Analyzing The 1970 Elections!

We've read numerous articles written about the 1970 elections and the outcome of the same. Some writers are claiming that the old image loyalty is breaking down, and they have a strong argument for their claims.

Others are saying that voters in this nation are ignoring the issues and voting for the man they like best. Still others are saying that the issues in the 1970 elections were completely played down by candidates across the country and these candidates tried to hide behind substitute issues in order to cover their own tracks in the eyes of the voters.

Arguments can be found for all of these. But in our way of thinking, the 1970 elections can be summarized by saying it was an election year when the 30-second T. V. spot announcement and elaborate amounts of money spent to persuade voters, was the rule, not the exception.

However, the American voter is no one's fool. Voters don't always react to the way candidates want them to react. The 1970 elections will long be studied, and analyzed.

Even President Richard M. Nixon has come up with his own version of why he plunged so deeply into the congressional election campaign in an off-year election.

The President told his friends that President Eisenhower and President Johnson had made a mistake by not campaigning for their parties in the mid-term election. As for himself, he intends to continue to appear on the campaign trail in strength from his personal encounters with the electorate. He says, "I love to campaign."

The President says in his typical analytical detachment that he wants to cement his relationship with the party leaders. He also wants to strengthen local party chapters which will provide political storm troopers for future campaigns.

His appearances on the political stump around the country, the President said, not only strengthen the local chapters, but increase their loyalty to him. Thus, he is turning the Republican party into a personal organization, molded in Nixon's image. The President is also convinced that his appearance helped local Republican candidates. They wouldn't have done as well, he believes, if he had stayed in the White House.

Another trend in running for state-wide and national offices is the advent of political PR men, to guide, write and direct campaigns for candidates. Actors' facial make-up is in common use before a candidate goes on T. V.

Some analysts are saying that the party with the money will be the party which will control the country in the future. The Republicans raised $18 million last year while the debt-ridden Democrats have managed to raise only about $3.5 million.

On the other hand, Maine Senator Muskie, a Democrat, came on T. V. and with a 30-minute "kitchen" chat, had tremendous impact on voters in this nation just before the election.

All analysts are predicting that the next two years is going to be possibly the most political in the history of this nation. We heard several local citizens say, "I'll be glad when the election is over, I'm tired of hearing about it." Well, we predict that there will be little let up as political guns are being rolled out for the really big political battle, that of selecting a President for these United States in the 1972 election.

For A Better Mousetrap!

The Wall Street Journal had a story last week about a man that build a better mouse trap and the world didn't beat a path to his door.

Woodstream, a firm that specializes in traps ranging from elephant traps and grizzly bear traps on down to mouse traps, brought in ace product designer George Sakier to come up with a mouse trap "modernistic enough to make people notice the change." The trap was dubbed "Little Champ" and priced about 25 cents. The company told dealers about the trap's graceful new design, it's deadly efficiency and its convenience.

The new trap was made of plastic and looked sort of like a sardine can with an arched doorway at floor level for curious mice to enter. Any mouse entering the doorway would trip a spring and be choked to death by a wire that snapped up from below like an upside down guillotine. It was deadly efficient. "All you had to do is shake the dead mice out in the morning."

Out went the traps to hardware dealers' shelves across the country. There sat the traps on hardware dealers' shelves across the country—where they gathered dust for a year.

"Nobody knew what it was," says Woodstream President Dick Woolworth with a sigh. "No corporation can begin to psychoanalyze the tastes of women. It's just very difficult to sophisticate a prosaic item that is so simple and functional."

Now Mr. Woolworth could probably have stopped with "Nobody knew what it was." He didn't have to blame the tastes of women. He just needed to tell people "what it was"—just like the successful auto dealers advertise their Chevrolets, Chryslers, and Fords . . . and like drug companies advertise their Contac and Alka-Seltzers.

Yes, Mr. Woolworth of Woodstream, the world would probably have beaten that path to your door . . .

If you would have just advertised that mouse trap in the San Marcos Record.

Free press is a safeguard

It is setting a dangerous precedent when public officials assume the prerogative of seeking to control by criticism or innuendo what a citizen or an editor should write or print.

We see this method used in the U. S. quite frequently, but so far it has not passed the stage of dirty politics used by candidates for office, or public officials seeking notoriety. It reminds one of the practice of the devilfish that can squirt out black liquid in order to cloud the water and hide his own ulterior motives.

Unopposed, the official desire to censor or control free speech and press grows, because freedom of expression is the one thing that political opportunists fear most. Without freedom of expression there is no freedom for the individual.

Nearly 11,000 country weekly and smaller daily papers scattered throughout the 50 states of this nation are one of the greatest guarantees of freedom U. S. citizens enjoy. Most of these news-

YOUR COUNTY AGENT SAYS

Use Crop Residue to Improve Soil

Large amounts of crop residues are valuable by-products of a good farming operation and should not be burned, reminds County Agent W.B. Hooser.

Good residue management is one of the better soil and water management practices leading to increased crop production. The term "residue" refers to the recognizable remains of plants, such as stems, stalks and leaves. The term, explains the county agent, if often confused with "organic matter", which is unrecognizable plant remains, and "humus", which is the relatively stable end product of decomposed plant and animal residues.

According to the county agent, residues disked or plowed into the soil help keep the soil open, thus allowing good aeration and water infiltration.

Hall County farmers who are interested in providing the necessary raw materials for residues should keep their land planted to close-growing or high residue crops half to two-thirds of the time, advises Hooser.

Incorporation of residue into the soil provides an added bonus because this is an effective way to prevent the carryover of disease organisms. Cotton root rot, for example, can be substantially reduced by a combination of deep tillage and the incorporation of large amounts of raw residues deep in the soil.

For those interested in more facts on residue management, an Extension publication, MP-807, "Crop Residue to Improve Texas Soils," is available at the county agent's office.

Democrats Stirred Up

Now retired from politics and state office, a Democratic leader says his party has many things in its favor, the greatest being the stupidity of Republican campaign planners. He is convinced the GOP could have elected Bush over Benton if the planners had not tried to elect an entire slate, including the office of Governor. "They got the Democrats stirred up," he said.

Clarendon Takes 39-13 Victory Over Memphis In Season Finale

The Memphis Cyclone ended the football season in a scrappy battle with Clarendon, which the Cyclones won 39 to 13, but not by a hard-fought battle.

The turning point in the game came when high north winds forced Memphis to give up the ball on the Memphis 26, 27 and 28 yard lines in three consecutive plays. The Cyclones took advantage of these good field positions in what coaches' refer to as the four-down zone, to put the Cyclones out of reach of the battling Cyclone squad.

Those who saw the game were impressed with the hitting and noticeable effort on the part of the Cyclone squad, which saw Memphis hold a 7-0 lead in the second quarter and keep it until late in the second quarter when Clarendon scored a touchdown and kicked a 43-yard field goal, which gave Clarendon a 10 to 7 lead.

for the two point conversion but was stopped shy.

Memphis kicked off to Clarendon, and the Cyclones were held and punted the ball into the endzone. It was brought out to the Memphis 20.

The Cyclone attempted to pick up a first down, with fourth and two needed, but Clarendon stopped the attempt and took over on the home 27. King plowed his way free and raced to the Memphis 2 yard line. James Shadle carried over for the go ahead touchdown. Lindley added the point after and the score was 17 to 13.

Twice more Memphis gave up the ball deep in Cyclone territory and the Cyclones turned the opportunities into quick touchdowns. King scored from the 5-yd. line on one, and Danny Hill caught a 28-yd. pass for the other. Lindley kicked both points after.

Clarendon's final score came late in the game on seven-yard pass from QB Mac Tomlinson to End Kenny Bacon, 190-lbs. Tomlinson carried for a two-point conversion making the final score 39 to 13.

Memphis backs were lead by Paul Fowler who carried 14 times for 69 yards, averaging 5 yards per carry. Louis Davis carried 23 times for 54 yards. Mark Bradshaw carried 3 times for 7 yards. John Carmen carried 10 times for 30 yards and Jim Dixon carried once for 3 yards.

Louis Davis' kickoff and punt returns in the game totaled 138 yards, including a 98-yard kickoff return for the touchdown.

Texans have a right to be proud of their meat and poultry industries, and they also can show deserved pride in activities of the Veterinary Public Health Division of the Texas State Department of Health which is charged with inspection of meat and poultry processing operations.

Slightly more than a year ago the State Health Department opened a school at Yoakum to train meat inspectors, a decision made mandatory by a new Texas Meat and Poultry Act. Faced with the choice of letting the federal government take over inspection or providing adequate state inspection, the Texas Legislature decided in favor of state controls. The federal government still inspects all red meat and poultry processed for interstate (across state lines) shipments.

Since its inception the new Veterinary School has turned out just over 400 trained meat inspectors. Four hundred and 23 persons are employed in the meat inspection program. A total of 789 slaughterhouse and processing plants are under state inspection.

The amount of red meat and poultry inspected is staggering. For a 19-month period ending June 30, more than 324 million pounds of red meat—beef and pork—came under the critical eyes of Health Department inspectors. In addition, 63½ million pounds of poultry were inspected.

"Objective of the program is better products for all Texans," said A. B. Rich, D.V.M., director of the Division of Veterinary Public Health, "and inspection is essential to make certain that only wholesome meat and meat products reach the tables of consumers." The program also will upgrade the meat industry and encourage it to provide better products, said Dr. Rich.

Cooperation between federal and state meat inspectors has been good, and a new federal registration becomes effective December 1 with a registration deadline of March 1, 1971. The new regulation affects such allied, interstate operations as meat brokers, meat wholesalers and warehousemen. Knowing the identity of each of these operators is important to members of the Compliance and Evaluation Staff of the United States Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service. While the inspectors in the state and federal plants are the first line of defense against unfit meat and poultry, the Compliance and Evaluation Staffs are the federal and state governments' second line of defense.

Some meats are processed for non-human food purposes. These meats are used from animals which died other than by slaughter or were suspect animals before death. Since this meat has the potential for being diverted from its intended non-human food use, the new registration will help in tracing all meat and protect wholesomeness of meat which you eat.

Neither team was very effective in punting the football against the wind. On Clarendon's two attempts at kicking into the wind Clarendon's punter got 22 yards and Memphis attempted 19 yards. Memphis attempted 12 yards, 12 yards and 3 yards.

Memphis got on the scoreboard with a 53-yd. drive in the second quarter. FB Paul Fowler, the leading ground gainer from the scrimmage, led the drive going with a six-yard run into Clarendon territory. Davis made four more yards, and was inches short of a first down. QB John Carmen carried the first down. Davis was held only three yards on the next play. Then, QB Carmen stuck his hand into Davis' stomach, took the ball and went around right end for 18 big yards and a first down on the Clarendon 22.

On the next play, FB Fowler and running room off to the left side, broke a tackle or two and scored his first varsity TD on a 22-yard run. Larry Don Johnson, another sophomore, booted the point after touchdown and the score was Memphis 7 and Clarendon 0.

Memphis defense stopped Clarendon's determined drive on the 36 after the kickoff, but the Cyclones gave up the football after being for two first downs, on a yard into-the-wind punt, to the Clarendon 24.

Clarendon drove down to the Memphis 46, before being stopped. A 12-yard punt gave Clarendon the ball on the Clarendon 40.

Clarendon's Elray King, a sophomore halfback, broke for big gains to the Memphis 33. The Cyclones scored six plays later on a six-yard carry by King. Scotty Hedley booted the point after and the score was 7-7. Lindley came back and booted a 43-yard field goal to put his team in the lead 10-7 at halftime.

Memphis leading ground gainer this season, Louis Davis, took a deep second half kickoff on the 2-yard line. He ran for 11 yards which forming on the right side of the field near the Memphis 40. Davis broke one tackle, and received two good blocks from the sideline, and outdistanced the Cyclones for a 98-yard touchdown kickoff return. Hedley tried to punch the ball over

December Draft Call In Texas Is For 489 Men

AUSTIN—The December draft call for Texas is 489, and local boards will fill the call with men with random sequence numbers 1 through 160, insofar as possible, Colonel Charles M. Duncan, acting state Selective Service director, said Monday. He stated, however, that this does not mean that registrants with numbers higher than 160 may not be needed by some local boards.

Colonel Duncan stressed that under the new Executive Order signed by the President September 26, 1970, all men in I-A, I-A-O, or I-O on December 31, 1970, with numbers lower than the high number reached this calendar year by their own local boards will be assigned to the Extended Priority Selection Group to be called during the first quarter of 1971. Those with a higher number than the high number reached will be assigned to the Second Priority Group in 1971.

The Texas December draft quota of 489 is the state's share of a national quota for 7,000 men, all for the army. December inductions will occur December 1 through 17.

The state quota for pre-induction physical and mental examinations in December is 3,376. J. T. Woodson Elected President Of Texas Farm Bureau At Meeting Hall County Farm Bureau president Leon Helm announced this week some of the policies adopted by the Texas Farm Bureau which are of interest to residents in this area.

He also reported that at the recent state convention a new President for Texas Farm Bureau was elected as Sidney Dean had decided not to run again for the presidency. The convention elected J. T. Woodson of District 4, a resident of Guber, Texas, near Mineral Wells.

The new president has present-ly been serving as State Director from District 4, prior to his elec-tion as the State President of Farm Bureau for the coming year.

Vice President is M. F. Frost of McAllen, and Secretary-Treasurer is Carroll Chaloupien of Hartly County.

There was a final total of 1,218 people registered as 772 vot-ing delegates from 152 counties attending the state convention. Hall County had 12 citizens who attended the convention.

Some of the policies adopted are as follows:

"A return to a market based cotton economy is vitally necessary if the cotton industry is to prosper. To lessen the impact of a sudden, or short term progres-sive withdrawal of compensatory payments, we recommend a cot-ton policy based on the following points:

"One of these points reads as follows: During transition period, baby, Linda James, Matilda Ed-dleman, Janet Montgomery and baby, Winnie Johnson, Essie Craw-ford, Charles Crockett and Opal Waites.

The South probably received the name of Dixie from $10 bills printed in New Orleans by the Citizens Bank of Louisiana and used up and down the Mississippi. The bills carried the French word for ten, "Dix." The original lyrics of the popular song were: I wish I wuz in the Land of the Dixes."

Term insurance offers protec-tion for a limited period of time, as stated in the policy, usually 5, 10 or 20 years, or to a stated age such as 65 years.

support the United States cotton producer in the following manner—For the first year, 20 cents per pound on determined domestic allotment divided 10 cents per lb. on present projected yield, and 10 cents per pound on proven yield at end of harvest. For the second and succeeding years de-termine the payment by consider-ing the average market price for the preceding 12 months and ad-just the direct payment so that the total equals not less than 80 per cent of parity."

Also Texas Farm Bureau oppos-es, "limitation of payments, com-pulsory land retirement or set-aside program, and recommend that skip-row practice be allowed. When feed grain and or cotton is planted in two and two pattern, the two idle rows be counted as set aside acres."

"We feel that Texas Farm Bu-reau has come along way in align-ing its policies with Hall County Farm Bureau's ideas," President Helm said.

Pvt. Jerry Koontz Completes Basic Training In Calif.

FT. ORD, Calif. — Army Private Jerry D. Koontz, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delmer R. Koontz, Rt. 1, Hedley, recently completed eight weeks of basic training at the U. S. Army Training Center-Infantry, Ft. Ord, Calif.

He received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, combat tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid, and army history and tradi-tions.

He is a 1968 graduate of Clar-endon High School.

His wife, Cara, lives in Mc-Lean.

Unique among the scientific ac-tivities in the southwestern part of the nation is the production of human immunizing biologicals by the Texas State Department of Health.

The Biologics Production Di- vision of the State Health Depart-ment laboratory is one of thirteen major producers of human im-munizing agents in the United States—nine commercial manufacturers and four states' health department laboratories.

Most states buy immunizing bi-ologicals from one of the nine com-mercial producers. The only other state health department labo-ratories which produce some or all of their immunization products are Michigan, Illinois, and Massa-chusetts.

The Texas laboratory furnishes several vaccines for public health immunization programs within the state. In the event of epidemics or natural disaster, the lab maintains a large stock of finished vaccine such as smallpox, tetanus, typhoid, and diphtheria which is ready for use on short notice. In addition, concentrated stocks of vaccine are kept in reserve ready to be made quickly into finished vaccine.

Influenza, measles, polio and rabies are not manufactured, since these can be purchased cheaper than the state can produce them.

The story of biologics produc-tion at the State Health Depart-ment is not new. Biologics produc-tion was begun in the Department in 1933 when a special session of the Forty-third Legislature in-structed the lab to prepare rabies vaccine, diphtheria toxoid, and ty-phoid vaccine.

Biologics are sent to city and county health officers throughout the state for use in low income

Minimum Tillage Has Advantages If Used By Hall County Farmers

Minimum tillage is the practice of planting seed directly into a cover or crop residues blanketing the field. In one trip across the field the farmer plants the seed, puts on fertilizer and adds fertiliz-er. This operation and perhaps one cultivation is the only farming operation for the entire year. Minimum tillage which was first searched and proven to be a valuable cost reduction method on our nation's farms as soil erosion by 65-95 percent according to David Seitz, Soil Conservationist. The National Association of Conservation Districts reports that the practice is "paid off faster than any agricultural practice since hybrid corn" once across the field method used on 7-million acres of this year compared to 1.5 million acres in 1969.

groups or to combat existing or pending epidemics.

The Biologics Production Di- vision of the State Laboratory oper-ates under the regulations of the National Institute of Health in Washington, D. C. The products are given extensive testing in the Austin laboratory and are then submitted to the control labo-ratory in Washington for final testing before they are released for use. All biologicals, including those offered for sale by the com-mercial manufacturers, must un-dergo this process.

Virgin Islander Speaks At Meet On Conservation

Gov Melvin H. Evans of the Virgin Islands, in speaking to the officers and directors of the National Association of Conserva-tion Districts, Oct. 19, said:

"There was a time when we thought that all these resources which we have are inexhaustible. The cold fact is that suddenly we're realizing that one of the great dangers facing the human race is the possible exhaustion of our resources.

"Here in this small corner of the world, in Texas and California and everywhere else, we have to realize that many people on earth are using up everything faster than intended, and we must begin now to find some way of conserv-ing it.

"What we have today is not ours; we only have it in trust. It has been passed to us from by-gone generations, and we have to pass it on to future generations. Unless we are true to our trust, we will have proven to be the saddest creatures on earth."

Louis Davis Leads Memphis Team In Scoring, Yardage, Per Carry Average

The Memphis Cyclone finished the 1970 football season with a record of three wins and seven losses under Coach Clyde McMurray last Friday night.

Although the season record was not as good as was hoped, Memphis completed the season pretty much as District 2-A coaches had predicted at the first for the season when Memphis was picked to finish at the bottom of the district.

Coach McMurray's squad won three of the first four games, preparing for district play, but lost a squeaker to Crowell just before the opener, and then lost the district opener to Silverton.

Several personnel were lost to injuries, especially in the Cyclone's defensive secondary. Larry Moss received a back injury in the Chillicothe game and was lost for the season. Jimmy Phillips tore a leg muscle from which he wasn't able to recover. Mark Hundley re-injured an old neck injury and had to leave the pad.

One starter was dropped from the program.

As the season progressed, guard and linebacker Chris Limer received a knee injury and a sophomore lineman Lenis Simpson, who was brought up to the varsity, received a neck injury. Both of these occurred in the Claude game. Lawrence Kennon received a shoulder injury before the Clarendon game, and had to miss this contest.

The 1970 football season was not without its highlights.

The brightest light of the season must be the performance of Louis Davis, 155-lb. junior tailback and safety back. Davis was an exciting ball player all year, on both offense and defense.

From his tailback slot, he ground out 1,245 yards from scrimmage on 193 carries averaging 6.4 yards per carry. According to The Democrat's unofficial reords, this is the best ball carrying record ever turned in during the past decade. Besides this, Davis picked up many yards returning punts and kickoffs, came in for his share of pass interceptions and opponents' fumbles recovered, as well as making many key tackles.

Davis also was the big leader in the scoring department, making 44 points including seven touchdowns and one 2-point conversion.

Jimmy Phillips scored 20 points, including three TDs and a 2-pt. conversion as did QB John Carman who scored three TDs and a 2-pt. conversion. Larry Johnson scored 11 points, one TD, two 2-point conversions and a place kick. Roger Kehr scored 7 points, a TD and a point after. Scoring six points each were: Paul Fowler, Mark Bradshaw, and linemen Larry Jeffers and Lawrence Kennon, both recovering fumbles in their opponent's endzones.

Memphis pass receivers included: Kehr with four, Mark Hundley with four, Larry Jeffers with four, Donnie Carroll with two, Paul Fowler with two, and Jim Dixon, Larry Johnson and Louis Davis with one each.

Running Backs

Davis led the running backs with 193 carries for 1,245 yards, averaging 6.4. Others include:

Jimmy Phillips, 56 carries, 170 yards, 3.0 av.
Larry Johnson, 36 carries, 161 yards, 4.5 av.
Mark Hundley, 31 carries, 115 yards, 3.6 av.
John Carman, 57 carries, 96 yards, 1.7 av.
Paul Fowler, 20 carries, 91 yards, 4.5 av.
Mark Bradshaw, 10 carries, 54 yards, 5.4 av.
Ronald Canida, 10 carries, 27 yards, 2.7 av.
Tommy Hall, 2 carries, 4 yards, 2.0 av.
Mark Stevenson, 3 carries, 3 yards, 1.0 av.

Season Statistics
Memphis, in 10 games, averaged 12.2 first downs a game, 207.9 yards rushing and 34.3 yards passing. Memphis completed 19 passes, threw 51 incompletes, and had 8 passes intercepted.

The Cyclone lost 2.6 fumbles per game, losing 12 of these in the Crowell and Silverton games. Memphis averaged 26 yards per punt over the season. Memphis was penalized an average of 45 yards per game.

Cotton Trailers, Slow-Moving Veh. Signs Explained

Area farmers have been raising some questions concerning the use of "slow-moving vehicle" triangular signs on cotton trailers this fall.

Texas Highway Patrolman Don Collins explained that the use of the triangular signs on cotton trailers is not necessary if the trailers are pulled by a vehicle which has a speed in excess of 25 miles per hour.

"Actually, it is illegal to put a 'slow moving vehicle' sign on a trailer which is being pulled faster than 25 miles per hour," Patrolman Collins said.

"If the trailer or trailers are being pulled by a slow moving on the drawing vehicle motor vehicle, like a tractor, and the triangular sign is not obstructed by the trailer, then it is not necessary to display a similar emblem on the towed unit. If the trailer obstructs the view, then a similar emblem needs to be put on the trailer," he said.

"A 'slow moving vehicle' means any motor vehicle designed to operate at a maximum speed of 25 miles per hour or less; and the term also means and includes all other vehicles, implements of husbandry and other machinery, including all road construction machinery, while being drawn by animals or by a motor vehicle designed to operate at a maximum speed of 25 miles per hour or less," the Texas State Law states.

Patrolman Collins also advised farmers that it is legal to pull more than one trailer with vehicles designed for hauling, like trucks and pickups, so long as the overall length doesn't exceed state laws, but passenger cars are only allowed to pull one trailer.

"We have been asked if it is all right to put the triangular signs on cotton trailer by several farmers as a safety measure," Patrolman Collins said. "Actually, it defeats the purpose of the slow moving vehicle sign when it is mis-used by placing it on any unit which is traveling faster than 25 miles per hour. The law makes

Rev. E. C. Cargill, Former Pastor, Dies In Georgia

The Rev. E. C. Cargill, 98, former pastor of First Presbyterian Church here, passed away on Oct. 10 in an Atlanta, Ga., Hospital after an eight day confinement, according to information received by friends here.

Rev. Cargill was installed as pastor of the Memphis Church March 5, 1937 and served until Sept. 27, 1940. He retired in 1958 and since that time had made his home in Atlanta, Ga. After retirement, Rev. Cargill served until very recently as voluntary chaplain at the Aidmore Children's Hospital in Atlanta, Ga.

Other than here, he held pastorates at Marthasville, Cook and Hainesville in La., Clarendon, Ark., Seymour, Tex., and he held two pastorates in Italy, Forreston and Avalon, Ga.

He was married to Ida Jane Joyce Dec. 23, 1891. Mrs. Cargill died in October of 1965.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. H. B. Trimble of Atlanta, and a son, Joyce of Italy, three grandchildren, nine great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandson. Another son, Myrtis, was killed in France in World War I in 1918.

The Italy News Herald published a memorial edition in honor of

Rev. Cargill on October 16, 1970, which carried statements from numerous friends who had known him throughout the years.

The statements were such as the one from District Judge Bruce Allen: "Rev. Cargill was one of the finest men we've ever known. He served everyone, regardless of their religious beliefs. I knew him for at least 50 years, and he never forgot his Italy friends, as well as those anywhere. He set a great example by christian brotherhood."

Gertrude Rasco of Memphis said: "He served here during the depression years and had to walk everywhere, yet he visited the sick in the hospitals, in their home and found time to chat with every one with whom he came in contact, spreading a ray of sunshine, a comforting word and inspiring each one to greater christian goals and living."

Rice came to the United States by accident—as a result of a rice-carrying ship from Madagascar. The ship was blown ashore during a storm and landed on the Eastern shores of South Carolina in 1694. Colonists helped repair the ships and the governor of the colony was given some rice seeds in appreciation of the colonists' help.

Rainfall Vital To Hall County

If you have ever seen what a one-inch rain in Hall County means in how much water Royce Frisbie of the Soil Conservation Service, this week, asked the question in gallons.

When an inch of rain falls on a 160-acre farm in the Hall County Soil Conservation District it delivers 4,356,000 gallons of water that weighs over 100 tons.

To transport this amount of water would require 400 cars or four trains, each a mile long. This water comes from Soil Conservation District, Frisbie stated.

What happened to the water that fell on a farm during a recent rain? Did it stay or fell or did it trail off away?

Farmers desiring to be sure water where it falls and infiltrates the streams and lakes, asked to contact the local Soil Conservation Service office as soon as possible.

Mrs. Lee Brown returned Sunday after visiting several days in Gainesville with Mrs. Royce Swain.

with bad weather, we had a register in Heritage Saturday. Eudine (Gardner) with her sons, Mark and daughter, Mamie liked the play very much. Eudine, the wife of Mr. and Mrs. Jude graduated from M.H.S. in 1955 and married James Lott in 1955. They moved to Amarillo and graduated to College Station in 1958. He taught in Grapevine and then they moved to Levelland. They have two girls, 12 and 16, and two boys, 14 and 15. This is the girls that had her family and is now finishing up at College this year. Her mother, Nora Painter is 65 years and living in Sunbeam of Eudine's schoolmates Patsy Adcock, Ann Spoon, Stanford, Roddy Stargel and Nut Pierce.

visiting in Heritage Hall Mr. and Mrs. Harvey L. Creswick, Okla. B. J. Spence of Okla. He is the husband of Mrs. Frank Jones Spence, of Mrs. A. B. Jones. Wheatley of Hedley, guest of Shadid.

latest donor to Heritage was a check from Fred Finch which we appreciated much. Fred is the son of the Frank Finch and brother of (Finch) Harrison of Memphis included with his check was tax receipt to his dad, dated 18, 1905 which showed he was 26 years old, and he had the state of Texas for 15. It also listed his occupation as a boy. The poll tax receipt issued by J. W. Moore, tax collector of Hall County and the receipt was one dollar and twenty-five cents. Another paper included was the United States Good Association issued by order of President, a life-time member of the United States Good Association dated the 15th October, 1919, at headquarters Birmingham, Ala., signed by Rountree, director general. Fred gave his occupation as a rancher in 1905, but later he had other occupations including ranching and banking. Fred's family moved from Oklahoma in 1890. However, Frank's family moved around to California in 1930, Dallas, 1921, to Kansas City and then back to Hall County in 1931 to keep us company in the dirty thirties, and his permanent home here. Fred graduated from school in Eureka, Kans. Ruth and Carl Harrison were Fred and Carl passed away in 1955. Fred has been a good mother raising the four children all to be grown. There are four children and four grand-children. Sharon lives on the ranch in Hall County; Carlene in Dallas, Allen in Minneapolis, and Jimmy in Dallas. Fred is doing income-tax accounting and leases his ranch. Mr. and Mrs. Fred have two children, Frank in Dallas with the bank examiners and the daughter Amy is teaching in Colorado. Fred is a speech pathologist and is carrying on his fathers ranches. Ruth has a ranch in Hall County and Fred has a ranch in Dallas County.

visiting in Heritage Hall the week were Mrs. Frank Phelan, who had as her guest, Mrs. Phelan, Jr., of Clarendon, was their first time in Heritage. Mrs. Frank Phelan, Jr., with us for display, a large platter that was from G. Meakin of Handley, England, and it is now over 150 years old. This platter has seen a lot of service and travel. This platter was from Frank's great-grandmother, Mrs. Nancy Narian, mother of Victoria Narian Johnson. Floyd McRae Phelan, her husband, was James Phelan, mother and father of Frank and Victoria Phelan Morrow. James Phelan used this platter while traveling through the Indian territory selling buffalo meat to the construction crews of the first railroads built through that state.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Phelan, Sr., arrived in Memphis 1928 from Bonham. They had two children, Mildred, now Mrs. Carl Allman of Clarendon and Frank, Jr., also of Clarendon. Mildred and Frank are both graduates of M.H.S. Frank Phelan, Sr., passed away in 1955 in Clarendon.

Mrs. Wanda (Johnson) Phelan, wife of Frank, Jr., is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Penny Johnson of Amarillo, who formerly lived in Childress, where Wanda graduated from high school. Frank and Wanda have two sons, Frank III and now in W.T.S.U. (20 years old) and Charles Carl, a senior in Clarendon High School. A coincidence in the lives of Frank and Wanda was that they were born in towns 30 miles apart at Greenville and Commerce and when they were born they were delivered by the two brother doctors, Dr. Joe Beeton delivered Frank and Dr. Ed Beeton delivered Wanda. In 1925 the Johnsons moved to Childress and in 1928 the Phelans moved to Memphis which still put their kids just 30 miles apart. After all these years of living that close together Frank and Wanda met for the first time and three months later were Mr. and Mrs. after deciding that two could live as cheap as one. Frank's dad was one of the sharpest domino players I ever played with, and Wanda's dad as I remember knew when to buy a stock and when to sell.

I asked Wanda to make a comment on Heritage Hall and she did as follows: "Hall county citizens certainly have created a wonderful museum for the benefit of this community. It helps to create the interest further through the knowledge of those who helped preserve life or prior times."

I do want to congratulate the men of this town who married a Delphian Club woman, as they are such good cooks. We could not taste it all.

Turkey Times
(The following is condensed from Woodmen of the World magazine):

Contrary to what the name suggests, the turkey is not a Turkish bird. So far as is known, the country and the fowl had no early connections whatever, and historians are hard put to explain just exactly how the feathered biped we associate with Thanksgiving feasting came by its name.

All that is known for sure is that, if the bird was intended to be named for his geographical origins, then someone made a grievous error back there many years ago, because Mr. Turkey is a native of the American continent and reached the Old World only when early American explorers transported him there. It is possible that the fowl in question passed through the country of Turkey early in his European travels and was thus erroneously labeled, but this big-drumstick sport of the bird world is American all the way.

The fact is, historians tell us, turkeys liberally populated much of North and Central America in a wild state long before the white man ventured to these shores. They are believed to have been a source of food for the Indians as early as the year 1000 and perhaps earlier.

The Spanish conquistadores in 1519 were quite taken with the proud peacock-like fowl and sent some specimens back to Spain as curiosities. The Spanish readily accepted him, and soon the bird had spread all over Europe and beyond.

By the time the Pilgrims set sail for the New World in 1620, the turkey was well established as a mainstay in the barnyards and fields of England and other European countries. History records that he was commonplace enough in England by 1558 to have joined the lyrical list of favorite foods: "Beefe, Mutton, and Pork, shredpiece of the best; "Pig, Veale, Goose and Capon, and Turkie well drest . . ."

Thus in 1620 our forefathers found the familiar bird of wild cousins gobbling and strutting around in the forests and clearings near colonial settlements, it was somewhat like old home week.

Captain John Smith's record of early Jamestown, Virginia, reports "great flocks of turkey" in the vicinity, and an early resident of what is now New York found "a great store of wild fowl," including turkeys, on Long Island. Other early accounts place the bird all along the edge of the new land's frontier.

Thus, when Governor Bradford of the Plymouth colony proclaimed a special observance of Thanksgiving in 1621, it was natural that the noisy gobblers would be retrieved from nearby treetops for addition to the feast's menu. The historic scene is described in the writings of Pilgrim recorder Edward Winslow:

"Our corne did prove well and God be prayed we had a good increase of Indian corne, and our barly indifferent good, but our peace not worth the gathering . . . Our harvest being gotten in, our Governor sent foure men on fowling (turkey hunting) that so we might after a more special manner rejoice together, after we had gathered the fruit of our labours."

A-fowling they went, and the turkey began its long association with Thanksgiving. Actually, the big bird played only an incidental role in that first celebration. The successful harvest of crops in the new land, mostly corn, is what prompted the outpouring of thanksgiving unto God by the Pilgrims. Turkeys merely padded out the bountiful menu that also included venison, geese, ducks, lobsters, eels, clams, oysters, fruits, nuts, and corn bread.

The bird that graced the Pilgrims' table on that joyous occasion 349 years ago, however, was not the same one we associate with Thanksgiving today, though he was a distant relative. The plump fowl we now enjoy, surprisingly perhaps, stems from turkeys brought over from Europe—descendants of those taken to Europe from Mexico by the Spanish in the 1520s.

Evidence is lacking that turkeys which populated the eastern United States in early days were ever domesticated as were those in Mexico. So tempting a prize were they for colonial hunters and marksmen, in fact, that the supply was soon exhausted, much as the buffalo was ruthlessly banished.

The wild turkey's own shaky mental equipment made his extermination easily negotiated. True, he possessed ears that could almost hear grass growing under his feet, and his beady eyes seemingly could spot the strange plug hat of a Pilgrim a mile away. But the crafty Pilgrim, with blunderbuss in hand, simply laid down a trail of corn kernels leading to a rock or other place of ambush. Following the trail of corn, the turkey literally ate himself right into the pot.

It might be said that, after two crossings of the Atlantic Ocean, the wandering American native finally came home to roost.

Turkey production in the United States today, of course, is big business and is an important phase of agriculture and agribusiness. Science and technology have replaced the personal attention and hand labor that characterized the business for many years. Growers now are turning out more than 100 million turkeys a year, many of which end up on holiday dinner tables.

Thanks to advances in breeding, feeding and marketing techniques, Americans are eating more and better turkey and paying less for it. Turkey raising has become highly specialized and largely confined to huge integrated operations, distinct from the small individual farm units so common until the post World War II era. Minnesota and California are the big bird-producing states.

Call him turkey, or what you will, he is as much an "asset of the land" in many ways today as he was in colonial days, and he is still the makings of the American Thanksgiving dinner.

Rev. E. C. Cargill, Former Pastor, Dies In Georgia

The Rev. E. C. Cargill, 98, former pastor of First Presbyterian Church here, passed away on Oct. 10 in an Atlanta, Ga. Hospital after an eight day confinement, according to information received by friends here.

Rev. Cargill was installed as pastor of the Memphis Church March 5, 1937 and served until Sept. 27, 1940. He retired in 1958 and since that time had made his home in Atlanta, Ga. After retirement, Rev. Cargill served until very recently as voluntary chaplain at the Aldmore Children's Hospital in Atlanta, Ga.

Other than here, he held pastorates at Marthasville, Cook and Hainesville in La. Clarendon, Ark., Seymour, Tex., and he held two pastorates in Italy, Forreston and Avalon, Ga.

He was married to Ida Jane Joyce Dec. 23, 1891. Mrs. Cargill died in October of 1965.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. H. B. Trimble of Atlanta, and a son, Joyce of Italy, three grandchildren, nine great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandson. Another son, Myrtis, was killed in France in World War I in 1918.

Rev. Cargill on October 16, 1970, which carried statements from numerous friends who had known him throughout the years.

The statements were such as the one from District Judge Bruce Allen: "Rev. Cargill was one of the finest men we've ever known. He served everyone, regardless of their religious beliefs. I knew him for at least 50 years, and he never forgot his Italy friends, as well as those anywhere. He set a great example by Christian brotherhood."

Gertrude Rasco of Memphis said: "He served here during the depression years and had to walk everywhere, yet he visited the sick in the hospitals, in their home and found time to chat with every one with whom he came in contact, spreading a ray of sunshine, a comforting word and inspiring each one to greater christian goals and living."

Rice came to the United States by accident—as a result of a rice-carrying ship from Madagascar. The ship was blown ashore during a storm and landed on the Eastern shores of South Carolina in 1694. Colonists helped repair the ships and the governor of the colony was given some rice seeds in appreciation of the colonists' help.

Rainfall Vital To Hall County

If you have ever seen what a one-inch rain in Hall County means in how much water Royce Frisbie of the Soil Conservation Service, this week, ed the question in gallons.

When an inch of rain falls on a 160-acre farm in the Hall County Soil Conservation Service, it delivers 4,356,000 gallons of water that weighs over 100 tons.

To transport this amount of water would require 54 cars or four trains, each mile long. This information comes from Soil Conservation Service, Frisbie stated.

What happened to the rain that fell on a farm during recent rains? Did it stay or fell or did a trainload get away?

Farmers desiring to know where it falls and how to use the streams and lakes asked to contact the Soil Conservation Service as soon as possible.

latest donor to Heritage is a check from Fred Finch, which we appreciated. Fred is the son of the Frank Finch and brother of (Finch) Harrison of Memphis. Fred's check was for $25.00, dated 10/18/70, which showed he was 26 years old, and he had been in the state of Texas for 15 years. The poll tax receipt was by J. W. Moore, tax collector of Hall County and the receipt was one dollar and twenty-five cents. Another receipt included was the United States Good Association issued by order of President, a life-time member of the United States Good Association dated the 15th of October, 1919, at headquarters Birmingham, Ala., signed by Rountree, director general. Fred gave his occupation as a ranchman in 1905, but later he had other occupations including ranching and banking. Fred's family moved from Okla. in 1890. However, Frank's family moved around to California in 1930, Dallas in 1921, to Kansas City and Okla., but back to Hall County in 1931 to keep us company in the dirty thirties, and his permanent home here. Fred graduated from school in Eureka, Kans. Ruth, the late Carl Harrison were and Carl passed away in 1931. Ruth has been a good mother and father raising the four children and four grand-children. Sharon lives on the ranch in Clay County; Carlene in Okla., Allen in Minneapolis, and Jimmy in Dallas. Fred is doing income-tax accounting and leases his ranch. Mr. Fred has two children, Fred and Ruth in Dallas with the Bank examiners and the other Amy is teaching in Colorado and is a speech pathologist. Fred and Ruth are carrying on their ranches. Ruth has a ranch in Clay County and Fred has a ranch in Dallam County.

ing in Heritage Hall the week were Mrs. Frank Phelan, who had as her guest, Mrs. Phelan, Jr., of Clarendon, on their first time in Heritage Hall. Mrs. Frank Phelan, Jr., has with her for display, a large silver platter that was from the Meakin of Handley, England, and it is now over 150 years old. This platter has seen a lot of service and travel. This platter was from Frank's great-grandmother, Mrs. Nancy Narian, mother of Victoria Narian Johnson, Floyd McRaw Phelan, her husband, was James Phelan, mother and father of Frank and Victoria Phelan Morrow. James Phelan used this platter while traveling through the Indian territory selling buffalo meat to the construction crews of the first railroads built through that state.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Phelan, Sr., arrived in Memphis 1928 from Bonham. They had two children, Mildred, now Mrs. Carl Allman of Clarendon and Frank, Jr., also of Clarendon. Mildred and Frank are both graduates of M.H.S. Frank Phelan, Sr., passed away in 1955 in Clarendon.

Mrs. Wanda (Johnson) Phelan, wife of Frank, Jr., is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Penny Johnson of Amarillo, who formerly lived in Childress, where Wanda graduated from high school. Frank and Wanda have two sons, Frank III and now in W.T.S.U. (20 years old) and Charles Carl, a senior in Clarendon High School. A coincidence in the lives of Frank and Wanda was that they were born in towns 30 miles apart at Greenville and Commerce and when they were born they were delivered by the two brother doctors, Dr. Joe Beeton delivered Frank and Dr. Ed Beeton delivered Wanda. In 1925 the Johnsons moved to Childress and in 1928 the Phelans moved to Memphis which still put their kids just 30 miles apart. After all these years of living that close together Frank and Wanda met for the first time and three months later were Mr. and Mrs. after deciding that two could live as cheap as one.
