after having some of our children and grandchildren as visitors since early in June. For more than two weeks we had four granddaughters, ranging in age from 9 to 14. They were Susan, Carolyn and Diane Welch of Austin and Debra Combs of Carbondale, Ill., who stayed with us for about six weeks.

Last Wednesday morning we left for Carbondale, Ill., to take Debra home. It's a most scenic drive through Missouri and one that we have enjoyed on two previous trips. Last summer after our first view of Missouri, we told Charlene Greene and Clifford Farmer that we decided people from Missouri don't brag as we Texans do. Neither of them had told me about the beauty of their native state.

We left Interstate 44 at St. James and drove over a winding highway across a portion of Missouri, going through Farmington, Mo., on to Chester, Ill., where we crossed the Mississippi River. This is a most scenic drive, with tall trees, lakes and streams. Farmington is the home of one of Charlene's sisters, and a very nice looking town.

Speaking of Interstate travel, Herschel and I agreed that it's marvelous in many ways, one sails across the country at 70 miles an hour without any interruptions. The danger of accidents is much less since there are no intersecting highways, only access roads. The interstates also lessen the time and travelers can now speed through the cities at 60 miles an hour without one stop sign.

But, with all this convenience, the traveler does miss out on many things. He doesn't get to see the people in the small towns and villages and their various ways of life.

While in Carbondale, Adrian took us on a tour of the new $3,000,000 building being constructed at Southern Illinois University to house the Schools of Communication. Part of the building is completed and will be finished by Christmas. The building will house the entire communications including radio, TV, photography, daily newspaper plant, classrooms, professors offices, etc.

Also while there, we enjoyed going down to the large beach area which is in the center of SIU campus. On Saturday evening, we enjoyed a picnic out at Crab Orchard Lake resort area which is about four or five miles southeast of Carbondale.

This is a national resort area for boating, swimming, fishing, etc. It is a beautiful area with tall pine trees and many other kinds of trees covering the whole area, which includes several hundred acres.

We came home by way of Arkansas . . . and we still can say we think that state is one of the prettiest we have visited. We drove from Carbondale down the Mississippi Delta area to Lilburn, Mo., where we visited a cousin, Homzie Wilson, his wife and daughter, who farm in this rich river bottom land. They were flooded out early in the year and their crops are late. That area was needing rain as were the rest of the states through which we traveled.

From Memphis, Tenn., we drove to Little Rock, Ark., and on to Conway where we spent the night at the Ramada Inn. We can recommend this as one of the finest motels with the best service that we have ever visited. All employees were friendly, and went out of their way to give good service. The motel is set in a natural scenic area. Looking from our window, we saw flowers and tall native pine trees with a lake in the background. We could have enjoyed staying there for a few days.

As we traveled through the state of Arkansas, part of the Interstate was not completed, so we enjoyed detours through some of the small towns. We found they had for sale at many roadside stands, peaches, grapes, watermelons, cantaloupes, and vegetables of all kinds. One small town had a glass factory and had their wares out on the highway for sale. There were antique shops and other interesting places at which one could have stopped had they had the time. All this is lost on interstate travel.

Under normal conditions, when a cricket chirps it can be heard for more than a mile.

The First Baptist Church was the setting at 8 p. m. on Saturday, July 25, for nuptials uniting in marriage Miss Rosemary Harrison and Larry Don Parks, both of Memphis.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wendell Harrison while the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Parks, all of Memphis.

Rev. John Bobo, pastor, officiated the double-ring ceremony before an altar centered with an arrangement of white gladioli and Killian daisies. Forming the background was an arch-shaped candelabrum holding white cathedral candles flanked on either side by smaller candelabra and jade tree arrangements.

Mrs. George Ferris of Memphis, organist, played appropriate pre-nuptial music and accompanied Ed Shubert of Memphis, soloist, who sang "Because", "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer". Mrs. Ferris also played the traditional Bridal Chorus and Wedding March.

The Bride
Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of candlelight silk organza over bridal taffeta, designed with a fitted Empire bodice of lace overlay and long sheer Bishop sleeves applied in lace and caught at the wrist by deep cuffs. Seed pearls traced a pattern on the lace bodice and around the scalloped neckline. Her A-line skirt swept to back fullness and cascaded into a chapel train from a back lace bodice. Her coil of lace flowerettes enhanced by pearls held her tier veil of bridal illusion. The bride carried a white Bible given to her by Mr. and Mrs. Byron Baldwin topped with a cascade of white orchids and stephanotis. She also carried out the traditional bridal custom with "something old, new, borrowed and blue and a six-pence in her shoe".

Attendants
Matron of honor was Mrs. Simmons Harvey of Abilene, cousin of the bride; and bridesmaids included Miss Betsy McKinney of Midland, Miss Connie Beck of Dallas, cousins of the bride; Mrs. Randy Brown of Gruver and Mrs. Jerry McQueen of Midland, sister of the groom.

The attendants were gowned alike in vendant green silk linen with silk corde twined around the Empire bodice. Deep pleated folds at the back of the A-line skirts formed into sweep trains. They carried nosegays of pink daisies and ivy leaves. Headpieces were bows of matching green grosgrain ribbon.

Serving as best man was Ben Parks of Richardson, brother of the groom. Groomsmen were Jim Harrison of Garland, Jimmy Don Rothwell of Childress, Glenn D. Archer of Austin and Jerry McQueen of Midland. Ushers were Mike McKinney of Midland, cousin of the bride; Jerry Winston of Dallas; Don Fehlis of Austin and Ken Baxter of Shamrock.

Mrs. Harrison chose for her daughter's wedding a beige silk dress with off-white trim and matching accessories. Mrs. Parks, mother of the groom, was attired in an aqua Alaskine matching dress and coat with matching accessories.

Reception
A church reception was held immediately following the ceremony.

The bride's table was covered with a white dotted swiss and lace cloth and appointed in silver. Noted on the table was a four-tiered white wedding cake. The table centerpiece was of white daisies and fern leaves.

The groom's table was covered with a mint green voile cloth and was laid with silver and crystal appointments.

The reception guests were greeted by a receiving line composed of the bride and groom, the parents of the bride and groom and members of the wedding party.

Miss Shannon Harvey of Abilene, cousin of the bride, Miss Shari McQueen of Midland, niece of the groom, Miss Jennifer McNemar of Houston, cousin of the bride, and Miss Laura Ann Wheatley, cousin of the bride, passed out rice bags to the reception guests. They were gowned alike in floor-length dress of white dotted swiss accented with mint green sashes.

Members of the house party included: Misses Jean Pharr of Lubbock, who played appropriate music during the reception, Kathryn Ann Baker of San Angelo, Rosemary Seale of Amarillo, and Mmes. Mike Davidson of Memphis, Jay McNemar of Houston, Earl Wheatley of Hedley, John Alderman of Midland, all cousins of the bride, and Mrs. Brian Martin of San Angelo, Miss Carol Foxhall and Miss Irene Foxhall, both of Memphis, and Miss Cheryl Decker of Childress.

For a wedding trip to New Orleans, La., Mrs. Parks chose a navy knit dress with matching jacket accented by white accessories and the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

After August 1, the couple will be at home at Longview.

A graduate of Texas Tech University with a degree in elementary education, the bride has been named to the Dean's Honor List there and is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta Social Sorority. She taught last spring in the Memphis Schools and will begin teaching this fall in the White Oak Public Schools.

The groom is a graduate of the University of Texas at Austin with a degree in finance. He is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha Social Fraternity and Alpha Kappa Psi Business Fraternity. He is employed in Longview as an Assistant National Bank Examiner.

Another courtesy extended the couple included a rehearsal dinner hosted by the parents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Parks, on Friday night at Mrs. Bromley's in Clarendon.

Several courtesies were extend-up, it started raining and rained all of the three days we were there. We had to take it in relays sleeping as only half of us could sleep in the wagon at one time, and the other half got in a cave door and tried to keep warm and dry burning wet wood. But anyway, we had a good time for teenagers of that day. Thanks to progress a lot more opportunities this day and time.

In checking with the grocery stores, youngsters should do better in life as they are exposed to a lot more things now, especially food. We see over 100 different kinds of baby foods with a lot of combinations of meat and vegetables and also fruits of all kinds for the babies. Back in the early days the 2 B's were the only source of the baby food supply.

Even the cats and dogs should grow fatter and be smarter as now believe you would find 100 kinds of dog and cat food. Whereas in the early days, they only received the scraps from the table.

On seeing the article where the President gave the wool from the White House sheep to the Salvation Army for the needy, I started to thinking about what has happened to all the sheep and the wool industry. With all the other beauty contests, we used to have Miss Wool of Texas from around San Angelo. We may have one now; but if we do, I have overlooked it in the news. I am afraid that Miss Synthetic is fast taking over Miss Wool and Miss Cotton both. I guess after the fig leaf material for Adam and Eve came the sheep to furnish them clothing and cover. All through the Bible, we hear of the sheep and sheep herders who were the ones who located the star over Bethlehem. We never hear of many sheep on the market any more. Wonder if they will be the forgotten animal who furnished so much for our forefathers. I remember to buy a good suit of clothes, it had to have the "all wool" label on it to be first class. Then there were the all wool shirts and sweaters made in work style and also dress-up shirts in pure wool. Then there were the wool socks and woolen underwear, both in union suits and two-piece.

The wool was the best for protection from weather. I remember when they commented on some other article that was good, they would say "all wool and a yard wide". You could go to a public gathering and they had one of those big stoves full of coal and they could get too hot. Everyone who had on the woolen underwear would start their exercise of scratching simultaneously and the speaker asked that some of the windows be raised for air so he could get their attention again.

Another guy we never hear of much any more is the silk worm. I think Miss Nylon and Miss Rayon must have put the poor silk worm in the pasture, but time has changed things. We used to buy oranges, apples and bananas by the dozen and now they are all by the pound. I don't know whether you can still buy Arbuckle Coffee or not, but you can still buy Garrett and Honest Snuff. We used to have sweet and sour cucumber pickles and a few dills out of the barrel. We are still progressing—I bet you could buy 50 to 100 kinds of cucumber pickles. It would be hard to buy a 100 lb. sack of flour like our families used to buy.

I did get to attend another wedding last week. In fact, it was last Saturday night. Friday afternoon I told the motel operator that I thought he could change the name of his motel to Harrison-Parks as relatives and friends of the Ben Parks and the Wendell Harrisons had just about taken over. Anyway, I want to give you a part that will not be printed in the write-up. With all the contacts and preliminaries of a wedding, there is a lot to do and especially with the only daughter getting married. I guess Frances Eddie was really confused. She told me she had one brother and four sisters. I met the brother, then I met four of her sisters when they checked in at the motel. They were tired out on this hot day. Then I met four of her sisters at the swimming pool to cool off. Then I met four more of her sisters Saturday morning having breakfast and, at last, I met four of the younger better looking sisters at the wedding, looking like they were from fashion row. So I guess Francis Eddie was just confused having her mind on so many things. I counted 16 sisters. I can prove this by the brothers-in-law.

I received another card from George Stanley a few days ago and he was spending the day with Bill Cosby in Salsburg, Austria. He stated that Lynn Foxhall would be there the next day, so I guess they had an MHS Day in Austria. The world keeps getting smaller with closer neighbors. George should be home by the time this is printed and we welcome him safely back.

We had 40 visitors in Heritage Hall the past Saturday. One of them was a former Hall County girl, Estelle Dennis Guthrie, sister of Dink and Hubert Dennis. She has lived in Lubbock 17 years and was a PBX operator for 12 years. She is now connected with Civil Defense work and had a rough year helping with the Hippie Love-In Party and also working through the Lubbock storm. She has a daughter, Marjorie Howard, and three grandsons, Dennis, Kelly and Brian and they were all with her when the storm hit. Not one of them hurt, home not damaged, but took their station wagon to a cleaning!

Others visiting Heritage Hall were Mr. and Mrs. Norman Freeman of Martin, Tenn.; L. C. Nanny of Crockett, son of the late J. H. Nanny's who came to Hall County in 1906 from Mt. Pleasant, Texas, lived first in the Salisburg Community and later lived on the Crane place in Donley County. L. C. left Hall County in 1935 and first time back. He says it looks a little dry here. We agreed.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Peden of Goodnight for the past 27 years. They are both now 87 years old. D. C. first came to Hall County in 1904 and farmed the Geo. Slover section and later with Quigley, Leary and Neely on Ogden Ranch. He was a cousin of the late D. S. Peden who operated a store as Plaska, also a cousin of Agnes Nelson and Mrs. T. K. Wilton. Now have six children living. Some of his old neighbors he remembered were R. C. Edwards, Vallances, the Orrs and Giddens. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kelly and their son Gary and daughter Nancy of Ft. Worth were in Heritage Hall with the Pedens. Mrs. Kelly is their daughter and she attended school in the Goldston School in Donley Co. She remembered one of the Millam girls was her teacher.

Visiting in Heritage Hall the past Saturday was Gloria Scott Tension. Gloria Scott graduated from MHS in 1942. Some of her classmates she remembered were Dwight Kinard, Betty Fultz, Jo Barbee and Ann Compton. Gloria married C. E. Tension in 1948. They have one son, Robert, 18-years old. They are now living in Arlington and were here to celebrate her mother's "39th birthday".

Mr. and Mrs. Gayle Nelson of New Braunfels visiting Heritage Hall. He is teaching in San Antonio schools and is the nephew of Mrs. T. K. Wilton, Agnes Nelson and Mrs. Helm. Gayle's father, Joe Nelson, was Supt. of the school in Clarendon from 1919 to 1925. Mrs. Eva Hill of Hedley first moved to Hall County with her father in 1901, lived east of Memphis for a time and bought land in the Bray Community. Her father thought he would give up medical practice and work with land and cattle, but there were too many people sick and not enough doctors. Her father was Dr. Hardcastle who moved here from Tennessee.

We were in a local grocery store a few days ago and overhead customer ask the young man who had just started to work if they had any Irish potatoes. The young man was very accommodating. He says, "The potatoes are over in the next aisle, but I do not know what nationality they are!"

Scarbrough Wins Golfing Title Here

Danny Scarbrough captured the Memphis Country Club golfing crown over Frank Foxhall Saturday afternoon in match play during the finals of the championship flight of the club's annual tournament.

A good gallery of local golfers and their wives followed the foursome, which also include the first flight championship match between Dink Miller and Mackie Allen, which Allen won on the 18th hole.

Scarbrough turned the front nine three up and one over par, and then went to end the match on the 14th with a birdie three. Foxhall, who is well known for his wedge play and putting at the local course, found both his favorite clubs "cold" in the final match.

Scarbrough played steady golf throughout the match, finishing the day one over par.

The consolation match in the championship flight will be played sometime in the future between Gayle Monzingo and Ronald Pate. Pate is attending summer camp with the military.

Gene Lindsey won the consolation of the first flight over Joe B. Browning.

In the second flight, Mack Miller won the flight over Chuck Jones in a match also played Saturday. Eddie Foxhall won the consolation by defeating Lee Brown.

In the 15-man third flight, John Ferrel won the flight over Terry Wansley. Wansley is a beginning golfer who just started playing the game this summer. In consolation, Lanny Crow defeated Bobby Carroll in the finals of the third flight. Prizes in this flight were almost double what they were in other flights due to the larger group of golfers competing.

The Memphis Country Club several years ago, established a permanent trophy which has the names of club champs engraved on it since 1966. Scarbrough will add his name again to the list. He won the tournament in 1968.

Funeral Services Held Here For Mrs. Mary Clonts

Mrs. Clonts died Tuesday afternoon in a Fort Worth Nursing home. Born at Saint Jo, Texas, she and her husband, the late Benjamin Clonts, were married there in 1897 and moved to Hall County in 1910. She moved to Fort Worth in 1924.

She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Crump of Memphis.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Janice C. McGraw of Alexandria, La., and Mrs. W. N. Wolfe of Fort Worth, three grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Then, at 7:40 p. m. a 1967 Volkswagen overturned twice approximately 8 miles south of Memphis on U. S. 287.

The driver, Barbara Bellocchio, of Dallas, her cousin, Brenda Bellocchio of Dallas, and a passenger, Leslie Quinter of New York, were treated at the local hospital and released.

Investigating officer, Highway Patrolman Tex Scates said that both accidents were one car accidents and that the drivers apparently lost control of their vehicles when they left the highway.

Alfalfa —

of four cuttings per season, a grower could receive payments of $3,200 or $64 per acre next year," Kensinger said.

Pointing out that with the area's second year of drought, there was little cotton production in 1969 and even less this year, Kensinger stated that planting of fall-seeded alfalfa on irrigated land can prove a valuable substitute crop for growers and tonnages per acre can be even higher than the one ton per acre average from irrigated land recorded this year.

"With only about 3 inches of rain in the area since January 1, alfalfa planted on dry land has produced nothing since the first cutting which was very light. Alfalfa needs water and irrigation has to be the answer here," he said.

Ben Parks, president of the First National Bank of Memphis, urged growers to give serious consideration to diversifying their crops to include irrigated acreage for Western Alfalfa's program. "Diversification not only is needed, it is essential to the individual grower's as well as the area's economic well being," he said.

Memphis Democrat—Thurs., July 30, 1970

Western Alfalfa was invited and encouraged to start its ground alfalfa program by a group of Hall County civic and agricultural leaders last year. It initially invested $200,000 in equipment and has 11 employees in the area. A minimum of 5,000 acres would require hiring of more workers in 1971, Kensinger said.

Cecil Stargel, a Hall County grower near Memphis, indicated he is planning to add more acres for next year to the 80 he has in the 1970 Western Alfalfa program. "I am convinced that irrigation is the key to alfalfa production in this area and that use of Western Alfalfa's long experience as a major alfalfa processor will prove to be a valuable asset to other growers as it has to me," he said.

Joyce Webster, another Western Alfalfa grower in the Memphis area, commented that "Cotton can no longer support the farms and alfalfa is one crop that can be successfully and profitably grown here on irrigated land."

Western Alfalfa cuts its growers' crops, grinds the product to specification and delivers it to Panhandle feedlots.
