Watershed Site 4 Dam Is Topped

An inspection of Site 4 of the Lakeview Watershed, the largest dam to be constructed in the Watershed, reveals that the dam has been topped out at this time.

This event took place last week according to SCS Inspector J. E. Foster. The dam is located on the L. R. Hagy Ranch and DePauw Construction Co. of Amarillo is the contractor for the construction.

Mr. Foster, inspector, said that the dam site construction is not yet completed, even though the 55-foot high dam is topped, as there is still work to be done in other areas surrounding the dam.

Henry Gregory, District Conservationist with S. C. S., said that Mr. Hagy has filed application with the State Water Board seeking permission to store more water behind the dam than is authorized under the flood prevention regulations.

"Mr. Hagy originally felt due to the sandy conditions of the soil at the dam site, the dam possibly might have seepage. The dam, due to its weight, apparently is holding without seepage so Mr. Hagy would like to raise the planned water line by about six feet if permission from the State Water Board is received," Conservationist Gregory said. Inspector Foster said that heavy rains made it necessary to pump from the dam to allow for work to continue. He also pointed out a fresh water spring which broke out of the ground and is putting 600 gallons of water per minute into the dam.

Foster indicated that this is a good sign the dam will hold without seepage.

Other Sites Ready

Gregory said that the sponsoring district, Hall-Donley Water Conservation and Improvement District, with Paul Montgomery as chairman, has now obtained easements on four other sites, ready to have contracts let when government funds are available. "We have sites Nos. 1 and 2, 3 and 5 ready to begin the construction phase. Since these are smaller dams, the government might let the contract for two dams at a time," he said.

Byron DePauw's firm had 393 working days to construct the dam, and ground breaking was held on Nov. 8, 1972. It is apparent the firm can complete the contracts within working limits. Those who attended the ground breaking in November would possibly not recognize the site today. The moving of 524-190 cubic yards of fill dirt changes the landscape considerably.

Chloride Control Project For Red River Basin!

It has been several years since this area has received information concerning a plan called, "Red River Chloride Control Project" which has been in the planning stage for several years by the Dept. of Army's Corps of Engineers. This week information was received with the invitation for area citizens to participate in planning the project.

According to Col. John G. Driskill, District Engineer, Corps of Engineers for Tulsa District, meetings will be held in the study area to discuss the project. Citizens will be notified of these meetings and invited to attend to express views and learn more about the project. In the meantime, citizens can write to "Red River Chloride Control Project" Tulsa District, Corps of Engineers, Post Office Box 61, Tulsa, Okla., 74102.

Congress authorized the Red River Chloride Control Project by two laws. A project to control three salt areas in the Wichita River Basin was authorized for construction by the Flood Control Act of 1966. A project to control salt areas on the Elm Fork of Red River in Oklahoma, and on the Pease River, Jonah Creek, Salt Creek, and the Little Red River in Texas, was authorized for construction by the Flood Control Act of 1970.

Advanced engineering and design is nearing completion for the control plan for the Wichita River. The Corps of Engineers received approval to use funds in April 1973 to begin the advanced engineering and design for the remaining projects.

Natural Salt Pollution originating in the upper part of Red River Basin contributes about 4,000 tons of salt per day to the Red River, causing the water in the river to be unsuitable for most uses. The Corps of Engineers has looked at several ways to solve the problem. At present, the best way appears to be control the natural pollution by collecting the brine and pumping it to nearby brine storage lakes or by damming the salt water flows immediately below the source area.

In the immediate area, a dam is being planned on Little Red River, just south of the Oxbow Highway crossing between Lakeview and Turkey. Also, a Brine Dam is planned for east of Memphis several miles to capture salt water from Jonah Creek and Salt Creek, and an elaborate collection station is planned for the headwaters of these creeks just before they dump into Red River. This would be located just west of the Childress-Wellington highway, with the dam located approximately north of the Memphis-Hollis highway.

The whole project, however, covers a vast drainage area covering the head waters of the Wichita River, head waters of North and South Pease Rivers, Prairie Dog Town Fork of Red River, and North and Elm Forks of Red River in Okla.

The major purpose of the whole thing is to improve the mineral quality of water in the Red River so that chloride concentrations in the water at Lake Kemp and Lake Texoma would meet Public Health Service drinking standards (less than 250 parts per million) 98 percent of the time.

This particular project has been in the planning stages for several years, and the invitation is being extended by the Corps of Engineers to area residents to find out more about it.

What Other Editors Say

Lift the Earning Limit
We find ourselves in rare agreement with Texas Senator John Tower, who has just introduced a bill in the Senate to increase the retirement test under Social Security to $3,000.
Almost in agreement, anyway. We think the Senator is on the right track, but isn't going far enough.
An earnings ceiling of $3,000 a year would certainly be a major improvement over the present allowable of $2,100, and far better than the $1,680 ceiling which was in effect until this year.
But on principle, the idea of placing a ceiling on the amount which a social security pensioner can earn while still drawing his social security payments is wrong. Any man (or woman), having reached the eligible age of sixty-five years now, has almost certainly been paying into the Social Security Fund for more than thirty-five years (the Social Security trust fund was established in 1936), and ought to be able to draw the guaranteed (and earned) benefits without regard to the amount of earnings after 65.
The earnings limitation requirement written into the original law was intended to serve one purpose: to remove the social security beneficiary from employment rolls as quickly as possible to vacate jobs for others. The need for that has long since ceased to exist. But the present limitations force the Social Security pensioner either to forego drawing retirement pay or to live at near-poverty levels, since the $2,100 he is allowed to earn in part-time employment isn't nearly an adequate supplement to the Social Security benefit.
With our present runaway inflation, the $2,100 limitation is totally unrealistic . . . and a $3,000 limitation may be unrealistic tomorrow.

Curbing Smut Flow
The Supreme Court, under its "new look" of the Nixon appointees, has struck a blow at the pornography business in a decision that in effect says that local standards can be applied to determine what is not offensive to the morals.
Thus, a magazine that might be sold in New York City would not meet the test of community standards in Perryton, Texas.
The ruling has already caused a lot of wailing from those who have made a tidy profit out of pornography. The ruling is expected to bring about a change in the type of movies being made, with a de-emphasis upon sexual permissiveness that so many average Americans find offensive today.
Before the latest decision, the Supreme Court under Earl Warren had declared that juries and courts would need to find that material is utterly without redeeming social value before they declared it unacceptable.

The new guideline says that: "Whether the average person, applying contemporary community standards, would find that the work, taken as a whole, appeals to the prurient interest, whether the work depicts or describes, in a patently offensive way, sexual conduct specifically defined by the applicable state law and whether the work, taken as a whole, lacks serious literary, artistic, political, or scientific value."
The case that the Supreme Court decided came from a movie shown in an "adult theater" in Georgia and the film was admittedly the raw, crude sex that once found only in clandestine stag movies shown in private.
There has been a swing toward more blatant sexual portrayal in magazines shown on the average rack these days. The new ruling is bound to change the content of most of these magazines and most Americans will say that it is about time such a change was made.

Your safety is our concern.

On occasions when you detect the odor of natural gas, it could be coming from the range where a burner may not be turned off completely or from a pilot light that's out. However, if these are functioning properly, and the odor seems to be quite strong—here are 4 easy steps to insure your safety:

1 First, open the windows and doors to allow ventilation of the room.

2 Second, don't switch anything electrical on or off. Don't use the telephone, and don't light a match.

3 Third, leave the house and go next door to telephone the Fire Department as a precaution for your safety.

4 Fourth, telephone Lone Star Gas and wait until we have checked the source and made certain that you can re-enter safely.

Although you may never have to worry about gas leaks, we at Lone Star feel you should be informed on what to do should the situation occur. Please inform your family of these 4 safety measures, and keep these steps for reference.

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

An underlying reason for eating chips of leaded paint—and such things as paper, cigarette butts, crayons, matches and clay—may be that children have "jica". Jica is a little understood but compulsive urge to eat strange things even when a person is not hungry.

Lead poisoning can be prevented. Parents and others living in homes where leaded paint may be a problem should be warned of the dangers. Children should be prevented from chewing on painted articles or picking up chips from the floor.

Mass education and information is being focused primarily on residents in deteriorating housing—such as ghetto areas. Although lead poisoning isn't limited to poor people, they are most likely to be living in such buildings. But even better-quality homes may have been painted with lead-based paints. Also important is the matter of toys and atmospheric lead from pollution.

Public health nurses, sanitarians, parents and others need to be on the lookout for early symptoms of lead absorption. These vague symptoms include irritability, poor appetite and chronic constipation. While symptomatic of other problems as well, these are indications that medical advice should be sought.

Is there hope for a lead-poisoned child? Yes, say state health officials, if the malady is detected soon enough. Laboratory analyses blood and urine can detect lead's presence. Another ingenious method of finding lead—by a process called spectrophotometry—is in a snippet of the victim's hair.

Lead poisoning can cause severe handicaps and be a costly malady. Health authorities estimate that a moderately brain-damaged child needs about 10 years of special education and care at a cost of $1,750 per year—or $5.6 million for 3,200 of the children who are annually afflicted by lead poisoning. The other 800 children permanently damaged require life-time, institutional care costing some $4,000 per year—or $3.2 million during their life spans.

Often the symptoms of lead poisoning go completely unnoticed. But lead, like other metals, accumulates in the body. State health authorities estimate that it takes only two or three paint chips little bigger than a finger-nail, chewed daily over a period of some three months, to cause severe illness. Rudolf Diesel of Germany developed the first engine to operate on a compression-ignition system.

Local Students Are Enrolled In WTSU Special Ed. Courses

Mrs. Jeanine Allen, graduate (604 N. 12th) and Robert Hughes a graduate, are currently in special education courses at West Texas State University.

WTSU exists as one of the few universities in the state of Texas where teachers can earn a special education endorsement for their teaching certificate, says Dr. Wilma Jo Bush, coordinator of the special education program at WTSU.

Special education endorsements may be gained in four areas at WTSU. They are mental retardation, teaching the emotionally disturbed, language and learning disabilities and early childhood education for teachers of exceptional children.

West Texas State special education courses are taught on the Texas "Plan A" concept of teaching. "This concept", Dr. Bush explained, "is a program to establish special education in a regular classroom situation."

Mrs. C. T. Snowdon Enjoys Vacation in Hampton, Va.

Mrs. C. T. Snowdon has returned from Hampton, Va., where she visited with her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Baker and Darcy. Mrs. Snowdon enjoyed traveling via TWA and United Airlines. However, each day of the week was filled with the excitement of touring the scenic and historic area around Hampton.

One very interesting morning was spent at the Williamsburg Pottery Factory which manufactures pottery, glass works, custom lamps, stone gardenware, hydra stone plaques and candles, while you watch. The rest of the day was spent in Forbes Candy Factory, Indian Arts and Crafts Shop, Wax Museum and Gift Shop and driving through Newport News Park.

The Mariners Museum in Newport News features the most extensive nautical collection in this country and now includes the renowned Crabtree Collection.

Two days were spent viewing the Historic Area of Colonial Williamsburg, which is the restored 18th century capitol of Va. The tour of the 525 acre estate of Carter's Grove was fascinating. The mansion on the plantation was built in 1750 and has been called the most beautiful house in America. It overlooks the James River.

Mrs. Snowdon was privileged to attend the outdoor symphonic drama, "The Common Glory", which was written by Paul Green and portrays the dreams and times, the people and leaders of the American Revolution. This was a delightful production but of course—to a true Texan—Mr. Green's drama of "Texas" is still a favorite.

Arthur McGarity Visits Yugoslavia With Trinity Traveling Choir

Arthur McGarity, a spring graduate of Trinity University and son of Rev. and Mrs. Owen McGarity, recently returned from a three week tour of Yugoslavia. Rev. McGarity is pastor of the Presbyterian churches at Memphis and Clarendon and the family reside in Clarendon.

McGarity and 39 other members of the Trinity Traveling choir, under the direction of Dr. Claude Zetty, were sent to the communist country as Good Will Ambassadors. The program is under the sponsorship of Ambassadors of Friendship, which is one of the many affiliates of the nationally known Readers's Digest periodical.

The Trinity Choir, on an experimental mission, toured and performed in Yugoslavia on the basis of acquainting themselves with the cultures of people who willingly chose communism as their form of government. This trip and others like it has been in the planning for over three years. McGarity stated that the expedition had been undertaken with complete success and that it had opened the door for still more extensive tours for the following summer.

The group spent their first four days in the Yugoslavia capital of Belgrade. Performances there included appearance at a local factory banquet honoring its most industrious employees for the year and a high school graduation party. Before leaving Belgrade the group was privileged to receive an invitation to attend the gymnastics exposition in honor of the country's youth and its President's birthday held on the National Youth Day. As is usually the custom, President Tito himself made an appearance that day. This provided the young Texan a unique experience as the aging leader's public appearances have been few and far between.

After leaving Belgrade the musicians spent 10 days on the Adriatic coast. While there they were registered at the St. Stefan Hotel which last year was recognized as the Outstanding

Brice News

Mr. and Mrs. Art Palmer of Secous, N. J. arrived for a month's visit with parents, Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Martin.

Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Martin went to Amarillo Monday to meet the plane as their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Art Palmer, were returning from Phoenix, Ariz., where they had visited for a few days.

Guest House of the year.

Our main stops along the tour were performances in the ancient City of Dubrovnik, Tetrograde, the President's namesake, and Sarjevo, which is centrally located geographically, McGarity said.

We ran into our one and only problem in Sarjevo," McGarity stated. "Because of its locale, all of the country's most prominent religions, (Greek Orthodox, Roman Catholic, Muslim and others) are situated there and public opinion of the different religious beliefs is touchy. One of the phrases in a song we sang was misinterpreted by the town's police as being a gospel message and we were told to disperse instantly. Dr. Zetty was taken to police headquarters for interrogation and the rest of us were released and treated royally throughout our time there."

McGarity said that he was most impressed with the idea that although Yugoslavia is a communist country, it definitely is not backward. While there we saw television, theatre houses, the latest magazines and books being sold. For instance, while travelling through the countryside we might see a farmer plowing his field with an oxen team. Yet not six feet away we could see the T. V. antenna rising from the house top roof.

Getting to associate with the Yugoslavians themselves was the highlight of the trip for me. I personally got to know and hold lengthy conversations with many of the countrymen, McGarity said.

"I feel as though my time spent over there was priceless and I'm extremely glad I was chosen to go. My experience there was rewarding," he concluded.

Members of newspapers

Mary (Gardener) Davis

Some of the stories

old papers were very interesting in particular that

one in the Hall County

which was published July

50 years ago, showed had seven banks in the

with total deposits of

2.19. The seven banks

of National of Turkey,

State of Newlin First

Bank of Lakeview, Estel-

Bank of Estelline and

State Bank, Hall

County National and First National and First National. The deposits

in 32 to 322 thousand.

The amount of money and location in the county at

it would average out to 10 per person. Compared present deposits in Hall

County with the present

deposits, it is talking to one or two on the low per capita basis on the banks 50 years ago,

it is me this answer that there are so many more places

in the coffee mill, in the floor, in the cookie jar, snuff

boxes, their shoes, as well as in hiding places.

idents here, when we rode the special train to Amarillo to advertise and get our bid in for Texas Tech.

If Tech had located in Memphis with a population of 100,000

my imagination goes out as to where the city limits would be

now, and what would have happened to the ones that are still here trying to make a living.

The L. F. Jones had their family reunion in Brownwood

last Sunday. This family I have known the past 66 years, first came to Hall County in about 1890 from Missouri. I have known all members of this good family, and to date, only one son,

Oren, and two girls, Ina Sigler

of Brownwood and Gladys Gilmore of Dallas, now survive.

Seeing William (Bill) Chappell

here a few days ago reminded me that he was carrying on for his father in the service of his country. His father, Jim Chappell, was retired June 17, 1973, as a Major after 7½ years active service in the Army and 22½

years in the reserve unit, making him a total of 30 years before retiring. Bill, the son of Mr. and age Hall the past week who were reminiscing of the times when they were young girls going to school here and going on dates

together in their courtship years.

From what I observed and heard in their conversation, they were

and have been close friends all through the years. All four of these ladies were grandmas, even though they did not look to be old enough to be in that classification. They must have all had good husbands who took good care of them, as they looked so well preserved for their ages:

Agnes (Edwards) Eklused of Sun

City, Calif., traveled by Dallas

and Desoto to get Elzina (Fain)

Shaffer to go with her to get Lou

(Shepherd) Duncan of Fort Worth to travel with them to Memphis to meet the fourth member of the group of friends,

who is Dorthy (Reed) Evans. This was the first time these four had been together since 1939. They spent two days together on this party. They must have been good wives as they kept down the national average. There was not a divorce in these four marriages.

They seemed to like Heritage

Hall very much. Thanks to them for their contributions.

Agnes (Edwards) Eklused will be remembered as the daughter of Happy Edwards who moved to

Hall County in 1924. She graduated from MHS in 1939. She has been living in California the past 12 years. She has two sons (Max and Martin) and three grandchildren. Her son, Max, coached with our local coach, Clyde Me-

Murray, in Kileen. There were three other children in the Happy

Edwards family Joe of Brownsville, Mrs. Levida Creach of Mrs. W. T. Reed, moved to Hall

County in the early 1900's.

Mrs. Robert Duncan had as her guest in Heritage Hall, her niece,

Mrs. Marven Webster of Littlefield. She will be remembered

here as Toby Miller, who married

Marven Webster (son of Roy) in 1939. They now have three daughters, one son, one grandson

and five granddaughters, and one great-grandson. Toby was very complimentary of Heritage Hall.

The other son of Mr. and Mrs.

Roy Webster, Loyd, is also living in Littlefield. Others visiting in Heritage Hall were Mr. and Mrs.

Bill Ricks and daughter, Letha, of Childress. Bill has worked for the Burlington railroad the past

31 years in the car department.

He lived in Memphis for a year helping put in the gas lines in our city. M. W. (Ike) Paschall and son, Rex, were visitors in Heritage Hall last Saturday from Lutie. Ike recently had heart surgery. He has three sons, age

12, 18 and 23 and is a grandpa.

He is now planning on making the trip to Boston, Mass., this summer for the reunion of his Army buddies. Hope he is able to make this trip.

I had a short visit at a local coffee shop with Mr. and Mrs.

Hudson of Carthage. Mrs. Hudson will be remembered by many of you as Birdie Gibson, sister of Mrs. Bill Batan, now of Pampa.

where Birdie and her husband had been visiting the past few days. They have one daughter, three grandchildren and one-great-grandchild. They also visited with the other sister, Myrtle,

who is now Mrs. Verden and living at Wheeler. Myrtle worked for Hightower Greenhouse a number of years, and if I remember right, Birdie worked for the J. C. Penney Co.

Mrs. Baird baked her bread the old-fashioned yeast-rising way for wonderful flavor and soft texture.

Today her family still uses that baking method... because they still care about quality.

Parents Asked -

It is urgent that parents contact the school as soon as possible so that classes may be available for those attending in the fall, Supt. Wood said.

This is the first year for the program in Memphis.

Mrs. Bill Freestone, Jr. and son, Billy, of Clarksville, Tenn., and Mr. and Mrs. Neil Gower of Dallas recently visited here with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Brode Hoover.

Chamber of Commerce and supporters. We certainly appreciate the cooperation of these people and we are confident that the impression of Memphis to their customers and tourists is a good one. Most travelers form their opinion of a community by the service and treatment from our highway businesses. We are proud of our restaurants and business firms on highway 287 and appreciate their "Good-will" to our visitors.

The Chamber office with the help of several chamber members are designing a new letter-head for the Chamber of Commerce stationery. Anyone having any suggestions or ideas for a letter head may contact the chamber office as we are open to any ideas.

Mrs. Lynn Jones, Mrs. Crisman and Daughter Return From 10-State Trip

Mrs. Lynn B. Jones of Memphis, her daughter, Helen Crisman, and granddaughter, Karee Crisman, of Lubbock, returned on June 17 from a two-week tour of early American history through 10 states and Washington, D. C.

In Louisiana on Sunday night, they attended the First Baptist Church in Bossier City and Monday visited Frierson Country Store between Shreveport and Mansfield. The store is 85 years old and was originally a Commissary for a plantation established in 1885; it has not been modernized. The people living around it live much the same as in Antebellum days (pre-Civil War). The country side of Louisiana is much like East Texas with many trees including pines and magnolia, they stated. Around Monroe, La., they passed many trees covered in Spanish moss.

Reaching Mississippi, they crossed the mighty Mississippi River and at Vicksburg, made the 16-mile tour of National Military Park where the battle was fought that was the turning point of the Civil War. They viewed both Northern and Southern battle grounds and saw the many monuments the different states erected in memory of the men killed.

Also, in Vicksburg, they visited "McRaven" home of three periods as the first section was built in 1797, frontier style, the second built in 1836 is Creole style and the third built in 1849, Southern style. After the Civil War, a northern soldier bought the house and married a Vicksburg girl. They were shunned by the people of Vicksburg and after their death, their daughters continued to live there. They never married and lived in seclusion. The place grew up all around with a 30-foot hedge until you could not tell the house was there. It was when the railroad went in to build that they discovered the house. The sisters had a boy bring their food to them down a back alley, so few people knew they existed. The house was bought from the surviving sister and cleaned up, house and grounds made into a museum. There is a Magnolia tree beside the house that is over 300 years old.

In Jackson, Miss., the capital, the group toured the Old Capitol which has been made into a State Historical Museum. It was begun in 1833 and was the capitol until the new one was built in 1903. Also, they toured the new Capitol, visited the Archives and looked up the Civil War record of Lynn Jones' great-grandfather. In Clinton, Miss., they saw the old chapel of the Mississippi College where Gen. Grant made his headquarters.

Continuing their trip to Alabama, they saw one of the old log houses with "dog trot" typical of the old, old log homes.

In Montgomery, the state capital and known as the "Cradle of the Confederacy", they toured the Capitol building. A six-pointed star at the top of the steps marks the spot where Jefferson Davis stood to take the oath of office as President of the United States.

Also, they viewed the "White House of the Confederacy" where Jefferson Davis lived while the Confederate Capital was in Montgomery. Much of the original furniture was there and many of his personal belongings. In touring the Governor's Mansion, they discovered it was built in 1907 and became the Governor's Mansion in 1950. The first and only other official Executive Mansion in Alabama was built in 1906 and purchased by the state in 1911. It was demolished by 1963 to make way for highway construction.

The table in the dining room was laid with silver and crystal with punch and cookies. The guard told us they were getting ready for a reception for the returned POW's. While they were touring, Mrs. Wallace came out into the main entrance to visit with them.

As their trip was continued to Macon, Ga., they visited Mercer University which was organized in 1833 in Penfield, Ga., and named for Jesse Mercer, an eminent Georgian, a Baptist clergyman who helped finance the building of the college. In 1871 the University was moved from Penfield to Macon and two years later the Law School was established. Jesse Mercer was an ancestor of Ker-en Crisman.

At Atlanta, the state capital, they toured the capitol building and went again to the Archives to look up the Civil War record of Capt. Jim Hunter Alexander, great-grandfather of Mrs. Jones.

At Stone Mountain outside Atlanta, they viewed the pictures of Stonewall Jackson, Robert E. Lee and Jefferson Davis, carved on the side of the solid granite mountain.

In Carrolton, Ga., they met and visited with first cousins of Karen's great-grandmother, Mrs. J. H. Ward, long time Hall County resident, now deceased. Also, they went to the cemetery at Abilene Church and saw the grave of Mrs. Ward's grandmother, Amanda (Mercer) Meadows. The Abilene Church was where Mrs. Ward attended church when a small child. They also visited the old home site.

At Penfield, Ga., they visited the Mercer University Chapel which holds the original benches. They have Sunday School every Sunday and church twice a month. In Penfield Cemetery they viewed the grave of Jesse Mercer.

Visiting South Carolina, they toured the capital of Columbia and continued their trip to Camden, the oldest inland town of South Carolina, which was begun in 1730 when King George II ordered the establishment of 11 townships on the rivers of South Carolina. The town is filled with Civil War and Revolutionary War history. One of the surgeons there during the Civil War was Dr. G. R. C. Todd, a brother-in-law of President Lincoln. They visited the Quaker Cemetery where both Todd and his wife are buried and passed the house where a reception was given President Washington on his visit to Camden in 1791.

In North Carolina they passed fields of tobacco and the birthplace of President Andrew Jackson between New Hill and Cary. Also, they visited Raleigh, the capital of North Carolina.

In the girls' doubles Gerken of Amarillo, Jack of Borger 6-2, 4-6, singles.

Lara and sister, Vicki, defeated Diane Welch of Leslie Cofer of Lakeview. Sponsors of the tournament were Mrs. Clark and Mrs. W. The tournament was a success.

Actually, Wednesday were cut off short by three inch rain. The courts had to be swept and play could resume that day. Otherwise, weather was ideal for the tournament with matches beginning each morning and continuing to after midnight on evenings.
