ANNUAL AWARD FROM TEXAS SHEEP AND GOAT RAISERS TO KAYE YORK

Excitement and anticipation ran high for the 4-H Club members of Kinney County last Tuesday night, when the crowning event of the year took place in the Brackettville Civic Center. With all the hard work over and done, it was a night for honors and recognition of those 4-H members who had done their jobs well and finished their 4-H projects. Also, at this time, the 4-H boys and girls were able to say "Thank You" to persons who had helped them to achieve their goals. The 1975 Annual Kinney County 4-H Awards Banquet was one of the most successful ever and the best attended with a grand total of eighty-four which included 4-H members, their families and invited guests.

Master of Ceremonies for the Banquet, Buck Smallwood, President of the Las Moras 4-H Club, welcomed the gathering and saluted the new members of the Club, who have joined since September 1, 1974, reminding them that they are the future 4-H Club of Kinney County. Following the welcome, Alan Frerich gave the Invocation and Joe Hidalgo led the assembly in the 4-H Motto and Pledge.

The abundant and delicious banquet meal was under the direction of the 4-H Mothers who each prepared covered dishes of food for the important occasion. The results of the meal for this occasion were superb, Carl Esser, County Extension Agent reported, and every Mother who prepared one of the delicious covered dishes should be praised and thanked.

Mark Baxter introduced the guests who were: Mr. C.W. Spain, manager of the Kinney County Wool and Mohair, and Mrs. Spain; Mr. Bill Johnson, Principal of Brackettville Junior and Senior High School, and Mrs. Johnson; Mr. Marion Wills, Superintendent of Schools, and Mrs. Wills; Mr. Tommy Seargeant, County Judge, and Mrs. Seargeant; Mr. Flavio Talamantez, School Board Member, and Mrs. Talamantez; and Mr. Joe York, Jr., School Board Member and Mrs. Joe York, Jr.; Mr. George Loos, Editor of the Kinney County CAVALRYMAN; Miss Linda Connell, 4-H'er from Rocksprings; Mr. J.T. Royall, Manager of Central Power and Light Company, and Mrs. Royall.

The Speakers for the program, Miss Sharon Pfluger, Lisa Pfluger and Elizabeth Turney were introduced by Jamie Davis. Sharon, Lisa and Eliza-

Do you know much about the cactus wren? In many ways he is a real kookie bird. I was busy in the shop one day and all the day long I heard a pair of cactus wrens chattering. Late in the evening I was checking the open shed behind the shop and found they had built a nest in a hanging basket. The begonias in the basket had simply served as a convenient cover. I didn't bother the nest(it's still there) but after the nest was finished the wrens never bothered to return. Soon after that I found them building another nest in another hanging basket inside the greenhouse. I tore out what they had done and they started another in the same place. After the third time having their work destroyed they moved down the line to another basket. After two or three times losing their accomplishments in the new location they finally "got the message". Now they no longer come into the greenhouse.

Why they almost continuously build nests they never use is a mystery to me. Once in a while they settle in a nest and raise their young but they build many nests they never use.

I've known people like the cactus wren. Before they are well settled in a house they are dissatisfied and ready to move to another. Then there are those persons who busy themselves flitting here and there making the world think they are really accomplishing things but whose efforts only leave useless and unused results there is however, one great commendable trait in the cactus wren. He knows how to work and demonstrates he's not too lazy to do it. The many trips he makes gathering materials and the tedious work of making the nosdescript mess into an orderly nest shows he is willing to work and work hard. Maybe if there were no "Uncle Santa Claus" to give handouts to buy political support and people had to depend on their own efforts or have no house to live in and no food to eat---just "maybe" many "unemployed" people in America would take a lesson from the cactus wren and go to work....

Tuesday was "Sock It to Them" day. Everyone wore crazy socks and rolled up their pants legs to the knee. It was interesting to say the least. Of course, with some people, you needed to be downwind. The hall decorations were fantastic. Posters and signs were everywhere. The seniors shangied one whole section of lockers from a giant drawing of a Tiger. The other classes have done equally as well.

A casual visitor to Brackett halls, Wednesday would have thought he had wandered into the local "funny farm". Wednesday was "BACKWARDS" day and students wore their clothes backwards and inside out. By Thursday, wveryone was thinking football as the Junior High team and the Junior Varsity team were slated to play Dilly. After the games, Coyote Park was the scene of the traditional bonfire and pep rally.

Today, of couse, is the big day for Homecoming activities. At BHS itself, it was color day and true-blue Tigers showed up in black and gold. The parade down town and

Last week's Spirit Stick, at the pep rally, went to the Freshman Class which had worked long and hard to receive it. The stick was displayed this past week in sponsor Chuck Hall's room for all to see.

The State Fair of Texas, in Dallas, will be visited by three BHS lovelies this next week. Tammy Foust, senior; Kaye York, junior; and Candy Smallwood, sophomore; will show lambs Oct. 13 thru Oct. 17, representing the Kinney County 4-H Club. The trio will be accompanied by Mr. Carl Esser, County Agent and Mrs. Rose Ann York, sponsor.

Florentino Gomez, Senior, was elected F.H.A. Beau, by the BHS F.H.A. Chapter, Wednesday, Oct. 8th. Tino is one of the busiest Seniors at BHS this year.

TIGER TALES

In the words of much more famous sportswriters, it was a heartbreaker for the Brackett Tigers, Saturday night, against the D'Hanis Cowboys. The Tigers moved the ball well and the defense was tough, but when the dust settled, the score was 14-13. Captained by Quarterback Mark Tidwell, the Tigers led until the last five minutes when a sudden rush by D'Hanis resulted in touchdown scoring drive.

The Tifers drew first blood when Raul Cervantez pushed through in the first quarter. Tony Samaniego tacked on the extra point and the score was 7-0 in favor of the black and gold. The second goal-line crossing was again by Cervantez, but a fumbled snap cost the Tiger the extra point.

As the close score indicates the Bengals moved well, accumulating a total of 354 yards. Tidwell connected on seven out of ten times for 125 yards. As usual, the Brackett front four looked good and open receivers were problem. Several good runs were made by Buck Smallwood, Bill Pratt, and John Jones. Defensively, the Tigers halted the Cowboys twice with good goal-line defense. Ruben Cervantez and Charlie de la Rosa gave good accounts of themselves as did all the defense line.

Injuries were light with Charlie de la Rosa nursing a sore shoulder and Tidwell emerging with a cleated hand. A total of nine penalties cost the Tigers 75 yards. Tonights' Homecoming is with Rocksprings.

Good athletes just seem to run in families evidently. The Tuesday night Junior High game was high-lighted by a couple of guys named Cervantez and Payne, names that have been heard around this school before. In the game against Nueces Canyon, Happy Cervantez took the opening kickoff all the way back to the Panther goalpost. Albert Fuentes then pushed in for a two point conversion. Just a few minutes later, on a reverse action play Nelson Payne, quarterback, went over for the TD and added his own conversion two points. In the second quarter, Payne again went in for another six.

The second half was scoreless except for Payne's third TD of the evening. Besides Payne and Cervantez, those putting in a real night's work were David Koch, Armando Rivas, and Chris Revels, Mike Hidaglo was particularly impressive with two solid quarter back socks. Kenneth Sweet, Walter Goodloe, and Joe Hernandez also added to a tough Cub defensive line. The final score was 28-8, in favor of Brackett.

beth, 4-H members from Rockspings, presented a very informative program and slide presentation on the National 4-H Citizenship and Heritage Tour held each year in Washington, D.C. They spoke of the Highlights of the trip and stressed their enjoyment and excitement they had encountered while participating in this outstanding leadership opportunity.

Presenting awards to 4-H members who had completed their 4-H projects were Tammy Foust, Joe Hidalgo, Bill Baxter, Georgeanna Crain, and Lana Pullen.

Candy Smallwood introduced the 4-H leaders who assisted the 4-H members to reach their objectives throughout the year.

Each year the 4-H Club honors the person who has befriended the Club in an outstanding way and presents to that person the "Friend of 4-H Award." This award was presented to Mr. Ray Smallwood, by Kaye York. Mr. Smallwood has unselfishly devoted his time and his help for many years to the 4-H Club program, commented Kaye. No matter what the event or activity he is always there to help regardless of the weather, day of the week, or task to be done. He has served as 4-H adult leader at camp, helped with Bar-B-Q's, 4-H booths, exhibits, 4-H meetings and helped supervise 4-H members livestock projects. He has furnished pens to hold livestock until other 4-H members has a place to put them, he has furnished transportation on trips and helped many 4-H members get their livestock ready for the show. Those are only some of the services rendered to the club by Mr. Smallwood and we believe he has served in just about every capacity there is as a true friend of 4-H, Esser reported.

The highest awards given by the Extension Service to 4-H Club members are the Gold Star Boy and Gold Star Girl Awards. These awards are presented to the most outstanding boy and girl in the Club and those receiving this year were Buck Smallwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Smallwood, and Kimberly Trant, daughter of Mrs. Sharon Trant.

Two awards were presented to a boy and girl who possess strong moral character, leadership ability and are an asset to their club. These awards are the Danforth "I Dare You" Awards. The recipients were Georgeanna Crain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Crain, and Bill Pratt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tully Pratt. Presenting the awards in behalf of the club were Kimberly Trant and Mark Tidwell.

From the beginning to the final prayer, which was led by Bill Pratt, the evening was enjoyed by the Club members and their guests, and said Esser, "I would like to express my appreciation to everyone who had a part in making the 1975 4-H Awards Banquet such a memorable occasion."

CONDOLENCES

Condolences to Mrs. Edwin Frerich and her family, in the passing of her Father, Mr. Cummings, Uvalde, on October 5th.

Condolences to Mrs. Carolyn Duncan, junior high reading teacher, on the death of her mother, Mrs. Ruth Park, September 29th.

Senator Lloyd Bentsen Watching Washington

If there is any single advice the Federal bureaucracy should take to heart, it would be Thoreau's wise admonition: "Simplify, simplify, simplify."

Government agencies presently churn out ten billion sheets of paperwork for small businesses each year, enough to fill fifty major league baseball stadiums. Just to print, shuffle and store all this paper costs government at all levels an estimated $18 billion annually.

And, at the receiving end of the red tape tangle, it costs the American people, businessman and worker alike, another $18 billion to fill out the mass of forms: Internal Revenue forms, wage and price forms, unemployment forms, health forms, accident forms, Social Security forms, quarterly this and monthly that.

For many small businesses, this added expense proves to be the final straw that drives them out of business. And for those giant corporations that can afford accountants and lawyers to deal with all this paperwork...well, they're forced to pass the cost along to us, the consumers.

I began, in the spring of 1973, to move against this slow and steady strangulation by red tape. I introduced legislation creating a Federal Paperwork Commission, charged with studying the massive paperwork burden and making recommendations to eliminate much of it.

That Commission has just begun its work. But, even as it examines the overall problem, we cannot afford to sit still when countless flagrant instances of red tape tangle are begging to be simplified. We can and should make the fight against excessive paperwork an ongoing battle.

A few weeks ago, for example, I introduced legislation to relieve thousands of small businessmen from the costly and complex paperwork now required by the Federal government for pension plans. Basically, my bill would require the Secretary of Labor to issue simplified reporting and disclosure requirements for pensions plans with less than one hundred participants.

Let's face it, the detailed reporting requirements geared toward the largest pension plans in the country are simply not needed for our smallest pension plans. And, if they are not needed, why have them?

The sooner we adopt this attitude toward paperwork pollution, the closer we'll be to a really streamlined and efficient Federal government.

In this same spirit, I have introduced another measure this past week to insure that Congress gives much closer attention to the paperwork requirements on small businessmen by new legislation. My bill would require that all Congressional Committee reports on new legislation include a run-down on the forms and record-keeping burden it entails.

Such run-downs would include the estimated costs of required paperwork—in terms of dollars and cents, in terms of time, and in terms of frustration.

I have no illusions that these two measures I've introduced will, of themselves, magically dissolve the mountains of needless government paperwork. But, they will begin to limit it.

And, at this point, I am convinced that if we can reduce any of the red tape or do away with any of the government reporting requirements, these bills will have been well worth the effort.

MDA FUND DRIVE SET FOR BRACKETT

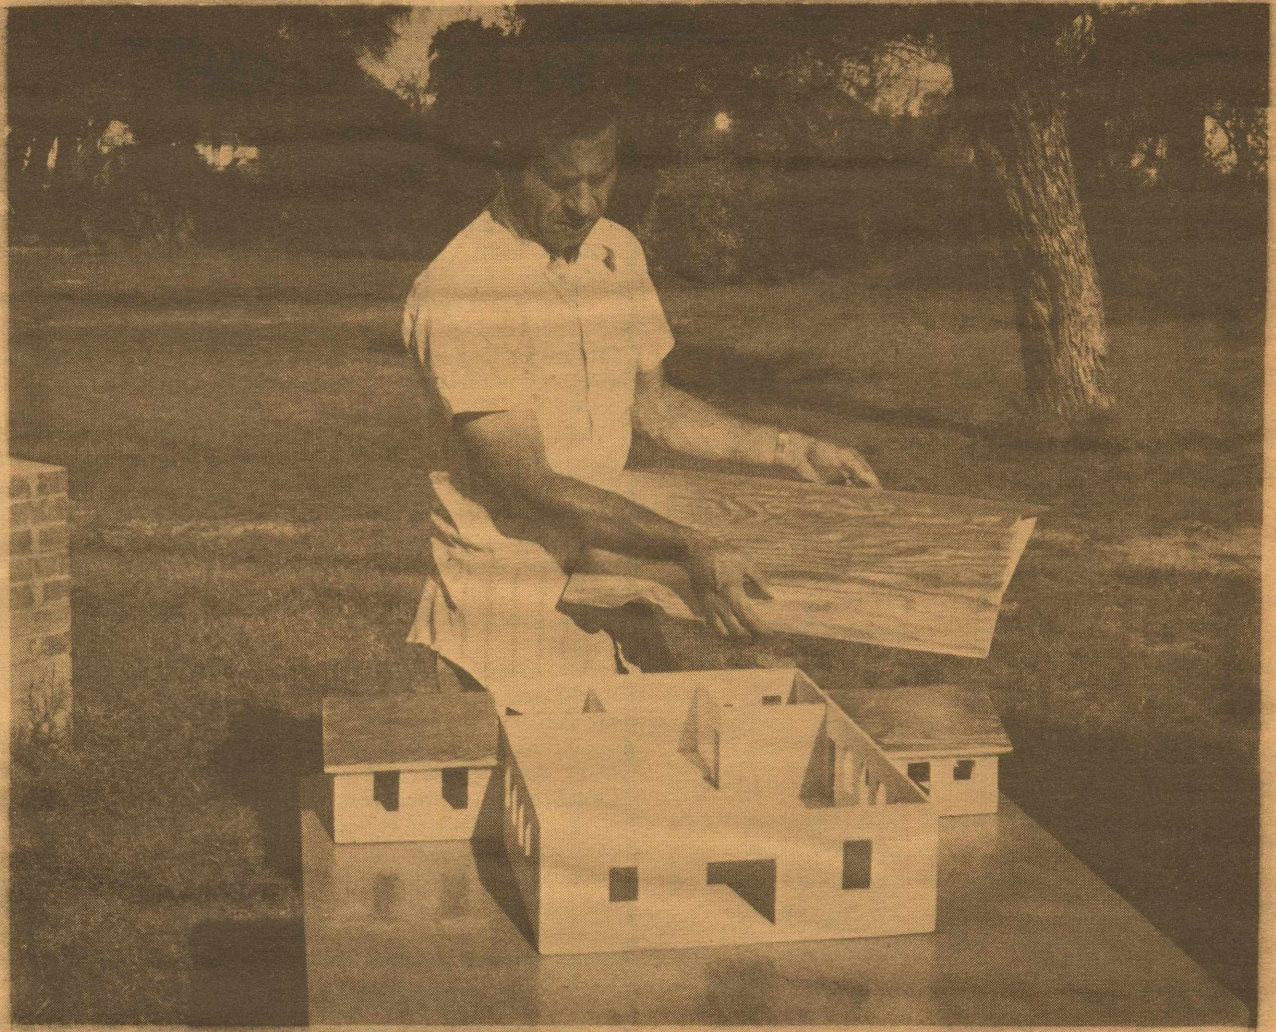

For the next to two weeks, ending October 22nd, some 22 volunteers marchers will conduct a house-to-house march in Brackettville for funds to fight muscular dystrophy and related neuromuscular disease. Mr. Albert Postell of the First State Bank is serving as Campaign Treasurer.

Musculat Dystrophy is a muscle destroying disease which cripples it's victims. Hundreds of thousands of persons are afflicted, and tragically over two-thirds of these are children who will not grow to maturity unless a cure is found. Funds from the drive will go to support rearch centers throughout the world, muscular dystrophy clinics, summer camps, orthopedic equipment and many other patient services.

The Muscular Dystrophy Clinic which serves patients throughout South Texas is located at the Santa Rosa Hospital in San Antonio. Persons desiring information about the Clinic or other services provided by the Muscular Dystrophy Association may call the Muscular Dystrophy Office at 512-341-8674.

So give your pledge to the fine person who graciously volunteered to help in the fight against dystrophy, when she calls on you. Or the rural area folks may mail contributions to Mr. Albert Postell, First State Bank P.O.Box 384, Brackettville, Texas, 78832.

Voting Rights Study Slated By Lawmakers

AUSTIN:-- State Representative Luther Jones, Chairman of the Committee on Elections of the Texas House of Representatives, today announced that his committee has begun "a major study of the effects of the federal Voting Rights Act on Texas."

The study, authorized by House Speaker Bill Clayton at Jones' request will attempt to gauge the impact the controversial new federal law will have on local governments in Texas and will develop any legislation which will be required to assist them in complying with the act.

"Most Texans just don't seem to understand just how the new amendments to this law will effect Texas," Jones said, adding, "Many are aware of its bi-lingual requirements which require that ballots and other election materials be printed in Spanish and English but most haven't yet realized that the greatest effect will come from the impact of the Section 5 'pre-clearance' provisions on every governmental body in the state, from municipal utility districts to the Legislature."

"Those provisions require that every change in election laws and procedures made by any governmental body in Texas will either have to be submitted to the U.S. Department of Justice for its approval or taken before a federal court in Washington, D.C., before they can be put into effect," Jones said.

"This covers everything from new elections laws passed by the Legislature to changes in commissioner Court or Justice of the Peace precinct lines down to changes in voting precinct boundaries and even moving a precinct voting place from a church to a school down the street." In addition, Jones noted, "it also covers each and every annexation and de-annexation by a city or town, no matter how small. And, he said, "Congress made it ex post facto so that the submission requirements cover every action or change since Nov. 1, 1972, nearly three years ago."

"Needless-to-say, this isn't a small task, especially since we have more than 3,000 governmental bodies in Texas and each and every one is covered by the law," Jones stated.

"Just filing copies of the official orders and ordinances is going to be a major undertaking," Jones noted, "However, that is just part of what each City, Town, County, or District is going to have to file as the law requires that they justify each change by showing that it does not dilute the voting strength of black or Spanish heritage Texans."

"This means that copies of the orders just won't be sufficient. They are going to have to be accompanied by all kinds of other things including maps showing the population distribution in the affected jurisdictions, copies of public notices for the meetings at which the actions were taken and all sorts of other documentation," Jones explained.

"This is going to place a major burden on the smaller governmental bodies who just don't have the resources or even the required data to make a full submission," Jones said, "so that, even when they know what the law requires them to do, many of them may not be able to comply with it. And, "he pointed out," failure to comply can have drastic effects including the reversing of any election held after the changes were made if those changes were not approved by the Justice Department in advance."

"This possibility that none of us want to see become a reality," Jones stressed, "and that's one of the reasons I asked the Speaker to approve the Committee's study of the effects of this law."

Jones said the study is designed to accomplish four goals:

"First, we hope that our study can spread the word to every governmental body in Texas, letting them know about the new law and how it effects them and what can happen to them if they don't comply with it;

"Second, we want to determine just how many changes covered by the Voting Rights Act have been made during the last three years and how are on the average each year;

"Third, we want to determine whether local governments can comply with the act without outside assistance--- whether they have the resources and data that will be required to prepare a submission to the Justice Department; and

"Fourth, if we find that many local governments just can't do it by themselves, we intend to develop legislation making the state government responsible for assisting them."

Jones explained that such a law "could create some sort of a state clearing house office which would help local governments prepare their submissions by providing advice and population data and nay other assistance they might need. It could also coordinate filings from Texas---a major task in itself when you are dealing with more than 3,000 governments and it might even be able to make the submissions for them."

"I, personally, think that this idea may have a lot of merit, however,, we need to find out whether there is a real need for it and, if so, how it should be created. Hopefully, our study will give us the information we need to make that decision."

Jones said he hoped the committee could complete most of its study by early next year so, if the Legislature meets in January, a bill creating the state clearing house office could be introduced during that session. (The Legislature is to meet in January if the voters approve the proposed new state constitution to be voted on on November 4th.)

Jones said the first step in his committee's study would be to write each governmental body in the state informing them of the law and asking them for information about any changes they may have made which might be covered by the Voting Rights Act. Later the committee will hold a series of public hearings in various areas of the state.
