Water System Sign-Up Deadline Is August 15

Final applications are being accepted for persons interested in acquiring drinking water services to rural areas directly West, Southwest and Northwest of Memphis, it was announced this week. According to Don Cockrell, President of First State Bank of Memphis, citizens living in these areas, or those with farms needing water service have until August 15 (Friday week) to sign up and make their $100 deposit. President Cockrell has been working on the project for many months and has signed up 30 already desiring the water service which will be provided by Red River Authority of Texas as a portion of the Thirsty Water System of Texas. This will be the last opportunity for rural homes or farms in the West Texas area to get drinking water piped to their places under the Thirsty Water System, as there are no other programs being offered. Also, it is believed that the system being planned now will only carry those meters originally signed up. Water to supply the system will come from Greenbelt Municipal and Industrial Water System which supplies such area towns as Clarendon, Childress, Hedley, and Quanah. Red River Authority has constructed several such systems supplying rural farms with drinking water, and this one is the last being planned. Citizens interested should contact Don Cockrell at First State Bank to fill out the necessary forms and make their deposit. "We will not know for a month or two whether or not this particular system will get approved for construction," Cockrell said, "but it appears real promising that approval will come if enough sign up for the service."

New Round of Inflation?

Americans who suffered through one period when inflation rose to double figures, with some months running as high as 14.4 percent, were hoping that inflation would taper off some for the rest of the year, but things don't seem to be working out that way.

June passed by with an inflation rate of 9.6 percent, and with increases in food and gasoline in July, a whole new round of double-figure inflation seems to be coming, and frankly, this is bad news for all Americans.

Americans are rushing around the country enjoying vacations now, and some have indicated they are taking these trips because they will not be able to afford them if gasoline prices continue to climb.

During the past three months, prices of beef and pork have climbed from 10.0 percent to 25.0 percent, and a whole host of other consumer items such as gas for heating, gasoline, health fees, transportation fares, household supplies, have gone up from five percent to ten percent. Health services alone have gone up 8.4 percent in many portions of the country.

Government economists were hoping that food prices would level off the last of this year, to counter balance increases foreseen in industrial commodities, but that hope has now floated away.

According to the Labor Department, major collective-bargaining settlements made in the first quarter of 1975 called for first-year pay increases averaging 12.5 per cent and those in the second quarter, nearly 10 per cent. In both periods, the unions' gains were much greater than those won a year ago.

Why the inflationary thrust in slack times? There are many theories, but the one which makes the most sense is that many manufacturers apparently decided that price cuts could not pay off in added sales at a time when customers were determined to buy less. So in order to meet higher operation costs, price increases were decided upon, even at the expense of fewer sales. With costs up and sales down, the typical company is either making less profit or suffering losses.

Inflation was abated during the period of January, February, March, April and May, with monthly figures on inflation being 7.2 percent or less during those months, but experts are worried about the coming months as inflationary pressures build.

Consumers, on the other hand, are likely to become more concerned about making ends meet than anything else, especially after vacation season is over.

Here in the Texas Panhandle, headlines in area papers report this week that property insurance will be increasing from 17.6 to 26.1 per cent in homeowners rates if proposals asked by insurance companies are approved to become effective on Sept. 30. Rates will be increased more in the Texas Panhandle, South Plains and North Texas than anywhere in the state due to adverse weather conditions, according to insurance company recommendations.

With higher fuel prices, higher labor costs, higher insurance, higher taxes, higher cost for services, it is little wonder that inflation with again gather speed.

KEEPING COOL

We wouldn't be surprised if, in the next year or so, many of us have to return to some of our old ways of life. We may, for instance, have to crank up our window or attic fans if the price of electricity keeps going up.

Just about the time many of us can afford air conditioners, we may have to turn them off, either because there isn't sufficient electricity or because we can't afford it.

Remember the summer nights under the little buzz fan and the stifling smell of mosquito spray? You'd wake up in the morning as tired as when you went to bed. But, apparently it didn't hurt any of us, and I guess we can do it again if it comes to that.

SPEAKING OF ENERGY, natural gas companies are being urged by the Federal Energy Administration to voluntarily stop promotion of the energy-wasting gas lamps used to decorate lawns across the nation.

"A decorative gas lamp burns 18,000 cubic feet of natural gas a year, or as much energy as is needed to provide an average family with hot water for six months," says Delebrt M. Fowler of Dallas, FEA Regional administrator.

gas light uses three times that much.

Two other factors pointed out by Fowler are that the electric light can easily be switched off when not needed, while most gas lamps burn 24 hours per day. Thus if a light is used five hours an evening, the net energy saving is almost 14 to one in favor of the bulb.

Replacing gas lamps with electric bulbs could save an estimated 32,000 barrels of oil daily, enough to heat 600,000 homes for a year. It is estimated there are four million decorative gas lamps in the United States.

"This doesn't seem like a tremendous savings, but with the shortage of natural gas, every little bit of saving is important," Fowler says.

Ah, isn't life exciting these days!

WHY STRIVE TO BE BETTER?

WE LIVE IN AN AGE when everybody believes in the economic equality of man. Gone are the days when people accepted the status into which they were born.

There was a time when a young man graduated from high school, or left before graduating, refused college or training in some skill, and planned to spend his life as a day laborer.

We still have this type, but unlike those of another generation, today they want and demand the same standard of living as the highly-skilled, the talented, the one with an IQ of 150 who has taken advantage of his ability.

Attitude of many persons today is "Regardless of what I do, I am worth just as much as anybody else and I deserve the same income." Or "It isn't a question of what I am worth... it requires X number of dollars for me to have the same standard of living as everybody else, so that is what I must have. Otherwise I go on relief."

30 YEARS AGO August 9, 1945

Hall County 4-H club boys, perennial winners in state contests in livestock production and related matters, proved last week that they also excel in marksmanship and athletics at the district encampment at Lake McClellan. In Marksmanship Morris Odom of Newlin took first place, with Laddie Sloan second. In the junior division, Jack Boney of Parnell came up fifth and Bruce Gibson of Turkey fourth. The team of Laddie Sloan and Billy Hancock took third place in the wood-sawing contest.

Radioman 3-C Royce Frisbie left Sunday for Norfolk naval base after spending a short leave with his wife, Billie, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Buck Frisbie.

In graduation exercises at West Texas State College, Canyon, on Wednesday night, Miss Ira Hammond was presented her degree. She had been attending the summer school.

The Burlington Railroad's new Vista Dome car, an observation car with an upper deck glass dome, will be in Memphis on the night of August 14. The car will be attached to the Zephyr when it comes through here next Tuesday at 8:10 p.m., and is being demonstrated over the Burlington system this month.

countants or nurses.

Not only have the differences in skills been ignored by a new generation, but also the differences in responsibility. There are numerous menial jobs which require nothing more than the performance of routine tasks which could almost be performed by a robot. There are no decisions to make, no thinking to be done. There are no problems to take home at night, no anxieties.

Then there are jobs where one major decision after another must be made, decisions which are seldom black or white but gray, problems with no satisfactory solutions but which demand the ability to select the better of several faulty solutions.

When the time comes that everybody makes the same, regardless of skill or responsibility, then everybody is going to prefer the less demanding job, the one requiring less responsibility, less skill. Why spend the money for a college education if high school graduates make just as much?

Why assume the problems of management, including anxiety, talking problems home at night, if the employee makes just as much? These are very real problems.

We deal with two types of energy:

1. HUMAN

Many businesses and industries are moving into this region from other parts of the country. They've found that we have a willing work force, a sensible tax structure, favorable weather and adequate energy sources.

New industries don't just move into your town by accident. Sometimes years of personal contacts by your Chamber of Commerce industrial team and the industrial development experts at Lone Star Gas are carried on before the final decision is reached to relocate in your town.

Your Chamber's industrial team, aided by the state, county and utility teams, study the area to make sure the right industry is matched with the right plant site location.

A new business or industry helps your town's economy by providing new jobs and by adding tax dollars for schools and hospitals and other community services.

So when you hear about a new industry moving into your town, call your Chamber of Commerce and thank them for another job well done.

2. NATURAL

To our customers, Lone Star is "the gas company." We serve over one million customers in about 400 cities and towns in Texas. That's a lot of customers... and a lot of responsibility. People depend on Lone Star Gas to have the available natural gas energy whenever and wherever they need it. And we've provided that energy for over 60 years through investments in pipelines, compressor stations and the purchase of new, more expensive gas supplies.

Natural gas produced in the United States provides over ONE-HALF of this country's industrial energy requirements. And the availability of adequate natural gas energy is one of the primary reasons that more and more businesses and industries are moving into this part of the country.

Lone Star Gas is committed to helping your town attract and keep industries that can provide jobs and help the economy. It's just good business for all of us.

A BETTER WAY TO SAVE

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

A sweeping change in state-wide ambulance service has taken place in recent years, and one of the reasons is the Emergency Medical Services Division of the Texas Department of Health Resources.

Where ambulances once were directed toward speed, they now put emphasis on trained personnel and life-sustaining services while en route to a hospital.

The types of modular ambulances seen on popular television shows are becoming quite commonplace across Texas. These are the preferred types and more and more Texas communities are installing them.

A move to further assist communities in setting up ambulance service, complete with trained personnel, has prompted the Division to place its training personnel at strategic locations in regional settings in Texas.

No longer will it be necessary to call Austin for assistance, says Charles E. King, director of Emergency Medical Services Division.

"Supervisors are stationed in the Regions," says King, "and they are enthusiastic about being close to those in need of assistance. All are knowledgeable in all phases of the program—which includes Emergency Medical Services, Medical Advisory Board, Civil Defense and Radiological Defense."

The EMS Program has had a tremendous effect on upgrading ambulance services, and cities throughout the state have gone to highly trained personnel and sophisticated life-sustaining equipment which goes far beyond that required for certification. In some cities, medical colleges have entered into training of ambulance attendants to assure the finest use of equipment.

In the beginning, those in the Health Resources Department's emergency medical program had to knock on doors to interest cities and towns in attendant training. And, the Division provided training, with help of local medical society members. But the life-saving program now has developed on such a broad scale that there's not enough personnel to provide training.

Through its regional setup, says King, the Division provides expert consultation services with towns suddenly without ambulance services or those wishing to upgrade services. They help organize classes, interest and certify ambulances and give examinations to those taking various training courses. They also do basic communications counseling, aiding operators of emergency vehicles in selecting and properly utilizing radio equipment.

"One of the most exciting fields in medicine today is in the area of emergencies," said King. Many emergency teams operate from military helicopters to speed patients to hospitals, he said.

Andrew L. Woodward said the regionalizing of EMS personnel is basically the same as the whole concept of regional offices—getting services nearer those who need them and taking them into areas which haven't received them before. With regionalization, many areas find the EMS representatives can coordinate between agencies and other interested personnel in the formulation of a more efficient EMS system.

"You'd be surprised how important it is to people not to have to deal with someone from the State Capital," said Woodward. "If someone near Lubbock needs help, we have men stationed there for them to contact. A northeast Texas County Judge who came to the Austin office for help was delighted to learn that a regional man was stationed in Tyler."

The basic function of EMS, reiterated Woodward, is to assist in training of ambulance attendants, consult with local people in setting them up, helping with communications problems and "to do a lot of personal consulting." Further, he said, we can do about 90 percent of licensing and inspecting of ambulances.

Where ambulance companies not have seen the value of their vehicles having proper equipment before, they can have it explained personally by the regional representative of the Emergency Medical Services Division of your Texas Dept. of Health Resources.

TOMMY HALLS TRANSFERRED TO LUBBOCK FROM PLANO

A farmer wants to know: "What do you mean by early diagnosis of cancer? What's early? The age of the person?"

Answerline: Actually, it's the age of the cancer that's important. An early cancer is one that has just begun to grow and is confined to the place where it began. As time passes, the cancerous growth becomes bigger and spreads to other parts of the body. That's when it is more difficult to stop. Most cancers can be cured if detected early and treated promptly.

A Reader insists: "I can't give up cigarettes, so can you tell me which one is a safe cigarette?"

Answerline: There is no such thing as a safe cigarette. Many of today's cigarettes are lower in tar and nicotine than the ones smoked 20 years ago and are therefore somewhat less dangerous, but there still is no safe cigarette. Many people who thought they couldn't give up cigarettes found they could with some help from their local American Cancer Society. Checking with the ACS is the safest thing for you to do.

Diabetes Is Treacherous

Diabetes is a treacherous disease because it develops slowly. It may be unrecognized or neglected, and can lead to complications such as heart and blood vessel changes and damage to the eyes.

Diabetes is characterized by the inability of body tissues to utilize sugar and starch, both for immediate energy needs or to store for future needs. To utilize these foods the body must produce insulin. In diabetes, too little effective insulin is present.

Diabetes cannot be cured, the Texas Medical Association points out, since insulin-producing mechanism will never again produce normally. Diabetes, however, can be controlled by medical management. Many diabetics can manage their problem by diet alone. The doctor may be able to adjust the kind and amount of food intake to match his patient's insulin production and still provide enough calories to maintain normal weight and physical activity. Patients with more severe diabetes will need to take insulin to make up the deficiency.

Regular exercise is an important part of managing diabetes. It helps to use up sugar and thus reduce the insulin needed.

When blood sugar falls too low in a diabetic taking insulin, he is having an insulin reaction. This can occur from too much insulin, too much exercise or not enough food. Insulin reaction may cause weakness, trembling, tiredness and drowsiness, double vision, slurred speech, sweating and extreme hunger. Sugar, fruit juice or candy often will offset the problem.

Diabetes can be controlled, and patients whose diabetes is in reasonable control can live their lives with only minor inconveniences and do nearly everything they might have done without diabetes.

The clues to successful control of diabetes are early detection, understanding rather than fear, and a well-managed balance between food intake, physical activity and medications. Ignorance of proper self-care is the greatest single hazard of diabetes.

Answerline: Regular health checkups should be part of everyone's routine. Cancer is rare among young people, but as you approach womanhood, it's important for you to know about a woman's special safeguards against cancer: the Pap test (for cervical cancer) and breast self-examination. Your local American Cancer Society has useful leaflets about these safeguards. The leaflets are yours for the asking. Please ask.

We visited the Dinosaur National Monument and saw then: removing a large Dinosaur which had been buried for millions of years. Lots of other fossil bones could be seen in the sandstone.

We went through a valley where cherry trees were everywhere, saw the Red Wood trees and also visited Yosemite National Park. We also visited three different groves of the giant Sequoia trees. These giant trees are known as the oldest living thing on earth. There are over 200 trees over three to four thousand years old. The trees are ten feet or more in diameter.

Bran Adds Fiber To Shortcake

Recent research has shown the importance of fiber in the diet. NABISCO 100% Bran Cereal is an especially good source of food fiber. Of course, bran is good for you, but it can also be used in many recipes. In this shortcake shell, bran adds a delightful, nutty flavor and a crisp texture. Fill with colorful, juicy fruits and serve with your cream sauce.

- FRUIT SHORTCAKE
- 2/3 cup butter or margarine
 - 1 (3-ounce) package cream cheese, softened
 - 3/4 cup granulated sugar
 - 1 egg
 - 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 - 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
 - 1 1/4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
 - 1 teaspoon baking powder
 - 1/4 teaspoon salt
 - 3/4 cup NABISCO 100% Bran Cereal
 - Rice or dried beans
 - 1/3 cup apricot preserves
 - 4 cups chilled fruit, well drained
 - 2 cups dairy sour cream
 - 1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Grease a 2-quart oblong baking dish. Line with wax paper, allowing paper to extend 1 inch above pan. Grease paper. Beat butter, cream cheese and 1/2 cup sugar until fluffy. Blend in next three ingredients. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt; add with bran to cream cheese mixture. Spread evenly on bottom and sides of prepared pan to form a shell. Line with wax paper, pressing carefully into corners. Half fill with rice or beans to hold in shape. Bake paper to within 1 inch of pan. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (375°F.) 20 minutes. Carefully lift out paper and rice. Reduce temperature to 350°F. Bake 15 minutes longer. Cool in pan on wire rack 30 minutes. Lift out and cool completely. Spread bottom with preserves. Fill with fruit. Blend together last three ingredients; serve as sauce with shortcake. Makes 10 servings of about 2 x 1 1/2 inch shortcake and 3 tablespoons sauce.

D. T. Walker had as his guests in Hall County Heritage Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Walker and son of Killeen. Doyle will be remembered as the son of Mr. and Mrs. D.T. Walker, who graduated from Estelline High School in 1955, and his wife, Barbara, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Smith, who also graduated from Estelline in 1955. They attended TCU and West Texas State and also Texas A&M for their masters degree. They have taught and coached for 15 years. Barbara is teaching vocational office education at Killeen. Doyle is now in civil service as assistant athletics director at Fort Hood. Doyle and Barbara have two sons, Gregg and Kimberly. Hubert Dennis and Doyle had a lot of conversation of the games of football when they were coaching and their teams were playing against each other.

In checking up on the Dee Walkers, Mrs. Walker was a Fannin County girl. She and Dee were married in Vernon and lived at Chillicothe before moving to Hall County in 1935 near Newlin. Mr. Walker remembered the Newlin P. O. boxes when Mr. Hemphill was postmaster. The Walkers have five sons and two daughters.

Mrs. R. D. Srygley had as her guest in Heritage Hall, her daughters, Mrs. Wanda Rhoades of Dallas County. Wanda was born in Hall County and brought into the world by Dr. Goodall. The family moved to Dumas where she attended school. Mr. and Mrs. R. D. (Bill) have moved back here from Dumas. Mrs. Srygley will be remembered as Lizzie Vaughn, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lester Vaughn. She attended school at Lakeview and graduated from MHS.

The Clee Parr family had as their guests in Heritage Hall, Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Parr of Coldwater, Michigan. F. O. is a brother of Clee's father. The Parr families moved to Paducah in 1913. F. O. pastored several churches in Texas for 17 years before moving to Illinois where he taught in a college since 1945. His wife was a teacher and they have both retired. They were married in Tahoka in 1929. They have two sons, one of them is a Methodist minister and the other a teacher. They both live in Michigan. There are 7 grandchildren in the F. O. Parr family. Mrs. F. O. Parr, before her marriage, was Mozelle Disberon of Georgia whose grandfather was an early day traveler and moved from Norway to the United States in the early days.

Business in a small town, some start on shoestring . . . Others with limited capital and still others that are over capitalized. Over the years that I have observed the small merchant is that the safest one to succeed was the one that had limited capital, with the owner full of ambition and a lot of energy to increase his stock to supply his customers and work toward a good credit rating so his order would not be held up to get his credit checked. Another ambition was to be able to pay his bills by getting his discount in paying by the 10th of the month. Another important thing or two things was to keep the volume of sales up and overhead down.

A business does not have a heart and soul, but you have a heart that makes you fall in love with that store that has done so much for you with your cooperation and loyalty of help in trying to make this business do so many things for you in paying the rent on building, helping you pay your invoices, also paying taxes, utility, bills, stamps, box rent, dues to your Chamber of Commerce and other organizations. This business feeds and clothes your family with the necessities of life, keeps your kids in school and helps support your church and all other worthy causes. Then when your sons and daughters graduate from high school, the business still helps you to make arrangements to send them to college and send money for fraternity dues, etc. Then they find a future mate, and the business is called on again to produce a little more for a wedding. Then they have to have a new car and honeymoon, and that business is still taking care of you along with other expenses, and you still look to that business to help you set up the children in business and if they have reverses and you have a new grandchild, you still have that love in your heart for your family and for your business that you are still depending on helping you out of a tight that you are in and you do not want anyone to know about this tight except your business, wife, banker and wholesaler with whom you have been trying to build up a better credit rating. After all of these years of this business taking care of your many needs and you realize when you talk about leaving the business, how much it has meant to you and the love you have for it and it is almost like giving up a member of the family.

This business that has created love in your heart for your customers and faithful employees and family who tried to stay in the means of what the business would produce. I have been through 3 of these sad occasions counting the fire in 1953 when I was too old to start over and too young to quit, and it seemed like one of life's darkest hours. But with the boost of friends, customers and employees and family, we made it another 12 years, and then a farewell to the business I loved and appreciated. I remember one of my grandfathers who became so engrossed in his farm and love for the mule power. His last request was that his old faithful mules pull the wagon to the cemetery with his casket.

The sale of the Harrison Hardware a few days ago made me think of the many business changes that have been in Memphis the past 68 years and for several years in the early days, George Tipton had almost a full time job changing signs as he was the main sign painter for several years with a note in the corner of the sign, "Tipton Did It." The first Harrison I remember was Sam T. Harrison who was in with Mickle Berge's Hardware which was started here in 1905 in the sheet iron building where Lockhart is now located. The next location as I remember was in the building on the corner where Sylvia is now located . . . Former business in this location were T. R. Garrett and I. N. McCrary. The next name I can remember on the Harrison Hardware was "Harrison Headrick Hardware" with S. T. Harrison and W. H. Headrick as partners.

The next sign I can remember on this store was Harrison-Clover owned by Sam T. Harrison, T. M. Harrison and W. W. Clover (who retired from traveling with a wholesale house). The next sign put up was Harrison Hardware operated by S. T. and Tommy Harrison, and Carl assuming the responsibility of the implement business and Tommy the shelf hardware with S. T. as head man. After the death of Mr. Sam, Wendell came into the business working with Mr. Tommy and Carl.

After the passing away of Carl, his brother, he assumed the responsibility of the implement business throughout the years until it was sold a few days ago. After Tommy's health failed and Carl passed away, they closed out the shelf and general hardware. The Harrisons have been located in this one block since 1905. The Harrison store has furnished two mayors, 3 city councilmen, 3 presidents of Chambers of Commerce and participation in civic and religious work. I have known 5 generations of this family and I think there are 20 descendants of the Harrisons that started in the hardware business in 1905. From the horse and buggy to the Jet age!

I met the new people who are now operating the John Deere business. They are Howard and Norma Moore who moved to Memphis from Fort Worth. Howard was reared in Dalhart and remembers something about the "Dust Bowl" days. Norma was reared in Louisville, Kentucky, and she knows about the Bluegrass, tobacco and fine race horses of Kentucky. I heard that Howard was a soldier at Fort Knox when she first met this man from Texas. They belong to the United Methodist Church. We welcome these new people to Hall County!

I read a very interesting article a few days ago which gave a few facts on Communist China. The title of this article was "Behind the Bamboo Curtain." They have 800 million population, which is one fourth of the world population, with an increase in population of 15 percent per year. Eighty-five percent of the population is directly engaged in farming. They have a continuous planting of 3 crops per year. Hand labor and water control are the keys to Red China. The last scientific assistance was given them in the 1960's. This deal soured and they have almost been an isolated country for the past 26 years. Some difference in farming in China with our mechanical farming . . . We have almost lost the art of hand work.

A father said, "I could not take it any more and finally washed all the make-up off of my teenage daughter's face and pushed back all that hair, and so help me, I have been bringing up somebody else's kid."

From Paul Crume's column a few days ago. The family had bought a ranch, and they had just returned from it. One of the members of the family asked the 5 year old how he liked it. His reply was that he did not like the ranch as the cows went to the bathroom all over the place.

The J. K. Gibson family moved to Hall County from Bridgeport in 1910 near Plaska and later operated filling stations and garages in Memphis. There were 4 daughters and five sons in this family. Mr. and Mrs. J. K. passed away in Memphis. Their children started moving to California in 1923. The ones now living are Mrs. Howard (Merle) Leak of Shamrock, Jim of Bells, California and Marcella of Downing, Calif., who married Duvall Brumley, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Brumley. Mrs. Pete Gibson, whose husband passed away two years ago, was visiting here with Mrs. Ode Gibson, who recently lost her husband. Last Monday she had a call that the youngest Gibson girl had passed away who was Marietta Gehley.

A group of Memphians enjoyed an outing at Lake Altus over the past weekend. Going were Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Don Curl and Dan, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Campbell and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Smith and Matt.

Newcomer to the crowd is the Zapper. The "crowd" is the continuing deluge of technological innovations being utilized by the American farmer. Among the observable effects of this wave of modernity are the following: the new commercial cotton flour processing plant at Lubbock, soybean cheese experiments at Iowa State University, new hybrid wheat developments, new farm equipment . . . and the Zapper. Testing is continuing, but the initial results are interesting if not down right exciting for the most unique system of weed control since the hoe. Emitting a high energy microwave transmission directly into the soil . . . or Zapping it . . . has proven in a variety of tests to be an effective control device for weeds. All the side effects seem to be beneficial. First there are no harmful environmental factors & those involved in testing the Zapper report a definite improvement in crop performance in the zapped soil. Welcome to the crowd, Zapper.

LETTERS

To The Editor

(Editor's Note:) Mr. Loran
Denton of Memphis recently received the following letter from a friend of her late husband, F. M. McCarty of Austin. We feel that it will be of interest to all who knew him. The book that is mentioned in the letter contained the story of the trip on a life raft that Mr. Denton and several men took down the Rio Grande River during which the men were dumped into the river and narrowly escaped death, but all were eventually found. It was quite an experience. The letter is as follows:

Dear Mrs. Denton:

"Today I read in the 'Texas Outlook' that Loran, one of my best friends I ever had, had died May 18. I was deeply shocked and terribly grieved to learn of his passing.

"I have known him since 1942 when I came to Silverton to take over the superintendency of that school. He and I were in close contact during all the years that have passed.

"He was truly a great educator.
He loved his work, he gave of his fine talents to make sure that the boys and girls of the Lakeview and Turkey communities got every advantage that he could provide.

"You and your children were very fortunate to have had such a wonderful husband and father.
In my work I knew intimately most of the school men of what we call the Golden Spread. He was one of my favorites, for he not only talked a fine life, HE LIVED IT.

"May I tell you that my book,
'Big Bend Country', which was dedicated to him, is being republished by the Pelican Publishing Company of Gretna, La., and will be distributed over much of this country. The book is being rewritten except the chapter about the life raft trip. When this book is off the press, I shall make sure that you have an autographed copy of it, and I will do the same for each of your children.

"Since Loran was so dear to the thousands of graduates of the two schools, you might like to turn this letter to your local paper so they, too, may know what a wonderful person they were privileged to know and receive their training from.

"On a separate sheet, I am sending you some verses from James Whitcomb Riley's poem.
This poem, I think, could have been written for Loran. The title is 'Away.'

Mr. and Mrs. Chancey Thompson and sons, Hub, Jim and Will of Breckenridge visited in Memphis with relatives and friends this past Tuesday. They were on their way home after vacationing in Mexico and Colorado.

Jay Campbell and Candy Reyes vacationed at Red River, N. M., over the past weekend.

Farmers Make Planting Plans For Cover Crops

Many farmers in the Hall-Childress Soil and Water Conservation District are making plans to inter-seed cover crops of rye and winter peas to protect their land from blowing, according to Henry Gregory, District Conservationist with Soil Conservation Service.

Windstorms in the spring of 1975 did moderate to severe damage to some 125,000 acres of crop-land in Hall County. This damage was caused by a lack of cover or slow implementation of emergency tillage operations. Not only did these sandstorms damage valuable farmland, damage was done to fences, roads and bar ditches.
Now is the time to take action to get cover crops planted. For further information contact the local Soil Conservation Service office on planting cover crops.

 cial event on Saturday night during the tournament.
 Defending club champion is David Cofer, who won the tournament last year. Entry fees are modest in the tournament, as are prizes; however, the tournament carries more prestige because the winning golfer, the one who shoots the best rounds, gets the title of club champion for the year, and takes possession of the traveling trophy.
 The tournament is limited to only those golfers who are members of the club or the children of club members.

Unlike certain other parts of the human body, the ear does not have a built-in defense mechanism that can protect it, according to officials of the Beltone Crusade for Hearing Conservation. This fact, the officials point out, is a prime reason why hearing ability can be harmed by exposure to excessive sound levels.

At a traffic intersection, the U. S. Mail truck has the right of way over all other vehicles, at all times.

New Population Trend Is Being Seen In Texas, Especially In Rolling Plains

VERNON — Rural populations in Texas and the United States are now declining at a slower rate than during the 1960's. And that trend is also evident in the Rolling Plains area.
 The "rural" counties of the area, which are included in District 3 of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, are Archer, Baylor, Childress, Cottle, King, Dickens, Fisher, Foard, Hall, Hardeman, Haskell, Kent, Knox, Motley, Shackelford, Stonewall, Throckmorton, Wilbarger and Young, according to William D. Benson, Extension area resource development specialist.
 These counties showed a 1.6 per cent population decline from 1970 to 1973 compared to a 17.6 per cent drop from 1960-1970. Nationally, rural areas have shown a population growth of 4.2 per cent from 1970 to 1973.
 While certain counties continue to reflect a declining population, the rate is much slower than between 1960 and 1970, points out Benson. In addition, a recent U. S. Census Bureau report indicates a growth in the population base of many counties that had lost population during that 10-year period.
 Rural areas working through their county Extension committees and the appropriate Extension specialist are overcoming some of the problems created by the massive outmigration of citizens during the 1960's, notes Benson. District 3 rural counties lost 17.6 per cent or 22,094 individuals between 1960-1970.
 The specialist cites several examples of how county groups are working to slow the exodus of people and even reverse the trend.
 Hall County citizens are working closely with their county Extension agent in obtaining fire protection equipment which is vital to their health and well being. Young County groups working with their county Extension agent have recently obtained two trucks from the Texas Forest Service to support their countywide volunteer fire department.

 Elsewhere, rural people are becoming more concerned with economic development and community facilities to try to make a better "home" for those desiring to live in rural areas.
 Citizens of rural areas are realizing that if they want to progress, they must have a balanced community, contends Benson.
 This news release does not include Wichita, Clay, or Jones counties since they are located in a Standard Metropolitan Statistical Area.
 Because the first step toward obtaining help for a hearing impairment usually is to have a hearing test, each community should insure each citizen has the opportunity to obtain a convenient, economical annual hearing test, according to Beltone Crusade for Hearing Conservation.
