Hall County Commissioners Discuss Possible Tax Increase For 1976

For the first time in more than twenty years, Hall County is faced with the certain necessity of a raise in county ad valorem taxes. County Judge Lester H. Campbell said following the regular monthly meeting of Hall County Commissioners Court when the problem was discussed by the commissioners.

The tax increase will not affect taxes being paid currently by Hall Countians, but will affect the 1976 taxes, to be paid beginning in October, 1976.

Just what the tax increase will amount to has not been definitely decided. Accounting figures will have to be studied, Campbell said, and then a percentage determined which will meet the needs of highly increased county expenses. Although nothing definite was decided, it is very likely that any tax increase will be on a blanket, across-the-board basis, with a certain percentage increase.

Campbell explained that Hall County has been fortunate for many years in avoiding a tax increase. The bonded indebtedness of the county is low, with only some $88,000 indebtedness remaining and that on the Hall County Hospital. Obligations of the hospital bonds has been met annually, since the hospital has continually been operating without a loss since it was opened due to the excellent management of the administrator, Don Curl, commissioners pointed out.

But all expenses of the county are rapidly rising. A detailed study of the income and expenses has been made by Judge Campbell. For the years from 1965 to 1972, the income from all sources just about equalled the expenses.

Expenses actually began to exceed income in 1970, and has continued to do so each year since then. Inflation really took its toll in 1974, with the expenses exceeding the income by about $27,000; and it is anticipated that the year 1975 will show a deficit of approximately $40,000, possibly more. In 1974, total income for the county was $467,263, and total expenses $494,985. In the 1975 budget, total income was estimated at $456,671, with estimated expenses of $492,858 (this is expected to be slightly more than the estimate).

The federal government's plan of revenue sharing was started in 1972, Campbell said, when Hall County received $29,300. In 1973, federal revenue sharing money totaled $44,979, and in 1974, it was $49,507. Estimated revenue sharing money this year is $46,252. Should the federal revenue sharing program expire at the end of 1976 (the current bill provisions will expire then) and the program not renewed, it is obvious that Hall County will need even more tax income . . . or at least an income from some other source, it was emphasized.

Ad valorem tax income for the year of 1974 was $123,545, out of the total county income of $467,263. Campbell explained that other income included the revenue sharing money, various fees charged for county services, records, etc., license tag income, work done for individuals by the commissioners, some state money, and fines assessed through the justice of peace and county courts.

Although ad valorem taxes in 1974 were only about $9,000 more in 1965, county expenses increased from $253,253 in 1965 to $494,985 in 1974, the judge said.

MISS TAMMY LOCKHART

Tammy Lockhart To Compete For State FB Queen

Miss Tammy Lockhart of Memphis will represent 20 counties in this area at the Texas Farm Bureau Queen Contest December 1 at the Convention Theater in San Antonio.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lockhart, Tammy will compete with 11 other district winners for the state crown. She is reigning Hall County and District 1 Queen.

Selection of the 1976 queen is one of the activities scheduled for Texas Farm Bureau's 42nd annual convention. The state winner will receive expenses for herself and a matron escort to attend the American Farm Bureau Federation convention to be held in St. Louis, January 4-8.

Miss Lockhart is a 17-year-old junior at Memphis High School. She is 5 ft., 7 in. tall, and has green eyes and blonde hair.

Her high school activities include cheerleading, band, and tennis. She is a member of FHA, Student Council and U.M.Y. Among her honors are "Class Princess," Band Favorite, Band Officer, Best Marcher Award, and Winter Festival Queen.

Miss Lockhart lists her hobbies as swimming, tennis, water skiing, singing and embroidery. She plans to attend a pharmacy school.

The Memphis Cyclone will be traveling to Claude Friday night for the final game of the 1975 football season, standing 4-2 in district play and taking on the Mustangs, a team with a win, a tie, and four losses in district play.

The Mustangs, earlier in the district race, almost pulled an upset victory over Wellington, but lost the contest in the final quarter. Claude has downed Silvertown and tied McLean.

District 2-A championship will be decided at Wellington Friday night when the undefeated Skyrockets meet the undefeated Clarendon Bronchos. The winner of this game will advance into post season play-offs.

The Cyclone will be taking an improved ground attack into the ball game at Claude for the final outing of the season, but the Cyclone defense, especially the defensive secondary will have to be alert as the Mustangs of Claude put the ball into the air on 60 percent or more of their plays.

Claude utilizes a double-slot offensive alignment, splitting out both offensive ends and setting two wingbacks.

QB Wayne Campbell (No. 10) is a 147-lb. junior and engineers the wide-open offensive attack for the Mustangs. The fullback is No. 32 Jeff Cartwright, 165 lb. senior, who is in the lineup when No. 41 Chuck Brown, 187 lb. junior is out. The Mustangs use a 5-3 defensive alignment with Cartwright the center line-backer.

Wingbacks are No. 22 Jimmy Sanders and No. 21 George Jar-amillo, both 145 lbs. Ends are Randy Stephenson, 122 lbs. and Randy Nuttall, 166 lbs. both juniors.

With the exception of No. 63, Guard Chris Morton, 174 lbs. and No. 70 Tackle Gary Bagwell, 190 lbs. the Mustangs line is small. Center is No. 50 Troy Conrad, 123 lbs., while John Hawkins, a 130 lb. guard, and Doug Barrett, 160-lb. tackle fill out the line positions.

Coach Clyde McMurray announced the starting offensive for the Cyclone against Claude Friday.

"Mike Murphy will start at center," Coach McMurray said, "and Randy Orecutt and Matt Monzingo will be starting guards. Tackles will be Ricky Bloxom and Val Stone and Rickie Spruill and Steve Browning will be starting at ends."

"The backfield will have Dick Hutcherson at fullback, Charles Bryley and Kirk Fields at half-backs and Don Cofer at quarterback," Coach McMurray said.

The Cyclone had a rather spirited workout Wednesday afternoon, concluding with the live scrimmage sessions for both the starting offensive and defensive units.

Local fans possibly noticed last Friday night that Memphis coaches were using a different system, while engineering the Cyclone to a 51-0 romp over Wheeler. Coach McMurray and Coach George Berry were spotting in the Press Box while Coach Steve Land and Coach Bill Montgomery handled the sidelines.

When asked about the change, Coach McMurray said, "I didn't tell Coach Montgomery or Land about it until just before we came out, and I thought things went real well."

As far as team performance went, the Cyclone rolled to 449 yards total offense, only gave up the ball twice on turnovers, while grabbing six turnovers from Wheeler in the form of five fumbles and one pass interception. The team had a punt average of 42 yards per kick, as Ricky Guy was aided by a 49-yd. quick kick by Dick Hutcherson.

The Cyclone defense was equally impressive, blocking a punt and a field goal attempt, intercepting one pass, five fumble recoveries and holding Wheeler to only seven first downs.

Play was spirited despite the one-sided score and few penalties were assessed against either team. After the game, both teams shook hands at the center of the field before retiring to the dressing rooms.

Americans Need To Know Farmers' Side!

Memphis' favorite son, U. S. Rep. Jack Hightower, spoke last Saturday to Foard County Farmers Union and he pointed out that "an accurate picture of the nation's farmers must be presented to the American public if farmers are to have any hope of a fair market price and stable market for their products."

As sad as it is, this truth has become increasingly evident as the years pass by. And the solution to this problem seems even more distant today than it was two decades ago, for actually the problem is growing.

Cong. Hightower said the fact that so many Congressmen represent constituents who have no concept of what it takes to produce the food they eat and the clothes they wear is the principal hurdle to enacting legislation that will help the farmers.

"Although it might sound inconceivable to you and me," Rep. Hightower said, "a high percentage of Americans have never travelled beyond the confines of the large cities in which they live. Their only contact with agriculture is when they buy agricultural products in the stores, and they are concerned about only one thing at that point—how much they have to pay for these essentials."

Hightower explained that Texas has 24 congressional districts. New York and Chicago have 27 congressmen alone, and adding the number of congressional districts in other metropolitan areas, the vast majority in the House represents metropolitan districts.

Farmers face the uncertainty in the marketplace when producing their crops each year. While America's workers know how much pay they will receive, the farmer knows what his pay will be only after he has harvested his crops.

Americans living in the nation's big cities and surrounding towns, where the majority of the workers live, are faring better than typical factory hands in other free world nations as the U. S. is still tops in living standards according to a recent published yardstick.

An American pays for a pound of hamburger with just 12 minutes of work. The cost is nearer a half hour or more for some Europeans and it exceeds an hour for Japanese. A small car that costs an American 19 weeks of work requires 22 weeks in Germany, about 26 in Switzerland, 29 in Britain, 31 in Sweden, 35 in France, and about the same 19 weeks in Japan.

Eight of the 18 items used in comparing living standards in this article are products of the American farm, and in every instance American workers spend less time working to pay for their farm commodities than do workers in Japan, Sweden, Switzerland, Germany, France and Britain.

The answer is obvious. American farm commodity markets are influenced by interference from government agencies and leaders, who are more concerned with pleasing "Mrs. Shopper" than worrying about whether or not farmers are paid a fair and just price at the market place.

And, to go one step further, Americans would not enjoy the highest standard of living without this big edge in the market place price of farm commodities. The article also pointed out that the United States is losing ground in the total output per person, falling behind Switzerland and Sweden to be in third place.

An over-all ranking—showing who works least to buy homes, cars, food and other needs, or to pay taxes, and who gets the most in welfare—would put Americans still No. 1 in the prosperity league, the article concluded.

Representative Hightower is taking the message to Congress, as are other representatives from agriculture oriented districts. The economic realities of American agriculture are these: U. S. farms have just about reached the peak in total production, and costs of production are skyrocketing every year. Using chemicals and machines to replace farm laborers, the great revolution, is now over; in fact, many more field hands are needed. Farmers across the nation are needing more and more money in order to continue operation at full capacity, and the gamble with Mother Nature is exceedingly more costly.

One farmer brought the whole situation into focus by stating recently: "It would just take one bust, one bad year, to put farmers in debt so deeply that a life-time of good crops would be needed to pay the debt back."

Considering the state of the Federal Budget, the U. S. Government doesn't have enough money to come to the aid of U. S. Agriculture if a nation-wide crop failure occurred.

The only logical, sensible way for American agriculture to ride through droughts, floods, early freezes, and insect plagues is to have strong agriculture markets supplying sufficient income during good years to carry over during bad years.

VOTERS IN JEOPARDY

Your right to vote in Texas, which used to be put in annual jeopardy until the old poll tax system was abandoned and a new system of "permanent" voter registration adopted three years ago, is in jeopardy again unless you act to re-register as a voter before next January 31.

"Permanence", we have just discovered, has a three-year limit in Texas.

The new voter registration act slipped through the last session of the Legislature with no fanfare... which apparently means with little or no debate, and consequently with no publicity. It requires the county tax assessor's office in each Texas county to notify all registered voters this month (November) that they must re-register by January 31, 1976, to remain registered as qualified voters.

How often this re-registration is to be required in the future is not immediately clear... presumably it will be at the pleasure of the legislature.

In any event, if you are presently a registered voter, you should receive in the mail before the end of this month a notice from your county tax assessor's office that you must re-register before January 31 or you will not be a registered voter for next year's elections. Watch for it, and comply with its instructions, or you're going to be disfranchised.

Purpose of this unheralded act of the Legislature, we understand, is to "purge" the jury lists, which are drawn from the rolls of registered voters. It seems that after three years of "permanent" voter registration (registration which has been automatically renewed for a three-year period each time you have voted), the jury lists have become cluttered with the names of registered voters who have died or moved from their county of residence.

We find it difficult to believe that this problem could have become anywhere near as great as the one which is going to be caused by the corrective measures adopted by the Legislature. Under the "permanent" registration law put into effect just three years ago, the voter rolls would be automatically "purged" in January of any registered voters who had not voted at any time during the previous three-year period. This should automatically take care of all those who died during the first year when the law was in effect... and unless the death rate is much greater than we believe it is, a two-year lag in "purging" shouldn't clutter the jury lists unduly.

A wholesale "purge" of the voter registration lists during a two-month period just ahead of a major election year is not only going to impose a tremendous burden on the tax assessing offices across the state, but inevitably is going to catch a lot of voters unaware.

The crunch will come at primary election time next spring when a lot of voters find out that they have been deprived of the privilege of voting... and then it will be too late. This is precisely the sort of ill-considered action by the Texas Legislature

CALMING INFORMATION

Foreigners are investing more money in United States businesses, but the oil cartel nations' investments today account for only three per cent of the total. Is it more comforting to know that they don't own us, or unsettling to discover that perhaps they don't want to own us?

New studies, begun only last year at the bequest of Congress, have been completed to measure foreign involvement in U. S. business firms. And while a big increase in foreign involvement was identified by the new figures, the same nations that traditionally have invested here, such as Britain, Canada, Switzerland, The Netherlands, France, Germany and Japan, continue to account for the lion's share of out-of-country business participation.

At least that puts fears to rest that members of the Organization

Brenda Gres Is Shower Honoree

Miss Brenda Gresham, bride-elect David Grace of Anson, was complimented with a lovely pre-nuptial shower on Saturday evening, Nov. 8, in the home of Mrs. Mack Richards, southeast of Memphis.

Guests called between the hours of 7:00 to 8:00 p.m. to be greeted by Mrs. Richards and the honoree, Miss Gresham; and her mother, Mrs. Roy Gresham.

Guests were registered in the bride's book by Mrs. Dale Walker of Lubbock, sister of the bride-to-be.

Dainty refreshments were served from a table in the dining room laid with a lovely floor-length white cloth trimmed in lace and blue ribbon, carrying out the bride-elect's chosen colors of blue and white. Centering the table was an epergne holding blue and white cut flowers. Appointments were in silver.

Mrs. Alan Clifton ladeled punch from the silver services, assisted by Mrs. George Helm.

A lovely array of gifts was on display in three rooms of the party suite.

Hostesses for the courtesy, in addition to Mrs. Richards, were: Mes. Frank Goffinett, M. E. McNally, H. R. Yarbrough, A. L. Gailey, Olton Pate, Lee Brown, H. R. Stevenson, Bob Hutcherson, Dick Fowler, Don Carmen, Gene Lindsey, George Ferris, Harold Smith, Bill Lockhart, Gerald Hickey, George Helm, Buster Morrison and Joe Montgomery.

Miss Gresham and Mr. Grace will be married on Saturday evening, November 29, in the First Baptist Church in Memphis.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED — The families of Fred C. Hausler, Rt. 4, Clarksville, and Silas E. Rice, Bagwell, wish to announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their children, Freda Louise and Hiram Evan. The semi-formal wedding is to be performed by Pastor William Allwardt on Saturday, Dec. 6, at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon at the home of the bride-elect's father. Miss Hausler is a 1973 graduate of Clarksville High School, attended Texas A&M University and is employed by the Soil Conservation Service of Clarksville. Mr. Rice, also a 1973 graduate of Clarksville High School, attended Paris Junior College and is employed by Brown and Root Construction Co., at Monticello. All friends and relatives of the engaged couple are invited to attend the wedding.

Two-Headed Snake Joins P&WD Exhibit

SAN MARCOS — A new star attraction is on the bill for the traveling exhibit of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Making its debut is a live, two-headed rattlesnake found by eight-year-old Michele Deoppenschmidt in the driveway of her home near New Braunfels and caught by her science teacher, Vincent Weisser Jr. The family decided to donate it to the department.

The 12- to 14-inch rattler has two fully developed heads which seem to operate independently of each other. This makes it an even rarer rarity, because most such specimens have the heads attached to each other.

Now the department has the problem of how to go about feeding the creature. One of the few previously recorded snakes with two fully developed heads gave its handlers some trouble in this regard. That was a nice-eating king snake and, when offered a mouse, both heads would try to swallow it.

Memphians Visit At Hardin-Simmons

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Dale attended Parents Day at Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene this weekend. While there, they attended a concert of the Cowboy Band and choral group.

Their son, Randy, is a political science major who will be graduating in December.

Other Memphians visiting their children at Hardin-Simmons included: Mr. and Mrs. Morris Davis and Jana who visited their son, Wayne, who is a sophomore; Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Elliott and Susan, whose daughter, Brenda, is also a sophomore; and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Moss visited with their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Moss.

Immunization Is Vitally Important For Children

COLLEGE STATION — Each year many U. S. children die or become disabled from diseases they needn't have contracted, Carla Shearer, a health education specialist, says.

"Immunizations are readily accessible to prevent these tragedies. Diphtheria, pertussis (whooping cough), tetanus, polio, measles and rubella are diseases which can cause disabilities and even death, but they can be prevented through immunizations," Miss Shearer, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, said.

"When vaccines were first available, the incidence of childhood diseases dropped sharply. But as the effects of the diseases faded from people's minds, parents made less effort to be sure their children were fully protected — so immunization levels declined."

The Texas Immunization Law requires that all children be immunized before entering school — but it's important to protect preschoolers also. This is the parents' responsibility since these youngsters aren't in school yet, Miss Shearer said.

She noted that reports show immunity levels among 1-to-4-year-olds are low enough to sustain substantial spread of diseases, including outbreaks.

The Texas Department of Health Resources suggests that a child start his immunization series at 2 months of age by receiving DTP (diphtheria - tetanus - pertussis) and polio immunizations.

Freeze Appetizers For Thanksgiving Parties Now

COLLEGE STATION — Avoid last-minute rush for the Thanksgiving party — freeze appetizers ahead of time, Frances Reasonover, a foods and nutrition specialist, advises.

She's with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Prepare as usual such appetizers as small open-face sandwiches, rolled canapes, puff shells, stuffed nuts and olives, cheese rolls, and bacon-wrapped tidbits. Dips and spreads of cheese deviled ham, fish and avocado mixtures freeze well also.

"But before packing in freezer containers, spread appetizers in single layers on metal pans and freeze them," she advised.

Toast or crisp-base appetizers need different care, she noted. Package them separately from other appetizers.

"Use shallow containers that hold no more than two or three layers. Separate layers with pieces of moisture - vapor resistant paper. Overwrap the entire container with this paper.

"Thaw toast and crisp-base appetizers two to three hours without unwrapping. Other appetizers can be arranged on serving trays and thawed at room temperature for one hour. Store up to two or three weeks," she said.

Indoor Gardening Can Be Fun With Artificial Light

COLLEGE STATION — Don't give up indoor gardening just because your house doesn't let in enough light for plants.

Everett Janne, a landscape horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says plants will grow with artificial light in the form of fluorescent lamps.

"Fluorescent lamps give off little heat and are excellent for plants because they can be placed near enough to give off high light intensities," notes the Texas A&M University System specialist.

The standard cool-light lamp is most popular for growing plants, but special bulbs are now available that are designed to meet the light requirements of plants. Janne recommends using a lamp with two tubes of at least 40 watts each. Suspend the light fixture about a foot above plants and keep the plants lighted for about 14-16 hours. Two lamp fixtures will light an area four feet by four feet.

"As the plants grow, adjust the lights to allow at least eight inches between the plant tops and the light tube," recommends the specialist.

If the temperature in the room falls below 60 degrees F., Janne advises providing supplemental heat that can be controlled with a thermostat.

For the avid indoor gardener, specially equipped units with lights and plant trays are available from garden shops and hobby centers.

WATER VEGETABLES TO PREVENT FROST DAMAGE

Fall vegetables can be protected from freezing temperatures by sprinkling them with water, says a vegetable specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Since freezing water gives off heat, this heat can warm the air around plants and protect them from the cold. A sprinkler system is effective but water must be applied continually during the time freezing temperatures exist. If a frost is expected, sprinkling in the early morning will probably be sufficient. Furrow watering may also be used to reduce damage from freezing temperatures, but this is not as effective as sprinkling.

AG EXPORTS BUSINESS ACTIVE

Every dollar in agricultural exports generates two dollars of total business, export economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says. The $21 billion worth of agricultural products at the portment were worth $22 billion year and generated an additional $21 billion worth of business in the form of goods and services needed to produce exports. The $21 billion included $6 billion in food exports, $2 billion in food processing services, $2 billion in trade and transportation, billion for various other

PLUM GOOD EATING

Plum sauce tops this pancake entree for a flavor combination that says, "Good eating." Yet, it's as easy as preparing a can of plums and heating this simple sauce.

And pancakes were never quicker. With a complete pancake mix all you do is add water and immediately pour the batter on a hot griddle. Proper temperature of the griddle is important for uniform browning and quick cooking, to assure a light tender pancake. If your pancakes aren't as brown as you like or are tough and heavy, the griddle probably wasn't hot enough.

So try this recipe with these tips and see if your family exclaims, "Plum good eating!"

PANCAKES WITH PLUM SAUCE

Makes 4 servings
One 17-oz. can purple plums 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon in extra heavy syrup 1 1/2 cups complete pancake mix
1 tablespoon cornstarch 1 1/4 cups water

Heat griddle to hot (400°F.). Drain plums, reserving syrup; pit and cut plums into eighths. Place cornstarch in saucepan. Add enough water to plum syrup to make 1 cup liquid; gradually stir into cornstarch. Cook, stirring constantly, over medium heat until sauce thickens and becomes clear. Add plums and cinnamon; heat through.

Meanwhile, place pancake mix and water in bowl; stir until fairly smooth. For each pancake, pour about 1/4 cup batter onto hot, lightly greased griddle to make 12 pancakes. Turn pancakes when tops are covered with bubbles and edges look cooked. Turn only once. For each serving top three pancakes with warm plum sauce and serve at once.

8 reasons why your son's first cycle should be an Indian.

More and more motorcycle enthusiasts are recommending Indian cycles to their sons. Because Indians are designed in America with the features younger, less experienced riders want. Like they're...

- Easier to handle—Indians are the lightest cycles in their classes. Indian's ME-100, for example, is almost 30 pounds lighter than comparable Japanese models. That's a lot less to lug around or load.
- Easier to mount and steady—Indians are built up to 2 inches lower than comparable models. So they're easier to get onto, and hold steady when stopped.
- Easier to control—Indians are designed to handle better. One reason is their lower center of gravity. Another, their lighter weight. And Indian tires are up to 15% wider than comparable big 4 models for greater traction.
- Surer shifting and braking. Indians are equipped with adjustable foot pegs. Because Indian knows all kids' feet are not the same. The right distance between pegs and levers can be a big factor in both comfort, handling, and safety.
- More performance when your son needs it—Indian powerplants deliver up to 25% more horsepower than some comparable Japanese models. That's power when it counts to get your son out of tough situations.
- Safer braking—Only Indian (of the big five cycles) has a full floating brake on all its models. So with Indian there's no chance of rear-brake lock-up and hopping even in the roughest terrain.

7. Easier to service—Rear tire and tube can be changed in half the time of ordinary cycles. The throttle cable can be changed in seconds with no tools. No other cycle its size offers both these big bike features.
8. Longer life—Only Indian of the big 5 offers an interchangeable swing arm that lets you increase wheel size as your son gets bigger. He'll use his first Indian a whole lot longer!
All in all, Indian's extra features give your son what he wants and needs in his first cycle... And only Indian of the big 5 brands offers a color choice on all models. So help your son decide on Indian. He'll thank you for a long time to come.

LETTERS
To The Editor

Sports Fans:
An incident occurred at a recent athletic contest in our area that was deplorable. A concerned parent of an injured player grabbed a young girl of the opposing team. This sort of action is unacceptable! A fan who cannot control his emotions and actions should be self-restrained and should be removed from future games. An athletic contest should be played in a spirit of sportsmanship, character and physical fitness. An athletic contest should also be for enjoyment. Athletic contests should be for the young, not for the old. The principles, codes and guidelines for the youth. Our youth has enough major problems without creating more incidents in the small arenas.

Each person should realize that when one takes a certain gamble in life he or she plays—but it is full of gambles. Athletes and players remember that there is not a place for latent anger and pent-up anxieties to be released.

Representative Jack Hightower will be honored at an Appreciation Reception on Saturday, November 15, at the Quality Inn on I-40 in Amarillo, between the hours of 10:00 a.m. and 8:00 p.m.

During the occasion will be the presence of the Congressman from the Panhandle area. Walker, Amarillo businessman, expressed the hope that the Congressman will be able to attend the reception.

Walker said, "We are fortunate to have a man of the caliber of Representative Hightower representing us. His diligence, concern, compassion and effectiveness are attributes which serve us well in Congress. This will give us an opportunity to see Jack and his family and to say thanks for doing a fine job this past year."

Possum Kingdom Trout Spur

Local Economy

When rainbow trout were stocked in Possum Kingdom Dam in 1972 by the Parks and Wildlife Department it not only provided another fish for the angler but improved the catch of native bass and the PK area economy. In 1972, before the trout were stocked, 5,000 fishermen used the area. But after the first year later the number of fishermen tripled.

Officials at the P&WD put the fishing costs at $5,000; but they estimate the fishermen who came to the PK tailrace for trout spent $142,000 in the local market on bait, meals, gasoline and other fishing-related expenses. For every dollar spent putting rainbow trout in the river, recreation worth $28 to the local economy was produced. The native species were also utilized. Fishermen in 1972 took 1,000 fish from the PK tailrace of the Possum River and in the following year they caught more than 2,000. In 1972, 740 channel catfish were caught, 1,500 in 1973. The sunfish catch improved from 4,000 in 1972 to 1,000 in '73. Even the catch of gaspergony or freshwater drum increased from 600 more than 2,000.

Small hooks used by trout fishermen baited with corn, salmon and marshmallows were also efficient in taking other species of fish than the larger ones and baits normally used in trout-less streams in Texas.

When sewing scoop neck T-shirts, stabilize the neckline by adding a narrow strip of lightweight interfacing cut the shape of the neckline. This helps keep the original shape of the neckline during repeated wearing, advises Mrs. Becky Culp, area clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Tips For Safe Hunting

Hunting season is when insurance companies brace for claims because thousands of novice hunters take to the field.

According to James Taylor, of CNA Insurance's claims department—an avid hunter himself—the most common claims result from poor skill and aptitude (such as stumbling or falling with a weapon) and violating hunting rules and laws.

"Preparations should already be under way to help assure a safe hunting season," advises Taylor. He offers these tips to hunters:

- SAFETY
- Complete an approved hunter safety course.
 - Thoroughly check all equipment prior to opening day.
 - Know the territory you are hunting.
 - Tell somebody where you will be and when you will return.
 - Know where your hunting partners are, being careful of their line of fire and your own.
 - Take a well-equipped first aid kit, compass and battery-operated radio on every trip.
 - Wear fluorescent orange clothes—including a hat. Never use a white handkerchief.
 - Alcohol and gunpowder do not mix—don't drink while hunting.

HEALTH

being careful not to overdo. Dress for the weather and have a complete change available. If injured, have a physician examine you immediately. Liquor lowers the body's temperature making you colder. Don't drink.

INSURANCE

In most cases of liability, homeowners policies provide coverage, including medical payments if a fellow-hunter is accidentally shot. Some of the hunting gear may also be covered. A special "all risk" policy will cover all firearms and gear when listed separately in the policy.

Hunters accident insurance—a short term accident and accidental death policy—is available. It can even include heart attack coverage.

"These preparations and precautions can make hunting both enjoyable and safe," Taylor concludes.

Nightwear Is Rightwear

Is it a hostess gown, a dinner gown or a nightgown? The answer to all three is a resounding, "Yes!"

Today's versatile, brightly hued sleepwear fashions change their look to suit the occasion, and whether you're entertaining company or putting a gleam in hubby's eye, you'll look beautifully feminine when you step off of Cloud 9 into the luxurious world of at-home elegance.

The flowing, bare shouldered evening look, or the softly draped, empire waisted peasant style adapts itself to wearing for intimate evenings at home. Fluid lines add to easy comfort while you prepare hors d'oeuvres, mix cocktails, or settle down to some romantic music. "For a personal, YOU touch, add a string of pearls or chiffon neck scarf," suggests Elizabeth Erotas, Fashion Director for Queen's-Way to Fashion, a leading direct selling firm featuring fashions and accessories for women, men and children.

Flaunt a million dollar look at a minimum cost when you use your imagination to create at-home fashions from your nightwear wardrobe! Sleepwear creeps out of the fashion closet to make its appearance as chic evening wear, and no one will suspect that tonight's becoming hostess gown was last night's dream gown.

Want To Know More About IRA? Here Are Some Answers...

What is an IRA?

"IRA" stands for individual retirement account—a new form of tax-favored savings authorized by Federal law.

What's the purpose of IRAs?

TO ENCOURAGE RETIREMENT PLANNING BY THE FORGOTTEN WORKER.

For years the tax law has allowed employers and self-employed persons to deduct contributions to "qualified" retirement plans. Millions of employees and self-employed have benefited accordingly. But employees of companies without plans were left out.

Now at last the Federal tax law grants the privileges of deductible contributions and tax-free accumulation for individual retirement savings.

What are the tax advantages of an IRA?

First, you get a tax deduction for your deposits in an IRA account.

Second, the interest on your account compounds tax-free. Examples of both these advantages are shown in tables elsewhere in this folder.

What are the practical advantages?

Because of the tax privileges, the same amount of savings put into an IRA will build up to a much larger retirement fund later on.

Look at it this way: If your tax bracket is 22%, the government puts $22 into your account for every $78 you put in. (Actually, for every $100 you put in you pay $22 less tax, so the result is 22-78.)

Who can start an IRA?

Any employee who is not covered by a "qualified" retirement plan (pension, profit-sharing, etc.) maintained by his employer. Also a self-employed person who has earnings from personal services and is not covered an "HR 10" plan.

How much can I put into an IRA?

You can contribute up to 15% of your earnings, but not more than $1,500 a year. There is no rule against contributing less.

Can I make periodic deposits through the year, such as weekly, monthly, etc?

Yes, provided you do not go over the 15% - $1,500 annual limit.

The First of Memphis is ready to explain IRA, a new form of tax-favored savings authorized by Federal Law, to you. Please stop by and ask one of our officers about this new service which offers tax savings today while you build your own retirement security for tomorrow.

BYRON BALDWIN

A story from Dick Valentine's "Spirit of the West" is headed "Mysterious Stranger offers to Raise Dead From Cemetery". One of the strange, eerie legends of the West concerns the "Mysterious Stranger" who visited the roaring frontier boomtown of Alta, Utah, and offered to bring back to life all the dead people in the local cemetery. That was more than 100 years ago — and he gave the residents of the town a holy scare. Today Alta, Utah, is a beautiful ski resort community nestled high in the Wasatch Mountains about 30 miles from Salt Lake City. But 100 years ago, Alta was a rip-roaring, notorious mining boomtown—one of the roughest and toughest on the frontier. One of the largest silver strikes in the West was made on Alta. The ore brought $180 a ton.

At its peak, Alta boasted a population of 5,000 people with more than 100 commercial buildings with 62 saloons and 5 breweries. The two most notorious saloons in the town were "The Gold Miner's Daughter" and the "Bucket of Blood". Old timers say that 110 men were killed in these two saloons alone during Alta's hey-day. Killing was a daily occurrence in Alta during the boom days. The Boothill Cemetery at the base of Rustler Mountain was soon filled with fresh graves. That's when the mysterious stranger appeared in town. The legend says he came just at dawn, walking down the dusty main street. He was dressed in flowing robes, and in his eyes a strange "mystical" look. As the crowd gathered, the stranger explained that he had the power to raise the dead to life again.

He said he was on his way to Alta Cemetery to resurrect the dead. He must have been a convincing talker (and actor) because the residents of the town believed him. There was great rejoicing in the community. However the town folk soon changed their minds. They gave the proposition a second thought and concluded that raising the dead would just complicate matters. In fact, they reasoned a general resurrection of the dead in Alta Cemetery could throw the town into a turmoil. Widows and widowers who had married could see their domestic lives tangled with the sudden appearance of dead wives and husbands. In addition, many Alta residents who had inherited property could foresee giving the legacy back to the owners.

A committee was formed and the mysterious stranger was told that they appreciated his offer to bring back the dead, but they just were not interested. But the stranger insisted that he was going through with it. The citizens hastily took up a collection of $2,500 hoping it would induce the mysterious stranger to leave town. It did—he disappeared as he came, never to be seen again. This story sounds like we had "con" games cooking over 100 years ago and we still have some of these games going today in many different ways.

In the past few weeks I have talked to young men in the generation younger than I and asked them the question of what they thought brought about so much turmoil in our world. Each one of them gave me the same answer which was one word, "Greed." I looked this word up in Mr. Webster's book and found this definition, "Desire beyond reason, grasping for wealth as well as other things."

I saw Don Tarver and his wife of Quail in Memphis a few days ago. They were both doing that high and mighty "goose step". I found out later the cause of this was that they were announcing the arrival of their first grandchild.

A few mornings ago, I found out that you had better learn the turkey language as I was called and asked if I could talk turkey by our local radio station. When I told them that I could not talk turkey, Jim told me I had just missed getting a free turkey for Thanksgiving. The only thing I think of new getting free was about 6 years ago when we had wood sidewalks in Memphis. I found a nickel shining through a crack in the sidewalk.

Lloyd Shelton of Fort Worth and Wanda Shelton of Arlington were visitors in Heritage Hall. They are nephew and niece of Vic Shelton.

Visitors in Heritage Hall the past week were Mrs. Fern Snow and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Morris of Fort Worth. Mr. Morris is a descendant of some of the real early day Hall County pioneers. He is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Washington Morris who bought the home of the late J. C. Montgomery that he first built in Memphis, east of the F.W. & D.C. railroads. This was a fine two-story home with gables and encircled on the roof with lightning rods. We have the picture of this fine home in Heritage Hall that C. L. Morris gave us. He visited with an uncle here a few years ago who was in his 90's. At one time, he had been postmaster at Naylor in Donley County. C. L. Morris has been with the Fort Worth and Denver for a number of years and was serving as the assistant to the president when he retired the past

Divorced Women Face New Insurance Needs

During 1975 over one million women will be divorced and facing financial considerations which may be entirely new.

"A thorough evaluation of insurance needs is essential for every woman going through divorce," says Raymond Parri, director of estate and business planning for CNA Insurance, "and the first person to be consulted is her attorney. The divorce decree may or may not dictate if insurance is to be provided by the husband."

If the former husband provides alimony or child support, a policy insuring his life is of prime importance. The wife or her dependent children should be named as beneficiaries, with a trust fund set up for children under legal age.

When the woman works and her income contributes to the support of dependent children, she should consider taking out a policy on her own life to guarantee that portion of her children's support. She should also consider disability insurance so that her income would not be substantially reduced if she were disabled.

Another important consideration is medical and hospital insurance for herself and the children, according to the CNA spokesman.

If the wife retains the family home, it is important that the mortgage payments be protected either through mortgage payment insurance or decreasing term life insurance. Also, homeowner's insurance should be maintained, but adjusted for any reshuffling of family property.

When the wife keeps the family automobile, she should be sure insurance covering it remains in force.

"A woman going through a divorce shouldn't hesitate to ask questions and get all the advice she needs from her attorney and a competent insurance man in order to guarantee financial security for herself and her children," Parri concludes.

year. History says invitation cards to a supper and ball at the residence of J. C. Montgomery June 26, 1890. On the reverse side of the cards were printed the names of the various committees. This was held in the home of Mr. Montgomery that he later sold the Morris family. History tells us that the first funeral and first grave dug in Memphis was in 1890 (as taken from the files of the late D. P. Webster). The first rural telephone line was from Lodge (Plaska) to Memphis and was paid for by public subscription. There were 14 telephones on this line.

Janice Rye of Amarillo and Mrs. C. F. Park of Bowie were visitors. Mrs. Rye will be remembered by her early day friends as Janice Anthony, daughter of the late T. C. (Chappell) Anthony, early day resident of Memphis. Other members of this family are T. C. of Wichita Falls, Jack of California and James Arthur of Albuquerque, N. M., also, Bess Edmondson who passed away in 1972. Bess' husband, Lon Edmondson, is now living in Chandler, Ariz., with their daughter, June, who married Jack Foster. The son, Jack Edmondson, is now living in Canyon. Janice Anthony's first work in Memphis was telephone operator for T. A. Singer, when he and Mrs. Hendricks owned the telephone exchange here. She worked as "Hello" girl here for 13 years and from here to Dalhart where she worked for the Fort Smith and Denver Railroad for 23 years. Jan's husband, Mr. Rye, passed away in 1973. Thanks for their contribution to Heritage Hall.

Ruth (Whaley) Park will be remembered as the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Whaley. Other members of this family were Elmo of McLean who worked in the First National Bank for a number of years and married Ruth Craver, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Craver. The other sons in this family was Joe William who many of you will remember always had a smile even though he was not able to walk. Ruth moved from Memphis to Dumas after working here for Judge Moss and Otho Fitzjarrald and she was also the first bookkeeper for the REA in Memphis. She moved from Dumas to Dalhart where she met Chester Park, and they were married. They moved to Tyler, then to Brownwood, Irving and now after the passing away of Chester, Ruth is living in Bowie where Joe William and her mother passed away. Mrs. Whaley lived to be 92 years old. Other members of the Anthony family now living in Bowie are Mable (now Mrs. Pete Barry) and Mae Anthony. Mark Anthony and his wife now live in Gainesville. William Whaley who graduated from MHS in about 1910 is now living in Sweetwater.

I have never forgotten Mable Anthony who was secretary for the Memphis Democrat at the time Brumley and Shepherd were the publishers. That was about 1910 when the first morning I went down to work for this paper, she called me the "printer's devil." I soon found out that was the proper name for a young fellow in the newspaper office. I soon had the mark of the trade with printer's ink on me from head to foot. As you could not scrub the type and throw the type in the right bins without a little ink rubbing off on you.

A local in the Hall County Herald of 1896—F. J. has a fine new jump seat buggy for his family.

Maggie Wright brought us an early day air conditioner (a fan) which was advertising for Durham Jones Drug store. Some of the advertising statements were interesting, such as O. J. Lotion, "The Easy Way to Beauty" and Mahdeen, "For Beautiful Lustrous Hair." Another way "Ammons Antiseptic Powder for Prickly Heat", and still another was "Itch Must go" with Blue Star Ointment. The above items missed being on television by being here too soon. I do not know how old you have to get before you are 39 years old as I heard Hubert Dennis telling everyone he met that he had his 39th birthday the past week!

We attended the 50th wedding anniversary party last Sunday afternoon for Mr. and Mrs. Bill Kilpatrick to which the daughter-in-law, son and grandchildren gave their support to this occasion. I have known four generations of Mr. and Mrs. Kilpatrick, Bill's two sisters, Mrs. Ansil Adamson of Hedley and Mrs. Truett Stovell of Hale Center who was the former Avis Kilpatrick who worked for me several years; in fact, Bill's wife worked for me and also, William's wife, Pauline, for a time. A family tree of pictures was very interesting and also the miniature railroad track with a poster which read "Keeping on the Right Track" with Bill and Ethel's pictures from their courtship days until the 50th anniversary. They just had about one-half of the circular track, so I think they are looking forward to the 100th anniversary. This track had no broken rails or rolled out railroad ties. A smooth track!

The book trade is finding that this superhuman hero has never had it so good.

Finding the right actor to portray this potent genius was not an easy task.

fect Doc Savage. After months of phone calls, letters and interviews, the time of trial came to an end. The perfect pick was found, tested and signed.

The Doc Savage you'll see on the screen is Ron Ely, a 6'5" giant who is actually blond and bronzed. Big of biceps, super strong and a gifted all around athlete.

Ironically, this is Ron's second superman role. He played Tarzan on a television series in the late 1960's. But Doc Savage is words apart from anything he's ever done before.

Those who plan to see “Doc Savage” are in for something special, the local theatre manager said.

Mrs. James Spencer of Amarillo was a guest in the home of her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Adams last week.

Carolina Yams Add Flavor And Nutrition

If you ask a Southerner about the foods he likes most, chances are he'll tell you that plain baked yams just out of the oven are mighty fine eating.

There's good reason why we should enjoy yams more often. Not only are they pleasing in flavor, but they are usually a good buy during the months when they are in largest supply—October through April.

For a pleasant change, try Carolina Ham Stuffed Yams at your next dinner meal.

Have A Soup-er Supper

Nothing warms body and soul better on cold or murky days than a big steaming bowl of homemade soup.

Extremely nourishing and economical, soup has been a basic food in every country and with every civilization throughout the ages.

In France, soup is still the basis of national diet. The word “supper” is derived from the French term “La Soupe,” which has been the name of the evening meal in parts of rural France for hundreds of years.

One of the most popular of French soups is bouillabaisse. A variation of this French delight is served at the Holiday Inn in Buena Park, Calif., in which seafoods and seasonings are simmered slowly in a white burgundy wine.

Courts Speak
 The State Supreme Court held businesses have a right to jury trial when the state sues them for deceptive practices.

In another case, the High Court called for a new trial of a Galveston area woman's suit arising from burn injuries when natural gas came out of her kitchen sink water faucet.

By a divided verdict, the Court affirmed a $303,126 ruling against the widow of the owner of a rental and supply firm which rented scaffolding from which workmen fell during construction of a Galveston school a decade ago.

In still another ruling, the High Court held a disbarment suit against the district attorney for the U. S. Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands should be tried in Lubbock. The lawyer moved from Lubbock in 1972.

Federal courts delayed mailing of notices to voters that they must obtain new voting certificates by January 31.

AG Opinion
 Atty. Gen. John Hill said ownership interests of Austin and San Antonio in a proposed $1 billion nuclear power plant in Matagorda County are exempt from property taxes.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

A claim for reimbursement to a state hospital for support and maintenance of a patient is not barred by the two-year statute of limitations.

A sheriff should re-arrest an out-of-county man previously released after original arrest only on appropriate judicial order.
