EDITORIAL

As We Begin Our Third Century!

The Bicentennial Celebration, although continuing throughout the remaining months of the year 1976, reached a peak on July 4th, and those watching television that day got an eye full of the way the celebration went.

We would add that what programs we watched were certainly well done and the many activities and events made us proud of our country and its citizens. The most inspiring thing about the celebrations was the peaceful air surrounding everything. Even the protest happenings were relatively peaceful.

But coming on the heels of the celebration is the sobering thoughts of what is to become of this nation during its next 100 years. Realistically, we all know we personally will not be around to witness another centennial celebration, even though life expectancy has increased a few years during our lifetimes. But all patriotic Americans would like to feel they will be making a contribution to that future.

Our nation is experiencing another gradual change, one that will have long reaching effects on the composition of our nation. This is the reversal in the trend of bigness in our cities. Within the past 10 years, the big cities of this nation have begun losing population, instead of growing as was being predicted by educated men and government leaders. The only cities still experiencing some growth are in the South and West. All the Northern cities, North central cities and cities in California are losing population at a faster clip than could ever have been expected.

Those leaving these cities are the more well-to-do citizens, the more affluent while those remaining or moving in are the poor. Rutgers' Dr. George Sternlieb says, "You can't support the poor without the rich; every time some taxpayer moves out of the city, the poor people are left even poorer."

This brings up a real warning to the American people as they pass into the Third Century of their history. The United States is the second oldest nation in the world. This being because its government has survived longer than any other nation save Britain.

But looking at Britain today, is sobering because the British have let socialism almost completely ruin their once great nation of commerce. Britain is proving that a super-sized government can strangle a nation.

Socialism has grown so large in Britain today that there are nearly as many people on the public payroll now as there are working for private enterprise, according to a San Francisco Chronicle report. There are some 17 million on the public payroll compared to 18 million persons holding private jobs.

This is scary because this could easily happen here in this country if present trends continue, and programs are added. "Britain's vitality is being drained away," complained Sir Geoffrey Howe, "and the growth of government has become the generator of inflation."

In 1914, government spending in Britain amounted to 13 percent of the GNP. In 1970, it was 50 percent and now it is in excess of 60 percent. At this rate, according to the San Francisco Chronicle article, it could be well over 80 percent by 1984.

The problem involved in a democracy like ours and in Britain, is voting power of public employees. As their numbers grow, they become hungrier for the comforts of life. Then there are those in private industry who work to support government programs, who owe their livelihoods to more and more government contracts. These workers in private sectors add their support to growing government expenditures. Add to these the sector of "fact finding and information distributing" industry and you already have a large section of private industry supporting large and larger government expenditures.

The United States grew to a world power because of technical developments brought about by an inventive spirit of free enterprise. Americans in past decades saw hard-work and progress pay off in economic rewards.

This nation can not survive another 100 years without changing roads, recognizing the serious problems Britain is facing, and arriving at better solutions to problems of poor and unemployed, growing numbers on government payrolls and on welfare rolls.

As Dr. Sternlieb points out, taxpayers must pay the bill before the poor can be provided for with government funds. The system of taking large portions of wage-earners' paychecks by government to provide welfare, food stamps, etc., for others, without first considering the wage-earners' needs is most dangerous when there becomes fewer and fewer wage-earners and more and more welfare recipients.

A wiseman wrote that it is unwise to muzzle the ox which turns the thrasher, for the ox must have strength to do its work, and what grain it eats should be given to keep the ox happy and working.

Taxpayers, the majority of which are wage-earners in the middle income class in this country, must feel they are accomplishing something, working for a better life for themselves and their children, if they are to be happy.

What is happening in the big cities is a revolt of these taxpayers. Their jobs there mean little to them when faced with extremely high taxation and cost of living, high crime rates, and crowded conditions which make life unhappy and sometimes unsafe. Those that can afford to leave, are leaving.

The next one hundred years will be a real challenge to the citizens of The United States. How successfully this nation meets its challenge will determine the future of democracy in the land of the free and the home of the brave.

What Other Editors Say

BAD NEWS NEEDS KNOWING

(Bob Barton Jr. in The Hays County Citizen)

On occasions we and other members of the news media are brought to task for printing a preponderance of "bad news". Some brand us as cynics and allege that newspapers injure the reputations of communities in the eyes of the general public when we engage in investigative reporting.

This past week a colleague in Phoenix, Arizona, was abruptly stopped from engaging in investigative reporting. A bomb placed in his rapidly stopped from engaging to uncover some land scandals involving politicians. However, other reporters have vowed to continue his work and we hope they uncover both his killer and the perpetrators of the land fraud.

In Washington investigative reporters have uncovered the Wayne Hayes fraud against the taxpayers of this country. The morality of his love life, or any other public official's, is properly a personal matter, but the question of his milking taxpayers by having us pay his mistress $14,000 a year for doing nothing but entertaining him is the kind of "bad news" that needs to be printed. We hope Washington-based reporters continue to explore payroll records to see if there are any other non-working girl or boy friends, cronies or kinfolk, on any of our officials' payrolls. If there are, then full disclosure by the press is warranted.

In seventeen other countries, a total of 67 journalists have been jailed for political reasons or because they dared to print "bad news" about their governments. Their detention is a violation of the United Declaration of Human Rights, which asserts the right of everyone to "receive as an integral part of the right of freedom of expression."

We haven't jailed many of our reporters yet, although too many judges are now trying to muzzle reporters who are covering trials and there have been some short jail sentences for reporters who refused to reveal confidential sources of information. However, the whole, a truly free press still exists in this country, and that means that a preponderance of the newspapers "will be filled with "bad news".

Daniel Patrick Moynihan, recently resigned U. S. Ambassador to the United Nations, put it best when he recently remarked: "It is the mark of a democracy that its press should be filled with bad news. When one comes to a country where the press is filled with good news, one can be pretty sure that the jails are filled with good men."

GAGGING AT GAG RULES

There is considerable interest among lawyers and the news media concerning recent rulings by judges that prevent the media from fully covering trials. These gag orders, as they are called, are issued by judges in the belief that they are necessary to insure the accused of a fair trial.

Most of us have heard at one time or another of pleadings by defense attorneys that their clients cannot expect a fair trial because of an unusual amount of pre-trial publicity. They ask for a change in location of the trial, and back in the days before communications became so sophisticated as they are now, this change of venue had its merits.

But we submit that it is next to impossible nowadays to impanel a jury that hasn't heard or read details of any case of sensational substance. Judges realize this and so a few of them have decided that the only way to keep a jury from knowing certain facts in a case is to keep the whole world ignorant. They issue gag orders instructing the media not to broadcast or print any substantial facts.

The key to the problem, it seems to us, is that our court system has lost faith in the jury system. Judges do not believe that people who are familiar with crimes can render a fair and impartial judgement based on evidence submitted in the courtroom.

We believe that juries can, render fair judgments based on evidence submitted and they do it every day. It is senseless to deny the community the facts of violent crime in a vain effort to deny those facts to potential jury members.

It is true that at times the media broadcast and print

The 4-room brick building known as the Salisbury school will be sold at auction to the stories that are in poor taste, are poorly researched and are not always necessary. A growing fierce competition within the media probably will increase such instances of journalistic malpractice.

But the harm that is done in these relatively few instances is far preferable to mandates by judges that they alone will decide what the public is to know about court cases and about accused persons. We either have a free press or we do not have; there is no in-between.

Editors and broadcast executives have today a greater responsibility to guard against irresponsible reporting than ever before. They also have the responsibility to defend the public's right to know about violent crime and the proceedings in court on these crimes.

Lawyers and the media are primarily interested at this time in the Nebraska gag order and others that have been issued. But if the trend continues, the public could find itself in the dark about crime or about any other case in which a judge decides to set himself as an elite executor of what we should and should not know.

Fisherman Need to Observe Certain Rules

By VERN SANFORD
Just as in anything else—just as you want to be a truly successful fisherman you've got to give it the attention it requires.
Expert fishermen contend that failure to pay close attention to the fishing line has been many a jumbo bass to the loss.
Usually a loose line is not a problem. Once a cast is started the line should be kept tight all the way to the water. If there should be a slack in the line during the retrieve, the angler must be able to "feel" any and all conditions made with the lure before it ever so light.
There must be something about what they say because when a fish strikes at the instant it hits the water and before the angler has taken up the slack in his line, the fish has been hooked. It even lands on the hook—which means that the fisherman is often caught unaware since he is yet to set the hook. That unless he has a taut line. More fish are lost from loose lines than most fishermen realize, and some were actually hooked fish that got away before the angler even knew they had grabbed the bait.
Lots of fish follow the bait and hit the bait from behind, on the retrieve, as they toward the caster. When Mr. Bass feels the sharp point of the hook he feels the bait immediately. There was no tug on the line the fisherman does not realize there has been any activity—unless he has his eye on the line, which sometimes moves only a tiny bit.

Senate Adopts Amendment To Cut Health Bill

INS 24 SENATE ADOPTS Washington, D. C.—The Senate Thursday adopted an amendment cosponsored by Senator Lloyd Bentsen which cuts a section from the Health Manpower bill that Bentsen had earlier described as "a classic example of government overregulation."
"We didn't need this section of the bill at all. It would have established a government bureaucracy to deal with a problem that is already resolving itself and I am pleased that the Senate agreed with me on the need to eliminate it," Bentsen said.
In past years medical school graduates have tended to take residency training in exotic, highly specialized medical fields. As a result, shortages of family doctors, internists, pediatricians and other general practitioners intensified while the number of psychiatrists, gastroenterologists, neurosurgeons and other specialized practitioners increased.
"No one denies that this was a serious, growing problem in the 60's," Bentsen said.
"But it is apparently resolving itself and it would have been a mistake to pass a law to handle a problem that is handling itself. The number of U. S. medical school graduates starting residency training in primary care fields has been increasing steadily, from 38 percent in 1968 to 66 percent this year."
"We didn't need this provision. It would have spent taxpayers' money and tangled hospitals in red tape for no purpose. The Senate showed sound judgment in acting to delete it," Senator Bentsen said.

Too many anglers cast the net out, then reel in with the butt-end of the rod handle being firmly against the hip. As a consequence, they seldom get the feel of the hook. So, grip the rod handle firmly and keep arms and elbows away from the body so that the lightest tap on the line can be felt. Then the fisherman can react instantly and set the hook promptly and properly.
It seems that women have a natural sense of touch, which undoubtedly accounts for the fact that they enjoy sudden success in their fishing often the very first time out, and sometimes every trip thereafter.
A delicate sense of touch is the answer—so if you don't have it, then you'd better keep your line taut and your eye constantly on that hook—always be ready to set that hook instantly!

Hall Co. Coin Presented At Music Festival

Kerrville — The annual Kerrville Country and Western Jamboree held over the July 4th weekend presented a full line-up of popular Nashville and Grand Ole Opra recording artists. Those receiving top billing for the three day event included: Ernest Tubb, Carter Family, Crystal Gayle, Moe Brandy, Tommy Overstreet, Mickey Gilley, Red Steagall, Mel Tillis, Hank Thompson, Lighter Dusty, Doughboys, Cal Smith, Hank Snow, Johnny Bond, Billy Edd Wheeler, The Texas Playboys, and many more.

The climax of the three day jamboree was the cutting of the 300 pound bicentennial birthday cake with ceremonies of the Nation's 200th birthday. Along with the cake cutting was the presentation of the Bob Wills Coin of Hall County to the members of the Texas Playboys by jamboree producer Rod Kennedy in behalf of the Kerrville Music Foundation, Bob Wills of Turkey, and the Memphis, Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Members of the Texas Playboys present for the presentation of the Hall County coins included: Al Strickland, Leon Rausch, Smokey Dacus, Jack Stidum, and Tommy Allsup, Leon McAuliffe, Jesse Ashlock, Keith Coleman, and Johnny Gimble.

Memphis Chamber Executive Vice President Jim Edd Wines and Gaylon Clark were present during the ceremonies and represented the Bob Wills Foundation of Turkey and the Memphis Chamber of Commerce.

CANCER ANSWER LINE
American Cancer Society
M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute

Skin Cancer Treatments Offering Positive Results

"Like any cancer, the best time to treat skin cancer is the first time," says Dr. Don A. Gard, a surgeon at M. D. Anderson Hospital in Houston.

While superficial skin cancer remains the most common form of cancer in the country today, a number of treatment methods are available which make this form of cancer the most curable.

Common methods of treatment used alone or in combination include surgical removal, radiation therapy, chemical burning and "electric spark" techniques, cryosurgery (localized freezing) and use of drugs in the form of ointments, lotions or solutions.

"I don't think a new method of treating skin cancer is a particular need to us now," says Dr. Gard. "What is most important now is earlier diagnosis and better case followup once a cancer has been treated and the patient returns home," he notes.

Followup is important, he explains, because recurrent skin tumors tend to be a more serious problem and many times are more aggressive, often tending to spread widely.

He suggests that once a skin tumor has been treated, it is extremely important that the patient receive a routine, periodic skin check by his doctor. Any fair-complexioned person who has received extended exposure from the sun would also be wise, he adds, by having periodic skin checks and being observant to changes in the skin such as scaly skin thickenings or pale, waxy, pearly nodules which may ulcerate and crust.

While superficial skin cancers are basically easy to cure when treated promptly, another less common form of skin cancer known as melanoma or "black mole" cancer is much more aggressive. Melanoma often spreads from the pigmented cells to other parts of the body through the blood or lymph nodes.

Although considered a skin cancer, melanoma can begin in any pigmented cells including the eye. Fortunately, it is considered a rare cancer, affecting only about 0.2 percent of the population.

The success record in treatment of melanoma is much lower than superficial skin cancers, with a cure rate of about 63 percent compared to the 95 percent for the more common skin cancers. The experts note that melanoma requires a very special treatment and must not be treated by "electric spark" or chemical burning techniques.

While changing moles — such as those exhibiting rapid growth, irregular pigment, bleeding or loss of hair — can be danger signals, it is important to remember that not every change in a mole means cancer, warns Dr. Gard.

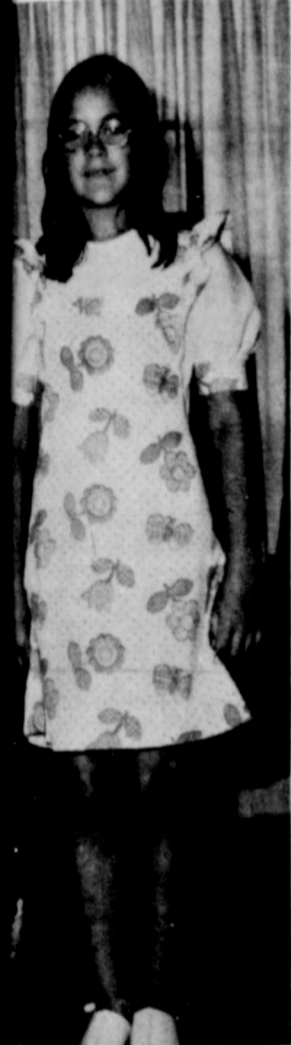

In recent years the outlook for melanoma patients has dramatically improved through the use of aggressive treatments including new drugs and the growing understanding of human immunological systems.

As with any form of cancer, an early visit to a physician can clear up many uncertainties. In regard to all skin cancer, it is clear that using good sense in the sun, observing changes in the skin and promptly seeing your doctor when suspicions arise, are your best weapons against this most common form of cancer.

BYRON BALDWIN

By ELSIE HOOVER
I recently made a trip to Europe and since the Paper and Mr. Baldwin has asked for a story, below is my "Trip to Europe."

My mind was made up to go to Europe in Sept. 1975, when my oldest daughter Regina told me her family would be moving to Mons, Belgium, her husband is a Major in the army and they were being sent to SHAPE Belgium which is "Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers Europe" this is the North Atlantic Treaty organizations highest headquarters in Europe with Gen. Alex M. Haig Jr. Gen. U. S. Army, Supreme Allied commander.

Regina was afraid I might beat her family over since I got a passport so quick.

But the time came to go on April 30th 1976, I left Amarillo at 9:45 a.m. going by way of Dallas and New York, I arrived in Brussels, Belgium May 1st at 6:30 a.m. The time difference will keep your days and nights mixed up for several days so I slept for three days more or less.

Then time came for us to start traveling, on May 7th we went to Mons, Belgium to open market, they have many markets in Europe which features flowers, and a variety of products. Mons was originally a Roman Fortress and the Cathedral of St. Waudru is located here which dates back to 1450.

On Saturday May 8th, we went to a party which was one of many I attended while in Belgium, this was strictly army and I met the people Bill and Regina are associated with, some of different nationalities, and I was never treated so well.

On May 9th, Regina and I left for Amsterdam, Holland by train for several days, we took my oldest grandson Billy with us. We arrived in Amsterdam late in the afternoon after viewing the beautiful tulips in the country of Holland they are grown by the acres.

Amsterdam has 820,000 inhabitants and is the most densely populated city in the Netherlands, it is 7 feet below sea level. We stayed in a hotel which was once a private home and was built by the Dutch and was very narrow and rather tall. This was located along the canals, the hotel had no closets because when built they were taxed according to width of building and were taxed on each room and closet. Amsterdam has a diamond cutting industry of International repute, we visited a diamond factory and were shown how the diamonds were shaped and put into mountings, we were shown diamonds from 1/8 Cr. to 10 Cr.

The Royal palace in Amsterdam is located in Doms Square, we visited here several times, the Queens does not live in the Palace now but has residence in the country.

The traditional idea of the Dutch is men in ballooning pants and wooden shoes, women in hooped skirts and tight white bonnets, we saw none of this in Amsterdam but visited a couple of centures old villages on what used to be the Zuiderzee. The inhabitants wear the traditional clothes, the first village was Volendam then we went to Marken which at one time was surrounded by water but the Dutch are reclaiming much land from the sea, this was started when Holland needed extra land for its burgeoning population, so at the turn of the century, plans were put into effect to seal off the Zuiderzee and turn the sea into a lake, this was done by constructing a 10 mile long dike which was finally completed in 1932, since then the Dutch have been draining and reclaiming vast tracts of the former Zuiderzee.

The Dutch say "God made the World, but the Dutch made Holland."

We visited a cheese factory and were shown the process of making Cheese and ageing and making ready for market.

We next visited Rijksmuseum which translates at State Museum, the Rijksmuseum in Louvre of Paris, in Holland. It was founded in 1808 by Louis Napoleon, Bonapartes brother, it houses many original paintings, The Glory of the Rijksmuseum of course in "Rembrandts" "The Night Watch, which may well be the most valuable painting in the world. Other Rembrandts, we viewed were "Portrait of other Artist as St. Paul" and "Old Lady Reading".

We saw the "Tower of Tears" at the harbor which was the point where Amsterdams doughty seafarer set sail for the far reach of the world after saying goodbye to their weeping wives who might see them again in 3 or 4 years and it was from this tower that Henry Hudson set off on his historic voyage to the Harbor that is now New York.

The Delft pottery in Holland has been famous from 17th and 18th century. They have a factory and we made some Delft purchases. We also took a boat trip through the canals of Amsterdam and saw many house boats some that the hippies live on illegally, this is the result of Holland opening their country to the many young people who had developed the drug habit and now they have regrets of doing so. We saw the Floating gardens, and went into the harbor on the North Sea.

On our return from Holland we planned to go to Switzerland, Austria and upper part of Germany. Unfortunately we all became ill with colds and sore throats and had to be treated at local Army hospital.

On May 22nd we visited Waterloo, Belgium, this is the place where Napoleon was defeated by the British Wellington headquarters. There is a large monument on the spot where the battle took place. We saw letters, dairies, uniforms and furniture from the battle of Waterloo.

On Sunday May 23rd, we went to Paris, France which has 9,250,674 inhabitants (with suburbs) Paris is not only the capital of France but is the heart and center of the country.

As you come into Paris you view the "Arc de Triomphe", the vast open spaces of the Arc represent for the Pedestrian one of the more harrowing experience of Paris, twelve important avenues converge here issuing vehicles of every description, it is very easy now to reach the Arc by underground passage at the corner of the Ave. des Champs Elysees it is a really impressive monument to Napoleonic victories and houses the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, we climbed to the top of the Arc by steps and were shown a movie on the history of the Arc.

We walked along Ave. des Champs Elysees, then visited the Eiffel Tower on the left bank of the Seine River built in 1889 to commemorate the Centennial of the French Revolution, the tower affords an unparalleled view of the city in all directions. While in Paris we went to the Notre Dame Cathedral this is neither the largest nor the most ornate of Gothic design. Indeed it is, its simplicity, begun in the 12th century and almost completed in the 13th century Notre Dame had by the end of the 18th fallen into appalling disrepair due to the ravages of man and nature on the soft stone. It was restored in the middle of the past century to the delight of some and the purist consternation of others. It was here that Napoleon was crowned Emperor in 1804 by the Pope.

An organ recita was being held in the Cathedral when we visited, people were seated on the floor and throughout the Cathedral and it was such beautiful music you felt mighty close to God here.

In Paris we ate at sidewalk cafes which are most fashionable in Europe. The Louvre in Paris is certainly the Museum of France and possibly of the world. To the Louvre you must come if only to greet the "Monta Lisa," of Leonardo and "The Winged Victory" of Samothrace. The Louvre is in reality six museums in one, with collections ranging from those of ancient Greece and Rome to the present time. In addition to the Museum and its displays you should take note of the building itself, a tremendous and rather brooding piece of work that stretches for such a distance along the Seine that it is adjacent to three bridges. The Louvre was founded in 1200, thanks to the French Resistance Paris was not destroyed in World War II.

On May 27th Regina and I left for London, England traveling across France to the port of Calais, France which has 80,000 inhabitants and is an important airport and port for Channel boats to England, here we boarded a ferry for Dover England after crossing the English Channel we arrived at the port of Dover which features the "White Cliffs of Dover" as you approach the port this is a beautiful sight. We traveled on to London and arrived late in the afternoon, staying at the London Penta Hotel.

Our first day in London we went to "Buckingham Palace" for the changing of the Guards, since the Norman Conquest four great London palaces, each in turn has served as the seat of majesty. Westminster, founded by the last Saxon king, Edward the Confessor, yielded its authority to Whitehall in King Henry VIII's reign, and Whitehall to St. James' a century and a half later. In 1762 King George III, consort, Charlotte of Mecklenburg - Strelitz, was granted Buckingham House as her private home and on this mansion, the choice of a young and preceptive queen, the full sovereign power of the Crown ultimately developed. Buckingham Palace today offers no obvious clues to its ancestry. It is the East Front, with which the eyes of the world are familiar, and this is a latter addition, making the Quadrangle and Grand Entrance, but presenting a facade of August dignity to the approach along the Mall and St. James' Park.

The Changing of the Guard is one of the most colorful of London's traditional ceremonies, and is one that no visitor to the capital should miss.

Every day of the year, the Guard is changed at both Buckingham Palace and at Horse Guards, Whitehall. The ceremony at the Palace is carried out by Guardsmen from one of the five regiments of Foot Guards. Marching behind one of the Bands of the Guards Division, in Fine Scarlet tunics and bearskins, the men of the Queen's Guard inspire a sense of history in all who watch. The Guard, which is mounted daily in the Palace forecourt at 11:30 a.m. consists of two detachments, the first, bearing the Colour, marches to St. James' while the second remains at the Palace. This was a very pretty ceremony.

We did a lot of walking in London we also viewed the famous English Public School,

Eton College which is located next to Buckingham Palace. We also walked by and around "The Houses of Parliament" many times, the Parliament of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland consists of the Sovereign, United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland consists of the comuprises firstly the Lords Spritual, the two archbishops and two of the diocesan bishops; secondly, the Lords Temporal — just over 1,100 members of the Different grades of nobility, dukes, marquesses, earls, viscounts and barons. Of the Lords Temporal — just over peers created for life only, and some 249 are peers created for life only, and 53 are women. In the House of Commons there are 635 members, 516 from England and 71 from Scotland, 36 from Wales and 12 from Northern Ireland. These are fabulous buildings and cover acres of land. There are many changes taking place in Parliament these days. The houses of Parliament incorporate the Ancient Westminster, The Clock Tower which stand 366 feet high contains the famous bell "Big Ben" and Westminster Abbey, across from Westminster Abbey stands a statue of Winston Churchill. It was here having been crowned all English Kings and Queens and many of them are buried within it walls. Westminster Abbey is a great triumph of our western civilization. All who speak English as their native tongue or owe anything to English law or British administration should visit it if they can, because it enshrines memories of almost all that the Anglo Saxon races have achieved, and contains the memorials of so many of our legislators, judges and statesmen. But the Abbey was built above all for a House of Prayer, and no visitor who enters its historic portals should leave without a prayer for peace upon earth.

We saw the Church which the Queen Mother attended and this church has a license to sell liquor. We walked thru Piccadilly from the Circus to Hyde Park corner of which the west half bordered on the South by Green Park. Regent Street a busy shopping center runs in a northerly direction from Piccadilly circus and crosses Oxford St. at Oxford Circus. Lying to the east is Soho which has been a foreign quarter for almost 300 years, noted for its foreign restaurants and small shops. We visited St. Pauls Cathedral which was built by Sir Christopher Wren to replace a Church destroyed by the great fire of 1666 and which itself had been preceded on the site at least two other churches. St. Paul Cathedral is the largest and most famous

Mrs. Robert Hanvey, Jr., and Robin Return Home From European Tour

Mrs. Robert Hanvey, Jr., and daughter Robin, returned home recently after spending three and one-half weeks touring Europe. While in Europe they visited ten countries, England, France, Belgium, Holland, Germany, Switzerland, Liechtenstein, Austria, Italy and Greece. They also enjoyed cruising to several Greek Islands.

From Greece they sailed across the Ionian Sea to Italy, then continued by motor-coach to the remaining countries.

After returning to the states, they enjoyed a sight-seeing tour of New York City and area. All and all it was a very lovely trip and we hope to return to Europe and see more of the countries we missed they said.

of the city, it was damaged by bombs during World War II, and many of the buildings were destroyed. The city was saved from some demolition by parishioners who gathered along the windows and doors during the bombings. A fire from burning debris in the crypt area was extinguished by many famous people including Wellington.
The church was built on King Street and saw the great fire which swept through the city in 1666, destroying many houses, 86 churches, the Cathedral, the Royal Exchange and many guild houses. The People of London built the "The Monument" in the few yards from the site of the old church. The monument is a tall, tapering column of Portland stone, topped with a gilded urn. It is a memorial to the Great Fire of London.
The church is a fine example of Gothic architecture. It has a tall, slender spire which is a landmark in the city. The church is a popular place of worship and a place of interest for tourists.

COUSINS HOME

Residents of Cousins Home had a very enjoyable and entertaining month in June. Religious groups that came to the home for song and services were The First Baptist Church each Sunday at 3:00 p.m. The Church of Christ each Tuesday evening at 7:15 p.m. and the Assembly of God each Friday evening at 7:00 o'clock.

Mrs. Clyde Davidson, Mrs. Cle McQueen and Mrs. Maudie Stephens have been to the home most every Friday morning this month during our sing along hour to play the piano and lead the group in singing.

Mrs. Ellen Speed and a group of singers came June 12 and sang and played for residents.

Friday, June 12 at 2:00 o'clock a father's day party was given to honor all of our fathers in the home. Mrs. Eddy played the piano and her little daughter, Keesha, dressed in her long dress, sang. Each man had a miniature horse and rider pinned on them. Punch and cookies were served.

Monday, June 28, a birthday party was given honoring Mrs. Era Lowe who was 86 years of age, and Mrs. Sammie Sloan, who was 75 years of age. Happy birthday was sung and pictures made of the honorees with their cakes. Mrs. Eddie and daughter, Keesha entertained with piano number and singing. Ice cream and cake was served.

Shira Patrick has played for us many mornings during our sing along period. Calvin Todd came to the home and cut all the men's hair.

Residents enjoy weekly crafts, sewing, dominoes, Bingo and daily exercise and sing alongs.

Lane a famous market. On our way back to Belgium we stopped in Canterbury, England and went thru "Canterbury Cathedral" this Cathedral dates back to 1440 and is one of oldest in England and is situated in the county of Dover. This is the famous Cathedral that Chaucer wrote about in "Tales of Canterbury" it was heavily damaged in the war but there is hopes of being able to restore the damage.

Our next trip was to Bonn, Koln, Weisbaden, Mainz and Frankfurt Germany. We stayed in Weisbaden and enjoyed the good food and beer of Germany, our second day in Germany we made a five hour trip up the Rhine River leaving from Mainz and traveling to Koblenz the trip gave us views of castles of 11th, 12th and 13th century and Roman ruins, water towers and fortified castles which recall epochs that are past. Many of the Castles we saw were Klopp in the town of Bingen, The Mauseturm (mice tower) originally a toll or customs tower stands on an island and is used today as a signal tower. Legend has it that the miserly Mainz bishop Hatto III (978-070) was thrown into the tower because of his inhuman deeds and was eaten up by the mice. Niederwald Monument, erected in 1883 in memory of 1970-71 war and is situated 225 meters above the Rhine. The Gutenfels castle located in the town of Kaub on the Rhine, very attractive townscape with town walls and turrets. The castle is of the 13th century.

We went thru Bacharach which is over 1000 years old, very attractively situated little town. The fortifications have 17 watch towers, half timbered houses wine growing school. Above the town, the ruins of the Werner Chapel (Gothic) Right at the top the Staufen fortress Stahleck can be seen, destroyed by the French in 1689, now a youth hospital. We passed Loreley, Cliff overflowing with legend, it rises steeply above the Rhine. My trip came to an end on June 14th when I left Brussels for New York and home by way of Dallas and Amarillo, I left Brussels at 12 p.m. and arrived in Amarillo at 12:30 a.m. the following day. My daughter Jane and her husband Neil Gower met me in Dallas where I had a three hours wait. In New York I saw Mrs. Robert Hanvey and Robin, small world. I must say in conclusion, I stood in awe of the many things I saw in Europe where so much History was made and my heart was saddened by the way the Europeans feel about Americans, they try hard to be nice to you but you can tell it is not sincere, and the prices in Europe are nothing but legal blackmail even that I enjoyed my trip and it will be a long time before I get thru talking about it, our America is truly the home of the free and Brave. We are number 1.

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to thank each of you, our friends, who were so kind during the loss of our loved one. For the beautiful flowers, the words of comfort, the prayers and the food that was served; each and everything was deeply appreciated. A special "Thank You" to Bro. J. D. STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

By Lyndell Williams
LEADY PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Major House committees and Speaker Bill Clayton offered a grab-bag program to save 10 to 15 per cent on utility bills and renewed a call for a special legislative session.

Clayton said he had discussed the proposals with Gov. Dolph Briscoe. Briscoe has been cool toward a special session unless he can be convinced substantial immediate savings in gas and electric bills would result.

Recommendations include elimination of the five per cent state-local sales tax on utility bills and a new state tax credit for investor-owned utilities. The latter is supposed to save consumers 10 to 12 per cent monthly if enacted.

Tax reduction proposals would reduce state revenue about $500 million over the next three years, but Clayton said an anticipated surplus of more than $2 billion would make this painless for government.

Among other recommendations: Restructuring natural gas levies to shift $36.6 million of the burden from Texas to out-of-state consumers.

Prohibition of take-or-pay provisions for more than 80 per cent of deliverability in future natural gas sale contracts and a guarantee of make-up periods of not less than two years to use gas bought under such provisions.

A requirement that the Railroad Commission hold public hearings on re-determined prices of gas and pass-through charges to consumers.

Uniform application of all gas cost adjustments to consumers regardless of class or amount of consumption.

ABC Head Quits

Alcoholic Beverage Commission Administrator Luke Robinson quit his job under fire.

Robinson pointed to dissonance on the commission as his reason for bowing out after only a nine months trial. He said he would not "play games with the people's business... and not break before the winds of political pressure."

The new administrator ordered a series of raids last fall and insisted on strict application of a law requiring 51 per cent of stock in establishments which sell alcoholic beverages to be owned by Texans.

Democrats Seek Truce

Democrats, troubled with friction over state party leadership, held summit truce talks here last week to discuss patching up differences for a united general election campaign.

Texas members of the Democratic National Committee, State Chairman Calvin Guest, Bob Armstrong (who heads Jimmy Carter's presidential nomination campaign) and AFL-CIO President Harry Hubbard talked over plans for the fall campaign in a three-hour session.

Guest proposed joint campaign headquarters for Carter and state and local candidates in 23 major Texas counties and cooperative efforts by all factions and groups in the party.

Insurance Talk Set
State Insurance Board members scheduled a July 16 session to explore reasons why companies are declining to sell auto and household policies to Texans.

Agents said they are having the worst time ever finding companies who will write policies on their clients.

Courts Speak

The U.S. Supreme Court, striking down a Nebraska order against pre-trial reporting of facts about a mass murder, curbed judges' powers to censor news media in reporting criminal cases before the trial stage.

The high court left standing, however, conviction of California reporters for contempt of court in violating "gag orders" and refusing to reveal sources of information.

An Austin district judge turned down a request for a temporary injunction to knock Democratic Railroad Commission candidate Jon Newton off the ballot as ineligible, but set a July 9 hearing on merits of the suit brought by defeated candidate Jerry Sadler.

State Board of Pharmacy will appeal a Dallas court ruling that drug stores can advertise drug prices regardless of a state law prohibiting the practice.

Ag Opinions

Placement of a statue in the Alamo Chapel which would require an excavation four feet deep would violate state law against any change or alteration in the historic church, Atty. Gen. John Hill held.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

—The State Commissioner of Labor Statistics is not authorized to collect back wages owed to employees or former employees of a regulated employer.

—Information from investigative files on individuals compiled by the State Board of Registration for Professional Engineers may be withheld from public inspection.

—The Vocational Nurse Examiners Board director of training must have at least five years as a nursing teacher.

Appointments

Dr. David Wade of Austin was appointed by Gov. Dolph Briscoe to the Texas

Commission on Alcoholism.

Briscoe appointed 21 members to the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Advisory Board, and designated John Mark McLaughlin of San Angelo and Don R. Workman of Lubbock as chairman and vice chairman.

John F. Pettit of Del Rio is the new assistant Texas secretary of state.

Regina Jones has been named director of information services for the Texas Public Utility Commission.

Short Snorts

Texas delegates to the Democratic National Convention are leaving for New York City this weekend.

The State Insurance Board recommended a 5.5 per cent average increase in workmen's compensation rates to cover higher benefits.

Texas Taxes

By BOB BULLOCK, State Comptroller

AUSTIN—Summer is here. And in Texas that generally means weekend arts and crafts shows almost everywhere.

When consumers are enjoying themselves moving from one booth to another, trying to decide what, if anything to buy, having a cold drink and a hot dog, perhaps listening to a little music, taxes are probably the last thing they think about.

But the Comptroller's Department, as the state's chief tax collector and administrator, has to think about taxes all the time.

It is important not only for us, but also for Texas taxpayers, the organizations which sponsor arts and crafts shows, and the exhibitors to be aware of the legal requirements for sales at such events.

Sales of arts and crafts are taxable.

Artists and exhibitors state time deposits in 1,240 banks will draw $84.1 million in interest this year, according to a report by State Treasurer Jesse James.

The new $6 million Texas Law Center was dedicated in ceremonies here July 4.

Texas Association of Business launched a statewide campaign to update Texas workmen's compensation laws. One proposal is to stop lump-sum settlements.

Baylor College of Medicine interns, residents and others in training got malpractice insurance through the state-operated Joint Underwriting Association a few hours before they had scheduled a stop in services when they almost lost their coverage.

must obtain sales tax permits, collect the sales tax from their customers, and report and send the tax dollars collected with their sales tax returns to the Comptroller's Department in Austin.

Sponsors of such events should require exhibitors to present and prominently display their sales tax permits. It is difficult enough to put together and run an event like this without having problems with violations of the sales tax law. The time to insure that violations do not occur is in advance of the occasion, not in the midst of it.

The Comptroller's Department wants to avoid tax problems—for ourselves, for retailers who collect taxes for us, and for taxpayers. Avoiding problems or solving them when they first arise saves time, money, and trouble for everyone.

IF YOU HAVE ANY STATE TAX PROBLEMS OR QUESTIONS, CONTACT YOUR LOCAL COMPTROLLER'S FIELD OFFICE OR CALL TOLL FREE: 1-800-292-9687.

Gordon Gilliam Is Coordinator of Flu Vaccine

Gordon S. Gilliam, long-time resident and life insurance agent of Memphis, has been named as Hall County coordinator for the upcoming swine flu vaccination program recently announced by President Gerald Ford.

The appointment of Gilliam was made by County Health Officer H. R. Stevenson and County Judge Lester Campbell.

Working with Gilliam in setting up the clinics where the free vaccine will be administered will be Rita Anderson, also of Memphis, who is the new coordinator for nurses services in a five-county area. Mrs. Anderson was appointed to this position a few weeks ago by the Texas Department of Health Resources. Working from this department out of the new regional office in Canyon will be David Brown, health program specialist. Brown is known to a number of residents of Hall County, since he lived in Turkey for a number of years with his parents, Rev. and Mrs. Fred Brown.

It had been hoped that the first of the vaccine clinics would be held in July; the first clinics will be for those of retirement age. Then in September or October, the free vaccine will be available for all other ages.

If individuals wish the free vaccine to be administered by their own physician, this will be possible; the vaccine will be furnished without charge, but the doctor will make his own charge for his services. At the clinics, which will likely be one-day affairs, the injection will be given without any charge.

Judge Campbell explained that Brown emphasized the free vaccine is for the illness referred to as swine flu only; this is the disease which took thousands of lives following World War I.

Ten Hall County —

(Continued from Page 1) will be competing in the State 4-H Horse Show in Amarillo July 21, 22, 23 and 24. However, a large number of County youngsters won places in the District Show and listed below are the official places. The list was received late last week by County Agent Warren Mitchell.

Winners and their places are as follows:

Class 2, registered mare, any breed, under five years of age — Sandra Byars, 3rd, Brad Monzingo 5th, and Rhonda Byars 7th.

Class 5, registered gelding, any breed, five years of age and over — Chris Molloy, 2nd, Stevie Molloy, 5th, Cliff Widener, 6th.

Class 6, registered gelding any breed, under five years of age — Brent Molloy, 3rd, Kim Johnson, 5th.

Class 7, grade gelding, any breed, all ages — Tim Widener, 6th.

Class 8, champion and reserve champion gelding — Chris Molloy, reserve champion.

Class 9, showmanship — Monica Monzingo, 7th, Chris Molloy 8th.

Class 10, Western Pleasure — Stevie Molloy, 3rd.

Hall County had 21 entries in the District Horse Show this year, the third year of competition by Hall County 4-H members. This is the first year for a Hall County youth to qualify to go to the state meet.

Mens doubles — In the finals, Faulkner and Johnson defeated Templeton and Phillips 6-2, 6-4.

Womens singles — Sonja Hutcherson defeated Julie Fowler 6-0, 6-1 and Karen Cofer defeated Cheryl Magri 6-2, 6-1. In the finals Hutcherson defeated Cofer 6-0, 6-1.

Womens doubles — Sonja Hutcherson and Karen Cofer defeated Julie Fowler and Jane Richardson, 6-3, 6-3.

Women (25 and over) — Linda Collins and Winnie Floyd defeated Deanna Collier and Cindy Leaverton 6-2, 6-0.

Common food allergies are caused by ingesting irritating foods. But food allergies may also be caused by contact from handling, which usually produces hives or rashes; by inhaling the odor of a food; or by inhaling a food in a powdered form such as the flour dust in a bakery. Amarillo To Host Program on SS Benefits

You in the Golden Spread Area will have a rare opportunity to hear and to meet a very distinguished and knowledgeable official from the Social Security Administration this week. She will discuss the various programs included in the Social Security Act. These include Retirement, Disability, Survivors, Medicare and Supplemental Security Retirement, and Jim Talbot, of Amarillo, district manager, stated.

Ms. Martha McSteen, Regional Commissioner for Social Security headquartered in Dallas, will be appearing at an open meeting in the Senior Citizens Center, 1300 South Polk Street, Amarillo, on Monday, July 12, 1976 at 7:00 p.m. The Altrusa Club will host this meeting. Every person interested in these vital programs is cordially invited to attend this meeting.

In 1968, Mrs. McSteen was chosen as one of the first employees and the only woman of the Social Security Administration to participate in its Executive Development Program. In 1970 she assumed the position of Regional Representative, Bureau of Health Insurance, in Dallas. She served in this position until January 1976 when she assumed the duties of the Regional Commissioner. In 1971 the Commissioner of Social Security cited her with a second citation for her "exceptional dedication, able leadership, and extraordinary achievements while directing the Medicare program in the Dallas region." She received the Regional Director's citation in 1972 "for outstanding leadership, creativity, and dedication in administering the Health Insurance Program in the Dallas Region." Mrs. McSteen, a native of Texas, obtained her BA degree from Rice University and her MA in Public Administration from the University of Oklahoma.

Wearing Seat Belts Saves Many Lives

COLLEGE STATION — Will you be among the 25 per cent of U. S. drivers who will have a traffic accident this year?

"It has been estimated that one out of every four drivers in the U. S. will have a traffic accident in 1976," says Dr. Gary Nelson, an agricultural safety engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Furthermore, highway accidents are the leading cause of death for Americans under age 25."

However, drivers can do some things to decrease their chances of being injured in a traffic accident. "First and foremost, wear a seat belt," advises Nelson. "Experts estimate that 10,000 to 15,000 lives a year would be saved if everyone used seat belts while driving. Drivers who don't wear seat belts are greatly increasing the odds that they will be seriously injured or killed in a severe car accident by being thrown against the dashboard or windshield or out of the car."

"When a person is thrown out of a car, the chance of injury is much greater and the car may roll over on the person."

Nelson points out that some people seem to feel that a seat belt will trap them if their car catches on fire or becomes submerged in water.
