WHAR'S OUR DOC?

Prez. Jimi Karter of the United States of America

Dear Mr. Karter,

I dun went and voted against ya. An now yore gonna play yore little bruther's game (belly rubbin') with us.

Mr. Prez., we dun need a doc down here in Brackettville, Kinney County, Texas. Ya can send all them high paid executives to all them furrin cuntrees, but ya cain't hep us get a doc. Sir, I dun wanna know how ya can expend all that jet fuel and hot air, sendin' yore vacationin' folks to visit them Arabs and Isralies?

Now I haven't seed ya send any jet airplanes to Kinney County. Granted, we dun't have too many Isralies or Arabs but our old folks, our young folks and our medium folks sure could use one of them there doctors.

Now you sponsor programs to send doctors to under privileged countrees, into outer space, and to the moon -- Why in the hell did you forget us???

Regards,

J. George Loos, Jr.
Editor

P.S. If you can't send us a doctor please send us some of Billy's beer cans that we can sell for souvineers.

Local Hunter Returns From Successful Safari

Brad Gwartney, eleven year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Gwartney, this week returned from a safari near the Brackettville cemetery with a 4 foot 11 inch rattle snake. Accompanying Gwartney were Rod and Jeff Stone.

Young Gwartney stated, "The heat and dust during the excursion were almost unbearable, but we were able, under trying conditions, to return with our trophy."

Due to Brad's earlier committment, requiring his presents in West Texas, we are sorry that the Cavalryman could not supply a picture of this feat.

PEOPLE WHO GET TOO MUCH NEWS FROM TV, RADIO POORLY INFORMED?

According to John Salisbury, president of the Radio and Television News Directors Association, people who get most of their news from radio and TV are poorly informed--they should also read a newspaper. On a recent speech, he cited surveys showing 60% of Americans receive the bulk of their news from radio/TV.
"This means we are woefully ill-informed and under informed," he said, adding that people should learn more about the content of the news by reading their newspapers regularly.

CALVIN WALLEN III

Calvin is the multi-talented "Aggie" fronting the Texas Twisters Band at Alamo Village this summer.

Calvin is no stranger in this neck-of-the-woods having been reared in our neighboring city of Del Rio.

It was in early 1969 that Calvin acquired a serious interest in music. He took to playing the guitar and soon found himself singing in local clubs. During his college days he quite frequently entertained on the campus of Texas A&M. Calvin graduated this past spring with a degree in Animal Science.

Aside from his musical interest, Calvin is an experienced and accomplished diver and life guard. He has rendered aid to the Del Rio authorities a number of times in rescuing drowning victims at Lake Amistad.

Calvin is never still long enough to let grass grow under his feet. "Too hard", "can't", and "lazy" are not part of his vocabulary. Unfortunately, a recent bout with the doctors cost him his tonsils and temporarily has caused him to relinquish the microphone. However, he'll soon be back with flying colors and will now be able to develop his voice quality to the fullest. A great guy, a great voice, a great future - Calvin Wallen!

TERRY BULLARD

Terry Bullard, the 21 year old singing sensation from Las Cruces, New Mexico, is base guitarist for the Texas Twisters.

Terry's first encounter with the stage came "at school when I was 10 years old." His first attempt at songwriting was a tune called "It's a Growing Thing On Me" written when he was 14. His career was triggered and soon he was to find himself performing in Clubs in and around the Las Cruces area.

Terry, in his own right, is fast becoming known for his songwriting talent and natural ability to sing and entertain. This summer he's concentrating on developing his stage presence and acquiring final grooming for his trip to Nashville in the fall.

Terry's credits include his performance for the "Boy of the Year Awards" in Los Angeles, California; he has also performed on numerous programs with such notables as Buck Owens, Tony Booth, Brush Arbor, Susan Raye, among others.

Rodeoing has played a big part in Terry's life. In 1969 he placed 3rd in bullriding, 4th in optional roping, and 4th in racing at the World American Junior Rodeo Assoc. finals in Odessa, Texas. He was named "All Around Cowboy" in 1970 by the AJRA.

Terry's father, Robert Bullard, is a research technician at New Mexico State University as well as being in the auctioneering business. His mother, Roberta Bullard, is County Treasurer for Dona Ana County, New Mexico.

Terry's goal is ... "to make it. Competition in the Country Music field is keen. When those doors open I want to be ready. I've got a real determination to make it." He's got the talent, too!

TIPS FOR GREEN THUMBS

by: JOE TOWNSEND

We're having lot of inquiries regarding trees. If you have trees and the leaves are a healthy dark green, and look as though they have been in a greenhouse you either live some place else or you are one of the few who have good trees. Aphids, asps, army worms, tent caterpillars, all have had a field day this summer. Hot weather, no rain, combined with insects, have made it difficult for trees to stay pretty. All signs point to an early winter and a hard one. Many trees have already begun to drop their leaves. Catalpa, mulberry, and sycamore particularly, are showing signs of approaching winter. Even the mesquite is browning in many areas. There's no cause for alarm, and really not much to do for the trees but water them a little. In general, they are just getting tired and ready to go to sleep - winter will be here before we know it.

EQUALIZATION FOR WATER POLICY

DALLAS--The head of Texas' water planning agency said here this week that a national water policy ought to be combined with a national food and fiber policy and a national energy policy on an equal basis.

James M. Rose of Austin, executive director of the Texas Water Development Board, also urged President Carter to extend the deadline to develop a national policy beyond the current time frame so that congressional hearings can be held.

Rose was one of several state water leaders who testified at the National Water Policy Study Hearing held Monday and Tuesday in Dallas.

Option papers prepared by several federal agency staff people were published in the Federal Register July 15, and most of those testifying here declared there just wasn't sufficient time to thoroughly study and analyze the complex set of options.

"As an apparent consequence of the organizational structure of the water policy study group and the speed with which the issue papers were prepared, the effort seemingly lacked clear direction and suffered from insufficient coordination among the task groups," charged Rose.

"The position and issue papers largely reflect federal agency staff level perceptions of administrative and procedural problems," added Rose.

Rose urged that water policy be considered along with national energy and food and fiber policies "because water is a major factor in the production of food, fiber, and energy. An appropriate quantity of suitable quality water is essential if we are to achieve a satisfactory level of employment and economic production at the same time we meet the direct human needs for water and provide adequate water to protect the environment."

Rose called for expansion of the definition of environmental quality in the principles and standards evaluation criteria to include the quality of the human as well as the natural environment.

He charged that the lack of standardized criteria, and the inadequate and inaccurate techniques used by the various federal agencies for measuring environmental impact is hampering and seriously delaying water resource planning and development. He urged that standard indices of environmental measurement be developed and applied uniformly in federal water project planning and evaluation.

Rose said the option papers on water rights, both groundwater and surface, fail to recognize and do not encourage state efforts....."there is reflected a great readiness, almost impatience, on the part of the federal government to intervene.

"The development of any national water policy is far-reaching and dead-serious business. At stake is the very economic future of our country. The developmental process deserves much more than the six months planned for the presidential review. I hope the President will change the time frame for this great undertaking," concluded Rose.

CB BREAK BY THE SKY PILOT

More and more, the CB is being harnessed to assist law enforcement agencies. This idea, pioneered in Missouri and fostered in several other states, has statistically proved its value. It's difficult to understand the reticence of Texas to join this movement. I can understand the problem of some people feeling they must be policemen on the side. There are always some people who want to wear a star and carry a gun, and feel like they are really something big. There are too always those who feel they must constantly tell the officers about every person and every thing. I can readily see how obnoxious these people these people become. These, however, are problem people with warped minds and will be problem people with or without CB's. In general, CB operators would be and are more than a little helpful in many cases. If they felt they were needed and could be helpful even more would take an active part when needed. The kooks who aren't willing to be trained to be law enforcement officers or who lack the backbone to be full fledged officers, and yet feel the law enforcement officers need them so desperately, can soon be weeded out and disregarded. Certainly law enforcement personnel need all the legitimate help they can get. Why doesn't Texas follow the pattern of Missouri and other states. Figures prove the value of it. Have yourself a very special week this week. This is Sky Pilot, KOH 4856 out of that Brackettville Town. We're gonna be 10-10 and 10-8 - C Ya.

Energy-Saving Tips for Hot Weather

During the summer months more than half the electricity used in most air conditioned homes goes for cooling. So, you are probably looking for ways you can control the cost of operating your cooling system.

If so, here are some suggestions to help:

- Set the thermostat at the highest comfortable setting, around 78 degrees. Keeping the temperature in your house at 71 degrees could make air conditioning cost twice as much as a 78 degree setting.
- Clean or replace the filter at least once a month—or better yet, every two weeks.
- Keep direct sunlight out of the house with shades or draperies. Trees, shrubs, awnings and shutters also can provide shading for your home and reduce the work load of your air conditioner.
- Clear away tall plants, shrubbery and other obstructions from the outside sections of central air conditioning units. The unit must have free circulation of air for good performance.
- Have your air conditioner cleaned and checked each year to insure that it is running at top efficiency.

If you want more information on operating your air conditioning more economically, we have a free booklet for you. Ask for "How to Save Money on Your Air Conditioning" at your local CPL office.

and Revision of Prices and Rates ) Docket No. 500
In Their Existing Agreements )

STATEMENT OF INTENT BY LO-VACA GATHERING COMPANY AND COASTAL STATES GAS PRODUCING COMPANY TO CHANGE RATES

TO THE HONORABLE RAILROAD COMMISSION OF TEXAS:

Lo-Vaca Gathering Company ("Lo-Vaca") and Coastal States Gas Producing Company ("Coastal"), pursuant to the requirements of Section 43(a) of the Public Utility Regulatory Act (1446c, T.R.C.S.), files this statement of intent to change rates, effective September 1, 1977, the rates they are charging all customers on the Lo-Vaca system for the purchase of natural gas to a uniform rate applicable to each customer on the system, which rate consists of 100% of Lo-Vaca's weighted average cost of gas plus 16.70 cents per Mcf. The cost of gas is to be adjusted each month in accordance with Lo-Vaca's billing procedure, which is Lo-Vaca Exhibit KLH #515, filed with the Railroad Commission of Texas ("Commission") in Gas Utilities Docket No. 500 on June 13, 1977.

The present rate charged by Lo-Vaca for the sale of natural gas to nearly all Texas customers is 100% of Lo-Vaca's weighted average cost of gas (determined in accordance with the billing procedure set forth in Lo-Vaca Exhibit WKA #17 in Gas Utilities Docket No. 500) plus 5 cents per Mcf.

The new rate is anticipated to increase Lo-Vaca's revenues by $60,196,106 in calendar year 1978. This is an increase of 5.61% over total revenues which would have been received if the present rate were continued in effect for that year.

REA LEADERS DISCUSS FUTURE

Almost 700 Texas rural electric leaders and ladies gathered in Houston last week (August 3-5) for the Association of Texas Electric Cooperatives' 37th Annual Meeting. Speakers and delegates alike expressed concern for maintaining the quality and vitality of rural Texas life agreeing that old-fashioned moral integrity and adequate supplies of electricity are key ingredients.

The meeting's theme—Energy Management: Key to the future—reflected the belief that load-management programs coupled with conservation and foresight in planning for future energy needs would help meet the demands for power.

Highlights of the meeting included addresses by Texas' new Commissioner of Agriculture, Reagan Brown, the State Comptroller, Bob Bullock, "one of the most colorful and controversial men in Texas politics today."

Others were Lieutenant Governor Bill Hobby, Dr. Gail Dunning, a counseling psychologist from Greenwood, Nebraska, and Owen Hallberg, president of the American Institute of Cooperation, as well as several Texas rural electric leaders.

"Americans just have to be more careful with existing energy supplies while other sources are being developed", TEC General Manager Jim Morris observed. "It's like what the waitress told the customer who wanted more sugar for his coffee: 'stir up what you've got.' We've got to start doing more with our energy than we have in the past," Morris said.

Technical programs, like load management to spread energy usage more evenly over given periods of time as well as diligent efforts by rural electric and their members are just some ways to make better use of our energy, he said.

In an effort to exert more control over power costs or just to have enough power to go around, load management is as increasingly important concept in the electric utility industry. Many cooperatives pay rates to their wholesale power suppliers based on their largest demand for power at a given time within a given period. So if a rural electric can get its members to shift some of its electric usage from periods of heavy demand to other times, the wholesale power rate can be lowered and ultimately, the member's rates as well.

Three Texas rural electric leaders—Leonard Herring of Denton County Electric, James Hull of Deaf Smith Electric and Alton Rollans of Concho Valley

Electric—told their cooperatives' pioneering efforts with load management.

Herring said his co-op is trying to save its members money by asking them to raise the thermostats on their air conditioners when an expected period of peak electricity demand approaches, Concho Valley Electric is studying a variety of "Peak-Saving" techniques in anticipation of a new contract with its wholesale power supplier, according to Rollans.

And Deaf Smith Electric is studying methods of allocating irrigation power over an entire 24-hour period by remote control. "We turned to the only way we knew to serve everyone who wanted and needed electricity—voluntary load management," Hull said.

Fears were expressed by Lieutenant Governor Hobby that Texas is being discriminated against in natural gas pricing. "It's proposed that new supplies of natural gas at higher rates be averaged with lost—cost gas currently under contract to provide relatively lower gas costs in the Northeast than in the producing states," Hobby claimed.

Agriculture Commissioner Brown worried that northeastern industry could take fuel needed by Texas agriculture. "Could our state's largest and most important industry ever be shut down for lack of fuel or for fuel available at such a high price that its use is economically unfeasible?" he wondered. Brown said his primary concern as Commissioner is to see that agriculture becomes profitable for farmers and ranchers. "The American work ethic was founded and still thrives on the farm," Brown said, "but many Americans have misconceptions about farmers. Many of our fellow countrymen look at farm legislation as a "free ride" for the farmer. They think he's getting paid for not growing crops, rushing to the bank with their tax dollars. The truth is, after production costs have been paid, at least 84 per cent of the farm families of this country have very little, if any, cash left to pay for housing, clothing, off-farm food purchases, education and other items of family expenses."

Comptroller Bullock told the group that he has gained notoriety just by doing his job--collecting the state sales tax. "Some of the people we've raided' complain that we're picking on innocent taxpayers. Actually, we're just collecting the sales taxes consumers have paid that have not been passed on to us. In other words, those businesses are pocketing your tax money but not if we can help it," he said.

While frustrations like dishonesty, inflation, increasingly shoddy products, and a growing disregard for the principles on which our nation was founded eat away at Society, rural America had become the last bastion for our moral strengths, Dr. Dunning emphasized in the meeting's windup address. He cited rural electric as the most natural place for practicing real democracy in this ear of ever-increasing bureaucracy because of their closeness to their members. There's hardly a rural electric member anywhere who doesn't know at least one employee, the manager, or one--if not five or six--of the directors," Dunning said. "And as huge conglomerates increasingly dominate American business, cooperatives serve as a last bastion of real people's capitalism."

REPRESENTATIVE REPORTS:

STATE REP. HOE HUBENAK

AUSTIN--State Representative Joe Hubenak, Chairman of the powerful House Committee on Agriculture and Livestock, said he will make a decision on whether he will run for Commissioner of Agriculture in the next two weeks.

"I will announce my decision on August 23," Hubenak said. "It is not fair to my friends and my family to keep the speculation going."

Hubenak, the most knowledgeable authority on agribusiness in the legislature, had been urged by many members of Texas farm and ranch organizations and consumer groups to seek the office.

"This is one of the most critical periods in the history of Texas agriculture. Suffering from inflation and rising farm operating costs, coupled with lower prices received for their goods, many Texas farmers and ranchers are being forced to sell their land and seek employment elsewhere," Hubenak said.

"I believe that the agriculture upon which much of our economic survival is based is at the stage that our oil and gas industry faced a decade ago. Nothing is being done to save it. Nothing is being done to attract young men and women into agriculture.

"If you think depending upon foreign oil for energy needs puts our state, and our nation, in peril--you just wait until we have to depend upon foreign countries' agriculture for food and clothing."

Hubenak, considered by many as the champion of the agriculture and livestock industry, during his ten years in the Texas House of Representatives, has successfully pushed through much critically needed legislation to aid agribusiness and the consumers.

Between Us

by:

JOE TOWNSEND

From time to time persons will give me money in varying amounts to be used "where there is a need". These are anonymous and wish to remain that way. Usually they have in mind assisting some family or child in actual need. It is difficult in these times for the average person to find one in actual need. The overabundance of "give away" programs by the government with the ever fattening bureaucracy that solicits people to accept the "give aways" almost precludes finding a truly needy person or family. A casual glance in check out lines at grocery stores gives the lie to the talk that food stamps are for the "needy". It's easily seen that many times food stamps are used to buy things that many people who work for what they get, can't afford to buy. The traditional channels for finding the needy are clogged with a flood of bureaucratic give aways designed to buy votes and secure elections. When such an anonymous gift comes it is always put to use in a helpful way. The gift and giver remains anonymous and the person helped is always one who truly needs the aid given. Usually it is to one whose self respect will not allow them to become paupers dependent on "Uncle Santa Clause". These people we admire and count it a privilege to help.
