EDITORIAL

Small Town Survival, What Are We Doing?!

This past week, we noted that many of the progressive editors throughout this area have, through their editorial pages, served notice on their communities on what must be done if their communities are to survive.

One editor used the expression "see how well the shoe fits." The basis for the editorials is the Mid-Continent Banker Magazine article which dealt with the problems facing small towns, and what town leaders can do to keep the small town from "slipping into oblivion."

The article pointed out that between 60 and 70 million Americans live in towns under 10,000 population. There are some 7,679 communities of under 10,000—and 6,303 under 5,000. Memphis falls into the latter bracket.

The author of the article pointed out that the key to a community's long-range survival is jobs.

However, the writer warned that without modern retailing facilities long-range survival for a community may not be possible, in spite of everything else a community may have going for it.

The author posed questions concerning the plans of present businesses to continue, after the present owners and operators retire. He asked the following questions:

(1) How many businessmen in your town are nearing retirement age? (2) How many of these businesses will be continued by second-generation, capable family members? (3) If there are no qualified family successors, do these merchants have anyone working for them who might run the business in the future?

(4) What kind of selection do customers in your area have for products in the following classes: men's, women's, and children's clothing; shoes for the entire family; major appliances; hardware-housewares-sporting goods; drugs; food; furniture?

(5) How much shopping for stylish or big-ticket items do towns-people do outside your town? (6) How many local merchants have modernized their shopping facilities (or enlarged them) within the past five or 10 years?

The writer urged Chamber of Commerce leaders to take the lead in seeing that the retail area of the community received a face lifting if it were needed.

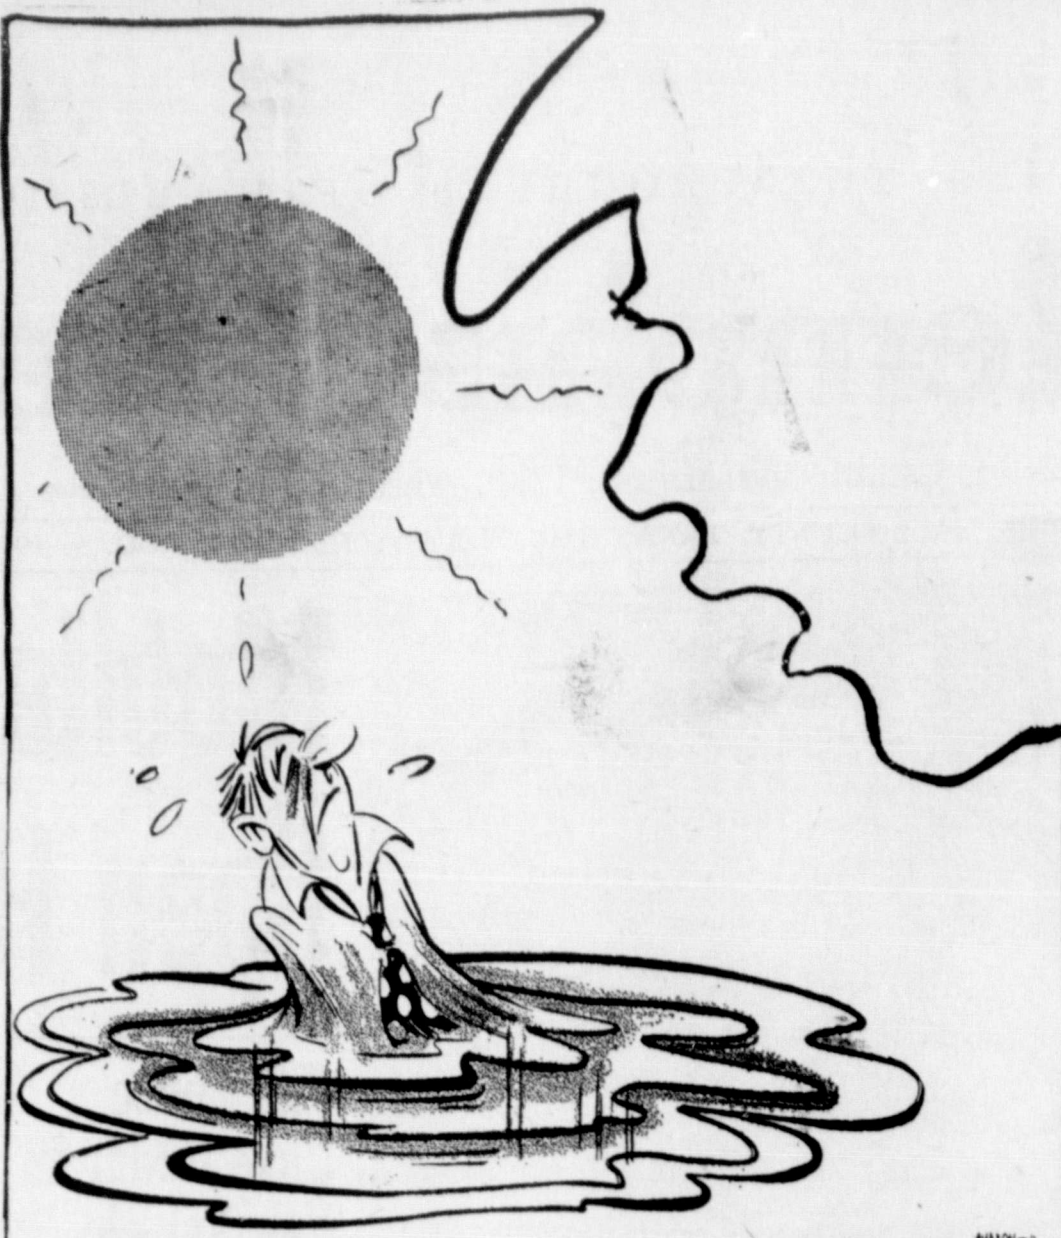

The writer asks one final question which hits every small town right square between the eyes: "What is happening to presently vacated and deteriorating buildings? Are they being left as ever-present ever more ominous eyesores to consumers, discouraging shopping visits and portraying a dying instead of a living community? Perhaps these buildings should be torn down and the sites converted into needed parking areas to supplement that always-limited on-street parking.

We'd feel certain we would be right by saying that almost every community has all, or almost all of these problems. The need for more job opportunities is always with us.

We, who live in Memphis do not realize sometimes how fortunate we are to have the facilities, public, school, church, business, social and recreational we do have. Our Chamber of Commerce and industrial foundation, although not always as successful as our leaders would like, are active, progressive, and trying to foster a unified effort toward progress for this area.

Our businessmen are trying to encourage more trade with special promotions.

Another major effort on the part of our elected officials and public employees should be recognized. If you, as a local citizen, haven't been in the public facilities recently, you might do so to see how well our Community Center, schools, our hospital, and all of our facilities are being maintained. Preservation of good facilities is very important.

"I SAID, IS IT HOT ENOUGH FOR YOU?"

ACROSS THE DESK

What Other Editors Say

Spending At Home
Mrs. Grace Slaughter of Oklahoma City admits openly that she "just loves" Hollis, pointed out the convenience of shopping in a small town.

"It's so easy to shop in Hollis. You have only to walk a short distance to find everything you need," she explained.

Besides, she pointed out prices on identical items are lower in Hollis than larger communities, designating a pair of house shoes which she bought in Hollis at half their cost in Oklahoma City.

It always does our heart good to hear someone else say things we know to be true.

There's very, very little we want, and nothing we really need, that we can't find right at home.

It's disturbing to me to see local folks shopping away from home. If local folks don't patronize their local merchants, they have no right to complain when they suddenly need an item and can't find it right away at home. In all likelihood, if they would ask for even an unusual item a little in advance, our local merchants would practically break their necks to get it for them.

Besides, it's no joke that money spent at home continues working at home.

Personally, we shop our hometown stores for purely selfish reasons: it's more convenient; it's more comfortable for us to deal with folks we know; we know that what we buy here can be serviced here or, if a fault is discovered, and adjustment will be happily made. Besides, we don't enjoy driving - especially to another town just to spend our hard-earned money. We have always found more to buy than we have money for right here at home.

Curious Extravagance

The Christian Science Monitor quotes Senator Frank E. Moss of Utah as finding the federal government's policies on tobacco "utterly shocking." The government spends approximately $4.5 million tellings its citizens that cigarette smoking is dangerous to health, and it is so concerned about the health effect on American smokers that it won't let cigarette makers advertise on radio or TV.

At the same time the government spends another $68 million encouraging farmers to grow tobacco and processors to sell it abroad.

Senator Moss is particularly incensed that the government should export $31.2 million worth of tobacco under the Food for Peace program. "The basic idea of the program," he points out, "was to get food into countries that were in need of food. One of the things they need lest in areas where food is a problem is tobacco."

New Hope for Old Friend

State and national leaders brought encouraging words about an old friend to Dallas Friday. Their message was the urgent for producing more cotton. This crop, which has withstood the hazards of weather, diseases and insects and other perils better than any other Texas can grow, now has a brighter prospect in the marketplace.

Representatives of Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the National Cotton Council and other groups are emphasizing this fact in meetings throughout the state. The price and demand outlook for this versatile fiber and its protein-and-fat-rich seed is excellent, so good, in fact, that increased production is essential to prevent the crop from once again pricing itself too high to overcome competition from synthetics and foreign fibers.

High yields per acre are the answer, these leaders say. More than that, high yield offer producers the maximum opportunity for profit—the best way to offset inflating costs of production. Experience has proved that the best farming practices developed through research and experience will increase yields, on the Blacklands around Dallas, the irrigated High Plains of West Texas or the fertile bottoms of the Brazos, Trinity and other rivers.

For almost 150 years, cotton has been a keystone of Texas agriculture and progress. Its problems have been intricate. Its assets too often have been overshadowed. The $398 million fiber and seed brought Texas producers from 1970 plants was $81 million more than in 1969. But that was only a fractional part of the total economic influence on this state. That agribusiness effect is estimated at $1,422,718,000 by Dr. William F. Harris, director, Cotton Economic Research, University of Texas, Austin.

With the current bright outlook for cotton, even greater benefits may come to bankers, truck drivers, merchants and other from Dallas to Lubbock, Bryan, Brownsville and countless other communities. But the maximum gains can be realized only if all of the know-how we have is used to make each plant yield its maximum potential of white gold.

Eddie Gables Enjoy Vacation Trip To Northwest

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Gable and girls returned Sunday after an eight-day tour of eight states, one of the most outstanding was Wyoming.

In Wyoming they enjoyed Yellowstone Park and one of the first historical museums in the United States. This was the Buffalo Bill Historical Center in Cody. The main gallery is 250 feet long. The entire museum is devoted to the preservation and exhibition of the finest art of the old West.

Standing just northwest of the center is the largest bronze equestrian statue in the world, the famous Buffalo Bill monument by Gerudee Vanderbilt Whitney.

This statue, along with the acreage occupied by the center, was donated to Cody by Mrs. Whitney in 1924 as the nucleus for a shrine to the "Western Way of Life" and Buffalo Bill.

The Buffalo Bill Center is valued at over $10,000,000. In addition the fine collection on Buffalo Bill brings to life the story and heritage of the great American. Featured in the Whitney gallery are large collections of the work of Frederic Remington and Charles Russell as well as displays of paintings of nearly all the famous western artists both living and dead. Dr. John Walker, director of the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D. C., said, "The illustrators of America's great west will become the heroes of tomorrow's artists and the Buffalo Bill Historical Center will become their shrine."

A day is not too long if you are a real western fan to spend in the center, the Gables said. "We spent two and a half hours in the center and enjoyed every minute of it," they concluded.

Young Men Must Register—

Questions About Selective Service Answered By Childress Board Mgr.

Questions concerning the current Congressional impasse on Selective Service System were answered by Mrs. Frances Starkey, who manages Local Board No. 20, Childress.

"Current Congressional impasse over extending the induction authority has created great uncertainty among draft-age men," she said.

Mrs. Starkey continued, "Selective Service Director Curtis Tarr has recently stressed the importance of explaining to our draft-age men the high probability that draft calls will resume in the near future and that the current impasse in Congress is not likely to affect any registrant's chance of being drafted."

"Our local board has been specifically instructed to continue to register and classify men, and to order for preinduction physical examinations those young men who may be needed to fill draft calls in the coming months," Mrs. Starkey said.

Men with lottery number through 125 were eligible for induction in June in order to fill draft calls. Since then, the Defense Department has asked Selective Service to draft 16,000 men in July-August. This request is being held by Selective Service headquarters pending final Congressional action on the draft bill, which is expected within several weeks.

"Those men with relatively low lottery numbers who are eligible for induction this year, particularly those with numbers below 175—the current processing ceiling—have a very good chance of being processed for induction after draft calls are restored," Mrs. Starkey said.

"Many young men," said Mrs. Starkey, "seem to think that the Selective Service Act has permanently expired and that they probably will never be drafted. Some of them also think that the entire system has stopped. They are wrong since it is only the induction authority that has expired. They, therefore, may be unintentionally breaking the law by failing to register at age 18, by not keeping their local board informed of their current address, or by failing to report, if ordered, for their preinduction physical examinations."

Mrs. Starkey also stressed that local board are continuing to consider CO, hardship, and student deferments and to take other classification action. "Young men who had planned to submit requests for deferments or exemptions are encouraged to do so," she said.

"The expiration of the induction authority does not affect our responsibility to classify young men," Mrs. Starkey added.

Mrs. Starkey may be contacted at 109 Ave. B. N. E., the office of Local Board No. 20, in Childress.

Farmers Urged To Protect Land Against Wind Damage This Winter

During 1970 there were approximately 200,000 acres of protected cropland damaged by sandstorms in Hall County. Housewives were plagued with dust and dust in their homes. School bus drivers had problems picking up children in rural communities, as some rural roads were blocked by 2 to 5 feet of sand. These storms were the worst since the 50's according to the McDonald, soil conservationist, with the Memphis work station.

McDonald further stated that farmers should now consider planting a winter cover crop in order to prevent those "dark and dusty" days of last year winter.

One of the most popular winter cover crops that is planted to prevent wind erosion, as well as winter grazing is rye. All cover crops, including rye, should be planted early enough to make efficient growth before cold weather.

B. B. Shots

by BYRON BALDWIN

Well a few mornings ago I did another "Honey" Do job that was a little bit embarrassing. As I was carrying this plastic hamper loaded with clothes with a hand on each end of the hamper and walking to the street and just ready to open the car door, all of a sudden the elastic broke in my pajama pants, and I only had two hands, but very fortunate in having a robe on as the traffic was going down the street I thought of 2 different things when this happened. One was the way used to hobble the horse when he was grazing so he would not get away. The other thing I thought of was the time Art Linkletter asked the little five year old on his television show, "What was the most miserable part of life she had found in her five years?" She replied, "Jumping rope with a loose pair of panties on." Anyway I came to the conclusion that I was not far out of style.

Visiting in Heritage Hall the past week was Jeff Scott of Amarillo. Jeff is the son of the former Betty Paschall whom we called "Peanut". The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Paschall. I remember how peanut used to handle horses at the rodeos especially, the barrel racing. She married Bill Scott of Waco. I asked Jeff if his mother still liked to ride horses and he said "Yes, we have three horses now and we all like to ride." Jeff had with him in Heritage Hall his cousin, Edward Mayhugh of Houston, Texas, he is the son of another Paschall girl, Marie. Both of these boys were guests of Mrs. Boyce Bruce, who is a sister of these boy's mother. Jeff Scott has one sister.

Rickey Miller had as his guest the past week his brother Coy Jr. of DeSoto, Texas, where he has been teaching vocational agriculture for the past three years. They are sons of Coy Miller Mgr. of our local Lone Star Gas Co.

In looking over some of the old books of the Chamber of Commerce I note that in 1935 for the Hall County Picnic 75 loaves of bread in the Memphis Bakery was $6.00 and 65 loaves from the Good Eats Bakery was $5.20. Some differences in picnic prices.

Mrs. E. G. Archer had as her guests in Hall County Heritage Hall Mr. and Mrs. George Archer and their son Damon of Houston, Texas. George, the youngest son of Mrs. Archers, graduated from M. H. S. in 1958. He attended Howard Payne College of Brownwood. While attending Howard Payne, he was working in music with a church in Brady, Texas when he met and married Darline Portez in 1963. George has been with the Bethel Baptist church for the past six years serving as youth and music director. They are now planning a youth evangelistic trip to Silverton, Colo. where they will also do some labor in helping remodel their church building. There will be 60 young people making this trip.

Mrs. Archer has one daughter, Laverne, of Oklahoma City and four sons, ent of Wichita Falls, Dempy of Albuquerque, Bill now serving as a minister in Ohio, and George of Houston. They are all graduates of M. H. S. George and his wife were very much surprised that we had so many items on display at our museum. Thanks very much to Mrs. Archer for giving us a show case for more displays.

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Ellerd and Mike had as their guests in Heritage Hall, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Messer and son, David, of New Orleans, La. They have lived there for the past 23 years. L. W. graduated from M. H. S. in 1939 and moved away from here about 30 years ago and married a Louisiana girl, but says he still likes Texas coffee.

I was show, these people some old pictures, and one of them was taken when we had so many dairy shows and along with them we had the cow-milking contests. Edith (Gables) now the wife of Rasco, said she remembering entering these contests, but said he did not win first places. In talking with her I think she failed on purpose, so her folks could not find out how good she was at this contest as she might have to take over this job at home regular.

Other visiting in Hall Co. Heritage Hall were Kelly Gable of Lakeview, Lilly and Betty Hilburn of Bethany, Okla., Lee Gregory of Childress, Russell and Susan Clark of Grand Rapid, Michigan who are here visiting their grandmothers Mrs. Henry Hayes and Mrs. Katie Clark. They are the children of John and Patsy (Hayes) Clark.

Mrs. Walter Hightower had as her guests in Heritage Hall her 2 granddaughters, Jane Lilly of Houston, daughter of Laura and Allison of Vernon, daughter of Senator Jack Hightower. Mrs. Hightower brought to Heritage Hall a picture of Walter when he was about 30 years old. He looked like a Beau Brummel in those days.

Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Robertson had as their guests in Hall Co. Heritage Hall Mrs. Andy Honea, Erdine and Enrde Robertson of Wichita Falls, Texas. Erdine and Enrde are the children of the late Dewitt Robertson, who passed away 6 years ago. Also with this group were: Dot Messer and Oliver McMurry of Hedley, Perry Landrum of Iowa Park wasa guest of Audrie and Charles Phillips.

Visiting in Heritage Hall was Susan (Rowell) Clements and sons, Jerry 17 and Gary 12. She is the daughter of Tom Rowell of Estelle and granddaughter of Uncle Bill Rowell, an early day pioneer. She was born in Vernon, Texas and attended school at Gilpin, and a graduate of McCamey High School. They are now living at Odessa, Texas. She had 2 brothers, Joe Bob now of Levelland and Tom L. deceased. Her husband Jack Clements passed away in 1968.

When Zady Belle Walker was packing up last week moving to Spearman, where she will teach she and her sister Thelma of Spearman and Mary Katherin of Austin, gave us a few very interesting pictures of by-days. One of these pictures was of the interior of Leonard "Doss's" tailor shop, with the personal in background, Mr. and Mrs. Doss, Billy Higdan, and Emmett Lee Walker. Another picture was a cotton picking some on the King place southwest of town and two of the cotton pickers were identified as Harol and Siegle Walker. That was when cotton was all hand pulled. In this group was a picture of inside the office upstairs on the nor side of the square E. E. and Billy Walker sitting at a table. Another picture made in 1911 with 77 members of singing school conducted at the lodge by E. E. Walker. I could identify only the teacher. I will guess that John Vallance and Milton Orr were in this group of singers besides a lot of other old-timers of lodge. We might have a duet out of these 2 boys if they can find their tuning fork.

It does not seem like there has ever been so many people that I have come in contact with that are the same age as Jack Benny. Another one last Saturday said that was her birthday and she volunteered in telling her age of 39. So I did buy her a bottle of coke for her 39th birthday. Ruth Cobb must have been to the fountain of youth.

I overheard on the stork line week that (Soapy) Homer Tribbe was going to be married to a grandma in December and then another message came in on this line and Becky Bruce said she was going to be married to a grandpa in October.

I attended the beauty contest last Saturday night sponsored by the B & P W Club, and after looking these 14 contestants over I think with their looks and praise we would have a chance in the "Miss Universe" contest. I can prove this by Lester Campbell who was master of ceremonies and had a front view.

Congratulations to Elmer Lacy of Turkey for his good organizations for Hall County picnic which is the 3rd Sunday in Sept.

I read a statement a few days ago that the old slogan of "Let George Do It" had been changed to "Let Washington do it" I do not believe Washington will help us as the picnic, as they seem to have their boat loaded already with billions appropriated. It is a Hall County picnic and hot "Old Settlers" as some still call it.

I noticed in one of our daily papers a man told how things are while his wife is away "The whole house seems so empty, except the sink, that's full of dishes."

I guess you can get prescriptions for most everything now as I noticed when Phillis Diller ad-

she says (Quote) "My body's so bad I have to wear prescription underwear."

Mr. and Mrs. Bobbie Patterson of Claude visited here Sunday. They were en route home after visiting in Denton with Mrs. Pattersons sister, Paul Gailey.

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

BY VERN SANFORD

It is not uncommon for an angler to spend $40 or $50 on quality fishing tackle, then go and spoil it all by skimping on the hooks.

A hook is to fishing what a bullet is to hunting. Each is inexpensive, yet each is THE item that actually puts fish and game on the table.

The only time a good hook costs in excess of a dime is when big-game-fish species are involved. But for the usual large mouth bass, specked trout, flounder, redfish, etc., caught in Texas water, the general hooks sold in sporting goods stores will suffice.

Most fishermen buy a sufficient quantity of hook. However, they err in trying to make hooks perform usefulness and purpose.

We know a few professional salt water fishing guides who will not use a hook for more than one fishing trip. On the other hand we know some fishermen who try to hoard hooks and seek to make them stand for countless fishing trips.

The true life of a good fish-hook is somewhere in between. If few fish are caught and those taken have soft mouths, a hook might be good for perhaps a dozen fishing trips. If fish are hard-mouthed and you catch a lot of them, the hook may lose its effectiveness in a trip or two. On the other hand the hook used in fresh water has a much longer life than its counterpart used in salt water fishing.

To be effective, a hook must have a needle-sharp point for quick and easy penetration. Fish with hard mouths take the edge off a hook in a hurry, and even a soft-mouthed fish can dull a hook if it happens to strike a bone. Fish with heavy teeth take their toll of hooks, too.

Every fisherman should examine his hooks frequently. When a hook shows signs of dulling, put a new edge on it with a hone. But remember every time a hook is honed, the point is shortened just a bit. After a while the point can be filed too short to be effective.

Barbs, too must be examined as frequently as the points. Digging the hook out of a fish's mouth can bend a barb and sometimes will break the barb off. Either way it penalizes the fisherman.

Salt water is murder on fish-hooks. Salt will quickly eat off platings and make hooks rust or corrode. A good way to preserve hooks in the salt water tackle box is to line the bottom of the container with a cloth saturated in fish oil. Make sure fish oil is used, not petroleum base oil. The latter has an odor and the taste is repulsive to fish.

Keep in mind that a hook is the business end of your fishing tackle. Keep it sharp! When it shows signs of wear, throw it away and replace it with a new one. Otherwise you may lose a big fish—possibly a record one—simply because of a dull or weak hook.

About the handiest thing any hunter can have is a gun with a

was not injured cannot collect on his uninsured motorist policy.

Appointments
Governor Smith announced the appointment of Mrs. Mary Nell Garrison of Austin to the Board of Regents of Midwestern University, Wichita Falls.

Louis Shanks of Austin to the State School Land Board.

Charles Freeman of Pleasanton to Board of Directors of Evergreen Underground Water Conservation District.

William Harold Pieratt Jr. of Giddings and Taylor H. Jobe of Gladewater to the State Board of Pharmacy.

Senate "Rated"
League of Conservation Voters rated 11 senators with perfect voting records on seven selected environmental issues this year.

Eight others were given a passing score, and 12 flunked (with less than five favorable votes out of seven). Seven of the latter group who registered two or less votes deemed correct by the environmentalists were put down as having "abominable records."

Highlights and Sidelights FROM YOUR State CAPITOL

AUSTIN—Competition is shaping up in the top two state races for 1972.

State Sen. Joe Christie of El Paso emerged recently as a possible candidate for the Democratic U. S. Senate nomination.

Christie, a 38-year El Pasoan, said he would be reluctant to abandon his State Senate place, but he is keeping a close eye on U. S. Senator John Tower's activities in the Senate and considers him vulnerable to contest by a strong Democrat.

Christie's statement was seen as a trial balloon aimed at detecting just how serious Democratic leaders are about fielding a candidate against Tower—and whether they would consider him as the man to unite behind.

Meanwhile, Dolph Briscoe of Uvalde is declaring his candidacy for governor and asking support in a series of statewide speeches.

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes has announced his candidacy for governor in mid-June, and already is campaigning (with time out to get married: to the former Mrs. Nancy Sayers of Austin, a longtime friend).

Former U. S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough is still leaving the door open for either a senate or gubernatorial race.

Gov. Preston Smith hints, from time to time, he may seek reelection.

Houston Post President William P. Hobby is the only announced candidate to succeed Barnes as lieutenant governor, but a lot more are expected to follow.

Courts Speak
State Supreme Court upheld an intermediate court finding that an individual has no vested "property right" to welfare aid. In other recent decisions, the high court held:

A 1966 constitutional amendment does not outlaw use of market value to determine tax value of agricultural land. Kerr County ranchers had contended valuation should be determined on net income per acre from agricultural use only.

Beaumont Baptist minister of a church moved into a residential neighborhood cannot be held in contempt of a court order which blocked construction of an animal health clinic on same site.

Texas law does not require a father to support his illegitimate children. (Only one other state fails to provide for such support.)

Contractors cannot collect on an insurance policy as the result of fire at a missile site near Abilene from which they had been hired to move property.

Austin district judge cleared the way for an appellate court test of whether the legislature in effect repealed penalties for possession of LSD and certain other illegal drugs.

clip magazine.

It took a long time for clip magazines to come into the picture on big caliber rifles. But most companies now are making them. This is particularly true of the automatic as well as some lever-actions and pumps.

Savage produced a rifle for clip magazines for years, and today most of its best models have clip magazines.

Reason behind this feature is very simple. It permits the easy carrying of the extra loads. This means you have a quick refill if you should try at some running animal. It also permits the use of different bullet weights, a worthwhile advantage in some hunting areas.

For instance, if you are shooting across a wide canyon, you may feel a 150 or 180 grain bullet is best. But if you are facing a big bear or expecting a moose, then you may want to go up to 200 grains. This, in the event you are using some of the larger calibers. Quick available power often is invaluable.

Mrs. Mary Lenoir, Mrs. Rodney Sams and Mrs. D. S. Johnson and Sidney and Bub were in Palo Duro Park last Wednesday night to see the production, "Texas."

Paul and Clarence Morris have received word of the death of their sister-in-law, Mrs. M. M. Morris, who lived in Clewiston, Fla. Mrs. Morris died on July 5 and funeral services were conducted there on July 7. Mr. and Mrs. Morris had lived in Florida for many years.

Band Director—

"I think this is probably one of the largest groups from Memphis to attend band camp," Director Blain said.

Ramona, Ballew was chosen Outstanding Drum Major of the camp, the director reported. Marilyn Lindsey, the drum major instructor, was really impressed by Ramona, Miss Blain said.

"I'm very proud of the twirlers as they took private instructions from Chris Jones, former head twirler at Tech," Miss Blain said. "Chris complimented the twirlers by saying they were one of the top groups at the camp."

De Rose products are sold under various trade names through dealers in 36 states covering all but one of the nation's primary marketing areas for mobile homes.

Company officials have not indicated how many employees they will have at the Memphis plant, but did indicate to local leaders that they will hire from the local market most of their labor force.

Local Impact
Pen Parks said, "The payroll and money spent by them in our area will greatly benefit us all."

Lester Campbell, Chamber president, said, "We understand that money, brought into an area by tourists, industry, or whatever, circulates seven times before it leaves."

Ace Galey said, "With De Rose in operation here, we are reaching a balance between agriculture and industry, something that is highly beneficial to us and insures a bright future."

Other local business leaders pointed out that the factory will employ men, primarily, which helps to encourage new families to move in, or helps local heads-of-households to enjoy a better
