City Police Clearing Up Burglaries

After a rash of burglaries and vandalism in Muleshoe, the Muleshoe City Police worked steadily, silently and diligently until they broke more than 12 cases the past week.

One of the cases cleared by the arrest of one juvenile and one adult, was more than $4,000 in vandalism at the Muleshoe Country Club. It seems that around some eight persons were involved in taking golf carts, and using them as 'bumper cars.'

The same adult and juvenile were also apparently implicated in the following incidents, believed cleared by arrest:

A burglary at the Muleshoe Post Office; two burglaries at Muleshoe Antenna Co.; five burglaries at Mary DeShazo Elementary School, where money and a VCR were taken. The VCR has been recovered.

Also, a burglary in April at the Mule Team laundry; and a newspaper rack burglary at IGA Food Store.

Money was taken in all burglaries by the duo, according to officers with the Muleshoe Police Department, except for the VCR.

The juvenile is being held at a juvenile detention center in Lubbock and the adult was released on bond from the Bailey County Jail.

One person is jailed in Odessa and charged with the theft of tools valued at more than $600 from J.G. Arnn, and more than $2,000 in tools from Curby Brantley, Det. Julian Dominguez said many of the tools were recovered.

In yet another unrelated incident, three juveniles were detained, with one giving a statement concerning vandalism at the Cross Roads Fina.

Members of the Muleshoe Police Department are to be commended for their work in clearing all the many cases.

"We share our blessings, and our talents, with our family, neighbors and friends," said the district governor. "For instance, take teachers. If they do not learn the secret of sharing, we would not have the great education we have. In religion, we share out blessings. "And we all share Lionism with each other," he added. Visiting Edith Williams last week was her great-granddaughter, Kayna Puckett of Muleshoe. She attended Bible School at the Church of Christ while here. Edith's son, Gene, of Muleshoe visited with his mother Sunday.

Josephine Fisher and Missy have returned home after four weeks in Brownfield at the home of their daughter, Kathy and Ralph Granger and Brett. Missy has now returned for classes at Wayland Baptist University, Plainview.

Mr. and Mrs. Connie Franks and Holly visited Saturday in Levelland with their son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Brad Franks.

Dark clouds approached Sunday evening putting most Sudan and area residents on the alert as weather watchers. Following hard rain along with some hail, farmers are wishing for dry and warm days for their crops. After some 3 1/2 to 4 1/2 inches of rain in this vicinity during the past week lakes were again filled, and overflowing in some areas where it crossed pavements. Some dirt roads were still inaccessible on Tuesday. Some farmers did get to return to fields to sand fight and resume planting on Tues. & Wed.

Mrs. Nanny Preston, grandmother of Mike May, was here for his graduation from the Sudan senior class, and visited with Mike's family, the Ralph Mays.

The valedictory address was given by Wade Donnell and Buddy Lowrance, high school principal presented the class with Glen Cardwell, president of the school board presenting diplomas to each graduate.

W.V. McAlpin, superintendent of schools, named the outstanding senior boy and girl and then presented awards and scholarships to the class, which was followed by the class singing the school song.

The benediction was given by the Rev. Larry Blansett, pastor of the Church of God of Prophecy.

Sodium Label Regulations Take Effect In July

Consumers should find it a little easier to cut back on sodium in their diets, thanks to a new Food and Drug Administration (FDA) regulation, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service nutritionist.

Beginning July 1, 1986, the FDA will require that the sodium content be shown on any food that provides nutrition information on the label, reports Mary K. Sweeten.

"The regulation should be of real help to people who are concerned about the hidden sources of sodium in processed foods," she says.

According to the nutritionist, sodium content will be listed in milligrams per serving. Consumers can use that information to see if they are staying within the recommended sodium intake, of 1,100 to 3,300 milligrams a day.

In addition, Sweeten says the FDA has defined the various terms that manufacturers may use to describe the sodium content of their products. These terms include:

*"Sodium Free"--less than 5 milligrams of sodium in each serving.

*"Very Low Sodium"--35 milligrams or less in a serving.

*"Low Sodium"--140 milligrams or less per serving.

*"Reduced Sodium"--the usual level of sodium for this product has been reduced by at least 75 percent.

"Sodium-conscious consumers should keep in mind that a product with little or no salt is not necessarily sodium free." Sweeten cautions, "since at least 70 sodium compounds, such as monosodium glutamate or sodium bicarbonate, are used in processed foods."

But she also points out that an FDA survey shows about half the food products available would already qualify as being "low-sodium" products. Among these foods are hot and cold cereals, fresh meats and poultry, some fish, frozen vegetables, and some desserts and snacks.

The technology is not yet available to economically harness the wind... or the sun to generate electricity. And, you're well aware of the problems with nuclear. So, we're glad we chose coal. Jennyslippers

Holds Regular Monthly Meeting

Muleshoe Jennyslippers held their regular monthly meeting at noon Tuesday at K-Bob's. Following the reading and approval of the previous meeting's minutes by Jeanie Mills, Evelyn Peat gave a treasurer's report.

Three visitors, Marie Lane, Debbie Kitrell and Deborah Lowe were introduced and welcomed to the meeting. The Jennyslippers have a new member, Pat Langfitt.

A discussion was held on the float for the fourth of July parade. Members having any of the items needed for the Jennyslipper float and would like to loan them you are asked to call 272-3829 at night or 272-4281 during the day.

The group voted to have a booth at the coliseum and sell sesquicentennial items on the fourth.

Toni Eagle reported on the trip she and Evelyn Peat, and Thursie Reid made to Littlefield during the "Denim Festival" held recently.

The next meeting of the Jennyslippers will be Tuesday, July 8 at 7 p.m. at the Miniature Golf Course. All members are asked to take either cookies or ice cream as this will be "Family Night."

watering chicken barbecue to your heart's content, says Dr. James Denton, poultry marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Chicken barbecuing involves four basic steps. First, split the birds in half and sprinkle each half generously with salt and pepper before placing on the pit, advises Denton. To shorten barbecuing time, cut halves into parts.

Second, make sure coals are white hot before putting the chicken on the grill. Any type of cooker can be used, but keep the coals 8 to 12 inches from the cooking rack for best results, says the specialist.

Another basic step for top-notch chicken barbecue is to use a basting sauce during the cooking process which contains no tomato product or sugar because such sauces burn easily. A basting sauce will keep meat moist and juicy and add a desired flavor. Apply basting sauce and turn chicken halves frequently.

Denton suggests these ingredients for a basting sauce: 1 tablespoon salt, 1 teaspoon black pepper, 1 stick butter of margarine, 2 tablespoons Worcestershire Sauce and a few drops of hot sauce of red pepper. Heat the mix over a low flame until the butter of oleo melts; then add the juice of one lemon (vinegar may be substituted). Next fill the pan with water and heat but do not boil. Spices such as garlic salt or lemon pepper can be added to suit personal preference.

To top off the barbecuing process, apply a finishing sauce to the chicken about the last 20 to 30 minutes before cooking is complete. This is the most critical time during the entire cooking process, emphasized Denton. Check the meat carefully and turn it frequently to avoid burning the finishing sauce.

Several types of finishing sauce are available and vary from mild to hot. To prepare your own sauce (for 10 chicken halves), use the following: 1 cup cooking oil, 1 cup vinegar, 1 cup catsup, ¼ cup sugar and ½ cup water. Add salt, Worcestershire Sauce, hot sauce, garlic and other seasonings to taste.

Chicken barbecue should be complete in about 1½ to 2 hours. Cooking longer with less heat usually results in the most flavorful, juicy and tender barbecue. Placing the cooking rack closer than 8 inches to the coals will reduce barbecuing time, but the meat will be drier and less tender, Denton points out.

A test for doneness is to twist the drumstick which is connected to the thigh. If the joint between the thigh and drumstick is loose, the chicken is ready to eat. Another test is to cut into the meat at this joint. The moisture in the joint will run clear if the meat is done.

The fun part of chicken barbecuing is to develop your own secret recipe and cooking style, says Denton. The four basic steps outlined can be varied to suit your style and taste.

One variation is to debone the breast and thigh meat and marinate it overnight in the refrigerator in a mixture of 16 oz. herb-seasoned Italian-style dressing and 9 oz. picante sauce. Cook in the same manner as before while basting with the marinating sauce.

For another type of marinated chicken barbecue, Denton suggests using a soy-teriyaki (or Worcestershire) sauce, marination for two-to-four hours before cooking.

Most of all, let your imagination be your guide and have fun, says the specialist. Who knows? The world's greatest barbecue chef may be in your own backyard.

FmHA Begins A New Program For Borrowers

The Farmers Home Administration office in Bailey County will begin immediately to participate in "Operation Assist," Bailey County Supervisor Henry W. Taylor III, announced.

Operation Assist is a new effort by FmHA to help farmers obtain guaranteed operating loans. County Supervisors for FmHA will take completed farm credit applications to local banks or other lenders, along with the farmer wishing to apply for a guaranteed loan.

"We will hand carry the applications and personally introduce the applicants to our local lenders," said Taylor.

"We will present a complete loan package, including cash flows, financial statements, and appraisals. If necessary, we will make a commitment to work with the lender to do an interest buydown. We will do everything we can to help the lender, and the borrower, by committing to guarantee the loan at our maximum 90 percent."

While direct operating loan funds are used in some areas, there is still nearly $800 million available for the guarantee program. County FmHA officials hope other lenders will make operating credit available under the guarantee, with most of the paperwork done beforehand by FmHA.

Borrowers and lenders interested in an FmHA guaranteed loan should contact the FmHA county office.

The district governor concluded, "I would like to commend you for your great efforts in Lionism. You have such great talent in the Muleshoe Lions, it would be very easy for you to have a governor from here. It would be something to work for."

Judge Powers installed the incoming Lions Club officers, including, Troy Stegemoller, president; Phil Kent, first vice president; L.T. Not present were Ronnie Holt, third vice president and Barry Bradley, director.

After the district governor presented several governor's awards, Gordon Wilson gave the benediction, and new president Troy Stegemoller dismissed the meeting.

Appreciation was given Wilma Smith and Lela Copley for preparing the meal that was served.

Project Points

To Help Clubs

Get Equipment

'Community Project Points' have come to Muleshoe. And, what are Community Project Points?

It's simply a new method to help groups and organizations with their fund-raising projects, explained Ina Wilemon of Western Gift Store.

Mrs. Wilemon said the project will be conducted in Muleshoe for at least a year, and possibly longer.

According to her explanation, clubs or groups decide what they want to work for, set a goal, and register with her at Western Gift Store, the redemption center in Muleshoe for Circle W Blue Stamps.

Then, when a customer goes in to redeem their stamps, they can designate who they want their points from the books they are trading in to go to. This can be their favorite organization or civic group who has registered with the local store.

Currently signed up to receive the points are the Muleshoe Hospital and Nursing Home Auxiliary; the Fire Department Auxiliary and the Rebekah Lodge. Also, other groups have expressed an interest and are expected to be signing up soon.

Mrs. Wilemon explained "There is almost no limit to what you can buy with Community Project Points."

"For instance, a junior high school band bought new band uniforms with points; a town group collects stamps each year to buy gifts for the needy; a high school group bought new stage curtains with stamp points and a Boy Scout Troop and Explorer Post used points from redeemed points to help purchase a new bus. So you can see, it is virtually unlimited."

Also, an advantage is that it costs nothing, for either the person redeeming their stamps or the group receiving the point credit.

For additional information, call Mrs. Wilemon at 272-5601. Western Gift Store is open Tuesday through Saturday, 10-1 and 2-5.

TROUBLE AVERTED--Late Wednesday night, somewhere around 10:30, this tank flipped over on its top in the 1700 block of West American Blvd. Responding were the Muleshoe City Police and Muleshoe Fire Department. They had a few anxious minutes until it was determined that the tank, which had held anhydrous ammonia, was empty and had not split open. There were no injuries.

Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sandy Acres looks at insurance rates this week.

Dear Editor:
The papers are full of news about lawsuits, especially damage suits. If somebody gets a hang-nail opening a car door he can find a lawyer who'll sue the car manufacturer for a couple of million. If he mashes a finger, up it to 10 million.

New York City estimates lawsuits against it may soon cost as much as its entire fire department. Doctors are paying more for liability insurance than they used to make back before Medicare. Car insurance is costing almost as much as a car cost years ago, and you have to pay it every year.

Liability insurance rates have gotten so high that cities, towns and counties can't afford it. In self defense many are closing playgrounds, swimming pools and parks. They never know when a toddler will fall off a seesaw right in view of somebody who knows a good lawyer.

Not only is this working a hardship on cities, doctors and individuals, it's working a hardship on lawyers. It's cutting into the supply of cases. If no kids are allowed in a New York City playground, it follows that none will fall off a seesaw. If a doctor goes out of the baby delivery business because his insurance is costing too much, how can he be sued for mal-practice? You see, law schools are turning out so many lawyers every year that the law of supply and demand has been reversed: The greater the supply of lawyers, the greater the demand for more lawsuits.

The only solution to the problem of skyrocketing insurance rates I can think of is the introduction of a new insurance policy insuring you against an increase in your insurance rates.

Yours faithfully,
I.A.

Protect Yourself From 'Lightning'

Lightning is deadly and annually kills more Americans than tornadoes and more than hurricanes and floods combined.

However, since lightning usually kills only one person at a time, lightning deaths do not attract as much attention as other weather-related fatalities.

"Lightning is particularly common with spring and summer thunderstorms in Texas, so individuals should take certain precautions during stormy weather," advises Dr. Gary Nelson, a safety engineer with the Texas Agriculture Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Quick thinking combined with common sense can go a long way in preventing lightning fatalities when thunderstorms are on the prowl," Nelson emphasizes.

He lists some "dos" and "don'ts" regarding lightning safety:

*Do seek protection immediately. Safe places include a building that's protected from lightning; a large, steel-framed building; an enclosed automobile; and a large, unprotected building.

*Don't touch any metal fences, wires, clotheslines or pipes. In a car, keep your hands off any metal or the radio.

*Do get off your bicycle, golf cart, horse, tractor or motorcycle.

*Don't take cover under lone trees, taller trees in groves or in unprotected shelters such as those on a golf course or camp ground.

*Do head for a cave or under a cliff if you're hiking in mountains or other hilly areas.

*Don't huddle in groups; spread out a few feet from one another.

*Do head for a low spot--lower than ground level--such as a ravine, gully or ditch, but not one that's filling with water.

*Don't remain near railroad tracks.

*Do get off beaches, piers or docks and get away from pools, oceans and lakes.

*Don't swim, wade or go boating; head for land at the first signs of a thunderstorm.

*Do seek shelter in a clump

Firefighter's Report

by Wayne Peterson

On Wednesday, June 4, President H.E. Reeder called the fire department meeting to order. Bill Kinard read the minutes of May's meeting, which were approved as read. Twenty-nine members were present for the meeting.

Charles Lowrance started a discussion of a picture display for each fireman and had prices for the cost of framing the pictures. A motion was made that each fireman furnish their own frame. The motion carried.

Other business included getting grass established in back of the fire station to utilize the sprinkler system for something other than keeping the dirt from blowing.

On July 4th, it was voted to have water polo competition again at the Civic Center. It seems a lot of people liked this last year, and is a good way to keep cool. The fire department will have an ice cream cake and sandwich picnic on the fourth in a location to be determined.

By the way, we do have licensed personnel to have the fireworks display on the fourth.

Training schools coming up include in August, we have farm safety school in Floydada, and on September 10-11, Canyon has its annual fire school. On the lighter side of training, we will have an inter-department pumper competition between teams and the losing team will prepare the winner's breakfast on the following Saturday.

Profile of a fireman for July is Sy Ellibee, whose wife's name is Delores. They have three children, Shawn, David and Bradley.

He was voted in September, 1985. Sy works at the SPS Tolk Plant for Wheelabrator. The Ellibee family moved to Muleshoe from Duman where he was employed as a paid fireman for three years.

He is a certified fireman, with training and schooling at Texas A&M Fire School, Hurst Jaws of Life, Amarillo College of Continuing Education in Firefighting and Emergency Medical Technician, Panhandle Emergency Medical Service Citation and radiological monitoring from the Texas Dept. of Health.

We are pleased to have Sy as a member of the department.

of head-high trees or a thicket of small ones if you're stuck in a forested area.

*Don't stand in open spaces, since most lightning fatalities are people who are taller than their surroundings--a golfer in the middle of a fairway, a farmer in a field, a rider in open country.

*Do immediately set down golf clubs, tennis rackets, fishing poles and other metal objects that can act as lightning rods.

Indoors:

*Do get away from appliances and metal fixtures such as refrigerators, ranges, sinks, bathtubs, air conditioners, washing machines, clothes dryers and television sets.

*Don't use the telephone except in an emergency.

The Scientists Tell Me... New Ginning Process Separates Long Fibers

Researchers at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station have developed a new cotton ginning process that produces a longer and more uniform fiber than that produced by conventional saw gins.

Ginning, the process of removing cotton fiber from the seed, is normally done with saw-type gins, which use the principles patented by Eli Whitney almost 200 years ago.

But Dr. L.H. Wilkes, an agricultural engineer with the Experiment Station, and K.E. Watkins, research assistant, have shown that a new ginning process in which the lint is pulled from the seed by the pinching action of two smooth rollers can produce lint of higher quality than the conventional saw ginning process.

"The lint is longer, more uniform. Results from spinning tests have shown that the strength of the yarns produced from the longer, more uniform fibers is increased. There are also fewer naps in the yarn," Wilkes said recently in a presentation to the 79th Annual Texas Cotton Growers Association in Lubbock.

In addition, the cotton fiber remaining on the seed after the special ginning can be removed with a saw gin, and its quality is comparable to that of completely saw-ginned cotton.

Wilkes calls the process "selective ginning." The laboratory model of the selective gin was developed in a cooperative project between COTTON, INC., and the Agricultural Engineering Department of the Experiment Station.

The gin is constructed of a series of rollers mounted on the outside of a circular, rotating cage. An air stream through the center of the cage causes the seed cotton to adhere to the outer surface of the cage. Rubber covered nip rolls, positioned inside the cage and pressing against the cage rollers, pinch the lint and pull it from the seed. The cage rollers are spaced close together to prevent the seed from being pulled into the inside of the cage along with the lint.

By comparison, in a saw-type gin, the saw teeth pass between ribs that surround the saws on both sides. The cotton lint, passing through the ribs in a large, rotating roll, is stripped from the seeds by the saw teeth.

The quality and value of cotton lint after it is processed in a gin are dependent upon several characteristics, including length, strength, trash content, color, preparation, fineness, and uniformity.

yarn, Wilkes said.

In a given lint sample, the cotton fibers will have a range in length, Wilkes said, but the goal of most processing steps, including ginning, is to preserve the inherent length and length uniformity of the fiber.

"Close attention is now being given to both the short and long fiber content of cotton," Wilkes said. "Research has shown that processing operations including drying, seed cotton and lint cleaning as well as ginning can increase the short fiber content and in some cases reduce the staple length."

Wilkes and Watkins evaluated the quality of the lint removed by selective ginning with the Suter Web fiber array test and with the High Volume Instrument (HVI) classing system, which is used commercially.

The fiber that remained on the seed after selective ginning was removed by a standard saw gin and subjected to the same tests.

Two varieties of medium staple length cotton, SJ5 and Stoneville 213, were used in the evaluations.

The value of cotton sold by a producer in most cases is based upon the measurements made with the HVI classing system, but results of the HVI evaluations didn't indicate the selectively ginned cotton's superior performance at the mill, Wilkes said.

In the Suter Web test, selectively ginned cotton was higher in fiber length and strength. The remaining fiber that was removed by the saw ginning process also was longer, stronger, and more uniform than that removed completely by saw ginning.

In a second series of tests, Wilkes and Watkins evaluated four varieties of cotton for their response to the selective ginning process. They included an experimental long staple, high strength cotton called NX1; two medium staple cottons, Stoneville 213 and Tampcot SP37-H; and a short staple variety, Dunn 119.

Under the same operating conditions—medium air pressure and medium roller pressure—70.8 percent of the lint was removed from the long staple NX1 compared with 40 percent for the Dunn 119. From 46.6 to 56.6 percent of the lint was removed from the medium staple cottons.

In addition, the quality of the lint removed by the selective gin, as measured by the Suter Web fiber array, was higher for all four varieties. However, the quality of the lint remaining on the seed after selective ginning varied among the four types. The residual fiber remaining on the NX1 and Dunn 119 was shorter than the directly saw-ginned lint.

Wilkes said the selective ginning experiment succeeded in successfully removing—without excessive breakage—only the longest fiber from the seed. Still to be worked out are two problems: most seed is completely ginned, but a small portion is virtually untouched; and some of the lint, between 3 to 5 percent of the total weight, is being lost in the ginning. Part of that loss, Wilkes said, is caused by poor ginning of the residual fiber on the saw gin.

IF YOU LIKE BARGAINS...
You'll Like Classified!

The first salvo of an all-out assault on barkly cotton by the Barky Cotton Research Task Force has been fired in the form of a pamphlet entitled "You Can Reduce the Chances of Barky Grades—Here's How."

The task force, organized last February on the initiative of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, and Cotton Incorporated, set for its immediate goal the compiling of practices known to increase the incidence of barky grades and ways they can be avoided.

Task force chairman and PCG Vice President Don Bell of Wolfforth is quoted in the pamphlet as saying the cost of bark in West Texas cotton averages about $3 per bale for every bale produced. In years when bark problems are severe, he adds, the total cost to West Texas producers can be over $20 million.

PCG and CI has brought together an impressive list of farmers, scientists, educators, administrators, machinery manufacturers and government entities to work on the problem. "Together we are going to reduce the annual cost of barky grades," Bell declares.

The pamphlet, available to producers from PCG, county extension agents, gins and other convenient sources, outlines a total of 25 "do's and don'ts" that producers can follow to reduce the number of class cards from any given crop that will bear the dreaded "BARK" stamp.

Advice on cultural procedures in the pamphlet is divided into early-season, mid-season, harvest preparation and harvesting practices, covering everything from seed selection and plant population to harvesting and storage of cotton in modules.

In addition to its push for increased producer awareness of pre-ginning practices that are known contributors to the bark problem, the task force is encouraging new and more intensive research of ginning and manufacturing technology that will assist spinning mills to produce more satisfactory end products from cotton in years and in areas where total absence of bark proves impossible.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK

By Edward Thorlund

One of the major unknowns in today's investing environment is interest rates. One week economy writers and Wall Street are saying interest rates have reached their low.

The very next week most of the publicity is the opposite. That has happened so often in recent months no one can be sure which way interest rates are headed, even brokers. They have been telling clients one thing and another the next week.

In the last week of May the word was, again, that interest rates would be headed lower. The market reacted spurning housing sales and indications the second half of the year will see an upturn in business also helped.

But the point is that, now, no one really can be sure about interest rates. Investments then should probably not be based on a guess that they are headed one way -- with a loss likely if they go the other.

Rather, good advice is to make investments which will not rise or fall on every hint or temporary trend in the interest rate. Nobody knows where rates are headed.
