Las Moras Lodge Celebrates 100 Birthday

NEW MUNICIPAL JUDGE APPOINTED

V.J. COUTURE was appointed to the position of Municipal Judge by the City Council this week. Couture came to Brackettville in 1931 as General Manager of the Army Exchange Service at Fort Clark.

For several years he served as Post Master for Brackettville and retired in 1967.

TO LEAK OR NOT TO LEAK

THE PICTURE ABOVE WAS TAKEN late Wednesday afternoon, showing the County Swimming Pool being filled as the contractor checks for leaks.

The pool which has been plagued by leaks since it's completion three summers ago has so far only been operational for one season, last summer.

Las Moras Lodge No. 444, AF & AM, observed it's 100th Anniversary, Saturday night, June 12th, with a barbecue dinner for over a hundred local and visiting Masons and their wives. The celebration was held at the Civic Center, here, with Worshipful Master David Winters presiding.

A wide Southwest Texas area was represented by many Masons from many lodges. The Grand Lodge of Texas was represented by Grand Orator, Chief Justice of the Court of Civil Appeals, Charles W. Barrow from San Antonio and Grand Senior Deacon, A.I. Sutton of Brownwood.

Judge Barrow was the guest speaker at the celebration and had a very interesting speech. Judge Barrow's stated, "We have a right to be proud of the part our great fraternity played in the very founding of our nation, and that we furnished the country many presidents and national leaders from the earliest days to the present."

He attributed that, to many early members, seven basic concepts were encompassed in the Constitution: popular sovereignty, limited government, supremacy of national over State Government, separation of powers, judicial review and guarantee of individual rights.

Judge Barrow's biggest concern is the loss of faith in government. In a recent election he was disturbed over the fact only 38% of eligible voters even bothered to vote.

He said in closing, "The loss of confidence in leaders and government has been fanned by the trend of much of the news media to find fault with everything."

Ray Kurtz, the Senior Warden, presented the Lodge's history. As Kurtz stated, "That the Lodge was chartered and set to work on June 1, 1876, by Joseph Sayers, whose position at that time was the Most Worshipful Grand Master of the Texas Grand Lodge."

Kurtz continued with quotes from a letter from a military man stationed at Fort Clark Springs, who told that the population of Brackettville was about 500. He told of all the saloons, brothels, gambling houses, and dives as numerous. The lodge went to work and in the first year received 32 petitions for various degrees and advancements with 14 being raised to the degree of Master Mason. When the organized lodge held it's first meeting there were eight (8) members and eleven (11) visitors.

Present at the celebration were Joe York, Sr., a life member, and Logan Vinson, 78, a member of this lodge for over 57 years. He became a member in 1919-20 and is the oldest member.

The Lodge presently has 43 members and the present officers are: David Winters, Worshipful Master; Ray Kurtz, Senior Warden; Daniel Kral Junior Warden; Milton Winkenwerder, Secretary; and Joe York, Sr., Treasurer.

Dear Mr. Loos,

About your Editorial in Public Relations about overnight facilities. Why worry about outsiders; they can at least return to their homes if they can't find a place to sleep overnight. It's high time someone started to worry about people here in town. Do you know how long I've had to wait for one of these housing project apartments; 8 years and I'm still told I'm on the waiting list. Sure there are houses for rent but way out of the reach of people on welfare or Social Security. I'm on Social Security and we are six (6) dependents living on $275.90; out of this I pay rent, gas, water, lights and medicine for me. (Which I need every month). You said that if people had the guts to want something printed in your newspaper to sign it, Well, I've got them. (Because it's true.)

New Cultural Commission

The Texas Commission on the Arts & Humanities announced a major breakthrough with the creation of seven (7) priority centers to develop new working relationships among government, civic, corporate, and cultural leadership of Texas, and with the formation of an independent citizen organization, the Texas Art Alliance.

- The seven priority centers are:
1. The Commission will seek to expand the opportunities and programs in the many arts to specifically include small towns and rural areas throughout Texas.
  2. It will support expanded opportunities for special audiences such as Texans of varied ethnic backgrounds, senior citizens, handicapped persons, and people in correctional facilities.
  3. The Commission emphasizes the importance and benefits of financial support and participation in the arts and humanities to Texas business leaders.
  4. It will provide leadership in comprehensive plans for audience development which will provide new income for programs in the arts and humanities.
  5. The Commission encourages full and complete educational opportunities in the arts and humanities for Texans of all ages through community and educational organizations, recognizing the family unit as an effective foundation for education of both children and parents.
  6. It will develop an information network to promote better communication, increase cooperation, and more effective program planning and presentation among individuals and organizations in the arts and humanities.
  7. The Commission continues to urge cooperation among cultural, financial, business, and government organizations to improve the cultural climate of Texas.

The Commission and the Texas Art Alliance will work toward mutual

CBBREAK

BY THE SKY PILOT

The central word about being a good "C.B.'er" is courtesy. A person quickly reveals his true character on C.B. If he seeks to "out loud" and "over lord" other C.B.'ers he shows himself to be a selfish, thoughtless individual. If he disregards good taste and uses words or says things that are not in good taste, he reveals himself as a rebellious, smart aleck, immature person. If he allows his talking to interfere with the talking and listening of others, he reveals himself to be a spoiled insecure person who intentionally or carelessly reveals his lack of courtesy and considerations for others' privileges. No one has the right to infringe on the privileges of others. This is why the F.C.C. sets out limitations. Generally however, if one would infringe on others he could not care less what the law says. He governs himself on the basis of what he can get by with. This type of CB'er will eventually be taken care of by other CB'ers. Be courteous, considerate and gracious; you will not only enjoy your C.B. but will make others "on the air" appreciate you. "Threes to you and we'll be 10-10 and down."

goals to achieve broad community cooperation in the arts and humanities throughout the state. Steven C. Oaks, President of the Alliance, stated, "Texans are interested in the arts. Texans support the arts. The Alliance is an organization whereby Texans can join together in support and participation in the arts and humanities throughout the state."

Already the Texas Art Alliance is developing plans for an awards program to identify people doing outstanding work in the arts; a showcase for the best in the arts in Texas; and a Texas Art Trails promotion program.

Senator
Lloyd Bentsen
Watching
Washington

On December 29 of last year, in the middle of the holiday travel season, at the busiest airport in our nation's biggest city, a bomb concealed in a coin locker at the main terminal exploded, hurling metal and glass and machinery for 250 yards in every direction like shrapnel.

Eleven persons were killed that day at La Guardia Airport, and another 75 were injured, in an act of violence that carried no warning or threat or explanation. To this day it remains a mystery, a senseless reminder to the type of terrorism that has become a painfully common fact of life in today's world.

It shouldn't have to be that way. It shouldn't be that nearby Mexico is becoming an almost daily battleground for bands of terrorists storming a bank or staging a kidnapping or gunning down a group of policemen. It shouldn't be that our airport terminals are sometimes forced to resemble armed camps. It shouldn't be that violent crimes to further political viewpoints are tolerated and, in fact, even applauded by certain foreign nations.

Murder, even in the name of some ostensibly higher cause is still murder, and it cannot be condoned or allowed to continue unhindered.

This is why I've introduced two bills aimed at curbing the reign of terror that extremists everywhere seem bent on creating.

The first bill makes all acts of terrorism a federal crime carrying a mandatory death penalty when someone is killed. Crimes by terrorists such as kidnapping or sabotage or destruction of federal property would be punishable by the normal sentence for the offense plus an additional two-to-ten year sentence. Two additional years would be the minimum with no possibility of probation or parole.

And if the act of terrorism results in someone's death, the offense would automatically carry a mandatory death sentence.

These are tough provisions, but I'm convinced that nothing less tough will do the job. We must make it clear that individuals or groups who attempt to impose their political beliefs through the destruction of lives or property will face the severe and certain punishment their conduct deserves.

My second bill is aimed at those nations, particularly some in the Third World, that are unwilling to cooperate in efforts to combat terrorism which they say is justified in certain circumstances. Reports indicate that such nations have been responsible for the release of nearly half the terrorists captured in the last five years.

In the meantime, the toll from terrorist incidents continues to climb. Over 800 people have been killed and 1700 injured in international acts of terrorism over the past eight years. A total of 114 U.S. citizens have been involved, with 24 of them killed.

Clearly, the unwillingness of these nations to bring the full force of the law to bear against these outlaws threatens the safety and peace of all nations. Because of this, my legislation required our President to suspend foreign aid, loans and trade preference to any country which wilfully aids and abets international terrorism.

The time has come for laws which state clearly and decisively that violent crimes to further a political viewpoint will not be tolerated. We will not put up with murder in the name of some higher cause. We will not allow violence under the guise of some higher belief.

These bills I've introduced are intended to fight such actions, in our own country by making terrorism a federal crime punishable in certain cases by death, and abroad by withholding foreign aid from countries that harbor terrorists.

Not only have web worms hit the trees in force but also now "army" worms are to be seen. The particular worms do not make a web or nest. They usually climb the tree in large clusters. If you see places where the leaves have been eaten to the center backbone of the leaf and there is a number of antenna-like protuberances in place of leaves, this means worms have been eating. Spray the tree as soon as possible. Be sure to spray the trunk and all the branches as well as both sides of the leaves. If you use proper insecticides you will rid the tree of parasites that can ruin a tree. Always remember to follow all instructions on the label. Insecticides are designed to kill insects but most of them can likewise kill human beings. Don't neglect your trees and see them eaten up and the worms there spread to your neighbor's trees.

FARMING-Kinney County's Growing Industry

One of Kinney County's fastest growing industries is vegetable farming. Recently THE CAVALRYMAN visited Evergreen Farms, owned by Albert Ivy and managed by Dennis Gary. This operation is typical of the most modern farming procedures in the country. Foreman Raul Guerrero estimated in a few week's span they will be shipping approximately 125,000 sacks of onions and 60,000 bags of cabbage.

EVERGREEN FOREMAN, RAUL GUERRERO and DR. CHARLIE G. COBLE of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station check an experimental machine designed to trim the roots and tops off onions in the field.

THE TEXAS AGRICULTURAL EXPERIMENT STATION'S prototype automatic onion picking machine was being tested at Evergreen Farms.

ANYBODY FOR ONION RINGS? Just a few of the sacks of onions in Evergreen's giant shed.

EMPLOYEES SORT AND SACK ONIONS as they come out of the sizing machine.

RAUL GUERRERO SETS THE INTERNAL temperature of a sample onion before shipment.

To encourage wise use of electricity in all-electric homes

CPL offers the ENERGY EFFICIENCY AWARD

A house doesn't use electricity - people do. But unless a home is properly designed and built, unless it is insulated adequately, and unless its major electrical appliances are selected and situated with efficiency in mind, its occupants cannot make the most efficient use of their electric service.

But if you're not an expert, how do you know that all these details have been tended to?

That is the purpose of the Energy Efficiency Award. It tells you that your prospective new all-electric home has been thoroughly checked by a trained technician from CPL and that it meets the rigid EEA standards. It means that if you live in such a home and if you follow CPL's suggestions for using electricity wisely, you are getting the maximum benefit of your electric service.

If you are thinking about buying a newly-constructed home, look for a sign in the yard that says "Energy Efficiency Award." If you are planning to build or remodel, ask your builder, realtor, or designer about it.

For more information on the Energy Efficiency Award and tips on how to make the most efficient use of electricity, drop by your CPL office.

Forest Fires May Help Preserve Our Parks

"Smokey the Bear" was wrong! Not entirely wrong, but only partially right.

Same is true of our National Park Rangers, too.

For more than 44 years park rangers and their spokesman, "Smokey the Bear," contended that fires were ruining our forests.

However, during the last 10 of those 44 years, some scientists began to take a closer look at the old "fires are bad" doctrine. They now believe that not all fires are bad. In fact, many scientists today contend that some forest fires are not only good, but absolutely necessary to keep the ecosystem of a park in its natural balance.

What followed the new scientific discovery was "prescribed burning"--the practice of scientifically setting fires for ecological reasons. As a consequence there began a program of letting naturally-caused fires burn.

It was discovered that, in Sequoia and Kings Canyon National Parks in California, where there was over-protection from natural ground fires a thicket of young pines, white fur, incense-cedar, and mature brush had sprung up. This thicket posed a severe threat to the giant sequoias and other mature trees, simply because it would provide fuel for devastating ground fires that would kill these ancient monarchs.

Here it was learned that thick bark at the base of the sequoia gives protection against ground fires. But if flames can leap from smaller trees into branches and needles of the redwoods the big trees burn readily.

It was also found that seeds of certain native shrubs must be cracked by fire before they can germinate.

In Florida, at Everglades National Park, it was discovered that fire plays an important role in preventing tropical hardwoods from invading and conquering stands of soft pines. Also that fire is essential to maintaining sawgrass glades and wet prairies.

A group of 22 Texas sportsmen recently flew to Manitoba for three days of fishing for walleye and northern pike. Enroute we viewed thousands and thousands of acres of nothing but trees and lakes. Forest fires were still burning over much of the extreme northern part of the area. More than 10,000 acres of this vast woodland had already burned and very little effort had been made to douse the flames.

Lightning was the cause of the burns. None of these were man-made fires.

Perhaps this helps prove the fact that nature will take care of itself if left alone.

TEXAS 1876

AUSTIN—Both houses of the Legislature this week passed a bill to appropriate $40,000 to complete the Agricultural and Mechanical College at Bryan. Debate in the House was extensive. One of the most influential arguments for passage was the necessity of refunding $150,000 to the federal government if the entire sum of $40,000 was not appropriated.

AUSTIN—The condition between Castrovilla and Eagle Pass is critical, according to Captain McNelly, who arrived here Monday with prisoners he arrested in Atascosa County. More than a hundred outlaws from different sections have invaded it and hold the reins of power. The law is trampled upon and civil officers are powerless. The County Judge of Maverick does not dare to sleep in his own house. King Fisher's band take property from citizens in daylight, and they dare not resist or attempt to recover it.

COMANCHE COUNTY—Threshing is going actively on. Mr. J. B. Green, formerly of Waco, has a thresher which averages 350 bushels per day.

CORPUS CHRISTI—Since the first of January there have been 7,393 bags of wool shipped from Corpus Christi, weighing 1,494,063 pounds. Wool dealers in town say the amount of wool on hand and unshipped totals 519,577 pounds. Actual receipts total 2,013,640 pounds. It is estimated that not more than two thirds of the spring clip has been received here.

HILL COUNTY—There was a strong prejudice and a very general desire that the death penalty be dealt to a man named Ferrel who was found guilty of murder in the second degree and sentenced to the penitentiary for 25 years. Had he killed Scroggins, whom he no doubt intended to kill, nobody would have cared greatly, but his killing a woman caused the most intense indignation.

GALVESTON—Among the good signs of these Centennial times are these — that no barber shop charges more than 15 cents for a shave, and beer has gone down to five cents per glass.

SAN ANTONIO—The latest thing out is a twenty-cent coin. The size is so near that of a two-bit piece that one can barely detect the difference. We can't understand why they were gotten up. Certainly not to facilitate in making change, for there are dimes and half-dimes for that purpose. The issuance of this new coin will be annoying to all, bankers in particular.

SAN ANTONIO—Calico is extremely cheap in San Antonio, 25 yards to the dollar, and merchants use it in place of brown paper for wrapping purposes.

ADVERTISEMENTS—G. Caen's - French Dyeing and Scouring - Established in 1874. All kinds of gentlemen's and ladies wearing apparel dyed in all colors. Gent's clothing scoured and pressed on one day's notice. Lace and lace curtains done up equal to new.

AUSTIN—The first carload of wheat ever shipped from Travis County was shipped Monday. There will be a very large surplus of wheat and oats for shipment from this section this season, and until mills, are erected, Galveston will get the surplus if prices are available.

GALVESTON—A prominent Central Railroad man yesterday said that if there were buyers for the amount, that at least two million bushels of wheat could be sent to the port of Galveston between the present time and November.

LIMESTONE COUNTY—The examination of the students at Trinity University, Tehuscana, took place last week. A number of our citizens were in attendance, and all express themselves highly pleased with what they saw and heard. The University is perhaps the most prosperous institution of learning in the state.

JOE TOWNSEND

Did you ever see a scissor-tail chase a big hawk or buzzard? It's truly a sight to behold. That small bird that is more tail than anything else will chase that hawk or buzzard clear out of the area. I've seen scissor-tails gang up on a hawk. One would chase it, occasionally darting in on it in a rather circumscribed area when suddenly the chaser would alight on a utility pole or fence post and another scissor-tail would take up the chase. I've often wondered what would happen if the scissor-tail caught the hawk. People could take a lesson from the scissor-tail. He definitely is not a coward. Rather than be a bully (a bully is always a coward) and chase the humming bird, he picks on one many, many times his own size. He presses the attack, not willing to just let things drift, but anxious to attack the problem. When the two birds take turns chasing the hawk, the second one has my admiration. He doesn't have to be the one to start. Too many people feel like they must be the one to begin a thing or at least have the idea. This "second fiddle" is seemingly glad to wait for the time he is needed and then take up the chase for another. If all humanity worked on the basis of our observations of the scissor-tail 'twould indeed be a different (and better) world.
