What Voters Were Saying!

The election returns are in now, and for some, the Democratic Primary was just the first round, with round two coming in up on Saturday, June 3, as the second Democratic Primary will be held on that date.

Political observers predicted that the Sharpstown situation would bear heavily upon the minds of voters as they went to the polls, and it is obvious that this prediction is true.

The Texas House of Representatives appears to be in for a major reorganization, and many of the leading representatives found trouble at the polls. However, some have weathered the storm in good condition, and these will probably figure heavily in the reorganization next year.

Voters in Hall County should begin planning now to vote in the rural portions of Texas to be as strong as possible to help elect those candidates who will do the best job for all of our state, not serving just the metropolitan interests.

The Governor's race was of special interest, as voters saw incumbent Governor Preston Smith and Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes conducting campaigns of justification of past actions, trying to re-assure voters their houses were in order. In effect, these two men cancelled the effectiveness of the other in the minds of the voters, and magnified the Sharpstown situation rather than minimizing it. The majority of the voters turned to long-time gubernatorial candidate, Dolph Briscoe, a man who has run for the office in past years. Briscoe, and Mrs. Frances (Sissie) Farenthold, will be on the second primary ballot. Mrs. Farenthold is the first woman to rise to the fore as a gubernatorial candidate in this state in many years, and she did a remarkable job as campaigning as "that woman" in the governor's race.

The runoff in the lieutenant governor's race will be between Wayne W. Connally and Bill Hobby. Hall County voters in the first primary gave the heaviest vote to Connally, with Hobby running second.

Attorney General Crawford Martin was unseated by John Hill, with a runoff. Again, the Sharpstown situation was a factor in this race.

There will be a runoff in the U. S. Senator race as Ralph Yarborough failed to capture the necessary 50 per cent; however, his lead in the first primary was large over Barefoot Sanders. In Hall County, Yarborough led Sanders by over 100 votes, as both men go into the second primary.

A runoff has also developed in the Comptroller of Public Accounts, as incumbent Robert S. Calvert failed to get 50 per cent of the votes over a field of six other candidates. James (Jim) Wilson placed second in the race and will be in the runoff against Calvert.

Of special interest to area voters in the runoff race between two Hall County candidates for the office of District Attorney. John Deaver (II) received 3,473 votes and incumbent Jack Boone received 3,132, and Collingsworth Attorney Paul Spillman received 1,791 votes in the five-county district, according to unofficial returns.

Because of the importance of all these races, it is of vital importance that voters plan now to go to the polls to vote in the second primary June 3.

What Other Editors Say

They Say We're Drying

A blue-ribbon Presidential Commission appointed to study the problems population shifts of rural America to the cities has released a preliminary report which declares, in effect, that the small town and rural America in general is dead or dying and nothing can be done about it. The commission calls this a natural and irreversible trend and advises that any program which would put federal funds into these rural areas would only be a tragic waste.

It ain't necessarily so. Smallness is not necessarily fatal, and bigness is not necessarily desirable. Opportunities for enjoyment of life and leisure may be more vital factors in the survival pattern of communities, large and small, than the conveniences of compaction afforded by the metropolis.

In any event, the fate of small-town America is not likely to be determined by any infusion or withholding of federal funding. The great strength (and possibly the fatal weakness) of small towns has always been their self-sufficiency. . . their cohesiveness as a neighborhood of people willing to provide mutual support for the common welfare. . . which is a pedantic way of saying that smalltown folk have made their communities wonderful places to live because they have cared about each other.

If we are losing that quality in American life. . . and we may be. . . then the loss is a grievous one; and we should not be complacent about it and we need not resign ourselves to it. We need to make a special effort, those of us who still live in American small towns, to keep what we have left of that quality of neighborliness, and to try to restore what we have lost of it.

The place to start this crusade, if it is to be started at all, is right at home. This is "where it is at." We are part of smalltown America, and out town is fairly representative of it. If we can do it in Canadian, Texas, it can be done in other small towns across this nation. Now is the time to find out.

The secret of success, if there is to be success, may very well lie in recognizing that small towns all across this country must develop the qualities of neighborliness and mutual concern between communities which have been developed within communities. Isn't it worth a try? Ben-Ezzell in The Canadian Record.

Indispensable Minority

Farmers are perhaps the most important minority this nation has. Yet this farm minority is being given a bad image by two major trends—the rising cost of living, and the growth of federal subsidies.

Farmers are not to blame for the rising cost of food. Their prices have not increased to any comparable degree, and on some products have even dwindled in the past five years. Food prices start out low; it is the trip from the farm to the table that hikes your grocery bill. Producing this nation's abundant food in a vital service, and producing it efficiently and cheaply is a mark of excellence on the record of American Agriculture.

But even more vital is the fact: The farmer is custodian his care, future Americans will starve. Because everybody in this nation must depend on preservation of our soil, everybody in this nation should logically share the cost. And we do, with the farmer paying much more because it is "his" land, at least during his lifetime. All Americans owe this debt to the future, and this is why soil conservation "subsidies" are logical and just.

A meeting of the Rural Prosecutors Committee of the Texas District and County Attorneys Association has been called by Chairman Jack Boone, District Attorney, Memphis, for May 12-13, in Austin.

The committee will work to solve the many problems of the attorneys representing the State in the rural areas, which compose the majority of Texas. The committee's work will include development of standardized forms and office procedures.

attorney, Floresville; John H. Flinn, district attorney, Sinton; Henry F. Guillet, county attorney, Andrews; M. D. Emerson, county attorney, Paris; Richard Brainerd, county attorney, Vega; Richard E. Bill Cosby Tours Spain With Camerata Academia

Editor's Note: Bill Cosby, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Cosby and a student of applied music at the Mozarteum in Salzburg, Austria, in a recent letter to his parents, explained some of his work and made comments about a recent tour. His comments are as follows:

The Camerata Academia of the Mozarteum Salzburg made a tour in Spain from April 16th to April 26th and performed seven concerts. The Camerata is a Chamber Orchestra founded in 1952 by Bernhard Paumgartner, long-time president of the Mozarteum, chairman & director of the World famous Salzburg Summer Festival and noted authority on interpretation and performance of the works of Mozart. The name was adopted as a memorial of the "Florentiner Camerata" which first proved the great benefit of combining professors and students as a single musical group allowing students to learn from their teachers not only in the classroom but in performance.

The Camerata's main goal is the performance of the music of the Baroque and Vienna Classic, with special emphasis on performing the works of Mozart. With tours in Belgium, Germany, England, France, Italy, Switzerland, Czechoslovakia, and Spain along with the Salzburg Summer Festival, the Camerata is famous as one of the finest Chamber Orchestras in Western Europe. Among some 100 existing recordings of the Camerata are several prize winning editions: "First Prize of German Recordings," "Vienna Flotenuhr" and "Grand Priz de Disque".

After the death of Bernhard Paumgartner in July of 1971, a new conductor took over the direction of the group. Urs Schneider, born in 1938, is one of the finest young conductors of his generation. He began playing the violin at age of six years and founded his own orchestra at age fifteen. In 1961 he received his diploma from the Zurich Conservatory in violin and went on to study conducting with Jean Meylan, Erich Schmid and others. Mr. Schneider received the degree "Master of Fine Arts International" in New York in 1969. In addition to the Camerata, he is conductor of the Zurich Ton Halle.

The tour began in Valencia after flying from Salzburg via Zurich and Barcelona. The small orchestra, 18 people including conductor and piano soloist, Jose Francisco Alonso, performed the first two concerts April 17th in the Grand Theatre of Valencia. The second concert of the evening began at 10:30 p. m. and featured the world famous pianist of our time, Arthur Rubinstein. It was just coincidence that our orchestra and the "great old man of the piano" had concerts on the same evening. Hearing him play was almost worth the whole trip to Spain. He was also on our flight to Madrid the next day. I went up and shook his hand and told him what a great honor it was to hear him play. Mr. Rubinstein is almost 90 years old and still thrills millions of listeners all over the world.

In Madrid we had no concert, but, after a short rehearsal, spent a day of sight-seeing. Places I visited were the National Museum, Old Market Place where, in the 17 hundreds, the first Bull Fights took place, and the University of Madrid. In the evening we enjoyed the charm of Flamenco guitars and fine wine in the Old City.

While driving from Madrid to Valladolid for the next concert on April 19, we drove through the "Valley of the Defeated" near Escorial. This was the scene of the very worst fighting of the Civil War of the 1930's. The country was very desolate and typical of how I had imagined Spain to be. The next day driving to Oviedo the landscape changed to high snow-capped mountains and beautiful mountain villages. We ate lunch in Leon where one of the most beautiful churches of the Spanish Gothic is located. This church has the most beautiful stained glass windows I have ever seen. The next day took us through even more beautiful country and even higher mountains. As we were nearing the top of a very high mountain pass a terrible blizzard began. The road was not very wide and was in very bad condition. It took 9 hours to drive 360 km. When we reached Vitoria, third largest city of the Basque province, we were all tired from the long ride. But, after changing into tails and long black dresses (for the women) the whole mood of making music returned and, as the public gave us one ovation after the other, the long tiring trip was completely forgotten.

The next day, Saturday, was ever a longer trip- 750 km to Lugo, which is in the far Northwestern corner of Spain. During the course of the day the express train in which we were riding lost an hour. We were terribly alarmed about missing our connecting train in a city about an hour's ride from destination. The conductor sent a telegram ahead to make some arrangements for our further transportation. We were all shocked to find that the train had waited an hour for our arrival before going on to Lugo. The other passengers weren't upset at all about the delay and found it very exciting. Our time was getting short so we changed clothes in the train. This gave several of the passengers quite a shock. Even tho the concert began 30 minutes late, the people who packed the hall waited anxiously.

The most important concert was in Bilbao on Monday night as the city has a very long and well respected cultural history.

Members of the Spanish Culture Ministry and prospective agents for the orchestra were in the audience. The critiques of the entire trip were very complimentary of the orchestra, conductor and, of course, the Spanish soloist.

The Camerata flew home Wednesday, April 26 from Madrid via Frankfurt and Munich. In June the orchestra will be recording for the Austrian Broadcasting Co-Studio Salzburg, making tours in Bavaria, and in early July, making tours in Switzerland.

The most fantastic part of the trip along with the beautiful country was the magnificent food. I had beforehand thought that the food would be similar to the Mexican dishes with which we in Texas are so familiar. Not the case at all. First, the food does not have chili or any hot seasoning at all. Second, it resembles the finesse of French kitchen art more than any European country. Most of all I enjoyed the fish-everything from mountain trout to octopus. The fresh salads of lettuce, tomato, olives, asparagus, artichoke hearts and other vegetables dressed with vinegar and olive oil are alone enough for a single meal.

There were many times during the travels from one city to another when I really thought we were driving through West Texas or New Mexico. Other times the landscape was as beautiful as the Colorado Rockies. However, if I may say, it could not compare to the beauty and friendliness of the Upper Bavarian Alpenland where I live.

Cadette Scouts Attend District Meet In Borger

Troop 114 Cadette Girl Scout Troop, along with their leader, Mrs. Mackie Allen, attended the Quivira Girl Scout Council Cadette Conference held at Frank Phillips College in Borger April 28, 29 and 30.

Approximately 100 girls and adult volunteers in the 10-county Quivira Council attended the three-day session. Director for the Conference was Mrs. Vaden Fowler of Borger.

Keynote speaker for the conference was Mrs. Ruth Hollaway of Canyon. Following Mrs. Hollaway's talk, a panel discussion was led by Mrs. David Warren on "Growing Up."

The Cadettes enjoyed the music of "The Ambassadors II," a gospel singing group and "Old Timers' Tales" as related by Mrs. Milton Bryan.

Another highlight of the conference was Mrs. Kathryn Paul and her Arabian horse featured Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Paul gave a talk on horsemanship and training and an exhibition ride. The film, "The Pure Breed" was shown and Mrs. Paul gave an exhibition ride in full Arabian costume.

A style show coordinated by Mrs. H. O. Maxwell was presented by the girls on Saturday night. A talent show ended events for Saturday.

Dr. Dale Younce presented a religious service for the Girl Scouts Sunday morning.

Girls attending from Memphis were Donna Butler, Brenda Davis, Jacque Chappell, Sandra Allen, Linda Hudson, Debbie Callahan and Pamkehr.

Mrs. Allen said this concluded their meetings for the year.

She said, "I have thoroughly enjoyed working with these girls and have been with them as their leader since the Second grade. These girls have worked hard and have been very trustworthy and well behaved."

"I was most pleased to have six out-of-town leaders come to me in Borger and compliment my troop," Mrs. Allen said. "They were a well-behaved group and are due credit for their behaviour. The parents are also to be complimented and given credit for their assistance. We would like to encourage more girls and their parents to become interested in the scouting program which offers great opportunities for character development as well as fun," Mrs. Allen concluded.

Manager Requests Call To Mother Be Placed Early

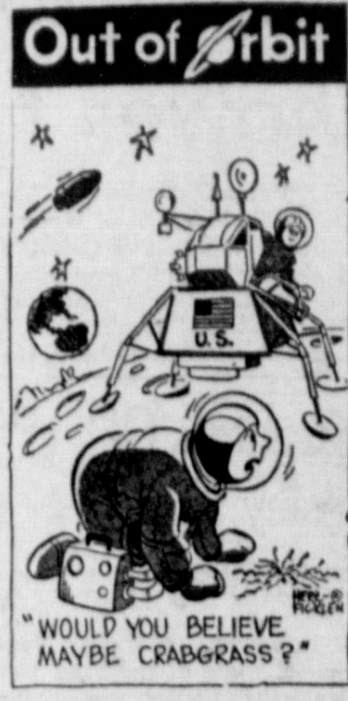

General Telephone operators, many of whom are mothers themselves, will spend Mother's Day, May 14, at the switchboard, according to J. H. Davis, division manager for General Telephone Company.

Memphis Operator Services Manager, Billie Waites, said the volume of Mother's Day calls has grown to the point where the number of calls on this occasion takes second place only to Christmas.

"The majority of operators representing the telephone tradition of service derive great satisfaction from helping hundreds of persons get their Mother's Day calls through," Mrs. Waites said. Last year on Mother's Day more than 1850 operator calls were handled by the Memphis operators.

If there are delays—and based on previous years there will be—they will be caused by equipment being worked to capacity, Davis explained.

"It is not possible," he said,

Estelline Teacher Is Honored At Reception

An unusually large crowd of students and friends attended the reception Sunday afternoon at the Estelline School to honor Mrs. L. A. Tucker, who is retiring after teaching 48 years in the Estelline Public School.

Tucker greeted friends and former students first at the Cafeteria where cake and coffee were served. The group later went to the school auditorium where a program was presented honoring Mrs. Tucker and her husband, L. A. Tucker, who both retired on the same day.

Gerald Fowler served as emcee for the program. He introduced the program with a reading of a tribute to Mrs. Tucker written by Mrs. Chester Cunningham, a fellow teacher and friend of Mrs. Tucker for many years.

Students from the first through eighth grade then sang "School Days" which was followed by participation with various songs. Mrs. Tucker was then presented with a bouquet of flowers and a certificate of appreciation.

One student traveled 1200 miles to be present for the occasion. Several others also paid tribute to Mrs. Tucker with words of praise for her dedication to the profession.

A bit of humor was added to the program by a paper by Anne Rapp and a poem by Miss Rapp. Mrs. Tucker was a senior and dealt with an operation on Mrs. Tucker's brain to see what was in it. This was read by Mrs. Dickson who concluded with an original word of praise.

An appropriate poem was read by...

by Patti Sloan Nivens and tribute was paid by Principal C. M. Wooten and Supt. Chester Cunningham.

A medley of songs in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Tucker were sung by Doris Eddins accompanied by Mrs. J. D. Cox, who also played a number of piano selections while the group assembled.

Frank Hedrick, president of the school board, presented Mr. and Mrs. Tucker with a gift of silver from the school and community.

Mrs. Fowler thanked the many who helped with the reception and program and recognized those who had been unable to attend but sent flowers.

The program was concluded with the audience singing "May The Good Lord Bless and Keep You."

Mrs. Tucker began her teaching career in the fall of 1922 at the Windy Valley School in Donley County. This was a three-teacher school in a read brick building. Teaching first, second, and third grades and coaching boy's baseball was her first assignment.

Mrs. Tucker recalls that there were very few cars in the vicinity. All three teachers boarded at a place one mile from school and walked to and from school each day. But, she said, the most difficult task was to kindle the fires each morning.

She received $80.00 a month for six months that first year. She knew that she needed to find a better position and after a Clarendon College friend told her there was an opening in Estelline she rode the train down to apply. She got the position in the Estelline School and was assigned to teach fourth to seventh grade. "There were seven teachers and our little town was booming, busy little town, and we had many more scholars than we do today," she said.

In 1928 Velma Newman was married to an Estelline Farmer-rancher, L. A. Tucker. Mrs. Tucker recalls that before they were married L. A. told her he was born in Estelline & that he meant to die there. So through the years, we have been happy on the farm, Mrs. Tucker said.

She holds her master's degree and has continued throughout the years to keep up with the lat-by attending college at West Texas State University, Clarendon College and Texas Tech University.

Mrs. Tucker said some of the happiest moments of her life come when she sees her former students taking places of responsibility in the community and church. Some of the Board members now serving Estelline School are former students of Mrs. Tucker as well as some of the teachers.

When asked, "How have you worked so long in the school?" Mrs. Tucker answers, "I have an understanding family that realizes my love for and my understanding of little children. In addition, I have had the faith, love and loyalty of my fellow teachers, patrons and helpers through the years."

Mr. and Mrs. Tucker have one son Lanny, who teaches agriculture at Hart. His wife, Shirley, is a first-grade teacher. They have two grandchildren, Jim and Lana, who are students at Hart.

Soil Temperature Is Important In Mesquite Control

Some of the latest research findings in connection with the control of mesquite with herbicides has shown that soil temperature at a 12-inch depth at the time of application is extremely important if root kill is desired.

Henry D. Gregory, District Conservationist here, said that Mesquite root kill on the test areas never exceeded 12 per cent where the soil temperature was 74 degrees or below.

When the temperature exceeds 75 degrees F the root kills ranged from 38 to 68 per cent.

According to Gregory, soil temperature at 12 inches in the central part of Hall County were 70 degree F on April 26. "This was before the last cool weather and means that it will likely be at least mid-May before the desired soil temperatures are reached," he said.

Farmers To Get Forms For Listing Crop Acreages

During the last half of May, some 22,000 Texas farmers will receive a crop acreage questionnaire from Charles E. Caudill, agricultural statistician for the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, Austin.

This information will be the basis for determining the planted acreage for the State of Texas for each county. There are 254 counties in Texas, and reports are needed from many farmers so that each county will be well represented. Accurate estimates are of great importance to farmers in planning production and marketing and in providing an unbiased picture of Texas agriculture.

The Texas Legislature has provided a program of estimates for each county. Texas covers such a wide area that state totals alone do not provide adequate information on Texas' most basic industry—agriculture.

This is a cooperative effort of U.S.D.A.'s Statistical Reporting Service and the Texas Department of Agriculture, according to County Agent W. B. Hooser.

From Convention

Robert Mikesell and others of Jehovah's Witnesses have returned from Pampa where 1,321 were in attendance to hear L. G. Erskine discuss "Are You 'Marked' for Survival?" This was the conclusion of a three day convention involving Memphis and 21 other congregations in this area.

Erskine said, "All nations of today are on the brink of coming to a knowledge of the one living and true God, Jehovah, in a way that they never have known him before. Not one of us can escape it. We are all part of those nations mentioned by the prophet Daniel at Daniel 2:44."

All local meetings of Jehovah's Witnesses have resumed this week.

and Mrs. Jake McCulloch visiting in Hall County the past week. They are former residents of Hall County but are now living in Arizona. Jake is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McCulloch who first moved to Hall County in 1910. Jake attended school in Newlin and Estelline and worked for MHS. He remembered working in the drug stores for Tarver, Durham Memphis for the family mechanics after the Newlin comm. He served four years in the Army, stationed at Shepley Field. One of his first school teachers he remembered was Mag. Bryan. Jake operated two show cases here in the 30's when he was paid as low a price as 4 cents a loaf. The three he remembered selling "Golden Crust", "Butter and Cream Crust". They were operating three trucks hauling bread. He and his wife with Reba Saylor, were driving these trucks and at that time there were 23 grocery stores and 16 cafes in Memphis. Jake and Evelyn Berry of Burkett. They have one daughter, who is married and living in Dallas and she has two daughters which makes Evelyn married grandpa! There were four in the J. W. McCulloch family, Gladys and Lois (both deceased); Jake and Ed, now living in Berkeley, Calif. Jake did tell me they stopped in Bryan a few days ago and visited Reba (Saylor) and Rolla Kelly who are now living there. He said Rolla now weighed 270 pounds. Speaking of weight, when Jake came back this time, he only had to bring his 165 pounds as he left some weight in Arizona. When he left here 18 years ago, he weighed 216 pounds. Jake and Evelyn were very much surprised at the displays we had in Heritage Hall.

A quote from Earl's Pearls: "Running for president is like asking a girl to marry you. You may say a lot of things you later would wish you hadn't."

Another quote: "We were so poor", recalls Joey Russell, "that my sister didn't have her sweet 16 party until she was 25."

Mrs. Minnie Kinslow of Eldorado, Ark., was visiting in Hall County Heritage Hall the past Saturday. Minnie has lived in Hall County most of her life, but moved about 1 year ago to be near her son, Bill, and family. She was one of the first ones to get on the band wagon when Heritage Hall was mentioned and contributed a lot of time and support in every way since it was started.

Two more show cases were donated to Hall County Heritage Hall the past week. Eddie and Barbara Keeton gave one of them and Mr. and Mrs. Everett Williams of Brice gave the other one. We want to say "thank you" for these show cases.

Word did come to us the past week that Mrs. J. W. Hembree of Dallas, who was a former early day resident of Hall County, had a stroke and was now in a hospital. This is her 101st year to live and she had been very active until a short time ago. We were sorry to hear of her affliction.

Others visiting in Heritage Hall the past week were Ruth Osborne of Pampa, Leona Swadley of Wichita Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Zane Bevers of Cisco, Mrs. Gail Adams of Ralls, Bill Spillman of Wellington and Mr. and Mrs. Berle Bevers of Amarillo.

Mrs. Henry Scott, Jess Smith and Mrs. Bud Godfrey had as their guests in Heritage Hall Mr. and Mrs. H. Byrd of Elgin, Texas. Mr. Byrd worked with the Texas Highway Dept. for 36 years; in this area of Clarendon, Paducah, Claude, Matador and Memphis in Hall County for about 20 years. They left Hall County in 1964 and moved to the town where he was reared, Elgin. I remember when H. was stationed here and we had a snow. He did not wait until daylight to start; regardless of the time of the night, if the snow and ice needed clearing off the highway, he was up and at it. They have one daughter who now lives in Houston. They were very much surprised that we had so many items on display and said the museum would be a credit to any size town.

Mrs. David May, with the Home-making group from the Home Ec., No. 3 Class of MHS, made their field trip through Hall County Heritage Hall last Friday. There are 18 girls, juniors and seniors, enrolled in this class. The following members were in this group: Teresa Kilpatrick, Janis Vallance, Rhonda Crawford, Debbie Nunnelley, Ruby Carmon, Ronelle Wilson, Patricia Fleeks, Kay Johnson, Brenda Elliott, Melissa Jones and Ida Sims.

This group seemed to enjoy this field trip, and I was interested in each of them to know what they were looking forward to in life. The answers to my questions came up as follows: 4 going to college, 2 going to join the Navy, 3 going to Hollywood, 7 were going to be homemakers and 5 of them had already picked their help-mate. Only three of them said they were going to be old maids. After looking these three over, I don't think they will have half a chance to become an old maid.

Sunday is "Mother's Day" and I am reminded of what Thomas Wolfe said, "There is no spectacle on earth more appealing than that of a beautiful woman in the act of cooking dinner for someone she loves".

Last week we did tell you about the people that were putting in a factory to manufacture tile from cow manure and would be the largest manufacturers of tile in the world. Well, the past week I did get this information that a million and a half dollar cotton seed flour mill was being built in Lubbock, capable of turning out 25 tons of this flour per day. The expected food uses will include baked goods, meat substitutes, meat extenders and a product for use in beverages. We never know where we will find our next food value.

When visiting in our Hall County

Hospital a few days ago, I met Mary (King) Martin of Pampa who was a patient there. Seeing her brought back memories to me when I was a teenager and we were both attending school in the old square shaped brick school building. She was the first girl that ever called me "Cutie". So, the next day I rubbed a little vaseline on my hair to make it stay parted straight. Mary is the sister of Imogene King and Alla Boswell, the daughters of the late Mr. and Mrs. B. F. King, who at one time had one of the largest homes in Hall County, a two-story white house southwest of Memphis on the King place.

It seems a little lonesome on the television since the primary election the past Saturday with no political speeches going on, but guess they will start again soon. In looking back over the records of the 1938 Democratic Primary election, we notice that there were 13 Democratic candidates for Governor that year, and there was not a runoff in this race, as W. Lee O'Daniel won out over the other 12. Some of you will remember how he had the Dough Boys band going over the state with him on his campaign, and there was a slogan, "Pass the Biscuits, Pappy", as he was called Pappy O'Daniel. We had 16 voting boxes in Hall County in 1938.

I did see in the daily newspaper that former president, Harry S. Truman, had his 88th birthday May 8. The writer says that age has put a wall around him, isolating him from his friends, making him a prisoner in his home, having trouble with his dentures and his thick lense glasses. He is still interested, however, in what has already happened and what is going to happen. On current events, he expresses his opinion eloquently. Time marching on is what makes us grow older.

In reviewing one of the 1938 editions of the Memphis Democrat a few days ago, I was listening to some of the motorcycles go by that were in the races. This made this article appeal to me as it told of the bicycle races that were held here. On this special race day, there were 23 entries in the Junior and Senior divisions. They had a public address system on the square to keep the 2000 spectators informed as to how the races were progressing.

Wayne Lowry was winner in the Junior Division. Jack Drake was winner in the Senior class by making the 10-mile run in 38 minutes, coming out ahead of Billy Fred Rasco by 2 laps, who won second place. We might have a bicycle race day now, as there seems to be a good many bicycles used by both young and old.

The special youth service conducted by 24 college students from Southwestern College of Weatherford, Okla., was very inspiring for young and old in song and testimony. This was their last service together this year. I think Gary Sims must be on the Public Relations committee. This was really an outstanding group of young people. Best wishes for their future.

our air line hostesses had changed so much that they are going to change measurements on the airplanes to fit the 1972 hostesses as her measurements have changed so much. So far in the measurements of the modern hostesses, they find that they average out about 3 inches taller and 10 pounds lighter. So the new commercial planes will be made to fit these 1972 hostesses.

A quote from a bumper sticker, "Highways in two models-overcrowded and under construction!"

A statement from a visitor in our town a few days ago, "This must be God's country from the looks of the roses blooming over town with very little moisture in the way of rain." We are very grateful for the rains we have had the past week.
